Sechelt Holds Von Fashion Show

Last week's Fashion Show, sponsored by the Toggery Shop, the Tasella Shoppe and the Beauty Councillors of the Peninsula was rated by observers a real success.

The show was held in the Indian Hall, where a decorative background of Mimosa and flowering winter Jasmine made an effective background for the models in their attractive ensembles.

The President of the VON, Mrs. Meikle, opened the show with an address of thanks to the committee and all who had worked to make the event possible. She also paid tribute at this time to the late Queen Mary.

Mrs. Cherry Whitaker, representing the Beauty Councillors, made the evening's announcements and commented on the various styles as they were paraded.

Tasella Shoppe had supplied the children's dresses and outfits, which were modelled by various young children from the neighborhood. These young ladies made their section of the show a very natural affair. They were all very lovely, and showed off the clothes to great advantage.

The ladies who modelled for the adult section made a glamorous showing, and the styles and variety costumes demonstrated were a surprise to the audience.

Sports outfits vied with cocktail dresses, casual dresses and summer suits with formals. The ladies looked charming in the new colors, and modelled the clothes very effectively. Charming accessories accompanied each dress or suit.

The Wedding gown and Bridesmaids dresses were shown off by a group of young women as a bridal party, and really stole the show.

Cosmetics were made up for the evening, and applied by the councillors, and in the variety of shades chosen for the various complexions and outfits, made an attractive demonstration in themselves.

Roberts Creek Veteran Passes

The ranks of the veterans of Roberts Creek have been reduced with the passing of James Lindsay Davidson, a former member of the British Navy, who served in the First World War with the King's Liverpool regiment, seeing action on many fronts.

Born in Belfast, Ireland, he visited Vancouver for the first time in 1913 and then after the war he returned and finally took up residence at Roberts Creek in 1939, where he lived until his death.

Besides his many friends, he is survived by two sisters in Ireland and two brothers, Thomas in Vancouver and Robert in Roberts Creek.

Logger Killed At Britain River

Two young woodsmen from up the Coast reported an accident at the Britain River Camp of the B.C. Forest Products on March 26th.

A logger, known to his mates as 'Nick', was instantly killed when a tree rolled on him as he was bucking.

This was the first accident at the camp this year.

Early Supporter Of St. Mary's And Coast Mission Buried At Pender

After eighty full and active years over much of the world, Hiram Eugene Deussenbury was laid to rest in the area where his closing years had been spent so much in the service of his fellow men. Born in Michigan in 1873, Harry came west as a young chap. He sailed out of San Francisco's Barbary Coast when that spot was world famous. As a young sailor, he had as a friend Jack London, the novelist of the sea.

He was a true boxing fan, and named among his early opponents of the ring Bob Fitzsimmons, one time heavyweight champion of the world. This interest in boxing he carried through life, and took so great a delight in it that he spent considerable time in teaching young fellows of the Pender District proficiency in the 'manly art'.

Coming to B.C. in 1889, Mr. Deussenbury worked in the Hastings Mill in Vancouver, and later at the George Chappell machine shop.

He was one of the best known of men in coastal shipping circles.

Harry moved to Pender Harbour in 1905, one of the earliest settlers to live there, and opened up a machine shop. He took a keen interest in the development of the district, and served for years as chairman of the School Board.

He was a friend of the Rev. John Antle, of the Columbia Coast Mission, and did a great deal of work assisting that organization in its activities on the Coast.

He was greatly instrumental in having the Hospital, St. Mary's, started in Pender Harbour, and gave freely of his time and skill in both the actual building itself, and in securing manual and financial assistance for the project. Indeed, as Canon Green remarked during the funeral service, had it not been for the courage and persistence of this good man, it is entirely possible that the Hospital might never have been completed.

There were many difficulties to be surmounted, then as now, but Mr. Deussenbury refused to acknowledge defeat.

Mr. Deussenbury is survived by his wife, a son, a daughter, Mrs. MacWhinney of Vancouver, and a brother, Roy at Pender, and a sister, Mrs. Eva Yates of Eureka, California.

St. Mary's Committee Meets Pender B Of T

The Committee of St. Mary's Hospital has had a further meeting with the Columbia Coast Mission, on April 24th, where they were favorably received. They have been assured of continued support and co-operation from that body.

It is expected that a meeting of the whole community will shortly be called, before which a complete statement of policy for the ensuing year will be presented.

