Charles W, Vedder the Well-known Insuranc Man Fatally Shot Thursday Afternoon. Coroner's Jury Bring in a Verdict of Wilful Murder by Some Unknown Person.

The business men of this city were horrified at one o'clock Thursday afternoon when the report quickly circuself in the back rooms of the firm's office on Copper street. The report was quickly verified. Medical men were soon in attendance, but the wound was fatal. The unfortunate man never recovered consciousness and death came at four o'clock the following morning. No reason can be assigned for the act. Mr. Vedder appar-

During the afternoon of Thursday mas morning and spent a happy day with his wife and family. About ten office saying "I'm going to lunch Charlie". At one Mrs. Vedder tele- the King, His Crown and dignity." phoned from their residence to the office but got no response. Immediately after one J. W. Hartline who has desk room in the office came in and began writing a letter. He heard someone breathing heavily in the back enthusiastic Mason and a K. of P. room but thought nothing of it for a time. The heavy breathing continu- the tragedy says : ing he went into the back room and the poor fellow was unconscious. Mr. Hartline ran across to the office of Dr. J. E. Spankie who immediately went over to the office. The doctor found that Mr. Vedder was bleeding from the nose and very freely from the side of the head two inches above the right ear. The doctor noted that he was sitting upright, head forward, chin resting on the chest, feet apart and hands crossed between the legs. Every muscle was relaxed. He examined wound in head and exclaimed to Mr. Hartline that Mr. Vedder had been shot. He quickly glanced round and found revolver on the floor on left side of chair, handle pointing towards the wall and barrel behind lett front leg of chair. The gun was a 38 Smith and Weston.

After thorough examination Dr. Spankie considered the case hopeless and called in Drs. Schon and Foster for consultation. As the bullet travelled downwards and forwards over base of right frontal lobe of brain nothing could be done to save life.

The suicide was a painful surprise to Charley Vedder's most intimate friends. He would be the last man in the world one would expect to end his Mr. and Mrs. J. P. McLeod. own life. Of powerful build, big hearted and taking the ups and downs of the world with unusual good nature, it could not be imagined that he would thus end his life. His home life was of the happiest desception. He leaves daughters. Mr. Vedder was born in New York state about 42 years ago but was associated with Mr. Allenburg in the insurance business in Spokane before coming to Greenwood about a year and a half ago.

After the above was written the theory of suicide was shattered by the verdict of the jury at the corner's inquest. In the absence of Mayor Jakes who is coroner for the city Dr. Westwood of Grand Forks came over on Friday to hold the inquest. The following jury was empanelled: J. W. Grier (foreman), F. F. Ketchum, J. A. Mathot, Jno. O'Brien, Fred Bishop and D. A. McKenzie. After viewing the body, the inquiry was adjourned until Saturday morning when evidence was taken. Drs. Spankie and Schon described and Officer Lawder gave particulars of the effects found on his person. There was absolutely nothing in the evidence that could convince the jury that it was suicide. The only document that could be construed as intimating an intent was a pencil written undated note attached to a policy in the Equitable Life and addressed to his wife, in which Mr. Vedder stated that should anything happen to him the money from the attached policy was to be kept for herself and the children. The jury retired but was unable to arrive at a verdict and asked for more evidence. Saturday evening lated that C. W. Vedder, of the firm of Messrs. Cunningham, Johns, Galbraith, Vedder & Cunningham had shot him- Keefer, Powell and Officer Lawder gave evidence but little additional light was thrown on the mystery. Officer Lawder stated that he had visited Mr. Vedder's residence and Clara Vedder the twelve-year old daughter said that the gun used was not the gun her father had in Spokane, none of the second-hand stores in the city sold such a gun. The jury again ently was never worried and as the retired and after an hour's deliberfirm was doing a good business finan- ation brought in the following vercial matters could scarcely be respon- dict: "That a certain person to the jurors aforesaid unknown on the 26th day of December in the year aforesaid and on Christmas day he was in his at the office of Vedder and Cunningusual good spirits. ### A BRIGHT OUTLOOK.

