ADDRESS DELIVERED BY MR. J. S. THOMPSON AT BARKERVILLE, 1st JULY, 1871.

Mr Chairman and Gentlemen.—On this bright summer morn, as the God of Day sheds his brightest beams in jubilance o'er the gorgeous scene before us, if some miner in pursuit of the vaunted treasures of Cariboo were to enter our town he might in unfeigned wonder exclaim, "Am I among the barren hills and tangled forests of which I have heard so much?" If some stranger wandering o'er the world in search of excitement were suddenly to appear upon the scene, he might in astonishment exclaim, "My lines have fallen in pleasant places," and, turning to the first bystander, inquire, "what victory has been gained? what monarch has been crowned? or why these glad signs of rejoicing?" To the one I would reply, there are the barren hills, and here were the tangled forests; but man has been here, and witness the proofs of his handiwork. To the other, the victory that has been gained is the victory of human progress. The monarch that has been crowned is the eternal monarch of civilization; the signs of rejoicing are for the birthday of a New Dominion! Am I in a fairy palace! he he might well exclaim, or have the genii of Eastern tradition been at work? No fairy palaces are here—no genii have employed their magic arts—but here to-day you witness the triumphs of mind and muscle, energy and labor, over the impediments of nature; and while the remnants of the winter's snows still decorate in pristine purity the rugged mountain tops beneath the scorching rays of summer's sun, the gay festoons and garlands of green which adorn the houses of our simple mountain hamlet, the bright and gaudy banners which float in majesty, wooing the caressing breeze, demonstrate the heartfelt interest which is felt by one and all in the day we are about to celebrate. Nine years ago the spot on which we stand was a howling wilderness; less than three years ago, after a flourishing town had been built on the site of the primeval forest, the fiery demon of destruction left it once more a desert, and obliterated every trace of human art and industry. Now look around, and say are nature and the elements fit to cope with man? One of England's noblest writers has drawn the fancy picture of a savage in a future age gazing on the ruins of London. But the picture is here reversed; instead of the savage viewing the haunts of Shem, the barbarian hordes of [illegible] where the mightiest city of the [illegible] reared her gorgeous palaces [illegible] marts of commerce, a civiliz[illegible] would see a scene of beauty and [illegible] among the inhospitable mountains [illegible] years ago were not traversed [illegible] trapper in pursuit of his furry [illegible] have we met to celebrate? We [illegible] a double occasion; first, to celebrate the anniversary of the incorporation [illegible] ago, of three independent colonies into [illegible] four provinces which then were for the first time denominated the Dominion of Canada, since which a fifth has been added, and which is now about to enter. In this we celebrate an anniversary, as we have done for the last three years, from sympathy and friendship and a desire for closer union; but to-day we see more signs of rejoicing than in previous years, because we celebrate not alone an anniversary glorious to our neighbors, but an event which has not yet occurred, which will be glorious to ourselves. This event may be said still to be in futurity—the admission of British Columbia as a province of the Dominion, and this we are about to celebrate to-day, although it has not actually occurred. However, the arrangements are so far carried through that we may fairly consider it as an accomplished fact although the legal forms have not been complied with for its consummation. From the first inception of the Dominion the people of British Columbia have been ardently desirous of admission, but the opposition given by the Government nominees in the Council for two years overpowered the popular sentiment. However, this is all past; we breathe now a freer atmosphere; we have acquired the privilege and responsibility of self-government. Our delegates have negociated terms of union favorable to us and honorable to Canada. Those terms have been accepted by our Legislative Council, and also, though after serious opposition, by the Parliament of Canada, the joint addresses have been laid before the Throne, and now wait but the formal proclamation of the Royal assent, which will ratify our bond of union. Under these circumstances, in any future remarks I may make, I shall take the liberty of imagining that we now constitute a Province of the Dominion. I shall anticipate events for a few days, and ask you to consider the calendar so far set forward that the first of July represents the twentieth, or whatever day will be selected for our admission. What is the Dominion of Canada? I have asked you to take a flight into futurity, though only for a few days, but now I must ask you to follow me in imagination back unto the ages of the past. Three hundred and seventy-eight years ago a Goenese mariner, blest with intelligence beyond the spirit of his age, first proclaimed to the civilized world the existence of America. He had long cherished the daring idea that by sailing westward from Europe he could reach the eastern shores of India. Ridicule, the reward of all men of more transcendent genius than their fellows, was heaped on him, but his brave spirit did not quail. From Court to Court he travelled, in vain soliciting the aid of kings and princes. Monarchs, statesmen, churchmen and citizens alike turned a cold ear to his petitions, till his importunities at last met responsive sympathy from a woman, Isabella of Castile, and then the daring sailor ventured on the unknown pathless, stormy ocean with little ill-equipped craft, in which in our present age a pilot or a fisherman would scarce trust himself out of sight of land. But the passage was accomplished, the problem was solved, a new world was discovered, and this continent, in which we now reside, was opened for settlement to adventurers of every nation who possessed daring and energy to brave the terrors of the wilderness and contend with the savage for the possession of the hunting grounds of his fathers. From the first discovery of America, year after year the tide of emigration rolled to its shores. The European races—Latin, Teutonic, Celtic and Scandinavian—had always shown a migratory spirit, from the [illegible] reversed; instead of the [illegible] where the mightiest city of the [illegible] reared her gorgeous palaces [illegible] marts of commerce, a civiliz[illegible] would see a scene of beauty and [illegible] among the inhospitable mountains [illegible] years ago were not traversed [illegible] trapper in pursuit of his furry [illegible] have we met to celebrate? THE NEWS.

