SOCIALISM EXPOSED

Hawthornthwaite's Duplicity Is Fully Revealed.

TOOL OF CAPITALISTS

He Deserts the Laborer and Votes for C. P. R. Land Grant and Kai-en Island Deal.

J. H. Hawthornthwaite, the socialist leader, addressed two meetings in the Auditorium on Monday and Tuesday evenings last. On Monday evening he openly boasted that he had driven J. A. Macdonald, the Liberal leader, from the hall. He aimed to give Mr. Macdonald credit for having had the courage to face him, but in Greenwood neither Duncan Ross, M. P., nor J. R. Brown, M. P. P., were present. They were too cowardly to come to a public meeting and face him on the platform. Mr. Ross was chairman of the meeting addressed by Dr. Kilpatrick and Mr. Brown was confined to his bed through illness. These facts were known to Mr. Hawthornthwaite at the time, but he couldn't control his weakness for vain boasting. On Monday evening he dealt with theoretical socialism, saying nothing particularly new or important. He announced a meeting on Tuesday night, when the political application of socialism as exemplified by his own actions in the local legislature, would be fully explained.

As it was announced during the day that both Mr. Ross and Mr. Brown would be present, there was a very large attendance at last Tuesday's meeting. Fred Hazelwood, president of the local branch of the Western Federation of Miners, occupied the chair. He announced that Mr. Hawthornthwaite would open the meeting, Mr. Brown would then be given half an hour, Mr. Ross half an hour, and Mr. Hawthornthwaite would close the meeting.

Mr. Hawthornthwaite, in opening, told the audience how he was going to pulverize the two worthies on the platform with him. He told what Conservatives stood for, what Liberals claimed they stood for; he dealt very gingerly with his own record on the question of taxation and treatment of railway corporations, ridiculed Mr. Brown's record in the local legislature and urged his audience to send down a Socialist representative to support him. He also charged Messrs. Ross and Brown with being the representatives of the capitalistic class. According to Mr. Hawthornthwaite W. B. McInnes, Ralph Smith, J. A. Macdonald and other well known Liberals, were snide shysters, traitors, etc., etc.

J. R. Brown, M. P. P., followed. Although still suffering from illness, he manfully defended his course in the house and discussed the Kaien Island, C. & W., B. C. Southern and other matters. He pointed out that Mr. Hawthornthwaite openly boasted that he held the balance of power in the house. Did he use that power to force through the eight hour bill? He made McBride swallow himself on the Settlers' Rights bill. He forced the government into exempting the E. & N. belt from the provisions of the iniquitous Education acts although other cities within other railway belts exempt from taxation, were equally entitled to such exemption, but he never used the slightest effort to club the government into passing an eight hour bill, and then this loud mouthed friend of labor and apologist for the McBride government blamed the Liberals for its non-passage. Mr. Hawthornthwaite's record in connection with C P. R. legislation was also referred to. Mr. Brown closed amid applause with an appeal to the people to vote preferably for a liberal government, but if not, then for a straight conservative government, rather than the Conservative-Socialist combination which is controlling the destinies of this province today.

Duncan Ross, M. P., was loudly applauded when he rose to speak. He congratulated the audience upon having seen and heard the greatest political curiosity in this country. Robert Louis Stevenson in the wildest stretches of his imagination never created a Dr. Jeykll and Mr. Hyde which presented such sharp contrasts as did this same J. H. Hawthornthwaite. Last night he entertained the audience with a travesty on the Socialism of Karl Mark, tonight he gave them the real Socialism according to the gospel of Richard McBride. What right had this man to say that Mr. Brown and the speaker were representatives of the capitalistic class, when his whole record in the local legislature since he became a Socialist leader, showed that he was nothing but a man Friday to Richard McBride, and a tool of the Canadian Pacific Railway. He was not without his cunning when he addressed a Greenwood audience. He ridiculed Dick McBride's curly locks, suggested that some of them should be pulled. This was done to deceive the workingmen, but when this same brazen, boastful J. H. Hawthornthwaite got into the legislature he was as meek as a lamb and voted as McBride decided. (Laughter and cheers.)

Mr. Ross, in the brief time at his disposal, did not intend to discuss theoretical Socialism, but he did intend to give some illustrations of the Socialism practiced by J. H. Hawthornthwaite in the local legislature. He first instanced the case of the Midway & Vernon Railway, a project in which local people were interested, and upon whose success much depended from a local point of view. It is a project which has been mercilessly pursued by the C. P. R., which has almost succeeded in ruining it and those connected with it. In this nefarious work this powerful corporation has been aided and abetted by the McBride government and J. H. Hawthornthwaite.

