Hospital cost awaits approval

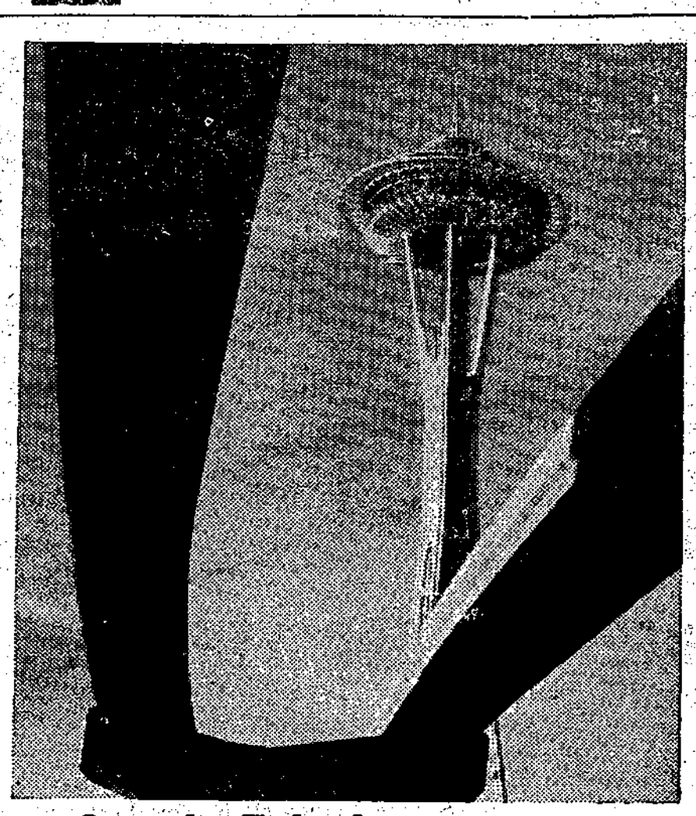
A second survey of the area has been completed by the British Columbia Hospital Insurance Service. This survey was carried out in connection with the proposed construction of a hospital adjacent to Sechelt.

Representatives from the BCHIS travelled through the entire area and discussed the proposed hospital with local groups favoring and those opposed to the hospital construction. It is understood the report of the survey committee is now in the hands of the health minister.

St. Mary's Hospital Society construction committee is still actively discussing the estimated construction costs with BCHIS officials. In addition the hospital administration is attempting to reach an agreement on the pre-construction operating budget. This budget is prepared to indicate the feasibility of operating a new hospital.

Approval of such estimates is necessary before the money bylaw can be presented to landowners for approval. This stage of the hospital development is tedious and also a slow process yet essential because the cost of building and operating a new hospital must be kept within these estimates.

Once these estimates have been approved the money bylaw will be presented to landowners for approval. This will be the last major step before the actual construction. Approval of the money bylaw will be followed by the preparation of detailed plans, calling for tenders and the beginning of construction.



Two Seattle Fair features

Two of the highlights of this year's Seattle World's Fair are seen together here: the 600-foot Space Needle looms through the concrete beamway of the Alweg Monorail System. The Space Needle—topped by a 40-foot natural gas torch — has a revolving restaurant and an observation deck on top. View port elevators traveling on the outside of the Needle's central core will give fairgoers a breathtaking thrill.

The Monorail, the nations first high speed, mass transit monorail system, will carry up to 10,000 persons per hour to and from the fairgrounds on two four-car trains, one straddling each of the two beams seen here. The trip to the downtown terminal of the Alweg Monorail in the heart of Seattle's business district is 1.2 miles — and, at speeds up to 70 miles per hour, will take about a minute and a half.

The Seattle World's Fair opens a six-month run on April 21. As workers rush to completion such fair features as the Space Needle and the Monorail, all Seattle is getting ready for the rush of tourists expected to attend the fair.

Among the busiest places in Seattle these days is the fair headquarters of Expo-Lodging Service, the agency set up to handle accommodations for the fair. People planning to attend the fair should write Expo-Lodging Service, Seattle World's Fair, Seattle 9, Wash., for reservations.

Sechelt's assessment up 8 percent

Sechelt's land assessment has gone up close to 100 percent and improvements assessment down a fraction under seven percent, according to an announcement from the provincial assessors department.

This information was placed before Sechelt's village council Wednesday night of last week and will be the basis for tax collection purposes for 1962. The overall increase in total assessment amounts to approximately eight and one half percent.

The overall assessment increase for Gibsons is slightly below 10 percent, based on figures from the same assessor's office to Gibsons council.

Land assessment for Sechelt in 1961 totalled $227,800. The 1962 figure is $455,495. This represents 100 percent assessment on land. On improvements on land the 1961 assessment on a 75 percent basis of valuation was $573,517. The figure for 1962, slightly lower, is $538,263.

This means that land assessment has gone up $227,295 and improvements assessment has gone down by $35,254.

At the same council meeting it was decided to make the annual grant of $500 to Sechelt Volunteer Fire department. It was also announced street signs woull be put into place as soon as they were available and that small trees would be obtained as a start towards planting trees along Sechelt streets.

School board budget gets OK

The 1962 Sechelt School District budget of $825,131 has been approved. Village councils of Sechelt and Gibsons have passed it and a meeting of school representatives at Sechelt on Thursday of last week also approved it.

This year's budget is $36,438 higher than last year's $788,693. The increase largely falls on what might be termed fixed expenses, salaries, debt services and to a lesser amount, maintenance costs.

Salaries and debt service increases amounted to $34,385 with salaries showing a $30,795 increase and debt services up $3,590.

Total salaries and wages would be $513,620 if the wages of a gardener, three maintenance men and a part time maintenance man were added in the salary figure of $492,945. Wages for these men total $20,675.

