New council sworn in this week

Sechelt poised for new beginning

by John Burnside

The swearing-in of the newly elected council of the new district municipality of Sechelt takes place this week and the historic occasion will be marked in unique fashion.

The event will take place at Hackett Park at 6:30 p.m. on Monday, June 30 and residents of the new district municipality are invited to bring a picnic dinner and enjoy the live music provided by Nikki Weber and associates in the park after the official ceremony.

Dignitaries invited to attend include Deputy Minister of Municipal Affairs Chris Woodward, regional board directors and aldermen of Gibsons and Sechelt past and present.

In the unlikely event that rain mars the day the ceremony will be switched to the annex of nearby Rockwood Lodge which Mayor-elect Bud Koch says can hold 200 to 300 people.

Mayor-elect Koch is upbeat about the challenges faced by the new seven member council.

"It's exciting," Koch told the Coast News on the eve of the council's inauguration. "I feel we have a good group of aldermen, many of them experienced. I don't expect any surprises. The first meeting of the elected council as a group was very pleasant and amicable. All of us are conscious that there's a job to be done and that we're going to be watched very closely. We'll be putting our best foot forward."

The Mayor-elect of the new Sechelt cited the construction of the new free-launch boat ramp on Indian Land at Selma Park as an example of what can be done.

"It's indicative of a new can-do attitude," said Koch. "The new district municipality working together with the Sechelt Indian Band has accomplished something that should have been done years ago. We are opening up our waterways for residents and tourists alike. Now in a matter of 25 minutes a boat owner can get his boat from the Gulf of Georgia to Sechelt Inlet, and there will be two and a half acres of parking right there at the Selma Park ramp."

On the often controversial subject of tourism development, Mayor-elect Koch has some very definite views.

"Spending all this money on promotion and advertising is all very well," said Koch, "but I wonder if it's not putting the cart before the horse. If some of the money spent on tourism around here this year had been spent on improving our existing amenities we would have been better off.

"We have to make the Sunshine Coast as nice a place as possible for the residents, improving our facilities and infrastructure. If we have contented and cheerful people on the Coast exuding contentment and if we have the facilities to take care of tourists when they get here, then the tourists will automatically come and come again and again."

Koch offered the view that the numbers of tourists which pass through the Sunshine Coast at present are more than ample for the economic needs of the area if they can be persuaded to stay over for a few days instead of just passing through.

At a prior informal meeting Mayor-elect Koch had laid the groundwork for a productive council term by making committee appointments.

Alderman-elect Ken Short heads up the Management Committee with veteran council members Kolibas and Craig as committee members. Short is also the Chairman of the Planning Committee, which is a committee of the whole council.

Alderman-elect Craig becomes Chairman of the Finance Committee; to Len Herder goes the chairmanship of the Public Works Committee; re-elected Alderman Anne Langdon is the Chairman of the Tourism Ways and Means Committee; out-going mayor and alderman-elect Joyce Kolibas will continue to look after Sechelt's interest on the regional board; Mike Shanks will head up the Arena and Parks Committee; and Mayor-elect Koch will chair the Airport Committee as well as serving ex-officio on all other committees.

Mayor-elect Koch reported that there had been over 100 applications for four new municipal positions; one secretary, two labourers, and a works foreman - but that no appointments had yet been made.

The new district municipality's mayor-elect made a strong commitment to open government.

"There will be no in-camera meetings," said Koch, "other than those called for under the Municipal Act concerning personnel or land acquisitions. There are a lot of good things we can do and we are not going to be ashamed to be seen to be doing them."

Algae bloom causes fish kill

An infestation of algae bloom has wreaked havoc at Scantech's Wood Bay fish farm. On Sunday a large crew was busy slaughtering fish as fast as possible so that the company can sell them. The fish are not harmful if harvested promptly.

"We are taking as many as we can before they die," Scantech president Clark Hamilton told the Coast News Sunday.

The infestation which happens once every seven years according to Hamilton, deprives the fish of oxygen so that they die rapidly.

"It seems to have happened over a 12 hour period. The water was murky yesterday and last week also. It could be it happening twice is what has killed them," Hamilton continued.

More details were not available at press time; Hamilton was very busy trying to save what he can of the company's fish and avert a complete disaster.

Cavalcade '86

This year's Sea Cavalcade will be held on July 25 to 27.

It promises to be an exciting event with one of the highlights being the Miss Sea Cavalcade contest.

Contestants are Miss Andy's Restaurant, Tracey Strom; Miss Lower Gibsons, Victoria Gazeley; Miss GVFD, Jennifer Rhodes; Miss Salish Industries, Tracy Skytte; Miss Gibsons Building Supplies, Teri Jossull; Miss Cedars Plaza, Leanne Middleton; Miss Sunnycrest Mall, Maureen Duteau and Miss Gibsons Legion, Leilainia Larsen.

Nine jobs immediately

Fish feed mill opens in Gibsons

by Brad Benson

The promise of new jobs and businesses to support the rapidly growing aquaculture industry on the West Coast was fulfilled in part on June 27, when Trend Feed Industries officially opened for business.

Representatives from the aquaculture industry, including fish farmers, educators, staff members from the Department of Fisheries and Oceans and equipment suppliers were present in addition to family and supporters for a ribbon cutting ceremony that marked a culmination of two years' effort in creating the local fish feed company.

Located in Gibsons' industrial park, the company can now manufacture dry (pelletized) fish feed in differing sizes and formulas. In a new addition, soon to be completed, moist and semi-moist feed will also be manufactured.

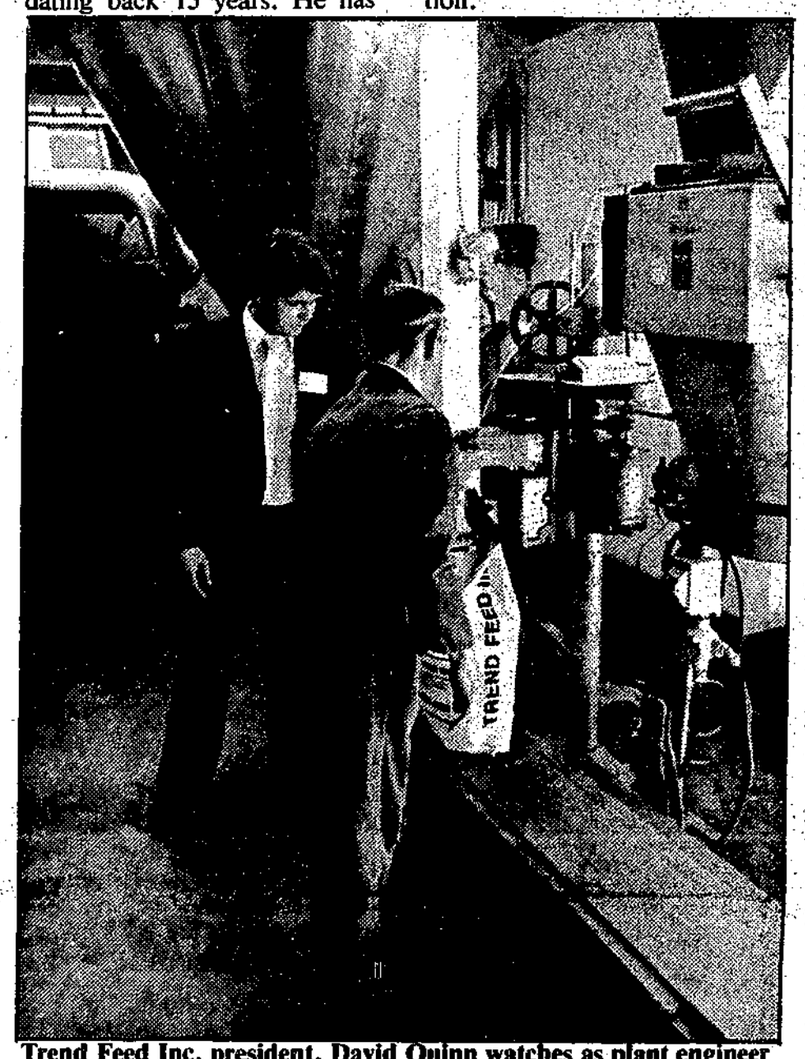
The company's pelletizing operation is capable of producing 10 metric tonnes per day. These capacities amount to only a small part of the projected market. West Coast fish farms are expected to consume 55 tonnes per day by 1988 according to an article in the Spring Edition of Canadian Aquaculture and are expected to reach 82 tonnes per day by 1995.

The requirement for proper quality control was recognized early in the company's formation when Jack Markert was brought aboard. Formally a chemist with the Department of Fisheries and Oceans' West Vancouver Labratory, Markert was involved with their production of "West Van 33", a specially formulated fish feed. Now responsible for production and quality control, Markert feels, "our quality is as good as anybody's, perhaps a little better."

Bob Cairns of United Agri Systems, who designed the company's equipment systems stated that "the plant is relatively hand operated, but it allows them to be absolutely pure in changing over from one formula to another."

The company was founded by Sechelt Indian Band member David Quinn who is the major shareholder. Now 30 years old, Quinn has experience with the commercial fishery dating back 15 years. He has also attended business college and has worked in marketing and management with his brother's plastics business in Vancouver.

Assistance in establishing the company was received from the Department of Regional Economic Expansion in the form of a grant which has helped employ five of the company's nine employees. Two or three more will be hired as the company moves into full production.



Trend Feed Inc. president, David Quinn watches as plant engineer Walter Gillespie loads and sews up a bag of their pelletized fish feed during a demonstration at their new plant last Friday. See story.

Almost 40 acres lost

Forest fire surprises

Between 35 and 40 acres of a Jackson Brothers logging block went up in smoke last week in the first serious forest fire of the season.

The fire was a surprise to the logging company and to the forest service whose fire hazard is on "low". The company does its own testing each day and nothing in their results indicated that the fire hazard was high enough to be seriously concerned.

Greg Hemphill of the Sechelt Forestry office explained that the steep conditions of the site and the breeze which was blowing on Wednesday afternoon when the fire began all contributed to the blaze's quick spread.

Six loads of fire retardant were air-dropped on Wednesday evening after the first report at 7 o'clock, Hemphill told the Coast News and another nine loads were dropped on Thursday morning.

Jacksons had a 35 man crew out to fight the blaze which was contained by Thursday.

"They did a good job of looking after it," he said. "These things happen - site conditions were prime. Now there's a long job of mopping up to do.

"Fire danger was low but that could increase rapidly if the weather gets hot. It's time to be extra cautious and we have extra crews on stand-by."

Damage has not yet been calculated according to Carol Bystedt of Jackson Brothers. She told the Coast News on Friday that two machines - the tower and a loader - had been damaged and a lot of fell and bucked timber either damaged or destroyed.

