THE YEARS' RECORD.

Phenomenal Aggregate of Ore Treated by the British Columbia Copper Company's Smelter Since it Commenced Operations in February Last.

The tonnage of ore smelted at the British Columbia Copper Company's smelter, Greenwood, since it commenced operations in February last, aggregates 117,565 tons. Substituting the few days it was running in February for those it was shut down for repairs in August, the above named quantity represents a ten months' run for a single furnace with a nominal capacity of only 250 tons, and gives a daily average over the whole period of 384 tons. During the recent months, though, the daily average steadily increased, having been 394 tons in September, 408 in October, 409 in November and 422½ tons in December. Last month's run was a record breaker and totalled 13,098 tons. The last figures are remarkable and constitute an eloquent testimony to two prominent facts, first, particularly, the favorable nature of self fluxing ores in the Boundary district, and next the skill of Paul Johnson in designing, constructing and operating the smelter, which produced results that with regard to quantity of ore treated are phenominal in the history of copper smelting.

WHY COPPER WENT DOWN.

A Glimpse Behind the Scenes on the Copper Market.

(From the heart of Wall street by the Times' regular and veracious correspondent.)

New York, Dec. 25.—Although the future prosperity of the mining district of British Columbia depends upon the state of the copper market, very few of those interested appreciate the incidents that led up to the recent downward course of copper in the New York and London markets. Did the good citizens of the Boundary realize that the possibility of opening the inexhaustible treasure vaults of their district on a large scale, was responsible for the panic, while naturally alarmed at the result, they could not but be flattered that their district could influence to such a large extent the copper markets of the world.

The Amalgamated Copper company, under the clever manipulation of Rockefeller, succeeded in keeping the price of copper up where there was a big profit in mining and treating the same. The ancient house of Rothschild did the same for the London market. They judiciously husbanded the output and having control of the well known copper mines of the world, they could easily manipulate the market to suit themselves.

But their equanimity was rudely disturbed by the man from British Columbia—from Boundary Creek. Early last week Wall street was startled by the appearance of W. A. Thomas, a mining expert who is known from Patagonia to Klondyke. He is always reticent about his movements, past or future, but he returned from Boundary creek with completed arrangements for a mining deal that when carried into effect must speedily cut a considerable figure in the copper market and make the Rockefellers and the Rothschilds feel as if the copper world was not theirs. Thomas would have kept the scheme quiet and no one would have got an inkling of what he was doing except his principals, but there were too many people in the deal and Wall street discovered that something important was going to happen.

The deal I have reference to has already been reported in the Times. It is the consolidation of the mining interests of the Dominion and B. C. Copper companies and an increased smelter capacity to meet the demands of the largest possible output from these properties. The possibilities of such a deal were of sufficient magnitude to alarm the copper magnates; the treatment of such a large output by Paul Johnson at less than $1 per ton, the quarrying of the ore measures at a cost that is less than that of any other copper district—these and other possibilities were sufficient to frighten the big copper trust. From the wilds of Arizona, from the far famed Butte mines, from the ancient Calumet and Hecla, from the historic Rio Tinto, from Mexico and Peru, copper was poured into the market with the result that the prices came tumbling down!

The whole affair will prove a boomerang to the copper kings and a distinct advantage to the Boundary district. By the time consolidation can be carried into effect the copper market must necessarily recover, and then the operators in British Columbia will have something to say regarding when copper shall go down and up.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS.

Semi-Annual Installment of Officers Celebrated By a Banquet.

On New Year evening the installation of officers for the next six months took place at Greenwood Lodge No. 29, K. of P. There was a large attendance of local members, and a good crowd from Phoenix lodge, besides several Rossland lodge members working at the Mother Lode, were visitors.

District Deputy Grand Chancellor, Duncan Smith officiated at the installation, assisted by Past Chancellor D. Murray. The following officers were installed: C. C., Norman McLeod; V. C., A. Allmacher; P., C. Pittock; M. of W., A. Lind; K. R. S., A. S. Embree; M. of E., L. G. Witbeck; M. of F., W. J. McGregor; M. at A., A. Benson; I. G., K McKenzie; O. G., K. C. B. Frith. Appropriate speeches were made by the new officers, visiting brothers and several of the members. Music was provided by Professor Kauffman and some excellent songs were rendered.

The Lodge then adjourned to the banquet room where a spread awaited them that did credit to Werner & Pittock, who provided the banquet. Speeches were made, and J. W. Grier, with a few well chosen words, presented Max Berger, the retiring C. C., with a solid silver Past Chancellor's jewel, a gift from the members. It was a great surprise to Mr. Berger, and it showed that his brothers in the lodge thoroughly appreciated his earnest endeavors to keep the Lodge up to its high standard during his term of office, and the untiring vigor with which he has worked ever since he joined the lodge. Mr. Berger expects to leave this country in a short time, and his absence will be sincerely regretted by every member of Greenwood Lodge.

