DEBENTURES SOLD

Local Capitalist Takes Five Thousand Dollar Loan.

MONEY FOR NEW SCHOOL

By-Law to be Submitted to Ratepayers—Routine Business.

An important meeting of the city council was held on Monday evening with Mayor Naden in the chair and Ald. Caulfield Kirkwood, Smailes, Bannerman, Swayne and Ross present. A bylaw was passed to raise by the way of debentures the sum of $5,000 for school building purposes. Last session the legislature voted $8,000 for a school building in Greenwood. This sum is being augmented by the city by the $5,000 as a site has to be purchased. It speaks well for Greenwood that even before the by-law has been submitted to the ratepayers who will doubtless offer no opposition, the debentures have been sold at par. The purchaser is William McBride, one of Greenwood's citizens who shows his confidence in the town by the purchase of its debentures at a high figure. The by-law will be submitted to the ratepayers for their approval on August 4th and as soon as it receives their assent, the money which has been deposited in the bank for this purpose will be turned over to the city.

The tramway project was further considered and favorable progress was made. The council is hopeful that in a short time, the scheme will be in such shape that it can be made public.

Several matters of routine were considered. It was decided to place a small gate at the cemetery so that visitors could go in and out without unlocking the large gates. Signs will be placed on the city bridges cautioning against fast driving. This has been made necessary because drivers have been in the habit of running and trotting their teams over city bridges. The council have decided to stop the practice and intend prosecuting for fast driving over bridges in the future.

The annual agitation for the reduction of the peddler license, came up in the shape of a by-law to reduce the license from $250 for six months to $25. The object desired is to allow fruit peddlers to sell fruit but if the license were reduced it would allow every other sort of peddler to hawk his wares through Greenwood. The council by a vote of six to four decided to maintain the high license.

Call for a Receiver.

To Take Charge of the Hot Air Line From Republic to the Boundary.

The Kettle Valley Lines situated between Republic, Wash., and Grand Forks, B. C., is in more trouble and as a consequence is liable to lose its franchise and forfeit its right to hold property in the state of Washington.

News was received that the officials of the company at Grand Forks and Toronto have been served with notices to appear at Republic and show cause why a receiver should not be appointed for the Kettle Valley Lines. W. C. Morris, former assistant manager of the Kettle Valley Lines, claims that for promoting the road he is entitled to a one sixth interest in the property. According to the contract that was made with the owners of the road, it is stated, he was to receive that amount when the line was completed. The stock was issued to him and thereafter it, with all the stock was turned over to the company to be held in trust till the completion of the road. That was to the only compensation Manager Morris was to receive for his work, excepting his expenses.

In his suit Mr. Morris obtained an injunction against the transfer of the stock and is now preparing for a receiver on the ground that all the stock of the Kettle Valley Lines, except that issued to him, was issued and is held by aliens, which is forbidden by the constitution; and, that while it is a corporation of the state, it has moved all its corporate records beyond the jurisdiction of the state and keeps them at Grand Forks, B. C., refusing to permit him (Mr. Morris) any inspection thereof.

Mr. Morris further claims that by reason of such alien ownership and abuse of its corporate privileges the Kettle Valley Lines has forfeited its franchise and right to hold any property within the state.

Manager Morris now has a temporary injunction, returnable at Republic on August 1, at which time the application for a receiver will be heard.

The case of Morris against the Kettle Valley Lines is one of more than usual interest in local circles. The Kettle Valley Lines has been in trouble from the date of its commencement, and the present suit is liable to mean that the company will forfeit its charter.

While the suit only includes the part of the road in the state of Washington, that includes all but about three miles of the line. The trouble was started by the failure of the officials of the Kettle Valley owners to turn over to Morris the amount of stock he claims is due him as promoter of the road.

Advices from Republic state that the papers in this application were served July 16 and that Judge Neal will make a special trip to Republic to hear the railway's troubles on August 1.

Won Second Place.

The Greenwood hose team won second money at Nelson in the hub and hub race, Nelson being first and Rossland third. In the wet test Nelson and Rossland tied for first place.

The Fistic Contest.