The speaker pointed out that some time ago the local people succeeded in inducing Eastern capitalists to become interested in the enterprise of a syndicate headed by one Loss, took a six months' option on the charter, paying the sum of $10,000 therefor. Loss and his associates said and did nothing until the six months had almost expired, when he coolly informed the Midway & Vernon people that he had no intention of exercising the option and in a few days he bobs up serenely with a fat C. P. R. contract to build the Nicola Railway. After Loss threw up his option, the Midway & Vernon people had within 20 days to file plans of the entire route from Midway to Vernon with the minister of railways at Ottawa, and to make the necessary payments of capital as required by the act, and had to enter into a subsidy contract with the government at Ottawa. The C. P. R. well knew that it was humanly impossible to do these things and chuckled at having so successfully put the poor Greenwood men who were interested in the Midway & Vernon Railway out of business. But fortunately for the Midway & Vernon Railway people they had some friends at Ottawa who had some influence with the government, and by possibly stretching the strict letter of the law a six months' extension of time was secured. Mr. Smailes, who had charge of the Midway & Vernon affairs, then succeeded in interesting New York capital in the enterprise. Work was commenced, the bonds were being sold through Kuhn, Loeb & Co., and there appeared to be nothing that could interfere with the final success of this project which means so much for the Boundary district. But there is no limit to Canadian Pacific ingenuity when it comes to a matter of knocking a small fellow. In some mysterious way Sir Thos. Shaughnessy, the president of the C. P. R., received the information from Capt. R. G. Tatlow, erstwhile representative in British Columbia and present Minister of Finance, that there was a grave doubt as to the validity of the provincial subsidy and that in any event the subsidy would not be paid without a reference to the courts. In an equally mysterious way Mr. Clouston, the general manager of the Bank of Montreal, received this information from Sir Thomas. Equally mysterious was the method in which the manager of the Bank of Montreal in New York got this information and by some mysterious method, known only to high finance, the New York people interested in the Midway & Vernon received the startling information that they had bought a law suit with the Midway & Vernon. They immediately wired Mr. Tatlow, who lost no time in confirming the information so mysteriously conveyed through so many channels from Sir Thos. Shaughnessy down to the New York people. They were not buying a law suit in British Columbia, and they dropped the project, leaving the men unpaid. Mr. Tatlow knocked the deal at just the right time. Had he waited a few hours longer he would have been fighting New York capitalists, not Robert Wood and Ralph Smailes and Duncan McIntosh and other local people, and the New York capitalists could then have easily established their rights in the courts as subsequent events proved. But the C. P. R. knew when to knock, and Capt Tatlow gave out his information at the psychological moment.

The local people did not intend to give up, and immediately applied to the local government and legislature for such legislation as would remove any matter of doubt. Having friends of both sides of the house who insisted that these people should have a square deal, the government was reluctantly forced to bring in the necessary legislation. Then Mr. J. H. Hawthornthwaite got in his deadly work in the interests of the C. P. R. He placed on the order paper an amendment that the act should not come into full force and effect unless all wages were paid on or before February 28th, 1906. He knew full well it was absolutely impossible for the local people to pay these wages unless they were given an opportunity to refinance the project. He knew full well that under the provisions of the general railway act no Dominion subsidy is paid until all the workingmen's wages is first provided for. Knowing these things, he kept this amendment, like the sword of Damocles, over the heads of these poor people. But, what happened? Men like Price Ellison and Archie Macdonald of Lillooet, were determined that the Midway & Vernon people were going to get a square deal despite the opposition of Mr. McBride and Capt. Tatlow and Mr. Hawthornthwaite. When these worthies found the measure would carry any way, they made the best of it and let it go through the house. Did Mr. Hawthornthwaite press his motion? No, he dropped it like a hot potato when he found it would not be effective in killing the bill. There was no concern for the poor working man then. This is the Socialism which J. H. Hawthornthwaite practices in the legislature of the Province of British Columbia—it isn't the Socialism which he preaches to the workingmen of Greenwood. (Loud Applause.)

Mr. Ross also referred briefly to the C. & W. land grant. He pointed out that last year the C. P. R. sent an armed force, protected by provincial police, to drive the V., V. & E. graders of the right of way beyond Miday.

FRIDAY JULY 27 1906

NEVER SATISFIED.

Phoenix today is as well equipped with postal facilities as any other town of its size in the Dominion of Canada Two years ago Phoenix had a daily mail service by the Canadian Pacific railway: today Phoenix gets an additional daily mail by the Great Northern. Two years ago Phoenix had no custom house; today Phoenix has a customs and inland revenue officer. Notwithstanding what has been done for Phoenix in the face of an adverse vote, the Pioneer is continually finding fault with the Dominion government for neglecting Phoenix. It is now tearing its hair because the Canadian Pacific railway, for reasons best known to its officials, refuses to furnish a direct connection with the train from Greenwood at Eholt, and consequently the Greenwood mail does not reach Phoenix the same day as it is posted. How the Dominion government can be held responsible for the acts of the Canadian Pacific railway company the Phoenix Pioneer alone knows. There is a board of railway commissioners to regulate such matters and it would naturally occur to the disinterested outsider that if the Pioneer was as anxious for a remedy as it is to have a grievance against the Dominion government, it might make its kick in the proper quarter. As a matter of fact the controller of the railway mail service has taken up the matter with a view to securing a more prompt mail service between Greenwood and Phoenix.

