CAUGHT IN CHUTE

Alexander Dawson Meets His Death

ACCIDENT AT RAWHIDE MINE

A Rock Suddenly Dislodged Pins Him Against Bumping Block— Death Ensues

Pinned between the bumping block and a fall of rock, Alexander Dawson, met his death in Rawhide Mine on Wednesday morning shortly before two o'clock. Dawson was mucker boss and had gone up into Chute No. 3 which was partly blocked up, to place the charge to remove an obstructing rock. He was caught between the block and the rock and death followed almost immediately. Dr. J. D. MacLean, physician of the Dominion Copper Co., who own the mine, was called but nothing could be done. It took an hour to get his body free. This was done by cutting away the bumping block with an axe.

Deceased had been employed in the mine on the work of which he was in charge at the time of his death for 7 or 8 months. He was considered to be thoroughly competent for the position. He had been a regular and careful workman but as he could save time by going up into the chute, had done so previously and had been warned that in doing so he took all the chances.

Dawson lived in a cabin near the mine with two other men. He was a native of Aberdeen, Scotland, and was 22 years of age.

The evidence at the inquest held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock before Coroner Black tells the story of the fatal night.

Peter Motich who was working under Dawson at the time of the accident when sworn said: "Deceased was my boss. The chute was blocked. Muck was hung up in the chute. Mucker boss got three sticks of powder and started to go into the chute to put the powder to the big rock. He was putting the powder in on top of the big rock when the muck started to slide down and caught him pinning him between the block and the big rock. His back was against the block and the rock was pressed against his neck. He struggled a little to get free but did'nt cry out. I called the other people who were about 300 feet away to come. I was alone with him at the time. I never go up into the chute, I have no business there. Mucker boss goes up. The powder was not fired, he had the primer in his hand, the other two sticks fell down.

"The chute had been blocked about five minutes. I saw the mucker boss go up; the dirt was not falling when ke went up; the rock was about 6 feet up in the chute."

William Sampson, shift-boss, was called to the chute where deceased was immediately after the accident. His evidence was to the effect that he had given the deceased careful instructions about the placing of his men and also said that he had notified deceased not to go into the chutes. He had warned him within the last month.

"I told him he could not expect any thanks from anyone if he was injured. I caught him twice and warned him. The last time I warned him I related my own experience when I was caught in the chute on the same level last winter. My instructions under a former foreman were to discharge any man going into the chute. It is not necessary for men to go there."

George Johns, foreman of the mine, said that the regular method in removing the rocks hung up in the chute was to tie powder to the end of the stick and push it up against the rock in the chute. It was Dawson's duty to break down the rock. It is easier and saves time for them to go up into chute and although it is distinctly against orders, some men do it at times.

Dr. J. D. MacLean said that death was caused by pressure on the neck which would affect the upper part of the spinal cord, causing cessation of breathing.

The verdict of the Coroner's jury exonerates the mine officials from any blame. It is that "Alexander Dawson came to his death about 1.45 on the morning of the 9th of October, 1907, at the Rawhide mine by disobeying orders in going into the chute. Being caught and pinned from a fall of rock between the rock and the bumping block, he was crushed to death."

The jury was composed of the following:—E. Wellesley Whittaker, foreman, R. A. Nelson, W. F. McInnes, Norman C. McLeod, J. M. Sherbino and William Black

The Sunset Mine is again yielding rich treasure. It is reported that this weeks ore contains some samples that will come high in gold.

THE PHOENIX SCARE

The Provincial Health Officer Talks

Dr. C. J. Fagan, Provincial Health Officer who has been in Phoenix for two days left on Thursday afternoon for Kamloops. When seen by The Times in regard to reports of small-pox at Phoenix, he said: "People have a very exaggerated idea of the extent of the small-pox there. There are only four cases, none of them virulent. Immediately the disease was discovered the City Council took very vigorous measures and segregated all the suspects. They are all well looked after and there is absolutely no danger of it spreading. There is no possibility of anyone infected passing out of Phoenix. I saw the patients just two hours ago and they were all sitting around under the trees and having a good time They are about one mile and a half from the town near Marshall Lake."

