DEATH OF GOVERNOR SEYMOUR.

A telegram was received on Wednesday by Mr Brew announcing the death of his Excellency the Governor. Bella Coala was named as the place where his Excellency died, but no particulars were telegraphed. His Excellency had not enjoyed the best of health for some time, and about two years ago, when at New Westminster, he was seriously ill, and was not expected to recover. A considerable part of the Governor's life had been spent in tropical climates, and he had passed the age when only a strong constitution can well become accustomed to a change. His Excellency was born in Ireland, but at what period we are unable to say. His education was completed at the University of Bonn. His brother, Major-General Francis Seymour, C.B., Equerry to her Majesty the Queen, was also at the University, and there the brothers formed the acquaintance of Prince Albert, of Sax-Coburg. Governor Seymour, we believe, commenced his career by settling in Australia as a farmer. That did not appear to suit him, for he returned to England, and when a deputation was sent from London to Prince Albert, who was about to cross over from Germany to marry the Queen, Mr Seymour, together with his brother, was one of the deputies. Subsequently he became Assistant Colonial Secretary of one of the Australian colonies—Tasmania, we believe. That office was abolished, and Mr Seymour returned again to England, and shortly afterwards was appointed Special Magistrate of the Island of Antigua, a British dependency in the West Indies. He afterwards became President of Nevis, also in the West Indies. British Honduras was the next place to which his Excellency was assigned, and to the position of Lieutenant-Governor. After the period for which he was appointed had expired, he was gazetted Governor of British Columbia, and on the colonies of Vancouver Island and British Columbia becoming united he remained as Governor of the united colony. In 1865 previous to the union of the colonies, he visited England and the continent of Europe, and, before setting out for British Columbia, married the daughter of the hon. and rev. Sir Francis Stapylton, Baronet. The Stapylton family is one of the most ancient in the heraldry of England. Immediately after the receipt of the news of his Excellency's death, the British flag was placed at half-mast over the court house, and everybody who had a flagstaff and flag did the same.

MINING COURT.

(Before C. Brew, Esq., Gold Commissioner.)

WEDNESDAY, June 16.

BROUSE Co. vs. TRACER Co.—This case, reported in our last issue, came up for judgment, and the Commissioner decided in favor of the defendants. He declared that he had decided to follow the judgments given on previous occasions; that he could not reverse the decisions of his predecessors; that only the Supreme Court could do that.

THE GOVERNORSHIP.

It is but natural that the death of His Excellency the Governor should give rise to some inquiry as to the next probable Governor and to the Governorship itself. A great many surmises are indulged in as to the coming man, all of which may, as often happens in such cases, turn out to be incorrect. The position of Governor in a Crown colony is not a very desirable one, if the gentleman filling it is at all susceptible to popular feeling. No Governor can make himself acceptable to the people while he administers the present form of government. No Governor had probably met with more undeserved opprobrium than the late Governor. The man was too much identified with the office. It should have been the office and not the man against which popular discontent ought to have been directed. It is impossible, says a good old axiom, to serve two masters, and it is impossible for any Governor to satisfy Downing street and the colonists as well. The Governor of a Crown colony is required to administer affairs, not as the people wish, but as the Colonial Office dictates. His sympathies may be with the people, but his duty and interests are with the Colonial Office. Hence, when speaking of the government of this colony, we have never singled out any individual member of the government for blame or criticism. It is the system, not the officers of the government which we condemn. Therefore, we say that the late Governor was made the mark of undeserved opprobrium. Who will succeed him? It matters very little whoever he may be. He will, like his predecessor, be required to perform his duties, not with reference to the wishes of the colonists, but will be governed by the dictum of the Colonial Office. But while it is not a matter of much consequence who shall be our next Governor, it is a matter of much consequence that the salary should be reduced. The salary is entirely out of proportion with the circumstances of the colony. Now is the time for the Colonial Office to reduce the expenditure of the colony to the extent of at least $10,000. That is quite a respectable sum, and a respectable sum would still be left, if the salary were reduced to that extent, for any respectable Governor. A short time ago the Colonial Office directed the Governor to reduce the expenditure of the colony to a figure below its revenues. Last year, we believe, the Governor, faithfully studying the mandates of Downing street, succeeded in doing so. Public improvements, roads, schools and benevolent institutions had, however, to suffer the gashing of the retrenchment knife, for none of the big salaries of the Crown officers were touched. Let the Colonial Office take advantage of the present opportunity and take a lesson, as well as give one, in economy, by cutting down the enormous salary given on account of the governorship. $10,000 could be well turned to better account than in keeping up a show of viceregalty so ridiculously inconsistent with the condition and number of the colonists. A fair medium between parsimony and prodigality would be established by such a reduction. It is not the desire nor custom of colonists to be parsimonious, but the present amount fixed for the Governor's salary is extremely prodigal. The Crown revenues may, according to the rules of the Colonial Office, justify it; but the Crown revenues should be reduced; they are much too high, and the mining population pay the greater part of them. Too much occupied with their claims to pay attention to public matters, and too much scattered on the different creeks to make their discontent fully known and felt by a united and unanimous voice, the miners, who have been the principal source of the colony's welfare, keenly feel the weight of the Crown revenue exactions. They do not care much who shall be Governor, but they care very much about the taxes crowded on to them in every shape and manner, to swell the Crown revenues, to support the extravagance of the Downing street appointees.