If the Pioneer could have a few reflective moments it could readily see that the Dominion government might weary of its well doing for Phoenix if the only reward it is going to secure is continuous abuse. Phoenix is an important mining center but during the last two years in the matter of additional postal facilities, in the matter of securing a customs office, it has received greater consideration than any other town in Yale-Cariboo, and for that matter in the Dominion of Canada.

UNFAIR TACTICS,

A renegade newspaper is always the bttterest and unfairest in criticizing its quondom friends. The Vancouver Province, who, a short time ago, saw nothing but good in R. C. Macpherson, M. P., has nothing but abuse for him now. Unbiased observers of Mr. Macpherson's career as a public man are not slow to give him credit for his untiring energy in the interests of the city of Vancouver and the province generally. Two sessions ago he was one of the solid seven who fought for and secured railway competition in Southern British Columbia against the combined efforts of the Canadian Pacific railway and its newspaper organs. Since then the Province has lost no opportunity to villify Mr. Macpherson and the other B. C. members.

It has a new grievance against Mr. Macpherson. It endeavors to connect him with the release of one Brothier from the penitentiary. Brothier lived off the earnings of fallen women, and getting into the clutches of the law, he was convicted and sentenced to imprisonment. Having considerable money, he succeeded in interesting Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper, an ex-Minister of Justice, in securing his pardon. Representations were made to Hon. Chas. Fitzpatrick, then Hon. Minister of Justice. Mr. Fitzpatrick had one weakness. He was always too anxious to please his political opponents. He earned the encomiums of the Conservative press, he escaped the severe criticisms of Conservative members in the house, but unfortunately, as in the Brothier case, this was secured at the expense of political friends and party prestige. Had Mr. Fitzpatrick asked for and secured the advice of Mr. Macpherson, the local member, instead of listening to the blandishments of Sir Chas. Hibbert Tupper, an ex-Minister of Justice, the Liberal party in the west would have been spared the odium of the Brothier pardon. It is sometimes dangerous and expensive to be too courteous to politicians of the Sir Chas. Hibbert Tupper type. The public interests are sometimes better served by turning a deaf ear to their representations, but how Mr. Macpherson can be held responsible for something of which he knew nothing, and to which his attention had never been drawn until after the mischief was done, the Province in its bitterness alone can tell. Mr. Macpherson's responsibility is as great and no greater than that of every other supporter of the government. There are sometimes some things done for which responsibility must be assumed by those who are not directly responsible, but it is unfair for the Province, in this instance, to endeavor to place all the blame on Mr. Macpherson's shoulders.

DOG DAYS.

Mongrel dogs are not the only things which go mad in July weather. Sometimes newspaper editors are afflicted. The worst case of "dog days" is that of the Vancouver World, which is now wildly suggesting that party lines should again be abolished in this province. If ever there was a province which suffered from the blighting influence of hermaphrodite governments it is British Columbia. The editor of the World should take a stroll down to English bay and plunge into the ever cold waters of the sea. It is surely a case of overheating. What is wanted in British Columbia is a good Liberal government, and this is what British Columbia will soon have if newspaper editors, of whom much is expected, will quit getting rabies in the dog days.

PLAY FAIR.

The Hedley Gazette, like the Phoenix Pioneer, is never satisfied so far as the Dominion government and the member for Yale-Cariboo are concerned. In its issue of July 19th its editor writes two columns bewailing the fact that railway construction has been delayed because the minister of railways refused to make a certain order approving of the plans of the V., V. & E. into Hedley. Possibly the readers of the Gazette might have been spared this sorrowful Jeremaid if its editor had known that the order to which he referred was made nine days before the publication of his article. The granting of this order had no more to do with delaying railroad construction in the Similkameen than had the editor of the Gazette with the authorship of the decalogue.

The facts are briefly as follows: J. W. Stewart, who has the contract for building the V., V. & E. from Midway to Molson, also secured the contract for constructing the road from the International Boundary line through the Similkameen valley. An effort was made to haul in steam shovels, other heavy plant and all necessary supplies from Midway over Sidley mountain. The contractors soon found out that the cost of hauling in supplies by this route were so heavy that the profits from their contract would be wiped out and refused to continue any further work under such conditions. They suggested Penticton as a base of supplies, thus obviating the heavy haul over Sidley mountain, but for obvious reasons the Great Northern was not anxious to route supplies and plant via Penticton. It was then decided to defer further construction into the Similkameen until the track was laid to Oroville, when all supplies would be hauled over the mountain by rail. The decision was arrived at early in the year and was known to the member for Yale-Cariboo before he went east to attend the session of parliament.