Numerous hot-spots were still smouldering but crews were on hand to keep watch and start the long process of cleaning up.

The public is reminded that to report a forest fire call Zenith 5555 or the local forestry office at 885-5174.

When is a by-law not a by-law?

We have been watching with some interest reports of the dispute between Tangent Enterprises Ltd. and the Gibsons Marina over rates being charged at the marina's landing ramp. (See letter to the editor on page 15.)

We must note that when sandwich boards were on the sidewalks last summer in contravention of a municipal by-law there was no talk about council mediating a dispute. The retailers involved were told brusquely by a municipal employee to obey the by-law.

There can be no justification for the town not enforcing its existing by-law. If it is wrong it can be changed, but until it is changed it is in effect.

Nor can the argument be swallowed whole that since the by-law did not specify different uses, a commercial rate could be charged. This may arguably have been an oversight in the drafting of the original by-law but the only rates authorised are the rates that are in the by-law, that is $2 per usage.

Art McGinnis of Gibsons Marina has been very active politically in support of members of this council; that the council is all of one political persuasion is also true. What we have here, to our shame, would appear to be legislation being introduced retroactively to legitimize illegal actions on the part of the political friends of our elected representatives.

This is the type of behaviour in office that gives democracy a bad name. It may be time to bring the agreement between Gibsons and Gibsons Marina under full scrutiny. There may be other and greater discrepancies.

Good luck to new Sechelt

There is a sense of adventure, of uncertainty which is oddly stimulating in Sechelt as the council of the new district municipality is sworn in this week.

All residents of the Sunshine Coast must recognize that a real and major permanent change has taken place here in the formation of this new district municipality.

All residents of the Sunshine Coast will, whichever side they were on in the recent political debate about restructuring, wish the men and women who must guide the new district municipality in its difficult fledgling days all good luck in their task.

May they, through the paths of harmony and co-operation, find the way to success in their endeavours. The entire Sunshine Coast will be watching their efforts with profound interest.

Irvines Landing School will close June 29, it was decided at a school board meeting held June 27. Students will be transferred to Madeira Park School.

The annual Canada-Japan student exchange program for 1966 has begun with the departure from Vancouver of six University of B.C. students for a two and a half month stay in Japan. The six UBC undergraduates will live with Japanese families and see student life at Kei and Tokyo Universities. Six Japanese students will arrive in Vancouver to stay in UBC residences, sample courses during UBC's summer session and visit Gibsons, Victoria, Calgary and Banff. Among the travelling students is Nancy Leslie, Gibsons, 2nd year education.

The distinctive and unmistakable figure of George Gibson, the founder of Gibsons, stands in the garden of his homestead near the head of Gibsons Wharf. This year marks the centennial anniversary of Gibson's founding of the town which new bears his name.

Jack Mayne - a tribute

Of the passing of Jack Mayne in St. Mary's Hospital a week ago last Sunday it can be truly said that his going marks the end of an era.

John Wilfred Mayne was born in Liverpool, England, on April 8, 1891. He came to Canada in 1910, working for the CPR in Vancouver.

In a personal history of Sechelt written in 1956 and reprinted five years ago in the Coast News tribute to the then, village on the occasion of its 25th anniversary of incorporation, Mr. Mayne told of how he first came to Sechelt in 1914 for a summer holiday.

At the end of that first magic summer, World War I broke out and Jack Mayne with many others of his generation went to the battlefields of Europe where he served with distinction.

It was 1921 before he again visited the village that was to become his home for more than 60 years. He had married his wife Carrie in County Armagh in Ireland just after the war and they settled together in the house at the junction of Cowrie Street and Inlet Avenue which was to be their home for the next 50 years until Carrie's death in 1974. Jack Mayne continued to live in the same location until he left us.

During his long productive years in Sechelt Jack Mayne served as the village postmaster for many years and later as the magistrate. He became a Notary Public in 1955 and spent the rest of his working life in that profession.

He served also on the first school board in Sechelt and was a trustee on the hospital board when the hospital was in Garden Bay. He was active in the building of the Holy Family Church which he attended regularly until the end, and was a charter member of the Sechelt Legion from which body he received his 50 year pin in 1978 and which also honoured him by naming its auditorium in his honour.

The Royal Canadian Legion, the Society of Notaries Public, and the Sechelt and District Chamber of Commerce, of which he was also a charter member, all honoured him with life memberships.

His recollections of Sechelt in the early days are lit by an affectionate nostalgia. He recalled how 'the road to Porpoise Bay in the 1920's was just a pathway through the overhanging trees'; in 1928, Jack Mayne's Model A Ford was one of the three automobiles in Sechelt along with 'Joe Martin's Galloping Goose truck'. The truck was so named by a columnist for the Vancouver Province who said the truck seemed to jump over the ruts in the terrible roads just like a goose.

And Mayne remembered: "The roads were terrible and it was a real hardship to go to Gibsons. There was no road to Pender Harbour, good or bad, so our trips were either to Roberts Creek or Gibsons Landing. Even with the bad roads we never missed a dance at Roberts Creek or Gibsons Landing. The dances were usually held in the schoolhouse with violin and accordion as the orchestra. They were pleasant days and everyone knew each other.

"During the winter Union Steamships ran four steamers a week to Sechelt and three to Vancouver. During the summer there was a boat every day with the Friday night boat being known as the 'Daddies' Boat' with all the daddies coming up from Vancouver with bacon and other goodies. It was a great time on the Sechelt Wharf with all the kids shouting, 'Hello Daddy, did you bring...?'

Jack Mayne remembered the coming of telephones; of electricity, he helped fight the fire which burnt down the Sechelt Hotel in the summer of 1937; the first doctor in Sechelt worked out of a room in Jack Mayne's house in 1939, the same year that Jack became a Stipendiary Magistrate.

In his recollections of Sechelt for the 25th Anniversary tribute in 1981, Jack Mayne closed with these words:

"Sechelt has come a long way since the turn of the century. What will it be like at the beginning of the next, I wonder?"

Jack did not live long enough to answer his own question but he did manage to see the day when the little settlement became a district municipality and we like to think that the place he loved and cherished and looked on from his quiet home in the centre of town made him proud and happy just before his end as it moved into a new era.

Of Jack Mayne it can be said that he watched his chosen place grow from a miniscule settlement to a district municipality, the largest on the Sunshine Coast, and did his fair share to nurture it along the way. May he rest in peace.

Is What He Said

I saw two other animals.
A beaver in a field
five miles from the water I came from,
its teeth growing out of its lower skull;

there was nothing to chew.
And a porcupine, spiked thing, back legs broken, following you in the night in your damned machine.

Arms against Nicaragua deplored

Last week's about-face vote by Congress in Washington DC that saw Reagan win his $100 million aid package for the Contras, brings the Americans closer than ever to military involvement in Nicaragua.

The massive grant, most of it directly military in nature, will almost certainly include training of Nicaraguan rebels by the US Special Forces - the Green Berets we heard so much of in Vietnam.

The Contras have been guided and shaped by the CIA and they operate more as agents for American policy than as a real, grass-roots opposition to the Sandinistas.

In fact the opposition party in Nicaragua deplores the Contras' massive US aid as much as does the government itself. The opposition sees itself as a legitimate political force within Nicaragua and the Contras as what they are - a group formed and funded by a foreign intelligence agency bent on overthrowing the government of Daniel Ortega.

The push by Reagan - phone calls and personal lobbying to uncertain Congressmen - was not isolated. In recent weeks the US has taken the governments of Mexico and Panama to task publicly, citing corruption and bad government practices. Is it a coincidence that both these countries have been powerful supporters of the Contadora Peace Accord? There has been precious little about the move towards peace in Central America of late and it goes hand in hand with this latest incursion into the affairs of a country that poses no threat to the US government, other than a left-wing approach to politics that the people, for the most part, seem to want.

This meddling in the politics of countries far afield is not without precedent, as all who lived through the Vietnam war will remember.

It's interesting to note that back in 1950 - fearing Communist expansion in South East Asia - the US gave Indo China (as Vietnam was then) a modest $10 million in military equipment aid. This was to support the French in their efforts to win a colonial war which was, by the fall of Saigon, to cost the US $140 billion and thousands of young lives.

It was only four years later, at the end of 1954, that the CIA, once the OSS, began to stimulate an exodus of refugees to the south by painting gloomy and bloody pictures of what would happen if a Communist government were to take over in Indo China.

They were very successful -some 850,000 people migrated south - businesses closed when the French were quietly told that they would be blacklisted if they were to stay in business in the north. It was in October 1954, just four years after that first $10 million, that the two Vietnams were created, largely by US interference through the CIA.

The war soon shifted from the French against the Vietnamese to the US against the Viet Cong - and the rest is, as they say, history.

But history does have a habit of repeating itself. Now we have a president intent on shaping the political lives of the Nicaraguans and those of other Central American nations as well.

Now we have a vice-president who calls international workers, from West Germany, Canada and many other countries too, "military combatants". This did bring an apology from Vice-president Shultz last week after an envoy from the West German government protested but it's clear that the US wants to view Nicaragua in its own way.

The Nicaraguans see Reagan's persistent support of the Contras as an escalation of tensions in the area - they harbour no illusions. It seems futile for the US to continue to pump aid into a badly organized group such as the Contras; they have yet to win any decisive military victories despite massive aid in the past.

It seems futile, unless of course the US plans to step in and help out. No matter how insane that seems it has been done before.

The World Court this week condemned the US for its interference in Nicaragua and ordered reparation to be paid. Whether this will ever happen or not is a moot point - the important thing is that world opinion is soundly against such action.

CIA involvement, military aid, military training and advice, manipulation to change the face of politics in surrounding countries - all these things have been done before and tragically. Canada should use its position to protest vigourously against the US and its clumsy but lethal interference in Nicaragua's affairs.

If the US chooses to ignore world opinion and forge ahead it will be a long, dark road. All you have to do is ask the families of those whose names appear on that sad black wall in Washington - last time the US tried to win a war that wasn't theirs it almost tore the nation apart and it changed the world forever.

Letters to the Editor

Roy Mills offers some clarification

Editor:

Thank you for characterizing me as intelligent and rational in your last "Musings", that might be another opinion of yours in which the local teachers do not share. Be that as it may, we are perhaps both bedevilled by imprecision. I had assumed that you were a bitter enemy of the provincial government, but that didn't give me the right to characterize you as one; I concede it would have been preferable to say that you were a frequent critic of the provincial government. I apologize for my presumption.