The committee has met with the Pender Harbour Board of Trade, and has given a report there on its activities. This was favorably received, and the Board gave them a very generous and hearty vote of thanks for their work of organization.

This whole committee has been working at near top capacity for weeks, and as the administering body of the hospital, it hopes to make announcements of importance next week.

Funds Needed For Sechelt Firemen

Some members of the Sechelt Board of Trade have volunteered to conduct a house to house canvass for funds to aid the Sechelt Volunteer Fire Brigade.

The present financial records of the Firemen show a deficit, and in view of the expenditures for fire-equipment, which is used in fighting fires in this area, and for the general protection of homes as well as business places, it is hoped that the citizens of Sechelt will be as generous as they can.

Sechelt's support in the past for this group has been very good, and the Firemen are confident that they will not be let down.

Marge Leslie To Represent W.A. At B.C. Convention

At the monthly meeting of Howe Sound Canadian Legion W.A. 109, with Mrs. Crowhurst presiding, Mrs. Marge Leslie was elected to represent the auxiliary at the Womens B.C. Command convention, to be held in Harrison Hot Springs in May.

Much business was discussed at the meeting which was well attended. Final plans were made for the Birthday Party which was held in the Legion Hall on Thursday, March 26th. With Mrs. Davies convening refreshments, and Mrs. E. Sergeant taking care of entertainment, it proved to be a happy affair.

Mrs. J. Connor called for a tea towel shower at the next meeting of the auxiliary, which will be held April 17th.

Party Walks Port Mellon Road

Mr. and Mrs. Danny MacLean and Mr. and Mrs. George MacDonald from Port Mellon were desirous of attending a meeting of Job's Sisters at Roberts Creek.

To do this they set out by car from Port Mellon, drove as far as possible, and then walked. Twenty five minutes on foot served to get them over the worst part of the road, which they state is drying up very well, and they were able to miss the holes and come through fairly well dry shod.

A car was waiting to take them the rest of the way when they had passed this section, and they continued on to their meeting.

Truly this is progress, even if at a snails pace!

Wilfred Klein Accident Victim

On Friday, March 27th, while on a shooting trip, Wilfred Klein, son of Fred Klein, was killed, evidently while taking a rifle from his car.

The rest of the men of the party, having scattered in search of targets, and missing Wilf, returned to the car. He was already dead, evidently, from what they could see, having been in the act of removing the rifle when it discharged into his body.

Wilfred is survived by his wife, Betty, and two small children.

Road Survey Work Nearing Completion

The Road Survey crew, working out of Pender Harbour, is reported to be on the last lap of their job on the Highway Survey. They have been working at high speed, in order to complete at the end of the month.

Actual work on the highway construction is reported due to commence on May first, on the section between Pender and Agamemnon Bay.

Pick-Up Auction Successful Affair

The Social Credit Auction, proved a great success, and with keen bidding throughout the crowd, realized a tidy sum, though the crowd could have been larger.

Mr. Earl Bingley was a very capable Auctioneer, and helped to make the day worthwhile. Donations and help in many directions completed the effort.

Another auction is being planned, and members are advised that spring cleaning time may produce needed items. Notices will be published, as to dates and times.

Speedy Trip To Garden Bay

R. Gustafsen and R. Meaden, accompanied by their fox-terrier pup 'Skip' reported making an excellent trip down to Garden Bay from Vancouver Bay, in the "Len Rae", an open boat powered by an outboard motor. They record travel time between casting off and tying up, one hour.

Peninsulas' Newest Industry Now In Production

Just East of the Wilson Creek Settlement, on the Sechelt Highway is a strange looking little building, with floor sills visible at three distinct levels. There is a tiny office building in the newly cleared yard.

This is the new shingle mill, operated by the Silver Skagit Shake and Shingle, Limited, operated by George Miller.

The mill purchases blanks of red Cedar locally, saws them up into 'shakes' for the luxury home-building trade. The product is being shipped to lower California markets, and to the Eastern United States.

George Miller, who moved here recently to commence construction of the little mill, has been operating this kind of mill for the past fifteen years. He comes here from his home in Mission City, in the Fraser Valley.

Cedar blanks are received at the Mill, and there are cut into 're-saws' and bundles for shipping.

