Reserve band, drill team provide Sechelt surprise

Under what could have been termed a baking August sun in a clear sky tempered by a slight breeze from the sea, Sechelt's 15th annual May Day celebration drew hundreds of spectators to Hackett Park Monday afternoon.

Three bands were in the parade and the one drawing heartiest applause was the first appearance of the Reserve School bugle band and girls' marching team. While the bugle band had been practicing several weeks the girls' drill team in new uniforms had only had about one week together as a unit.

The other two bands were Elphinstone Secondary School band and drill team under Bandmaster George Moss, C.B.A., and the big band from North Vancouver Sea Cadet Corps Lonsdale along with its guard of honor for the queen, cadets and wrenettes.

Opening the day's ceremonies, cadets and band paraded to Sechelt's Cenotaph where in a brief ceremony a wreath was laid. The cadets then joined the parade which started from the Forestry office area and moved down the highway to Hackett Park.

The parade was quite enjoyable this year with ample space between each entrant. Leading the way came the RCMP car followed by two marching red-coated detachment members. The Lonsdale band, cadets and wrenettes followed with the May Queen in her car with attendants. Parade entrant judges followed with the smart Jobie marching team next.

Peninsula Motors had three floats all neatly decorated in flowered design. All were in good taste with nameplates which you had to look for to read them. The Sechelt auxiliary to St. Mary's Hospital provided humor, with a violent operation under way on a writhing victim surrounded with other types of medical miseries.

Sechelt Cubs were followed by Peninsula Rod and Gun Club decorated car, with the Sunshine Coast Rebekahs, Red and White Store, Sechelt Elementary Maypole dancers in a bus, Legion Branch 140 giving the Olympic Training plan a boost, and next a Get High Without Rye display in a small Aero Club aeroplane of the very distant future.

Elphinstone Secondary School's queen was followed by a Black Knight who looked quite imposing. Horses, horses, horses then followed with members of the fair sex riding them.

Parade marshal was Bruce Redman with members of Sechelt's branch 140 Legion in charge of the route. One noted the lack this year of entrants in the Juvenile classes as there were not more than a half-dozen.

In Hackett Park with Maurice Hemstreet as master of ceremonies Mrs. Christine Johnston welcomed the assembly declaring it a privilege and a pleasure to be able to take part. She gave Mrs. L. Redman well-deserved

Ambition is realized

Bob and Eileen Griffith, of Egmont, realized a life long ambition, Monday, May 13, when their 38 ft. troller New Dawn was launched, in the presence of their many friends.

The keel was laid about two years ago, and since then Bob has spent every minute of his spare time on construction. The large cabin wheel-house, containing the galley and eating quarters was designed and built by Reg. Phillips, Bob's brother-in-law, who also supervised the launching. Decks and cabin are celastic coated and the hull is cedar planked with black stern. Bob hopes to have the New Dawn fishing early in June. His Egmont friends wish him every success.

SISTER HERE

Happy day at Sechelt for C W L convention

The Catholic Women's League archdiocesan convention on May 15 at Sechelt, the largest convention ever held on the Sunshine Coast, left most delegates quite happy that the event had been held in this area.

Some of the delegates had risen quite early in the morning and, after a lengthy trip, thoroughly enjoyed themselves in the bright sunshine and what they described as really enjoyable scenery. At the evening banquet in Sechelt's Legion hall when 205 dinners were served by the Sunshine Coast Caterers the delight of numerous delegates at the reception they had received was obvious.

Mrs. Christine Johnston, chairman of Sechelt's municipal council and A. E. Ritchey, chairman of Gibsons council welcomed the delegates at the Legion hall banquet which had as chairman Father O'Grady. He described the feelings of Sechelt and Gibsons towards the group as being very cordial. Father James Carney, speaking for the archbishop extended a hand of brotherly love to all. Father O'Grady also extended congratulations to the committee who helped make the convention the high mark it was, in the history of the Catholic Women's League.