Transportation costs budgeted were $62,850, down $4,123 from last year. Maintenance of school properties at $46,696 was up $9,544. Fuel, light and water were down $3,100 to $30,000 compared with last year.

Both Gibsons and Sechelt village councils said they were pleased to see that the school board had held the line as best they could under the circumstances which faced them.

Increases in salaries were $300 for administrative staff, $28,558 for teachers and $3,145 for janitors.

Teacher pay increases raised the salary total for the year. This was announced on Nov. 9 when the following item appeared in the Coast News:

The Sechelt School District teaching staff and the Board have reached a 1962 salary agreement which provides an overall salary increase of 2.95%, for the most part at the secondary level.

The salaries paid will now be comparable with those in our neighboring district and will make this area more attractive to well-qualified teachers.

The signing of this contract has been a mutual effort on the part of the Sechelt Teachers' Association and the Board to improve the standard of education in this district.

Following is a breakdown of the budget for this year and last year showing the differences in the individual items and sections and how the budget is departmentalized:

3 Health Centre plans for Gibsons

A three-plan Health Centre for Gibsons was placed before municipal council Tuesday night for exploratory purposes. The centre which was first proposed, two years ago by the Kinsmen Club of Gibsons would be built on South Fletcher road on municipal property which now includes Gibsons Public Library.

The Kinsmen delegation included the president, Tom Parker, also Charles Mandelkau, George Hunter and Eric Prittie who have worked on this project since its inception two years ago, and Paul Smith of the architect firm of Smith and McCulloch, Vancouver.

Thre plans were offered, one a total health centre and the second which would include a municipal office and a meeting hall on the lower level of the two storey building. Entrance would be at two levels, one from South Fletcher road to the Health Centre on the upper floor and the other on a lower level to the municipal office and meeting hall

The third plan would take in the school board as well as a municipal hall. The first plan would cost $24,000, the second $36,000 and the third $48,000. Plans and costs were left with council so its members could hold further discussion.

Council decided to reply to a leter from W. B. MacDonald, provincial sanitarian for the area concerning garbage disposal, and express pleasure at the fact provincial authorities are showing greater interest in unorganized area garbage disposal problems. The letter dealt with indiscriminate dumping of garbage at unauthorized places.

Accounts totalling $1,494.04 were ordered paid with $788.61 for general purposes and the remainder for roads, fire protection, garbage and water capital.

On the problem of matching a provincial grant covering local recreation commission expenses some members of council were of the opinion that in the long run it looked as though provincial government policy would veer towards making total recreational costs a matter for municipal councils to bear.

At present the provincial recreational authorities will match the amount contributed by municipal councils, Further talks on the problem will take place with recreation committee members.

Councillor Wes Hodgson reported May 9 as a possible date for the opening of the Sechelt-Gibsons Municipal Airport at Wilson Creek. Plans are proceeding to have Lt.-Gov. Pearkes perform the opening ceremonies.

When approval of the school board budget was under discussion it was suggested that some official of the school board should appear before council and explain the budget each year so council would be able to view the budget in a more understandable manner. Council approved the budget when discusion ended.

FIND LIFERAFT

Police report the salvaging by a passing tug of a life raft from the Western Pride which sank in Howe Sound, Friday. Jan. 19 taking the lives of Harold Fearn and his son Tim while enroute to Horseshoe Bay during a storm. So far this has been the only identifiable object picked up following the sinking. The liferaft was found near Sechelt.

Sechelt village in 7th year

Sechelt on Feb. 15 started its seventh year as an incorporated village.

The first meeting of an elected council took place on April 17, 1956 when Mrs. Christine Johnston was named chairman and has been chairman of council ever since. Bernal Gordon, still a member of the council was another original councillor. Capt. Sam Dawe and Frank Parker who are on the present council also were on the original council. Tom Lamb was the fifth member of the first council.

Today's council of five members contains four of the first council with William Swain making up the fifth member.

Two of the five, Mrs. Johnston and Bernal Gordon have been on council six years. Capt Sam Dawe and Frank Parker have not been on all councils since 1955.

Free parking at Langdale

One dollar per day parking rates at Langdale Ferry slip have been removed and in future free 48 hour parking will be allowed. This was announced Wednesday morning by Ron Worley, assistant general manager of B.C. Toll Authority Ferry System.

Mr. Worley added that this change will bring the parking at Langdale slip in line with other parking facilities on the ferry system.

B.C. Toll Authorities ferry rates between Powell River and Vancouver have dropped 10 percent on through trips only, the Powel River News reports.

New rates are now $5.25 for a car and $1.75 for each passenger, including driver. Former rates were $6.00 for a car and $1.80 per passenger. The rates are applicable for through trip only — there have been no reductions for single trips between Earl's Cove and Saltery Bay, nor between Langdale and Horseshoe Bay.

Kiwanis governor installs new officers

The Sunshine Coast Kiwanis club held a successful dinner Jan. 30th to mark the installation of officers for the coming year. District Lt. Governor Harry McCormick attended with five members of the Kerrisdale club and their wives. Members of the Gibsons club and their wives also welcomed about 30 guests from their friends on the Sunshine Coast.

Lt. Governor McCormick installed Ed. Anderson as president to succeed Keith Wright who was president of the club throughout 1961. Other officers installed were Vice-Presidents Jim Munroe and Don Hauka and directors O. Hincks, Bill Wright, Rae Kruse, Ed. Johnson, D. T. Smith, A. K. Wright and Rev. D. Harris.

The club has had a successful year and continues to take an interest in various community enterprises such as the Boy Scouts and Cubs which they sponsor, the Girl Guides and Brownies, the Calf club sponsored by the Howe Sound Farmers institute, the school traffic patrol and the Connie Mack ball team.