Actual sawing operations commenced on Wednesday, March 25th. George comments that there should be a fair supply of the material here, and that if it continues to flow into the mill in reasonable quantities, he hopes to move his family up, and make his home here.

$537.16 Raised For Polio Fund

The Kinsmen's Club of Gibsons announces that the Polio Fund Drive in this area, now complete, has realized the sum of $537.16, according to Mr. J. Schutz.

The Kinsmen Club are extremely pleased with the results of their work in this direction, and grateful to all who have helped them with direct contributions or with active support of their various fund-raising activities.

The money has been forwarded to headquarters for disposal in the work of fighting Polio and assisting the victims of the disease.

Courage Of Conviction

Premier Bennett began his career as head of a new political regime in British Columbia with the announcement that an early election would result from the delicate balance of power in the house at Victoria. His first challenges to the opposition met with no success. The succeeding program could have been brought forth by any party, and obtained the support of most members. When a truly controversial subject, the Rolston Formula, appeared the situation was reversed, and the somewhat meek support was withdrawn.

Now that the Premier has obtained his objective of an election, somewhat to his own surprise, we are sure, the changing attitude of our local band-wagon riders, as well as those of more serious intent, seems to be in a state of flux, rather than consolidating itself into purposefulness.

We would like to make a mild suggestion for what it is worth.

Whatever the color of political steed one chooses, it should be given support born of knowledge of objectives, faith in accomplishment, and assurance of the honesty of its purpose. There should be no hesitancy, no groping, no whispering in corridors or alleys.

If a voter is sufficiently convinced that a man or a party is the one for whom he will cast that valuable ballot, let him be sure that it will be a valuable vote, and not merely a costly one. Let him be sure enough that he can be more than a little 'chesty' about it. But most of all, let him be honest about the matter, and not merely self-seeking, looking for some temporary advantage to himself, to the cost of the community at large.

It will, and should take study, not only of one's own needs or desires, but of those of one's community and of one's Province, followed by a similar study of the real aims and policies of those whom one intends to support. With the resultant background, one should find it easy to rally the support of others by the very strength of one's convictions.

VOTERS LIST

Editor, The Coast News,
Sir: —

J.V. Gaspard, Registrar of Voters at Powell River for MacKenzie will be mailing shortly a postcard to every person who failed to vote in the last election; that is, people who failed to sign the poll book. The wording of the postcard will be as follows: "Provincial Elections Act."

According to the records available, you did not vote at the general election held on June 12th 1952. Your name will therefore be removed from the voters list from this district unless you advise me that you are still resident at the address under which you were registered."

Mr. Hurley, Chief Electoral Officer for the Province, tells me that the procedure will be as follows:

Each person who was on the voters list at the last election and who did not vote will receive one of these cards. If the card is not returned to the constituency registrar, the registrar assumes that the person named on the card received the card and is therefore still resident at the address under which he was registered. Therefore his name will not be struck off. If however the card is returned to the registrar marked 'moved', 'deceased', 'gone to China', etc., he then has the necessary authority to strike that person off the list.

Since a general election may take place in the near future, I suggest that residents carefully check to see that they are presently registered. People who have recently moved or have not voted for some time should check with the Registrar of Voters at Powell River.

Tony Gargrave, M.L.A.

Ed's Note:

Now that the election is assured, we deemed it timely to publish the above letter from our M.L.A.

Origin And Oddities Of The English Language

by Jeff Newman

The English language has been likened to a tree, which, even though its older branches are dead, continues to put forth new shoots. English is said to be one of the more complicated languages of the world. This fact is not surprising when the varied source is considered:

The true Celtic, now extinct, was the primary language spoken in the British Isles. Corruptions of the originals are characteristic of Ireland, Scotland, Wales and the Isle of Man, the latter being the closest to the original.

The Year 55 B. C. brought the great general, Julius Caesar, to the shores of Britain. Within a century he had succeeded in conquering the island. Under the Roman influence, civilization advanced quickly, but due to the fall of Rome, England was allowed to return to its former state. Although the Romans had occupied the country for 400 years, the Celtic tongue remained unchanged, until, in the fifth century, St. Augustine landed in the south of England and established the Anglo Catholic Church.

St. Augustine and his followers, though paving the way for the literary efforts of others, did little writing of their own. After they left, the Celts, used to the protection of Roman armies, failed to guard England's shores, and so were overrun by the Saxons and Angles from Denmark.