Turning now to something which you said, you quoted me as approving of your designation of teachers as 'fat cats'. This is not true. In my brief to the arbitration board I noted, as something supportive of the board's position that we should use money to create jobs not to give payraises, that your editorial "told the teachers that they were seen by most residents of this area as being fat cats because they still had steady jobs, and they should not, therefore, be seeking payraises to be funded by those taxpayers who so perceived them." My second reference came in a paragraph which began with the sentence: "The anger, frustration and resentment of teachers can well be understood." A few sentences further on in that paragraph: "They are sniped at by provincial politicians but are apparently seen, nonetheless, as fat cats within the local community." I took the opportunity of saying to the arbitration board that the school board did not consider teachers to be fat cats.

My approval, therefore, was not of your designating teachers as fat cats but of the fact that your basic position matched that of the school board as it related to security of employment, creation of employment and granting of payraises in this particular community.

Whilst I have your attention, some further comments on your column "Sweet and Sour". I don't believe that administrators were ever transferred at the whim of the superintendent. Secondly, the 2.65 per cent increase is applicable only to the basic salary of teachers, not to salary and allowances. The highest basic salary, for a masters degree with 10 or more years experience, is $42,483, so that the highest increase, assuming that the arbitration award can be got past Mr. Peck, is $1,126, and there are 24 people who would get that much, only seven of whom are school administrators. We don't have any principal earning $57,000 a year, $52,042, is the current tops. Nor do we have anyone teaching 35 Grade 1's, 23 or less is the usual figure, but there is one class of Grade 1's and 11's totalling 26. No full-time teacher is paid $20,000, the lowest salary held in the district is $20,933 and there is only one person drawing that, who happens to have a class of 16 students, although some of them have special needs.

With respect, it's not "public relations and educational disasters" which have the School Board and the community so wrought up, it's disasters to children.

To end on a high note, you are in company not only with the school board but with Dr. David Suzuki and Professor John Goodlad in you belief that economic futures will not sustain yearly salary increases as a matter of course.

R. Mills
Secretary-Treasurer
Board of School Trustees

Editor's Note: Ah, Mr. Mills, the pursuit of clarity is obviously a co-operative task. Thank you for your assistance in the matter.

It is only a matter of a year or two, since there was argued the need for an extra principal, unassigned. I forget the jargon. It is also only a matter of a year or two since principals were moved around as a matter of policy, a policy which had more, in my opinion, to do with an ill-advised centralization of power than a pursuit of excellence in education.

I accept your correction 'disasters to children' though I believe that is what I meant by educational disaster. I note that my essential point that the presence of principals in the bargaining unit is an inflationary factor in administrative costs is not challenged.

Always a pleasure to hear from you.

Editor:

The recent photograph in the Coast News of the historic DC-3 airplane made me feel historic, too.

I first flew in a DC-3 in December, 1942. I was a 25 year old American Army Sergeant. The Japanese had bombed Dutch Harbour and occupied Kiska and Attu in the western Aleutians. The DC-3 was flying soldiers and supplies some 1500 miles down that island chain to places with strange sounding names - Adak, Amchitka, Umnak. It was that long ago December I boarded a DC-3 to make that flight.

There were 20 or more of us young Americans who marched onto the plane in Anchorage, Alaska in 1942. Dressed in parkas, heavy pants and helmets we were weighted down with guns, barrack bags and uncertainty. I remember hoping that somehow that frail looking machine and the pilot would get us safely to our destination, Adak Island.

Regardless of my feeling, the DC-3 roared down the runway climbing to about 10,000 feet and heading south and west over Cooks Inlet. I felt at times as if we were on a leaf floating in the air between the towering snow clad Katma mountains on the mainland and the mountain giants of Kodiak Island.

However, the DC-3 was no leaf, neither was it a jet liner. The props gave off a steady hum, but we had to stop for the night for rest at Naknek on the Alaskan peninsula and later at Umnak Island. From there we flew into the weird wonderland of the Aleutians where cold Siberian air masses clashed endlessly with warm Pacific air.

Our little plane took us to a scrambled assortment of clouds, weather and colour and over a thousand miles of island volcanoes - some smoking and spewing out ash, others lifeless, all treeless. To the north of our flight path was the Bering Sea, to the south the Pacific Ocean.

The pilot finally brought us down safely on Adak. We were the Army's meteorological observers so we were soon scattered by boat to other islands to be alone with the sea otters and blue foxes and with the Japanese Army just an island away.

The fog, rain and ferocious winds became our stock in trade and we read our weather instruments on the slopes of a volcano.

It was over two years before another DC-3 flew down the Aleutian chain and brought me back to the mainland.

That historic plane took me into the island in 1942 and out in 1944. When I saw the Coast News DC-3 photo I felt almost as if my past had roared into life again.

Not at Daniel Pt.

Editor:

On Proposed Site West of Daniel Point.

This site would be very detrimental to coho and sockeye that are going into Sakinaw Lake. These fish travel up and down the shoreline to Daniel Point and then up into and past Sakinaw Bay at least to Boom Bay up the channel every tide, until they are ready to go into the lake.

Sockeye, especially, travel tight against the mainland shoreline coming down Agamemnon Channel as well as coming from the south around Francis Point, through Lee Bay, around Daniel Point, and to Sakinaw Bay.

This site is adjacent to Daniel Point Park and would have a very negative effect on picnickers and boaters. Sheds on shore would have to be built to store feed, etc., and the park aspect would be much reduced.

Here again small salmon coming out of Sakinaw Lake, as well as small herring that migrate up and down the shore, would get into the salmon pens and be eaten by the salmon in the pens.

On the economic side of the question, fish farmers, salmon especially, on the Pacific Coast, seem to find it difficult to succeed financially without massive grants, making unfair competition to commercial fishermen.

I feel that entrepreneurs, in some cases, are getting leases to sell at big prices without contemplating salmon farming themselves.

When and if fish in pens die because of hot weather and lack of oxygen, on account of warm water, will the fish farmers ask for compensation for their losses?

Well done

Editor:

The people of the Sunshine Coast are to be commended for their effort in achieving and surpassing the 1986 campaign goal for the Canadian Cancer Society.

The goal of $7000 was met and the total dollars collected are $8800! Without the donors and volunteers this would not have happened. My thanks to everyone. The community can be very proud of this achievement.

Nearly everyone today is touched by cancer - a friend, family member or oneself. Therefore research, education, treatment and aid (both financial and supportive), is required.

The time and money given is measured only in the battle against cancer.

One of the most popular sports for summer is riding and in Gibsons, at the top of Cemetery Road, there is a stable with horses ready to go - be it for an hour, a day or a week up on the slopes of Mt. Elphinstone.

Wilson calls for better coastal transportation

On Monday, June 23, the Provincial Liberal caucus considered a major initiative on Coastal transportation that is being undertaken by their Mackenzie riding candidate Gordon Wilson.

This initiative calls for a more modern integrated transportation system that will link B.C. coastal communities from Vancouver north to Prince Rupert, and emphasises the potential for a modern merchant marine fleet to service small coastal communities.

The Liberal caucus heard Wilson speak of the economic potential of the coastal communities of B.C., which Wilson called the "B.C. Rim".

"We hear a lot about the Pacific Rim, and trade potential, but coastal communities have been forgotten as a result of the inward looking, centralist view of the current government," said Wilson.

Wilson's work shows clearly that coastal communities of B.C. were at one time a vital part of the provincial economy. "Today they have been left isolated, and the concerns of the local people ignored. The Liberal party in B.C. is determined to change that."

The study that is scheduled to be released toward the end of July, calls for a modern small ship building plant, that will build craft designs to meet the particular needs of the B.C. Coast. Such a plant would be located along the Coast, and would attract private investment.

The upgrading of the existing highways from Gibsons to Lund is a major short term goal identified in the study, along with the improvement of the existing ferry system, and the linking of communities further north by a road and ferry system. The cost of making the ferry system part of highways and thus free to the user is also being examined.

The study takes into account the overall goal for decentralization of capital and rural job creation, along with a sound strategy for tourism. "There is no point in trying to create investment in an area if there is no way of moving the goods to market, whether those 'goods' are products or people." said Wilson.

Asked about the cost of such a scheme, Wilson said that accurate figures are now being identified, and preliminary data indicates that such a development, because it will involve private investment, would be less than half the amount budgeted for the construction of the Coquihalla highway.

Details of this study will be further discussed at a July 5 meeting of the Liberal caucus, and that afternoon Wilson is scheduled to meet with Federal leader, John Turner.

SCRD discusses economic development

The possibilities of the municipalities opting out of the economic development function of the regional district is causing some directors concern and Sechelt representative to the regional board, Joyce Kolibas, agreed.

"I am concerned that Council has considered opting out without giving it (the new Economic Development Commission - EDC) a fair shake," she told the board at last Thursday's meeting. I don't see the point of us each going our own ways to do things. We all have to work together, up and down the whole Coast."

Kolibas questioned the number of committees to which EDC members belong, but Chairman Gurney pointed out that they are all committees formed in response to an Employment Development Strategy developed by the district.

"I am very enthused about the EDC. We have set some positive programs in place and all the members are enthusiastic. It's very encouraging," he told the board.

Secretary-treasurer Larry Jardine clarified the position of the muncipalities as regards opting out of the function.

"They do not have the power to opt out," he told the directors. "To opt out needs a change in the letters patent. We need the same process to change it as to set it in place."

Norm Peterson, Gibsons' representative to the board, said that Gibsons' Economic Strategy Committee had been hard at work and had had several successful meetings. A report would soon be made, but at this early stage it seems that the town is finding it difficult to find ways of developing economically due to the lack of industrial land. Kolibas agreed that Sechelt had a similar problem.

The board also announced Thursday that Barry Lynn has been selected as the Labour Council's representative to the EDC.

For Gibsons Centennial

Cavalcade to be best ever

Gibsons Sea Cavalcade, July 25 to 27 will be bigger and better than ever. In honour of our 100th birthday this year, many new attractions have been added to the weekend's festivities.

The Pacific Jazz Festival will be helping us celebrate by providing an outdoor Jazz and Beer Festival on Saturday afternoon, July 26. The Tailgate Dixieland Band will kick-off a terrific afternoon of swing and jazz.

The entertainment will continue with blues singer Jennie Legon and congo drummer Frank Clavin, also, Fraser McPherson and the Roy Reynolds sextet.

The "Big All Star Festival Band" which consists of a 17 piece band will be playing wild jazz festival arrangements.

This is a terrific opportunity to bring the family, pack up the lawn chairs, blankets etc, and join us on the grass field at Gibsons Elementary at 1 p.m. for an afternoon of great music.

Tickets for the jazz festival are located at Don's Shoe Store, Sunnycrest Mall; Gibsons Marina, lower Gibsons; Richard's Men's Wear, lower Gibsons; Seaview Market, Roberts Creek and the Bookstore in Sechelt.

Come help us celebrate our 100th birthday! The Kinsmen are extending an invitation to one and all to help celebrate our 100th birthday by entering a float in the Sea Cavalcade parade on Saturday, July 26.