Through their welfare funds they were able to assist various victims of fire and other disaster in the district and hampers were distributed to those in need at Christmas time. While the Crippled Children's camp at Wilson Creek ceased to operate two years ago, the Kiwanis club has continued to conduct the Easter Seal drive on the Peninsula and were able to turn over $783 to the B.C. Society for Crippled Children in the spring of last year.

It is hoped that public support of the Kiwanis club projects in the coming year will enable it to continue and improve on its past record and the retiring president Keith Wright expressed thanks to the people of the Sunshine Coast for their support and encouragement during his year in office.

It can happen!

Pat Burns, candidate from North Vancouver for Liberal nomination in Coast-Capilano constituency did what every traveller tries not to do.

He left home on a trip up coast and had reached Gibsons where he stayed overnight. At home his wife discovered he had left something important behind. She phoned him. Mr. Burns dug deep into his pockets, then agreed he had really pulled a boo-boo. He had left all his travelling money at home.

Arrangements were made to rectify the situation and Mr. Burns continued on his coastal trip.

Million dollar budgets?

Sechelt School District is well on its way to becoming a million dollar operation in education. It has not yet reached that figure but with the 1954 budget at $319,603 and the 1962 budget at $825,131, it is likely not too many years will go by before the million dollar mark is reached.

There are now 14 schools with an overall staff including teachers and administration of at least 90 persons. Two-thirds of the budget is used on what can be termed fixed expenses, that of salaries, wages and debt service.

The remaining one-third is utilized for transportation costs, or school buses when you want to make a complaint; fuel, light and water, also repairs and maintenance, with some left over for capital expense.

By the time the budget has been apportioned to salaries, debt services, transportation, repairs and maintenance, fuel, light and water and capital expense, there is something slightly over $70,000 for miscellaneous expenditure during the year. In connection with the miscellaneous amount left over in this year's budget, it is lower than last year when the amount was $102,657.

When it comes to paring a budget for this or any school district these days there is not too much room for a school board to operate in when fixed expenses and general maintenance costs have been estimated. With about a quarter of any budget left to cover week to week and unforseen expenses the room for cutting down when necessities are concerned reaches the vanishing point.

In a growing community faced with increasing school costs the path of school board trustees is not strewn with roses. Changing departmental policy throws in a few stumbling blocks, too.

However school trustees can obtain solace by recalling the words of H. G. Wells before the atomic age was evident. Mr. Wells said human history becomes more and more a race between education and catastrophe!

Art in merchandising

Few doubt that merchandising is an art.

Belief is fortified by imagination of that restauranteur who lists Chinese Shepherd's Pie on his menu. By topping hash with noodles instead of the more usual mashed potato he brings a touch of the mysterious East to his establishment.

In the wonderful world of the menu, the adjective is the great optimist, never daunted by past disappointments. No matter what the vegetable soup was like yesterday, today it is going to be fresh vegetable soup. Ever so limp, the coleslaw is crisp. In spite of sad experiences with peas, this time they are garden green. All menu beef is choice. Muffins naturally are home made. In the wonderland of the menu, pastry is flaky and griddle cakes are old-fashioned.

One of Oxford Dictionary's definitions of adjective is: not standing by itself. In the menu world, nouns lean on adjectives and are carried up by adjectives to tree-ripened heights of enthusiasm. There is much good in this. Those who are born glum, or who have dined out too much — these may be expected to complain; but it is commendable that the mass of poor, stricken humanity has the spirit to ask expectantly for the tempting dessert.

Aloha once again from Hawiian shores

Excerpt from letters written home since New Year's from Miss Shirley Linton in Honolulu, Hawaii. Miss Linton was a former primary teacher in Gibsons Elementary school.

Once again Aloha from this sunny isle . . . and now a fresh New Year is here. May it hold good health and happiness for you home folks. I know that so many of my own dreams have come true this past year that I often say to myself, how can one person be so lucky?

You've never seen such weather in your life! As I write this by the window the birds are singing, the palms are swaying in the soft trade winds, and the girls are splashing in the pool. Just like a glorious summer's day back home, only the calendar says it's January.

You should hear the birds' singing. Learning about the different songsters I was surprised to know that many of them have been imported. It seems a few years back when a group of public spirited women in Honolulu bemoaned the absence of song birds in their gardens, they didn't just moan; they did something about it.

Organizing into a group under the name of Hui (organization) Manu (bird) they undertook the work and expense of importing pairs of song birds, releasing them where they hoped the birds would survive and multiply and many have. Linnets, skylarks and mocking birds are all here, as well as mejiros from Japan and leiothrix from India. Oh yes, and red cardinals from North America (we saw one at Irving's Landing about three years ago). Anyway, you can imagine the color and song these birds add to an already lush background!

I know you will be interestedly awaiting my description of my holiday trip to the neighboring island of Kauai in connection with the invitation I had to spend my Christmas vacation at the Kauai Surf, a new resort on Kauai Island, as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Child, parents of one of my pupils. It was truly a perfect holiday!

I never thought I would see anything lovelier than Oahu, the island on which Honolulu is located, but I have and it's Kauai, called the Garden Island because it is completely covered with greenery and flowers. I don't think it is any exaggeration to describe it as a little bit of heaven on earth, with a timeless beauty that cannot be conveyed by words, at least my words.

The Childs took me over every mile of the island, to fabulous Waimea Canyon and several historic sites, including the place where Captain Cook first landed.

One day we went to Hanalei Plantation which is where South Pacific was filmed. Do you remember how we enthused over the scenery in that film? Imagine how fantastic it is to really see it.

I walked along the beach where they filmed the song Bali Hai and couldn't believe I was — where I was! Every night at Coco Palms they have one of the best true Hawaiian shows in the islands, featuring the native music. It makes lovely listening, mirroring the naturally happy carefree spirit of the Polynesian people.