The first appearence of the disease was in the case of Mrs. Quinilivan, an old resident of Phoenix, on the 12th of September. Miss Christina McDonald, her sister Martha, and one man Harry Selley make up the patients so far. All are doing well and everything possible is being done for the protection of the public.

F. Bradshaw the man who broke the quarentine by riding past the guards and down the hill to Greenwood was fined $20. Not having money to pay his fine he is still in custody.

GUN CAUSES TROUBLE.

Erick Bystrom, a Swede, reminded of the days when his fathers were lords of the northern seas disported himself bravely on Friday night last on the street between the bridges. Erick had a revolver which he waved frantically about his head, much to the uneasiness of some of the residents who telephoned Chief of Police, D. D. Dodds. In less than twenty minutes Erick was in the toils of the law and purchased his liberty with bail of $50.

His trial was to have come off on Monday at 11 o'clock morning before Police-magistrate Hallett but Erick on the advice of some of his friends had taken to the tall timbers and was nowhere to be seen. His revolver and bail were confiscated.

Bystrom had been working in the Smelter. When arrested on Friday night he was on Gold St. near Ghinatown. The arrest took place about 7 o'clock. The charge laid was "carrying concealed weapons."

GREENWOOD PEOPLE

In the Bulkley District Find Good Ore

GEO. NADEN, M.P.P., ARRIVES

Plenty of Low Grade Copper—Lack of Transportation Hinders Development.

Geo. Naden, M.P.P., arrived in Greenwood Wednesday afternoon from his trip inland to Northern British Columbia. It was on May 1st last that Mr. Naden left Greenwood, going up the coast from Vancouver to the mouth of the Skeena River where he followed the route of the G.T.P. east for about 300 miles. Most of the summer was spent in the Bulkley River district where Mr. Naden went back and forth through the mineral country with pack horse and saddle, looking over the properties on which some work had already been done.

For part of the summer Mr. Naden saw a good deal of George Findlay but before he had left, Findlay taking with him Dan McGlashan had gone into the Babine Range district on a prospecting tour. Of the success of this venture nothing is yet known. These two men have however taken up some land in the Bulkley Valley where Mr. Naden says there is splendid land for general agricultural purposes. They grow hay and grain and fine vegetables there.

Alf. Falconer, Ben Peterson and "Sardo" McKay have staked some claims near the headwaters of the Tel-Kwa river. They are showing some remarkably good looking samples of high grade copper ore. Jim Hatch has also staked a claim in the same neighborhood in which he seems to have good samples of gold ore.

In the Babine Range "Tommy" King has filed some claims which yield Galena ore.

When the party under Angus Nicholson passed Hazelton Mr. Naden was in the Bulkley district about one hundred miles south. In this country there seems to be lots of low grade copper ore but lack of means for transportation is hindering its development. "The long sunshiny days make growth very rapid but in climate, it does not touch the Boundary district and therefore it will never be as desirable a place in which to live" said Mr. Naden.

CURLING CLUB PROSPEROUS.

Officers Elected--Arrangements Made for Winter's Sport

A handsome balance of $116.80 to the credit of the Greenwood Curling Club was the report of the Treasurer at the annual general meeting held in the Court House on Monday evening last at eight o'clock.

The chair was taken by President Wm. G. McMynn and J. S. Birnie was elected secretary, protem.

Robert Wilson was appointed auditor to examine the books for the season 1906-7.

The election of officers for the season 1907-8, resulted as follows: President, K. C. B. Frith, Vice-President, E. W. Bishop, Secretary-Treasurer, G. B. Taylor, Management Committee, H. Bunting, W. G. McMynn, E. G. Warren, and J. S. Birnie.

The Secretary was asked to prepere a list for the signatures of intending members. A fee of $10 was decided upon.

Duncan Ross, M.P., intimated that he would give the management committee the right to amend the conditions governing the cup which he had donated to the club.

PAY ORE.

There seems every reason to believe the report that the Providence mine will commence operations on a very large scale sometime within the next week. Nothing can be learned definitly of the plans of the Company until after the annual general meeting of the shareholders of the Company which will be held in Greenwood on or about the 15th inst.

Mark F. Madden, President of the Company is expected here this week.