Father Roberts, spoke on the overtones of the coming church unity along with Catholic action. He said the Ecumenical Council which met recently in Rome has as its objective restoration of simple lines to present day Catholicism, returning it to as it was known in the time of Jesus. This he described as an almost unexpected aim. To achieve this it would be necessary first to look back and examine those days, to prune away any excess baggage such as in the liturgy and so forth. Pope John said it in one word, Adjoinamento — bringing up-to-date, he said.

The Catholic Church will be assisted by other Christian aids. To day, he said, we are largely re-

Sechelt's fire truck aged firemen want new one

Sechelt's Volunteer fire department appeared before Sechelt's council Wednesday night of last week and proposed something should be done about replacing the main fire truck in the department.

This truck it was explained is now 23 years old and has served Sechelt district for the last 11 years. Council decided to give the matter consideration and urged the firemen to figure out ways and means for obtaining a new truck.

sponsible for a coolness towards other churches. Practical reparation must be made at the grass roots level. The CWL, he said, can take the lead. The CWL contained the seed bed for leadership, he concluded.

The convention opened with a mass at St. Vincent's church, celebrated by Father O'Grady.

Automatics for Woodfibre

In response to requests from Woodfibre residents for local telephone communications service, B.C. Telephone Company has announced that it will install a $38,000 automatic telephone exchange system in the Howe Sound community.

Telephone officials expect that 125 subscribers will be served by the Woodfibre exchange facilities on an individual and two-party basis. The new community dialing service is expected to start late in June.

Woodfibre's outside telephone communications needs are presently served by three automatic public paystations in the townsite, plus three business lines for the use of Rayonier, Canada, B.C., Ltd.

Access to lower mainland exchanges is provided by a submarine cable link between Woodfibre and Britannia. Operator service on long distance and information calls is provided from Vancouver.

Banks of automatic switches and other telephone equipment necessary for community exchange operation are now being installed in a trailer-type telephone exchange building, which will be transported from Vancouver to its Woodfibre site later this month.

department operates under a Societies act charter and besides taking care of Sechelt's fire needs covers quite a bit of the surrounding area.

The problem of naming streets was raised again. Some streets now nameless will have to be named and other names changed. A committee will tackle this problem at some future date. The problem of rezoning the E. S. Clayton property, now used as a parking lot west of the Clayton store will be given consideration shortly. Accounts totalling $1,595.22 were ordered paid.

Music exams!

member of the teaching staff of the Royal Conservatory of Music of Toronto will conduct current examinations for the Conservatory in Gibsons on June 1.

A resident of Oshawa, Mr. Geen is director of the General Motors choir, and organist of Simcoe United church, in addition to his teaching duties.

As a lecturer and adjudicator, Mr. Geen's friendliness and discriminating musical sense alike have won him a place in the hearts of both contestants and audiences in many parts of Canada.

Fire hydrants are checked

The Gibsons and Area Volunteer Fire Department have started on their annual fire hydrant and standpipe maintenance program. Each hydrant and valve box will be cleaned out and painted, water pressures and coupling threads will be checked.

In past years it has been found that some of the valve boxes have been filled or partially filled with everything from stones to garbage. The volunteers again ask the co-operation of the public in noting the condition of the hydrants and if any appear damaged or obstructed advise the municipal office or Fire Department as soon as possible.

For residents outside the Gibsons Village boundaries but within fire area limits, 1963 membership dues are now required. Your five dollars is vitally needed to maintain the North Road Hall, the two pumper trucks and all the auxiliary equipment that make-up an efficient fire department. Send your check to the Gibsons and Area Volunteer Fire Dept., Box 8, Gibsons, B.C.

The siren last Friday night appeared to be a false alarm, whoever rang the fire phone did not wait to give directions as to where the emergency was.

Remember if fire or inhalator services are required in the Gibsons area phone 886-2345, give the type of service needed, provide the house-owner name and the house location and if possible have someone stand outside the house near the road to direct the firemen on arrival.

For this year the contest will be confined to Gibsons area to see what response there will be. If it is good it could be that the area will have an annual soap-box derby or the Sunshine Coast.

