Elegant Supper Served at the Windsor Hotel

Merry-Makers Dance Uutil a Late Hour

It would certainly be an odd occurrence if this fraternal society, Boundary Valley Lodge, turned out anything different at their annual ball, (which is conceded to be the real thing in dances) the event of the season and the committee may feel that their efforts in all particulart were most successful and the verdict of all who had the pleasure of being among the many participants, that it was emphatically, a "bang up" evening pleasure.

Eighty-five to ninety couples were present, and the music from the excellent Bush orchestra, was extra good, and matron and maid, old gents as well as the younger generations felt the music in their bones and had to get moving to the music. Floor manager Fleming acquitted himself nobly. All the officers were most dilligent in their efforts to please their guests. They did it most acceptably. Dancing started at 9:30 p. m., and continued till 3:30 a. m. An intermission for supper at midnight made an enjoyable break which was taken advantage of by nearly 100 couples who hit the trail for the Windsor, where one of the finest spreads ever put on the table greeted the guests. Cartier done well, he could not have done better, it was splendid and went to the spot.

The Oddfellows can just score one more highly successful treat to their friends. It was a big success in every way.

British and American Justice

The Seattle Times is moved by the Crippen case to contrast British and American justice, The Times says:

"In the case of Crippen, the Crown proved a very strong case. It proved that Mrs. Crippen had disappeared—that her husband was unable to give any satisfactory explanation of her whereabouts—that there were the remnants of a human body found buried in Crippen's cellar—that there were traces of a rare poison called hyoscine in this body—that Crippen had purchased this poison and that he was not able to explain satisfactorily what he had done with it. On the other hand, the Crown was not able to prove that Mrs. Crippen was dead—that the body found was even a female's body, or that Dr. Crippen had not sought to flee merely because he saw trouble in store for him and an opportunity to avoid a scandal. The point is that in the English courts the procedure is such that it is enough for the prosecutor to prove the main facts and to demand that the defendant explain them away if he can."

Thus justice in the States: "There would be no chance whatever of convicting a man of hanging murder in this country without at least proving that the victim of the murder was dead. Cook county, Illinois, spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in an effort to prove that Adolph Luetgert murdered his wife and dissolved her body in lye in a sausage vat. The State's attorney demanded the man's death in two long and costly trials, and yet no jury could get around the picture painted by the attorneys for the defense of the woman walking into court after the man had been hanged to reprove them for their hasty action. The State could not prove her death."

This is the conclusion reached by our Seattle contemporary: "Summing it all up, we believe that the English system is too fast and too severe and that our system is too slow and too lenient. Ideal law would be a system which would take the middle ground—which would take something of the speed and severity out of the punishment accorded the accused man in England and a little of the rights of the delay accorded the accused in this country."

Farmers Marketing Grain

The movement of grain to the head of the Canadian lakes exceeds in volume all other years. Already 22,000,000 bushels have gone through Winnipeg for export via water route this fall. All other traffic is being sidetracked for the grain rush. Even passenger travel gives way to fast grain trains.

The opening of traffic on the Grand Trunk Pacific from Edmonton to Fort William has expedited the grain movement largely. High prices caused farmers to release all their grain instead of holding the chief volume for later sale.

The visit to Ottawa of 100 members of grain growers' organizations next week regarding government ownership of terminals at Fort William is the chief topic of conversation among the grain men of the Canadian Northwest at present.

No Overtures From Canada

"Any proposals the United States may make for reciprocity with Canada will receive careful consideration from the Dominion government, but the attitude of the Canadian people now is 'to let well enough alone.'"

This was the opinion expressed by Sir Frederick W. Borden, minister of militia and defence of Canada at the Inter-Colonial club at Boston.

"In view of the constant rebuffs which the Canadian statesmen have received from the United States in their efforts to secure more amicable tariff relations," he said, "Canada will make no overtures to this country and any reciprocity treaty which the United States may offer will have to be in the best interests of all Canadians before it will be adopted."