PARTIALITY—FAVORITISM.

EDITOR SENTINEL:—The practice of calling upon the inhabitants of this colony to serve upon juries, irrespective of nationality, is doubtless a good one. I can easily conceive that when a foreigner is brought before the court, it looks well to see some of his own countrymen acting as jurors. There is an appearance of impartiality—of justice, in fact—that speaks well for the institutions of the country; but when foreigners are summoned to act as jurors in undue proportion to the detriment of their business, while British subjects, whose business is of such a nature as to enable them to leave it at any time, are not so summoned, I cannot help but think that a fair impartiality is not manifested on the part of the officer whose duty it is to form juries, and that favoritism, or some other reason actuates that functionary. Myself and partner, both foreigners, were compelled to serve as jurors, and the nature of our business causes much inconvenience and it might be, loss, unless one of us is there to attend to it, while a number of men who could easily have served were not summoned at all. I honor the jury system, but I dislike its inconvenience when too heavily pressed, without any necessity.

FAIRPLAY.

BARKERVILLE, June 18, 1869.

A GREAT GRIEVANCE.

EDITOR SENTINEL:—We might as well live under a completely despotic government rather than the one we have, which is a half-and-half arrangement—neither fish nor flesh, and bad fowl. Just think of it. We have a Gold Commissioner who is clothed with a power not given to magistrates in the most despotic countries. His decisions in many cases are final; there is no appeal. One would have thought the Grouse creek trouble would have taught the government a lesson. The colony was put to a great expense through that little affair, and nothing has since been done to prevent such cases arising, as they are apt to do, at any time. Now, I do not mean to say that the decision of the Gold Commissioner upon the several questions brought before him, and against which no appeal is allowed, were the result either of prejudice or incompetency; but I do say that where a judge has had no legal education, and his natural abilities are considerably weakened through the infirmity of age, it is very like tyranny to be compelled to abide by his dictum. If the law, as was stated by the Chief Justice the other day, is final and conclusive with reference to the decision of a Gold Commissioner upon questions of fact, why is it allowed to remain upon the statute books? The dissatisfaction at the existence of such a law is widespread, and the sooner it is repealed the better. It seems, however, that government can either enforce the law or suspend its operation, just as it suits their pleasure or convenience. So far as I understand the constitution of this colony—if there be such a thing—the Executive is bound to enforce a colonial law and cannot go beyond it. The Governor has no arbitrary power to suspend it. It seems, however, that the Executive, right or wrong, did go beyond the law, when they saw themselves in a little trouble about the Grouse creek matter. If the law is final and conclusive in respect of decisions of a Gold Commissioner, why was Judge Needham empowered to reopen a question which, according to the interpretation of the Chief Justice, could not be done under the law? I do not question the decision of Judge Needham, but I question his right to go beyond the law. It is clear that we have a government which, like the mountebank, says,—"Now you see it, and now you don't." It suits them at one time to say you shall have this case reheard, and at another time they say you shall not, when precisely a similar question is at issue.

BARKERVILLE, June 18th, 1869.

TRAFFIC.—Thos. Hutchinson's pack train of 54 animals arrived from Quesnelmouth yesterday afternoon.