The Saxons and Angles, after driving the Celts from the southern part of England, settled there, intermarried, and became the Anglo-Saxon race. They

Pender Harbour Credit Union Elects New Officers

At the annual meeting of the Pender Harbour Credit Union, held on March 25th, the following officers were elected for the coming year: M. Warnock, W.B. Sinclair, C. Reid, N. Lee, J. Cameron, with the Credit Committee consisting of J.H. Daly, W.B. Scouler, A. Douglas, D.A. MacDonald and H. Reiter.

A dividend of two percent was declared. The balance of the year's profits were placed in the reserve fund, it being deemed advisable to increase this reserve rather than declare a larger dividend.

The meeting expressed itself as being highly satisfied with the work of the past year, and the steady growth of membership, share capital and deposit and loan accounts.

Mr. Tyner, the manager was commended for his competent administration, and his services generally.

Mr. R. Monrufet, manager of the B.C. Credit Union League, was the guest speaker at the meeting.

Red cedar Shake blanks wanted.

If you have a few old-growth Cedar trees on your property, either green, fire-killed or windfalls, you have material suitable for Shake Blanks. We have a permanent, year-round market for our shakes that enables us to guarantee purchase of any quantity of Blanks you may produce. You will never have to worry about material left on your hands.

These Blanks are cut 25 inches long by 2 1/4 inches thick, and from 5 to 24 inches wide. A thousand Blanks is scaled as a tight pile, 10 ft. 6 inches long by 26 blanks, high.

We are prepared to pay top market price for 25 in. x 2 1/4 in. Blanks which meet the following specifications:

1. 100% Edge Grain.
2. 100% Clear. (This means removal of all sapwood, Burnt Wood, and Worm holes.)
3. 100% Straight Grain. (This means exactly what it says. There must be no sweep or warp in the grain, which you can understand, since we must saw from corner to corner, to make two shakes out of the blanks. This is impossible if the blank is not perfectly straight.)
4. 100% trimmed to straight edges. (This means trimming off all waning edges so the Blank can be picked up and sawed promptly without the delay of having to trim.

Candidates In United Fishermen Election

William Herlihy, left, Kurt Larsen and William Goddard, seek election for the posts of secretary-treasurer president, and business agent of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union in the forthcoming election. This trio, supported by a committee of fishermen, tendermen and plant workers, have no Communist affiliations, seek Trades and Labour Congress recognition, plan program designed to restore stabilization to the industry.

Three large groups within the industry, the Native Brotherhood of Indians, Vessel Owners and B.C. Gillnetters Association who left the UAFWU when they saw the policies of its leaders tended to approximate the actions of professional agitators and not the actions of a group elected by the membership to act in their best interests, have pledged their wholehearted support to Larsen, Herlihy and Goddard.

Many clear thinking fishermen believe the election of these men will result in the end of antagonism between the Fishermen's Association and the Union across the negotiating table. The possibility of peaceful but firm bargaining by Union men who want to reach a price agreement that will be in the best interests of the fishermen at the same time being equitable to the Association in consideration of the domestic market at the consumer level. Cessation of Union time, energy and expense on non-Union matters such as "peace conferences in Pekin, Warsaw, Toronto."

They also hope for a spirit of co-operation between the many groups within the union.

Roberts Creek Round-up

by Madge Newman

A very well attended meeting of the Improvement Association was held March 12th in the Legion Hall.

Much important business was discussed including the finding of a home for the new fire truck. A committee was set up to find a suitable location.

This hard working group of public spirited citizens is justly proud of their success in making it possible for Roberts Creek to acquire this necessity, and they feel confident that the residents of the area will aid in the upkeep of the fire truck, the expense of which falls heavily on such a small group.

The next meeting of the Association will be held in the Legion Hall on April 17th. As this will be the meeting for the annual election of officers, it is urgent that all members be present.

Everyone is welcome, so come along and put your shoulder to the wheel for the good of our community.

The Legions Auxiliary group are coming up on the afternoon of April 8th with a 'Daffodil Tea', sale of home cooking and a novelty stall. Whether you get daffodils with your tea, or cakes, it will be well worth the money so be sure to make it a date. The affair will be held at the Legion Hall.

The regular meeting of the PTA was held Tuesday. Routine business was taken care of. The president Mrs. Gordon Reeves, and Mrs. A.H. Weal plan to attend the convention in April, which this year will be held in North Vancouver.