Last summer Mr. Kennedy, the chief engineer of the V., V. & E., informed Mr. Ross that his survey was on the opposite side of the river from Hedley; that they couldn't get into the town without interfering with the C. P. R. if this were done. Mr. Ross told him to go ahead, and that he would assist him before the minister of railways, and, if necessary, before the railway commissioners. The change was made in the survey and submitted to the minister of railways for his approval. As was anticipated, the C. P. R. violently opposed the change. Mr. Ross, backed up by the resolutions of the Hedley Board of Trade and citizens generally, made as strong a plea as he knew how for the town of Hedley, with the result that Mr. Emmerson then and there said he would give the necessary order as soon as he secured certain additional information not then available. As soon as this information was received the order was granted on July 11th. Keeping in mind the fact that the decision to defer construction in the Similkameen was arrived at months before the application was made for the approval of the amended plans, the position of the Gazette becomes absolutely silly and viciously partizan. It even went so far as to accuse the member for Yale-Cariboo of having in some way delayed construction in the Similkameen in order to get the Greenwood branch constructed this summer, when as a matter of fact the member for Yale-Cariboo was at all times in touch with the Similkameen situation and at all times watching the interests of Hedley.

Did it ever occur to the editor of the Gazette that in purely local matters, in which there should be no politics, but all should pull together, the member for Yale-Cariboo is deserving of somewhat kinder treatment than columns of abuse, particularly when he was at all times, so far as it was humanly possible, protecting and promoting the interests of Hedley and the Similkameen.

MORE WORK STARTS

Active Operations at the Meadowlark and Snowshoe.

Work started last Monday on the Meadowlark claim on which a bond was secured some weeks ago by R. Daly Morkill of Phoenix, for a syndicate of local capitalists. The claim adjoins the well known Skylark mine and is a very promising property. The bond covers a period of eighteen months and it is the intention of the bondholders to fully prospect the property. The members of the syndicate are: Chairman, G. W Rumberger; secretary-treasurer, M. M. Stephens; managing committee, G. W. Rumberger, W. J. Porter, J. L. Martin, R. D. Morkill and J. J. Caulfield Others interested are J. A. Morrin, C. H. Reeves, William Delahay Dr. J. E. Spankie, A. S. Hood, W. G McMynn and W. D. Lawson.

Work started on the Snowshoe this week also under the management of Charles Biesel. Men were put to work getting the machinery into good shape and otherwise preparing for extensive operations. Denny Lynch formerly at the St. Eugene mine, at Moyie, is the foreman at this property, and the present small force of men will be augmented as fast as they can be utilized to advantage.

NATURAL CEMENTS

Natural cements are produced by burning a clayey limestone, containing 15 to 40 per cent of silica, alumina and iron oxide, without preliminary mixing and grinding, at a temperature that is usually little, if any, above that of an ordinary lime kiln. As the burning mass will not slake if water is poured upon it, it is necessary to grind it rather fine; after it is ground, if the resulting powder (natural cement) be mixed with water, it will harden or set rapidly, either in the air or under water. Satisfactory natural cement materials are widely distributed and of common occurrence. Hardly a state is entirely without limestones sufficiently clayey to be available for natural cement manufacture. The sudden rise of the American Portland cement industry, however, has acted to prevent any great expansion in the manufacture of natural cement. Natural cements vary widely in composition and consequently are of varying industrial importance. It has become customary to give natural cements local geographical names, indicating the place of their manufacture, as "Rosendale," "Utica," "Louisville" and "Milwaukee." This is especially appropriate, as the natural cements made in a given locality have the same general characteristics, being all made from the same sedimentrary rock. The manufacturing methods of a natural cement plant are of the simplest kind, including merely the burning of the cement rock and the pulverizing of the product.

Slag cement is a by-product of the blast furnace and is made by intimately mixing granulated blast furnace slag of proper composition with slaked lime and reducing this mixture to a fine powder.

SOCIALISM.

(According to the Gospel of J. H. Hawthornthwaite.)

Place additional burdens upon the masses for education.

Keep the lands of the Canadian Pacific railway immune from taxation, in violation of the law and against all principles of equitable taxation.

Give the Canadian Pacific railway lands to which it is not entitled. Workingmen don't own the land, therefore give it to the C. P. R.

Stand in with adventurers (male and female). They are the friends of Dick and Bob.

A grievance wanted, not a peaceful remedy in connection with an eight hour day in the smelters.

Vote for me, J. H. Hawthornthwaite. I am your leader. I am also Dick McBride's man Friday.

Socialism is based on some sort of economic principles (on the stump). Its practical application is to provide a safe position for J. H. Hawthornthwaite. I can always stand in with Dick McBride and the railway corporations so long as I can make you believe that I am a Simon pure socialist.