Remember the Date

The ladies of St. Jude's Guild will hold their annual Bazaar and High Tea in the Auditorium on Nov. 16th, afternoon and evening. There will be booths of fancy work, home-made candy, home-made jams and pickles, flowers and a Xmas tea for the children. High tea will be served from 5:30 until 7:30, followed by a program of music and childrens' drill, fancy dances, singing, etc., and end with a dance. Afternoon free. Admission to High Tea and dance, 50c; children 25c. Everybody come.

Fresh fish, oysters and shell fish at the Windsor.

MINES AND MINING

Ymir camp is particularly busy at the present time.

The Le Roy mine is now offered for sale. Its first cost was probably a million dollars.

The Mother Lode staff of workers has been increased, so that the daily output will total 1500 tons.

Operations at the Fife mines are temporarily suspended pending installation of larger machinery.

A great strike of galena thirty inches wide has been unearthed at the Blue Bird mine at Rossland District.

The district shipments were: Boundary, 28,409 tons; Slocan-Kootenay, 5,927 tons and Rossland, 4,619 tons.

Between the 20th and the 26th of October the Boundary mines shipped 27,925 tons of ore, and for the present year 1,346,507 tons.

The smelters report the following receipts: The B. C. C. Co., Greenwood, for the past week, 11,678 tons, and for the year to date, 314,350 tons; Granby smelter receipts, Grand Forks, 13,485 tons for the past week, and 910,139 tons for the past year.

Commenting on the copper situation, the Boston Commercial states: "On very slight reaction bought. Prices are lower now than they are likely to be again for several years. Monthly metal statistics promise to be increasingly favorable for a long period of time, assuring continued and growing speculative interest in copper shares."

Last week the Consolidated Company's smelter at Trail received the following amounts of ore in addition to the tonnage from Rossland: St. Eugene, 150 tons; Snowshoe, 2,131 tons; Richmond-Eureka, 59 tons; Yankee Girl, 85 tons; Molly Hughes, 34 tons; Sullivan, 838 tons; No. Seven, 31 tons.

The Granby smelter at Grand Forks received from the company's mines at Phoenix, 13,646 tons of ore.

Messrs. Thompson, Towle & Co., of New York, in their letter, say: "We are very optimistic as to the copper situation, and believe that 13 1-4c copper is a possibility before the close of the year. This would only be 3-8c above the present prices and would not be sufficient to check consumption, but would add very materially to the profits of the producing companies who have not been able to make an adequate return on the capital invested, to say nothing of the liquidation of assets.

Prices and the Public

There is still a merchant here and there who acts as if he thought the public ought to know what he has in his store without being told about it. Here is a case in point:

A newspaper representative dropped into a store the other day, and during the conversation the inevitable subject of department stores cropped up. Picking up an article, the merchant said: "There is an article I am selling cheaper than any of the department stores. I know it from actual investigation."

"That may be true," replied the newspaper man, "and I believe it is so; but you are not advertising the fact."

The thrust was a just one. The merchant was a non-advertiser. It is hoped the incident will bring about a change of heart.

This is not an isolated case. There are others in a similar position, but there are too many of them who never seem to think of heralding the fact abroad. They seem to think the public are mind readers and should know without being told that they can buy to better advantage at home than sending east.

Advertising is telling the news of the merchandise which the merchant or the manufacturer has for sale. Every business man who makes or keeps an article for sale has this news to tell. If he does not know it and refrains from announcing it in the columns of the local newspaper, he is either asleep or in need of a little education regarding the place of advertising in modern business methods.

Tree Growing

Why not grow your own maple and ash trees for yourself, if you want to make forest plantations, or even to plant shade trees? Anyone who has had any experience in gardening can do this without difficulty and the trees, when they come to be planted, will not have to meet the risk of a long journey by railway and possibly delays which may injure and possibly kill them. The Forestry branch of the department of the interior will gladly give advice in the matter, and even send the seed free, as long as their supply holds out.