The report given by the Master of Exchequer showed a gratifying increase in the funds of the lodge during the last six months.

"CONFUSION."

A Laughable Three Act Farce Company at the Opera House.

The Rossland Amateur Theatrical Troupe who were so enthusiastically received at Rossland, Nelson and other points in the Kootenay, will appear at the Auditorium on Monday evening next under the auspices of Boundary Valley Lodge, I. O. O. F. The play is clean and exceedingly funny. It is sure to be enjoyed by those who attend. The amateur company is under the direction of W. J. Nelson, an old favorite with Greenwood people who will remember him as manager of a similar Rossland company who played in Greenwood about two years ago. The members of the company are popular young people of Rossland who should be greeted by a full house. The prices of admission have been fixed at 50 and 75 cents. Tickets can be secured at H. B. Munroe's.

Miss Divesley who has been visiting her sister Mrs. T. B. Winnett left a few days ago for her home in London, Ont., from which place she received word of the serious illness of her mother.

It is proposed to start a Young Peoples' Club in Greenwood. The proposal has met with the warm approval of the ministers of the town. It will have for its object the social, spiritual and intellectual advancement of the young people of both sexes. The first meeting will be held next Saturday evening, Jan. 4th, in the Presbyterian church. Arrangements will be made for a social and literary programme at that meeting. If a sufficient number present themselves, French and German classes will be started. All the young people of the town and all older ones too are cordially invited to attend.

The induction services are very interesting and are open to the public.

There was a very large attendance at the Masonic temple and the station on Monday afternoon when the body of C. W. Vedder was sent to Spokane for interment. The impressive services of the A. F. & A. M. were held in the hall and the Masonic brethern accompanied the remains to the railway. R. R. At the beginning of the year J. L. White took possession of Miller Bros. drug store which he purchased some time ago. Miller Bros. retain the jewelry department and Geo. F. Miller will have charge of the same. M. E. Miller leaves shortly to join his wife who is visiting in California. Mr. Miller will likely accept a lucrative position which has been offered him by a big manufacturing concern of the East. He was one of the earliest residents of Greenwood and an enterprising citizen whose departure will be regretted by the people of Greenwood and district.

The St. Andrew's "At Home" at the B. C. Hotel on New Year's eve proved a very enjoyable affair. About fifty couples were present. In the early part of the evening a witty address was delivered by Rev. Dr. McRae, and Mrs. McCutcheon, Miss Flesher, Miss Laird, Miss Minkler, Mr. Whiteside, Mr. McMynn, Mr. Duff, Mr. Heath, Mr. McLennan and others contributed towards the musical part of the programme. Miss Goddard and Mr. Hodge danced a Highland Fling in costume, and during the evening several Scottish dances were included in the programme. Refreshments were served by the ladies and at midnight the party bade farewell to the old year by singing "Auld Lang Syne."

SCHOOL TRUSTEES.

Under the amendments to the school act, trustees are nominated and elected at the same time as mayor and aldermen. Heretofore the trustees were elected at the annual meeting of householders held about the end of June, but since the cities under the amendments assume a larger portion of the cost of maintenance of schools, the elections are held concurrent with those of the municipality so that the people may have a better opportunity of expressing their opinion as to who shall have charge of the work connected with the maintaining of efficient schools that are so important in every city.

The present trustees are I. H. Hallett, Ralph Smailes and J. A. Russell.

During the past year many important matters were considered by them. As is well known, the old school building was unsuitable for the purpose and so situated that it was at too great a distance from many of the children. The Sisters of Peace were desirous of purchasing the property and the trustees in conjunction with other citizens impressed upon the government the importance of selling the property and erecting a more suitable building on a more central site. The sale was made and the government promised a sufficient sum to purchase the site and assist the erecting of a school building that would be a credit to the city. The trustees have been keeping in touch with the government regarding this important matter and the latter have expressed their intention to fulfil their promise as soon as the legislature votes the necessary funds. Under the circumstances, the present trustees should be re-elected by acclamation so that they may be able to complete the work started last year. New men unacquainted with the details of the negotiations between the trustees and the government would not be in as good a position to look after the city's interests as those who have the matter already in hand. The present trustees should be given time to complete the work of securing adequate school facilities in the city.

CABINET REPRESENTATION.