Entry forms are available at Dockside Pharmacy, lower Gibsons and Seecoast Living in Sechelt. Let's make this a parade to remember! For further information please contact Paul Clay at 886-3287.

Remember to support the Sea Cavalcade by purchasing a Sea Cavalcade lottery ticket, There are over 30 prizes being offered thanks to the generosity of our local businesses and their suppliers.

The proceeds will go to make this year's 100th birthday celebration better than ever. Tickets are on sale all over Gibsons. Thanks for your support!

General Sea Cavalcade meeting Thursday, July 3, 7:30 p.m. at the Kin Hut at Dougal Park.

The Miss Sea Cavalcade Pageant will be held in the gym at Elphinstone School July 4 at 7 p.m. An admission of $3 will be charged at the door. Mr. Graham Edney will be Master of Ceremonies for the evening.

Music will be provided by Knight Shift with Graham Edney joining them. Knight Shift will also be playing at the "Queen's Ball" at the legion which will follow the crowning of Miss Sea Cavalcade.

Tickets for the Queen's Ball are available at Richard's Men's Wear in lower Gibsons and at Pippy's in the Sunnycrest Mall. All proceeds go the Queen's travel fund.

Kites plus power lines equals danger

Don't fly kites near power lines. You could be killed.

Don't try to retrieve kites caught in power lines. You could be killed!

Restrict kite flying to areas where there are no power lines nearby. If in doubt, don't do it. You'll live longer!!

This blunt but vital safety message comes from B.C. Hydro safety co-ordinator Earle Pritchett. Over the last two months three separate incidents have occurred when tragedy was only an instant away.

"It takes only a thin kite string line to carry electricity to the ground. And remember, we are talking about power lines that transmit thousands of volts," Pritchett cautions. "Even the lightest of kite lines, if soiled or wet, can conduct electricity."

And, most important, children should be told again and again never to try to retrieve a kite, or any other object, that has caught in a power line.

Don Van Kleek's Division One at Roberts Creek Elementary are proud of themselves. They raised the money, and then they scouted around and got together all the ingredients to make a beautiful picnic table for the school. They poured the concrete and oiled the wood and then they gave it to the school as their goodbye gift.

Roberts Creek

Creek Daze need help

by Jeanie Parker, 886-3973

Roberts Creek Daze is less than three weeks away so it's time to get into gear. The major activities have co-ordinators but things like the kids' games and contests still need help.

They're looking for groups and individuals to put on contests like hat decorating, baking, slugs, or whatever new ideas you can dream up. The Rainbow Pre-School is running the fish pond. If every group in the community took on a project like that there would be a lot more participation and fun for everyone.

One idea is kids' (and adults') fun races at the school since there wasn't a Sports Day this year. This would only be an hour or so of novelty events but needs somebody to organize it. Bike decorating could be another category.

Sue Shepherd is lining up the kids' games and she needs lots of helpers. Kevin Shepherd is organizing the barbecue and dance for Saturday night and wants to hear from musicians interested in playing down by the wharf during the day.

Bango Boragno is Parade Marshall and would like an idea of how many entries he can expect. Start thinking about your float whatever the size or form.

Yvonne Mounsey is booking tables for crafts and food. Phone her at 885-4610 if you want to sell something.

And Diana Zornes is Mistress of Ceremonies for the Mr. Roberts Creek Contest. There have been murmurs about contestants but nobody has actually come forward. Come on guys, this is your big chance. You could be Mr. R.C. for 1986!

The Daze will be on Friday and Saturday, July 18 and 19. The next meeting is this Wednesday, July 2 at 7:30 at the Community Hall. Come out then with your ideas or phone Debbie Osler at 886-3994 or Chris Luster at 886-2108.

SATURDAY MARKET

The Saturday morning Farmer's Markets have started in the park behind the Post Office. Vendors and buyers are both welcome. The Market runs from 10 a.m. to noon every Saturday.

HOLIDAY TEA

Drop in for a cuppa and goodies at the OES Holiday Time Summer Tea this Saturday, July 5. It's at the Masonic Hall at the corner of Roberts Creek/Hall Road and the Highway from 2 to 4 p.m.

SUNDAY SERVICE

A reminder of the Evensong Service at St. Aidan's Anglican Church in Roberts Creek the first Sunday of every month. That's this weekend, July 6 at 6:30 p.m. There will be communion afterward.

THANKS VERNE

School finished last week in a flurry of report cards, field trips, beach picnics, awards assemblies and fond farewells. Roberts Creek Elementary had the added excitement of two weddings by staff members in the last month or so.

Less happy was the news that Verne Wishlove would be leaving for West Sechelt. Verne has served the school and the community well as principal of Roberts Creek Elementary for five years and his enthusiasm and true spirit of co-operation will be sadly missed. Roberts Creekers wish him well in his new job and look forward to working with Stewart Hercus, the new principal, in the fall.

SUMMER TIDE

Everybody was very excited about the lowest tide of the decade on June 22. Although it was a drab and drizzly day, the beaches were crowded with people exploring sandbars and rocks never seen before.

Henderson Beach was particularly busy with clam diggers and other nature lovers. One group however, was excavating for something else: the anchor to put out the newly improved swimming float. Summer must be here!

Sechelt Food Bank for Gibsons residents too

The Sechelt Food Bank served more than 300 people in need last month, co-ordinator Maria Lwowski told the Coast News last week.

"Unemployment seems worse this summer," Lwowski said. "There are a lot of part-time jobs around, but at $4 an hour and 20 hours a week, people just can't survive."

The last food distribution day was the first since the Gibsons Food Bank closed its doors and Lwowski is afraid that many Gibsons people who would use the Sechelt Food Bank are not aware of its location and hesitate to make the trip.

"We are situated in the blue trailer behind Capilano College (on Inlet Avenue in Sechelt)," Lwowski explained. "Anyone who needs the services of the food bank is welcome and should come to our next distribution day."

The summer distributions will be from 1 to 3 p.m. on July 9 and 23, and August 6 and 20.

Since the Gibsons Food Bank closed donations from Gibsons have fallen off, Lwowski said.

"We are still helping the people of Gibsons, and we still need public support. We are getting some food but no cash donations and we desperately need that," she added.

A large square metal tool box to use as a cash collection box in Gibsons would help, Lwowski feels, and asks that anyone who has such a tool box call her at 885-5532.

News from the Bay

by Jean Robinson, 885-2954

Turner Berry, from the Peninsula Market, passes along the information that there have been no big salmon caught from the wharf at Davis Bay lately, as far as he knows.

But folks, the Davis Bay Beach is as popular as ever. Used by old and young alike, it appears thickly populated most sunny days.

NEW TITLE?

Jack Marsden sends along his suggestion for a new column title - "South Side Story". What do you think? Any ideas?

STORY TIME

Next Friday, July 4, is Story Hour at the Wilson Creek Library. This starts at 10:30 a.m. Bring along your little ones and have a cup of coffee while your pre-schooler is read to. This service, as well as the open library on Friday and Saturday afternoons, is performed by a mere handful of dedicated volunteers. Do not forget to give them a smile and a thank you when you attend.

AWARDS DAY

The Davis Bay Elementary School had their Grade 7 Farewell and Major Awards Day, June 26.

Top Academic awards went to Sonja Karlson, Gale Geneau, Sara Evens, Amber Enns, Amy Dickson and Moira Weins. Overall for the school was earned by Bryan Fitchell.

Top Athlete awards: Ebon Matheson, Kris MacNeill, Brad Wigard, Devon Brown, Adam Brown. Overall was earned by Signi MacNeill.

Creativity: Miranda Northrup, Alex Albrecht, Chris Jackson, Brian Doyle, Jade Northrup. Overall was earned by Robbie Donovan.

Sportsmanship: Christa Enns, Tera Williams, Scott Doyle, Hans Veda, and Mathew Wohlberg. Overall was earned by Caley McKee.

Overall Achievement: Bryan Fitchell, Kris MacNeill, Caley McKee, Liane Wohlberg and Susan Stigant. Overall for the school was earned by Chris McKee.

Citizenship: Christi Hercus, Christina Tompkins, Heather Webster, Ilana Fraser and Danny Harapnuk. Overall was earned by Kerrie Jardine and Scott Doyle.

Most Improved: Alison Stedel, Heidi These, Leanne Rowland, Amy Pearl, Janaya Fuller-Evans. Overall for the school was earned by Kevin Middlemiss.

Penmanship was awarded to Brian Wayment.

The District Math Award went to Chris McKee.

Congratulations to all and have a super summer.

Sechelt Seniors

by Larry Grafton

Further to last week's column, will continue with a little more on the local aspect. First off, one of our aims is to provide a facility which will attract more seniors to the area. It is our aim to try to prevent even one senior from leading a lonely existence. With our small hall, unfortunately we only have room for one activity at a time, as you people who attend regularly are aware.

Consequently all our fund raising functions for the last few years have been earmarked for our building fund. Through holding bazaars, plant sales, teas and donations from our members we have accomplished the first step toward a new hall by purchasing a piece of property on Trail Avenue across from the Arts Centre where our new building will eventually be located.

Reverting back to our original thoughts, a variety of things can be happening at once in the much larger building and certainly a greater variety of activities, which will provide something to do for those who say there is nothing to do in Sechelt.

Although July and August have no scheduled functions, with the exception of carpet bowling every Monday at 1:30 p.m., September will be full speed ahead.

Keep in mind our constitution allows persons of any age to become members upon acceptance of application. There's a hearty welcome awaiting new members and usually a cup of tea or coffee and a cookie at most functions, over which to become better acquainted with fellow members. At last count there were 708 members in the branch, - the largest Senior Citizens of B.C. Branch in B.C. In September come and let us help you to enjoy yourself.

Most of these information columns are common knowledge to attending members. They are designed to inform those who cannot attend and the public at large, so please bear with us for further information next week on our new hall.

Halfmoon Bay Happenings

Surprises at Fair

by Ruth Forrester, 885-2418

The Car Rally in conjunction with the Halfmoon Bay Country Fair was so much fun last year that it will now become an annual event. There are lots of surprises in store for the entrants and it will be on Friday evening, July 11. For further details and registration call Barb Hately at 885-5448.

Time is also running out for your table space reservation at the fair, so to make sure you are included give Andrew Steele a call at 885-3073. The Halfmoon Bay School parents will be organizing some events at the fair this year.

KIDS AT EXPO

Last Monday was an exciting day for Grades 1, 2 and 3 of Halfmoon Bay School when they, together with teachers and a few parent helpers, spent a happy day at Expo. The children were given an overview of Expo with the weather cooperating fully. We're happy to say that no one got lost or left behind!