I would rather be a doorkeeper for Dick McBride than dwell in the realms of consistency.

WHEN W. M. Law left here on Sunday last, Greenwood lost one of its best and most enterprising citizens. In the early days of the city no man was more indefatigable in its upbuilding. Tempted by a promising business offer in Omaha, he has left here temporarily, but he has still many valuable interests in the locality and the community will gladly welcome him back after he has secured fame and fortune in the neighboring republic.

KILLED AT ROSSLAND

Robert Inches Falls Ninety Feet to Instant Death.

"A distressing accident occurred last Friday morning when Robert Inches was instantly killed by a fall from the top of the Le Roi headworks," says the Rossland Miner. "The flagstaff on the top of the headworks had been bent by a recent windstorm, and Mr. Inches and Alexander Dunlap, assisted by several others, were instructed to take it down and replace it with a new one. In carrying out the instructions, Mr. Inches insisted on going to the top of the headworks, while Mr. Dunlap and those assisting them remained in a portion of the works near the top, in order to lower the flagstaff by means of a rope. Mr. Dunlap offered to go, but Mr. Inches said he preferred to do so. A small rope was to be used but Mr. Dunlap insisted on a larger one. This was tied by Mr. Inches around the portion of the flagstaff which was to be lowered. A pully was fastened to the lower section of the staff, which projects immediately above the roof. A rope was rieved through this pully, and when everything was ready Mr. Dunlap asked Mr. Inches if he thought the knot he had tied around the flagstaff would hold.

"'It will hold forever,' replied Mr. Inches.

"Mr. Dunlap and the five or six men with him began to lower the upper portion of the staff, which was 45 or 50 feet in length, while Mr. Inches stood by on the roof and guided it. Suddenly the knot on the flagstaff began to loosen under the strain, and it slipped through the rope and came down as lightning, the ball of the staff striking Mr. Inches with such force that he was thrown from the roof and fell a distance of 90 feet. In his descent he turned twice in the air and struck on the rocks on the east side of the headworks with his hands outstretched and his head down. The impact was so forcible that the face from the month upward and the front portion of the skull were crushed like an egg shell, and his brains were scattered around where he fell.

"Death must have been instantaneous, for not a muscle of his body moved after he fell. The body was removed to the undertaking establishment of J. M Jordan

"Mr. Inches has been a resident of Rossland for the past ten years, and during that period has followed the occupation of carpenter.

"For seven or eight years past he has been constantly employed at the Le Roi. As a carpenter he had but few equals in the camp, and hence had steady employment. He was a model citizen in every respect, a kind father and husband, a man whose death is a great loss to this community.

"Mr. Inches was a native of Scotland and aged about 45 years. He leaves a widow and nine children, three sons and six daughters, to mourn his demise. Two daughters are married, Mrs. Dr. Proctor, of Victoria, and Mrs. Ernest Morrison of this city, while his oldest son, Robert Inches, is at present at Seward, Alaska. No inquest will be held as the cause of death was so plain that there is no necessity for an inquisition.

PROSPECTOR'S GUIDE

(By A. Harry Hook, Assayer.)

This week we will take up copper and its ores. During the last ten months the price of copper has been steadily rising and this has caused considerable interest being taken in the Boundary of good copper properties, and if the copper market continues to be strong it is probable that a great number of properties will be opened up within the next six months, especially up the North Fork of the Kettle river.

The demand for copper has kept up with the supply, owing chiefly to the great strides being taken in electrical development, which requires so much copper. Indeed, if copper went higher than at present, it would be in danger of being partially superseded at any rate by the newer and lighter metal, aluminium, for power lines.

Copper is the metal of the Boundary, and with the increase of capacity and lower costs of operation of the local smelters there is a bright future.

Next week our article will be on "Iron and Its Ores."

Copper was known and mined in ancient times. Phoenician relics have been found in the Rio Tinto copper mine, and it is known that the Romans got out large values. Copper is one of our most useful of metals. Without it the present high state of efficiency of electrical appliances could not have been attained. It is the base of most of the brass founders' alloys, such as brass, bronzes, argentan, etc. Pure copper is very ductile, and may be drawn out into very fine wire. It can not be well poured into moulds, because it contracts on cooling very unequally and does not fill out the moulds. For casting it is used with zinc, tin, etc. It has the property of having a high conductivity for electricity and is mainly used in electrical work. Copper is very easily soluble in dilute nitric acid, but hydrochloric acid hardly acts upon it. It forms two classes of salts, the cuprous and cupric, hence the various colors of copper ores and their great variety.

NATIVE COPPER.

