ANOTHER BIG STRIKE

ON THE ORO DENORO IN SUMMIT

Camp—Face of Drift at the 220 Foot Level is in Solid Ore—A Trail Wanted to Franklin Camp—The No. 7 Mine in Central Camp.

The writer visited the Oro Denoro about six weeks ago. At that time the working shaft was being sunk under the superintendence of Dave O'Neill. Mr. O'Neill stated that drifting would begin at the 220 foot level which he expected to reach in 20 days. The statement was then made that the drift would surely encounter ore as the surface indications pointed to several parallel ore belts that ran at right angles to the direction of the proposed drift. That statement has been more than verified. The drift which is now in about 80 feet, has run into the most striking body of ore that has yet been exposed in the Boundary Creek country. The whole face of the drift is in solid copper ore. A large block was taken to Eholt by Mr. O'Neill, and it created considerable excitement among railway men who have extensively purchased King Mining company shares. At once several interested parties went to the mine and examined the drift. They confirm the statement made by Mr. O'Neill. There does not appear to be an inch of waste in the whole face of the drift. The ore is similar in character to that already found on the Oro Denoro, giving good gold values and running high in copper. This drift will be continued and will cut through two or three other ledges that can be traced on the surface.

The citizens of Grand Forks are very properly taking considerable interest in Franklin camp, up the North Fork of the Kettle river. The camp is nearly 60 miles from Grand Forks, but the merchants are reaching out for the trade. They succeeded in inducing the provincial government to build a trail to connect with the wagon road. That the camp possesses merit is evidenced by the fact that Henry White, the well known mining man, has bonded properties there. Greenwood took very little interest in this new camp, because few realized that it could be made tributary to the city. A well known prospector is the authority for the statement that Franklin camp is not over thirty miles from Greenwood and that a trail could be built for a comparatively small amount. There is a good pass from the head of Long Lake to Franklin camp. This route has a much easier grade than that from Grand Forks. If the trail were built, it would shorten the distance one-half and the trade would actually be diverted to this city. The matter is well worth the investigation of the Board of Trade.

At present 14 men are at work on the No. 7 mine in Central camp, owned by the No. 7 Mining company, limited. They are engaged in erecting a shaft house, boiler room, bunk and boarding houses, carpenter shops, etc., preparatory to the further development of the property. Nothing was done on the No. 7 for over a year as Mr. Keffer, the manager, considered it wise to await the advent of a railway before engaging in further work. At the time work was discontinued a large amount of development had been carried out. The shaft was sunk a depth of 140 feet; at the bottom over 600 feet of crosscutting and drifting was done. A second shaft is 66 feet deep with a crosscut of 25 feet at the bottom. There is a lead over 850 in length and averaging 2 1/4 to 2 1/2 feet in width. The ore is a quartz, carrying galena, zinc blende, gold and copper. It is a concentrating ore. Fifteen tons can be reduced to one of concentrates and 90 per cent of the values saved. The average value is $20, this being obtained from over 75 assays. The company are purchasing a plant for the mine. It will comprise a 50-horse power boiler, a friction hoist with a 30-inch drum, a pump with a capacity of 400 gallons per minute and all the necessary appurtenances. A road is being built from Greenwood to Central camp. It will be completed to the No. 7 before the plant arrives.

J. C. Haas, M. E., has returned from the east where he successfully floated the Golconda Mining company. F. P. Buck, of Sherbrook, Que., arrived here last week. He is interested in the Golconda company as well as in the several other mining companies in the district. Work has been started on the Golconda under the superintendence of Capt. Shields.

The aerial tramway from the Gold Bug to the railway will be completed as soon as the wire arrives. Superintendent Sharp has two car loads of picked ore awaiting shipment. The ore is of exceptionally high grade.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Business Transacted at the Regular Meeting Monday Evening.

At the regular meeting of the city council held Monday evening Mayor Hardy presided, and Ald. Sutherland, Cameron and Fisher were present. J. F. Jenkins, of the Manufacturers Life Insurance company, wrote regarding the sale of additional debentures. R. B. Kerr, on behalf of W. S. Fletcher, applied for a license for a theater. The council decided to grant the license, leaving the question of the sale of liquors to the board of commissioners. J. D. Ronald, of fire engine fame, wanted to sell one to the city but his letter was filed.