The fight between Jeffrey and Fitzsimmons was won by the former in the eighth round. The big giant had the best of his smaller opponent all through the fight. In the eighth Fritz was counted out.

A SERIOUS FIRE

G. F. Williams Dry Goods Establishment Destroyed.

FIREMEN'S GOOD WORK

Saved Adjoining Premises—Smith and McRae's Loss.

The only serious fire in Greenwood for over two years took place on Thursday evening when the dry goods estaplishment of Geo. F. Williams on Copper street was completely gutted, entailing what is practically a total loss. The fire occurred about nine o'clock in the evening. Good work on the part of the firemen and a good water supply saved the adjoining buildings. Guess' brick block adjoining was also a factor in preventing the fire from spreading.

The burnt building is situated in the heart of Copper street between Greenwood and Dundee and on each side is a long row of business houses. Curiously too it is near where the only previous serious fires occurred.

One of the first to notice the blaze was Mrs. Peterson who is a convalescent patient at Dr. Spankie's in the Guess block adjoining. The fire broke out in the roof of the Williams building near the centre. Mrs. Peterson called nurse Manahan who gave the alarm and soon there was a general alarm. The firemen and a big crowd of citizens were quickly on the scene, and several streams from the neighboring hydrants were played on the building. A frame structure, it burnt fiercely and it was sometime before the water became the victor. The building is damaged beyond repair and the $8,000 stock of goods badly damaged.

On the south side of the Williams building is the frame block occupied by Smith & McRae, stationers. There is no fire wall between the buildings and it looked at one time as if this building was also doomed. Willing hands began to remove the goods from the premises but this was discontinued when it was found that the firemen had the fire under control. Smith & McRae's fine stock is rather badly damaged with water and the hurried removal.

Mrs. Peterson, the patient, was safely removed from Dr. Spankie's and is none the worse for her exciting experience. The doctor's instruments and furniture was also removed to a place of safety.

The cause of the fire is unknown. The building is a one story with a trap door in the ceiling at the rear. Mr. Law was in the Windsor at the time when the alarm was first given. He broke into Williams' store and found that the fire at that time was between the ceiling and the roof. When it broke out it was near the centre of the building. The insurance on the Williams stock is apout $4,000. Gaunce and Wickwire's companies $2,500, the Bealey company $1,000 and R. Cunningham $500. Smith & McRae are well protected by insurance.

The excellent work of the fire department was much appreciatad by the citizens. It reflects the greatest credit on them that a fire with a good start in a frame building in the heart of the densest portion of the town should be confined to the one building. The Cisra Mathes company were playing Under Two Flags that evening and when the alarm sounded the the theater was emptied. The company announced a free show after the fire was out. The theatre was packed and the company took advantage of the opportunity to congratulate the firemen on their splendid work and to tender them an invitation to the performance on Friday evening.

The hose team had plenty of practical experience before going to Nelson for the races. They left on to-days (Friday) train.

Mr. Williams made an assignment some time ago and settled with his creditors at 30 cents on the dollar. He secured the money from F. J. Finucane who took a chattle mortgage. Some time ago Mr. Finucand took possession under this mortgage, Mr. Williams leaving for Toronto where he is at present.

Bachelors Won.

An Exciting Game of Base Ball Played on Friday.

A combination of unfortunate circumstances were responsible for the defeat of a team of benedicts by Law's lonesome bachelors on Friday. In the first place several of Law's poorest men went to the Nelson celebration and their places were filled by ball players. Then Capt. Law and his bachelor friends were so frightened of a second defeat that they made it a condition incident to the game that the benedicts should play no man who played on a winning team before. In order to get some excercise and also to encourage the young fellows, this condition was agreed to. One of the benedicts twisted his knee in the first inning and when it was suggested that J, L. Coles take his place, the howl of dissent could be heard miles away. Coles didn't play. The bachelors played dark horses—men who secured fame and name in former base ball contests, notably H. F. Mytton, Dave Reid and Big MacKenzie, who used to by the darling of Bruce county enthusiasts. Even with this handicap, the benedicts were only a few runs behind their victorious opponents and if the full nine innings instead of seven had been played they doubtless would have forged ahead as Bob Longley the pitcher was rattled and Law the first baseman ran out of wind.