A favourite with the children was the CP Pavilion and the Rainbow War film. Quite a few happy, tired kids slept all the way home on the bus.

SCHOOL'S OUT

Thursday was another eventful day for the children - awards day and the last day of school. Assembly opened with the signing of the school song followed by presentation of awards. Head teacher Jamie Davidson presented each child with a certificate for their endeavours, because, as he pointed out, they were all good at something.

In return, Mr. D. was presented with a rose bush, on the theme "You help us grow", and teacher Mrs. Darney was delighted with her gift of a huge cushion cover. This was very special as it was made up of self portraits of the children which were sewn together and quilted. A most unique and much appreciated gift which she will always treasure.

Mr. Davidson spoke of the difficulties experienced in this past school year and how much the community had helped throughout this term of school. He expressed his thanks to what he termed "A close-knit community associated school."

To all the staff and to all the kids - may you have a great well-earned summer holiday.

And to all you "summer people" who have arrived back in your cottages - have a happy summer. A gentle reminder too that when you put out your garbage for Wednesday collection it must be in containers and not plastic bags.

Ferry changes

In the Fall the B.C. Ferry Corporation will be changing the ratio of smoking to non-smoking areas on C Class vessels to the 30 per cent to 70 per cent ratio that currently exists on vessels travelling between Vancouver and Victoria, according to a letter presented at last Thursday's regional board meeting.

Director Shaske later told the Coast News that his concern now was that people will take time to become accustomed to the new ferry schedule and the new size of ferry.

"People have to get to the terminal early," he said. "With the smaller ferries there will be longer line-ups and longer waits."

1942 Plane raised, comes to Garden Bay

by Joan Wilson

November 15, 1942: a craft flying a torpedo testing run over Patricia Bay near Victoria went down in 600 feet of water. All four of the crew escaped unharmed, but their plane went to the bottom, nose first into more than 10 feet of mud.

July 16, 1985: after four years of searching more than eight square miles of water using his mini-sub, Jerry Olsen of Canadian Lake and Ocean Salvage in Vancouver found the wreck. Just this past week, with the help of over 40 volunteers, Olsen raised the wreckage onto a barge and brought it to Garden Bay on the first leg of its trip to the Canadian Museum of Flight and Transportation in Crescent Beach.

Olsen's interest in the last Hampden aircraft goes back several years. With the encouragement and help of Bill and Wilma Thompson, and diver Tom Sheldon of Gibsons, Olsen has invested countless hours and many thousands of dollars in the project, which has been funded entirely with private funds and donations.

Suspended from a crane, the remains of the aircraft may look like a pile of junk, but to Olsen and the Thompsons, all the pieces make sense. Under the corroded aluminum skin, the framework is visible. Incredibly, the life raft survived 44 years of salt water, and inflated after recovery.

Fragments of a parachute still clearly state its origin in Quebec. The plexiglas window of the rear gun turret is intact, as is the track where the gun was attached. Even part of the gunner's seat was found, with the leather and padding in one piece. Both oil tanks were found intact. On the one wing, the letters P5436 and the RAF roundel are still bright.

After the Hampden reaches Crescent Beach, the long process of replication begins. Using the wreckage as a pattern, airplane buffs will re-create the craft, using as many of the original fittings as possible, as a static display for the museum.

In Bill Thompson's workshop, another restoration is almost complete: a bright yellow N3N US Navy trainer, a bi-plane with three floats, which will soon be flying over the Sunshine Coast. Next to it stands another yet-to-be-completed plane, a Stillman: one more labour of love for Bill and Wilma.

Results from Sports Day

by Ann Cook

Sports Day results! Kids' fishing derby first prize was a fishing rod donated by Bathgate's and won by Sheelagh Vaughan; Sheelagh also gets a trophy from Egmont Marina. Second prize; a tackle box went to Erin Fearn and third prize of cold hard cash to Charlie Angus.

In the tennis tournament, the Wallace brothers, Shane and Adam, successfully defended their Egmont title in straight sets. Tom Silvey and Richard Jackson did not throw tantrums but were gallant losers.

High jump, sack, potato, three legged, wheel barrow and running races ended with all these kids, Marie, Sheelagh, Ame, Joey, Chloe, Nicole, Kellie, Sophie, Charlie, Ben, Shane, Jed, Kevin, Erica, Chris and Sean with ribbons to wear while enjoying ice cream, hot dogs and pop.

Community Club raffle winners: first prize (tablecloth), Vi Silvey; second prize (salad bowl), Mrs. Harris; third prize (surprise), Ruby Larson; fourth prize (cushion), Iris Sayer. Iris who???

BRAVERY

If I were handing out medals of bravery this month they would go to Manfred Guenther and Lenny Wray for the fast trip they made through the Skookumchuck rapids to make a rescue at a time when the chuck was not at low slack. The Skookumchuck when it's running is awesome to watch let alone go through on a boat.

Last week in two days approximately 500 people hiked in the trail to view the Skookumchuck during the lowest tides in 10 years.

DELIVERER NEEDED

Though we receive the Coast News every Tuesday (as of this week) there are about 20 people in Egmont that would appreciate the Sun daily. Problem? - A delivery person. Anyone interested leave a message with Dorothy Silvey.

HAPPY DAYS

Happy July birthdays to Toby Angus, Jennifer Thibideau, Greg Howitt and his cousin Sonja Jeffries; Richard Jackson, Ame Young and her brother Jed, Serene and her aunty Jessica Silvey, Mrs. J. Barnes, B. Crane, Jack and Elias Campo-Spence.

Happy Anniversaries to Len and Betty Silvey - 23 years; Fred and Marlene Larson - two years.

CONGRATULATIONS

Congratulations to all the Egmont students...you have completed another year and we're proud of your enthusiasm, energy, good humour and good looks!

At the high school, Egmont people earned quite a few prizes: Richard Jackson for sports participation, Doug Goodbye Books!

by Joan Wilson, 883-9606

GOODBYE BOOKS

"No more pencils, no more books" was the chant of students at Madeira Park Elementary on Thursday afternoon, as they left the school for the last time. The little angels will now be on the roads and highways, so drivers are asked to take more care, and watch out for bikes. Holiday euphoria should last several weeks - or until the first rainy stretch -when the "I'm bored" blues hits.

Parents can help their kids enjoy the summer by encouraging hobbies and sports, arranging outings and "kid exchanges" for playtime, and keeping good reading material handy as an antidote for daily television. Enjoy the summer, everyone!

SUMMER FITNESS

Mokie's Workout continues through the summer, to keep that bikini figure in spite of barbecues and ice cream. Classes start Wednesday, July 2, 6 to 7 p.m. at the Community Hall, and continuing on Mondays and Wednesdays. For more information call 885-4626.

Lions Club celebrates 15 years

by George Cooper, 886-8520

The Gibsons Lions Club will celebrate the beginning of its fifteenth year in community service to the town and district this September 16.

Chartered in 1972, Gibsons was the third club to be organized on the Sunshine Coast. Earlier that same year the Pender Harbour Club had received its charter. The Sunshine Coast Lions of Sechelt had led the way in 1964 with Joe Benner the first president. And in 1979 the Roberts Creek Club became the fourth member of Lions International here on the Sunshine Coast.

Newly elected president of the Gibsons Lions is Larry Labonte, a charter member of 1972. Some other charter members of that year who still reside in Gibsons or nearby are Len Wray, Wally Langdale, Larry Boyd, Ken DeVries, Jack While, Don Elson, Bill McGivern, Chris Danroth, John Petula, Ken Stewart, Jay Visser and Ken Crosby.

"One of our first projects under our charter president, Al White," says Larry Labonte, "was the building and spotting of shelters in 1973 for bus students. It does rain here, you know."

The club has undertaken numerous projects since then like the bicycle rodeos done in conjunction with the RCMP, the smoke detector program, and Neighbourhood Watch, and assistance to the CNIB canvasses. And donations to St. Mary's and the Elphinstone Pioneer Museum.

"We assisted the Sechelt and District Association for the Retarded (now called the Sunshine Association for the Handicapped), to get their special school building set up under Gladys Legh, its teacher," says Larry Labonte, "on the Gibsons Elementary grounds."

Like other service clubs, projects must be financed by money raising activities. "Our wives have always pitched in to help with these," says Larry.

Don Andow, club member and also Zone chairman for several years, tells of an important club project that has been underway for some time.

"We support an Adapted Aquatics program for those who are in any way handicapped. This takes place Tuesdays and Thursdays in the afternoon."

Don added, "Handicapped in this program includes those with arthritis, and those, like the some of the elderly, who do not wish to cope with public swim times."

To support this program financially the Lions conduct their TV Bingo on Channel 10 each week. "This kind of bingo particularly suits those folk who cannot easily get out to various Bingo Nights." says Don. "Bingo cards are available at seven outlets - Dockside Pharmacy, Korcan Home Hardware, Gibsons Building Supplies, Super Save, Seamount Carwash, Sunshine Grocers, and Howe Sound Pharmacy."

STUDENTS DO WELL

Janet Dennis, winner of the Roberts Creek Hospital Auxiliary bursary last year at Elphie, has completed first year sciences at Capilano College in North Vancouver.

"At present," says Janet, "I have part-time jobs with the Bank of Montreal in Gibsons and in the Shop Easy Deli in Sechelt. I'm looking for full-time work, perhaps with the bank."

Annabel Webb, awarded the Marnie Jamieson bursary last year in Elphinstone, has completed her first year Arts at UBC. Annabel plans to continue her studies at the university.

After completing the secretarial course in Pitman Business College in Vancouver, 1985 Elphie grad Tammy Cavalier has commenced employment in the Vancouver Stock Exchange.

Tammy was awarded two bursaries last year in Elphinstone, the Roberts Creek Legion's and the Gibsons Legion's.

In last week's notes on the 1985 grads no mention was made of the bursary awarded Michelle Hanson. She received the Gibsons Legion Ladies' Auxiliary bursary for a student embarking on vocational training.

Baby Clinics

Baby Clinics will be held in Gibsons from 1 to 1:45 p.m. on July 3 and 29. From 1 to 3:15 p.m. on July 15 and 22. Sechelt Baby Clinics will be from 1:15 to 3:15 p.m. on July 2, 9, 16, 23 and 30. In Pender Harbour the clinics will be held from 1:30 to 3:30 on July 8 and 22.

Gibsons Travellers' Clinic and Tuberculin Skin testing will be held from 3:40 to 4:25 p.m. on July 8, 15, 22 and 29. In Sechelt these will be held from 3:30 to 3:45 p.m. on July 23 for skin testing only.

Please make appointments for all clinics for Gibsons and Sechelt by calling 886-8131. For Pender Harbour call 883-2764.