My host and hostess couldn't have been more kind. They introduced me to dozens of people and in general treated me as their daughter. Their little girls 5, 7 and 8 years old, are a delight to be with and just darling children. The amazing thing is that the children are not pampered one bit by their parents, and are quite unspoiled, in spite of the luxury with which they are surrounded.

We occupied the royal suite in the penthouse of the Kauai Surf. The rooms were spacious and beautiful, in Polynesian decor, but it was the panoramic scenery from the windows, ten stories up, which I'll remember longest.

Each night before dinner Hawaiian boys blow the conch shells, then glide in with flaming sticks and light all the luau torches around the hotel. Quite impressive! This place is situated in a fine bay, so in between times we went surfing, swimming and boating.

Do you know I was actually glad to see my 38 little pupils again after the Christmas break. I just love my class even if they are live wires and keep my assistant, Jeannette, and I on our toes. They have very alert, keen minds and are interested in learning. We've got the most fascinating science display of rocks and shells in a corner of the room.

Did I tell you that before the New Year we took the class to the Art Academy one day, and to the Fire Station another day; we also took part in Aloha Week activities, and the class strung leeis from the sacks of plumeria blossoms which different children brought to school. Most of all I'm tickled with the way they are reading, and think it is quite amazing for five year olds. How they have learned so quickly is the eighth wonder of the world.

Punahou is certainly the most unique school I'll ever have the opportunity of working in. The feeling is one of a large family, and the school spirit starts with the kindergarteners . . . they sing the school songs and yell the school cheers at every opportunity, and even the littlest one feels it is a privilege to go to Punahou. I guess it naturally follows that such a school expects nothing less than perfection from students and teachers alike . . . yet there is a free, friendly atmosphere about it all which is inspiring.

Remember me to all our good friends . . . to many of them I owe letters, but with my university course to study for, my time is limited. Just the same I do appreciate every last message I received and everyone was so good!

From my window at this moment I can see a perfect rainbow over the mountains, and it is beautiful. I know I sound like a broken record, but honestly it is a lovely, lovely place!

KNOW YOUR Canada

Where are martens found in Canada?

In dense forest, all the way from Newfoundland to the Pacific. This shy animal is a member of the weasel family. Smaller than a house cat, it is a good climber, preying on squirrels, birds, rabbits and mice. It also eats nuts and berries. Even nowadays, most marten furs come from trapped animals, few from fur farms.

The marten's fur is a rich brown, darker on legs and tail, with a reddish patch on the breast. The fur has fluctuated greatly in price, historically changing from as little as $7 to as much as $56 within a year.

What are the most likely ages for marriage in Canada?

For men, 21 to 25; for women, 18 to 22. Almost half of Canadian brides and bridegrooms are in these age groups. In a typical recent year almost 92 percent of persons marrying had not previously been wed. Five percent had been widowed; the remaining three percent divorced. More than 70 percent of all marriages in Canada are between persons of the same religious affiliation.

Who established the first school in the Canadian arctic?

Kris Klengenberg. A Dane, who left home at 15 to sail the Seven Seas in 1884. He married an Alaskan Eskimo girl and lived as an Eskimo himself. He later moved to Victoria Land in the Canadian Arctic, became a Canadian citizen and established a trading post. For the education of his own and neighboring children, Klengenberg founded the first school in Canada's Far North.

The first producing mine was the Tough Oakes from which ore was freighted by canoe and portage to nearby Swastika. This ore averaged $457 a ton and sparked a gold rush. Today, 12 producing mines are strung along its Golden Mile.

Which governor married his enemy's widow?

Charles de La Tour. In 1631 La Tour built Fort La Tour at the mouth of the St. John River. Razilly, French Governor of Acadia died a few years later and two lieutenant governors were commissioned in his place — La Tour and Charles d'Aulnay Charnisay of Port Royal. Conflict developed. La Tour attacked Port Royal in 1643. Two years later Charnisay attacked Fort La Tour in La Tours absence. Madame La Tour conducted the defence but was forced to surrender. The garrison was massacred and Madame La Tour died soon afterwards. La Tour fled, but returned after Charnesay's death in 1650 and later married his rival's widow.

Gargrave reports . . . .

By TONY GARGRAVE, M.L.A.

I remember the last few days of the 1960 Provincial election well. It was early in September, only two days before polling day. It was a Saturday and the election was on the following Monday. I was holding a meeting at Stillwater, just south of Powell River.

It was a pleasant fall evening and as we entered the little community hall we were accosted by Social Crediters carrying copies of the Saturday Vancouver Daily Province. In the front page lead story, Frank McMahon president of Westcoast Transmission, a gas pipeline company, was threatening the voters of the province that a C.C.F. victory would wreck vast projects and cost 10,000 jobs.

Frank McMahon and the Social Credit party won that election. Later Mr. McMahon said his warning did the trick. Mr. Frank McMahon is a pipeline promoter. He built the Westcoast Transmission gas pipeline, and later, after the election, built the Western Pacific oil pipeline. He made plenty out of both projects.

The new British Columbia pipeline scandal concerns these two parallel pipelines, one bringing natural gas from the north, the other bringing crude oil from the north.

In Mr. McMahon's first pipeline venture he and his friends distributed to themselves 650,000 shares of West Coast Transmission stock at five cents apiece. The public had no opportunity to buy those shares at those prices. The same shares are now selling for $23 apiece.

The federal Royal Commission on Energy, the Borden Commission, specifically criticized West Coast Transmission for the huge profits it gave to promoters through stock options. Briefly, the Borden Commission said that Mr. McMahon and his friends got too much for doing too little.

At the first legislative session, after the election, Kenneth Kiernan, minister of mines and petroleum resources, announced to the legislature that Frank McMahon had been given a new concession for the Western Pacific oil pipeline. The oil pipeline Western Pacific was to run parallel to the old natural gas pipeline. West coast Transmsision.