Boys deciding to enter can leave their names and addresses at the Coast News office. If there are sufficient entries there will be three age classes, 6 to 8, 9 to 11 and 12 to 14.

Pollution board has garbage site picked

Gibsons area pollution board will seek government approval for a garbage disposal site next door to the present Gibsons municipal dump. This area, about nine acres, was chosen by pollution board members at a meeting last Thursday night in the provincial health office, Gibsons.

Having obtained approval the next step for the board will be to assess the cost of maintenance and also the cost of a compulsory garbage collection service. Correspondence with Victoria health officials has laid down this course for the board to follow before the department will be willing to consider any means of giving the area a collection service.

Based on remarks made by Barry MacDonald, provincial sanitarian, this non-organized area is the first in the province to strive towards a compulsory garbage collection service. Discussion during the meeting led towards the seeking of wider representation from other organizations in the area.

Shanghai fire victim

The recent disastrous fire at Pender Harbour Auto Court, as a result of which, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Love, proprietors, lost their home, office, cafe and total belongings, had a pleasing aftermath on Tuesday last week.

Mrs. Love, who is honorary treasurer of Pender Harbour Branch of St. Mary's Hospital auxiliary, was shanghaied by two fellow members, Mrs. Mary Woodburn, and Mrs. Elsa Ward, under pretext of a friendly car ride, to a crowded meeting of the auxiliary, at the Royal Canadian Legion hall, where some 50-odd friends had gathered to welcome her.

Taken completely by surprise, Mrs. Love was even more surprised, and deeply touched, when Mrs. George H. Phillips, auxiliary president, presented her with a cheque for $339, the results of a speedily organized collection taken up from Harbour and outside residents.

Following the presentation, tea was served. Mrs. Love thanked each of those present individually, expressing her deep gratitude to them and to the many others who, for various reasons were unable to be present.

Votes of thanks were tendered the Royal Canadian Legion for use of the hall, and to the operator of the School ferry, services of which had been donated for transportation of members from various Harbour points.

Guide cookout

Roberts Creek Guides enjoyed a cookout on the beach, Sat., May 4. Each patrol built its own fire, and different sorts were demonstrated. By the time the two hardy souls who just had to go for a swim came ashore shivering, all manner of savory smells were wafted on the breeze. Hamburgers, carrots and potatoes, and apples and bananas cooked in foil, baking powder biscuits baking in a reflector oven, eggs and bacon and spaghetti, cooking on coffee tin stoves.

A full report was received from Mr. Yablonski on the aims and objects which we will be required to meet this year including the local meet and zone finals to be held in Powell River on July 6.

The general meeting of the Gibsons Legion made substantial donations to worthy organizations at this week's meeting. In addition six applications for membership in the Gibsons Branch were accepted by the general meeting.

Two representatives from the Legion were appointed to serve on the July 1 committee in the same manner as last year.

Plans were laid to celebrate the 33rd birthday of the Gibsons Branch 109 which received its charter on June 14, 1930. Arrangements include a supper and social on the evening of June 15, commencing at 7 p.m. All members and their wives are invited as well as members of the Ladies' Auxiliary.

A balance of power problem?

Controversy has arisen as to where the headquarters for the proposed Public Health unit covering the area from Powell River to Pemberton should be. Powell River people seem to have the fixed idea that Powell River is going to get it.

Their argument is that the heaviest concentrated population is in the Powell River area. That is one fact. There is another which should be considered. The largest population within the Health Unit is actually this side of Jervis Inlet, spreading along the coast line to Squamish and on to Pemberton.

The Powell River area has a rough 15,000 population and the rest of the area involved has a population of close to 17,000 plus. It is going to take longer to serve the extended area of 17,000 plus population operating from Powell River than it would if operating from a more central location.

Gibsons will have a Health Unit building built soon. It could well be a central headquarters for servicing the entire area. Unless those attached to the Health Unit were to fly their way to Squamish and Pemberton they would involve themselves in a considerable amount of time travelling. In order to keep such time at a minimum spreading out from the centre would be more economical than operating from Powell River.