Mr. Nicol, of Silver street, was anxious to ascertain what the council intended to do with his building if the street were widened. He was advised to consult a lawyer.

Some weeks ago the council called for sealed tenders for gum boots and mackinaw coats for the firemen. Tenders were received from several firms, that of Rendell & Co. being the lowest. Instead of awarding the contract the mayor appointed a committee to get the best bargain possible. The appointed committee is Ald. Sutherland, Fisher and Cameron.

A resolution endorses the construction of the C. & W. railway through the city and extending to them "such privileges as to streets and alleyways, crossings and otherwise as we may by law be entitled to do," was placed before the council. This gave the mayor an opportunity to abuse H. T. Wilgress, land agent of the C. P. R. Mr. Wilgress resented the mayor's accusations which provoked an elegant and eloquent reply. The resolution was turned over to the tender mercies of the city solicitor who will report at a special meeting of the council this (Friday) evening.

The carpenters and joiners of Greenwood and vicinity met on Thursday evening, 19th inst., and effected a permanent organization with the following officers: President, W. Marsh; vice-president, L. G. Comstock; recording secretary, A. B. Hart; financial secretary, Alex. McLeod; treasurer, Robt. Fry, and a roll of 45 members. Meetings will be held every Thursday evening, the Miners' hall being used as a temporary headquarters.

Advertising A City.

The question of profitable advertising is occupying the attention of different Boards of Trade. Recently the Victoria Board of Trade discussed the matter which lead the Colonist to offer the following very sensible remarks: "There was some discussion at the Board of Trade yesterday as to the best means of advertising Victoria. The subject is a very important one. Doubtless any kind of advertising is good, provided it reaches the people who want to learn about the city. We are quite in favor of the proposal that a pamphlet descriptive of the city and its many and varied advantages shall be prepared for the use of the agent-general in London, but the members of the board will not, we hope, be offended, when we say that they appear to lose sight of the fundamental principle which governs successful advertising. Most of them are familiar with the great New York papers, and know that advertisements appear on pages where no one could possibly see them by accident. They are seen only by those who look for them. This is what ought to be the dominant idea in advertising, namely, the advertiser ought to have in mind the people who will be looking for his advertisement, not the chance customer who may happen to run across his advertisement or whose attention is drawn to it because it is "top column next to reading matter." There is not much use in advertising snowshoes in a community where there is never any snow. The people whom business men ought to seek to reach by advertisements are the people who look into the newspapers for information contained in advertisements. One member of the board said that he would give more for one editorial than for three times as much advertising; but this, though complimentary to the editorial, is not sound from a business point of view. It is not the advertising of the city as a whole that pays, but what the individual advertiser tells about his own business. If the merchants of Victoria supported the papers as liberally as the merchants of Seattle support the papers printed there, if the Victoria papers were enabled to print page after page of commercial advertising as those papers do, this city would be better known everywhere than it now is, for the papers could then afford to push their circulation as they cannot now. It is very easy to find fault with the newspapers, but do the men in charge of other lines of business in Victoria feel called upon to do business at a loss? They certainly do not. Then why should they expect the newspapers to do so?

"The best way to advertise a city is to advertise in its newspapers, not by inserting write-ups and circulating a lot of extra copies, but by steady and continuous publication of abundant attractive commercial advertising. But there is much that can be done in other ways. Much can be said in the press and otherwise to make the city known. But we tell the people frankly that it is a thankless piece of work to do it in this city. The Colonist has printed hundreds of columns of matter setting forth the advantages of Victoria, and scores of columns enlarging upon the advantages and resources of Vancouver Island. Does any one feel called upon to speak a word of encouragement? Well, hardly. Here is a sample of the things that are said: There was an editorial reference a few days ago to a certain mine. The only comment that came to the ears of the Colonist was a remark, made in all seriousness, that it was wrong for the paper to lend its aid to any man to get rid of his mining stock. A few weeks ago there was a strong local reference to some mines on the west coast. The only comment this called forth was from a gentleman who stopped the editor on the street and criticized very severely the policy of permitting wild-cat projects being exploited in the press. And so it goes. Then the Board of Trade meets and spends an hour and a half in telling the Colonist that it ought to do this, that and the other thing."