Mr. Kiernan, whom I believe to be a minister of ability and integrity, promised there would be no similar stock options as occurred in the natural gas pipeline. We took Mr. Kiernan at his word.

We now learn that Western Pacific gave to West Coast Transmission 750,000 shares of Western Pacific stock to allow the crude oil pipeline to use 20 feet of the natural gas pipeline's right-of-way. These shares had a value of $11,250,000. The crude oil pipeline had to obtain from the government an additional 40 feet of right-of-way, making a total 60 feet wide swath.

Alex MacDonald (NDP . Vancouver East) said in the legislature, that this was a political "pay-off." Twenty foot of right-of-way is worth something but it is not worth $11,250,000. Actually, Mr. Frank McMahon and his friends own both companies.

No wonder Mr. Frank McMahon likes this government. He hasn't provided 10,000 jobs for the people of British Columbia but he has provided $11,250,000 for himself and his friends.

Alex MacDonald, in his oil expose, told the legislature that Mr. McMahon's West Coast Transmission company also got stock options on 50,000 shares of Western Pacific, at $5 apiece. This was another sure-fire, no risk, tax free capital gain. Already these shares show a profit of over $500,000.

A further 655,000 shares in Western Pacific were issued to individuals at $5, which also represents an additional profit on today's market for the promoters of around $7,000,000.

All these profits were made by the insiders, the promoters who get in on the main floor. As Mr. MacDonald has said, the Social Credit government at Victoria has been a mother to Mr. Frank McMahon.

All this increases the final cost of natural gas and oil to the consumer. It is also unfair to the legitimate investor who invests his money for a fair return but has his profits watered down by stock options and costly right-of-way transactions.

AN IDEAL MATERIAL

Wood is an ideal structural material because it retains its high strength qualities under a wide range of conditions or rapid changes of temperature. Tests have shown that wood is even stronger at 300 degrees below zero than at 70 degrees above.

ORIGINS OF LUMBER

The use of the word lumber to designate items of sawn timber is commonly supposed to have originated in Boston in pre-revolutionary days. The phrase lumber and other goods first appears in some Boston records of 1663. In English usage lumber is generally applied to that clutter of old and discarded household items which accumulate over the years in attics and lumber rooms. In the Boston of Colonial days it was their habit in referring to the logs, timber and boards which littered the harbor front to use the term lumbered up. Inevitably, the Colonials came to refer to such timber simply as lumber.

This week's RECIPE

Winter's cold weather gives all a hearty appetite . . . so plan your menus accordingly. You might spend a little more time in the kitchen . . actually the time is still comparatively short when you use convenient frozen and canned foods . . . preparing warming stew and skillet dishes. But, the winning smiles you'll get from your family will make up the difference.

Take two packages of frozen chicken parts from your freezer and allow to thaw according to label directions. Then, in a large skillet brown the chicken along with ⅛ teaspoon whole thyme in some butter or margarine. Stir in a can of condensed cream of mushroom soup and add small whole white onions to complete the recipe. You'll be delighted with the results . . . so will your family . . . for it's a mighty tasty dish.

With this saucy good chicken serve a buttered green vegetable and a salad. Warm pineapple upside down cake topped with whipped cream brings dinner to a pleasant conclusion.

Saucy Chicken with Onions

2 packages (1 pound each) chicken parts, thawed
⅛ teaspoon whole thyme
¼ cup butter or margarine
1 can (10¼ fluid ounces) condensed cream of mushroom soup
½ cup water
10 small whole white onions

In large skillet, brown chicken along with thyme in butter. Stir in soup and water; add onions. Cover; simmer about 45 minutes or until chicken is tender, stirring now and then. Makes 4 or 6 servings.

LESS SUMMER WORK

Only 15 percent of the students attending the University of British Columbia this year made enough money last summer to meet all expenses, according to statistics released by UBC's personnel and counselling bureau. A total of 12,019 students reported during registration that they earned a grand total of $8,173,952. But only 1870 students reported earnings of $1,200 or more. UBC officials say $1,200 is a minimum figure for meeting all expenses for one year.

BOWLING

BOWLING MISTAKES BEGINNERS MAKE

By Bert Garside and Jim Hoult
Chief Bowling Instructors
Double Diamond Advisory Council

In bowling, as in every other sport, practice makes perfect—but only if you are practicing the right things. There is no use polishing up a bad habit or an improper delivery until it has become a permanent part of your bowling game.

Take time out once in awhile to check that you aren't making any of these frequent errors that beginners often develop. Here are 10 of the most common mistakes to look for:

1. Not standing in the same place every time. Make a practice of always starting your delivery from the same place on the approach.

2. Lack of coordination. At the end of your approach, your hands, feet and body should all be moving forward together. If you are having trouble getting all your motions properly timed, concentrate on starting the ball in motion first with the pushaway; you'll find your foot following naturally a split second later.

3. Not using the same number of steps each time. Try to use either a three-step or a four-step approach.

4. Not getting set properly for the approach. Many beginners just pick up the ball from the rack and start running. After you have picked up the ball, take your position on the approach standing erect and facing the pins—and then stop and think for a moment about what you are going to do.

5 Releasing the ball too soon, with no follow-through. After the ball has been delivered, your arm must continue its swing, and your fingers should be reaching toward the pins.

6. Whipping the ball too hard. Many beginners use too much power, trying to force the forward swing. Let your arm swing naturally during delivery.

7. Going over the foul line. You may be starting your approach too close to the foul line. To find your proper starting position, stand with your back to the pins with your heels about six inches in front of the foul line. Bowl an imaginary ball toward the spectator's benches, pacing off the number of steps you normally use, and going through all the motions of a real delivery. The spot where your slide ends is the spot you should use as a starting position. Never use a real ball while you are doing this, however — it is almost sure to slip out of your hand, and might injure someone.

