Third Pender Harbor fire takes life of woman

(BY PETER TRAPPITT)

For the third time within recent weeks, fire struck the Pender Harbour area, leaving tragedy in its wake with the death of Mrs. Belle Milvain who perished in the blaze which destroyed her home at Garden Bay in the early hours of Friday last week.

Horrified onlookers who were forced to stand by in agonized helplessness included the two daughters of the unfortunate victim.

Despite the fact Mrs. Milvain's cottage was located in a well settled community at the head of Garden Bay, the first person to notice the fire was Bill Peiper, of Irvine's Landing, about a mile and a half west of Garden Bay.

Mr. Peiper, Harbour merchant, had just completed work on his books at about 4.30 a.m. when he noticed a red glare some distance down the harbour. His first thought was that St. Mary's Hospital was ablaze. He immediately telephoned the duty nurse, Mrs. Albert Martin. Mrs. Martin checked the safety of the hospital, then noticing the location of the fire, rushed over to Garden Bay to give the alarm.

Meantime, Mr. Peiper had put in the alarm to the Forestry department at Madeira Park, after which he awakened his son, Billy. Together they loaded their portable pumping equipment into their car, and drove with all speed to the scene.

The fire-fighting crew of the forestry station were unloading for action by the time Mr. Peiper reached Garden Bay. Aroused neighbors were also on the scene, but by this time the cottage was a roaring inferno.

In an agony of realization of their mother's fate it was only with the greatest difficulty that the two daughters, Mrs. Gordon Lyons and Mrs. Fred Fletcher, were restrained from frantic attempts to enter the building in an attempt at rescue.

Drs. Swan and Stonier, who had hurried from their homes in the vicinity of the hospital, took the stricken women under their care.

Cause of the fire is unknown. News of Mrs. Milvain's death has shocked the whole harbour, and her many friends throughout the peninsula, where she was quite popular. Apart from her many interests in community welfare, Mrs. Milvain was a talented artist whose sea-scapes, forest scenes and floral studies brighten the walls of many a Harbour home.

$15,000 Fire in Gibsons

Fire caused damage estimated at $15,000 in Gibsons Tuesday afternoon. It broke out at about 1.45 in an old shed opposite the Bal Block and quickly spread to the large house owned by Alex Hague.

The shed was quickly destroyed but flames had spread to the Hague house. Gibsons Volunteer firemen were on the scene quickly and turned water on the raging inferno.

The house was occupied partially by Mr. and Mrs. Al Gibson of Coast Divers and Sporting Goods. The Gibsons have several children. They had been in the house for not more than 10 days and their possessions were destroyed. The Harold Fearn family had just moved into a section of the house Monday.

No estimate of individual loss or damage can be made at this time. It was just 11 months ago that the Bal Block opposite the scene of the present fire was totally destroyed with heavy loss.

Premises housing the Artiste Beauty Salon owned by Miss Romanchuck were seriously damaged by the fire but firemen managed to save the building by keeping it well hosed.

RCMP were on the scene quickly and kept crowds away from danger particularly where wires could have fallen.

Port Mellon team fourth

Members of Port Mellon first aid team, Captain C. Mahlman, G. Taylor, R. Wilson, L. Gregory, D. Weal and coach P. Madison, flew to Kamloops Friday, June 26.

They found stiff competition in five picked teams from various sections of the province. They, themselves represented th Lower Mainland. The team placed fourth amid sharp competition.

The meet is billed as the Joint Provincial Mine Rescue and First Aid Competition under auspices of the department of mines, Workmen's Compensation board, Order of St. Johns and the Central Mine Safety Association.

The problem was very tricky representing a machine shop explosion where a wall was blown out and injuries resulted. Additional hazards such as the presence of gas tanks, resulting fire and debris, an epileptic fit, an electrocution resulting from lightning striking an adjacent power pole, etc., were added to test the team's efficiency, quickness of thought and foresight. West Kootenay M.S.A. Warfield Engineering captured first place.

The day ended with a banquet attended by over 400 people, chiefly members of the competition teams.

The team returned by bus, arrivin in Port Mellon late Sunday night. Members of the team and their coach were congratulated on their showing in these first aid competitions and for the hard work and time demanded of them in preparation for these events.

Economics unlimited?