This recommendation is made in the annual report of the Superintendent of Foresty, which forms part of the annual report of the department of the interior, lately issued.

One caution must, however, be given. The seed used should always, if possible, be taken from trees grown in the Canadian Northwest. Seed obtained from trees grown in the eastern provinces of the Dominion, or even from the prairie states, cannot be depended on to produce good, hardy trees.

Heavy damanages have been awarded Waterland of the Miners hotel, for damanages done his property by the recent high water and which the city is responsible for.

Rev. Father Palmer was presented with a purse and address by his Grand Forks parishioners and which happy event was duplicated at Greenwood. It is noteworthy that in both cases that the money value was without hesitation placed to the credit of the respective churches whose members had subscribed to the gift.

Parents of Boy Scouts

It is requested that all uniforms and other equipment issued to the boys be returned to the B. C. hotel next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. It is very much regretted that such a course has to be taken, but owing to the continuous complaints of rowdyism, etc., which do not agree with the teachings of the organization, I am compelled to take this step.

ROBERT G. HARGRAVES,
Scoutmaster.

Comment: The above is certainly most regrettable. Of course there are black sheep in all flocks, but when so large a number of the "premier's own" are really first-class boys, it seems a pity that the corps may end by disbandment. But we trust that with the elimination of the undesirables that the good work may be kept up and Scoutmaster Hargraves receive all the assistance in so doing that he most decidedly merits.—Editor.

SITUATION IN QUEBEC

The other fellow, in essentials, is not vastly different from oneself, and indeed we are all so much alike that the differances are relatively unimportant. It would be well for a good many people to bear this elementary truth in mind before dogmasting about the situation that has lately developed in Quebec. The chances are that if the average English speaking person found himself in a community partly or even largely French-speaking he would feel it his duty to see that his children availed themselves of the opportunity to learn French. He would take proper care that they learned English too. But if some one would come along with a proposition that his children must learn French and must not be taught English—well, on all the history of the people who came hither from England, Ireland and Scotland it would not be silenced short of trouble. The man who speaks French no doubt feels very much the same way about it. Learn English? Yes, by all means, where there is half a chance. But be deprived of the right to have one's children learn French? Not while resistance can be offered. Natural and manful enough, isn't it?

It may be quite proper to aspire to the ultimate displacement of French by English on this continent as best for all concerned. But surely the latest knowledge of human nature would suggest that much the easiest road to the goal is by inducing people to talk English, not by trying to bully them into it, which produces an inevitable and very definite reaction.

There have been a dozen manifestations of this reaction, intensified perhaps into direct action itself, in the last few weeks. Any shrewd observer can discern that there is rapidly taking form in Quebec, with Montreal as a center, a concentration of purpose upon the intensely natural and human resolve that one's children should be taught the language one learned from his mother, this concentration being largely due to the variety of suggestions coming from outside quarters that this most natural course is in some way to be considered reprehensible. Of course it is all a passing phase. French children will continue to learn French and an increasing percentage of them will learn English too. Rome will continue to name bishops for Catholic sees. School systems will tend to conform their teaching to the needs of the pupils. Banks will be organized, maintained, governed and supported very much as in the past, with many motives and many interests involved. The only phase in which tomorrow promises to differ much from yesterday is in the consolidation of a great political primary and secondary leadership, and a following held by the strongest of sentimental ties. Any politician who cannot see that evolution going on in Quebec must be blind at least in one eye.

WOMEN AND BUSINESS

After thirty years devoted with much success to the real estate business, Mrs. Agnes Mulligan, a member of the New York Real Estate Exchange, advised Women not to engage in business. Physical limitations and the danger of losing the ideals that are necessary for home life and the proper upbringing of children, are reasons assigned by Mrs. Mulligan for her conclusions.