Plans are well under way for the Talent Show to be held here on May 2nd. Entry forms can be obtained from the M and W Store. Persons of all ages up to 90 may compete for cups and certificates. Almost any talent but cooking is acceptable. The finals will be held a week later at Madeira Park.

The enrolment in the Elementary schools of Canada in 1953 will be about 2,307,000.

HOW much have automobile insurance rates increased?

- In relation to other car costs they've gone down.
Each $100 of insurance carried takes a smaller portion of the motorist's dollar than ever before.
- But cars are more expensive.
You can't insure the $2,400 car of today as cheaply as the $850 car of 1939.
- So, in dollars, how much have auto rates gone up?
An average of 30% for Public Liability and Property Damage. An average of 60% for full coverage.

WHAT affects the cost of automobile insurance?

- The number of accidents
- The average cost of accidents
- The costs of doing business
- The profit or loss of the insurance company

WHY have rates gone up in dollar cost?

- Because accident rates have been soaring.
Today one person is killed every four hours in Canada — one person is injured every fifteen minutes — a fender is smashed every two minutes.

- Because accident costs have been soaring.

A wrecked car costs two to three times as much to replace as in 1939 — a damaged car costs twice as much to repair — those fenders every two minutes cost three times as much.

- Because medical and hospital costs have increased an estimated 168%.
The bill for injuries is the highest in history.
- Because average Canadian earning power is up 180%.
That means higher payments to settle "lost time" claims.

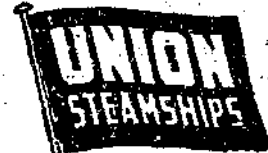

THEN HOW have insurance companies kept rates from going much higher?

- By cutting operating costs.
Overhead is higher but operating costs per vehicle have been slashed.
- By losing money.
Auto insurance companies paid out $65,000,000 in claims last year. They lost $6,300,000 doing it.

THE REMEDY

- Reduce accidents.
When the accident rate goes down — unless the cost of each accident goes way up — insurance rates will go down too. Competition makes that certain.

REMEMBER —
The accident that doesn't happen never costs anybody a dime.

Winning Essay

brought their own language from Denmark, and it is this language that forms the basis of our modern one. The first Piece of English literature, namely, "Beowulf", is written in this language.

"Beowulf" tells of the adventures of a partly mythical folk-king and his encounters with many evil influences. The following excerpt is from the most famous of his exploits, the fight with Grendel. It shows what the language was, and the accompanying literal translation shows that some words we use now have persisted almost unchanged for well over a thousand years. Grendel's gloomy land is being described.

"Hie dygel lond Warigeath Wulf-hleoðu, windige naessas, Frecne fen-gelad, thaer fyrgen-stream Under naessa genipu nither gewteth Flod under folden."

(They (a) darksome land, Ward. Wolf-cliffs, windy nesses, Frightful fen-paths where mountain streams Under nesses' mists nether wander A flood under earth.)

The similarity of many words can be seen in this excerpt. For instance, land and lond, wolf and wulf, windy nesses and windige naessas, nether and nither, Under and stream are used in the modern sense.

The heavy, four footed beat, the prevalence of double words such as fen-gelad (fen-paths) and wulf-hleoðu (wolf-cliffs) and the absence of rhyme, are characteristic of the Anglo-Saxon poetry. The minstrel who sang the poem would accompany it with a chord on the lyre or harp on each accented beat.

For easier reading, more vivid pictures and more meaning, J. Duncan Spaeth has translated the poem into modern English. The translation is very like the original in that the third and first beats alliterate. This is believed to be the beginning of rhyme.

"Lonely and waste is the land they inhabit,
Wolf-cliffs wild and windy nesses.

Ledges of mist, where mountain torrents
Downward plunge to dark abysses and flow unseen."

After "Beowulf" came many Anglo-Saxon poems, all handed down, never written, telling of battles and feasting. Later, in the 9th century, a Northumbrian monk by the name of Caedmon wrote a great deal of religious poetry. His is the first recorded poetry of England. Prior to this, it was sung by minstrels to the accompaniment of the harp. The following is a fragment of Caedmon's translation of the Scriptures: "Eall werod theas folces waes ute gebiddende on thaere offrunge timan." This was written in the 9th Century. Translated it reads: "And the whole multitude of the people were praying without at the time of the incense." Luke 1, 10.