It is unfortunate that the jealous opposition of a few Liberals in this province should stand in the way of securing a provincial representative in the Dominion cabinet. When Sir Louis Davies retired from the office of Minister of Marine and Fisheries to accept a position on the Supreme Court bench, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, recognizing the right of British Columbia to representation in the Cabinet, was anxious to give the position Templeman, but lower mainland Liberals, jealous of a Victoria man, sent protests to Ottawa with the result that unless the interior of the province takes action, the appointment is likely to go to an eastern man.

The interior is not interested in the rivalry between Vancouver and Victoria, but it is interested in having a broadminded, aggressive western man in the Dominion Cabinet. Of all the men on the coast who might have claims to the position, Senator Templeman would be the most satisfactory to the interior. There is nothing narrow or sectional in his make up and as the western representative in the Dominion Cabinet, the mining interests of the interior would have a warm friend.

The interior should at once act in matter so as to offset the opposition of the small politicians on the coast. British Columbia cannot afford to lose the opportunity to secure cabinet representation.

WHY COPPER DROPPED

Another Correspondent Gives His View of the Situation—He Blames Casey for the Big Slump in the Price—He Wanted Revenge on Selling Agents of the Copper Trust.

NEW YORK, Dec. 31.—Lake copper is selling today over all the world at 12 cents a pound. That is 5 cents a pound cheaper than the price fixed by the Amalgamated Copper company—the company that imagined itself a trust.

H. L. Casey did it.

Amalgamated Copper stock has gone down from $130 a share to $60.50. That means a loss of $107, 725,000 to stockholders.

Casey did that, too.

And Casey says he has only begun.

"When I get done with the Lewisohns," said he this morning, "they will"—. But he paused, lest the Lewisohns learn of their fate in advance, and sell it short. The Lewisohns are the chief men in the United States Selling company, which sells all the copper for the Amalgamated.

All the world has heard of Casey, and what he did, and all the world is talking about him today because copper is selling where he said it would sell—at at the price all the world laughed at him for predicting some two months ago.

Opinions differ as to why Casey did it.

Casey says he did it because he was mistreated by the Lewisohns:

"I worked for them when they thought it a wonderful thing if they sold 25,000 pounds of copper in a week. Through fourteen years I toiled with them and helped to build up a business where it is nothing to sell a million pounds of copper in one day.

"Then they discharged me for economy. I was penniless. They had millions back of them. I knew a secret of their trade fatal to the price of copper. I told it to all the world.

"The result was astonishing even to me. It has been disastrous to the Lewisohns. It has ruined thousands—but I am avenged. The avalanche of trouble is only begun for the Lewisohns, however. They told me when they discharged me that I was 'easy.' When I told my friends that I was going to smash the copper trust, they laughed at me. They said, 'Why, Casey, you are just a little spot. They will brush you off and forget it.'"

There are other opinions about Casey that do not sound so romantic. Wall street speculators in rage refuse to believe that Casey is so angry with the Lewisohns as he says he is.

It is current belief that the "Standard Oil crowd" sold Amalgamated short all the way down from 130 and was in a position to be delighted at the big tumble in prices. Casey does not deny that they may have done this, as he thinks it would be an innocent thing compared with the things he says they have done. But he denies that he, Casey, has made a dollar on the break.

Robt. Wood or C. Scott Galloway, Greenwood.

The story of how he accomplished his wonderful vengeance is as short and simple as it is amazing. He knew, as head salesman of the Selling company, that there were on hand 135,000,000 pounds of copper in excess of the demand, and that this excess was increasing at the rate of 20,000,000 pounds a month.

He was discharged on August 1. He wrote a letter at once and dated it September 3. He addressed a copy to each of one thousand leading copper consumers in the world. By computations at the postoffice he learned on what days and at what hours to mail them so that the consumers in Japan, Europe and America might all receive the letter on the same morning, so that all the world of consumers might know this tremendous fact the same day and none sooner nor later than the other.

The letters for Japan he mailed five weeks before those for this city. He kept going to the postoffice himself every few hours day and night for five weeks, depositing letters according to his schedule and chuckling over the excitement he was going to stir up.

The last were deposited the night President McKinley was shot. That was a deplorable fact, but he had gone too far, and the letters could not be recalled. His last act was to address copies to the directors of the Amalgamated company and to the Lewisohns.

The next morning, powers that prey on Wall street went to their offices with heavy hearts because they feared a panic over the shooting of the president. But Standard Oil grief was turned to wild rage when they opened their morning mail and found what Casey had done. The Standard Oil crowd was paralyzed with terror at first, but soon roused to send out angry denials.

The denials, of course, were falsehoods, as were also the denials made soon after when Casey cabled Europe that the Selling company had sold 55,000,000 pounds of copper at from 2 to 3 cents below the quoted price.