Julius Ehrlich umpired the game for the benedicts and Geo. F. Miller saw that his brother bachelors got fair treatment. Both gave entire satisfaction. The grand stand was well patronized and the game was greatly enjoyed.

It is understood that D. Bannerman and J. L. White have issued a challenge on behalf of the benedicts and if given a free hand in the choice of men are certain of an easy victory.

THE TRAMWAY

The City Council Considering a New Scheme.

A MUNICIPAL UNDERTAKING

To Connect Greenwood With the Surrounding Camps.

For several years the advisability of constructing a tramway system that would connect Phoenix and the mining camps has been discussed. At one time a company secured a charter and undertook to build the road but for various reasons the project was not carried out. For some weeks the city council has been quietly at work gathering information regarding the cost and the practibility of the scheme. The information secured is of a most encouraging nature. The intention is to carry out the work as municipal undertaking. The details of the scheme are not sufficiently matured to make public but the council is hopeful that in a short time they will be in a position to submit the scheme to the ratepayers.

The importance of a tramway system cannot be over estimated. Greenwood is easily the commercial centre of the Boundary land all that is required to bring it in closer touch with various mining camps is a tramway system.

McADAMS' SENTENCE.

The supreme court of British Columbia in its inscrutable wisdom has seen fit to sentence William McAdams, editor of the Sandon Paystreak to nine months imprisonment and if unable to get good friends to put up $2,000 as an earnest of his future good conduct, he must languish in jail an additional twelve months. McAdams was not a partner of Tracy's, nor did he beat an inoffensive old man into insensibility, nor was he a horse thief, nor was he charged with any of several other things that usually warrant severe sentences. Like all great men, McAdams has his moments of weakness. In one of these moments he committed to cold type words that were not carefully weighed. These words were directed at the supreme court of the province of British Columbia—a very august body and one which should not be referred to save after calm and mature deliberation.

Now a man that is sentenced to what is practically 21 months imprisoment must be charged with an offence. The persons against whom an offence is committed are usually the plaintiffs. In this case the real plaintiffs are the judges of the supreme court. What trial McAdams got was before the judges of the supreme court and the sentence was by the judges of the supreme court.

Under the circumstances and in the interests of other great newspaper men who have their moments of weakness, the supreme court of the province of British Columbia should prepare a brand new law for the guidance discipline and also the protection of all newspaper men in this province.

About one hundred years ago, Germany passed a measure that was stringent enough to meet present requirments in British Columbia. This ancient edict if brought up to date and made applicable to B. C. would set forth the abuses of the press; also its licentiousness; that the judiciary should never be made the sport of vain curiosity or superficial criticism, and that nothing but "folly and falsehood" could impute sinister designs to the supreme court. It would then proceed to prohibit the publication of every newspaper in the province without having first secured a license from the supreme court; it would make the sheriff of each county answerable to the supreme court for any newspaper injurious or dangerous to the dignity of the supreme court; it would give the sheriffs power either on complaint made or on their own motion to suppress any newspaper and it would provide that the editor of any suppressed journal should be incapable of acting as an editor for five years time; spent in jail not to be deducted.

Of course it is nearly one hundred years since a similar law was in force in Germany but time cannot destroy the efficacy of such an enactment. Under its provision, editors would exercise greater care. Besides there would some well defined system under which newspaper men would be incarerated- Today a newspaper man may be living at peace with the world, he may be enjoying the confidence and respect of his fellow men and he may consider himself guiltless of any crime; but too big a hunk of mince pie or an overdose of indifferent Scotch may move him to say things and without a moments warning he may find himself decorated with a "P. G."

With strikes at coal mines, with smelters and mines closed, with a low price for copper and no market for silver or lead, there were ample uncertainties in the publication of newspapers in the mining towns of interior. Relief was often sought by taking random shots at railway corporations, parliaments, governments and big things of that sort. Poor Billy Mc Adams enlarged his range by including the supreme court judges. It was a foolish thing to do, but he should have had some warning that it was dangerous. It would be safer to have a law like that suggested so that newspaper men might know what to expect.