"Thirty years of business," she says, "have convinced me that women's sphere is home and motherhood, not business. I have five girls, the eldest 17 years old, the youngest two months, and I should consider it the greatest calamity if one of them went into business. I did it because I had to. It was necessary to take up my father's work upon his death."

This line of reasoning will, perhaps explain why more women do not seek to engage in business for themselves. In public schools and in commercial colleges all over this continent young women are taught book-keeping, typewriting, stenography and business methads. Hundreds of thousands of young women are earning a livelihood by working in business offices, whefe they soon learn the details of trade. Considering the great army of young women so employed it is remarkable that more of them do not advance to a point where they will become partners of their employers or officers of employing corporations.

Probably the explanation is that the employment thus afforded is only regarded so temporary, and that every girl notwithstanding her daily occupation in the business world, looks forward to the time when she will become a wife and preside over a home. The domestic instinct is not smothered or deadened by toil that is necessary for self-support.

Experience in the business world does not, as all see, unfit a women for domestic life. The girl who has battled with the world, maintained her self-respect and the esteem of others, is all the better able to take care of herself as a wife and mother by reason of her early experience. The struggle has taught her to comprehend the value of money and very likely she has acquired the desirable habit of saving a part of her weekly wage, traits which a husband, the bread-winner of the household, will appreciate.

Thousands of working women will appreciete Mrs. Mulligan's advice, making their present occupation merely a stepping stone to that higher life, for both men and women—the family circle.

DANDRUFF GERMS MUST GO

In Canada the dandruff germs must go. The war of extermination has been declared. The battle has begun, and already thousands of intelligent Canadians have permanently rid themselves of this filthiness.

To day it is no more necessary for a man to have dandruff in his hair than to have tartar on his teeth.

Dandruff can never be cured until the small, aggravating and indominable dandruff germ is conquered and destroyed.

And millions of dandruff germs have been destroyed, thanks to the great scientist and dermatologist who gave to the world Parisian Sage, the only real dandruff cure and hair grower the world has ever known.

If you have dandruff, Parisian Sage will cure you in two weeks.

But besides ridding the scalp of daudruff, Parisian Sage is guaranteed to stop falling hair and itching of the scalp. It is not a dye. It is a prime favorite with women of refinement. It makes the hair soft, lustrous and beautiful, and is not sticky or greasy.

VIEWS ON HOME RULE

Joseph Martin Comments on O'Connor's Speech

I was much surprised to hear Mr. T. P. O'Connor advocate an imperial parliament, including the colonies at the home rule meeting last night. He wants Canada to put her head into the noose that he is eadeavoring to extricate Ireland from. The connection between Canada and the mother country now is ideal. Ireland is representated at Westminster but that does not reconcile her to having Irish questions decided by the parliament of the United Kingdom. As you point out in your editorial today, Mr. O'Conner's suggestion is just the opposite of home rule. In any imperial parliament Canada would be in a helpless minority and yet would have to submit to the majority and would have to pay any taxes levied.

There is a great difference of opinion throughout Canada on the question of the navy and of imperial defence. Under Mr. O'Connor's proposal these questions would be decided for us by the imperial parliament.

Let Canada never part with her autonomy in all matters Canadian, including imperial defence, or else trouble will come sooner or later and we will have the old fight over again of the colony against Downing street.

What would Canada gain by having representatives at Westminster Hall? More knighthoods, and perhaps some peers and nothing else. In return we would have to give up our right to decide most important questions for ourselves. What would the empire gain from such a change? Nothing but the onerous duty of trying to settle colonial questions without any proper knowledge of the real feelings and wishes of the people in the various colonies.

But it may be said that the representatives of each colony would keep the imperial parliament properly informed. Not while we have the kind of men putting themselves forward for public office to which we have become accustomed in Canada and not until graft had been got rid of in the political field.—Joseph Martin in the Vancouver News-Advertiser, Oct. 19.