"A GREAT GRIEVANCE."—A communication from "Miner" appears in this issue of the SENTINEL, complaining about that part of the Mining Ordinance which says that "the decision of a Gold Commissioner upon matters of fact shall be final and conclusive, and no appeal shall lie therefrom." "Miner" is unjustly severe in his remarks upon the government in this matter. As we understand the subject, neither the government, the Chief Justice, nor any one else but miners themselves, are to blame for the passage and continued existence of the law which "Miner" objects to. It was at the request of the miners that the right of appeal upon matters of fact was interdicted by law. It is the fault of the miners that the law stands as it is. If it is desirable that the law should be altered, we presume that the miners, if they wished, could undo their own work by bringing the subject before the Legislative Council. It was the Mining Board, who ought to have understood the wishes and interests of the miners, who were instrumental in the first place in pressing the adoption of the law as it stands.

THE NEW GOVERNOR.—New evidence of the determination of the Imperial Government to unite the whole of British North America is manifest in the appointment of Governor Musgrave to the Governorship of British Columbia. This gentleman was appointed to the Governorship of Newfoundland about two years ago, especially with the view of bringing the Newfoundlanders into the Dominion of Canada. It is presumable that he has so far succeeded as to leave that province with the assurance that the preliminary steps already taken will result in the accomplishment of his efforts and policy. His appointment to this colony, where the salary of the Governor is considerably greater than that of the Governor of Newfoundland, is no doubt intended as promotion for his success in the latter colony; and now the Home Government considers British Columbia as the next field for his peculiar qualifications.

FATAL ACCIDENT.

Mrs. J. Senay was drowned this morning by the upsetting of the ferry boat on Quesnel river. Three men were also in the boat at the time.

SUPREME COURT OF THE MAINLAND.

M. B. Deane, Chief Justice, presiding.

WEDNESDAY, June 16.

His Lordship, the Chief Justice, opened Court at Richfield at 11 a.m., when the following persons were sworn in as Grand Jurors:

Wm. Meacham, Felix Neufelder, I. Oppenheimer, J. Wark, C. J. Jones, G. Grant, J. S. Thompson, James Wickham, Thos. Briggs, J. H. Todd, Wm. Davison, L. G. Coombs, R. Brown, J. O. Floyd, O. Lambert, J. Polmere, C. Hankin, H. Havelock, R. W. Carrall, T. DeNovion, L. Thwing, E. Dewdney.

J. S. Thompson was chosen foreman. His Lordship, in his address, said to the Grand Jury that although the prisoner against whom the only criminal indictment was brought before them had escaped, it was advisable to proceed in the usual manner and bring in a bill or no bill, as if they found a true bill against him, he could be put upon his trial before a jury whenever found.

The Grand Jury, after having considered the indictment, found a true bill against Jesse Pearce for manslaughter, having caused the death of Wm. Phillips. Some more indictments were presented to his lordship, when he inquired whether the Grand Jury had received intelligence of the death of Governor Seymour. The foreman replied that they had, and had decided to send, by telegraph, to Mrs. Seymour a message of condolence.

His lordship then adjourned the Court until next day.

THURSDAY, June 17.

The Grand Jury brought in true bills on the indictments against R. Lipsett, A. Weldon, F. J. Barnard and Chun Kee. The bills against Lipsett, Barnard and Chun Kee charge those parties with nuisance in having their buildings projected beyond the line of the street in Barkerville. The Chief Justice, at request of counsel, postponed the consideration of these cases until Tuesday in order to allow the parties concerned time to prepare for defence. In the case of Weldon, who was indicted for endangering the town in having large quantities of firewood piled about in different places, thus increasing the dangers of conflagration, he thought it was advisable to proceed at once. After some discussion, however, the whole of the bills were laid over until Tuesday next.

Hon. G. A. Walkem, on behalf of the Crown, applied to have the bonds estreated of the two Klotzmen, defaulting witnesses in the case of Jesse Pearce, charged with manslaughter.

WILLIAM CREEK BEDROCK FLUME CO. vs. FORWARD CO.—When this case was called, Mr. Walker and Mr. Park, on behalf of appellants and respondents respectively, announced that the matter had been settled out of court.

GALSBER AND OTHERS vs. SAWMILL CO.—This was an appeal from the judgment of the Gold Commissioner. Galsber and others, members of the Erierson co., had mined a portion of the ground claimed by the Sawmill company, and had been ejected therefrom, and damages to the amount of $500 had been awarded to the Sawmill co.

Hon. Mr. Walkem, on behalf of appellants, urged that they were entitled to a trial in this court on the ground that improper evidence had been admitted in the case while in the lower court, because five of the witnesses spoke merely from hearsay and without knowledge of the facts as to the question of boundary.

Mr. Walker, for respondents, submitted that there could be no appeal, because the suit in the lower court was entirely a question of fact.

