TIMES HAVE CHANGED.

There are many people in British Columbia to whom the condition of things as they were a decade ago give but little concern. The reason is that they were not here in the country and have had no experience of the manner in which things were run to the detriment of all business and the consequent hardship to the workman.

Before the Liberal party was given control the plight of the western people was desperate indeed. The sparse population of the territories could not support the one line of railway they then had and they were taxed to death with exorbitant rates. British Columbia was practically an unknown land and all the west was simply marking time when Laurier took the reins.

going on is on the same lines exactly, and the great regret is that while it can work no benefit to those engaged in it the reputation of the country will suffer to the extent of the impression these traducers of our public men may be able to make. Neither Mr. Ross nor Mr. Burrell needs any introduction to the people and no charges of theft or high treason have as yet been preferred in Yale-Cariboo.

Cold weather is setting in on the Yukon and the winter postal service will go into effect at once. R. L. Coombs, manager C.P.R. telegraph office at Nelson, was drowned in Granite Rapids. The C.P.R. will run a double daily service between Vancouver and Winnipeg all winter.

That our American forests abound in plants which possess the most valuable medicinal virtues is abundantly attested by scores of the most eminent medical writers and teachers. Even the untamed Indians had discovered the usefulness of many native plants before the advent of the white race.

Stage Runaway.

The Beaverdell - Greenwood stage got into trouble near Rock Creek on Wednesday. The driver had occasion to call at a wayside ranch and handed the lines to a passenger who was not accustomed to the numerous strings that connect a stage-driver and his outfit.

The stage was overturned and badly smashed but the accommodating gentleman was luckily unhurt.

Back from Telkwa.

Prospector Ben Petersen, an old-timer in the Boundary and particularly the West Fork, has returned from his second trip to the Telkwa country. Along with his partners, Al. Faulkner and "Sour-dough" McKay he left Greenwood last spring and travelled via Ashcroft with pack horses to the claims which they had staked the year before on the Telkwa river a tributary of the Bulkeley.

Faulkner and Peterson did the assessments on their group while McKay pushed on to McConnell Creek in the Findlay river country, where Tom King, a former partner of Petersen's and who went in a year ago last spring, is said to be washing out an ounce of gold a day.

Their copper claims are close to the Telkwa Mining Co's. property and show an exceptionally fine strike of sulphide ore with considerable high grade boronite, and great hopes are entertained for this new region when the Grand Trunk Pacific goes through.

There are many more prospectors in there than ever before, and a lot of people are going into the Bulkeley and Fort George districts.

Mr. Petersen say it is a splendid country, particularly the Nechaco Valley, though the Bulkeley and Nechaco have practically all been taken up, much of it being covered with soldier's scrip.

On his way out Mr. Peterson made a location on the new strike nine miles from Hazelton which he thinks will be a successful camp.

This ore is very similar to the Wallace Mountain silver-lead, and one outfit who have staked a group of claims there will work all winter.

Mr. Peterson will spend the winter on Boundary properties and go north again in the spring.