If you are a subscriber of the Times and not paid up, $2.00 from you would be very acceptable.

BOARD OF CONTROL

Commission Plan of City Government is Popular

The essential difference between city government by commission and by board of control is that the latter has greater responsibility to the people. There is a good deal to be said for an independent and even an autocratic administration, both for cities and countries. A wise and benevolent dispotism may give the best possible material results for what it costs, while it saves the people the trouble of considering and determining any public questions. Thus one writes to say that the board of control method is unsatisfactory because the controller could do nothing without going to the council for permission to expend money. To most advocates of responsible government this is not an objection. Do the people wish to give either commissioners or controllers indefinite power to spend money? The power is not given to the government of Canada or of Great Britain or the United States, or even of Germany. The power of the purse in national affairs remains with parliament, and usually with the elected representatives of the people. It may be found that a large board of alderman is not the best authority to carry out the details of the business of a city. But it is a quite different thing to say that the elected representatives of the people should determine how the city revenue should be raised and give the authority for the expenditure.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of woman is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

A MODERN MIRACLE

FACTS SHOWS HOW ZAM-BUK CURES ARE PERMANENT

1. He had Eczema for 25 years.
2. His hands were so bad he had to wear gloves day and night.
3. Doctors said he could never be cured.
4. For 25 years he tried for cure in vain.
5. Then he tried ZAM-BUK.
6. ZAM-BUK cured him.
7. TO-DAY, three years after his cure, he says: "I AM STILL CURED there has been no return."

Mr. T. M. Marsh of 101 Delorimier Ave., Montreal, has had this wonderful experience of Zam-Buk. Mr. Marsh has lived in Montreal for over 30 years, many of them at his present address. He is well known and is willing to satisfy any enquirer as to the genuineness of his cure. He suffered 25 years from eczema in the hands and had to wear gloves day and night, the itching was so terrible when the air got to the sores. Doctors said there was no cure. Three years ago Zam-Buk cured him. Interviewed a few weeks ago he said:—

"From the day I was cured by Zam-Buk to the present moment I have had no trace of the eczema and feel sure it will never return. When I think of the marvellous cure Zam-Buk worked in my case I am more and more impressed by the value of this great household balm. I have had letters of enquiry from all over Canada, and am glad to personally corroborate the published facts of my cure."

It is by working cures like this that Zam-Buk has won for itself a world-wide reputation. Unequalled for ulcers, abscesses, piles, blood-poison, inflamed sores, cold cracks, chapped hands, babies' eruptions, varicose ulcers, burns, cuts, etc. All druggists and stores at 50c box, or Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, for price.

Unnecessary Delys

In regard to the general clamor throughtout B. C. for adjustment of the land registery offices the Kamloops Standard says editorially:

"Every little hole and corner in the interior is howling for a registery office, and the excuse for the howl seems to be that the Kamloops registery office is three months behind with the work. If some of those who are unreasonable asking for the establishment of new offices were compelled to do business in Vancouver, where they are over a year behind, or in any other offices where they are from five to seven months behind, they might have some reason for their kick. As it is, the Kamloops office, badly unmanned as it is, has kept nearer up to date than any of the others in the province. The trouble simply lies in the system itself, which is bound to cause delays whenever there is an unusual rush of business."

We do not know anything about the condition of affairs in the registery office in Kamloops, although the Standard seems to admit that there is cause for complaint there, but there is never smoke without fire and the complaints of the provincial are fully justified. As we said before we do no know what Kamloops is doing, but of all the holes and corners who have registery offices were to carry out their work in a business like manner, there would probably be nothing to complain of. As for the system causing delays if that is so, then those responsible for it should see that it is put right.

Spend Your Money at Home.

If you spend a dollar in your own town, part of it, assuming that you are engaged in business, finds a path back to your individual coffers. If you send a dollar to other sections, all of it is apt to stay there. You have depleted to that extent your community's working capital.