This variety is found in great abundance around Houghton, Michigan. It has a hardness of 2.5-3 and specific gravity of 8.8-8.9. Its luster is metallic, color copper-red and streak metallic shining. It is composed of pure copper, often containing some silver, bismuth, mercury, etc. It dissolves readily in nitric acid, producing a deep azure blue solution with ammonia. Native copper occurs in beds and veins accompanying its various ores, especially cuprite, malachite and azurite; also with the sulphides, chalcopyrite, chalcosite, etc. It is also often abundant in the vicinity of dikes of igneous rocks, also in clay slate and sandstone. In the Lake Superior region, near Keweenaw Point, the copper occurs in both amygdaloidal dolerite and sandstone near the junction of these two rocks.

CHALCOPYRITE.

Sometimes called copper pyrites, is the most common ore of copper, especially in British Columbia. It has a metallic luster and its color is a deep brass yellow, often tarnished. It is readily distinguished from iron pyrites by being more easily scratched by a knife and by its having a deeper yellow color. This mineral is composed of copper 34.5 per cent, iron 30 5 per cent, sulphur 35 per cent, and is a sulphide of copper and iron. It may or may not contain gold or silver. It is soluble in nitric acid, forming a green solution which turns to azure blue on adding ammonia and allowing the precipitated metal to settle. Chalcopyrite is a widely disseminated mineral. It occurs in veins and deposits in gneiss and crystalline schists, also in serpentine rocks, often mixed with iron pyrites, siderite, tetrahedrite, etc., and sometimes with pyrrhotite, with nickel and cobalt sulphides, as at Sudbury, Ont.

BORNITE.

Bornite is sometimes called horseflesh copper or peacock copper ore. Its luster is metallic and color between copper red and brown or flesh fracture Its streak is pale grayish black. This mineral is composed of copper 55.5 per cent, iron 16.4 per cent, sulphur 28 1/4 per cent. and is a sulphide of copper and iron. It is distinguished from chalcocite by its familiar redish color. also varigated from purple to blue and often has a brilliant tarnish. This is rather a common ore of copper and is very brittle.

CHALCOCITE.

This mineral is generally called copper glance. It contains a high percentage of copper, being 79 8 per cent copper and 20.2 per cent sulphur. It has a metallic luster and color and streak blackish lead-gray, often tarnished blue or green. Chalcosite resembles argentite very much but is distinguished by being much more brittle. It is found massive at Butte City, Montana, in large quantities.

TETRAHEDRITE.

Or gray copper ore, has a metallic luster. Its color is between flint-gray and iron-black, and its streak is like the color inclining to brown and cherry-red. This mineral is rather brittle and contains 52.1 per cent of copper, 23.1 per cent sulphur and 24.8 per cent antimony. It is distinguished by its form, when crystallized, by its deep black color on fracture, and bright metallic luster. It is much softer than magnetite and is often associated with chalcopyrite, pyrite, sphalerite, galend and various other silver, lead and copper ores.

CUPRITE.

Commonly called red copper ore. It occurs massive, granular, and sometimes earthy. Its luster is adamantine or sub-metallic to earthy, and its color red of various shades, particularly cochineal red, sometimes almost black. The streak is several shades of brownish red, shining. It resembles hematite, but is softer, and does not become magnetic in reducing flame. It is somewhat like cinnabar but differs in the color of its streak and also in its blowpipe reactions. Cuprite is composed of copper 88.8 per cent, oxygen, 1 2 per cent.

MALACHITE.

This mineral is a basic carbonate of copper and contains 57.4 per cent copper. The luster of its crystals is adamantine inclining to vitreous; of fibrous varieties, more or less silky. The color is bright green and streak pale green. It occurs commonly along with other copper ores and as a product of their alteration. It is distinguished by its green color and by its effervescecce in acids.

AZURITE.

Azurite is also a base carbonate of copper. It contains 55.2 per cent copper but has an azure blue color. Its luster is vitreous, almost adamantine, and its streak is blue, slightly lighter than copper. It also occurs along with other ores of copper and as a product of their decomposition.

BOND THE RUBY

Local Company Secures Another Promising Copper Claim.

The B. C. Copper Co., Ltd., have secured an eighteen months' working bond on the Ruby claim and will shortly start active development work. The Ruby is situated near Boundary Falls and is a chalco-pyrite proposition carrying copper and gold. Considerable development work was done some years ago and the results then obtained indicate that it will probably develop into a profitable mine,

During the past few months the B. C. Copper Co. have been remarkably active in securing several promising claims within easy working distance of their smelter. Among the claims secured are Oro Denoro, B. C. Copper and the Lone Star and Washington groups in the state of Washington.

BAND CONCERT

The Greenwood band gave a most successful entertainment in the Auditorium last night. The audience though not large comfortably filled the hall and were highly pleased with the excellent numbers rendered by the skilful musicians. Mrs Oliver, Mrs Frith and Miss Hallett rendered a vocal trio in a highly acceptable manner and Miss Beldon's cello solo was much enjoyed, Mrs Oliver also rendered a vocal solo. The Misses Henwood was to have rendered a vocal duet but were unable to be present much to the disappointment of the audience.

