Sechelt hears Bay proposal

by Phillipa Beck

Fifty Sechelt residents attended a public information meeting May 25 hosted by KMAR, a Canadian corporation that is proposing a 95 acre, 1000 house residential development on the north west shore of Porpoise Bay.

The project is a multi-family subdivision of "houses with steep roofs and dormer windows nestled between trees, which takes full advantage of the natural beauty of the setting," Managing Architect Jerry Doll said.

The subdivision would contain over 1000 houses of varying sizes, interconnected foot paths, wood covered bridges and a walkway along the waterfront.

A central focus would be a community centre featuring a clubhouse/recreational complex, a general store, restaurant, marina and a hotel designed after an early Sechelt rooming house.

UMA Engineers and Planners provided topographic maps and vegetation surveys to demonstrate how construction would proceed on the site that has in most areas a 10 to 20 per cent slope.

The audience's questions centered first on noise during construction, road access, sewage, electricity and water provisions.

UMA Engineer Marcel Burnier said the site would have three points of entry, and Mason, Krause and Heritage Roads would have to be extended and paved.

Construction would take approximately two to three years and would employ 300 people, Burnier said. He proposed extending Sechelt's existing sewage line the 3.9 kilometres to the site. The current six inch water line would have to be twinned with the district's eight inch line for an adequate water supply, he said.

"At this juncture the municipality wouldn't have to put up any money for the project," District of Sechelt Mayor Tom Meredith said.

Doll did not have an estimate for the costs of the subdivision. "That is the next stage. The concept is to start when we are fully financed."

The project will be privately financed by advance house sales. "We expect the site will sell itself," Doll said.

A Mitten Realty agent, Brent Strad, told the Coast News, "the expansions seems awfully big, perhaps more than our community can bear."

Strad said KMAR would have to create its own market by way of advertising because Sechelt's 2.2 per cent growth rate could not provide enough people to fill the complex.

KMAR plans to market the homes in Toronto, Alberta and Kerrisdale in Vancouver. The target is seniors who would like to retire in a scenic area but cannot afford the housing costs in

Planner concerned

The problems of progress

by Ellen Frith

Gibsons Town Planner Rob Buchan presented an updated report on the impact of the expansion of Port Mellon Howe Sound Pulp and Paper mill on the town at the May 24 Planning Meeting.

Buchan feels the expansion is "the most vital current issue before this community" and yet, according to Buchan, the information forthcoming from Howe Sound Pulp and Paper which would help the municipality cope with the changes has been less than adequate.

Using his first preliminary overview on the expansion dated March 15, 1988, as a basis for discussion, Buchan said many of the points made at that time were still relevant.

In the first assessment of the potential impact on the Town of Gibsons of the anticipated expansion construction crew of approximately 450 workers, Buchan listed five areas of impact: policing (divided into traffic and crime), by-law enforcement, public works, rental accommodation and motel accommodation.

To that list, Buchan said several new aspects of the expansion impact should be considered.

Traffic, for instance, has suffered from both the Port Mellon equipment supply and from construction activity in town.

"Traffic has increased," Gibsons Mayor Diane Strom said. "Parking is a problem and so is the breaking down of the edges of the roads. These costs will fall back on taxpayers."

Buchan told council there has also been a population increase that has added to the school enrolments. "It was originally thought the majority of workers coming over would be single men but it is now apparent many have brought families with them," Buchan said.

He also pointed out there has resulted a shortage of tradesmen available for the existing population which has meant higher prices.

Buchan asked that council convene a special meeting with both Sergeant Hill of the RCMP and Harry Cargo of Howe Sound Pulp and Paper in order to further address the issues raised by his report.

"Meanwhile," Buchan said, "the silence from the Port Mellon consultants should be noted. My last indirect knowledge of any activity on their part is the private 'Business and Tourism Planning Workshop' held on April 8 to which a select group of local business persons was invited.

"I am aware that my last attempt to extract information over the expansion activity resulted only in an irate 'letter to the editor' from a company principal but surely it is not too much to ask that the neighbouring municipality receive, at the very least, a regular monthly newsletter detailing all facets of progress from Howe Sound Pulp?

"One is left to conclude that continuing silence in this regard denotes either a lack of awareness of the impact of this massive expansion on a small town of limited tax base, which is unacceptable, or a disregard, which is hardly believable.

"In either event, and regardless of other issues in which the mill is involved, there must be far more liaison in this regard and I reiterate my recommendation of some months earlier that investigations of similar expansions elsewhere in the province must be pursued,

Action urged on creekmouth park

A delegation from the Roberts Creek Community Association appeared at last week's meeting of the Sunshine Coast Regional Board (SCRD) urging directors to "...move with all haste to rectify a situation that should have, and could have, been resolved years ago." They were referring to the acquisition of Lot 10 at the mouth of Roberts Creek.

The association members have become alarmed as negotiations for the SCRD to purchase the property seem to be stalled and the owner of the property is proceeding to lay foundations for a house.

Director Brett McGillivray reassured the delegation negotiations are proceeding. He told them an appraisal is being done on the property and the regional district will make an offer based on that appraisal.

Area E Director Jim Gurney added, "I know it appears that we've lost the piece because he's building a house on it but that's not necessarily as it appears."

Area A Director Gordon Wilson suggested the board could learn a valuable lesson from this incident. When a parcel is identified in a community plan as being desirable for a park, such as is the case with this parcel, the board, he said, should move quickly to zone it for that use.

Gurney strenuously disagreed. He reminded the board that at the last meeting John Burnside had acused the board of using its political power in an attempt to 'steal the property'.

"That's what this would amount to," he told Wilson. "I don't think the zoning approach is the fair way to do it."

The Rainbow Pre-School Annual Picnic was held at Roberts Creek Provincial Park on May 25.

St.Mary's services curtailed

Nurses at St. Mary's Hospital in Sechelt have withdrawn some non-essential services at the hospital, but negotiations are proceeding between the British Columbia Nurses Union (BCNU) and the Hospital Labour Relations Association (HLRA) to resolve the two week old nurses' strike.

"We are operating under a job action that came down May 21," BCNU Steward Marleen Datema said. "We are in the hospital but are not performing some nursing duties."

BCNU members at St. Mary's have stopped clerical and switchboard duties, handing out meal trays and washing and stripping beds. These duties are being performed by the hospital administration and support staff from the Hospital Employees Union, Datema said.

Administration staff moved the patients from the second floor at St. Mary's to the first floor and cancelled all but emergency surgery.

A media blockout is in effect during the negotiations.

Good citizens

The Gibsons Chamber of Commerce has chosen its five outstanding citizens for this year whom they will honour at a ceremonial dinner May 31.

They are Bernice Chamberlin, Larry Labonte, Jean Mainil, Rod Moorcroft and, to show appreciation for a community-spirited well-run business, Gibsons Building Supplies owned jointly by Keith Frampton and Barry Reeves.

Mayors walk

Sunshine Coast Mayors Diane Strom and Tom Meredith will be joining Vancouver Mayor Gordon Campbell and other elected representatives from Lower Mainland municipalities in the second annual Mayors Walk for Africa in Vancouver on June 11.

Coast folks wanting to help raise money for a continent desperately in need, please contact your local municipal hall and make a pledge.

No suite action

Due to the serious lack of rental accommodation on the Sunshine Coast, Gibsons Mayor Diane Strom is going to take a leaf from Vancouver's book and leave illegal suites in the town alone for the time being.

"We have to be very, very careful," she said at the May 24 Committee of the Whole meeting. "I don't want to make a decision that will put more people out on the street or living in tents."

Council agreed, though, to acknowledge any complaints regarding such suites.

Trade unions and the environment

It appeared, at the end of last week, that Forestry Minister Dave Parker was assuring a demonstration of loggers in Victoria that the government would be giving permission for the logging of the Carmanah Valley.

Whether or not the 7,000 hectare valley should be saved as the environmentalists want, or just the 538 hectares that MacMillan Bloedel has offered is a moot point.

What is disquieting in this and in other matters, is the way in which the trade union movement is increasingly beginning to be identified with the most exploitative and short-sighted positions in connection with the environment.

We see it with the IWA in the Carmanah Valley dispute and others; we see it when the issue of the pollution of Howe Sound is being discussed.

The leadership of the trade union movement must be aware that there is a rising tide of public concern about the manner in which we have been laying waste to our habitat.

Unless their justifiable concern with jobs and the welfare of their members can be integrated with positions of public responsibility in the matters of the environment, the trade unionists run the risk of alienating themselves further than they already are from public opinion and becoming even more of a liability to their political allies.

As for Jack Munro, the leader of the International Woodworkers of America in British Columbia, he is becoming more and more obviously the kind of cynical union dinosaur who trades in tomorrow for his own well-being today, a man more of an obstacle to human betterment than one of its chief agents.

When Munro professes concern about the children of the children of the loggers having the right to work in 'the industry' it is unacceptable. Munro must know that at the current rate of exploitation of the forests and the increasing efficiency of the automatised methods of forestry, there will be a future in logging for very few, two generations down the road.

A professed concern for the future from such a man has no credibility whatsoever.

We Remember When

5 YEARS AGO

A single-engine Beachcraft plane en route from Vancouver to Powell River crashed into the mountainside near Pender Harbour Secondary School, above the Pender hydro station, some time after 2 am Saturday morning, killing both occupants aboard.

The Sunshine Coast Regional District has completed its pirouette in the manner of a proposed fish hatchery on Chapman Creek and is once again prepared to make zoning accommodations to allow the hatchery the use of land reserved for parks purposes along the creek, which is the district's main domestic water supply.

A surprise visitor to Sechelt's very successful Timber Days event last week was the Honourable Ed Broadbent, federal leader of the New Democratic Party. Broadbent visited the event in the company of federal MP Ray Skelly and provincial MLA Don Lockstead.

Ernie Fossett was cheered on by Sue Shepherd and a crowd of happy celebrants as he cut the cake at the Roberts Creek Community Hall's 50th birthday party.

10 YEARS AGO

In a special ceremony at the home of Clarence Joe, manager of the Sechelt Indian Band, two Sunshine Coast infants were honoured with traditional Indian names. Infant Nadine, daughter of Frank and Shelly Hoehne was given the Indian name, Lam-Haat. The original Lam-Haat was a highly respected lady-chief and a lady of considerable wealth.

The second infant to be so honoured was Quinn Nicholson, first-born of Ed and Isla. The Indian name given to Quinn was Chasken, the name of the great golden thunderbird at the top of the Indian totem pole.

20 YEARS AGO

Ardis Crowston will celebrate her 21st birthday this week with the first display of her paintings at the Sunshine Coast Arts Council Gallery in Sechelt.

Mrs. W.A.C. Bennett will have a busy schedule when she visits the Sunshine Coast for a tea at Sechelt and a coffee party at Pender Harbour. She will have in her party, Mrs. W.B. Black, Mrs. F. Richter, Mrs. L.R. Peterson, Mrs. C.M. Shelford and Mrs. Ray Williston.

30 YEARS AGO

A wave in heavy seas which swept over the back of a small open boat Saturday resulted in the craft overturning off Roberts Creek, throwing three people into the water.

First prize in the elementary division of the Canadian Forestry Association's annual school poster contest went to a 10-year-old pupil of Roberts Creek, John Warn.

40 YEARS AGO

Only 35 per cent of eligible voters cast their ballots in the recent plebiscite on $605,000 worth of school construction. Results are awaited from Egmont and Britain River to determine whether the program will go ahead or not.

Interlude in Mexico

In late January we came down out of the central plateau of Mexico heading in resolute fashion for the far southeast corner of the country, the Yucatan Peninsula. We had dawdled awhile on the west coast and explored and lounged in the middle. Now we were headed for the farthest point of our trip.

The road plunges off the plateau to the coastal plain of the Gulf of Mexico and the countryside becomes lushly tropical. Despite the fact that Veracruz is described as the happiest city in Mexico we turn south away from it, generally eschewing cities where possible.

The toll road is easy driving, the roadsides are lined with pineapple stands and some of the finest horses I have ever seen become commonplace.