Chambers of Commerce and other organizations on the Sunshine Coast to Jervis Inlet should get themselves together and present to the provincial health department in Victoria some salient facts in order to bolster the argument. Such facts are available. How about it?

An ironic situation

It seems rather ironic that while the Vassall spy case tribunal has found British security measures to be lax, here in Canada the Royal Canadian Mounted Police should come in for criticism from some quarters for undertaking their security tasks too seriously.

Specifically, the RCMP has been charged with invasion of academic freedom because of its surveillance of and investigation into Communist activity on the Canadian university campuses.

Yet noting that the university campus is a logical place for Communists to recruit potential spies or defectors, as a number of post-war spy disclosures have shown, one university authority has pointed out that the RCMP would be failing in its duty if it did not keep an eye on the campus. Indeed, he goes so far as to suggest that the force would eventually be held to account if Canada was endangered by a defector whose unreliability might earlier have been diagnosed.

In the final analysis, it seems only reasonable to suggest that this damned if you do; damned if you don't attitude towards security benefits no one more than spymasters in Moscow.

Machines are expensive

Since 1955, Canadian manufacturing production has increased by 23 percent. The number of workers employed in manufacturing however, has increased only three percent. What's the reason?

Automation, say the unions. Not directly, says Leonard Hynes, president of Canadian Industries Limited. Automation, says Mr. Hynes, is only a by-product. The real reason is that labor has priced itself out of the market with rising wage rates, fringe benefits and shorter work week.

We've always had automation, ever since the wheel was invented. But automation, by itself, doesn't cause unemployment. Companies employ machines instead of men only when men become more expensive than machines. Machines cost a lot of money to install. Most Companies would rather spend that money on devising and developing new products. New products mean new employment opportunities. Instead, money spent on machines means less employment. It's worth thinking about.

Increase in TB noted

Mr. H. S. McDonald, re-elected president at the annual meeting of the B.C. Tuberculosis society in Vancouver has voiced concern over the increase in the number of cases of tuberculosis and other chest conditions found in B.C. during the past year. During 1962 Operation Doorstep community TB survey provided 173,700 B.C. residents with a free TB skin test and chest X-ray and 120 new cases of tuberculosis including 71 that required treatment were discovered. 250 other medically significant chest conditions were referred to local family doctors for treatment. This represents a marked increase over 1961. TB authorities are concerned about the number of cases found in community surveys in Prince Rupert, Terrace and Hazelton in the northwest part of the province. A complete repeat of the Operation Doorstep program will be conducted in those communities.

The annual meeting also reported that a record $273,097 had been realized by the B.C. Christmas Seal campaign this past year.

Let's put words to work!

Writing has no purpose save to meet the needs of the reader. Before the days of the pony express and airmail, communication on this continent was by smoke signal. When the Indian was making signals it was he and not the friend with whom he was communicating who got smoke in his eyes. Let's absorb the smog at the point of origin, so that our communications arrive crisp and clear.

We must choose our words so that the reader will be sure to understand them without waste of time and thought. They must tell the necessary facts on the vocabulary level of the reader. They must convey to the reader something of the way we feel toward him.

A fitting word is one that has meaning. It must represent the same thing to the reader as to the writer. A private meaning has no meaning at all. We recall an airman on a life raft in the Pacific who could feel sharks' nuzzling his frail craft. He read aloud to them from a survival booklet describing how seldom sharks attack man. It wasn't their language and, in fact, it seemed to enrage them.

The secret is to let the meaning choose the word, and not the other way about. If you are going to soar into the freedom of using a word apart from its customary meaning, at least know what that meaning is and estimate the likelihood of your reader's understanding your modification of it. What do you gain, except perhaps a sort of childish amusement, by writing in an involved, pompous and firesome manner?

Words need to be clear. Even if people do not agree with you, write so that there may be no doubt about what you are saying. To put a thing into appropriate words so that the message comes through clearly has the virtue of making it seem more real and possible and believable than if you say it muddledly or smother it under ornament.

Writing simple words means expressing meaning as purely, clearly, definitely and shortly as possible. Churchill's famed "Blood, Sweat and Tears" would not have sparked the nation if "sweat" had been dressed up as "perspiration."