The Express yesterday did not bring many items of interest. A telegram from Berlin of June 23d intimates that difficulties may arise between Great Britain and Germany in reference to the possession of the island of Heligoland. It is rumored that severe dispatches on the subject have passed between Bismarck and Granville. The former, it is stated, empowered the German Ambassador at London to make propositions to the British Government for the purchase of the island, to which Earl Granville replied that no such proposition could be entertained, upon which Bismarck addressed the British Government, declaring that the acquisition was necessary for the protection of the German coast and to prevent the immunity from attack which in the late war the French fleet enjoyed at Heligoland by which it was able to blockade Hamburgh and paralyse the commerce of Germany. He looked upon Heligoland, on account of its proximity, as German territory, and its possession by any foreign power as a standing menace to Germany. Granville replied that England was only bound to consider her own interests, and that the wish of the German Government to acquire Heligoland did not constitute her right to it, as the island had never been under German rule. Heligoland was originally the property of Denmark, from whom it was taken by Great Britain in the commencement of this century. It has a population of a little over 2000.—A terrible railway accident occurred on the Leipzic railway, on June 22d, a train conveying troops from France being thrown from the line, and over sixty officers and privates were killed or wounded.—There is great distress in Paris and a great many people are applying for relief. It is estimated that there are over 20,000 paupers. The trial of Rochefort and other Commune leaders had not commenced. The elections were proceeding and the future form of Government still unsettled.

THEATRE ROYAL.—The Amateur performance on Dominion Day was one of the most successful which has been held for a long time. The house was crowded, and the audience by their hearty applause showed that they fully appreciated the efforts which had been made for their entertainment. The farce of "The Irishman in London", was well rendered, the rollicking Irish servant, Murtoch Delany, receiving ample justice from the acting of Mr Sullivan. Mr Perret, as Cubba, the African lady's maid, created much amusement, especially in the jig by Murtoch and Cubba. Mr Gomar Johns was very successful in his comic rendition of the valet Edward. Mr Hudson as the irascible papa, Mr Marshall as Capt. Seymour, and Mr Thompson as Mr Collooney, performed their parts admirably; and the ladies—Florence Wilson as Louisa, and Mrs Parker as Caroline—as usual gave perfect satisfaction. At the conclusion Messrs. Sullivan and Perret were called before the curtain and loudly applauded. The farce was succeeded by the comic song, "A trip to Margate," by Mr G. Johns, who being rapturously encored, sang "I love the free," in his usual good style, which is so well appreciated in Cariboo. The entertainment concluded by singing and dancing by the juvenile members of the McGinley troupe, to whom a liberal douceur of silver was flung on the stage. On Fourth July an entertainment was given by the McGinley troupe in conjunction with a few of the amateurs. The duets by Mr and Mrs S. P. Parker were particularly admired and received much applause.