The difference between Caedmon's version and Whycliffe's (1380) is very apparent. Compare: "And all the multitude of the people was without forth and preyede in the our of encencyng." The reason for this is that, following the invasion of the French in 1066, the Norman and Anglo-Saxon language became well mixed. An example of this mixture is shown in the comparison of these words:

Anglo-Saxon, sheep, modern English Mutton, French Mouton, Anglo-Saxon cow, modern English beef, French beouf.

In Sir Walter Scott's "Ivanhoe" Wamba, the jester, says, "How do you call these grunting brutes running about on their four legs," "Swine, fool, swine," said the herder." "And swine is good Saxon," said the jester, "but how do you call the sow when she is flayed and drawn and quartered and hung up by the heels like a traitor?"

"Pork," answered the swineherd.

"I am glad every fool knows that too," said Wamba, "and pork, I think, is good Norman-French; and so when the brute lives, and is in charge of a Saxon slave, she goes by her Saxon name; but becomes o Norman and is called pork when she is carried to the Castle-hall to feast among the nobles; what dost thou think of this, friend Gurth, ha?"

"It is but too true doctrine," said Gurth.

Who could show the difference in the language better than a Saxon fool, schooled by French nobles?

With the addition of French words the language became much easier to understand. As can be seen from the following selection from Chaucer's prologue to the Canterbury Tales, the English language was almost modern by the 14th century.

"Singing he was, or floyting all the day,

He was as fresh as is the month of May."

Short was his gowne, with sleeves longe and wide.

Well could he sit on hors, and fair ride."

Translated:
"Singing he was, or fluting all the day,

He was as fresh as is the month of May.

Short was his gown, with sleeves long and wide.

Well could he sit his horse, expertly ride."

Sir Thomas Malory's "Morte D'Arthur" written in the 15th century and translated from the French is quite readable, without any further translation. Little is known about Malory except that he was arrested for assaulting his neighbors, and wrote his book while serving a twenty year prison sentence. Fifteen years after the book was finished it was published by the famous medieval printer, William Caxton, who introduced printing into England.

Except for a few minor changes in spelling and in endings, the language has stayed the same throughout the next four centuries. Of late years there has been another radical change with the introduction of slang such as reet, meaning right, hot dog, beat it, scam, jump in the lake, etc. A era of phonetic spelling (e.g. nite, boby'sox,) and abbreviated words (UN, K.O., Reds, P-TA, Xmas) is coming.

It is no wonder then, that with an origin as complicated as our has, that there should be countless pronunciations, spellings and meanings. For example take the ending "ough" and note the different sounds—cough, bough, slough, rough, thorough, ought. There was once a new Canadian from Scandinavia who complained of a 'cow in her box' Upon questioning her it was learned that she had acough in her chest—cough as in bough, chest, a box.

The following were written by Lear.

A tutor who tooted his the flute

Tried to tutor two tooters to toot.

Said the two to the tutor

Is it harder to toot or

To tutor two tooters to toot.

A girl who weighs many an oz.

Used language I will not pronoz.

Her brothr one day

Pulled her chair right away,

He wanted to know if she'd boz.

She frouwned and called him mr.

Because in sport he kr.

And so in spite

That vry nite

This mr. kr. sr.

Ridiculous, isn't it? But what can one expect from a language which contains some words pronounced exactly the same with an entirely different meaning, and others with the same meaning but absolutely different pronunciation?

Why should not 'sister' be abbreviated when it is usual to abbreviate 'Mister'?

One of the idiosyncrasies of our language is the use of unnecessary letters in the spelling of a word. An exaggerated example of this appears in the joke about the man from Mars who upon being asked his name, wrote it down as 'Phtholopnyrr' and pronounced it 'Turner'. He arrived at this conclusion thus: T as in phthysic (pronounced tistic) ur as in Colonel (kernel), n as in gnaw (naw), er as in myrrh (mur).

Another glaring (glaring meaning easily visible in this case, but could mean bright, as an adjective or, as a verb, dazzling) example of the peculiar use of letters is in the word ghoti, pronounced 'fish' f as in enough (enuf), i as in women (wimen) and ti as in station (stayshun).

The English language bears the brunt of many a joke and riddle, to wit: "When is one egg enough?" Answer: When it is un eouf.