The timbers for the gallows frame at the Sunset mine passed through Greenwood the other day. They came from Fletcher's saw mill and are the largest timbers that were ever turned out in Boundary creek. Fletcher's mill has supplied a large quantity of timber to the Sunset and Mr. John's the superintendent is well pleased with it. The B. C. Copper company has also placed a large order with this mill.

A LARGE PARTY OF RAILWAY MEN

Make an Official Tour of Inspection of the New Railway—President Shaughnessy Speaks About Boundary Creek—The Gentlemen in the Party.

The C. P. R. officials from the big sashem down, came and saw Greenwood and went away satisfied that it was by long odds the liveliest, most enterprising city and the commercial and mining center of the Boundary Creek district. A special train brought in a valuable cargo on Wednesday evening. Had one of Porter Bros' big trestles given away or a flaw cropped up in Pat Welch's rock work, it would be impossible to imagine what might have happened the C. P. R., because on board were nearly all the men and brains that so successfully conduct its enormous operations. They took no chances, however, and brought along with them Tim Foley, Peter Larsen, and J. W. Stuart as sureties that the journey would be made in safety.

Included in the party were T. G. Shaughnessy, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway company; Wm. Whyte of Winnipeg, manager of the system in the west; L. A. Hamilton, Winnipeg, the gentleman who straightens out all townsite difficulties and looks after all the C. P. R. lands; H. C. Cambie, chief engineer of the Western division; Geo. McL. Brown, executive agent for British Columbia, whose special mission is to pour oil upon the troubled waters and make everybody pleased with the C. P. R. whether they want to or not; R. Marpole, general superintendent of the Western division; W. F. Tye, chief engineer of the Columbia and Western; T. G. Sullivan, his assistant; A. C. Dennis, one of his staff; P. A. Peterson, chief engineer of the entire system; Capt. Troup, who runs the company's steamboats in Kootenay; T. A. Gutelius, general manager of the Columbia and Western; W. H. Aldridge, general manager of the Trail smelter; H. S. Holt, the well known Montreal railway contractor; and A. W. Ross, of Columbia.

The party were met by the C. P. R. engineers and H. Wilgess at the station and driven to the Clarendon, where dinner was served. Afterwards they visited the Greenwood club and met several of the citizens. They returned on Thursday morning. Mr. Shaughnessy will visit to the coast before returning east.

From a newspaper man's standpoint the only fault that could be found with the party was its plethora of railway magnates. Any one of them was worth a column and advertising space is so valuable in these prosperous days. So the Times representative summoned all the Scotch courage at his command and tackled the president for copy.

The task was not a difficult one. One one has aptly said that the greatest man in Canada today is Thos. G. Shaughnessy. If a man's greatness can be measured by his power and influence, this statement is not exaggerated. The C. P. R. is Canada's greatest enterprise and its president and managing director cannot but have the great influence. If Mr. Shaughnessy were not at the head of the C. P. R. he would still be a great man. By his own pluck and ability he rose from an ordinary railway man to the magnate that he is today. His rapid progress in the railway world has not spoiled him. He is still as affable and courteous as ever, and was quite willing to talk to a newspaper man!

"I am well satisfied with my trip," said he. "When I thought of the large amount of money we were spending in this Boundary Creek country I had some doubt regarding the wisdom of venturing so much in a new district, but after becoming more intimately acquainted with your wonderful resources I have every confidence that the investment by the C. P. R. will eventually turn out a profitable one. We are showing our confidence in the district by building branch lines to all the camps; something we never did before."

"Have you arrived at any decision, Mr. Shaughnessy, regarding the extension of the road from Midway westward?"

"No, we will not build for some time," was the reply. "We have already expended nearly five million dollars in this district and we are anxious secure some return before building farther. We have yet considerable money to expend here in the building of more branch lines."

"And smelters?"

"We will build smelters if necessary, but it appears to me that the mine-owners of this district will be quite capable of handling their own ores."

If such be the case we will not engage in the smelting industry. We do not care to build smelters unless forced to do so."