A long discussion ensued between the Chief Justice and Mr. Walkem as to whether the case could be appealed. His lordship persistently denied the right to appeal in this case, quoted from the law, and illustrated his arguments by referring to numerous other instances in which an appeal was denied.

Mr. Walker contended that in order to have brought up this case on a point of law it was necessary to have drawn the attention of the Gold Commissioner to what was considered improper evidence when the question was in the lower court, and to have given notice of appeal thereon, but as the case now came into court there was no point of law at all on which to claim the right of appeal. The question was entirely one of fact.

His Lordship, in reply to Mr. Walkem, stated that it was impossible for him to say whether the Gold Commissioner had based his decision upon the evidence of the five witnesses, whose evidence was alleged to have been inadmissible, or upon the testimony of those witnesses whose evidence was not disputed. The law distinctly states that "the decision of a Gold Commissioner upon matters of fact shall be final and conclusive, and no appeal shall lie therefrom;" that the Legislature had thought it advisable, prudent, necessary, proper, just and wise that there should be no appeal on matters of fact, and he was bound to go by the law, which was very clear on that point. He did not choose to run a coach and four through the Ordinance, though it might be open to such an act. It was best to obey the law.

LILLOOET CO. vs. MELLODY.—The respondent had obtained judgment in the lower court for $500 for labor done. An agreement had been entered into to pay certain contractors, of whom Melody was one, from the first dividend declared, and the question in the lower court, and which now constituted the basis of appeal, was, when shareholders work in a claim and receive wages, whether such receipt of wages constituted a dividend.

Mr. Barnston, for respondent, contended that where shareholders paid themselves wages out of the proceeds of the claim before paying wages for labor done by other parties not shareholders, it was really a dividend, and they became liable to pay according to the agreement made.

To this the Judge answered that a debtor has a right to pay any of his creditors without regard to priority; that if the company had not employed shareholders to work they must have employed somebody else; that the payment of wages to shareholders was not a dividend; that wages are payment in respect of labor, and a dividend is payment in respect of capital; that honest workmen in the claim have as good a right to be paid as well as the owner of capital. Two agreements, said the Judge, had been made—one, that the contractors should be paid before the first dividend shall have been declared; and the second, that they should be paid when the first dividend was made. He had no doubt that the two agreements, which were very vaguely drawn, were intended to express the same thing, and the real question before the court was, whether when the respondent undertook to do the work he intended to agree to wait until a dividend came out of the claim. The Gold Commissioner had ordered that payment should be made because a dividend had been declared. He came to the same conclusion as the Gold Commissioner, but in a different way. His (the Chief Justice) view was that no dividend had been declared, and that payment should be made because there appeared to be no time fixed for payment. This, of course, would be subject to any evidence on that point.

Mr. Walkem then called Mr. McLean, foreman of the company, and Mr. Meacham, one of the contractors, who both agreed in testifying that before the work was undertaken it was distinctly stated and understood that it should be paid for when the claim paid over and above expenses.

Melody, sworn—Said he was not at any of the meetings when the agreement was drawn; that he had wanted to leave as he was too poor to wait for his money; that McLean did not exactly insist upon his remaining at work but coaxed him to do so; that he said it would be all right—he would see him through; that he had entered into the agreement before the court; had signed it over the windlass; didn't expect any money before it came out of the ground; the understanding was that he was to be paid before a dividend was made.

His Lordship decided that payment should be made according to the agreement, which exempted the shareholders from individual responsibility, but did not state the time of payment, and an execution against the joint property of the company might be issued at any time.

HORTICULTURAL.—Ordinary garden vegetables have thriven well this season about Barkerville. In one patch below the town we notice green pea vines a foot high, and lettuce, radishes, etc., have been brought to great perfection. One enthusiastic horticulturist has a few potato plants, which look as agreeable as though they were at home in Ireland. If future summers prove as mild as the present, the richest claim a man could own would be potato diggings.