A stream of money flows daily from British Columbia into the United States. This, of course, has a weakening effect upon local finance and commerce. The outgo means less capital here for business.

Each of us whose fortunes depend upon those of British Columbia, owes it to himself to exert an influence toward keeping more of this money where it will stimulate our own industries. If you are making a purchase and there is little choice between the goods or articles, let your decision be in favor of the product which is adding to the home wealth, rather than to that of manufacturers at a distance. You may regard as unimportant your own influence in this matter of buying, feeling that you are only an individual among many thousands, but you can help. There are great manufacturing possibilites in British Columbia, and development means, of course, bigger and richer cities, more opportunities and more money for all who are industrious. Keep this in mind. Lend what aid you can to the progress of your own community.—"Opportunities."

LORD MOUNT STEPHEN

The Career of a Great Canadian

The greatest philanthropist of Canada is Lord Mount Stephen; the greatest benefactor of the United States is Andrew Carnegie—both men who came to the new world as poor boys from the east of Scotland, have made great fortunes and have spread with lavish hand their accumulated wealth.

When George Stephen, the son of a poor carpenter in the small Scotch village of Dufftown was born in 1829, the outlook for a great success seemed surely dim and improbable. When, after completing the course at the little parish school he undertook to earn his living as herd-boy on the minister's farm in the glen, no vision came to him of the time when he would be known as a Lord, high in the councils of State, the friend of the King and the benefactor of his people. Then came an uncontrollable desire to see the larger world, and as an apprentice in the drapery trade he went to Aberdeen, and later to Glasgow and London. In 1850 he left England for Canada, where he engaged in the woolen business, and in a few years was well on the high road to prosperity.

In Canada he found his cousin, Donald Smith, later Lord Strathcona, and the two Highlanders who had played together as boys, joined issues, and soon, like the meeting of two brooks, their united efforts flowed in one channel. Both were directors in the Bank of Montreal, both are interested in railways, and both have achieved fame as philanthropists, statesmen, art connoisseurs and in diplomatic circles. In 1875 Lord Mount Stephen joined a syndicate for purchasing the bonds of the Dutch stockholders of the St. Paul and Pacific Railroad, which, when completed, controlled the Northwest of Canada.

When British Columbia entered the Dominion it was with the understanding that the Government would build a railroad across the continent. The Government failed sadly in its plans; in 1880, one year before the entire road should have been ready, only 700 of its nearly 3,000 miles were completed. Chaos prevailed and collapse was imminent. Then Lords Mount Stephen and Strathcona came forward and for a subsidy of $25,000,000, full title to the section already built, and a land grant of twenty-five million acres—a territory as large as Ireland and Wales—they promised to join the two oceans within eleven years. They accomplished this task in five. Lord Mount Stephen was made a baronet in 1886 and five years later was raised to the peerage with his present title, which was taken from a mountain near the railroad that his energy and enterprise helped to create.

Entered according to Act of the Parliament of Canada, in the year 1905, by W. C. Mack, at the Department of Agriculture.

MAGNET
Wood Furnace

The McClary Magnet Wood Furnace has a fire-box opening that admits the largest chunks of wood with ease—wide, deep, generous in size as the Magnet is in quality of material and workmanship. The wide opening saves you work, because you can use wood that you would have to saw and split to get through the narrow, shallow fire-box openings of ordinary wood furnaces.

Instead of making the fuel fit the door, the Magnet door is made to fit the fuel.

It is just as easy to get the ashes out of a Magnet as it is to put fuel in; because the opening of the ashpit is just as generous as the fire-box opening. You can get at the farthest corner and remove the ashes with ease and speed—no turning and twisting; no trouble nor inconvenience. These two advantages are good reasons why you ought to use a Magnet. The McClary agent in the nearest town will welcome the chance to give you many more. Write to the nearest McClary branch for booklet.