Color words are not words in dress suits, nor tall opaque words nor ornamental words, but words which tell better than any others the things the writer wishes to convey. Some good words appeal to more senses than that of sight, thereby adding to their force or understandability. If you say "he closed the door" that appeals only to sight; try "he slammed the door," which brings hearing into play. To weep is a visual verb; to "sob" has sight, hearing and movement.

Aesop Glim, a master copy writer, is quoted as having said that the reason for the Chinese slogan "one picture is worth a thousand words" is that it is so difficult to write a thousand words in Chinese. Your words, easier to write than Chinese, can become pictures when they are put together so as to call forth in the mind of your reader the scene, article or person you are writing about.

Bring down your thoughts from the abstract to the concrete. Note how much easier writing is to read when it turns its general ideas into physical form.

Some people suggest that the desired sense of activity can be attained if you will just "write as you speak," but there are some differences you need to keep in mind.

It is easier to get an idea across in speech than in writing. One reason is that in speech we can stress the right words and pause at the right places. In writing, all the words of a sentence are printed in ink of equal blackness, separated by the same amount of space. If we try to overcome this disadvantage by underlining words; capitalizing them, or putting them in Italics, we indulge in a lazy device that makes a page look ugly and makes reading difficult. The right solution is to put the rhythm and emphasis into the words and into sentence structure.

We have to be more careful in writing than in speaking because our slips show more. There is not a distinctive language for speaking and writing, yet words which are in daily conversational use are not always suited to writing.

This does not mean that we must construct our letters as meticulously as a Swiss watchmaker putting the works together. It is possible so to measure and arrange syllables as to construct grammatical sentences which nevertheless do not convey our meaning. There are no grammatical laws by which we can compose liads or write effective selling letters.

The practised writer may allow himself a certain old-shoe casualness with grammar, so long as his meaning is clear and the effect is what he desires. But he should at least know the rules, so that he can discriminate between good and bad and so that he knows how far it is safe to go from the base. Before trying to steal home he will have achieved competence in reaching third.

The minimum objective in any writing is to convey meaning, but beyond that are the really interesting objectives: precision, grace, logic and clearness.

The first word that occurs to you may not be the best word. It may be very good, but a better may present itself when you invite it. Don't, however, allow the desire for a perfect word to become a passion which interrupts your flow of thought. Get your ideas on paper, and then polish up what you have written.

Even after following all the best precepts in writing your piece, there is more to be done. You must read your script to ascertain whether the words are the right words, saying what you wish to convey, and whether the sentences are equal to bearing the strain you ask them to carry.

Ovid, the Roman poet who wrote at the turn of the Christian era, was not ashamed to admit this need. He said: "When I read I blush, for even I perceive enough that ought to be erased, though it was I who wrote the stuff." Thomas Jefferson spent 18 days writing and rewriting the Declaration of Independence; Victor Hugo made eleven revisions of one novel; Voltaire was known to spend a whole night toiling over one sentence. Artists, too, make revisions. Leonardo was one of the first to welcome painting in oils instead of in water color; he said it allowed of so many afterthoughts, so refined a working out of perfection.

There is a happy mean between being content with the first thing that comes into your head and the craving for perfection. The letter you write need not be excessively polished, but it must be workmanlike. Do your writing painstakingly, but don't let it show.

When a thing is thoroughly well done it often has the air of being a miracle. There is no miracle about successful use of words: just hard work gathering facts, hard work recalling precedent pictures; hard work fitting them into the present setting; hard work writing carefully and brightly. In short, most successes in writing can be explained by diligent work, seasoned by lively imagination and warmed by sincerity.

You should take for granted that everyone who reads what you write will look for the best he is capable of appreciating. This sets your goal: you cannot rest content with mediocrity when excellence is within your reach. — From the Royal Bank Monthly Letter.