FIRE BELL.—The new fire alarm bell for the William Creek Fire Brigade, imported from San Francisco, arrived yesterday evening by express. Judging from its weight (263 lbs.) and tone it should when fixed be sufficient to awake every one in Barkerville and vicinity. We were in error in stating recently that the hose carriage had arrived in Victoria at same time as the bell. It could not be got ready in time, but by a letter received by the Secretary of the Brigade it appears it would be shipped by steamer to leave about 5th July.

DRUNK AND DISORDERLY.—A maiden of the forest, from the distant shores of the "salt chuck," answering to the appellation of "Gentle Annie," in spite of her name, got uproariously drunk on Tuesday last, and indulged her pugnacious propensities by abusing some persons in the public streets. For conduct so unbecoming to a lady, Gentle Annie was conducted, much against her will, to the Barkerville lock-up, and next morning was sentenced to endure another 24 hours of durance vile.

ABSENT.—A trip from Victoria to Olympia has been given by the owners of the new steamer North Pacific. Governor Musgrave, Colonial Secretary Hankin, and a large number of Government officials and prominent parties in Victoria were among the guests. The Colonist wishes to know who administers the Government in the absence of the Governor and Colonial Secretary? We suppose the machine has been wound up, and they will take the chances of letting it run a while by itself.

MARY MCGINLEY'S BENEFIT TO-NIGHT.—Don't forget that Miss Mary McGinley takes a benefit to-night at the Theatre Royal, on which occasion the McGinley troupe will appear for the last time in Barkerville prior to their departure for Omineca. We understand that great pains are being taken to make the entertainment successful. In the Battle of Bull's Run cannons and horses will be introduced, and the assistance of some of the amateurs has also been volunteered.

ACCIDENT.—An accident occurred above Richfield on Thursday which was very nearly resulting in the most serious consequences. The Brouse co. had been piping and were looking out for a large cave, which when it fell came much farther into the diggings than anticipated, catching in its course Mr William Stephenson, one of the owners of the claim and a Chinaman, both of whom were severely bruised.

FREIGHT ARRIVING.—The first ox-teams for the season arrived in Barkerville on Wednesday. They were Droncheau's team loaded for Messrs. Oppenheimer Bros. and Ryder's for the H. B. Co. The road being now in fair order teams will be hereafter steadily arriving. Some of the Lane & Kurtz Co.'s machinery is expected in a few days.

PERSONAL.—We had much pleasure in seeing among the passengers by Barnard's Express yesterday A. R. Robertson, Esq., Mayor of Victoria, who has been absent from Cariboo for several years. Mr Robertson, we learn, will act as Attorney General at the ensuing Assizes, which are to commence on 20th inst.

THE TELEGRAPH.—The line which we had expected to be completed this week, will not be in here for some days yet. On Thursday night the repairing party were at Stanley, and should now be on this side of Vanwinkle.

VISITORS.—The celebration of Dominion Day brought quite a number of visitors to Barkerville, including several ladies. Mrs Boyd, from Coldstream, Mrs Lindhard and Mrs Peedy, from Vanwinkle, were among the number.

LIEUT.-GOVERNOR.—All sorts of rumors are current as to who is to be Lieut.-Governor of British Columbia, but from all we can find out they only originate in the imagination of the authors.

POLICE COURT.—On Thursday John Baumgarten was convicted of having supplied an Indian woman named Gentle Annie with liquor, and was sentenced to pay a fine of fifty dollars.

THE MAIL.—Johnson & Gerow's Express, with the mail, arrived at 6 p.m. yesterday.—The down mail will close this evening.

THE CARIBOO SENTINEL

SATURDAY, JULY 8, 1871.