Pre-natal Classes in Gibsons are being held from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. on July 3 and 10; and July 15, 22 and 29. Pre-natal Classes in Pender Harbour can be arranged upon request (883-2764).

The hospital tour will take place the last Wednesday of the month. Please phone St. Mary's Hospital switchboard for this information (885-2224).

There will be a Breast Self-Exam Class on July 14 at 7:30 p.m. in the Coast -Garibaldi Health Unit, 1538 South Fletcher Road, Gibsons. Learn to do breast self-exam.

The drop-in baby group gives parents an opportunity to meet other parents and discuss common concerns. The group gathers every Tuesday from 2 to 3:30 p.m. at the Coast-Garibaldi Health Unit, 1538 South Fletcher Road, Gibsons, 886-8131.

There is no fee for any of these services.

WE

were discussing travel. Having Expo-ed ourselves we'd definitely developed a taste for it. But even more definitely our bank balances said we couldn't possibly go far. She fancied crisp mountain air, cold climates, glaciers. He fancied sun and siestas. Being a siesta fan I sided with him. Portugal was the country we ended up talking about so as I hadn't any hope of getting there - I cooked

PORTUGESE PORK CHOPS

4 lean chops about 1'' thick salt and black pepper
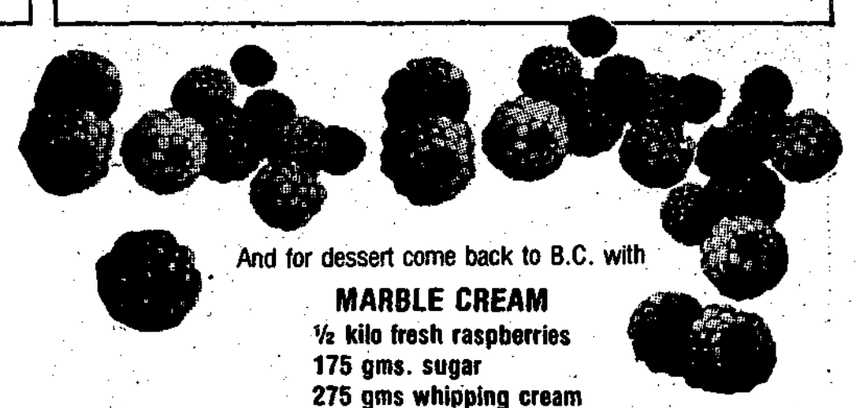
flour
½ cup chopped onions
2 cloves garlic, chopped
1 bay leaf
1½ cups fresh tomatoes, chopped
½ cup white wine
1 cup water
1 hard cooked egg, chopped
½ cup pitted black olives, halved

1. Mix salt, pepper and flour. Toss chops in mixture.
2. Heat oil and brown chops on both sides.
3. Turn down the heat and add onions, garlic and bay leaf. Cook for five minutes.
4. Add tomatoes, wine, water, egg, parsley and olives. Cover and simmer for 40 minutes or until chops are cooked.

Serve with saffron rice.



And for dessert come back to B.C. with

MARBLE CREAM

½ kilo fresh raspberries
175 gms. sugar
275 gms whipping cream

1. Take approximately half the raspberries and place in a saucepan. Add half the sugar and bring to a boil. Turn down the heat and simmer until fruit looks mushy.
2. Strain pulp and juice and cool.
3. When raspberries are quite cool, whip the cream until thick and stir in remaining sugar.
4. Set aside a few raspberries for garnish.
5. Squish the remaining raspberries slightly. Mix into cream then stir gently into raspberry pulp until it looks like marble.
6. Garnish and chill well before serving.

At the Arts Centre

A cohesive show

by Belinda MacLeod

The exhibition of sculptures by Linda Fox and collages by Susan Wolpert at the Arts Centre, Sechelt, continues until July 6. Summer hours at the Arts Centre, starting July 1 will be Tuesday thru Saturday, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sundays, 1 to 4 p.m.

When arranging exhibitions of more than one person, curators try to group together works which complement or agree with each other, and in this case, the quiet formality and small scale of both sculptures and collages is the unifying bond which connects the work of these two artists and makes for a cohesive show.

Susan Wolpert, through several years of concentration on collage has achieved great skill and originality in this medium, tackling subjects with cut paper that I have not seen elsewhere. Except in the case of "Glacier" and a charming set of illustrations for a children's book, her material is taken from her immediate world.

Her talent for design and colour and pattern making enhances the tranquil subjects of her earlier works, and medium, style and subject matter seem unified. But gradually her work seems to separate in two different directions. Garden and flower pieces become increasingly impressionistic, almost abstract, vehicles for her skill in design and cutting, and use of the added textural interest of the layered paper.

However, in the portraits of the elderly people and the mystical "Glacier", where she is conveying her shear emotions, one feels that she finds collage restricting and her natural gift for pattern making inappropriate. So, in spite of the fact that I found these later works less satisfying than the earlier portraits and the more decorative pieces, I thought they showed a very interesting direction

The small bronze, wax and metal sculptures of Linda Fox carry a power beyond their size. The artist is successful in her stated aim of simplicity and the expression of the essential, and it is this quality that gives her work its strength and tranquility.

Within this simplicity and economy of form there is a variation of style and approach. The pieces I liked best are representational, in which the artist strives "to capture a moment in time when communion with oneself or other creatures, with music or just being alone takes place." Of her abstracts, the textured bronze male torso in particular, and the work made from found pieces of aluminum, the later like a drawing in sculpture, seem the most successful.

Unfortunately, due to the incredible expense of casting sculptures in bronze, this show is an end (hopefully not a permanent one) of Linda Fox's cast bronze sculpting and therefore of the particular quality she achieves in this medium.

Pages from a Life-Log

Stumbling after Tom Waits

by Peter Trower

Susie Whitens and I had a mutual friend in poet, Mona Fertig who was then operating The Literary Storefront on Carral Street in Vancouver. Mona agreed to let us stage our initial gig there. It was a first for The Storefront which has specialized in conventional poetry readings and writing workshops up to this point. We were booked for August 19, 1980.

During the interim, my old friend Bob Hunter got in touch and announced that he had contracted to do a profile on me for Today Magazine (long since defunct). This was a fortuitous break and a chance to get some cross-country publicity for our new born band. I asked Bob to slant the piece around our musical activities and he agreed. Exciting prospects seemed to be shaping up. I only hoped we could pull it off.

On the day of the Storefront concert, Terry, Rock, Sam, Barry, Brent and myself, headed into the city with a truckful of equipment. It was sink-or-swim time and I was more than a little nervous. I had done many poetry readings but I had never sung in front of a live, paying audience before. How had I got myself into this mad venture, anyhow?

We reached the Storefront, packed our borrowed gear upstairs and did a dry run. It didn't sound bad and I began to feel a bit better. Yvonne showed up to offer moral support and Susie Whiten arrived soon after with a saxophone player friend. Things were shaping up. By showtime that evening, we were all psyched into it.

We did our first live performance before a small but highly supportive crowd of about 50 people. It was not without its minor disasters. I made the mistake of trying to sing an old song of mine called Blowpit Blues. The tempo was too fast and I blew some of the lyrics. (On subsequent gigs, I let Terry handle this fast number.) But the rest of the show went pretty well.

After our set was over, I sat out while the others, plus Susie's sax player friend, backed her on a group of standard blues. After the structured part of the performance was over, we all got together for an off the cuff jam session that was looser and more fun that the rehearsed stuff. It was a great evening.

While our first stand at The Storefront was generally successful, it carried a minor aftermath that was to cause me a good deal of worry and inconvenience for the next while. That night, when the music making was over with, I helped Terry and the others carry the equipment downstairs and reload it on the truck. Somehow, during these manoeuvres, I succeeded in losing my briefcase.

I didn't panic overmuch at the time, assuming I must have left it upstairs at The Storefront. But when I checked back there the following day, there was no sign of the case.

The monetary loss was negligible. This was hardly my concern, however. The case contained a couple of unpublished manuscripts, a number of personal cards and papers and most traumatic of all, my daily journal. I have become increasingly reliant on journals over the years. Apart from recording the events of a somewhat haphazard life, they serve as address books and accounting systems and generally help me keep roughly oriented in time and space. To mislay one in this fashion seemed a major disaster.

I placed ads in the lost and found columns and even offered a modest reward for the return of the case. Absolutely nothing. Gradually, I became resigned to the fact that the thing was gone for good.

Then one day, about two months later, I received a totally unexpected phone call. Amazingly, the briefcase had resurfaced. Apparently, I had left it in the alley outside The Storefront, after loading the gear. A couple of guys had spotted the case, taken it home, tossed it in a closet and forgotten about it. Now they were offering it back to me with apologies for not having turned it in to the police.

Naturally, I was delighted beyond words. The guys refused to take any sort of reward. The contents of the case proved to be completely intact. The shattered pieces of my life fell back into place.

Summer workshops

Now that school is out, there is still a lot for kids to do in the Arts Council's summer Art Exposure workshop series. For 8 to 12 year olds who love to work with their hands, Cindy Kirk, a local potter with a flair for teaching children, will teach two sessions, one on handbuilding and one on glazing. These will take place in Gibsons on July 11 and 18.

Also for 8 to 12 year olds, this time who love to ham it up, two theatre workshops will be held under the expert guidance of local actress and producer, Sandie Decker, and artist and teacher, Sheila Page. The first workshop will focus on drama games and skits while in the second, the children will create their own plays from stories. Both workshops will be held at the Arts Centre in Sechelt on July 14 and 21.

For something parents and children can enjoy together, Lynne Johnstone, a local weaver, will assist beginning spinners with the preparation of wool and the use of the spinning wheel. This two and a half hour workshop takes place on July 13 in Gibsons.

The Jazz Workshop given by Bob Morgan on June 22 had such an enthusiastic response that a follow-up session has been arranged for July 13 at the Arts Centre in Sechelt. It doesn't matter if you missed the first one; you can still join in as Bob takes us through the 40's to the present.

For more information and registration call 886-9022 for Gibsons workshops and 885-5412 for Sechelt sessions.

Professional Women shine

by Peggy Connor, 885-9347

The Sunshine Coast Business and Professional Women came home from the Provincial convention at Surrey with the trophy for the club with the greatest increase in membership - the BPWC B.C. and Yukon Federation Promotion Award -First.

Incoming Provincial president Hazel Rimmer made the presentation to the local outgoing president Gwen Robinson who was accompanied by president elect Dodie Marshall and Adele deLange, Freda Fawkes and Audry Broughton.

There were 136 members from 16 clubs present in Surrey including national president Margaret Jackson and the incoming national president Gertrude Demecca from Kamloops as well as visiting club members from Idaho.