Punctuation, too, can be the source of amusement, as can be seen in the following sentence. "That that is is that that is not is not but that that is not is not that that is not is that that is not."

(That, that is, is; that, that is not, is not; but that, that is not, is not that that is; nor is that, that is, that that is not.)

[Enough of that.
That the words of the English language do not mean always what they say is evident in the following. The so-called German silver contains no silver. It is an alloy of copper, nickel and zinc. A steelyard is not a yard, nor is it steel. It is a balance.

An essay on the English language would not be complete without mentioning the longest words. Shakespeare, in "Love's Labour's Lost" gives us 'honorificabilitudinitatibus' (Act 5, scene 1, line 44.) To William Gladstone we owe 'disestablishmentarianism'. There are also many scientific words, one of which is 'paraoxymetamethoxyallylbenzene.'

In some parts of England there seems to be trouble with the letter 'h'. An old English gentleman wanting to telephone to the town of Harrow, picked up the receiver and asked, "will you give me 'Arrow'?" When asked by the operator to spell it, the old gentleman said, "Well it is like this. 'Arrow. Haitech as in 'orses. Hay as in 'ay, what orses are fed. Double har as in 'Arrow the town what I'm hafter, ho as in hoats, another 'orse food, and w as in Woostershur". (Worcestershire) Th old gentleman got his number without delay.

A variety of kindred dialects are used throughout the British Isles. One Welsh town is a 'mouthful'. It goes like this 'Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgerychwyndrobwlgerdyssiliogogoch'.

In fact, in the English speaking countries of the Western world and Australia, few districts are without their own particular dialects and colloquialisms.

It was but recently that a member of parliament in England urged that the spelling be simplified by the removal of unnecessary letters and sounds.

Yeah, verily this tree is large and deeply rooted. Personally, I hope it has a good sense of humour enabling it to bear with fortitude the ridicule it has brought upon its complicated self.

Hazeldine Hall

Hazeldine Hall, "Cuckoo Clock House's" charming hostess, gets good advice while coloring Mr. Easter Egg. Matilda the Cuckoo and a perky Easter bunny are on hand to put in their two cents worth with every stroke of the brush. Miss Hall and the saucy little bird are heard regularly on the lively children's program. Other participants include host Kenny Graham, Lou Snider, Bernie Johnson, Bill Needles and, of course, Basil the Bullfrog. The Sunday broadcasts encourage listeners aged eight to twelve to widen their reading range by introducing them to good books.

Equal portions of fun, frolic and fine music are mixed in to make "Cuckoo Clock House" a favorite with young listeners to the CBC's Dominion Network.

Down the Alley...

Biggest score of the week was Midway's 2826 in Gibsons Mixed League. This three game total included a 1007. The Halpin League wound up the season with the Pinmissers (Capt. Darlene Laycock) and Mighty Midgets (Capt. Del Blanchard) fighting it out for the Trophy Cup.

Pinmissers took two games and total pins with a 315 pin margin over and above their handicap, so everybody was happy.

No score from the Ten Pin League.

Sechelt Hook and Ladder

An appeal to home owners to have a spring chimney check and cleaning has been issued by Sechelt Fire Chief Fred Mills. He stated that burning wet wood causes creosote to accumulate in the chimney, creating a definite fire hazard.

The first fire may not cause house damage but the intense heat will damage the chimney to the extent that a second fire could be disastrous.

Don't put water on a chimney fire, use salt and have the chimney cleaned after.

The man or woman who plans retirement should have some compensatory hobby to keep mind and hands occupied.

Garden Club Elects New Slate

A good attendance of Members heard the Annual Reports of the Gibsons Garden Club in the United Church Hall on Tuesday night. Ten Dollars was donated for Prizes at the Farmer's Fair, all Floral decorations at that function was given by the Club.

A splendid Gladiola Show was staged last July and the Annual Chrysanthemum Exhibit in November, both these functions were thrown open to the Public.

At the meeting, Mr. A. Andrews gave a most interesting and instructive address on 'General Pointers in Gardening'.

The retiring President, Mr. W. C. Cnatt was heartily commended for his five years work for the Club. Under his leadership the organization was formed as a Chrysanthemum Club, later developing into a wider field in the present form. Much interest has been created in this hobby over the years, and with a little help here and a little knowledge given there so willingly that has meant so much to the members.