Seriously speaking, McAdams' conduct was a scandalous abuse of newspaper privileges but the reputation of the supreme court of British Columbia is not so weak, that to preserve it, it is necessary to mete out punishment so severe, and in such a premptory manner.

No one will attempt to defend McAdams' course, on the other hand few can be found who will applaud the sentence of the supreme court judges. McAdams is a young man too free with his pen. The learned judges are men of mature years who have at least reached the age of discretion. McAdams' error cannot be offered as an excuse for the extreme measures taken by supreme court judges.

THE FERNIE STRIKE.

The Nelson News Fernie correspondent was rather unfair in his strictures on the Boards of Trade belonging to the Associated Boards of Eastern British Columbia. He criticized them for refusing to go to Fernie with a view to arbitrating the differences between the coal company and the striking miners. The boards took the only proper course under the circumstances.

All expressed their willingness to send delegates to Fernie if the compauy and the men wished them to do so. No such assurance was received and then came the announcement that President Buchanan had called a meeting in Fernie. The Greenwood Board of Trade wired the officers of the coal company and the secretary of the Fernie Miners' union asking them if they wished the services of the associated boards in an attempt to settle the strike. The coal company replied that manager Tonkins was at the coast and in his absence no definite answer could be given and no reply has as yet been received from the Fernie miners.

Under the circumstances it would be folly for the associated boards to interfere in the strike.

THE EDITOR'S EASY CHAIR.

With the mercury hovering around the century mark, it is rather a difficult matter to do justice to the annual report of the minister of mines which has just reached us. It is a formidable volume, its 300 pages being replete with facts and figures to demonstrate that there is mineral in this province and that there are producing mines. Typographically is has a soothing effect. Printed by Richard Wolfenden, printer to the King's most excellent majesty, is a sufficient guarantee of its excellence. The photo engravings are good but no better than are being produced by the B. C. Photo engraving company of Victoria. Why the provincial government should spend thonsands af dollars in Chicago or some other foreign city for their illustrations is difficult to understand. They can get equally good work at home. Politics is politics but business is business and it is short sighted policy to send good money to United States simply because a political opponent runs the only photo-engraving establishment in the province.

But we are getting away from the minister of mines report. While Edwd. Gawler Prior giver his name, William Fleet Robertson does the work and tells the story of the satisfactory progress that has been made. The figures are encouraging but the readers of the Times will not thank us to give them too many these hot days. Indeed the report is open to the criticism that it is too unweildy and we would suggest that its salient features be crowded into about 50 pages so that people could see at a glance that British Columbia is a mining country aud despite the croakers who dabbled and lost in wild cat speculations that healthy and rapid progress is being made.

Briefly, the report tells us that British Columbia mines produced in all years $172,241,988. Of this amount $20,086,780 was produced in 1901 and increase of nearly four millions over 1900 and eight millions over 1899. By mining divisions the greatest increase was made in the Boundary. In 1899 the Boundary produced $234,166, in 1900 $1,358,383 and in 1901 the aggregate was $3,250,986.

Mr. Robertson make tables, charts, of every descriptions to rub it in that these are growing times in mining in British Columbia. Statistics never lie, neither does Mr. Robertson so that the surest way of convincing those who think British Columbia is no good is by feeding them on tables ranging from No. 1 to No. 10. (This is not intended for a pun.)

But the report is not all figures. There are interesting reports from gold commissioners and mining recorders in all parts of the province W. G. McMynn furnishes a wealth of information to which he is largely indebted to E. Jacobs. Mr. Robertson gives a detailed description of his trip through the West Fork country last year.