At the convention the Sunshine Coast Club put in a bid to host the Provincial conference for 1988 and won out over Victoria with five votes for Victoria out of 132. The rest voted to come to the Sunshine Coast! Part of the appeal was the fact it will be held at the Elphinstone Camp where it will be very informal and relaxing.

It was a western theme for the June meeting which was a picnic held at Jan Kennedy's home on Bligh Road in West Sechelt.

There was some pretty mean looking hombres but the winner was the hostess Jan Kennedy who portrayed Minnie Pearl.

Convenors, Myrna Edwardson and Freda Fawkes arranged an excellent meal of chili, salad and buns, with a fruit salad dessert in a watermelon.

"Set Sail for Halifax" is the theme of the Convention of the Canadian Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club to be held in Halifax on July 20 to 24 and local president Dodie Marshall from Gibsons will be in attendance

Garden Club news

by Marguerite

The Gibsons "Best Centennial Garden" 1986 contest is for general appearance and aesthetic beauty to the passer-by. If you know of a garden which would qualify, send in the name, address and phone number, so that our team of judges can visit that garden, between July 10 to 24 included.

Send entry form of the garden you wish to nominate to Box 461, Gibsons. All residents are eligible within the boundaries of Gibsons.

P.S.: Kids, take care of your sunflowers and water well, the biggest sunflower contest for children up to 12 years of age will take place in September.

Happy gardening!

only a little time for sightseeing, but I did meet some interesting women from all walks of life, and learned a great deal. And now that the last camping weekend is over I will stay put for a while.

WINNERS

Margaret Causey of Area A Clinic Auxiliary reports the winners of their recent raffle: first, an afghan won by Eddie Evans of Vancouver; second, $50 cash won by Margaret Pasko; and third, a large grocery hamper won by Kay Colwell.

Congratulations to these three prize winners, and thanks to all who bought tickets. Remember, we're all winners through our Pender Harbour Clinic! Support the Auxiliary whenever you can.

SEE YOU SOON

Roy Mansfield won't be home as soon as everyone hoped from Vancouver General Hospital, but we send our very best wishes, and look forward to seeing him soon.

CONGRATULATIONS

Kay Hatcher was presented with a dafffodil pin by the members of the local unit of the Cancer Society at their June meeting. She also received a 10 year pin from the Society. Thank you for your years of hard work - and all those daffodils sold, Kay.

WHERE'S THE BANNER?

Toast of the Coast

The Bonniebrook Lodge is one of the Sunshine Coast's best known landmarks. New owners Bryan Rubin and Cathy McKeen have been hard at work, restoring and cleaning, gardening and setting up what is one of the most charming dining rooms on the Coast.

The star of the Lodge is the chef, Martin Hunter, whose culinary expertise produces dishes, exquisite to the eye as well as the taste buds.

My companion started with fresh garden greens - peppery watercress, marinated green peppers and thinly sliced onions, lightly steamed asparagus and crunchy cucumber sitting on a bed of fresh Romaine lettuce. Wonderful! my companion enthused. I opted for the asparagus Milanese -a mound of steamed green spears covered with grated Parmesan cheese and fine bread crumbs - Wonderful! I echoed.

Entrees, which change weekly according to the availability of fresh produce, offered us a tantalizing choice. For my friend it was the steak Helene. Done to perfection, with a slice of French bread beneath to catch the juices, it was accompanied by a generous helping of asparagus (we couldn't stay away from this succulent vegetable) and a silver gravy boat of special sauce.

I had the red snapper, panfried Meuniere. It comes smothered with minced fresh herbs (from the Crowe Road Herb Farm) and butter.

Both entrees were accompanied with lightly steamed sliced carrots and slivers of turnips, panfried small potatoes and - most unusual and something I'd like to try more often - Romaine lettuce rolled and steamed with just a hint of carroway.

Although we were both replete after such a splendid meal we felt that to do the menu justice we'd have to try dessert. Since there were two choices offered we had no problem deciding - my friend loves chocolate and had the Danemark - ice cream, cantaloupe, whipped cream, all covered with hot chocolate sauce, brought on the side in a silver dish so that one may pour just the right amount.

My dessert was beautiful - a frozen half pineapple shell with the plume still attached - filled with vanilla ice cream, slices of fresh pineapple and orange, garnished with whipped cream and freshly grated orange and lemon rind.

The Bonniebrook is certainly worth a visit. Next time you've got friends or family up to stay set aside an evening for a dining experience they'll remember forever. It's located on Gower Point Road, about three miles past the Gibsons post office. If you're visiting the area stop in at the Tourist Information booth in Pioneer Park and ask the way or call 886-2887 for directions and a reservation. You won't regret it.

SPORTS

A dynamic new feature of the local sports team is the Seniors Slow-Pitch Softball. Pictured above is the Slow Pokes team - or is it the Krushers?

Angling regulations are now the law

The 1986 angling regulations, as summarized in the provincial Sport Fishing Synopsis for Non-Tidal Waters, are now law. Under the Fisheries Act Canada, amendments passed in Ottawa became law when published in the Canada Gazette on May 14, 1986.

Fortunately, the vast majority of anglers recognize and follow the intent of the regulations. If anglers have questions about any regulations advertised in the current regulation pamphlet, or in a posted emergency order, they should contact local Ministry of Environment fishery or Conservation Officer staff.

Anglers are reminded that for over 20,000 lakes and streams in the province, only regional catch quotas and a few general restrictions apply. Only 600, or 3 per cent, of all waterbodies have specific regulations, and they are alphabetically listed in the Synopsis by region, for quick reference.

Anglers are encouraged to follow and to promote the regulations of the recreational fishery resource. Suspected violations can be reported anonymously and toll-free by dialing "0" and requesting the Zenith 2235 number in the Observe, Record, and Report program.

Minor Softball

Play-off finals for all divisions were held last Saturday, June 21.

The most competitive series was definitely the mixed (8 to 11 year olds) division. There were several very close and well played games (won by one run in the last inning). Hartley's Auto Body emerged as the final victor after a seesaw game with D&D Gulf. Again it went down to the last inning when Hartley's pulled away for a well deserved win.

After a disappointing rain-out Thursday night, the girls' division was won by the L.A. Queens - this is the fourth year in a row. Will anyone be able to stop their "drive for five" next year?

In the newly formed boys' division, Anderson Realty beat out the season's first place team to capture the play-off trophy.

Last but certainly not least, the four T-ball teams enjoyed a mini round robin showing Mom and Dad their new found skills with ball, bat and glove.

Congratulations to all the players for a good season and many thanks to all the coaches, umpires, scorekeepers and supporters who helped to make this season possible - see you all at Spring training next year!

Girls' softball

The season for Girls' Softball is drawing to a close. League play is finished and the final tournament was played on June 28 and 29 with a wind-up banquet on the night of June 29.

At this time the girls and coaches would like to say a big thank you to the umpires who came out for the games and also to the few fans who took the time to come and support the girls.

The final league standings are:

TEAM	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
Ken's Lucky Dollar	12	3		24
Prontos	8	7		16
Construction Aggregate	6	6	1	13
Shadows Belo	5	7	1	11
Gibsons Lanes	3	10		6

Scramble Round played

by Alec Warner

A Scramble Round was played on Mixed Twilight on June 23. In first place with a net score of 19½ was the team of Bob Emerson, Beverly Taber, Jack White, Eleanor Thompson and George Cooper. Second at 20 1/8, Dick Tolhurst, Lila Chambers, Frank Taber and Gladys Warner. Third at 20½, Louise Dorey, Don Elson, Elsie Cupit and Gladys Elson. Winning the low putts prize with just 11 putts, the team of Phil Clarke, Gerry Tolhurst, Les Cowley and Jean McIlwaine.

The Ladies' Eighteeners played the first day of the Marg Langdale Eclectic Tournament ("Beat the Champ"). The first day first flight winner was Lil Fraser with 64 and runner-up, Marnie Scott with 71. Second flight winner, Marjorie Ross with 68 and second, Eileen Evans with 69. Third flight winner, Helen Milburn with 74, and second, Marg Bevan with 74.

The Ladies' Interclub Third Team played the McLeery Ladies' team at the McLeery Course on June 19, with the Sunshine Coast team scoring 42 points to McLeery's 30!

On June 24 the Ladies' Niners group played the first day of the Marg Langdale Tournament. The nine hole scores also were recorded for the monthly pin round.

Men's Wednesday Twilight of June 25 had the following results: first low net, Dave Nestman; second low net, Roy Taylor; and third low net, Luke Lappin. (Scores were not recorded.) First low gross of 36 scored by Wolfgang Reiche, and second low gross at 37 by Freeman Reynolds.

Twenty-four Men's Seniors journeyed to Squamish on Wednesday, June 25, (the 6:20 a.m. ferry!), to play the first round of the Seniors' Sunshine Coast - Squamish Interclub Match. The Sunshine Coast team won the day 30 points to 16! The return match at the Sunshine Coast course will take place in September.

Seventy-Eight Men's Seniors teed off on Thursday, June 26 and played a Scotch Pinehurst Round (2 man teams). First with a net 26 score, the team of George Crant and Guy Lewall. Three teams tied for second place with a score of 28¼: Norm Constantine and Jim Nielson; Tom Wark and Joe Mellis; Frank Taber and George Cooper. Third at 28½: Les Head and Bert Slade, and fourth with a 29, Roy Taylor and Bernie Parker. Closest to the pin at the eighth was Bob Carruthers.

Correction! Ken White Winner! Last week's golf column heading stated that Len Mitten had won the Men's Summer Medal Tournament. This was a net score tournament and the winner, as noted in the first paragraph of the column, was Ken White with a net score of 61.

Men's Fastball

This past week Gilligan's played Weldwood twice and Elphie played GBS twice. W. Peers helped improve his pitching record with two straight wins against Weldwood.

Scores were 7-5 and 5-1 in Gilligans' favour.

On the Gibsons side, GBS played Elphie on Sunday, June 22. GBS scored the first two runs but that's all they got as Elphie came back to take the win 6-2.

On Tuesday evening they met again. The game was tied 4-4 after 7 innings. GBS scored the winning run in the 9th to preserve the win for R. Boychuck.

TEAM STANDINGS

Ladies' softball

The Senior Ladies' Softball League's 1986 season finishes this week with a tournament at Brothers Park in Gibsons, July 5 and 6. At press time it was still a showdown situation between Cedars Inn and Gibsons Ball Hawgs for the League Championship but eight teams will be vying for the title in the weekend tournament.

Games start at 9 a.m. on Saturday morning and will run all day and into the next with the final on Sunday afternoon. There will be a concession stand with food and a beer garden.

Police News of the week

GIBSONS RCMP

Bicycles. The detachment has a large number of found bicycles on hand and has received many reports of lost bicycles. How about checking with them?

There is a bicycle identification program still going. Bring your bicycle to the RCMP office between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays.