MINING BRIEVITIES.—The Barker co. washed up 90 oz. on Wednesday and the Foster-Campbell 55½ oz. Clearbue & Co. have commenced to run a tunnel under the wagon-road, near the mouth of Stout gulch, to work the ground on the left of the bridge. Some parties have commenced to sink a shaft in the Morning Star co.'s ground below the town. On Stout gulch, the Taffvale co., up to Thursday, had washed up 70 oz. A few picks have been discharged owing to the scarcity of water. On Wednesday the Combs co. washed up 50 oz. A new feature in Stout gulch is the increasing yield of the Floyd co.'s ground, from which 102 oz. was taken on Thursday. Another prospect has been struck by the Indian Queen co. on Conklin gulch. The Montezuma co. have suspended operations for a time. The McDowell co. have got down to gravel in their shaft and struck a little prospect. This looks like a continuation of the channel from the Felix and White Pine co.'s ground. On Lightning Creek operations are being vigorously pushed, though nothing of importance is reported. A considerable number of men are at work, and many claims are taking out gold in places where they are not seen. The Discovery (Dunbar) claim had commenced to wash, but with what results we have not yet learned. It is said by parties who were looking at the dump-box that the prospects are very good. Another company—the Holly Crew (Brown & Co.)—are also about to commence washing. Matters look lively in the Fishlake Lass co.'s claim; they are working three shifts in their drive under the wagon-road. Operations on Grouse Creek remain about the same as last reported. The Flume co. up to yesterday had not washed up. A few returned Big Benders have gone out to prospect beyond the mountain range on the north side of the Meadows, where they obtained good prospects some years ago. We understand that the Stout Gulch co.'s will not construct the ditch to connect with the Flume co.'s ditch without a guarantee that they will be constantly supplied with water. The Flume co. will stop hydraulic on Monday next. The Barker co. had another wash-up yesterday when they obtained 50 oz. The White Pine continue to get pay, and the Felix ground looks a little better.

DROUGHT.—The prospects for good crops this year are very poor on all those farms where a supply of water is not available. Droughty weather has shrivelled the young plants, and it will especially be hard upon many of the new settlers who have contracted debts for a start, and relied upon this year's crop for the wherewithal to discharge them. Some of the farmers, like the miner, entirely depend upon the fall of rain for the supply of water, and the result is barrenness. Where, however, the farmers have from the first relied upon irrigation and have ditches to supply them with water, there will be little difference between this year's crop and the last, because only in a few instances will the sources of supply be so affected by the weather as to leave the farm without some, at least, of the nourishing moisture. Altogether the crop will not be so large as that of last year; but if it be true, as has been stated, that there is yet a very large supply of flour in the colony, we need not apprehend any actual necessity for foreign supplies.

MELANCHOLY ACCIDENT.—A telegram to the SENTINEL announces the death by drowning of Mrs. J. Senay by the upsetting of the ferry boat in the Quesnel River. It is presumable that the unfortunate lady is the wife of Mr. J. T. Senay, one of the proprietors of the Colonial Hotel, Soda Creek. She was married to Mr. Senay on the 11th August, last year, in Victoria. Her maiden name was Miss Annie Wall. Mr. Senay will have the condoling sympathies of all who know him.

NOTICE.—Mr. C. McCallum has reopened business in the store next above the Bank of British Columbia, where he has a large assortment of Dry Goods, comprising Pants, Shirts, Drawers, Neck-Ties and other apparel. Also, a lot of best French and English Tweeds. Mr. McC. continues his tailoring business, and makes Pants to order, and of the best material. He sells his goods cheap and for cash.

A CHANGE, INDEED.—Frank Leslie's Illustrated Newspaper, by the last express, contains a portrait and a biographical sketch of Hon. Oscar J. Dunn, Lieutenant-Governor of Louisiana, a colored man. Leslie says the office sought the man, and not the man the office. A most remarkable change must have come over the Louisianans.

BUILDING.—The building of stores and improvement of those already built in Barkerville, show that confidence in the future of Cariboo is as firm as ever. One has just been finished and a few others are progressing toward completion. The gold is here, and business and merchandise come to its neighborhood, though not in proportion to what the country is capable of engaging were its resources even moderately developed.

THE FIRE BRIGADE APPARATUS.—Messrs. Adams & Percy are rivetting the iron pipes to be laid on the hill to connect with the cisterns. The cisterns are finished, with the exception of the canking, which can be quickly done. No information respecting the hose ordered in California has been received lately, and it is not known when it may be expected to arrive.

CHANCE FOR BARGAINS.—Mr. Wm. Rennie has just received a large increase to his stock of boots, which he will sell at unusually low prices, having bought them at the lowest rates. Those who do not purchase ready-made boots, and who wish a first-class boot combining neatness, strength and durability, can obtain the same from Mr. R., who continues making boots to order.

THE BEST COFFEE.—In order to obtain a first-class coffee, it is necessary to secure the very best berries, and to roast them according to the most approved method. This is done by Wilson & Rickman, Fort Street, Victoria, who are prepared to furnish, for cash, Coffee that never fails to elicit the approbation of those who use it.