The resume of the year's work published in last week's issue of the Times is encouraging reading. During the year 385,000 tons of ore was shipped from the mines of the Boundary country and the greater portion was treated at the home smelters. Notwithstanding the panicky condition of the copper market the big mining companies are perfecting arrangements for increasing the output of the mines and the capacity of their smelters, so that it is reasonable to hope that the good record for 1901 will be doubled during 1902. From a district point of view, a lower price for copper will not affect its prosperity so long as the price does not fall below a point where reasonable profits will be wiped out and it has yet to fall several points before this will happen. While mines and smelters are being operated the expenditure for labor and material continues, indeed it may be increased since reduced profits per ton will in-

The Russell Law-Caulfield block would be a credit to a large city. There is no handsomer store front in British Columbia. J. W. Mellor's three story block adds greatly to the appearance of the principal business street. Other buildings have also been erected. Some sub stantial additions have also been made to residences of the city. Taking all in all the year has been one of encouragement. Notwithstanding the many disappointments and discouragements, ihere is no reason why the people should not view with the brightest laughed and imagined itself benefited, but it turned out that the majority of people were forced to subscribe to both systems so that telephonic communication could be secured with all the persons who used the telephone. The result was that taken in the aggregate, the rates for service were higher to those who were forced to use both systems and a great deal of dissatisfaction was felt.

Early in the game Messrs, Oakes & Aris felt the loss of the money which they had invested, and finally they were forced to sell their holdings to Mr. C. O'Brien Reddin, well known throughout the province as a mining and investment broker. When the sale was put through Messrs. Oakes and Aris' losses were figured up at about $10,000—not a small amount for a mining men like Mr. Oakes to pay for the privilege of owning a telephone line for a short while.

The Columbia Tolegraph & Telephone system was maintained for a time by C. O'Brien Reddin, who was at that time a resident of Rossland. Its destinies did not remain long in his hands for he sold out to Messrs. Donald and Davie of Grand Forks, and it is ruffored that when the telephone interests and Mr. O'Brien Redding parted company his experience in the opposition telephone company was not a happy one.

Messrs. Donald and Davey concluded that they would force the fighting and put the opposition of the Vernon & Nelson Telephone company on the shelf. With this idea iu view they interested the finencial aid of a well known institution of Grand Forks. Backed by practically unlimited capital Messrs. Donald and Davey extended the system of the Columbia Telegraph & Telephone company and the plant was put in such condition that it was at all events the equal of that belong ing to the opposition company. A great deal'of ready cash was invested in thes. improvements, but the proprietors found that as their operations became more extensive there was even a greater shortage in the receipts than had formerly been the case. Messrs. Donald and Davey felt the loss to a certain extent, but their financial backers bore the burnt of the cost of maintenance, and it is reported that close on $100,000 was sunk in a very short time. All this occurred during the past two years, and during that time the Columbia Telegraph & Telephone company has been steadily losing money, and so did the Vernon & Nelson Telephone company, till the Columbia company was, as the suit in-

The suit which was instituted by Mr. Houlgate will likely culminate in the purchase of the interests of the interests of the Columbia Telegraph & Telephone company by the Vernon & Nelson company, and so the disastrous competition, which has been continued so long, will end. It is estimated that after the purchase of the interests of the former company has been effected the loss to the financial institution which backed it will not be less than $70,00—not very satisfactory for the dicates, forced to the wall.

It is but the natural sequence of events that where two telephone companies seek patronage in one particular district one should be forced to the wall, From the point of view of The Province's informant two telephone companies are a decided nuisance and competition in such cases is a thing not to be desired again by those who have experienced the experiment. With few exceptions competition is a good thing, but in the case of telephone companies it is something which one should pray to be preserved from.