9. Twisting the wrist. Your wrist should be kept straight when the ball is released. You'll find spot bowling helps overcome this defect, for there is less tendency to flip the wrist when you are rolling over a target 12 feet away than if you are mentally reaching for a target 60 feet away.

10. Not holding the ball in the correct position. Use both your hands to hold the ball before starting delivery, gripping with your right hand and steadying it with your left hand. Hold the ball chest high.

Next: Faults of advanced bowlers.

KEEP THAT FIZZ

To serve soft drinks properly, chill bottles well, then pour them slowly, stirring as little as possible. This keeps the carbonation at its lively best. Ice cubes make the drink fizz and this, of course, wastes some of the carbonation.

Ferry service discussed by Gargrave

During the legislature throne debate on Thurs., Feb. 8, Tony Gargrave, MLA, congratulated the government on the establishment of a provincially owned integrated ferry service in British Columbia.

"Ferry services dominate the transportation picture in the Mackenzie riding," he told the House. "The present ferry service on Howe Sound is woefully inadequate. We need supplemental weekend service in the summer now."

He told his fellow legislators that the present Black Ball vessels on Howe Sound and Jervis Inlet were old, slow and inefficient. He also criticized the poor standard of washroom facilities aboard the vessels.

He noted the government stated that additional vessels were going to be placed on the Vancouver to Naniamo run of the Toll Authority ferry service. He drew to the attention of the government that Victoria and Nanaimo was already well serviced with ferry vessels. Nanaimo receives now between the CPR and the Toll Authority, 14 trips each way daily. "We need improved service before Nanaimo does," he said. "At least the Howe Sound run pays for itself."

He warned the government that the vessels already on the run were so old that he doubted whether they would hold together until they were replaced. There have been a number of breakdowns of vessels on these two runs.

Mr. Gargrave said during the debate, that at times there was intolerable congestion at Langdale and Horseshoe Bay on the Howe Sound route. It is affecting land values and people's tempers on the Sechelt Peninsula and at Powell River.

To back up his demands for improved ferry service on the Howe Sound, he quoted from a number of letters to the editor which had appeared in the Coast News. He also supplemented stories of congestion at Langdale from his own experiences.

He criticized the increase of meal prices on the former Black Ball vessels and urged the government to clearly state their ferry system policy so that those who are being encouraged to start private ferry systems elsewhere in the province, know where they stand.

Phone growth continues

Telephones in operation at the end of 1961 in the area Port Mellon to Jervis Inlet including Gambier Island, totalled 2272, an increase of 190 for the year.

B.C. Telephone Company records show that Gibsons exchange had 1,071 for an increase of 27; Port Mellon 136, up 13; Pender Harbour 310, up 31 and Sechelt, 755, up 119.

British Columbia Telephone system passed the 90 percent mark in number of dial phones in use during 1961, with a net increase of 20,992 instruments of all types, for a grand total of 568,022 at the end of the year.

The net increase in total telephones was the result of 167,904 connections and 146,912 disconnections, according to a company report.

During the same period average business day local calling throughout the 360,000 square mile system rose to 3,565,000, compared with 3,390,000 in 1960.

Long distance traffic also increased over the previous year, total calls handled amounting to 18,344,527, compared with 17,488,770 in 1960.

Book presents church problems

Problems confronting the modern Christian world are discussed by leading churchmen in a book The Church in the 60's, to be published this spring in preparation for a 10-day Anglican Congress Aug. 13-23 in Canada in 1963.

Subjects chosen for the book's 10 chapters will provide a comprehensive background for discussions and deliberations of the congress. At the same time they will prove valuable for church members generally, particularly at the parochial level. A leader's guide to accompany the book, will include expert guidance for groups exploring these current religious, political and cultural challenges.

The Church in the 60's was initiated by Rt. Rev. G. N. Luxton, Bishop of Huron, in his capacity as chairman of the Anglican Congress editorial committee, and is edited by Rev. Philip Jefferson, editorial secretary of the General Synod department of religious education.

Auxiliary officers installed

Royal Canadian Legion branch 109 ladies auxiliary held its installation of officers Feb. 7 with Mrs. E. Morris, an original member of the branch, performing the ceremony.

Mrs. Gerry Clarke was installed as president, Mrs. Grace Broughton and Mrs. Ruth Beacon as vice-presidents, Mrs. Lil Morrison, re-elected treasurer, and Mrs. V. Graham, re-elected secretary. Mrs. Gwen Fretter is sergeant-at-arms. The executive will include Mrs. A. B. Crowhurst, Mrs. W. Skellett and Mrs. A. Crow.

The new president presented a past president's pin to Mrs. Dorothy Mason who thanked all members for their co-operation during her term as president and hoped the new executive would have a prosperous year.

Auxiliary coming events for March include the auxiliary meeting, March 7 at 7:30 p.m., followed by a potluck supper to celebrate the auxiliary birthday: World Day of Prayer, March 9 and a rummage sale on March 23.

First Aid advice given Guides

Cliff Mahlman, first aid specialist, found time in a busy schedule to talk again to Girl Guides last Saturday. Discussion followed on methods of rescue and on what to do in case of fire.

Mr. Mahlman demonstrated several methods of artificial respiration explaining the advantages and disadvantages of each. He advised Guides to learn the Holger-Neilson method and promised to test them as soon as they were proficient.

Guides are in demand as baby-sitters and the knowledge of what to do in an emergency should give them added self-confidence.

URGES BLACK TOPPING

During the Throne Debate last Thursday, the local member of this riding, Tony Gargrave, MLA urged the completion of black topping on the Roberts Creek road.