In view of the labor troubles experienced in British Columbia an editorial from the Sunday Times of London, England, June 7 issue, contains information while not new, is worth repeating. This editorial is based on a book by B.C. Roberts and published by the Institute of Economic Affairs. Its title is Trade Unions in a Free Society. The editorial reads as follows:

" 'The choice which lies before the unions,' writes Mr. B.C. Roberts in an authoritative new book, 'is either to accept the existence of private enterprise and a market economy as a desirable system . . . or to accept the implications of the ideology of Socialism, which could involve the abandonment of free bargaining, the right to strike . . .'

"It is not necessary, if the unions choose freedom, for them to identify themselves with the employers' interests; sometimes their interests are parallel, sometimes competitive. What the choice does imply is acknowledgement of the fact that unbridled pursuit of the immediate sectional interests either of individual unions or of wage-earners as a whole may defeat its own ends. Not only may wage-increases unjustified by productivity cause inflation, which injures everybody, or lead to unemployment: stoppages of work as a method of bargaining pressure reduce the economic product from which wages have to be paid, and may cause damage to other workers much greater that the benefit that the strikers hope for.

"A gross example of the latter process is now before our eyes in the shape of the dispute at Cammell Laird's shipyard. There, a six-week-old strike of 1,750 boilermakers has resulte in 2,500 men of other trades being laid off and may lead to the closing of the whole yard. The dispute is of the notorious demarcation kind — which craftsmen shall do a particular job. In effect it is a strike by one union against another. While unions behave in this primitive way they cannot be regarded as fit for the responsibility that falls on them in a free economy.

The printing dispute is a sample of another kind of shortcoming on the union side. A claim has been raised by the printing unions with the master printers and the Newspaper Society (representing provincial newspapers), for higher wages and shorter hours. This claim as rejected, on the ground that without higher productivity it was merely inflationary and damaging to the industry: a counter-offer was turned down by the unions. It is not necessary here to argue the merits of the dispute. The crucial point is that when such a deadlock is reached one of two broad courses must be taken. Either a settlement is reached by conciliation or arbitration, or there is a trial of physical strength The printing employers offered arbitration: the unions, by refusing it, seem to have chosen the path of war.

"The right to strike is vital to the unions. But here is a case where the threat of strike action has been consciously preferred to resort to peaceful method which could bring an impartial settlement. If circumstances justify higher wages or shorter hours in the printing industry, an arbitrator would so find. If they do not, a strike could only have the effect of reducing the industry's ability to pay; for some of its units are economically vulnerable, and there is constant pressure of competition from printers abroad and from new methods of reproduction. Meanwhile many other men and women will have been put out of work, the life of the country — which runs on printing — will have been dislocated, and the long-suffering public done a grave injury."

Singapore has famous Raffles hotel

(Mr. Sanderson, Vancouver newsman, has completed a two-month, 12,000-mile voyage to the Orient aboard the Orient and Pacific liners Himalaya and Chusan. This series concerns some of the ports he has visited.)

When people think of Singapore they think of Raffles. And well they might because Raffles is an hotel with a world-wide reputation for service, food and enjoyment.

Its spacious lobby, show windows, stores, gardens and open air lounge became the meeting place for hundreds of passengers from the Orient and Pacific Lines' vessels Himalaya and Chusan when the two liners met here on round-the-world cruises.

A survey indicates the European population of Singapore — which is both the name of the island as well as the city — is not too happy about Britain's decision to give the colony independence. Some feel there will be a violent reaction to the change. They say the People's Party, which is the popular political group, is pro-communist and could lead the island away from the Commonwealth.

Although only one and one-half miles north of the Equator in the tropical portion of Malaya, the lawns are green, gardens fresh-looking and flowers abound. The streets are clean and wide, dust is unknown and the homes, with the exception of portions of the downtown area, are spacious and clean.

Reason for the greenness is the fact the island receives about 95 inches of rain each year. But, unlike Vancouver, the rain comes in the form of thunder and lightning storms. It usually rains for an hour or so each afternoon, but the deluge is preceded and followed by sunshine.

The temperature seldom goes below 75 degrees. The majority of citizens are Chinese and representatives from 58 countries, including Canada, have offices in the city.