DEDICATION.—Don't forget to attend the dedication service of the Rev. Mr. Derrick tomorrow. When we had no ministers or churches in Barkerville we thought ourselves somewhat aggrieved at the neglect of the Christian world, and now that we have them let us show ourselves worthy of them by giving respectful attention and substantial encouragement. They well deserve both.

"THE LAW'S DELAY."—Yesterday a case came before the County Court, when it had to be postponed on account of some informality in the official documents, which had been returned from Lytton. This is the second time the same case has been postponed through a technical blunder. The papers are to be sent back to Lytton to correct the error.

FROM CALIFORNIA.—Three men arrived on Thursday from the northern part of California via Oregon and Kootenay on horse. They started first for Kootenay, and on the way met some parties returning from there disappointed, whereupon they concluded to come to Cariboo.

FRESH BUTTER.—Messrs. DeNovion & Kurtz are receiving by every fast express quantities of the finest fresh butter, put up in rolls, to suit the demand. The colonial butter, at this season of the year, is acknowledged to be superior to any imported butter.

THE FOURTH OF JULY.—Our American cousins intend to celebrate Independence Day, and have subscribed about $400 for the purpose. A pyrotechnic display will be given, the necessary material having been already ordered.

EXPRESS.—A dispatch was received from Quesnelmouth last night stating that the express might be expected to arrive here this morning, it having started from the Mouth about nine o'clock, p. m. The return express will leave at six o'clock this evening.

DOMINION DAY.—A public meeting of the subscribers to the Dominion Day fund was held in the Theatre on Thursday evening. Committees were appointed to carry out the programme agreed upon, which will be published to-day.

THEATRICAL.—The amateurs announce that they will give a performance at the Theatre to-night. A good entertainment may be expected, several careful rehearsals having been given to the pieces selected.

ADMINISTRATOR.—The telegram which announced the death of Governor Seymour also stated that the Hon. P. Hankin, Colonial Secretary, had assumed the administration of the government.

FRIL'S COFFEE has now stood the test of the last eight years, has superseded entirely the imported Charles Coffee, and is now kept and sold by all respectable dealers.

PORCINE.—Glorious times are in prospect for Chinatown. Ah Hog & Co. yesterday arrived in Barkerville with a drove of hogs from the porcine counties.

REMOVAL.—Dr Chipp announces that he has removed to his newly-built store, opposite the Bank of British Columbia.

DIED.

On the 14th inst., at Richfield, British Columbia, Francis Eleanor, the daughter of F. V. Lee, aged 8 days.

SONG OF THE "DOMINION BOYS" IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

Air.—Tramp! Tramp!
Come, boys, let's sing a song;
For the day it won't be long,
When united to our country we will be;
Then the "Maple Leaf" entwined,
And the "Beaver," too, combined,
With Old England's flag shall float upon the sea.
Chorus: Tramp! Tramp! Tramp! the New
Dominion,
Now is knocking at the door,
So, good bye, dear Uncle Sam,
As we do not care a clum
For your Greenbacks or your bunkum any more.

With your Alabama claims,
And your other little games,
You thought "Old John" would gladly let us go;
And tho' Bright may be your friend,
That's a game that has an end,
When you tread upon the British Lion's toe.
Chorus: Tramp! Tramp! &c.

Then, boys, fill a bowl,
And let each jolly soul
"Labour" as he never dared to do before.
And here's to thee, Sir John,
Whom we "go our pile upon,"
And the "Conjuror" knocking at the door.

Chorus: Tramp! Tramp! Tramp! the New
Dominion,
Now is knocking at the door,
And, please God, before 'his long,
We will sing this little song
With the country that is knocking at the door.

MISCELLANEOUS

Mr. Louis Ulbach, an eminent French journalist, was recently fined 300 francs for stating that the name Napoleon was derived from two Greek words which signified hangman. The Public Minister thought the sentence was light, and appealed against it to the Imperial Court. The result is that M. Ulbach's fine has been raised to 500 francs, and, in addition, he is to suffer six months imprisonment.

A fact that hints explanation of probably many mysterious fires, was discovered in repairing a room in a block in Greenfield, Mass. In tearing off the plastering it was found that the heat from a gas burner twenty-eight inches below the plastering, had burned a hole through the lathing, and that the fire had then gone out for want of air.

Of the Spanish triumphs, Marshal Serrano affects republican simplicity in his mode of life; he has refused to have a guard of honor stationed in front of his palace, and displays the utmost affability in his intercourse with his people.