FIZZING ICE CUBES

Bottle of carbonated beverages recommend the freezing of carbonated beverages instead of water for ice cubes. They take less time to freeze than plain water and although the cubes seem to be softer than ordinary ice they actually last as long or longer. As they melt, they tumble and bubble, keeping your punch or tall drink lively and cold to the very last drop.

Blink your lights at night to warn animals on the road. A steady beam will hypnotize them into immobility. Warn them of your approach in the daytime by honking your horn.

Oil slick victim recovers

One innocent little victim of Georgia Strait oil sludge climbed ashore at Roberts Creek and stood in a state of abjection in the vicinity of two small boys, Greg MacKenzie and Dave Fossett who promptly came to its rescue.

Enlisting the aid of Rick Marsh they thoroughly washed the little fellow with warm water and soap in an attempt to cleanse his feathers of oil. Having been a diver all his life he found walking nigh impossible, but he took kindly to being toted and seemed pleased with a box-home on the MacKenzie porch. He also took pleasure in gulping down quantities of sardines and other eatables. Curious canines worried him not at all. A well directed peck on the nose left him in undisputed control of the situation.

On the following day he enjoyed another warm bath. By now the soft down on his breast was beginning to fluff out again and he demonstrated his gratitude by attempting to enter the house and by pecking at the door

Now, following lanolin rubdowns by the SPCA, he is at home in Lissiman's bird sanctuary.

Sechelt will have Heaven on Earth

The monthly meeting of Sechelt Auxiliary to the Hospital was held Thurs., Feb. 8 with a good attendance, Mrs. C. Connor presiding. Mrs. Connor will represent the auxiliary at a spring meeting of the Lower Mainland regional division to be held at St. Mary's Hospital in New Westminster on March 2.

Mrs. Critchell, director of the drama group announced that Sat-April 7 was the date set for the presentation in Sechelt of the play Heaven on Earth, together with two plays by the Gibsons Drama group under the direction of Mrs. Sleep of Gower Point.

It is understood that the three plays will also be presented on Sat., March 31 in Gibsons.

This combined effort of the two auxiliaries should be of considerable interest to communities from Port Mellon to Pender Harbour, as all the players are local residents, and the funds to be raised are for a worthy cause.

Sechelt members are asked to keep the gift box in mind; so far the response has been gratifying. Members are also urged to keep favorite recipes coming in.

Tea was served after the meeting and snapshots taken on Dec. 14 were shown. The next meeting will be held on Thurs., March 8 in St. Hilda's Hall at 2 p.m.

Bottle benefits

The carbonated beverage industry provides an example of how members of the public cooperate with industry to keep down the price of a commodity.

They do this by returning empty bottles for the refund of a token cash deposit. A major share of Canada's annual consumption of 164 million gallons is sold in returnable bottles.

Returning the bottles bring a number of benefits:

The bottler gets his bottles back. Each bottle is washed, filled and resold an average of 40 times, with the result that real cost of the container for each drink is cut to approximately one-eight of a cent. This helps keep down the total cost.

Many children eke out their allowance of pocket money by collecting empties in their homes and about the neighborhood to "cash them in" at the store. They are so thorough on public beaches and in parks that costs of keeping these places tidy are much lower than they would be otherwise.

STOP SKIDDING

When your car skids steer in the direction in which the rear end is skidding. As the car begins to straighten out, straighten the front wheels also. Do not oversteer. Turning the steering wheel too far whips the rear end in a skid in the opposite direction. Above all, keep the clutch engaged or the selector lever in the "drive" range. Moderate acceleration may also help the driver in regaining control.

IS YOUR HOME SAFE?

Is your child safe at home? Perhaps you resent this question and consider it a silly one. But research shows that far too many people, including children, lose their lives or are seriously injured, not in some public place, but right at home.

Each autumn Canadians are educated in fire prevention. Surely one of the most horrible ways to die is to be burned. Fire accounts for 23 percent of accidental home fatalities in Canada.

In age distribution, five percent were babies, 22 percent were under five years, 19 percent under 15 years.

These statistics underline the importance of children never being left unattended and also the importance of fire protection. A homemaker cannot be too careful in checking on possible sources of fire such as faulty electric cords and wiring, inadequate guard against overheated stovepipes and inflammable rubbish.

Over 2,000 Canadians die from home accidents each year. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics in a recent publication "Mortality from Home Accidents" showed that apart from transport accidents, home was a dangerous place to live. In 10 years, 22,000 persons lost their lives in accidents at home. This number should startle parents into learning more about home mishaps.

Food suffocation, or accidental inhalation or ingestion of food into the larynx and other respiratory passages, result in obstruction and death of a large number of children under one year. Infant deaths from this cause 84 percent of the total mortality. Most of these deaths took place in a cot, carriage or cradle. Smothering is not nearly so great a danger as this food suffocation.

These are statistics which warn parents to take special precautions to prevent food or mechanical suffocation. In other accidents such as drowning it is surprising to learn that 50 percent of drownings occurred at home.

The pre-school child (1 to 5 year) made up no less than 60 percent of the total home drownings, babies about four percent. Some of these accidents took place in bath tubs, others in ponds or wells or deep ditches on the home grounds.

Accidental falls account for 39 percent of home fatalities. After the age of 50 this is an increasing threat, but under the age of five it is also a very real danger. Victims of about two percent of the fatal falls were babies, three percent were small children under five years. Contrary to the general trend of sex in accidents, more girls and women die from falls than boys and men.

One of the most important tasks of parents is to provide a safe environment for their children, and a second task is to teach safety by example and by instruction. When you read in the newspaper of a child losing his life or being injured in home accidents, do you ask yourself: "How did this happen? Could it have occurred in our home?"

In the excellent book "The Canadian Mother and Child," published by the Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa, is this sound advice: "The attitude towards accidents is to be constantly on guard to prevent them. Take steps to remove all obvious risks, then keep an eye on your child without creating tensions."