The colony of Hong Kong, next stop on this trip, is a mecca for thousands of globe-trotting tourists, busy people, unbelievable bargains and along with it all a world-renowned harbour.

Shopping in either Victoria City, on the island of Hong Kong, or at Kowloon is different than any other place. Bargains abound, prices the cheapest in the world, and duty non-existant.

The harbour itself is one of the world's most beautiful and the climate sub-tropical and free from extremes although there is some humidity which hits hard at Canadian and American visitors not used to it.

Persons visiting the Colony for the first time are amazed at the stores and the manner in which the shopkeepers display their wares. Tourists from the Chusan found they could be measured for a suit of clothes in the morning and have it delivered aboard the ship the same evening. Women and men alike found the cost was less than half the price of a suit in Canada or the United States.

Many Chinese or East Indian tailor shops are represented by clerks in the streets. These representatives approach the tourists and try to induce them into their stores. Once inside, many find it difficult to refuse to buy, because of the bargains. A number of stores have representatives on the dockside.

Watches and jewelry also are extremely cheap in comparison with prices in America and practically every shopper can bargain with the salesman to reduce the price even further than advertised.

Some of the best watches in the world — name brands seen all over America — can be purchased for as little as 25 Canadian dollars.

The money exchange problem isn't too great as Canadian dollars are approximately six times as valuable as Hong Kong dollars, with the result that an article priced at 120 Hong Kong dollars, sells for $20 Canadian. Meals and night club life in Hong Kong are also very reasonable.

Aklavik in Canada's Northwest Territories is the centre of one of the world's largest fur trade areas.

MANY HAPPY RETURNS OF THE DAY

What Canadian Settement Was Occupied By U.S. Marines?

Argentia in Newfoundland. This fishing settlement was occupied by a detachment of United States Marines on Jan. 25, 1941, to establish the first lend-lease base acquired from the British Government. Most of the 700 inhabitants at that time moved to Freshwater, a new town a few miles away. Argentia is situated on Placentia Bay on Newfoundlands south coast, about 82 miles from St. John's. The anchorage used by Prime Minister Winston Churchill and President Franklin D. Roosevelt for their Atlantic Charter meeting in August 1941 was near Argentia.

Who Provided A Canadian Refuge for Jefferson Davis?

Publisher John Lovell of Montreal. Not long after the American Civil War the former president of the Confederacy, Jefferson Davis, took refuge with his family in Lovell's Montreal home, situated on the present site of Morgan's department store. Lovell, who was born in Ireland, came to Canada with his parents at the age of ten in 1820 and set up his own printing shop in Montreal in 1835. He is best known as the publisher of the first Canadian school textbooks and of a series of directories. He imported the first steam printing press brought to Canada. Lovell died in Montreal in 1893.

Quarterly to be published

The first publication exclusively devoted to reviewing and criticising Canadian literature will be published at the University of British Columbia in September.

The quarterly journal, entitled "Canadian Literature: a quarterly of criticism and review," will be edited by George Woodcock, an assistant professor in the UBC English department.

The review's first task, Mr. Woodcock said, will be to keep readers informed of what is happening from year to year in the Canadian literary world.

Each issue will carry a full review section of current Canadian writing and the first issue each year will carry a complete bibliography of books written by a Canadian or about Canada.

Other articles will deal with reassessments of past writers and literary movements. Canadian novelists, poets and writers will be asked to state their views about writing and special attention will be given to French-Canadian literature.

English, French and American critics will also be asked to review Canadian books and discuss Canadian authors. Entire issues of the magazine will also be devoted to specific fields, Mr. Woodcock said. The first of these, to be published next spring, will deal with Canadian drama.

"We have no intention of promoting the kind of cultural nationalism which suggests that being Canadian is an initial virtue in a piece of writing," Mr. Woodcock said.

BIG SPORTS MEET FOR PNE

The Pacific National Exhibition will sponsor the greatest amateur sports meet in B.C. history at the Fair, August 22 to Sept. 7, PNE President Joseph F. Brown announces.

Hundreds of finalists in more than a dozen tournaments will compete at four different locations in Exhibition Park during the two-week run. In the weeks leading up to the fair, thousands of contestants will battle for finalists spots at elimination contests all over the province.