Spencer Bannerman and James Atwood, of Midway arrived in Greenwood on Tuesday night and have brought with them some splendid samples of copper ore from the Sturgeon Lake District. The ore is all free milling and some of the high grade copper and gold will mill at about $100 a ton. On one of the locations, the ore crops out for about 500 feet with an average width of 2 feet. Mr. Bannerman also located a large bed of low grade ore which will yield about $20 a ton. This bed is about 20 feet wide and can be traced on the surface for about 800 feet. These are only examples of the kind of mineral the country contains. The two claims staked by Mr. Bannerman are about 12 miles from the main line of the G. T. P. and about 38 miles from the Port Arthur Branch. They are north of Ignace, a point on the C. P. R. 145 miles west of Fort William.

PECULIAR GASE PROVES FATAL

Clayton W. Deaver, a young man about 17 years of age is in the hospital here suffering from epidemic cerebro-spinal meningitis. This is the first case of this disease ever known in the Boundary section. Deaver, who has been for some months at the Mother Lode mine was taken ill last Thursday Evening and on Friday morning he was removed to the hospital. Up to the present no specific treatment for this disease has been found and mortality ranges from 70 to 75 per cent.

Later—At three o'clock, Thursday afternoon, death came to Clayton W. Deaver. The remains will be taken to the boy's home at Vernon B. C. for burial but on Saturday afternoon services will be held at Galley's undertaking parlors which will be attended by the Members of the Miner's Union and possibly by the Odd Fellows of whom he was one. Deaver was a young man of sterling qualities and his death is deplored by his associates who recognize in him one who exemplified the Christian character. At the end he he was conscious and told his father, who had hastened from Vernon to be at his side, that he was content and ready to die.

THE MISSING LINK

A Mass Meeting Addressed by Duncan Ross, M.P.

FROM DENORO TO MIDWAY

Representative Committee Appointed to Gather Information and Draft Resolution

The interest of the citizens of Greenwood in the extension of the V.V. & E. Railway from Denoro to Midway was reflected in the reprsentative attendance and the serious attention of the meeting called by Mayor Bunting and President Russel of the Board of Trade on Monday afternoon last. The chair was taken by Mayor Bunting.

Duncan Ross, M.P., was requested to address the meeting. He referred to the fight in parliament to secure the necessary legislation authorizing the construction of a railway through the Boundary Country by the V.V. & E. Railway Company and westward from Midway to the Similkameen and the coast.

Mr. Ross also pointed out that opponents of this legislation claimed that the object of legislation was to run feeders from the Great Northern railway system to the mining camps of Southern British Columbia and that no through railway from the Coast to Kootenay would be built; that these arguments were met by letters from Mr. J. J. Hill in which he stated that the only object in crossing the international Boundary line to United States was to avoid insurmountable difficultics of construction; that this view was confirmed by the chief engineer, Mr. Kennedy, who appeared before the railway committee and showed by a large map which was placed before the committee that the new work would be commenced at a point on the Phoenix branch near Denoro following the Valley of Boundary Creek through Greenwood to Midway and from Midway westward to Bridesville all on the Canadian side; that under clause 3 of the V. V. & E. Act the Governor-in-Council granted the necessary permission to cross the International Boundary line near Bridesville and again into Canadian territory at or near Chepaca on the Similkameen River; that the consent of the Governor-in-Council was secured for these crossings and these crossings only.

Mr. Ross stated that so far as he was concerned he would insist that the company should live up to the conditions under which they secured the legislation and that he was determined that no further concessions should be granted the company until it showed a bona-fide intent to carry out the railway constructions that these conditions involved. He also related what steps he had taken by correspondence and otherwise to secure the construction of the railway as shown by the plan approved by the Governor-in-Council. He would be very glad to have the assistance of the people of Greenwood in securing the construction of the road from Denoro to Midway.

After Mr. Ross answered a number of questions asked by the audience a committee composed of W. T. Hunter, C. H. Fair and Judge Hallett was appointed to interview Smelter managements and draft a resolution addressed to Sir Wilfrid Laurier respectfully requesting the Government to take what steps might be deemed necessary to procure the construction of the railway from Denoro to Midway.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Ross for his lucid explanation of matters relating to the V. V. & E. railway.