"Is there any truth in the rumor that you intend to build to Republic?"

"None whatever."

Mr. Shaughnessy referred to the wild country through which the railway passed and also to the Corbin charter.

"Why didn't you buy the Corbin road, Mr. Shaughnessy; too patriotic?"

"Yes, if I do say it myself. Our policy in this western country in the construction of new roads, is to build up Canadian industries. If we went over to the other side we would no longer be a Canadian road."

"You will admit, Mr. Shaughnessy, that the agitation for the Corbin road induced the C. P. R. to build more promptly?"

"No, we would have built any way. I tell you what it did do. It cost the C. P. R. $1,000,000. We would have secured a $10,000 a mile subsidy had the Corbin charter not come up. I think the people of the district will be better served by a Canadian railway than by an American road. We intend to do everything possible to encourage the development of your mines. What we want is tonnage. We want to haul large quantities of ore and large quantities of supplies into the district."

The Times representative was prepared to admit that the C. P. R. could do a great deal for the district.

"I am glad to think that you and others in Boundary Creek have reformed. You gave us considerable trouble two years ago."

"I have not reformed. People are so constituted that they must kick against something, and a big railway company is a most convenient target."

"You are quite right," replied Mr. Shaughnessy, "and it is a good thing for the railway company. They are anxious to serve the best interests of the public and properly directed criticism often draws attention to matters that might otherwise be overlooked. We intend to give a good service here, daily trains will be started to Grand Forks next week and to Greenwood just as soon as the road is in good condition. The branch lines will be rushed so that the camps may be reached at an early date."

"Are you going to give a uniform freight rate in the Boundary Creek country, Mr. Shaughnessy?"

"Well, it will be only proper to add mileage."

"But couldn't you make the same through rate for all the Boundary Creek towns?"

"We'll see about that. We want to make a little money here. It should be our turn now."

NOTES.

Mr. Peterson the chief engineer of the C. P. R. is heavily interested in the Gold Drop mine in Greenwood camp. He visited the property on Thursday and joined the party at Grand Forks.

Mr. Hamilton with Mr. Wood and Mr. Wilgess considered several matters relating to the townsites and the C. P. R. interests here. Mr. Hamilton apologized for the joke about "Le holt" and placed the responsibility on an innocent Winnipeg newspaper man.

Mr. Marpole is interested with Mr. Barnard in the ownership of the Windsor. They looked over the ruins and decided to build a larger and better Windsor.

Mr. Hamilton tells the following story regarding Mr. Chipman, the Hudson Bay company commissioner. He accompanied Mr. Hamilton on his last visit here. It was the night the Greenwood club was opened. Next morning was Sunday and the party had to leave for Penticton. Mr. Chipman was anxious to invest in Greenwood real estate but could find no one that would sell. He didn't know whether it was their religious scruples that kept the real estate men off the street or the club opening the night previous. "That could never have happened in Columbia!" concluded Mr. Hamilton. "You can't get away from the real estate men there."

REPORT.

Montreal, Sept. 22, 1899.

SMITH CURTIS, ESQ.,

Dear Sir,—The Sunset mineral claim is a crown granted full sized mineral location 500 yards square, situated on Copper mountain in the Similkameen district of Yale Mining division, and on the east side of the south fork of the Similkameen river.

The contemplated route of the C. P. R. to Hope will pass very near to the property when completed.

TIMBER.—The whole of Copper mountain, as well as the adjoining districts, is well timbered with magnificent pine and fir, admirably adapted for mining purposes.

WATER.—The south fork of the Similkameen river flows about 2,000 feet below the surface of the claim and has an abundant supply of water for all mining purposes throughout the year.