At Villahermosa we catch our breath. The toll road runs straight and fast to Chetumal, near the Belize border in the southwest corner of the Yucatan.

There is another, lesser road that turns towards the Gulf of Mexico and runs along the coast. The guidebook says it is crumbling into the sea and that there is a ferry that must be taken and a toll bridge. It is not recommended. We take it.

Saturday night, after a half hour ferry ride - ah, Mexican ferries - we arrive with dusk at Ciudad del Carmen and camp for the night on the hard packed sand of its enormous beach.

I read that on the outskirts there is a smaller, but still considerable beach, Playa Bahamita, which is especially noted for the number and rich variety of its seashells. My wife likes seashells so on Sunday we travel but a half hour to Playa Bahamita and prepare to enjoy a day at the beach.

I have a good book, the water is warm and, though somewhat opaque, it is beginning to show the colour of Caribbean blue. Frances wanders off up the beach wearing a blue beach dress in search of shells.

Meanwhile, a one-ton truck with high sides has pulled up nearby and some 30 Mexicans descend, all one extended family with virtually a complete range of human ages it seems.

The Mexican family is here for their Sunday at the beach. They speedily erect palm frond sun shelters for the older members and then begin in various ways to enjoy the sand and the surf.

I read my book, I swim. I repeat the process. Time goes by. I scan the beach. No blue dress. I go back to the van for the binoculars and scan the beach again. No blue dress.

I am suddenly aware that three little Mexican boys are standing around me, six to eight years old. My Spanish is very limited and they have no English but 15 years of school teaching tells you something about body language. They are aching to look through the binoculars.

I have enough Spanish to tell them I am looking for my wife and she is wearing a blue dress. They join the hunt in turns, surveying the members of their family, seabirds, rocks at sea, but all make a conscientious attempt also to see the lady in the blue dress.

Meanwhile, Frances has been joined on her beach walk by three adolescent girls from the same family. The senora likes shells? Soon they are bringing her all the shells she can handle. The beach dress becomes a carrier for enormous quantities of shells, hence our failure to see it on the far side of the beach.

Later she returns and we think about lunch. We are beginning to prepare it when the Mexican mother comes over. She has tortilla with meat for us and a delicious ceviche. We thank her profusely. Over lunch various members of the family come over to visit in ones and twos. They tell us about themselves and ask about us. It is delightful.

We have been kind to their young people and we have tried to speak Spanish and we have won the hearts of these generous people.

When, late in the afternoon, we leave Playa Bahamita the whole family waves us goodbye and we feel that we are leaving friends behind.

Bread and Music

Music I heard with you was more than music,
And bread I broke with you was more than bread;
Now that I am without you, all is desolate;
All that was once so beautiful is dead.

Your hands once touched this table and this silver,
And I have seen your fingers hold this glass.
These things do not remember you, beloved,
And yet your touch upon them will not pass.

For it was in my heart you moved among them,
And blessed them with your hands and with your eyes;
And in my heart they will remember always,—
They knew you once, O beautiful and wise.

Gut feelings in Karachi

One cold, dark, miserably poverty stricken January morning in 1969 in London, England, I saw a 'Help Wanted' ad in the paper. Grant Advertising International wanted a general manager for its ad agency in Karachi, Pakistan. In that brief moment, as I savoured the exotic eastern ring of Karachi's name and rolled it around on my tongue, the winter gloom faded.

named Gordon at the time. He was a good-natured man and always amenable to any situation which seemed likely to provide good-story fodder for the next pub night.

He was also a fair graphic artist with advertising experience. "Karachi, eh?" he said. "Why not."

Six weeks later, clutching a three-year contract with Grant Advertising, we flew out of Heathrow Airport, touched down briefly in Paris and Zurich, and then landed, 10 hours later, in Karachi, Pakistan. The air when we stepped off the plane was a hot, spiced soup which immediately nourished our winter-killed souls back to life.

During the first few weeks we were temporarily housed in a suite in the Sind Club, a walled and yellow stone remnant of the finer days of the Raj.

There was a swimming pool, of course, as well as tennis courts, squash courts, billiard rooms, a dining room where dinner was served on real china by impressively turbaned waiters and a bar where drinks were ordered by those who had made history.

Of course, to Gordon who was the son of a humble Scottish baker, and to an egalitarian Canadian like myself, the Sind Club was unbelieveably decadent but, oh, what a lot of fun!

The Sind Club's billiard rooms were out of bounds to women which I found out very soon after my arrival. They were housed in a separate section of the club, surrounded by a wide veranda, and one day, in curiosity, I strolled onto the veranda with the intent of watching a game. I got no further than three feet towards the door.

"Oh no, Memsahib!" a waiter said rushing to my side. "Look at the sign."

So I did and the sign said 'No Ladies Beyond This Point'.

"I'm no lady," I said but he didn't get the joke and gingerly escorted me back towards more neutral ground.

My memories of Karachi were triggered the other day by a conversation about nothing less than Gibsons sludge utilization program. It was remarked that sludge, and especially what it is and where it comes from, is hardly a subject for polite conversation. But when I was in Karachi, the state of one's vitals at any one time, and whether they were at war or at peace, was talked about constantly.

Every expatriate living in Pakistan it seemed except for the very old timer whose innards had long been pickled by an endless number of Sundowners, suffered from Karachi Gut. It was a condition creating similar symptoms in all and varying only in degree.

"I had to ensconce myself on the toilet yesterday," a high ranking member of the British Consul explained to me at one dinner party. That was the familiar cry for a real bad case of the 'Gut'. At other times, one was merely mildly inconvenienced by having to say 'excuse me' several times in one evening.

Not only did everybody talk about Karachi Gut even during the most sophisticated of dinner parties, they also spent considerable time swapping cures for the condition.

Many of the British living in Karachi were, in fact, with pharmaceutical companies as were many of the German expatriates. And everyone had his own version of the ultimate remedy, which he would defend enthusiastically while all the while honouring the one apparently tried and true method of killing the guilty bacterium and that was with alcohol.

One night we were invited to help celebrate Bastille Day with members of the French Consulate. Our hosts put on a gala affair and there were guests present from all around the world including a delegation from Mainland China.

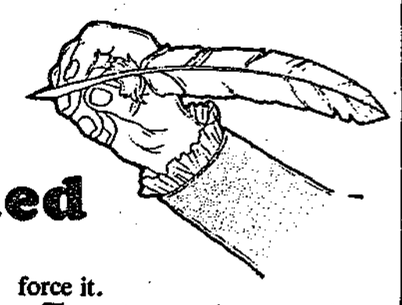
These four gentlemen were dressed very smartly in uniform, stood shyly shoulder to shoulder most of the time and spoke no English or French at all. They made do with the help of a hesitant and not very fluent interpreter until asked how they were bearing up in the health department.

For this they needed no words. Frowning and pulling down the sides of their mouths, these poor suffering gentlemen clutched their stomachs and pressing their knees together and groaning, swayed side to side.

Ah yes, we all cried, you have Karachi Gut! The great equalizer.

Letters to the Editor

Overall re-evaluation of drug policy needed



Editor:

After reading the front page article "Strom declares war on drugs", and seeing the page two cartoon that shows two people surrounded by alcohol, tobacco, caffeine and prescription drugs saying "Yeah, let's get tough on those druggies," I'm left shaking my head in disgust.

The mayor's actions are completely unrealistic and unjust.

The cartoon illustrates the argument that the dichotomy between licit and illicit drugs is radically contradictory and hypocritical and should be discarded.

Everyone would like to see the 'drug-free' lifestyle encouraged but we are aware of the reality that many choose to use drugs. Abstinence is only one of the alternatives. Attempts to enforce a prohibition are debasing the quality of justice and law enforcement and alienating from society many of its most valuable constituents.

A policy of intolerance toward illegal drug use has been in effect for the past six decades. It has failed miserably in its purpose. More drugs are being used and misused by more people at younger ages than ever before.

Over 15 years ago we had a federal commission of inquiry into non-medical drug use. The Ledain Commission thoroughly examined drug use and recommended all drug policy, including that for alcohol and tobacco, should be founded on the same general principles.

They said drug use can be viewed as common, rather than sick or deviant behaviour, that drug education and prevention strategies should be aimed at the avoidance of the destructive patterns of drug use and that an immediate cessation should be imposed on the development of materials and programs aimed exclusively at prevention of all use.

The government's failure to act on these recommendations has had tragic consequences upon society.

Governmental policies which insist on educational materials aimed at abstinence and drug free behaviour have promoted distrust and disbelief of all drug information disseminated by government, schools and other social institutions.

Drug prohibition has played an important part in creating the crisis of confidence in our legal institutions which confront us today.

All too often we forget that the criminal law is a blunt instrument for dealing with social problems. The use of the criminal sanction in an attempt to eliminate illegal drug use is like a hippopotamus resolved to pick up a pea hidden somewhere in the jungle.

The hippopotamus may conceivably succeed in its quest, more likely it will fail. What is certain is that in the attempt it will knock down many innocent victims and it will give up much of its dignity.

Any attempt to deal with drug use through the criminal process requires police to resort to techniques which approach the limits of constitutional guarantees and which conflict most strongly with the values of privacy, spontaneity and individual dignity.

The effects of these practices are felt not only by their victims but also by society as a whole. Every citizen has an interest in preserving the rule of law and the integrity of those who enforce it.

The mayor and community leaders would make a greater contribution toward the improvement of life in this country by writing a letter to the Ministers of Health and Justice urging an overall re-evaluation of drug policy.

Kernel of wit

Editor:

Judging by the photograph appearing on page 15 of the Coast News dated May 15, Mayor Strom should seriously consider retiring from the onerous and stressful position of Mayor of Gibsons. She is starting to look positively hagard and from her hirsute appearance must be taking steroids.

Art McGinnis on the other hand must have been rejuvenated by completion of yet another megaproject. His face looks smooth and youthful and his hair stylist has complemented his fine bone structure with a windswept casual look. Earrings too! Complements of Unisex?

In fact the only one in the photograph who looks like her former self is Hilda Lee who is undoubtedly an owner, not a tenant, of Marina Place.

Good work Ms Frith! Given time you should be able to change the whole town around to your liking.

Immersion note

Editor:

I would like to address some of the points raised by the Pender Harbour Parents' Committee both in their brief "French Immersion - The Right Choice?" and in various meetings all over the Coast.

1. Diversion of Funds, and Teachers' Jobs: In the Coast News of May 22, School District Secretary-Treasurer Tim Anderson is quoted as saying, with regard to French Immersion, "I can categorically say there is no redirection of money from other courses."

At the May 16 Public Forum, Superintendent Clifford Smith was asked how many local teachers had lost their jobs because of French Immersion and how many were expected to, and he answered, "None, and none." Unless opponents of the program are prepared to brand Mr. Anderson and Mr. Smith as liars, these issues should now be laid aside.

2. Segregation in Schools: In my child's three years as a French Immersion student, I have seen no evidence of French-English problems in the school or on the playground. I have checked with my child, her teacher and other parents and they concur.

Again, the Pender Harbour group should either call us all liars or stop raising this issue.

3. Elitism: Nothing in this debate makes me angrier than the constant charges of elitism levelled at French Immersion. This is a program which places no academic or economic restrictions on those wishing to register, which does not select or screen its students, which is open to anyone and forced upon no-one—how can this be considered elitist?

It is an educational option. Children who are not in the program have not been denied French Immersion—their parents have chosen not to enrol them. The only restriction may be the eventual limiting of the number of children allowed to register and this very restriction is at least partly due to groups like the Pender Harbour Parents' Committee who complain that too many students are leaving the English system.

If Pender Harbour parents feel the French Immersion program is "elitist" because it is geographically inaccessible to their children, their efforts should be directed toward making the program available in their area, not toward eliminating it from the rest of the District.

Nuclear correction

Editor:

Sybil Sears and I spoke at a meeting which was well reported ("Health Workers hear Nanoose Bay concerns.")

Correction: I do believe expert statements that potassium iodide and vitamin B-12 under some conditions reduce radiation poisoning. They should be stockpiled here.