Weed destroyers

Small birds perform an important function controlling the spread of noxious weeds. Many species are busy on this useful task right now. From early autumn until spring they live briefly on weed seeds. The seeds of many common and harmful weeds were brought from Europe mixed with the seeds of grain and vegetables. They have since spread over the whole of Canada and no matter how carefully the farmer cultivates his fields they are waiting to spring up and kill out the useful plants. Not only do the birds eat the seeds which remain on the plants, but they scratch away the snow to reach those that have fallen to the ground. In this way they are working for the farmer in his constant fight against another enemy.

They're buying oil energy for 6¢ a pound

Six and one-tenth cents a pound. That's the average price motorists throughout British Columbia pay for Esso gasoline. Compared with other commodities in everyday use, you won't find a better bargain. Milk, for example, sells on the average for 9 2/10 cents a pound; soft drinks for 12 2/10 cents a pound; even distilled water costs more than gasoline. The Esso gasoline you buy today at a bargain price is much more powerful than it was ten years ago . . . yet on the average Imperial gets less for it in B.C. than it did ten years ago. And of the 6 1/10 cents you pay for gasoline in B.C., two cents is for federal and provincial taxes that bring you such things as social services and new highways. Pound for pound, you won't find a better bargain than Esso.

Peace river damsite contract awarded

The Abbotsford firm of Cattermole-Tretheway Contractors Limited has been awarded a conrtact by B.C. Electric for the clearing of 150 acres of land near Portage Mountain damsite on the Peace River project.

Pacific Petroleums Limited, of Taylor, B.C., with a low bid of $3,443,000, won the B.C. Electric contract to supply major petroleum products required during the first five years of construction. The petroleum will come from B.C. fields in the Peace River area.

Cattermole - Tretheway Contractors Limited was low bidder at $93,680 for clearing the acreage to provide camp and wrok sites for contractors who will begin work in April on three diversion tunnels under the Peace River's west bank. The 48-foot diameter tunnels will be drilled to to divert Peace River water around the construction site of Portage Mountain dam.

Cattermole - Tretheway won the clearing contract in competition with three other bids ranging up to $200,000.

The clearing job, which must be completed before the end of March, also will include stripping of loose earth and rock down to solid bedrock from a patch of land roughly 150 feet square. This will permit preliminary drilling to begin in April for a grout curtain in the tunnel area.

The grout curtain, a membrane of cement mixture dumped into holes drilled into bedrock, will seal off water escape routes through cracks in the bedrock.

Pacific Petroleums' contract covers estimated major petroleum requirements during the initial stage of the project from 1962 to 1966. The northern B.C. firm will supply 18 million Imperial gallons of diesel fuel, 770,000 gallons of gasoline, and 1,600,000 gallons of furnace oil.

The diesel fuel and gasoline will be used mainly by huge trucks and earth moving equipment working at Portage Mountain dam, 12 miles from Hudson Hope.

Drama night on March 31

The monthly meeting of Gibsons Hospital Auxiliary Thursday evening of last week at the home of Mrs. E. L. Wardil saw 11 new members welcomed by the president Mrs. D. Fyles.

A gavel made by Mr. Wardil was presented to the auxiliary and a cheque for $100 was sent to the present hospital administration for equipment which when the new hospital is built can be used there as well.

Projects planned for the future include a combination drama night by Sechelt and Gibsons hospital auxiliaries with a showing at Gibsons March 31 and in Sechelt, April 7. The Gibsons group also hopes to stage the presentations at Port Mellon. Between March 12 and 17 members will hold a chain tea for members and friends. In May a fashion show is planned.

Next meeting will be held in the Anglican church hall, Thurs. March 8 at 8 p.m.

Scouts to work on new camp

Mount Elphinstone District Boy Scout Asociation held its monthly meeting at the new district camp, Roberts Creek. Discussion centred on work, tools and money for this year's training and use of the camp.

This camp has been leased from the provincial command of the Royal Canadian Legion and axes, shovels and saws are needed to put the camp into shape for summer use. Any person with tools or equipment they desire to donate can phone 886-2479 or 886-2331 and arrangement can then be made to pick them up.

This year's financial drive will be held during the first week in April.

400 see show

Four hundred persons saw the Gibsons Elementary PTA movie show Sat., Feb. 10 when The Searchers a big-time film starring John Wayne and others was shown.

Proceeds amounting to $90 after expenses will be utilized in the fund for awards, scholarships and the purchase of equipment.

Improvements made at Elphinstone cemetery

At the annual meeting of Mount Elphinstone Cemetery board, there was a note of satisfaction in realizing the achievements of the past two years.

Owing to lack of attention to the grounds over a period of many years, trees and brush had established themselves. With the opening of another cemetery in the district, for a time Mount Elphinstone grounds became seldom used.

However, efforts of the board, other individuals, Boy Scouts and the use of machinery and some hired labor, the cemetery now presents a new look.

The grounds have been cleared to three times the area previously in use, and then sown to grass. Brush has been controlled to a minimum of growth, and one may now drive right into the grounds.

Attractively painted informative signs are set up within the cemetery are.

It is the aim of the board in 1962 to renew the original fence which borders the west and north sides of the cemetery. Volunteer labor or gift offerings for materials will be appreciated.

The rules and regulations by which this cemetery is guided are on file with the Public Utilities Commission, Victoria, under whose jurisdiction cemeteries operate. As a matter of information to the public, headstones are no longer permissible, except on certain plots within the original burial area.

The fact that a number of interments have been registered, and reservations made during the past two years, would indicate that the public is still interested in Mount Elphinstone Cemetery.

At this meeting, the secretary, Mrs. Violet Winegarden tendered her resignation, while Mrs. Jean Wyngaert accepted the nomination to fill the vacancy.