THE COPPER MARKET

NEW YORK, July 26—The metal market shows a slightly improved tone. This is due rather to the united stand of the producing interests than to any increase in the buying demand. Lake copper is being held firmly at 18¾ cents and electrolytic at 18½ cents per pound, and some small lots have been sold at these prices this week. No disposition to get nervous is discoverable among the producers. Spot copper is exceedingly scarce and the output of the mines is sold up to the middle of September.

Saved His Comrade's Life.

"While returning from the Grand Army encampment at Washington City, a comrade from Elgin, Ill., was taken with cholera morbus and was in a critical condition," says Mr. J. E. Houghland, of Eldon, Iowa. "I gave him Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and believe saved his life. I have been engaged for ten years in immigration work and conducted many parties to the south and west I always carry this remedy and have used it successfully on many occasions." Sold by all druggists.

THE STOCK MARKET

Le Roi Shares Touch a High Mark. White Bear Sales.

Le Roi shares reached the highest point in the last four months when £1 17s 6d. was quoted a few days ago on the London market. Four months ago the price was quoted one shilling higher, but this week's quotation is the highest since then. Quite a number consider the shares worth at least £2 each, and are not inclined to sell for less.

A few thousand shares of White Bear have changed hands during the past week and the price is 5¾ cents for fully paid up stock. The mine will resume shipments this week. It will probably be on a small scale at first.

There have been some fairly large sales of Sullivan of late. The price is 3½ cents asked and 2⅝ cents bid.

NATION BUILDING

Learned Address Delivered by Prof. Kilpatrick Monday Night.

Rev. Professor Kilpatrick, of Knox College, Toronto, delivered a splendid address before a fairly good-sized audience in the Presbyterian church last Monday night on the subject, "The Building of a Nation; Its Problems and Ideals." Duncan Ross, M. P., occupied the chair, and in fitting terms introduced the speaker, who proceeded at once to deal with his subject in a comprehensive and exhaustive manner. He began by pointing out the great heritage Canada has in her people. The Saxon race was rich in the accumulated strength of centuries, reinforced by the many qualities introduced in times past by other peoples who had mixed with them. The so-called pure races were the weaklings of the earth; the mixed races were the rulers of the world today. In the building of a nation he recognized the necessity of accumulating wealth, but he declared that sordid wealth without the redeeming elements of education and culture were an abomination and a menace to any country.

There was great necessity for more thorough and popular education. The people of British Columbia had before them the opportunity to establish a system which would make it possible that every boy and girl receive as good an education as their capabilities warranted.

In the course of his address Mr. Kildatrick emphasized an important problem in nation building when he referred to the deplorable lack of public spirit in Western Canada, especially. He declared that the man who had no interest in the country or town in which he lived, beyond the mere money he was able to accumulate therein, was unworthy of the protection and privileges its laws and institutions afforded.

Throughout his whole address the speaker appealed to the best and highest instincts in human nature and decried the prevalence of indifference, prejudice and ignorance of those elements most important to the building of a nation. The meeting closed with "God Save the King," after which refreshments were served.

SEEKING FOR COPPER

W. T. Smith is Prospecting in the Yellowhead Pass.

W. T. Smith, one of the pioneers of the Boundary, is off an a prospecting trip to the Yellowhead pass. A short time ago Northwest mounted police followed a fugitive from justice into the pass and on the return trip one of the party discovered some very rich copper float. The attention of Mr. McMichael, chief inspector of customs, was drawn to this specimen. Mr. McMichael is interested in the Big Copper and other copper mines in the Boundary, and as he therefore knows rich copper ore when he sees it, he persuaded Mr. Smith to go into the pass and endeavor to locate the ledge whence the float came. The mision is no new one for "W. T." He has been a pathfinder in many a camp. He was one of the first in the Boundary and it is quite possible that when the history of Northern British Columbia is written, when several transcontinental lines of railway find their way through the Rockies by means of the Yellowhead pass, he will receive the credit for having discovered a new and rich mining district adjacent thereto. Mr. Smith went into the Yellowhead via Calgary and Edmonton. As the information which he received is necessarily somewhat indefinite, it may take him some time to discover what he is seeking.

FIRE ALARM SYSTEM

Steps will be Taken to Install Up-to-Date Equipment.

At the council meeting held last Monday night Alderman McRae gave notice that he would introduce a bylaw at the next meeting to appropriate $1,000 from the money borrowed for waterworks purposes to be used for the installation of a new fire alarm system. The question of puting in an alarm system to meet the needs of the town was thoroughly discussed in the council early in the year and it was practically decided that an electric system should he installed as soon as sufficient money could be spared for the purpose.