Comments on someone else's comments: 1. "Iris Griffith's allegations are not valid." Too right! I know absolutely nothing about the safety features on the US ships in our waters. Neither does any other Canadian, including those in the Department of Defence or our Canadian Navy. So I used the "allegations" of the US government and similar sources.

2. "How would you get... family men to serve on [unsafe] vessels?" That's a wonderful wish but family men (mostly trained by the US Navy) served at Three Mile Island....and so on.

Denial and wishful thinking may be tempting. But the Nanoose hazard is like a billy-goat - it's safer not turn your back on it.

George in Gibsons

Elphie student chosen

by George Cooper

Elphinstone student, Greg Savoy, is one of 15 selected for a B.C. Youth Development tour to Africa this July and August.

GREG SAVOY

The tour is sponsored by the United Nations Association, Vancouver Branch, and is funded through a federal government agency. Each student must raise a portion of the cost in his school and community.

The purpose of the tour is to increase the understanding of the need for long term development in Africa and to further Canadian commitment to this need.

Greg said he was one of 40 interviewed in Vancouver by the tour leaders and a United Nations representative. "They wanted to find out what each applicant knew about Africa and conditions there and what we thought we could do in our communities to pass on what we learned first hand in Africa."

The tour itinerary takes the students to Kenya and Zimbabwe with a short stopover in London on the way. In Africa the students will visit schools, refugee camps and re-settlement projects, and learn of environmental projects.

The students will experience cultures quite new to them and see what the governments there and people's organizations are undertaking in development projects.

Greg has to raise $1400 as his part of this tour and he says, "I will be glad to attend any club meeting or other organization that may be able to assist me in this expense to explain in detail what the tour can mean to us in Canada."

ELPHINSTONE GRAD

An Elphinstone grad of 1978 has been called to the bar in a ceremony in the Vancouver Law courts this past May 19.

Christine Irvine, now Lowe, whose parents live on Abbs Road in Gibsons, is now employed with the Ministry of the Attorney-General as a Crown prosecutor in Vancouver. Her husband, Stan Lowe, who was called to the bar in the same ceremony, has joined a Vancouver law firm.

Christine received her BA in Criminology from Simon Fraser University in 1985, and her LL.B from the University of British Columbia in 1988. This past year she has articled with the Attorney-General's ministry in criminal prosecutions.

In the school yearbook of 1978 Christine had said that she wished either to continue her study of ballet or to study law. Now she sees a youthful ambition fulfilled after long but challenging years of study.

"I am most appreciate of the encouragement and suport that my parents, John and Ella Irvine, have always given me, and to my brother Alisdair during these years of study."

Christine said she would be only too glad to reply to any questions Elphinstone students may have about a career in law.

Questions can be sent to her through her mother at 886-2636.

larger cities, KMAR representative Bruce Bingham said.

Several members of the audience were concerned about the impact of 1000 to 1500 people on Sechelt's infrastructure.

"There are a lot more pros than cons in this project," Meredith said in a later interview. "Over a period of time we would add substantially to our tax base and we desperately need that."

A surge in population growth now would likely push Sechelt's population over 5000 and change its designation as a municipality, Meredith said.

"The subdivision would definitely increase the demand on extended care at the hospital," St. Mary's Hospital Administrator Ted Wright remarked. "Totem Lodge is full now. A surge of older people could hasten the addition of a third 25-bed wing."

Alderman Joyce Kolibas echoed several of the audience's questions when she said: "My concern is whether this is going to be a private or a public venture.

"KMAR made a presentation to council a month ago about the development. They told me part of the financing would be with offshore money," Kolibas said. "If they have the money, will they plant a whole little village, a strictly private 'little Sechelt', up there?"

Bingham said KMAR would be presenting further plans for the development through a series of public hearings. The corporation would like to start construction by the spring of 1990.

Len Allen remembered

by Maryanne West

Len Allen was a gentle man, beloved by all, but especially by children, animals and plants.

In his young manhood, Len may have gone through a period of frenetic activity, most of us do, fired with ambition to change the world or make our indelible mark on it, but he must have quickly come to the conclusion that the dog-eat-dog life of the market place was not for him.

When I first met Len some 30 years ago he was giving his spare time to helping his wife Betty with the first Roberts Creek Guide Company, a company which half the girls on the coast would have given their eye teeth to get into!

As in their marriage, Len and Betty's talents and abilities complemented each other so well it was hard to know where one began and the other left off. It certainly was a perfect recipe for Guide company leaders.

Len, quiet-spoken, patient, a veritable encyclopaedia of knowledge, fun-loving and totally unflappable was the perfect role-model for adolescent girls.

A master craftsman, he also had the patience to be a consumate teacher. However fumble-fingered the kids, Len gently coaxed skills from their reluctant hands. The anguished cry of "I'm never going to be able to do this" was a signal for a harrassed patrol leader to call for Len's help and before long a proud Guide was showing off new skills.

Spurred by Len's imagination as well as skills, crafts of all sorts were an integral part of the company's activities and helped to raise funds for its camping trips.

Campsites were always a tribute to Len's ingenuity. Watching the girls set up, he'd quickly begin to fashion all those little gadgets which make camp life so much easier: pegs, clips, drying frames, shelves etc. Out would come pocket knives and the girls would gather to try for themselves. We must have had the best, most labour saving camps ever!

Len was a perfectionist, as his garden will attest. It was a riot of bloom from early spring to late fall but controlled and orderly from the climbing vines to the neat rows of vegetables. I'm not sure what his secret was, perhaps that he early learnt to use time rather than be used by it. I remember how he walked, with the measured tread of the experienced mountain climber - energy expertly conserved and controlled.

You would have expected the weekly gaggle of giggling girls to drive him up the wall, at least periodically, but I never remember catching that look on his face which translates into "give me strength!" as for the 100th time he explained the simplicity of a bowline knot to yet another child who was sure she'd never get it.

Len didn't take himself overly seriously and he never allowed any of the kids or adults to do so either. His humour was kind and gentle but if anyone showed signs of becoming a little big for his boots, he could remedy the situation without hurt feelings.
absurd and dry, understated humour redeemed all those tough days at camp when the rain fell without cease and even if your tent didn't leak the damp pervaded everything. Long before the sun broke through, Len would have everyone laughing and our discomfort forgotten.

A fond memory of Len would see him seated on a rock as the rays of the setting sun warmed the beach at Roberts Creek, cap pushed back on his head, pipe gripped firmly between his teeth (30 years ago smoking wasn't a social sin!) while he carefully and lovingly fashioned a small cedar raft to carry a candle out into the Strait on the falling tide - a last night of camp ritual.

Now Len has set out on new adventures, his spirit bright and strong, well-prepared for whatever comes next and we are left with warm memories of this kind and very special man.

Roberts Creek

Association against creek building

by Jeanie Parker, 885-2163

The prospect of a house on the west side of the mouth of Roberts Creek has members of the community up in arms. More than just Roberts Creek residents are concerned about a building so close to the spawning grounds and many would like to see the parcel added to the Regional Park on the other side of the creek.

So last week's Community Association Meeting voted to send a letter and a representative to the Regional Board asking for action.

Other business at the meeting included a proposal from the Roberts Creek Legion for a beer garden at Roberts Creek Daze and the election of Randie Tame as the third director on the association executive.

DAZE IDEAS

Anyone wishing to get involved with this year's Roberts Creek Daze is asked to attend the meeting this Wednesday, May 31, at the Community Hall. Games, crafts, a parade and an outdoor dance are some of the usual activities but more ideas are certainly welcome.

Call Debbie at 886-3994 or Yvonne at 885-4610 if you can't make the meeting or need more information.

GARDEN PARTY

The Roberts Creek Branch of St. Mary's Hospital Auxiliary will be holding its annual garden party at Nora Weller's next Monday, June 12, weather permitting. Otherwise the meeting will start at 10:30 am in the Legion Hall as usual. New members are always welcome.

LEGION OUTING

How many people have never been to Texada Island? It's a lovely spot and the Roberts Creek Legion is offering its members the opportunity of a pleasant outing to Vananda on Saturday, June 17.

A bus will be chartered and rumour is the trip is free! Interested members are asked to contact the legion after 4 pm and leave their names.

Wee Davey returns to the little legion this Friday and Harbour Lights probably require no publicity for their engagement on Saturday night. They drew a full house for the Valentine's Dance and their big band sound is always a hit.

with a view to the possibilities of compensation being ascertained."

When asked by the Coast News for a reaction on these allegations from Buchan, Jim Foglietta, Employee Relations Manager at Howe Sound Pulp and Paper, said it was unfortunate but neither the company president Bill Hughes or its manager Harry Cargo were available to comment this week.

Council voted to arrange a meeting with Sergeant Hill and Cargo for June 1 or, failing that, on June 5, to discuss the impact of the expansion.

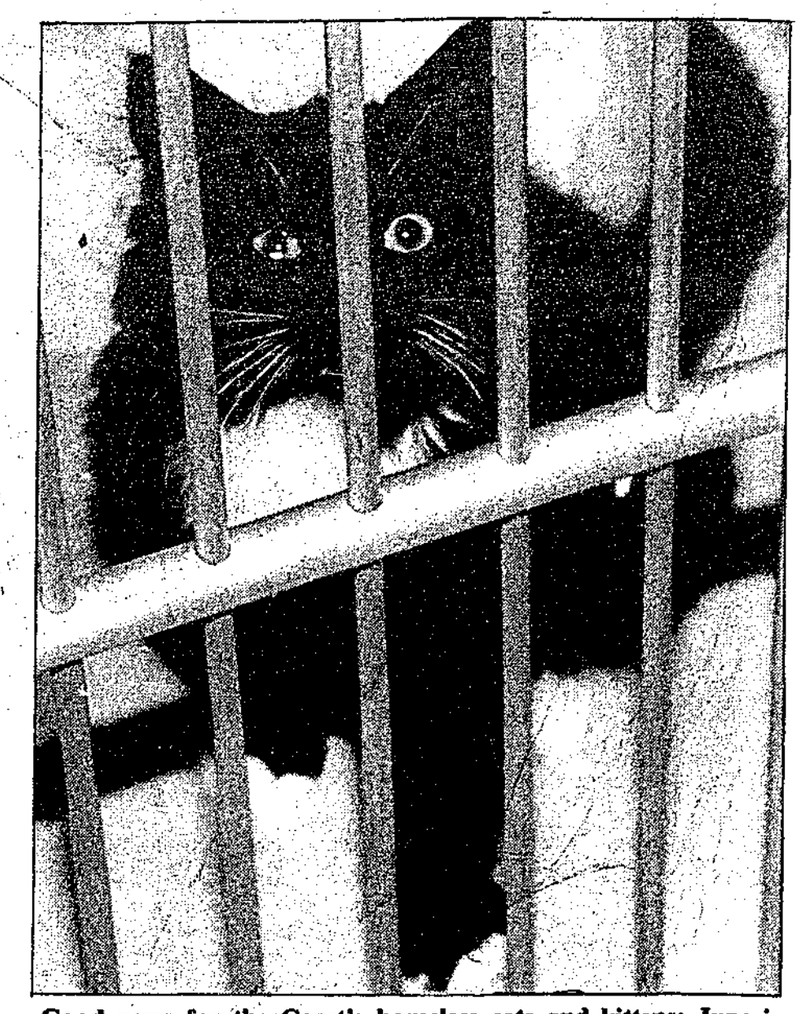
No smoke

May 31 is the world's second No Tobacco Day and this year's theme is 'Women and Tobacco'.

Twenty-eight out of 100 Canadian women smoke, says the World Health Organization, ranking Canada 25th out of 46 countries surveyed for smoking prevalence in women.

There is a real need to raise women's awareness about the dangers of smoking, says Dr. David Blair, President of the British Columbia Medical Association.

"In Canadians aged 15 to 19, a smoking gender gap has been widening. Thirty-five out of 100 teenage girls are smoking compared to just 27 out of 100 boys," he says.