Mr. McMynn's report is supplemented by an interesting description of the B. C. Copper company's smelting operations by Paul Johnson, M. E. After describing the smelter Mr. Johuson says in part:

"Before starting up the furnace, I had my doubts whether I could make higher grade matte than 30 to 35 per cent copper, without resorting to roasting the ore, but I found by actual practice, what I had hoped, that the irony variety, which is magnetic oxide of iron (Fe_3O_4), in smelting and reducing its iron to Fe_3O_3 for the slag, gives off 1 atom of oxygen for every molecule of Fe_3O_4, and this oxygen acts as a powerful desulphurizer, so that I have, in fact, burned off as much as 85 per cent to 90 per cent of the sulphur in the charge at times. I have aimed at making a 45 to 50 per cent copper matte, but sometimes it has come out as high as over 60 per cent copper, though having had had rather much of the irony ore in the charge. I may mention, in connection with making this high grade copper matte, an interesting fact, viz.: that whenever the matte begins to come up to 53 per cent copper and above, the gold will "lock up" in the furnace in the metalic copper bottoms which form. One week when making 58 per cent to 63 per cent copper matte I had gold locked up to the value of $6,000 in the furnace bottom; the next week I had sulphur ores with which I could get the matte down to 45 per cent copper, and I then got all the gold out in five days. Silver does not behave in this way.

"The Mother Lode ore is exceptionally free from arsenic and antimony and behaves quite differently to certain other British Columbia ores which carry quite an amount of these metals and in running which I have found metalic copper and speiss separate out as soon as the matte came up to 47 per cent causing much trouble in filling up the tap-hole and threatening in this way to plug up the furnace. To obviate this I have found it necessary, elsewhere, to change the trapped spot to the ordinary way of stopping up the tap-hole with clay and when the bottom was rising up inside the tap-jacket I used to blow the furnace for five minutes and the blast, following through, melted the gathering metalics and speiss. With the Mother Lode ore, however, I have made as high as 67 per cent copper matte in the blast furnace, using a trapped blast, without filling the tap-hole with metalic copper.

"We have during the latter part of 1901 been at work to double the capacity of the smelter, and to this end erected new sets of lower ore bins, 12 in number, with an increased storage capacity of 5,000 tons, making a total storage capacity for the lower ore bins of 10,000 tons. Another large 560 feet long railroad trestle has been built between the two previous ones in order to facilitate and make possible the handling of over 1,000 tons daily of material for the smelter by the railroad. The foundations for the furnace building extension and the new second furnace are in, and cast iron columns and deck-plates for the new second furnace have been put up. The furnace will be finished as soon as the weather allows the putting up of the brickwork for it. The new 7½ Connersville Blower is ready and in place for the furnace. With this second furnace completed, the plant will have a daily capacity of over 800 tons of ore, and together with coke and coal and matte the railroad will have to handle nearly 1,000 tons daily.

"We figure on getting eventually three to four furnaces going, and shall then add converter works for making the matte into blister copper."

The Coke Famine.

Situation at Fernie Remains Unchanged.

There is no improvement in the coke situation. The strike at Fernie is apparently as far from settlement as ever. Local smelters are daily receiving postal cards announcing shipments of coke but the coke never comes. The Sunset smelter has not received any since the shut down although promised a car a day and the Mother Lode smelter has a supply of only eight cars. The Granby company is faring better. They are receiving regular shipments from Fernie and Michel and are also receiving a small supply from Frank, the new coal town on the Crow's Nest Pass.

Paul Johnson was out to Fernie last week skirmishing for coke but the regular supply does not come. The fact is that until the company gets the Fernie mines in shape they will be unable to supply the demand.

If your eyes are not giving perfect satisfaction an appointment with Geo L. Pedlar, Opt. D., eye specialist, will probably insure the condition you look for. He will be at the Pioneer Hotel, July 30 and 31.

Among those registered were P. Dermody and wife, Phoenix; W. E. Hodges, R. K. Steven and wife, John McLaren and wife, R. Greiger, Greenwood, W. P. H. Clement, Grand Forks.

Support Local Newspaper.

It is all right to buy the big, city-made, far-off, publications. They give stacks of paper and pounds of ink for the money spent, but they were never intended to do your community the great benefit and give the show and encouragement, the boost and assistance which your local home publications are printed to give. If outsiders are desirous of knowing what you are doing and how you are getting along and how prosperous and progressive your community is, they will knock at your own door; they will call at your own domicile they will seek a word from your own pen, or they will send for a copy of your local publication to note and understand what is really going on. Of course a dog fight or a family row may be going on at the time but between the lines the real condition of affairs will be reflected and the true state of your progress will be shown.