GEOLOGY.—The ore is present in a diorite surrounded for the most part by gray granite. In the diorite there is a mineralized zone passing throughout the whole length of the Sunset mineral claim, and into those adjoining, reaching, however, its greatest width in the above-mentioned Sunset, upon the surface of which large areas of copper-stained diorite are seen, one of these areas approximating 10,000 square feet. Apparently about 20 acres of this claim on the surface is thus and the adjoining properties. They mineralized, but a great part of it is very exceedingly. My smallest assays covered by wash, only larger or smaller from copper from the mineralized rock areas being exposed, but they all have been about 3 per cent, but values of 40 the same character. The width of the per cent, or more, are obtainable in mineralized zone at the south end of picked samples. Averages across the claim is about 100 feet where it whole shaft, side and bottom have joins the Helen H. Gardiner, but on the given the following returns: 3 per cent, 3.4 per cent, 3.8 per cent, 4.3 per cent, 5.65 per cent, 6.3 per cent, 9.1 per cent, 9.3 per cent, 10.5 per cent, and 11.1 per cent. When one considers that 5 per cent is worth $12 per ton, and when the enormous deposit is considered, the possibilities of the mine are great, with judicious management and the latest method of treatment.

DEVELOPMENT.—Near the north end about the center of the claim, a sloping shaft 50 feet in depth has been sunk. This represents the only work done on the claim, but on those adjoining, viz: the Helen H. Gardiner, Copper Farm, Sunrise and Vancouver, similar shafts have been sunk, and in some cases open cuts made. They are all on the same mineral belt, and all with a small amount of hand culling, showing a similar kind of ore, but not in as large quantities, according to surface indications, as those on the Sunset.

NATURE OF ORE.—Chiefly bornite or copper-iron sulphide, carrying small quantities of silver and gold. The bornite is more or less intimately associated with the diorite, either in seams or in small grains, and varies in richness at different level. Apparently the copper ore was shot through subsequent to the diorite eruption, which accounts for its more or less irregular distribution.

ASSAY VALUES.—A great many have been made, both from the Sunset

The only question comes, will it continue with depth? That is the risk the investor always has to run, and which we have no means of ascertaining except from development work, and so far enough has not been done to prove the property.

The surface indications are certainly the largest I have ever seen, and it has a great future, if depth can be proven. It is certainly worth developing and spending considerable money on.

The above is respectfully submitted.

(Signed) W. E. DEEKS.

Dr. Deeks spent the spring and summer examining and operating surrounding properties on Copper mountain, and no one is better able to judge of the potentialities of its mining claims

Good treasury assured. Development begins next week. Block of shares offered at 15 cents. Apply personally or by wire to SMITH CURTIS, Rossland, B. C., or to ALEXANDER MILLER, (Merchants Bank of Halifax) Grand Forks, B. C.

RAILWAY BUILDING.

THE completion of the railway to Greenwood recalls the many hopes and disappointments connected with the construction of a railway into the Boundary Creek country. There were many interesting events connected with the legislation and negotiations looking towards the building of a Boundary Creek railway. D. C. Corbin was among the first to turn his attention to Boundary Creek. He and his associates became interested in mining claims in Copper camp, and he secured a charter to build a railway along the Kettle river and up to Copper camp. This charter was allowed to lapse. Col. Baker and his associates secured the British Columbia Southern charter. This gave them the privilege of building a railway from Lethbridge to the coast. The provincial parliament presented the British Columbia Southern company with an enormous land grant, including valuable coal areas in the Crow's Nest Pass. Col. Baker and his syndicate succeeded in selling their rights to the Canadian Pacific Railway company. They secured a big cash subsidy from the Dominion government and built the Crow's Nest road.

In the meantime F. Auguste Heinze secured a bonus from the provincial government to build a smelter at Trail. He also built a railway from Trail to Rossland and secured a charter from the provincial government to build to Penticton. A land grant of 20,000 acres per mile was to be given on the completion of this road. Heinze haunted the lobby of the provincial legislature for several sessions. He apparently could get anything he asked from the provincial government. An effort was made to secure him a cash subsidy as well as a land grant, but the legislature would not consent to this and Heinze left Victoria for Ottawa. Here he lobbied for a big cash subsidy, but he was defeated by rival railway schemers. Dr. Milne, of Victoria, and others started the Victoria, Vancouver and Eastern project to build a railway from Victoria to Lethbridge through the Boundary Creek country. They went down to Ottawa and tried to convince the government that they and not Heinze were entitled to put their hands in the public purse. Heinze tried to buy them off and would have succeeded only Milne never knew his own mind for twenty-four hours. He said he would and then he wouldn't. The government became impatient and declared that no subsidy would be granted that session.