THE FIGHT FOR NEWS.

Right at our own doors, we have had during the last week one of those strangely inadvisable actions of a great corporation which do more than anything else could possibly do to rob them of public sympathy and the support upon which they must rely for their future existence. The C.P.R. Telegraph Company cannot afford any more than other corporation to become a bully in connection with its press service. Its action in refusing to supply the Nelson News with Associated Press despatches because it had criticized the service is perfectly ridiculous. Hardly less foolish is it for them to make such a stipulation in the contract of any newspaper. To dominate and control the news matter of the country may, of course, be of incalculable benefit to the C.P.R. Telegraph Company but to flaunt the fact of such control in the face of an intelligent public seems hardly conceivable in men having the business ability to direct and administrate the affairs of so large an institution.

Such action will, of course, meet its own reward. Public opinion in Canada is happily too strong and too deeply sensitive to accept such "imbecile autocracy." The affair has already strengthened the hands of the Western Associated Press, the association of western papers formed first by the Winnipeg newspapers to protect their own service. Under the opposition of the C.P.R., the W. A.P. is increasing in its connections everywhere.

The newspapers that have joined it, acting together control the news service they get. If it is not satisfactory they have the power in their own hands to improve it. They make their own contracts; engage their own correspondents; determine the character and the volume of the service they receive. Matters unfavorable to the projects or purposes of the C.P.R. are not eliminated or quietly dropped. The association has no axe to grind.

Should it happen, however, that the C.P.R. could become too active and too effective an antagonist of the W.A.P. there is still little to fear. The temper of the Laurier government is too well known in the country to admit any uneasiness on this point. For while it has never shown itself inclined to batter out of existence any legitimate enterprise, it has been at all times most ready to take any necessary measures, however stringent, to protect the public from encroachment by greedy combinations of capital. And unless the C. P. R. Telegraph Company sees it way to retire gracefully from the unreasonable position it has assumed in relation to the Nelson Daily News and other papers, we may expect to see some very definite action from the Government in the very near future.

WE MAKE OUR TREATIES.

"Peace hath her victories" is part of an old saying which had a splendid illustration in the welcome home extended to Hon. W. S. Fielding and Hon. L. P. Brodeur on their arrival at Quebec last Friday. The way of success in affairs of state, in business, or in ordinary life is not usually the way of the "knocker."

A few years ago, when Sir Wilfrid Laurier first proposed that Canada should have the power to negotiate her own treaties, his dream, however desirable it was considered, seemed to many people impossible. The Conservative press waved the old flag like a sombrero about its head, in order to frighten a loyal and intelligent public.

The conclusion is before us. As Sir Wilfrid Laurier said just two days before this reception in his address at Toronto:

"It has long been the desire, if I mistake not, of the Canadian people that we should be entrusted with the negotiation of our own treaties, especially in regard to commerce . . . . Without revolution, without any impairment of our allegiance, the time has come when Canadian interests are entrusted to Canadians, and just within the last week a treaty has been concluded with France a treaty which appeals to Canada alone, and has been negotiated by Canadians alone. True, it has been done with the whole assent of the British Crown, and with the assent of the Foreign Office. The Foreign office interposed no objection at all; but on the contrary, the Foreign Office told us, this is a matter which chiefly concerns yourselves; take the matter in your own hands. The treaty has been completed."

A little calm, clear headed statesmanship is the cause of it all.

PLAIN TALES FROM KIPLING

Speaks to the New Nation

Perhaps no man in all the world is so well fitted as Rudyard Kipling to speak to the young men of a new country about the ideals, the things towards which they are working in the life of the nation. Every man worthy of the name should have a serious interest in political life in the highest meaning of that word. Kipling—for all his disciples call him that—has come to Canada again after fifteen years, and as Rev. C. W. Gordon said at the Canadian Club in Winnipeg a few days ago we receive him as warmly as we do because we feel that though he has not had the good fortune to be born among us, he is a thorough Canadian—because he cherishes the same ideals, praises the same type of manhood, and represents in his own person those qualities of character that we in Canada aspire to reproduce.