THIS WEEK'S RECIPE

A savory stuffing can be a credit to any meat dish. And, the wise homemaker finds that meats served with bread stuffing are popular menu items that family and guests will welcome anytime. Lamb chops, for example, become something special when baked with a minted pea-bread stuffing. The long-familiar flavor team of peas and mint is a natural for the meaty goodness of the mild chops. And the color added by the bright green peas gives glamor and freshness to the oven-baked meal.

Baked Stuffed Lamb Chops
6 cups of soft, 1/2" bread cubes
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons dried mint leaves
1/4 teaspoon savory
1/4 cup melted butter
1 (10 oz.) package frozen peas
6 large or 8 medium lamb chops

Method: Combine soft bread cubes, salt, mint leaves, savory and melted butter. Add frozen peas and toss until well mixed. Place this stuffing mixture in a large baking dish. Arrange lamb chops over the stuffing and bake in a moderate oven (350 deg. F) for at least 40 minutes, or until chops are tender and brown. Yield: 6 to 8 servings.

Your guests will be pleased when you serve this dessert at your next luncheon or party. As you ring the golden peach petals on billowy clouds of whipped cream atop layers of fluffy chiffon cake, and sprinkle them with toasted coconut, you'll agree that your Peach Paradise Dessert is as pretty to see as it is easy to make. Since the cake may be purchased from a bakery or food store, and other ingredients are familiar in your kitchen, the dessert can be made with little effort on your part. However, the final result will be a mouth-watering creation that is sure to bring compliments from all who see and taste it.

Peach Paradise Dessert
1/2 pint heavy cream
3 tablespoons confectioners' sugar
1/4 teaspoon vanilla
1 large baker's chiffon cake
One (28 oz.) can sliced peaches, drained
1 cup toasted, shredded coconut

Method: Whip cream and fold in sugar and vanilla. Cut cake in half, horizontally. Cube 3/4 cup of the sliced peaches. Spread some whipped cream and the cubed peaches evenly between the cake layers. Spread the remainder of the cream over top and sides of the cake. Arrange sliced peaches in a swirl pattern on the cake top. Sprinkle toasted coconut around sides of the dessert. Refrigerate before serving. Yield 12 to 16 servings.

* * *
Barbecued Halibut Sticks is a recipe which points up the effectiveness of the marinating technique for fish. Cut 2 pounds of halibut into sticks about 1"x1/2"x2." Marinate for 1 to 2 minutes in 1/2 cup of salad oil which has been seasoned with 1 teaspoon of salt and 1 finely chopped clove of garlic. Drain, then roll in 1/2 cup of commercially grated cheese mixed with 1/4 cup of fine dry bread crumbs. Bake in a hot oven (450 deg. F.) for about 10 minutes.

REAL ESTATE NEEDS

The real estate profession in British Columbia has launched a campaign to raise more than $100,000 for an Education and Research Foundation. There are three immediate needs which the Foundation is intended to meet. They are provision of more teachers for real estate subjects at the university level, more research work and additions to the UBC Library's real estate section to permit an extension service in real estate literature to be initiated for those taking diploma courses by correspondence.

The Davis Ottawa Diary

By JACK DAVIS, M.P.
Coast-Capilano Constituency

North Atlantic Treaty Organization is discussing one of the most publicized problems of recent years — that of the spread of the most publicized problems of recent years—that of the spread and control of nuclear weapons.

President Kennedy, for one, does not want members of NATO to build their own nuclear deterrents. He wants to stop the movement away from collective defence under American leadership and towards national defence under national leadership. As Mr. Kennedy has put it, "first you have France, then another and another."

Most other NATO members agree. Two basic ideas are therefore likely to be discussed in the May meetings in Ottawa: (a) The Inter-allied Force.

This amounts to a re-arrangement of nuclear weapons already under the direction of the NATO Supreme Commander. The Polarix submarines could not be used unless the American President agrees. The British V-bombers could not be used unless the British government agrees. The tactical weapons owned by NATO members like Canada could not be used unless President Kennedy releases their warheads. In other words, there is not much new about the inter-allied force except the name.

(b) The Multi-Manned Force.