Good news for the Coast's homeless cats and kittens: June is Adopt-A-Cat month, and the Sunshine Coast SPCA has many furry felines just waiting for somewhere to live. Adopt-A-Cat month is also promoting responsible pet ownership, particularly the neutering and the spaying of cats. —Vern Elliot photo

Harmony Hall

by Frankie, 886-3504

The last general meeting of the season for OAPO 38 will be held at 1:30 pm, June 5, and there will be a display of articles made by members of the ceramics class. So be sure to attend this final meeting before we all go our separate ways for the summer months.

George Withnall would like to thank all the performers and entertainers at the dance held on May 13 at the hall. The program would not have been the same without you all.

Also many thanks to the members who supplied the food and helped with the cleanup after the dance. Thanks to all who turned out and hopefully the rest of you will get into the spirit before too long.

There will be a trip by train/boat to Squamish on May 31, leaving on the 8:30 ferry. The price is $42.50 per person, so get a group together and phone for reservations and details at 886-3504.

Also, a trip to Sechelt some time in June to B.C. Telephone Museum - Free - with possibly lunch or dinner in Sechelt after the tour. Let me know if you are interested.

Condolences to Vivian Hunt who is in Lion's Gate Hospital after a nasty fall. A speedy recovery, Vivian.

Most activities are now finished at the hall until the fall, with the exception of Bingo every Thursday night and Fun Nite on Friday evenings.

Take care and will see you at the hall 1:30 pm, June 5.

Davis Bay News & Views

Last story hour

by Jean Robinson, 885-2954

Story Hour for pre-schoolers and their moms is on June 2 at 10:30 am in the Davis Bay/ Wilson Creek Hall. This will be the last Story Hour until September.

DUCK RACE

Seems the Duck Race festivities will take place in Brookman Park. That seems logical.

Tickets are on sale in Talewind Books and Linnadine's Shoes weekdays and in the malls on weekends. Tickets are $3 each or two for $5.

Prizes include a Great Northern bike, a hand carved duck, a day fishing for two, dinners for two, lunch for four, and movie tickets for 2.

There will be childrens games, a bake sale etc. The White Tower Society will be represented which should be of great interest to those romantically inclined toward that era.

Brookman Park is located on the upland side of the 101, north end of the Chapman Creek Bridge.

GRAD REUNION

Yes, I attended the 40 year Grad Reunion of the Class of '49 - Kitsilano High School.

The school has expanded so much one needs a map in order to find one's way around. It was bewildering 40 years ago, more so now.

The committee has been working since January '88. A long and sometimes difficult job as they also asked many who had to leave before graduating but would have been in that year. Of the 172 grads, 18 have died and 46 have not been found.

The three day event allowed many to attend at least once. One fellow came all the way from Hong Kong.

Needless to say, most of us suffered sore throats from talking. Nice to find out at least two families have summer homes here on our beautiful Coast.

Blood ailment affects 10,000

by Phillipa Beck

May 25 to May 31 was Hemochromatosis week. Ten thousand people in B.C. suffer from the health problem of iron over-load called Hemochromatosis, yet doctors do not check for it in regular health check-ups.

The Sunshine Coast Hemochromatosis Society (SCHS) is working to change that says its chairperson Kathleen Belanger, and during the week it will have information tables in malls in Gibsons, Sechelt and Powell River.

The SCHS will be trying to inform people that Hemochromatosis can be stopped if it's discovered at an early age.

"Hemochromatosis is hereditary. People are born with it but the symptoms appear later, when it is too late," Belanger said. "What we are after is testing for it."

The disease is produced by a recessive gene which causes people to accumulate iron from every conceivable source. It lodges in vital organs, damaging and often destroying them.

Symptoms vary but many Hemochromatotics report experiencing chronic fatigue, severe abdominal pain, bouts of nausea, diminished memory and disorientation for many years before diagnosis, says an article in the British Columbia Pharmacists' Society Magazine.

There is no known cure for the disease and few pharmacists seem to have heard of it, the article says, even though hemochromatosis is now considered the most common genetic disorder affecting caucasians in Canada.

Hemochromatotics who do not know they have the disease are in danger of exacerbating it with vitamins and enriched food because they usually contain high quantities of iron. Many take supplements to offset their feelings of weakness but the results can be fatal.

Often hemochromatotics are misdiagnosed because doctors do not recognize or test for the disease, Belanger said.

One of the society's members had been suffering from chronic fatigue. Her doctor prescribed iron pills. She felt worse and he recommended liquid iron shots.

"She wound up in serious condition in the hospital," Belanger said. "There are cases and cases like that."

Belanger got involved with the SCHS when her husband was diagnosed with Hemochromatosis in 1985, 10 years after he had the symptoms. "Then we had the kids checked," she said. "One of our boys has it and he is undergoing treatment even though there are no symptoms now and we are keeping an eye on our other boy.

"You can find out if you have Hemochromatosis through a simple blood test," Belanger said. The SCHS is lobbying the provincial government to include this test in all doctor's examinations.

Clues to an onset of the disease are: diabetes, bronzing of the skin, arthritis and rheumatoid arthritis, premature menopause and testicular atrophy, irregular heartbeat, liver problems, impotence, loss of hair, fatigue and shortness of breath.

Gardening Notes

Seasonal tips

by Marguerite

The weather, being so changeable and wet right now, is giving growth to our plantings, but oh! those weeds, they spread like wildfire!

Keeping the hoe working on them regularly a few minutes each day makes lighter work. Some of your seeds may have been washed away so plant again.

Try not to walk on your garden, the soil should be fluffy not packed down, walking on the beds also spread diseases which is why raised beds are so helpful.

You can fix a Reemay cloth protection secured like an umbrella over plants and plants get moisture and filtered sun and no bugs.

Time to plant a new lawn or repair an old one before the hot weather.

Prepare the site well by rototilling or digging to a depth of eight to 10 inches. Remove large and small stones, add screened soil, mix in peat, rake smooth and add 10-6-4 and some organic-like blood and bone or processed sewage which will give longer lasting results and a superior lawn.

Clean straw or hay will support and keep fruit clean. Quickly growing vegetables, the leafy kind, need a liquid fertilizer feed now, mulch if weather gets dry.

The compost heap can be built of six inch layers of green material sprinkled with ammonium sulphate, more six inch layers including soil. Then a layer of lime will heat up high and fast and kill weed seeds, fungus, diseases and pests.

Turn pile sides to middle within a few weeks and hopefully it can be used in three months.

Last reminder for kids' largest sunflower contest with 118 days to judging September 24. Fertilize the flowers with fish manure. Good luck!

GARDEN PARTY

The Roberts Creek Branch of St. Mary's Hospital Auxiliary will be holding its annual garden party at Nora Weller's next Monday, June 12, weather permitting. Otherwise the meeting will start at 10:30 am in the Legion Hall as usual. New members are always welcome.

LEGION OUTING

How many people have never been to Texada Island? It's a lovely spot and the Roberts Creek Legion is offering its members the opportunity of a pleasant outing to Vananda on Saturday, June 17.

A bus will be chartered and rumour is the trip is free! Interested members are asked to contact the legion after 4 pm and leave their names.

Wee Davey returns to the little legion this Friday and Harbour Lights probably require no publicity for their engagement on Saturday night. They drew a full house for the Valentine's Dance and their big band sound is always a hit.

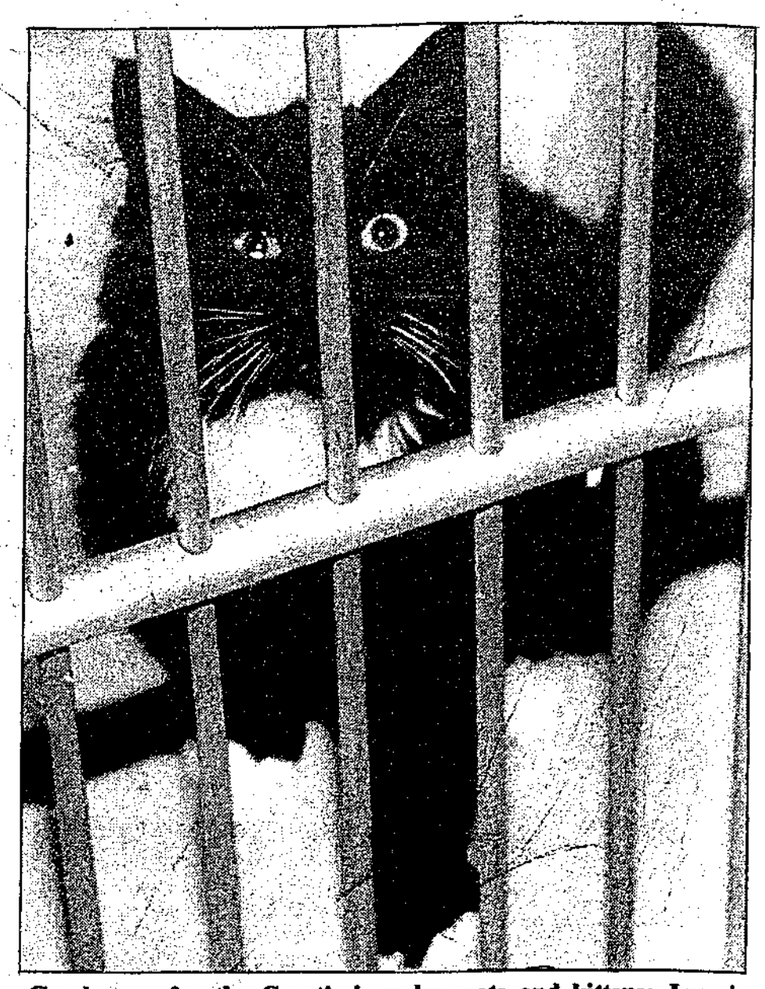
with a view to the possibilities of compensation being ascertained."

When asked by the Coast News for a reaction on these allegations from Buchan, Jim Foglietta, Employee Relations Manager at Howe Sound Pulp and Paper, said it was unfortunate but neither the company president Bill Hughes or its manager Harry Cargo were available to comment this week.

Council voted to arrange a meeting with Sergeant Hill and Cargo for June 1 or, failing that, on June 5, to discuss the impact of the expansion.



Good news for the Coast's homeless cats and kittens: June is Adopt-A-Cat month, and the Sunshine Coast SPCA has many furry felines just waiting for somewhere to live. Adopt-A-Cat month is also promoting responsible pet ownership, particularly the neutering and the spaying of cats. —Vern Elliot photo

May 31 is the world's second No Tobacco Day and this year's theme is 'Women and Tobacco'.

Twenty-eight out of 100 Canadian women smoke, says the World Health Organization, ranking Canada 25th out of 46 countries surveyed for smoking prevalence in women.

There is a real need to raise women's awareness about the dangers of smoking, says Dr. David Blair, President of the British Columbia Medical Association.

"In Canadians aged 15 to 19, a smoking gender gap has been widening. Thirty-five out of 100 teenage girls are smoking compared to just 27 out of 100 boys," he says.

Harmony Hall

by Frankie, 886-3504

The last general meeting of the season for OAPO 38 will be held at 1:30 pm, June 5, and there will be a display of articles made by members of the ceramics class. So be sure to attend this final meeting before we all go our separate ways for the summer months.

George Withnall would like to thank all the performers and entertainers at the dance held on May 13 at the hall. The program would not have been the same without you all.

Also many thanks to the members who supplied the food and helped with the cleanup after the dance. Thanks to all who turned out and hopefully the rest of you will get into the spirit before too long.

There will be a trip by train/boat to Squamish on May 31, leaving on the 8:30 ferry. The price is $42.50 per person, so get a group together and phone for reservations and details at 886-3504.

Also, a trip to Sechelt some time in June to B.C. Telephone Museum - Free - with possibly lunch or dinner in Sechelt after the tour. Let me know if you are interested.

Condolences to Vivian Hunt who is in Lion's Gate Hospital after a nasty fall. A speedy recovery, Vivian.

Most activities are now finished at the hall until the fall, with the exception of Bingo every Thursday night and Fun Nite on Friday evenings.

Take care and will see you at the hall 1:30 pm, June 5.