Kipling's response to the appreciation shown him is well worthy of publication in every paper in Canada. It is the expression of an idealistic man, but we are all idealists whether we like to confess it or not. The modest statement of Kipling's ideal is in these words: "I have I confess it now, done my best for about twenty years to make all the men of the sister nations within the empire interested in each other. Because I know that at heart all our men are pretty much alike, in that they have the same problems, the same asperations and the same loves and the same hates; and when all is said and done, we have only each other to depend upon. And if, through any good fortune, any work of mine has helped to make the boys all over the world understand each other a little bit—I wont say understand— to keep them more interested in each other, then great is my reward."

But there were other things to be said to the people of Winnipeg which are no less true of a hundred other cities of Western Canada. The "dealer in words" as Kipling styles himself put his faith in this great country in the words that follow:

"The visions that your old men saw fifteen years ago I saw translated today into stone and brick and concrete. The dreams that your young men dreamed I saw accepted as the ordinary facts of every day life, and they will in turn, give place to vaster and more far-reaching imaginations. Gentlemen, this record of unsurpassed achievement, and my admiration for it, is as keen as my envy. I say my envy, because as you know, I have spent a large portion of my life among men of my own blood and race in other lands less fortunate than this land—among men who are laboring with their brains and the sweat of their bodies to build up new cities, and to make firm the outworks of civilization.

"These things are not accomplished except by the hardest of toil, high courage, eternal sacrifice, and very often bitter disappointment. The mere buildings and streets of a town do not tell that story to the outsider, but no man who has been present, as I have been present, at the building of a new city, or foundation of a new community—no man who has been at the birth throes of a nation, can fail to hear that story cried aloud, as it were, by every block, store or private residence that he passes. Therefore, my heart goes out to the city of your love and your pride, because I know what lies behind the mere houses in the streets that one sees. I know the passion and the sacrifice that went to the upbuilding of each, and that will continue to go to its existence. and to give all that its existence implies.

"But I find cause for a deeper appeal in other things than those which you were good enough to show me to-day. I have realized the existence of an assured nationhood. The spirit of a people contented not to be another people or the imitators of any other people—contented to be themselves. This spirit of course, existed fifteen years ago, but that spirit as, I remember—and I have not forgotten some of my walks and talks in the city—then doubted a little. It found it necessary to explain. It stated its position, and, prehaps, it waited a little to see what other people thought of its position. Thank God I find no echo of that mood here to-day. I can feel by the men on the streets and see by a thousand signs, that here is a people in their own land, whose heart springs go down deep into the fabric, and who will be trustees for a nation.

"This is worth more than anything else, for there is no unliftable curse on any people, except the idea of a weak or degraded nationhood. Neither commerce, nor art nor literature make up for the loss of that spirit. Without it the biggest city the world has ever seen is merely a pack of organized enterprise. With that national spirit the meanest collection of packing cases that was ever tack-hammered on a prairie can uplift and dominate a continent."

Pimples & Face Sores

are a common trouble. Impurities which should be thrown off from the body have a tendency to remain in the system, thus clogging the pores and giving rise to all sorts of disagreeable skin troubles. Zam-Buk applied to the skin has a most wholesome effect. It stimulates and helps the skin to throw off any impurity and restores the skin to a healthy state.

"Zam-Buk is the best household balm ever brought into a home." Such is the opinion of Mrs. Sarah McDonald, of Birr, (Ont.) She says:—"My little girl had a severe and obstinate rash on her skin. I applied Zam-Buk a few times and the skin trouble which had defied all other remedies, went away like magic."

Zam-Buk cures Eczema, Ulcers, Scrofula, Poisoned wounds, Festering Sores and all Skin Diseases. Rubbed well in it Zam-Buk is the finest embrocation for Rheumatism, Sciatica, etc. Of all stores and druggists at 50 cents, or from Zam Buk Co., Toronto for price, 3 boxes for $1.25. (C. E. Rare Trophies Won at the International Hygienic and Pure Food Exposition at Antwerp.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 5.—Valued above the other hundreds of awards voted to the Pabst brewwing company by national and international expositions held at various times in the past few decades, a collection of awards which was received by Col. Gustave Pabst from Antwerp will occupy a higher place in the esteem of the company than all the other medals in the Pabst collection.