This would consist of Polarix missiles mounted on ships or submarines. The United States would supply the warheads. Only those members who were prepared to help pay for it would have any say in it. The crews would be mixed, on a proportional basis, probably determined by each government's investment. The force would be controlled by a committee. Under the American proposal, each participating member, including the United States, would have a veto over the use of the missiles.

The multi-manned force is likely to meet with greater opposition. Some members of NATO, like West Germany, will want to change the American proposal of a veto for each member to a decision by a majority of the members, or some such formula. It is doubtful if the U.S. will accept this idea.

Much travelled son visits

Mrs. W. Pearson of Davis Bay recently enjoyed a visit of her son Flight Lieutenant Ray Pearson, prior to his departure on an extensive trip that took him to Hawaii, Papua, New Guinea and Australia.

Roy states in a letter home that they received a great welcome in Australia and found that kangaroos had been painted on their aircraft to commemorate the trip. In a visit to the new state of West Irian he found that steaks of Water Buffalo are a good deal tougher than our Canadian beef!

While with the United Nations F/L Pearson spent several months in the Congo and earlier assisted in Egypt and Lebanon during the Suez crisis. Further work in South America for the same agency makes Roy a widely travelled officer. He has been awarded two United Nations medals for his services.

Only a few days prior to his departure for the tropics Roy was in the far north many hundreds of miles north of the Arctic Circle. He is an aeronautical engineer with the RCAF and his duties with the United Nations have concerned the restoration of air communications in nations that have been through unsettled periods.

To see Peter Pan

The Guides and Brownies thank all who supported their recent Cookie sale, including Mr. Sam Fladager and Mr. Ray Kruse who provided windows for displays, and other local merchants who are always willing to display posters. Some people were disappointed and not able to get cookies this year, but supplies ran out owing to increased demand.

From the sale of each carton of cookies, 75c stays in the district and is distributed to each pack and company on a per capita basis. The Brownies of the Elphinstone District, Langdale, Gibsons and Roberts Creek packs are using this money to help finance a trip to Vancouver next month to attend the Vancouver International Festival production of Peter Pan.

Weddings

ROBERTSON-MACLEOD

Candlelight and flowers from in from Hawaii by the groom's brother, Carmen, made an impressive setting in St. Bartholomew's Anglican church, Gibsons, when Arlene Jane Macleod became the bride of John Thomas Robinson. He is the son of Mr. Charles Robinson and the late Mrs. Robinson of Gibsons and his bride the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Macleod of Wilson Creek. Rev. D. Harris read the service and bridal music was played by Mr. Wim Kaley.

The petite bride chose a gown of French lace falling in soft folds to the floor framing her bouquet of deep red roses. A shoulder length tiered veil was held in place by a tiny crown of lace and rhinestones.

A trio of attendants were Mrs. Steven Holland brides matron and Mrs. Eddy Campbell, bridesmaid, both in deep rose nylon frocks, carrying shaded Marguerite daisies. Glenys Macleod was her sister's flower girl in mist blue nylon, carrying a colonial nosegay.

Mr. Steven Holland was best man and ushering the guests were Mr. Godfrey Robinson and Mr. Bernard Macleod. Mr. Steven Holland was best man.

A reception was held at Wilson Creek Community hall, where Mr. George Betts presided as master of ceremonies. An old family friend Mr. P. A. Hoyle of West Vancouver gave the toast to the bride.

Photos were taken of cutting the wedding cake made by the bride's mother and decorated by Mr. S. Mutter of Wilson Creek.

Servitors included the Misses: C. Mylroie, Sharon Keely, Gail Macleod, Roberta Quigley, Dawn Chamberlin, Glenda Zraal, Mr. Godfrey Robinson and David and Stanley Macleod.

The Toe Tappers Orchestra of Sechelt provided music for dancing.

Following a honeymoon through the Okanagan, Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will reside at Karateev Tractor Court.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. J. Chidwick and Colleen of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Hoyle, West Vancouver; Mrs. B. Knight, Woodfibre; Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Lane, Regina; Mr. and Mrs. J. Robinson, and Mrs. A. Rousell, Victoria and Miss Gail Macleod, Vancouver.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS

Is Popularity Enough For Average Teenager?