Davis Bay News & Views

Last story hour

by Jean Robinson, 885-2954

Story Hour for pre-schoolers and their moms is on June 2 at 10:30 am in the Davis Bay/ Wilson Creek Hall. This will be the last Story Hour until September.

DUCK RACE

Seems the Duck Race festivities will take place in Brookman Park. That seems logical.

Tickets are on sale in Talewind Books and Linnadine's Shoes weekdays and in the malls on weekends. Tickets are $3 each or two for $5.

Prizes include a Great Northern bike, a hand carved duck, a day fishing for two, dinners for two, lunch for four, and movie tickets for 2.

There will be childrens games, a bake sale etc. The White Tower Society will be represented which should be of great interest to those romantically inclined toward that era.

Brookman Park is located on the upland side of the 101, north end of the Chapman Creek Bridge.

GRAD REUNION

Yes, I attended the 40 year Grad Reunion of the Class of '49 - Kitsilano High School.

The school has expanded so much one needs a map in order to find one's way around. It was bewildering 40 years ago, more so now.

The committee has been working since January '88. A long and sometimes difficult job as they also asked many who had to leave before graduating but would have been in that year. Of the 172 grads, 18 have died and 46 have not been found.

The three day event allowed many to attend at least once. One fellow came all the way from Hong Kong.

Needless to say, most of us suffered sore throats from talking. Nice to find out at least two families have summer homes here on our beautiful Coast.

Blood ailment affects 10,000

by Phillipa Beck

May 25 to May 31 was Hemochromatosis week. Ten thousand people in B.C. suffer from the health problem of iron over-load called Hemochromatosis, yet doctors do not check for it in regular health check-ups.

The Sunshine Coast Hemochromatosis Society (SCHS) is working to change that says its chairperson Kathleen Belanger, and during the week it will have information tables in malls in Gibsons, Sechelt and Powell River.

The SCHS will be trying to inform people that Hemochromatosis can be stopped if it's discovered at an early age.

"Hemochromatosis is hereditary. People are born with it but the symptoms appear later, when it is too late," Belanger said. "What we are after is testing for it."

The disease is produced by a recessive gene which causes people to accumulate iron from every conceivable source. It lodges in vital organs, damaging and often destroying them.

Symptoms vary but many Hemochromatotics report experiencing chronic fatigue, severe abdominal pain, bouts of nausea, diminished memory and disorientation for many years before diagnosis, says an article in the British Columbia Pharmacists' Society Magazine.

There is no known cure for the disease and few pharmacists seem to have heard of it, the article says, even though hemochromatosis is now considered the most common genetic disorder affecting caucasians in Canada.

Hemochromatotics who do not know they have the disease are in danger of exacerbating it with vitamins and enriched food because they usually contain high quantities of iron. Many take supplements to offset their feelings of weakness but the results can be fatal.

Often hemochromatotics are misdiagnosed because doctors do not recognize or test for the disease, Belanger said.

One of the society's members had been suffering from chronic fatigue. Her doctor prescribed iron pills. She felt worse and he recommended liquid iron shots.

"She wound up in serious condition in the hospital," Belanger said. "There are cases and cases like that."

Belanger got involved with the SCHS when her husband was diagnosed with Hemochromatosis in 1985, 10 years after he had the symptoms. "Then we had the kids checked," she said. "One of our boys has it and he is undergoing treatment even though there are no symptoms now and we are keeping an eye on our other boy.

"You can find out if you have Hemochromatosis through a simple blood test," Belanger said. The SCHS is lobbying the provincial government to include this test in all doctor's examinations.

Clues to an onset of the disease are: diabetes, bronzing of the skin, arthritis and rheumatoid arthritis, premature menopause and testicular atrophy, irregular heartbeat, liver problems, impotence, loss of hair, fatigue and shortness of breath.

Gardening Notes

Seasonal tips

by Marguerite

The weather, being so changeable and wet right now, is giving growth to our plantings, but oh! those weeds, they spread like wildfire!

Keeping the hoe working on them regularly a few minutes each day makes lighter work. Some of your seeds may have been washed away so plant again.

Try not to walk on your garden, the soil should be fluffy not packed down, walking on the beds also spread diseases which is why raised beds are so helpful.

You can fix a Reemay cloth protection secured like an umbrella over plants and plants get moisture and filtered sun and no bugs.

Time to plant a new lawn or repair an old one before the hot weather.

Prepare the site well by rototilling or digging to a depth of eight to 10 inches. Remove large and small stones, add screened soil, mix in peat, rake smooth and add 10-6-4 and some organic-like blood and bone or processed sewage which will give longer lasting results and a superior lawn.

Clean straw or hay will support and keep fruit clean. Quickly growing vegetables, the leafy kind, need a liquid fertilizer feed now, mulch if weather gets dry.

The compost heap can be built of six inch layers of green material sprinkled with ammonium sulphate, more six inch layers including soil. Then a layer of lime will heat up high and fast and kill weed seeds, fungus, diseases and pests.

Turn pile sides to middle within a few weeks and hopefully it can be used in three months.

Last reminder for kids' largest sunflower contest with 118 days to judging September 24. Fertilize the flowers with fish manure. Good luck!

Sechelt Seniors

Workshop worthwhile

by Larry Grafton

Your president has compiled a detailed report on the events that took place at the 36th annual convention of the Senior Citizens' Association of B.C. held in Chilliwack on May 16, 17 and 18.

You may phone me 885-7173 if you wish a copy.

Touching on the high points only, the workshops were not only informative but entertaining.

Mr. Toews, a lawyer in Chilliwack, spoke on wills and estates and he fielded many questions from the floor. I'm sure he didn't cover all the ground he intended to in the time alloted and he certainly didn't present a bill to his questioners.

The next speaker was the Honourable Peter Dueck, Minister Responsible for Seniors. He elaborated on drug costs, misuse of prescription drugs and health programs funded by government. You should direct any problems you may have to him.

Hopefully his ministry will have a budget which will enable him to look after some of the problems of low income seniors. The federal minister for seniors didn't seem to be able to do very much to help us when we asked for assistance on our proposed activity centre.

The resolutions on proposed amendments to the provincial constitution were all defeated by secret ballot. A number of the resolutions to the provincial and federal governments were withdrawn by the branch delegates for a variety of reasons but a majority of the remainder passed including the only one from our branch.

Your delegates actively participated in presenting their views during discussion on resolutions prior to voting. Tina Hanover was re-elected President, Jean Gibsons first Vice-President and Elvira Harding second Vice-President.

Mary Facklam agreed to fill in for a limited time as secretary. Treasurer Eric Frost, who has served a number of years as treasurer, is ready to step down as soon as a replacement comes forward.

All in all, it was a good convention.

OVER 80'S TEA

This annual event for our branch is sponsored and refreshments provided by Jean and Bert Sherlock each June. This year it is scheduled for June 20 at 1:30 pm in our hall.

The purpose is to honour those of our members who have become octagonarians.

There is nothing to bring, seating is limited because of our small hall and members young and old are invited to honour those present who are over 80 years old.

If you plan on attending this popular event, you must phone Jean Sherlock at 885-9388 to let her know so she may provide the necessary catering.

For those members who still have their "over 80's pins" from last year, they are requested to wear them on that day.

Feds cut Canada Day funds sharply

by Phillipa Beck

Plans for Sechelt's Canada Days are going ahead despite a sharp drop in funding this year.

Branch 69 of the Sechelt Senior Citizens' organization applied to the federal government's Canada Celebration Days Fund for $4400 seed money. They received $500 said Canada Days organizer Leonard Hurter at a recent strategy meeting.

Alderman David Wells applied to the same fund on behalf of the District of Sechelt Council for $3600 and received $1800.

"Our request was based on money that is absolutely necessary to run the parade," Hurter said. "Last year we got $1900 and we sent $900 back afterwards. But $500 is just insufficient."

Nevertheless, organizers are energetic and working hard. Floats are lined up, an antique car is joining the parade, bands have been contacted to play, invitations are going out to mayors, MLA's and MP's, a 'Star Search' is underway and the seniors are "doing everything possible to make Canada Days the event of the year that will put Sechelt on the map," Hurter said.

Wells said council would match all the funds the seniors can raise.

The seniors would like to raise the money for the parade without going to local businesses. "We are going to try not to hit up the merchants," Hurter said. "People keep going to them with their hands out. I'm doing my best not to put too big a load on our own local people."

Instead Hurter hopes to line up donations from Vancouver businesses. "I can get real deals on things like hot dogs from a few contacts in town," he said.

On May 26 Herder talked again to the federal agency that administers the grants. "They said they ran out of money this year, they gave out all they had and there isn't any more left."

Area B plans nears completion

by Penny Fuller

The technical background report for the Area B community plan has gone through another revision process and is nearing completion. The report was reviewed at a special meeting of the Sunshine Coast Regional District (SCRD) Planning Committee last week.

Two of the major issues the planning department are having to wrestle with are waste disposal and logging in the area. Much of Area B contains the Sechelt Forest District.

The geological formations in the area present a serious problem with drainage of septic fields and at the top of the six items listed by residents of the area under 'dislikes' is sewage outfall to the ocean.

In order to establish zoning which regulates the density of population in various areas, the planning department has to take into consideration waste management for the area. Judy Skogstad, Manager of Community Planning for the SCRD, suggested permissible lot sizes may have to be determined by the potential for connection with the regional sewer system. Those areas which will foreseeably be connected with the system will be zoned to allow smaller parcel sizes and therefore higher population densities, than areas which will be dependent on individual treatment systems.

In addressing the problem of logging in the area, Skogstad told the committee her department had received assurances that most clearcut logging in Area B has already been done. In order to minimize the impact of future logging in that area, it is being requested the portion of the Sechelt Forest which lies in Area B be allotted to the Small Business Program.

There are also two places the SCRD will be asking to have designated 'forest recreation areas'. Homesite Creek is already being maintained by the forest service as a recreation area and the planning department will be asking the province to expand that area to include the nearby limestone caves.

The planning department has also been told of a 'pristine lake' located south of Trout Lake which, Skogstad told the committee, is presently so isolated she hasn't been able to find the way in. However, a local resident will be bringing in pictures of the lake and surrounding area and if it's as beautiful as the planners have been told, they'll request that it also be designated a recreation area.

The technical background report should be completed in the near future

May Day in review

by Myrtle Winchester, 883-9099

Another May Day has come and gone and as I write this, I look forward to seeing what photographs the Coast News' editoral department will select for this year's collage.

Comments (not mine): this year's parade was rather short but every entry was exceptional...if that stuff (cotton candy) can paint the side of the building like it did, what's it doing to our kids' stomachs...it was a lovely day after all.

May Day weekend was not unblemished however, with at least one impaired driver finding himself in the ditch, possibly wishing that he had taken the taxi that was available at the Saturday night dance to prevent such mishaps.

A group of party-goers on Ruby Lake's Picnic Islands demonstrated a remarkable level of ignorance when they chopped down 200-plus-year-old trees for firewood. Because of the soil and weather conditions on the island, the small gnarled trees had a unique bonsai-like shape.

This charming group also left behind massive quantities of garbage and broken glass on the beach and an unnamed grey-haired lady deserves thanks for rowing around the lake the next day collecting their beer cans.

Several canoes were taken from Ruby Lake Resort, reported stolen, then found at Dan Bosch Park.

Resort owners Dave and Terri Craig were both upset and baffled about the incident and the damage.

"I would have been happy to furnish firewood for them," said Dave Craig, "and we would have lent them the canoes, if they'd only have asked."

CLINIC HOURS

The Pender Harbour and District Health Clinic apologizes for the following change in its mid-week opening:

The clinic will open on Thursdays from 5 to 9 pm and Saturdays from 9 am until 12:30 pm.

BIKE-A-THON

The Sunshine Coast segment of a BC-wide Diabetic Association fundraising Bike-a-Thon will be held on Sunday, June 4 at Porpoise Bay Park. For more information, call Pam Hedderson, 883-9308 or Hank Wilson, 885-5417.

LEGION NEWS

Him and Me (Adam McBride and Al Farris) on the organ and drums will entertain at Branch 112 of the Royal Canadian Legion on June 3 with music spanning the 1920's to 1970's.