The awards were brought to Milwaukee by special emissary from the International Hygienic and Pure Food exposition at Antwerp, Belgium, and include the cross of honor of Belgium, known as the grand prize of the exposition, a gold medal and a diploma elaborately studded with seals of noted Europeans, and setting forth that Pabst "Blue Ribbon," the beer of quality, received the highest award for purity and excellence at the great exposition held in Antwerp. The awards were made only after the severest tests known to enlightened science, and demonstrate, under the signatures and seals of the jury and commissioners, that the product of the Pabst Brewing company stood alone among hundreds of other beers submitted at Antwerp for the exhaustive tests of experts.

The arrival of the special messenger from Belgium was an event at the offices of the Pabst Brewing company, and already the medals have been exhibited to many Milwaukeeans interested in the excellence of this city's product as compared with that of the best known breweries in two hemispheres.

GET HIGHEST POSSIBLE HONORS.

The gold medal, which is about two and a half inches in diameter, bears on one side the head in relief of King Leopold of Belgium, who was the patron of the exposition at Antwerp. On the other side is a likeness, also in relief, of the huge building at Antwerp in which the pure food and hygienic exhibit was held.

The cross of honor, or grand prize, is of beautiful design, somewhat similar to other high European orders. It bears decorations of oak leaves set in gold and red enamel. In the middle of the medal proper is the coat of arms of the city of Antwerp. The medal is attached to the crown of Belgium, which in turn is suspended from a ribbon of the tri-color of Belgium.

DIPLOMA OF BEAUTIFUL DESIGN.

The diploma setting forth the fact that "Blue Ribbon" beer was awarded the grand prix at the Antwerp exposition is a beautifully designed document bearing four idealistic figures. The entire wording is in the French language, the court language of Belgium. The body of the diploma sets forth that the "diplome de grand prix" has been awarded to the Pabst Brewing company of Milwaukee. The array of official signatures is the chief feature of the document. The diplom: is signed by the president of the jury which awarded the honors, by the lord mayor of the city of Antwerp, honorary member; the administrator general, and president of the committee of commercial patronage.

The signatures of the exposition officials are verified and attested to by the minister of foreign affairs of the Royal Belgium government. All these signatures are in turn attested to by the vice and deputy consul general representing the United States government at Antwerp, the two certifications being written in the lower margin of the diploma and accompanied by the respective seals of office.

The background of the middle portion of the diploma sets forth in dim outline a view from the harbor of the port of Antwerp, showing the great shipping interests and in the extreme background the famous cathedral of Antwerp with its high steeple.

With the rising interest, much greater in European countries than in the United States, in pure foods and the general subject of hygiene, the International Hygienic and Pure Food exposition has assumed an important place. To-day its exhibits are the Mecca for thousands of manufacturers, scientists, legislators and workers for the public good from every corner of the world. The awards of the juries are made with such unmistakable impartiality and are so decidedly announced for or against certain food products that the knowledge gained from a visit to the exposition serves as absolute protection against fraud.

The exposition is held annually at different cities decided upon by the board of commissioners. In 1906 it was held in Paris, this year in Antwerp and next year it will be held in another city of the continent or in Great Britain. Crowned heads of Europe unite in aiding its welfare, and every civilized country each year sends its most noted scientists to participate in the gathering together of experts from all parts of the world. In Europe the exposition is annually given the greatest publicity throughout the different centers of population, it being the understood object to apprise the people of what is good and what is not good for their general welfare. The expositions of 1906 and 1907 were attended by thousands of tourists from America, the recent rise of public interest in the subject of pure foods encouraging investigation in the products of the world brought together in one vast exhibit.

The department of brewing at the Antwerp exposition was one of the chief features. The fact that the first beer was brewed in what is now the kingdom of Belgium added to the interest in the exhibit and inspired wonderful showings from the different interests of the world. All the great breweries of Germany, America, England and other countries made efforts to excel in their exhibits, and when the time came for the highest awards interest was at fever heat.

The tests of the hundreds of samples of bottled beers were most severe. The jury which made the exhaustive tests of the brewery products was made up of scientists, university professors and chemists of note appointed by the Belgium minister of education.