The C. P. R. then took an interest in the situation. This alarmed Heinze who endeavored to work up popular sympathy for himself. While his silver tongued orators were thundering against the C. P. R., he was in Montreal negotiating with the C. P. R. officials for the sale of his interests in British Columbia. He succeeded and the smelter and railway passed under the control of the big railway corporation. The C. P. R. company were preparing to renew the request for a big cash subsidy when D. C. Corbin went down to Ottawa and stated that if he were granted a charter, he would build a railway into the Boundary Creek country without a cash subsidy or a land grant. This unusual and unheard of proposition so enraged the C. P. R. officials that they used all their energies in defeating the man who dared to establish such a foolish precedent in Canada. Then began the hottest railway fight that was ever waged in parliament. Corbin was backed by public opinion, the Grand Trunk and any influence the American railways had at Ottawa. The C. P. R. was too powerful at Ottawa, however, and after three months of continuous fighting they carried the day, but not until Sir Wm. Van Horn had made a solemn promise to begin the immediate construction of a road to Boundary Creek. This promise was fulfilled so promptly that in a little over a year after work began the railway engine was seen in Greenwood.

Now that the railway is here most people will admit that it was built almost as soon as the development of the district warranted. Still it is impossible to disguise the fact that men of means were prepared to take chances in the district and invest their money in railways. There is no good reason why they should not have been allowed to do so. There is too much red tape about railway legislation in Canada. It offers a premium to the professional lobbyist and the purchaser of votes. The man who wants to build a railway should not be forced to spend six months and several thousand dollars down at Ottawa. He should be told to go ahead and build.

For six years Boundary Creek was the plaything of charter-mongers and subsidy hunters. They bought and sold assets voted to them by a vacillating legislature. They used their influence in defeating the legitimate railway builder. Wipe away all the red tape connected with the securing of railway charters and the occupation of the charter-mongers is gone.

THE Grand Forks Daily Gazette has made its appearance. Eber C. Smith, formerly of the Rossland Record, is at the helm. Mr. Smith is an enterprising newspaper man and Grand Forks will know he is there while he is there.

A MANITOBA MAN.

Mr. Hall, of Brandon, speaks of Rossland and Boundary.

Mr. C. E. Hall, of Brandon, Manitoba, who in company with W. L.

Orde, of this city, has just returned from a trip through the Boundary country, was enthusiastic yesterday over the future of Southern British Columbia. Mr. Hall came in by the Crow's Nest Pass line, and will return via Revelstoke. This is his first visit to the province, and he predicts a great future for it. He was impressed with stability and progressiveness of Rossland, and said that although he had been continually reading accounts of the camp in the papers, he was agreeably surprised with what he saw on his arrival. Mr. Hall has been making close inquiries concerning real estate in this city, and the returns that are being made in investments in Rossland property. "You are well over your first boom," he said, "and have settled down on a permanent basis. With the steady monthly pay roll that you now have, and every prospect of it continuing to show a healthy increase, the city certainly has a remarkably bright future before it, and there will be many chances for good paying investments outside of mining pure and simple."

Mr. Hall is a grain grower, and he stated that the harvest all through Manitoba this year had been exceptionally good, both in quantity and quality. He had been instrumental in inducing the Dominion government to pass the legislation of last session placing grain inspection and grading on a new basis, and he was satisfied that having stationary standard for grain would have a good effect, as merchants who deal in "futures" will know exactly what they are purchasing in advance. There had been a large influx of population into Manitoba this past year, and the country was filling up and prospering. "You will be sure to get your share of the money we have been making. All our people are looking into British Columbia investments of one sort or another, and our spare cash is likely to come this way, as we believe with you in the future of the province."—Rossland Miner.

The attention of the proper authorities is directed to the great annoyance caused our citizens by the incessant tooting of railway whistles and the unmusical clanging of railway bells. The people have rights as well as railway companies. It is too bad that their peace should be disturbed by the noise and bustle of a railway. [Note: The above is an editorial scoop. If we hadn't registered the kick, "the rag" on the other side of the wall" would have done it in the not far distant future.—ED.]