June 10 will be Shelly Kattler's last meat draw at Branch 112; she and Marg Swiggart are moving to Vancouver Island. They will both be missed in Pender Harbour and Shelly's panache will be especially missed at the meat draws.

The Legion won a second-prize ribbon and honourable mention for its float in the May Day parade, and all the credit goes to the hard workers who put it together: Joyce and Harold Clay, Bob Tunnell and Joan Murphy.

SWAP MEET

The Community Club Arts, Crafts and Swap Meet will be held at the hall on June 3. Doors open at 10 am. Ann Schroeder apologizes for the cancellation of the main meet.

POSTSCRIPTS

Isabel Ralph's son John visited here for a week on his return from 'location finding' near Whitehorse for a British film to be shot there in the future.

Pender Harbour Health Clinic memberships are available only to residents but non-residents sometimes use the clinic's services, as has been the case with a young Vancouver florist who weekends here.

This thoughtful gentleman showed his appreciation by presenting the clinic with a big box of blooming Chrysanthemums.

Egmont Day, June 10

by Ann Cook, 883-9907

June 10, Saturday, is the date set for Egmont Day starting with a fishing derby on the government dock. Kids love this as Len Silvey brings live bait and (if you're squirmish) Billy Griffith will bait your hook. If you catch something, even an old boot or a beer can, you may get a prize.

After fishing it's up to the school yard (oh to hear the happy voices of children there once again) for fun and games -races, running, jumping, sack etc.

Tug-o-war is fun, it's always been men against men or women against women but then someone suggests some new tug-o-warriors like Aquarius and Egmont fish plant, loggers against gravel pit workers, Egmont Lions against Egmont Community Club, Egmont Marina against Wigwam Campsite. (I'd bet on Dolly).

Then, canoe races: our own Patti and Steve Leander won the race last week at Ruby Lake's first annual canoe race and they will organize Egmont Day's race if there are enough participants. Phone Betty Silvey at 883-9463.

Munchies will be hot dogs, sandwiches, etc. No dinner or dance; the hall is still being reborn. There will be a raffle. First prize is a neat little table that's really a big crib board with a drawer to hold cards and giant-sized pegs (handcrafted locally).

The hamper donations are growing, but a little slowly, (too much rain?) Your donation can be dropped off with Betty Silvey, or dropped off here. Anyway deliver your donation to B.S.

Happy news is that Jack and Janet, Margaret and Boyd and Lyn and Martin will ring the wedding bells soon.

Thank you Ray Handsome for the load of gravel that was delivered to the hall parking lot to fill in the puddles.

I am happy for Hamburger Frances who is on the Quit List and hasn't had a smoke for about 15 days. Who will be next?

SICK LIST

We are all worried to hear Joe McCann is in hospital. Take it easy Joe, but hurry up and get well as we all miss you.

Our ferry service wasn't so good on the long weekend, it took friends and family most of Monday to get home, not travelling, but sitting in (or a mile or two or three out from) Langdale.

Other not so good news, Terri and Dave, new owners at

Teens great in performance

by Ruth Forrester, 885-2418

Nikki Weber had reason to be proud of her teenage performers when they presented the Teens Show at Greene Court to raise funds for the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation recently.

The Semi-Tones were in great form and each solo and duet were outstanding. There was a touch of nostalgia throughout the show as quite a few of the girls are graduating and will be moving out of the area. They will certainly be missed.

I know these young people will be delighted to learn their efforts raised around $450 for the Foundation. Well done.

While on the subject of the Cystic Fibrosis fund raising, we hope many of you Halfmoon Bayers are planning to go to the Jolly Roger Inn on Sunday morning, June 4, where a Sunrise Breakfast is being served from 8 am until 10.

You will be helping with the fund raising as well as meeting with Jackson Davies of the Beachcombers. Our own local grandma who has suddenly found herself in the celebrity category will also be in attendance.

Elva Dinn will be pleased to see you and will be most appreciative of your support for this cause which is so dear to her heart. Tickets are available at the B & J Store in Halfmoon Bay, or just show up for breakfast.

HOME AGAIN

If anyone has been trying to get in touch with me during this past couple of weeks and were unable to do so, the reason that I was unavailable is that we were off on a trip to the interior of this province.

Visited with old friends in the Kimberley and Kelowna areas and got involved in a couple of snow blizzards on the high passes. Not too pleasant at the end of May but otherwise enjoyed the break.

Noticed that Mary Konopasek of Halfmoon Bay was the recipient of the Girl Guides All Round Cord. This is quite an accomplishment and the result of much hard work and dedication by this young girl. Worthy of hearty congratulations from us all.

OLD FRIENDS

Recent guests at the Mary Shannon residence were Doug and Maria Wheeler, a well known couple in our area.

John Burnside did such a splendid article on the Vince Shannon memorial gathering at Welcome Beach Hall that there is really nothing left to be said. It was indeed a warm and loving gathering of family and friends. Vince would have been pleased.

GOLF "4" FUN

On Saturday, June 10, the Halfmoon Bay Child Care Centre will be putting on a Golf "4" Fun tournament at the Pender Harbour Golf Course to raise money for the centre.

You can play either nine or 18 holes and enjoy dinner afterwards.

There will be prizes for low men's score, low ladies' score, hidden score, closest to the pin, longest drive and most honest player.

Tickets are at the Halfmoon Bay store, or call Joan at 885-5147 or 885-3118.

The usual prize of $5 will be awarded the first correct entry drawn which locates the above. Send your entries to reach the Coast News, Box 460, Gibsons by Saturday of this week. More on immersion

by Ellen Frith

The School Board Trustees at the May 23 meeting received three more delegations on the subject of French Immersion, this time all of them against the program.

John Cook from Middlepoint said the board's questionnaire regarding the Core French Program reached only those taxpayers with children in the school system while it should have gone to all taxpayers.

He also argued that French as a world language ranked 17th and was, therefore, less important for British Columbians to learn than Asiatic languages. He also felt the entire French program was politically motivated by Quebec.

Janet Leckie, who has two children in the West Sechelt Elementary School, said that in spite of claims to the contrary by Parents for French, the Core French Program is adequate if properly taught.

Parents for French had argued at the May 16 forum on French Immersion that the Core Program was an inferior one. French Immersion was the program which allowed children to reach a level of "functional bilingualism" they said.

"I am here this evening to give you my views on the Core Program and how successful this program could be if started at the Grade 1 level with similar funding (to that of French Immersion)," Leckie said.

She maintains a Core program can achieve the same results as a French Immersion one with proper instruction. "The issue of bilingualism is an emotional one," she said, "and the advantages to speaking more than one language cannot be denied; so let all children have the opportunity to learn languages through a supportive Core program."

Margaret Gooldrup of Pender Harbour presented a letter of support for Core French to the school board with over 100 signatures gathered during the May Day celebrations in Pender Harbour. She said she had not solicited signatures but rather had let people "come to us".

Coast star-gazing

Coast residents are invited to an evening of telescopic viewing Saturday, June 3 at Bonniebrook Beach Park. The event will be hosted by the Coast Astronomy Club and is the first of several such sessions to be held at different locations throughout the spring and summer months.

The public is welcome to come and see for themselves but is reminded this event is weather permitting. If the sky is clear the telescopes will be there.

The Coast Astronomers Club is a non-profit group dedicated to educating its members and the public about astronomy. The next meeting is at the Roberts Creek School community use room, June 27 at 7:30 pm. Everyone is welcome.

In Porpoise Bay

Foreshore extension approved

by Phillipa Beck

The District of Sechelt Planning Committee approved a request May 25 for a foreshore extension application in Porpoise Bay.

The project in question zoned for marine use belongs to Allan Choquer who has run a welding business from his property for many years. He is applying to extend his waterfront area into the bay.

The planning committee accepted Municipal Planner Rob Sabine's proposal to approve Choquer's lease extension with limitations on its land use. Choquer cannot manufacture goods, build a restaurant or unload barges on the extention.

Council will vote on the recommendation at its next regular meeting June 7.

Choquer's original property has been the subject of several months of controversy and public hearings for residents of the Porpoise Bay area.

Several months ago he applied to council to change the zoning by-laws on his water property from W-1, water lease, to I-3, industrial use.

At a public hearing April 12, many Porpoise Bay residents opposed the zoning by-law changes, saying they were worried about noise problems and the probability that if the by-law was ammended, any requirement to maintain and repair buildings on the Porpoise Bay waterfront would be removed.

Joyce Fitzpatrick of Sechelt asked council to establish a citizen's advisory committee that would discuss any zoning changes before they went to a public hearing.

Sechelt Mayor Tom Meredith promised at the April 12 hearing such a committee would be set up "ASAP".

Council voted May 6 to accept a recommendation from the planning department to zone Choquer's waterfront for marine use (M-1), which is a slight alteration in the industrial use guidelines not permitting industrial activity.

History Society moves and SCRD joins up

The Sunshine Coast Maritime History Society will be moving into more elaborate facilities. At a meeting of the Sunshine Coast Regional District last week, directors received a letter from the society's secretary Joe Belanger announcing the move.

'We would respectfully request the board's indulgence in forgiving the deferred rent owing which accrued as a result of the original rent agreement of January 1989.' Belanger wrote. 'We would request that forgiveness be "in lieu of a grant" toward the operation of the Society.'

The board decided to deny the society's request and instead ask that the Sunshine Coast Regional District be granted a lifetime corporate membership in lieu of the rent.

Gibsons sees need for traffic lights

by Ellen Frith

Gibsons Council at the May 24 Planning Committee meeting voted to request the Ministry of Transportation and Highways investigate the need for full signalization of the traffic lights at the two junctions on Highway 101 of Shaw Road and School Road.

With recent increases in traffic on the highway, council felt it was quite obvious traffic lights were now necessary.

Unfortunately, Gibsons Town Planner Rob Buchan said, the provincial ministry involved judge the need for traffic lights by counting cars. "There is no way we will have an improvement in lights without the numbers," he said. "That's the way Ministry of Highways works."

He said when the Oceanmount subdivision on Shaw Road is completed as well as the new Cedar's Motel, the issuing traffic increase at that intersection might persuade the ministry a light was necessary.

Council also agreed to invite the Ministry of Transportation and Highways technician, Ray De Graff and Marvin Mogul of Sunnycrest Mall to meet with Buchan and Gibsons Mayor Diane Strom to discuss the exits and entrances to the mall.

Strom, who works at the Super Valu store in the mall, said people often complained to her while she was there that traffic was tied up trying to exit the mall's parking lot onto the highway.

Buchan said, however, that the problem at the mall was not due solely to the lack of a traffic light at Shaw Road and Highway 101. "There is a need for Sunnycrest to do some fence mending on their own," he said.

Gibsons Works Superintendent Skip Reeves said many of the mall's accesses and egresses did not meet with the town's own recommendations. He mentioned the lack of a wheelchair ramp and a turning lane as examples.

Buchan suggested the letter from council to Mogul be "worded as strongly as possible" because Mogul's cooperation was absolutely necessary to improving the situation.

King of Safecrackers

Downfall time for Holy Herb

by Peter Trower

Upstairs, Wilson looks around desperately for somewhere to hide. His eyes light on the trap door to the attic. Grabbing a chair, he attempts to climb up there. He isn't quick enough. Two cops burst into the room, seize his dangling legs and haul him down.

"Just like a rat going for your hole, eh, Wilson?" one of them sneers. "Get your clothes on. You're coming downtown with us. The big boys have got a lot of questions to ask you."

"This is all some crazy frame-up!" Wilson splutters. "I'm a respectable businessman - a retired minister of the cloth!" But he gets dressed anyhow. The cops cuff his hands behind his back and hustle him downstairs. The house is ransacked from top to bottom, but nothing of an incriminating nature is turned up.

"Place seems clean," one of the officers reports disappointedly.

"Well, let's get Wilson the hell downtown," says the sergeant-in-charge. "The feds want to have a word with him."

"Oh, Herbie," sobs Alice, almost hysterical with worry and confusion. "What are these men doing to you? What is going to happen?"