SUBJECTED TO HEAT AND COLD.

The jury's task was a severe one, the tests of each beer extending over a considerable time. Pabst "Blue Ribbon" beer, along with all the others, was for weeks alternately subjected to extreme degrees of heat and cold. Of all the beers so tested Pabst "Blue Ribbon" beer was the only one found upon examination to retain all the properties originally contained in the brew. It was finally determined that the "Blue Ribbon" beer took first place among all the other varieties submitted by American and European breweries. Consequently the highest possible honors of the exposition were awarded.

The fact that the American beer took first place was all the more remarkable from the fact that it was necessarily transported a great distance, a factor that might ordinarily have been a decided handicap as against other beers sent to Antwerp. The time that the beer was in transit from the brewery in Milwaukee was something like four weeks, and it is a generally accepted theory that beer loses through transportation. The Pabst beer apparently was unaffected. Its durability and pureness were found upon examination to be without fault.

The exposition at Antwerp this year was held during the months of June, July and August, the months in which the tourist travel is largest. It was opened by King Leopold, under whose protectorate it was held, the various monarchies and the French republic appointing delegates to represent them in the international show. The exhibits were placed in the great building erected several years ago at Antwerp and designed especially for large expositions of the nature of the pure food show. The juries appointed to make tests in the several departments of the exposition were appointed by the Belgian minister of education with the approval of the different nations participating in the gathering, the members being selected with special view to their peculiar fitness to judge of the merits of the products coming under their examination. One of the noted members of the jury which undertook the stupendous task of testing the bottled beers and awarding prizes was Prof. Alfred Jorgensen of Copenhagen, Denmark, than whom there is no better known authority on the subject of scientific and hygienic brewing. Others on the jury were men of undoubted ability in their line. The fact that the host of exhibitors in the department of brewing unanimously approved of the membership of the jury bespeaks their ability.

It is probable that the awards now in the care of the Pabst Brewing company will be placed on exhibition at an early date, it being the desire of the officials to permit the public at large to examine the medals and diploma signifying the par excellence of Pabst Blue Ribbon Beer.

ANOTHER VIEW ON BANKING.

But to come back to Wall Street and that sixty million. One of the leading bankers of Toronto, the other day, made a statement in private which put the banks clear out of court when considering the situation from the business man's point of view. He said that the situation could be relieved entirely if every business man and corporation of Canada, great and small, would reduce his or its entire operations by five per cent. That, he said, would remove from this country all traces of money stringency and there would then be plenty to carry on the business of the country.

It will probably come as a surprise to many to learn that the margin between stringency and affluence is only five per cent. It sounds good, if it is true. But we find the total loans in Canada, as I mentioned before, approximated six hundred and thirty million, while we have in Wall Street sixty millions on call and twenty four millions of other kinds of loans. Now five per cent. of the total in this country is just over thirty millions, or about one-half the amount on call in Wall Street. What reasonable excuse can the banks of Canada offer for cramping and inconviencing and hammering the commerce of the country, when one-half the amount they have loaned to gamblers and speculators in the United States would relieve our situation here. There is something mighty inconsistent in the statement that the banks are doing all in their power to relieve the Canadian situation, when it could be relieved as easily as this Toronto banker says it could, while they are at the same time keeping Canadian money in New York at the disposal of the sharks of United States commerce.—Saturday Sunset.

LOVE AND PATHOS

George D. Sweet supported by a remarkably strong company presented that splendid melodrama, "A Messenger Boy," at the Opera house last night. The plot of the play is a realistic representation of life from the outside world that appeals so forcibly to our natures. The kidnapping of two children, with their final rescue, with a tale of devoted and trusting love that had its origin in the outcast life of the street waifs at pier 46 in the great city, with the manly honor and final reward of the kidnapped bootblack who possesses noble traits of honor and integrity, make a drama that fascinates while it pleases. The scene at the great Brooklyn bridge, with night on the east river with its lights and piers is worth the price of admission alone. . . . To enumerate the good features would be to give the entire cast, for there is not a weak place in either the plot or the players.—Sioux City Journal, Sioux City, Iowa. The Company will give a performance here on Monday next, Oct. 14th at the Auditorium.