But now the mask is torn off, and it is admitted that Casey told the truth in everything he said.

"I didn't have a dollar to fight with," said Casey. "But I knew human nature. I knew that if I told a thousand men in parts of the world in the same day that they were being cheated by the Lewisohns, I would set to work a suspicion that would never be set at rest. I told them to refrain from buying—to buy only what was actually needed, and to demand lower prices. The whole world stopped buying copper. Now it is at a reasonable price. It will go to 11 cents, and then may rise to 12 and come to a rest."

How does Casey impress one?

He a is cheerful, short, squarely built Irishman of 40 or so, one of the kind who does not enter a room, but bursts in. He looks as if he knew many good stories, and was able to tell them just right. He throws himself into his office chair, folds his short arms across his billowy chest, kicks out one leg and rocks himself back and forth.

As he talks he smiles, and his heavy eyebrows work up and down like the price of Amalgamated copper stocks on 'change. His eyes are clear and his mouth pleasant. He wears slight, copper colored whiskers, "just for my cold, and so don't put any on my picture, for I am going to cut them off as soon as my cold is cured."

Down the sides of his head hang curtains of straight hair. Casey ends in a dome that shines like a clear sky of June. At the very top there is just a whiff of hair like a cloud rack left in the June sky after a sun shower.

That is Casey, the man who has taken perhaps a most sensational and costly vengeance for his wrong.

"Why didn't you sell Amalgamated copper stocks short and get rich?" Casey was asked.

"That's easy after it's all over," he answered. "Men stop me every day now and say to me, 'Casey, if you had only let me know.' As a matter of fact, I did tell every one of my friends, and they only laughed at me. I did not make a cent on the stock.

"Yes, I go into James R. Keene's office now and then. I know Wall street. I have speculated just as nearly everybody has—and got whipped. I have paid no attention to stocks in this fight."

Mr. Casey lives with his wife and three children in Flatbush.

LIBERALS PROTEST

Against the Basis of Representation at the Provincial Convention to be Held in Vancouver.—Ask for Representation According to Population.

A well attended meeting of the Greenwood Liberal Association was held last evening with President J. R. Brown in the chair. The Vancouver convention was discussed and the association, in a series of resolutions endorsed the arrangements made by the executive except the basis of representation, to which the members took strong exception. The meeting was adjourned until the 17th when delegates will be appointed if fair representation can be secured. The resolutions passed were as follows:

(1) That the Greenwood Liberal Association endorses the action of the Provincial Executive in calling a Liberal Convention for January 30th, 1902.

(2) That under the arrangement suggested by the Executive for the payment of delegates' expenses, the selection of Vancouver as the place of meeting is satisfactory to the Greenwood Association.

(3) That this Association believes that the voting power of delegates from the different Constituencies should be in accordance with the voting strength at the last Provincial election, or in accordance with the latest census returns, and this Association strongly protests against the basis of representation suggested by the Provincial executive, believing that it is diametrically opposed to the principles of the Liberal party to make the present constituencies the basis of representation in any public gathering.

(4) That this Association believes that in view of the expense and inconvenience attached to going from interior points to Vancouver, the number of delegates as apportioned by the executive would be satisfactory, provided, if no increase in number of delegates is made, they be granted voting power commensurate with the importance and population of districts that are grossly discriminated against by the present distribution of seats.

(5) That this Association believes that the members of the executive should be ex-officio members of the convention: editors of newspapers supporting the Dominion Government, if admitted, should be regarded as ordinary delegates and be included in the apportionment of equitable voting power to the different constituencies. This should also hold good in reference to other delegates besides the three delegates allowed for each member in the Provincial Legislature.

(6) That unless a fair basis of representatoin at the Convention be secured this Association refuses to take any part in its deliberations.

(7) That copies of this resolution be sent to Senator Templeman and to the different Liberal Associations throughout the Province.

Carried unanimously.

Arrested for Board.

The Grand Forks Gazette says: "A. E. Storey, a miner employed in the Mother Lode, Deadwood camp, was brought to this city a prisoner, Thursday, charged with having wilfully left the Yale hotel without settling a little board bill of $3. The hotel management seeks to make an example of him owing to the fact that dead-beating is practised on the hotel at least once a week.

A charge of wagrancy was also laid against the prisoner who had a hearing in Judge Johnson's court. The other charge is more serious. Under the criminal code defrauding a hotel constitutes an indictable offence, the maximum penalty being three years' imprisonment. The law does not provide for the imposition of a fine. Storey was allowed his liberty pending the delivery of judgment today. He is a married man and earns good wages."

Storey kept an hotel at Boundary City for some time.