The grade by-law changing the grade of Kimberly avenue between Deadwood and Providence street between Copper street and Kimberley ave. was adoped and finally passed. The acting mayor and the city clerk were authorized to sign, on behalf of the city, the agreement between the city and C. Scott Galloway releasing the former from any damages that may arise from changing the street grade in front of the latter's residence. The superintendent of waterworks was instructed to repair and clean the Twin creek tank and to make the pernament intake on Lynn creek without delay. Ald. Wood asked for two months leave absence. Granted. Council adjourned to meet in two weeks.

A BIG GRAND STAND

Seating Capacity for 5,000 People at Spokane Fair.

The enlarged grand stand at the Spokane Interstate fair this year will accommodate 7,000 people and will furnish actual seating capacity for at least 5,000. This means its capacity is nearly double what it was before. The grand stand was crowded to its utmost limits several times last year, and it is believed that with greater accommodations in this respect, the crowds which witness the races will be much larger than at any time in the past. Seven thousand dollars have been expended in enlarging the grand stand. The stairway has also been changed so that it will come to the top of the grand stand and avoid all the confusion which usually prevailed last year around the center of the building where people were constantly coming and going Chairs are being installed to take the place of the benches which were used last year for reserved seats. This will be a big improvement, and will be greatly appreciated by patrons.

These improvements in the grand stand will be enjoyed by the crowds which attempt to see the races on Derby day and on other special occasions. With this grand stand filled with 7,000 cheering people, if the horses are not able to run, it will not be because they have not enthusiastic backers. In fact there is everything to indicate Spokane will have the finest racing this year ever held.

Old Chronic Sores.

As a dressing for old chronic sores there is nothing so good as Chamberlain's salve. While it is not advisable to heal old sores entirely, they should be kept in a good condition for which this salve is especially valuable. For sale by all druggists.

SOCIALISM EXPOSED

The land was not then C. P. R. land. It was Crown land. The C. P. R. had no more right there than the speaker but knowing full well what the government and Mr. Hawthornthwaite was going to do three months hence, it had the effrontery in a British province to send an armed force to drive a rival railway company from the lands of the Crown. Three months after a bill was introduced in the local legislature to give this land to the Canadian Pacific Railway, over 800,000 acres of land—land to which in law and equity it was not entitled and the valiant promoter of this rascally legislation was Mr. J. H. Hawthornthwaite. He did this on the plea that workingmen didn't own the land anyway, therefore the proper thing to do was to give it to the C. P. R. This is the Socialism which J. H. Hawthornthwaite preaches in the legislature of the Province of British Columbia. It is not the socialism which he preaches to the people of Greenwood. (Applause.)

This same J. H. Hawthornthwaite was one of the first to support a measure increasing the taxes on the poor farmers to provide the necessary funds to support an emasculated educational system in this province, but he held up his hands in holy horror when it was suggested that the three and a half million of acres of B. C. Southern lands, owned by the C. P. R., should be taxed in accordance with the expressed conditions under which it was granted. Tax the poor farmer all you will, but never, never tax the Canadian Pacific Railway lands. This is the Socialism practiced by J. H. Hawthornthwaite in the legislature in the Province of British Columbia. It isn't the Socialism which he preaches to the workingmen of Greenwood. (Applause.)

Then Mr. Hawthornthwaite is particularly enamored of the Kai-en Island deal. These lands were under reserve against South African war script, but there was no reservation against Mrs. Jimmy Anderson. The McBride government would grant no fiat to those who wished to defend their right in the courts. They placed a new reserve on Kai-en Island although the old was valid against locations. They gave the band of adventurers (male and female) an opportunity to exploit lands which were illegally denied to South African veterans, and J. H. Hawthornthwaite fully endorses the whole transaction, government, adventurers (male and female), lawyers and all. Nothing in connection with the Kai-en Island deal escaped the commendation of this truly great Socialist leader. This is the Socialism which he preaches at Victoria. It isn't the Socialism which he preaches to the people of Greenwood. (Applause.)

J. H. Hawthornthwaite is not only the greatest political curiosity in public life today, but he is also the greatest political fakir in provincial politics today. (Loud applause.) In conclusion Mr. Ross stated while many in the audience were honestly mistaken in their ideas that Socialism was the true panacea for present ills, no one could be deceived by the Socialism of J. H. Hawthornthwaite.

When Mr. Hawthornthwaite rose to reply he was furiously angry. He called Messrs. Brown and Ross "dickie birds," "ducks," "suckers" and several other endearing terms. He launched into a heated and labored defence of the McBride government, particularly Mr. Green and his connection with the Kai-en Island deal. He called the Midway & Vernon promoters cheap skates and charter mongers. He claimed the South African volunteers didn't go to South Africa to fight for Queen and country, but for Joe Chamberlain and Chinese labor in the Transvaal. He glossed over as gingerly as possible the indictment against his own record in the house.

Mr. Hawthornthwaite spoke Wednesday night at Boundary Falls and Thursday at Midway.