By C. D. Smith

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: "I have a teenage problem. I am very attractive and I have a pleasing personality. I make friends very easily, of both sex. My problem is that the fellows that I am not interested in always like me very much. However, the fellows that I am concerned about are not too concerned about me. They are nice fellows, but they all say I play 'hard to get.' I do not, but I cannot allow myself to fall in love with just anybody. I am very friendly and I even talk to some of the boys I am concerned about. But they treat me like a sister. I do not want any brotherly love. I have six brothers. What is your suggestion?"

OUR REPLY: Our suggestion is that you begin by being thankful. Be grateful of the fact that you are attractive; that you have a pleasing personality; and that you make friends easily. There are thousands of teenagers who would give anything to be so well qualified.

You are wise in not permitting yourself to fall in love with just anyone. But, is it necessary that you fall in love with anyone? Can you not be content with being popular? Many a girl who tells herself and her friends that she has found her "one and only" is kidding everybody. She knows better and would much prefer to be popular, to have different boys asking her for dates.

And finally, did it ever occur to you that these boys you like are not really treating you like a "sister" but instead like a "lady"? The boy who thinks you are "something special" will treat you that way. It is not what a boy says to you that is an indication of his true character — it is instead how he

Convention for CWL

The church was beautifully decorated by the girls and ladies of Sechelt.

Luncheon was served shortly after mass at the Legion hall under the supervision of Mrs. Gauvin, Mrs. Benner, Mrs. Messenger, and committee. The delegates and distinguished visitors then adjourned to the Sechelt theatre where the meeting was being held.

The meeting was featured by the bearing of the flags by girls of St. Vincent's Indian Mission under the guidance of Mrs. La Bonte of Gibsons.

One hundred and ninety-seven delegates and visitors interested CWL discussed business of the past year with the delegates presenting a resume of important events in their respective subdivisions as well as new business including activities for the coming year, resolutions and elections of officers. Mrs. J. V. Carberry of Penticton, provincial president, along with other dignitaries were among those present.

One of the many resolutions adopted at the convention was as follows: a note of thanks be given to Father O'Grady and the hostesses of Sechelt and Gibsons for their wonderful co-operation and preparation for a successful convention.

The delegates all submit a vote of thanks and will remember the Sunshine Coast for many years as a very beautiful place.

Mrs. Wickett as convenor of her committee presented prizes at the banquet to St. Helen's, North Burnaby; Holy Cross, North Burnaby and St. Anns, Abbotsford, CWL parishes for the wonderful work of their scrapbook which highlighted their years activities.

A special vote of thanks from the Sechelt and Gibsons Women's League members go to: Mrs. E. Johnson and Mrs. W. Nygren as hostesses and to all members for a very successful convention also the Sunshine Coast caterers.

SOFTBALL

Realtors of Vancouver's Major Men's Softball League, swept a three game exhibition series with the Peninsula Hotel club of the North Shore Sr. B League last weekend at Port Mellon.

The outcome of the series is not too startling considering the Realtors have yet to be beaten in B.C.'s best softball league but the surprising part of it all, is the supreme efforts it took by the visitors to subdue the stubborn locals.

The great pitching performances of Ken Grunerud and Gordie Hartley almost single-handedly led Realtors to their victories. On Saturday evening, Grunerud allowed only two hits in a 5-0 triumph. In Sunday afternoon's nine inning opener, Hartley and Terry McLaren hooked up in a tremendous pitching duel. The Hotelmen almost pulled the biggest upset of the season in this game as they had several opportunities to score but Hartley was just unbeatable in the clutch. McLaren pitched well enough to win most games but Hartley had too much for the Peninsula batters. The final score was 3-1.

In the final game Hartley led Realtors in a 5-2 win. The big lefthander had to share the limelight in this one as Bruce Redman and Jim Hall tagged him for solid home runs, the first he has given up this season. Don Elson was the losing pitcher but stood up well against the strong Realtors.

It should be mentioned here that Hartley has pitched in several North American championships with New Westminster which is