"Don't worry, my dear," says Wilson soothingly. "I assure you that I am totally innocent of any criminal charges. This is all some dreadful plot cooked up by my enemies. Everything will be alright when the truth comes out."

Herb Wilson is taken to the Los Angeles Federal Building. Here he is grilled intensively for the next six hours by a skilled team of federal agents. Cox has given them a great deal of information about the gang's activities over the past five years. The feds quiz Wilson about everything from the Kroger Department Store caper to the mail truck robberies.

Wilson stubbornly refuses to admit complicity in any of these crimes. He knows enough about the law to realize that Cox's confession alone is not sufficient to convict him. Wilson sticks to his guns and continues to protest his innocence to one team of interrogators after another.

Finally at 8 o'clock that morning, the feds finally give up on it. Herb Wilson has admitted to nothing. The weary and frustrated agents turn him over to the California State Police for safekeeping.

Herb Wilson is weary and frustrated too, not to mention furious with Herb Cox for bringing this whole debacle about, but he is determined to admit nothing.

During the long interrogation, the federal agents avoided the use of physical violence, but one of the California detectives who is escorting him to the County Jail, a large brutal-looking man named Shrewbridge, obviously has no such scruples.

"Those feds were too goddamn easy on you," he hisses. "I got a good mind to beat the truth out of you, you little weasel!"

Wilson feels quite capable of withstanding any sort of psychological pressure, but physical torture is another thing. Fearing what Shrewbridge might do, he decides to make a break for it at the first opportunity.

When one of the other detectives stops off at his house to pick up some papers, Wilson seizes his chance. Leaping through the open door while the other officers are momentarily distracted, he takes off like a spooked jackrabbit. Wilson has always kept himself in good condition, and it stands him in good stead now as he bolts away from the police car.

The startled officers set out in instant pursuit, shouting at him to halt.

Arts Centre new show

'Passages' and 'Small Pleasures' open this week at the Arts Centre and run concurrently until June 18.

Ceramicist Pat Forst's 'Passages' represents the movement through life's stages, from birth through death and beyond. The inspiration for this unique series of sculptures and murals came after a year of travel and study in England during which she was strongly influenced by the work of Henry Moore and Barbara Hepworth.

Pat's own movement from functional form to sculptural expression is one passage this exhibition marks and another is the death of her father last year. The references to the stages of life, and between visual elements in the sculptures and murals, make this a show that rewards scrutiny.

'Small Pleasures' showcases the work of jeweller J.H. Leyland, who has been making, designing and teaching jewellery since studying with Bill Reid in 1959. He founded his own jewellery design studio in Vancouver and retired from there in 1986 to the Sunshine Coast, where he works out of his home and travels to teach.

He has exhibited widely, including in Tokyo and at Expo 67. He plays with the processes, materials, surface qualities, and shape possibilities of jewellery and produces tiny sculptural pieces which are a delight to the eye.

There will be a reception for both these artists on Saturday, June 3 at 2 pm.

Arts Centre hours are 11 am to 4 pm Wednesday to Friday, 1 pm to 4 pm Sunday.

Wildlife sanctuary in Pender Harbour

by Phillipa Beck

"I feed the animals at irregular hours, in no set pattern just like they would find food in the wild," Joanne Dickeson said as she laid a cold herring on a stump inside the great horned owl's cage.

"OWLY"

The owl is the most recent resident at Dickeson's wildlife sanctuary near Pender Harbour. It was found sitting in a backyard near Middlepoint, missing its primary flight feathers at the end of one wing.

Dickeson is nursing "Owly" back to health on an expensive diet of fish and frozen rats. Later he will get live rats, but right now those are still adolescents, growing up to be his dinner in the shed neighbours helped build beside his cage.

Dickeson is an animal health technician. She has been in "the vet business" for 16 years and last year she began a sanctuary for wild animals injured and requiring emergency treatment.

"Most of the animals I get in here have had some sort of a run in with humans," Dickeson said.

In the 20 foot pond beside her house are three Canada geese, carrier pigeons and a mallard with a droopy wing.

One of the geese had been shot. Its wing was so severely damaged Dickeson had to amputate it.

In the mallard's case, it had a foot-long rod stuck between its wing and breast. "Somebody put it there," Dickeson said, "the way it was angled in the x-ray shows there is no way it was an accident."

Dickeson's wildlife sanctuary is a registered, non-profit voluntary operation. She does all the work to feed and care for the animals and she has paid for most of the equipment and medication herself.

While Dickeson was talking to the Coast News, Ken Duff of Sechelt brought in a tiny green finch he had found on his porch. "Perhaps it flew into the window," he said.

Dickeson put the bird in an aquarium equipped with a heating pad sitting on her kitchen counter. She has a crow, who may have been hit by a car she says, in a cage in her living room.

"Wild animals are quite different from domestic animals," Dickeson says, "and stress plays a big factor. Dogs and cats can handle cages but wild animals often go into shock, when they find themselves encaged. I try to keep them as close to their natural condition as possible and not imprint them while I am taking care of them."

To that end, she has a lettuce and watercress garden for the geese, and she hopes to acquire a larger cage and more mice for the owl. None of the animals are treated as pets, they are nursed back to health in order to become self sufficient and survive back in the wild.

Dickeson said she would like to get another parcel of land, "far away from rock throwers," where animals such as the goose with one wing can be released from emergency aid at her house into an area where it can still receive some attention.

She is also interested in hearing from people who would like to start a wildlife emergency network that could respond to environmental disasters such as oil spills. She can be contacted at Box 1384, Sechelt.

Rhythms of Life

Change generation

by Penny Fuller

John F. Kennedy, Jimmy Hendrix, John Lennon, Martin Luther King, Gloria Steinem, Shirley Maclean. All of these people share one thing in common: the generation that followed (or follows) them has made them an intimate part of their lives.

It would appear these heroes and heroines have had a transformative affect on the lives of their fans but that may have more to do with the nature of their followers than with the 'stars' themselves.

People born between June, 1939 and August, 1957 (the Pluto in Leo generation) are the first generation to arrive just after Pluto was discovered in 1930, ushering in the atomic age. At the time it was spotted, Pluto was rolling around the middle of the sign of Cancer, the sign that represents the home (or homeland).

There can be little question that on a global scale, it announced a time of major transformation and power struggles which altered people's sense of stability and safety within their homes. When it moved into Leo, the transformation process hit an even more personal level, the ego itself.

Leo is ruled by the Sun, which represents the core of our individuality: the ego energy. Those born when Pluto was in Leo (1939-1957) will spend a lifetime going through a transformation process at the very source of their sense of self-hood.

A large number of these people experienced some kind of personal violation during the early years of their lives - often emotional, physical or sexual abuse. But Pluto is the planet of death and rebirth and it is through the examination and healing of these early death experiences that people are reborn, transformed.

This is more than just a fad-oriented generation. It is millions of people who are compelled to make such major changes at the core level that a whole society has developed, and is developing, techniques in self-transformation.

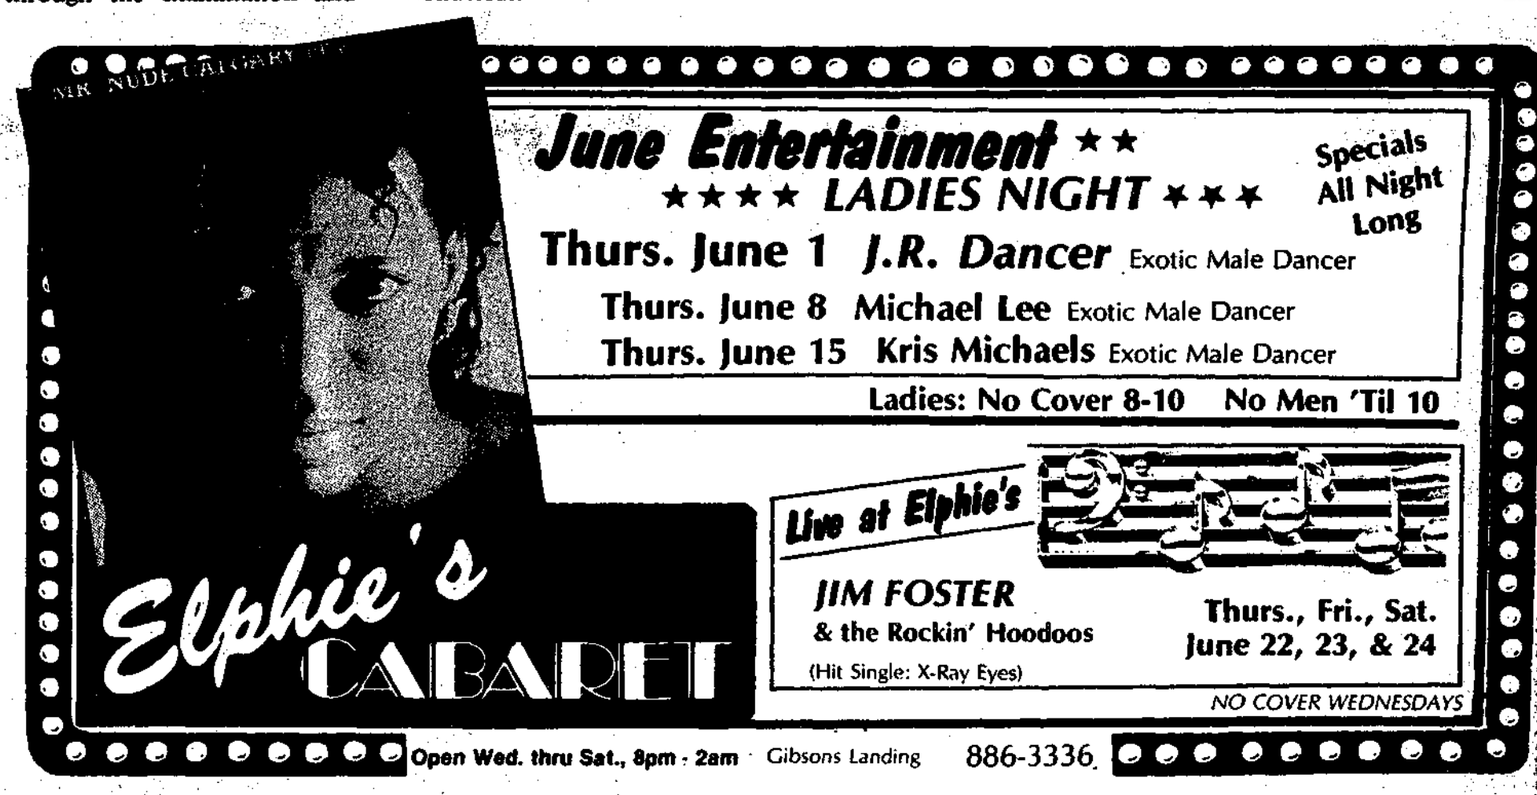
The book shelves are overflowing with suggestions and alternative methods for changing your life on every level, from one-to-one relationships to your relationship with God. All of them involve leaving behind old ways of relating and/or being, and re-creating a part of yourself.

Thirty years ago, there were psychiatrists and psychologists and you had to be either very crazy or very rich to spend much time with one. Now there are counsellors and therapists of every kind prepared to help just about anyone who wants to look at their own garbage and let it go.

There's been a lot of that going on in the last decade and the angle Pluto is now forming to its location at the time this generation was born, indicates that all of them will have gone through major transformations by the end of this century.

If you were born between 1939 and 1946, much of that process has already taken place. Those of you born between 1946 and 1952 will find this year and 1990 to be a time when you're evaluating your life to date and yourself as an individual. And you'll probably be making some important changes.

Don't hesitate to get any help you might need in healing the past and creating a new future for yourself. The rebirth can be wonderful.



DINING GUIDE

A listing of restaurants and pubs

Toast of the Coast

We had a visitor from town and decided that it was time that we had dinner out. The Creekhouse Restaurant is just a minute or two down the road from our house. Our friend had not been there and we felt sure that he would enjoy it.