Three cases of theft have been reported in the past week. Phone 886-TIPS if you can give any information on the following:

June 22, a fishfinder, value about $450, stolen from a boat moored at Smitty's Marina.

June 24, a tachometre taken from a car parked at the Langdale ferry terminal.

June 26, theft of articles from a boat parked in the Executive Apartments lot.

The person who gave TIP No. 17 is asked to call either Constable Crawford or Sachs for a message.

SECHELT RCMP

Found: a man's multi-speed bike with a blue frame at Hackett Park. The owner may claim by identifying it.

The Cozy Court Motel reported the theft of three flags from flag poles on top of the motel. They were B.C., Canadian and American flags.

Sechelt Police Detachment would like to congratulate the 1986 graduating classes, teachers and organizers of Pender Harbour and Chatelech Secondary Schools for organizing and conducting their grad celebrations in a mature and responsible manner. Only a couple of very minor complaints related to the celebrations had to be attended to.

Letters to the Editor

Reynolds states case against marina

Editor:

I would like to explain further the dispute between Tangent Enterprises and Gibsons Marina, described briefly in your article in last week's paper.

My company has been providing a valuable service to the people who require transport of goods and equipment to Keats, Gambier and points up Howe Sound as well as "Dangerous Cargo" the ferries will not allow. As such, I often need to use the launching ramp to load and unload. It should be noted that my use of the ramp rarely exceeds 10 minutes or half of the available width (allowing boats to be launched simultaneously).

It is my intention to describe the actions (and inactions), of myself, Gibsons Marina and our town council. I would also like to explain more fully these problems, as they affect more than just my company.

Allow me to start with a short history. Back in the days before the marina, the people in the area had the free use of a launching site that was available at virtually all tides. This ramp was somewhat rudimentary but it did serve a need in the community and costs to the town were small.

When the marina was in the conceptual stages, it was planned to be a municipally owned and operated facility. An economist's study is quoted to say "that the proposed 438 berth marina is both economically feasible and cost effective. Operating profits will allow the marina to pay for land costs, so the marina will not increase the tax burden for local residents."

This plan for a municipal marina did not come to pass. Instead, what we have is a privately owned and operated marina on land turned over from the town at no cost except taxes. This property includes 127 prime lots and a water lease containing most of the available space in the harbour.

By-law 476 between the Town of Gibsons and Gibsons Marina Hotel Inc. defines the agreement under which the marina shall be operated. Clearly stated is the fact that charges for the use of the launching facility shall be $2, and such charge shall not be increased by more than 15 per cent per year without written approval from the Town of Gibsons.

On October 15, 1984, Gibsons Marina took out an ad in the Coast News advising the public that their normal rates for the use of the launching ramp was to be $3 each in books of 10. On October 24, 1984, we (Tangent Enterprises) received a letter advising us that the charge for the ramp will be $5 per use for commercial users. We then received a letter dated January 2, 1986 stating that they are adjusting their annual rates to $10 per use to commercial users.

I responded to this letter in a letter dated January 18, outlining our concern at this 100 per cent increase. The marina responded immediately with a letter advising that they have not changed their rates but merely "adjusted their rate structure" (!?).

I responded on February 15, to the marina's letter of January 21 explaining our continued dissatisfaction with the rate structure. To this date this letter has been ignored. I approached Mr. McGinnis personally on April 14, when he stated he may get a chance to respond to my letter sometime in November.

Because I was receiving no satisfaction from the marina, I felt it necessary to advise town council of my concerns. I wrote a letter dated May 2, outlining the problem and enclosed a copy of all correspondence between the marina and myself. I quote now from this letter. "I have attempted to deal with this situation in a straightforward and business-like manner, but have received no satisfaction. I feel that there has been a flagrant violation of the terms of the agreement between the Town of Gibsons and Gibsons Marina Inc. and I request your attention to this situation without delay."

This letter was received at the May 6, council meeting wherein it was deferred to the committee of the whole meeting scheduled to be held on May 27.

In a "Snap" decision, council decided to hold this meeting on May 22 without notice to the public or press. At this meeting, it was decided to appoint Alderman Bob Maxwell as arbitrator. When I read (with astonishment) the minutes of this meeting, I was prodded to write the council again, and I quote from my letter of May 30. "I fail to understand your reasoning for assigning an arbitrator for discussions between two private individuals, on a matter of a by-law infraction."

This letter was received at the council meeting on June 3, and deferred (not unexpectedly) to the committee of the whole meeting scheduled for June 17. What was unexpected, however, was discussion of this letter at the planning meeting on June 10, wherein Alderman Maxwell stated (the only reason for not contacting me to date I would be likely to accept), that he agrees with my opinion in regards to a by-law infraction.

After some discussion on this matter it was droppped until council receives the letter it expects requesting a large hike in rates pointed directly at my customers. I wonder if the marina will address the fact that private users who are paying $4 are being overcharged 100 per cent. I wonder also, how "commercial users" (like my customers) can be justifiably charged anything close to five times the private user rate.

The original terms of the agreement for the operation of the marina state that the town shall receive 15 per cent of the gross revenues above $200,000 per year, and that an audited accounting of the operation of the marina and all related services shall be forwarded to the town within 45 days of the completion of the fiscal year.

I asked council several months ago at a council meeting, what revenues had been received to date. This was again asked by an alderman at a recent committee meeting, where the answer received was $0.

It should be noted that on February 11, council met privately with Mr. McGinnis and amended this aspect of the agreement, limited the town's portion of income to revenues from moorage and the launching ramp (for 1985-86), only.

The chances of the town seeing any profits from this deal are slim if not impossible.

It is quite apparent to me that Mr. McGinnis has a clear pipeline to our council and/or administration to have his will fulfilled. How else could he have the audacity to refuse to discuss the problem with a steady customer and taxpayer and assume he could have Gibsons Council take care of his by-law infractions.

How else could a concerned and inquisitive member of the public, such as myself, be stalled-off for months regarding my request for information about the dealings between the town and the marina?

How else could the town and the marina hide the financial reports required to be delivered to our town? (A public document?)

In my opinion, the public is not being adequately served by our council who, after being advised of a by-law infraction on May 2 and dealt with, or deferred the matter at four meetings to date, have not as yet acted to enforce their by-law, permitting the public to be overcharged.

Slow drivers danger

Due to the very nature of the highway on the Sunshine Coast, many drivers complain of slow vehicles impeding traffic. As part of the Selective Quality Enforcement Program the Sechelt Detachment and Highway Patrol have selected Section 150 of the Motor Vehicle Act as the target section for July.

As summer traffic increases on the Coast many drivers find it a problem dealing with slow drivers. The Motor Vehicle Act states that 'you shall not drive a motor vehicle so slow as to impede the normal and reasonable movement of traffic.' If you do you may be ticketed by the police and asked to increase your speed.

What a courteous driver should do, if you find you want to travel at a slower pace, is to pull over periodically and allow traffic to proceed by you. By doing this you prevent impatient drivers from taking chances to pass you in unsafe locations.

Remember: Be aware. Use your mirrors and watch traffic behind you.

Scantech gets lease

Scantech Resources has been successful in its application for a permanent lease at its controversial Wood Bay site.

J.T. Hall of the Ministry of Lands, Parks and Housing (LPH), in a hand-delivered letter to Mac Richardson dated June 25, states that "a License of Occupation, for a period of 10 years, over the 1.959 ha. site, for the purposes of net pen culture of salmonids," is being issued.

A copy of the letter was made public at last Thursday's regional board meeting by Area A Director Gordon Wilson. According to the letter, LPH took into consideration the fact that the proposal fully complies with existing foreshore and upland zoning by-laws of the regional district; it complies with all environmental and land use statutes and regulations; the applicant provided a Salmon Farm Management Plan, approved by Marine Resources section of the Ministry of Environment. This plan was submitted less than a week before the net pens first appeared at Wood Bay in July of 1985. Approval, according to ministry officials, usually takes at least a month.

However regional directors were concerned that the letter makes no mention of their proposed amendment to By-Law 264 which will see aquaculture removed from all W1 zoning, except on a site specific basis.

"This proposal complies with existing zoning," Wilson said, "but lands, parks and housing is fully aware of W1 zoning. There is no discussion here of the fish farm being non-conforming if the amendment passes. This leads me to believe that they don't want the amendment to pass."

The ministry has also developed conditions upon which the salmon farm will be required to operate, the letter states.

These conditions include strict compliance with the management plan; there will be a maximum of 16 pens of a size not exceeding that shown in the plan; the pens are not to be moved closer to the adjacent property owner to the north; wooden decking is to continue to be used for walkways to reduce noise.

However, Wilson pointed out to the board that, except for the requirement of wooden decking, the conditions are no different to those laid down for any other fish farm.

Further conditions include the posting of a $5000 performance bond and the carrying of a minimum of $1 million in public liability insurance.

The small size of the bond did not satisfy the board.

"We were thinking of something more like $50,000," Wilson said. "$5000 is totally inadequate in terms of cleaning up any environmental damage."

The final condition states that "any proposed development over and above the 1.959 ha. will be dealt with as a completely new application, requiring full referrals and analysis."

But on the Friday following the regional board meeting, Mac Richardson, whose property overlooks the fish farm and who has spearheaded residents' protests against the way in which the fish farm first got its temporary lease, received a telephone call from John Gerbrandt from the ministry.

Richardson told the Coast News that Gerbrandt informed him that there had been an error in the figures quoted and that the licence would be for, not 1.959 ha., but 2.94 ha. This, Gerbrandt said, would allow the 18 anchors to be included within the lease; they had been accidentally omitted from the application.

According to Gerbrandt, Richardson said, this will be done without a further application being made, as was indicated would be done in the letter read the previous night at the regional board meeting.

"I don't know what I'm going to do," Richardson told the Coast News. "I'm certainly not just going to put up with it.

"There are people spending thousands of dollars in Lee Bay, Earls Cove, Keats Island, Tuwanek, Daniel Point. All to protect their property," Richardson continued. "I honestly think the government is completely ignoring the interests of yachters, the retirement industry, the tourism industry, residents, everyone.

"It's hard to believe that they want to increase the size of the lease by almost 50 per cent, just two days after writing the letter that says there'll be a full referral process.

Corrections

In last week's story on the opening of the Pender Harbour Golf Course, due to crossed lines of communication, Keith Jackson's name was incorrectly given. Jackson, well known sports reporter and broadcaster took part in the opening ceremonies.

Mrs. Catherine McQuitty (not Isabel), whose husband Ross drove the first ball down the fairway, also informed the Coast News that a Canada Works grant had been received by the Golf Course Society early in 1984, which had enabled preliminary work to get underway at that time.

Our apologies for any omissions or errors and our congratulations to the Society for a job well done.