DOMINION DAY CELEBRATION.

On Saturday last the fourth celebration of the Dominion of Canada was enthusiastically celebrated. The day was bright and warm, and the tasteful manner in which the town was decorated rendered the spectacle unusually brilliant. A commodious platform, decorated with evergreens and scarlet bannerets bearing gilt maple leaves, afforded accommodation to the speakers and musicians, together with a number of spectators. At 10 a.m. precisely the explosion of a torpedo gave notice that the proceedings of the day were about to commence, when Mr J. H. Todd made a few remarks, and proposed three cheers for the Queen. The National Anthem having been played, Mr J. S. Thompson proceeded to deliver an address, and at its conclusion proposed three cheers for the Dominion. The sports commenced at 11 o'clock, and were continued without intermission till after 7. At noon a royal salute was fired, and during the day a large number of choice musical selections were performed in good style by the band. A performance by the Amateurs and a general illumination wound up the proceedings of a day which will long be remembered with pleasure.

THE ILLUMINATION.

After the close of the theatrical performance the illumination was started, producing a brilliant effect, the whole town being one blaze of light. In Messrs. Davison's and Bowron's windows we observed some very tasteful transparencies, comprising the initials of the Dominion and the several provinces, with maple leaves, &c.

THE DECORATIONS.

We cannot finish the notice of the celebration without paying a little attention to the decorations, on which a vast amount of labor and taste were lavished. From one end of town to the other the buildings were wreathed with evergreens, and a number of very handsome devices were exhibited. To give a full description would be out of the question; we would, however, remark that Messrs. Oppenheimer's store, the Assay Office and the Antelope attracted much attention. The Assay Office displayed a handsome Crown, with the letters V. R., and wreaths adorned with flowers and ribbons. On the Engine-house and Theatre were a tasteful arrangement of hooks, ladders, axes and other implements of the Fire Brigade. On the Masonic Hall a compass and square, with wreaths and rosettes; on Oppenheimer's store, a beautiful wreath, enclosing entwined flags; on Foster's saloon, a Crown and V. R.; on Florence Wilson's, a star and V. R.; on Kurtz's, a large star; on Dodd's saloon, the letters N. D.; on the H. B. Co.'s store, "Pro pelle cutem"; over Fick's bakery, the colors of the new German Empire, and on L. Wilde's window the same colors, with the portraits of the Prussian commanders in the late war. On Moses' barber shop, a Crown with V. R. Across the street in different places, waved the mottoes "God save the Queen," "Success to the Dominion," "Union for ever," while the national flags floating from about twenty flagstaffs lent their help to enliven the scene.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.

Our American residents on William creek did not have any formal celebration of their national holiday as they have had in previous years. A torpedoe was, however, fired at midnight of July 3d, and the usual salutes were fired at sunrise, noon and sunset. In the afternoon a few gentlemen, wishing to see a little amusement, raised a purse, and the following sports ensued:

Hurdle Race [4 entries]—G. N. Marshall, 1st; J. Leighton, 2d.

Hop, Skip and Jump [4 entries]—G. M. Morris, 1st.

100 Yard Race [5 entries], runners on Dominion Day excluded—Geo. Byrnes, 1st; G. M. Morris, 2d.

Running Jump [4 entries]—J. Leighton, 1st.

Horse Race—300 yards, heat—J. Lindsay's b. m. Lizzy, 3. 1. 1; Siwash r. m. Fanny, 1. 2. 2; E. Pearson's c. h. Tom, 2. 3. Lizzy did not run through on first heat, but won the second and third after a close contest with Fanny.

Horse Race—300 yards, H. Wilmot's s. h. Charley, 1. 1; Geo. Byrnes' b.m. Lucy, 2. 2.

There was afterwards an entertainment at the Theatre.

FOURTH OF JULY AT VANWINKLE.

Following is a list of sports—impromptu—held at Vanwinkle on 4th July:

Foot Race, 200 yards, for the Vanwinkle Cup [four entries]—1st prize, John Makin; 2d, E. Cooper.