It was a lovely still evening and the restaurant, nestled in the heart of the Sunshine Coast, seemed, through its generous windows, surrounded by the fresh lush greenery of late May, most restful and tranquil.

We decided, without hesitation to take the smiling waitress's recommendation and have a bottle of the house white wine.

As ever the Creekhouse menu was a fascinating selection which made choosing difficult. The friend from the city and myself decided we could not say no to the Moroccan Chick Pea Soup whilst my wife decided she would have a green salad. The soup was succulent and the salad, with fresh tomatoes, was pronounced perfection.

For the main course I selected the Creekhouse Rack of Lamb, my wife was delighted with perfectly cooked halibut in a white wine and caper sauce. The friend from the city was intrigued to find rabbit on the menu, a remembered delight from his boyhood in Britain, and pronounced himself later well-pleased with his selection.

All of the entrees were accompanied by a julienne of carrots and green beans cooked to perfection on a bed of rice.

As ever, the service was friendly and efficient and the ambience of the Creekhouse most pleasing. All in all, a most enjoyable Sunshine Coast evening.

Gibsons hosts rugby international sides

by Jay Pomfret

The boys in blue were honoured to be able to participate in international play last week during the Vancouver Rugby Union's 100th anniversary, hosting two sides from England and a final game against Wales in Vancouver.

The Pigs first match was against Cleve which is located in Bristol, England. It was a game of two halfs, the first belonging to the Gibsons backs scoring four tries, ending the half 24-6.

The strong Cleve forwards dominated the second half scoring 20 points but the boys in blue squeaked one more try in before the final whistle making the score 28-26 Gibsons.

Social events with Cleve equalled the action on the field making for an enjoyable time for all and lingering memories of the brotherhood of rugby.

The second match against Westpark from Liverpool, England saw a sound effort from all 15 players leaving the final 26-10 Pigs.

Off to Vancouver next with a rag tag side, the Pigs played a Welsh side, not coming out so victorious but never giving up and saw the final 17-4 Wales (2 out of 3 ain't bad).

With the games finished for most of us it was off to Brockton Oval for refreshments and some fine calibre of rugby action featuring the Vancouver All Stars vs the International All Stars with Vancouver coming out on top. Next to the B.C. Pavilion for more socializing and camaraderie in typical rugby fashion. It was a special week for all involved.

The Gibsons Rugby and Athletic Club would like to thank all supporters (wives and families) and fans for their support all year.

There is still summer rugby, with the fitter Pigs playing seven-a-side matches up until August.

Slo-poke action

by Mark Benson

Larry's Slo-Pokes won a close game against A & G Contracting 7-5 last week in the Cedars Mixed Slo-Pitch league.

The score was tied 5-5 going into the last inning when Slo-Pokes' Dale Boghean hit a home run for the go ahead run. Ken Makeiff knocked in an RBI with a triple for the insurance run.

Coors Lite came back to defeat the Slo-Pokes 15-13 in yet another game that went down to the wire. Coors Lite had been behind the whole game but went ahead by two runs in the last inning on a home run by Alan Barber.

Slo-Pokes tried to come back on their last bats but a good Coors defense shut them down.

This Week's Games:

Monday, May 29 GAB vs Bayside at Brothers #3; Wrecks vs Pigs at Brothers #2; Commuters vs Creekers at Langdale N.; Cedars vs Coors at Langdale S.; Slow Pokes vs Blasters at Cedar Grove.

Safety Week seen very successful

by Detlev Stiegler

Our Safety week ending May 19 was a very successful one. A draw was held for boat enthusiasts to win a ticket for a Basic Boating Course in September 1989. The lucky winner was Gerry Gow, Sechelt. During the three day event, we were able to answer many boating questions.

Twice a year, Sunshine Coast residents are offered a unique learning experience. Every Spring and Fall the Sunshine Coast squadron offers its Basic Boating Course, which runs for 13 weeks on a three hours a week basis. Presently a Spring '89 program is underway.

The Fall courses run from September to mid December. If a class needs extra time, it is given to them.

Power Squadron is a national organization dedicated to educating the boating population. The Sunshine Coast Squadron was started in 1966 and there are still 'first-day-members' with us today.

We teach the basic principles of safe boating, government rules and regulations, rules of the road, fundamental navigation, tides and currents, chart work, safety and knots. At the end of the course, students take substantial examination. If they pass it, they can join the squadron as a member.

A member will be eligible for advance and specialty courses as well as reduced boat insurance. For the Fall course we will be placing advertisements in advance. As well as contacting the 47 people, who showed their interest in boating education by purchasing a ticket at the draw.

On June 11, members and guests of the squadron will meet at noon at Gibsons Marina to set a course for a 'poker cruise' around Keats Island. The previous cruise was a fun event with navigational exercises involved.

Ladies' fast ball

On Monday night, Cedars hosted Kenmac. Strong hitting led Kenmac to a convincing 14-8 win over the Cedars.

Tuesday night, despite threats of typical B.C. flooding, TBS downed Cedars Pub in their suds. Sue Brown got honourable mention for a nicely hit home run.

Progressing through the week, an exciting game was played Wednesday night.

Kenmac narrowly defeated Roberts Creek 3-2. However, Sarge roared back in her usual excellent style; Roberts Creek defeated the Eagles 7-5.

In the opposing field, TBS narrowly missed being defeated by an inspired Wakefield team, 9-6.

Sign up for anniversary tournament

by Frank Nanson

Remember the Club 20th Anniversary is being celebrated on June 3 and 4. Wine and cheese from 3 pm on June 3.

Golf and smorgasbord on June 4. Be sure to sign up for the golf, if you want to play in the matches, by June 1.

The sign up sheets are in the clubhouse. Mardi Scott has worked very hard on this event so let us give her all the support we can.

Maybe we will be celebrating the start of an 18 hole course one day!

The ladies were rained out on Tuesday so no news from that quarter this time. To make matters worse the Twilighters did not hold an event during the holiday so I missed again!

The senior men came through with some news however, which had John Petula, Bob Scott and Harold McIntosh winners on the 'Irons only contest'. We have always told John that he should stick to his irons haven't we? I think he made his best ever score with them - like an 81.

The team of Andy Gray, J.C. Ross, Harold Little and Dick Reeves came out way on top winning the tees! Closest to the hole was again (boring isn't it) Dan Belle. The rest of us did the usual.

Why is it that your perfect drive to the middle of the fairway always ends up in a divot?

At Sechelt Council

Festival parking problem solved

by Phillipa Beck

A special council meeting was called May 23 after the District of Sechelt Council failed to pass the building permit application for the Festival of the Written Arts Pavilion a week and half after construction on the Pavilion had begun.

Sechelt Mayor Tom Meredith, with a scoop of cement, officially began the Pavilion's construction on May 6. But at its May 17 regular meeting, council referred the building permit back to the Planning Department.

The incident sparked a round of meetings between aldermen, the Planning Department and the Festival of the Written Arts Committee. It also drew charges from some aldermen that the municipal staff were "nitpicking and stalling".

The incident was precipitated by the parking agreement in the Festival's building permit application. On April 19, council decided to request a letter from St. Hilda's Church agreeing to parking on its lot during the festival.

When the letter from St. Hilda's arrived, the Planning Department raised objections to it at the May 17 council meeting, saying it was insufficient for municipal by-law regulations.

The letter was apparently unacceptable because it stated only that the church would agree to provide parking for a one to two day function during the summer.

Alderman Robert Wilson agreed the letter was insufficient. "The whole concern is permanent parking," he said, "and this letter still doesn't provide that during the summer months."

"This is nitpicking," Alderman Joyce Kolibas said. "The church sent us the letter we asked for. Now you (the staff) are turning around and saying that's not what we need."

Kolibas told the Coast News in a later interview she was quite irate. "The staff is stalling. They should only be there to direct council in matters of legalities. It is a disgrace this is happening when donations are in, the building is started and community support is there and everything is ready to go."

Betty Keller, Festival of the Written Arts organizer, said misunderstandings had occurred dealing with the wording of the by-law, not with specific changes to the building permit.

"It was just a technicality and now we have it all straightened out," Keller said, after the May 23 meeting. She added she was not particularly worried the future of the Festival was in jeopardy.

At the special committee meeting, council decided to place the onus to find parking for its larger events on the Festival Committee, Municipal Planner Rob Sabine said. In the future, Festival organizers will have to provide letters from St. Hilda's Church or the Sechelt Elementary School on an event by event basis to show there is sufficient space for parking.

This approach will ensure the Pavilion can operate, parking will be accommodated and the development permit will not violate zoning by-laws, Sabine said.

Sechelt Administrator Malcolm Shanks told council on May 17, questions were "not over whether or not the facility would be going in but how it would be going in."

He said council had voted to support the Pavilion in principle, so the staff's concerns were over how to accommodate parking at the Pavilion site.

All proceeds to the Kinsmen CF Project

Youngster raises $600 alone
Support the CF kids

by Rick Simpkins

As a parent of two "normal" teenaged boys of 14 and 16 years, my wife and I have experienced the average problems of raising children. We have gone through a range of problems from toilet training to puberty and consider ourselves veterans of the childhood wars. Our children, to this point, were not considered exceptional.

I am president of the local Kinsmen Club. We are totally committed to our CF projects on the Coast. Much of every spare moment for the past two months has been spent with helping organize the campaign.

I do it because I have visions of my children going through the life of a CF child. The knowledge there is a possibility of every child born having CF and having to live his every waking moment thinking of death, being subjected to never being able to live a normal life free of pain, pills, choking and oxygen at the ready, makes me feel glad that our children are unexceptional.

An exceptional person is one who does or has something that is different than the norm of our society. CF children and parents are exceptional in the fact that they live their lives in fear of death yet somehow go on living and fighting.

Elva Dinn, the grandmother of a CF child, Laura, raised CF dollars on our Coast almost singlehandedly for four years because she would not let herself sit idly by while her grandchild died. She is exceptional.

Today I have found another person who I think is exceptional.

All over our house there is CF information - pamphlets, videos, posters, advertising, Walkathon pledge sheets, etc. I came across a binder that I did not recognize. Inside were pledge forms dating back one week. The total of the pledges was over $600 dollars. The person being pledged for the CF Fun walk-a-run-a-thon was my youngest son, Eddy.

Instead of fishing, playing with his friends, or just going bike riding, he had been out collecting pledges. When I asked him why he is doing it and why didn't he let me know, he told me the following:

"I live a good life. I saw the video, read the pamphlets, and thought what it must be like for those CF kids. I wanted to do something for them.

"I don't like going door to door asking people for money but if I had CF and needed help, I couldn't do it myself. I wanted to surprise you at the run and I didn't want other kids at school to make fun of me for helping. I wanted to make a difference.

"I don't want to stop collecting until I reach $1000 or more. I'm sorry I wasn't playing with my friends but Mom knew where I was."

We hear, all the time, about the bad things that children do -vandalism, drug problems, and various crimes and mischief. Rarely do we hear of the good and generous things that children accomplish.

These "kids" are exceptional. My son, Eddy, is exceptional. Support him. Support the CF kids.

Police news

The Patrol Vessel Regina has been checking pleasure craft for compliance with the Canada Shipping Act, Fisheries Act and the Radio Act. It has become apparent that many individuals are not licensed operators and have not licensed their marine VHF radios on their craft.

Section 3(1) of the Radio Act prohibits the use of a VHF radio without a station license and a personal operator's license.

There will be a review of the material on June 13 at 7 pm at Sechelt Elementary School, followed by an examination on June 4 at 7 pm. A representative from the Department of Communications will be on hand to issue licenses to those persons who pass the test and to accept applications for station licenses.

For further information contact Corporal Mollet at RCMP Sechelt 885-2266.

We Need Your Help

Of course, I'm going to die soon. But I'm working hard to delay it until they find a cure or control. Let others dream of becoming millionaires. Let them dream of expensive jewelery and clothes. My dream is a cure for cystic fibrosis. Often there are major breakthroughs and as I hear of them I am filled with new hope. Maybe, just maybe, my dream will come true.

Treena died September 28, 1986 at the age of 17.

But we can still save Laura, 5 Years old