Foot Race, 100 yards, winner of previous race excluded (five entries]—1st prize, J. Hutcheson; 2d, J. Williams; 3d, J. Davies.

Standing Jump [five entries]—1st prize, J. Bugge; 2d, W. Brown.

Running Hop, Step and Leap [six entries]—1st prize, J. W. Powell; 2d, J. Makin.

Sack Race [three entries]—1st prize, John Makin; 2d, Wm. Archer.

Judges of Sports—William Tucker, Peter Glendinning, and John W. Powell. Treasurer, B. Grunbaum; Secretary, John L. Muir.

MR. J. S. THOMPSON'S SPEECH ON DOMINION DAY.

For over two hundred years the French Government held possession of the maritime provinces and the territories watered by the mighty St. Lawrence. The present provinces of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick then constituted the colony of Acadia; during the wars of the 17th century temporary footholds were acquired by Great Britain, and in 1713 Acadia was finally ceded, continuing as one colony till 1784, when the separate colonies of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick were created. Fifty years after the cession of Acadia, the last French possessions in the present territory of the Dominion passed by treaty from the sway of France to Great Britain. The stubborn conflict on the heights of Abraham, where the gallant Wolfe and his equally gallant opponent, Montcalm, sealed their devotion to their countries with their blood, having four years previously decided the possession of the St. Lawrence. One hundred and twelve years—little over a century—have passed since that battle, and see the change! The descendants of the two contending armies are now to be found side by side, emulating each other in building a New Dominion from the heritage for which their father's fought. I have, so far, merely referred to the original provinces of the Dominion; but when I answer the question to-day, What is the Dominion of Canada? I have to look still further. The province of Manitoba and the territory extending to the base of the Rocky Mountains, have been incorporated with the Dominion. These were the vast hunting grounds of the Hudson Bay Co., but which in years hereafter are destined to afford happy homes for millions. Next let us fancy ourselves to-day upon the highest summit of the Rocky Mountains, and, looking westward, what do we see? Our own British Columbia stretching to the shores of the Pacific, whose limpid waters lave in baptismal welcome the brow of the new-born province which forms the last link in the transcontinental chain—the last star in the constellation, which is destined hereafter to shine so brightly in the northern hemisphere. Of its history I need speak little. It is about eighty years since Mackenzie first explored the region between the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific, about the same time as Vancouver gave his name to the Island of Quadra and Vancouver. Its history since has been almost a blank, until thirteen years ago the discovery of gold first brought settlers to the banks of the Fraser. Since then, you all are familiar with everything that has occurred, till the crowning culmination of our desire has been attained, and one Dominion flag floats o'er all the land from Cape Breton to Vancouver. The fisherman, the lumberer, the farmer, the merchant, the mechanic, the buffalo hunter, the fur trader, and the miner, from east to west, have now become a band of brothers, united by a Confederation which must eventually play a prominent part in the world's history. Where is there so noble a domain as that now owned by the Dominion? Where can the toiling artisans and peasants from closely peopled countries—overcrowded by competition, and unable to earn more than a bare subsistence, and sometimes not even that—look with such prospects of delight as to the broad prairies of the North-west, illimitable, we may say, in their extent? Where is there a country that has made such rapid progress, and which is increasing still so rapidly in population and in commerce as the Dominion? It now occupies the rank of the fourth maritime power in the world; its railways exceed in length those of any other country in proportion to population; its magnificent canals afford facilities, in conjunction with its inland seas, for the transportation of the products of the west to the Atlantic; its manufactures are assuming a prominent position, while its population is increasing in a greater ratio than that of any other civilized nation. But while we congratulate ourselves upon becoming a portion of this Confederation, we have not craved admission as beggars for charity from Canada. Our province brings no trifling contribution to the general stock, although it has been so much depreciated by adverse criticism. [The speaker here read some extracts from the report of the debate in the Senate of Canada on the admission of British Columbia.] You will see that the enlightened statesmen of Canada do not underrate our resources. Independently of our products, our minerals, our timber, our fisheries, we possess what is indispensable towards rendering the Dominion the great and glorious power we wish to see upon this continent. We possess the Pacific coast, without the title to which its progress towards the west would be futile, and the interoceanic railway a myth. Gentlemen, I have done. May success attend our united Dominion; and as each succeeding anniversary of this day occurs, may we have reason, as we mark our progress and advancement, to look back with pride upon the position we have now assumed.

MINING INTELLIGENCE.

WILLIAM CREEK.

The Forest Rose co. last week washed 170 oz. The Ballarat co. have been retarded in consequence of caves, but are now actively engaged. The hydraulic companies continue hard at work, piping night and day, and as the water is holding out better this year than was ever known before, the quantity of ground stripped will, it is anticipated, be twice as much as in any preceding season. The iron pipes of the Flume Co. are doing great execution in the Forward ground, and they have commenced cleaning up some of the ground stripped. The Red Jacket co., out of a small piece of ground which had been partly stripped last fall, washed over 60 oz. The water in the drain is still too high to admit of the creek claims below the canyon working.

VALLEY MOUNTAIN.

The Discovery and Valley Mountain companies continue doing well.

CONKLIN GULCH.

The White Pine have been sinking a new shaft for some time, and are now doing well.

HARVEY CREEK.

The Montrose hydraulic co. have been getting good pay.

LIGHTNING CREEK.

The South Wales co. last week worked only till Friday and washed 85 oz.; for the first half of this week they had 84 oz. The Spruce and Eldorado companies are paying expenses. The Gladstone co. as they advance in gravel find the water increasing, and have been obliged to put more elevators on their belt. The Victoria co. continue drifting in rock; they have hired the iron pump of the Vanwinkle co. The Lightning co. expect shortly to commence pumping out when the surface water slackens. The Vancouver co. have received advice of their new belt, which had to be procured from New York, being on the way.

COUNTY COURT.

(Before H. M. Ball, Esq., Gold Commissioner and County Court Judge.)

WEDNESDAY, July 5, 1871.

R. LIPSETT VS. P. MCENTEE—Suit for $100. In October 1869, plaintiff sold to defendant the right to twenty feet of ground, being a portion of a lot rented from Government in Barkerville. Payment was to be on 1st July, 1870, secured by a mortgage. The mortgage was signed by defendant, but never recorded. Defendant had offered lately to sell the house he had built on the lot to plaintiff for $250, which the latter had agreed to give, deducting the $100 due, and subsequently offered to give $175 and settle the matter. Defendant testified that he thought he had purchased the lot, and that he had since been informed that plaintiff had sold him what he had no right to. He consequently refused payment of the $100, and told him to close his mortgage. On cross-examination he admitted that plaintiff had told him he would have to pay Crown rent.

Mr Barnston, for defendant, contended that plaintiff's only recourse was by proceeding on the mortgage.

Mr Park, for plaintiff, maintained that he had a right to sue for the debt, as it was doubtful if the mortgage could be sustained as it never had been recorded.

The Judge remarked that the record was only required as against a third party, plaintiff had the right at any time since last July to have taken possession. The question of the propriety of the present suit he would take into consideration, and give his decision next day.

On Thursday a decision was given in favor of plaintiff.

PREVENTION BETTER THAN CURE.

I HAVE been requested by several respectable parties, who can testify to the efficacy of my system, to again make public the fact that

Moses' Hair Invigorator

WILL PREVENT BALDNESS,
RESTORE HAIR THAT IS BECOMING THIN OR FALLING OFF, and effectually CURE SCURF OR DANDRUFF.

This is not a mere assertion on my part, as I have in my possession numerous testimonials certifying to the success of my remedy.

I do not of course pretend that I can make the hair grow on heads which have been bald for years; but I will guarantee to stop the hair from falling off, to increase its growth, and effectually remove Scurf or Dandruff.

This is to certify that during last spring my hair was rapidly falling out and my head was fast becoming bald, when I applied to Mr W. D. MOSES, Barber, Barkerville, who in a few weeks restored my hair to its former healthy state. DAVID GIBBONS.