"Our prime motive is to develop and promote amateur sports in B.C." said M. L. Barr, chairman of the sports committee. "When we proposed the tournament to the Amateur Athletic Union it was accepted with unqualified enthusiasm."

MUSICAL VARIETY

Swing Easy, a new musical variety show starring Ruth Walker, the Rhythm Pals, Aran Millar and Billy Richards and his orchestra, will start Sat., July 4, at 7.30 p.m. PST on the CBC television network. The program replacing Saturday Date with Billy O'Connor, will place emphasis on quality music and include some tongue-in-cheek humor.

Roller racing

Something is catching fire at Rocket Roller Rink and it is roller skating racing. Already competitions are underway with two lap races for the younger folk and three or more lap races for the teenagers.

Harry Stutchberry, the guiding genius at the rink is trying to build up a competitive spirit with the idea later on of having a field day in which skaters compete in their age groups for prizes.

Now! An additional Scotia Plan Service!
SCOTIA PLAN
CHEQUE-CREDIT
The Bank of Nova Scotia's new system of "revolving" credit

Last year the BNS introduced SCOTIA PLAN LOANS. The response was so enthusiastic, the BNS now offers a second kind of Scotia Plan credit — also life-insured at no extra cost to you.

How Scotia Plan Cheque-Credit Works

1. Select a monthly payment that you can afford. You then apply for twelve times that amount.
2. When your application has been approved you receive a book of special cheques.
3. Use these cheques whenever you need funds—good anytime, anywhere in Canada.
4. Each month the BNS sends you a statement of cheques written, payments to be made, and the amount of credit still open.
5. Your monthly payment is one-twelfth of the amount of credit you have used, so far.
6. As you make a payment, the amount of the payment becomes available again for your use.

EXAMPLE:
Assume you are eligible for Cheque-Credit up to $600. You write a cheque for $100. Your monthly statement from the BNS will indicate one cheque used for $100, a payment due of $8.33 (1/12 of $100), a charge on the $100 of 50¢ per month, and credit remaining of $500.

Find out all about Scotia Plan Cheque-Credit at your nearest branch of the BNS, soon. Ask at the Scotia Plan Department.

Big Sports day held at Wilson Creek

Wilson Creek held a successful Sports' Day recently, thanks to the combined efforts of the Community Centre and the Parents' Group of Davis Bay School.

The day began with a costume parade led by May Queen Leila MacDonald and attendants Heather Lang and Avril Crucil. There was variety in the many entrants and the judges had a difficult task choosing the winners.

The president of the Community Centre, Mr. Dombroski, spoke words of welcome and May Pole dancing by pupils of Davis Bay school under the direction of Mrs. Seymour and Mrs. Hicks followed. Pre-school events were then held. Lunch was served by the men of the community. The lunch consisted of hot dogs, hamburgers, and home made pies.

After the school events the novelty events were held. There was an egg toss for teenagers, a father-son piggy back race, also a mother-daughter three-legged race. The muscle of the community came forth next for a men's tug of war, then for a ladies' one.

The highlight of the day was an open mile event. Rounding out the afternoon's activities was a Little League Baseball game between Wilson Creek and Sechelt at which the May Queen presented the shield and medallion for the pupil with the most points on sports day to Kenneth Johnson and the other prizes.

During the day and at the dance in the evening the Teen Ager's Club sold refreshments.

Wilson Creek thanks all who helped make the first annual sports day a success. The following is a list of winners in the various events.

Players in the order of their appearance on the first portion of the program were Tommy Jackson, Gail Braun, Laurel Postlethwaite, a pupil of Anne Lang, Gail Newton, Eloise DeLong, Bonnie Stewart, Ardis Crowston, Merilee Fahrni and Heather Lang, Linda Yates, Arlene Mason, Marilyn Macey, Arlene Johnsn, Carol Moorehouse and Patty Smith, Carol Enemark, a pupil of Mrs. Hague Jaye Lynn Braun and Leila MacDonald.

Betty ended the first section with a particularly expressive execution of Chopin's Waltz in C Sharp Minor and Scherzo in B Flat Minor.

Following a brief intermission, the program continued with selections by Phyllis Tyson, Pauline Liste, Ricky Marsh Merilee Fahrni, Heather Lang and Caralee Johnson.

Sharan Stewart and Anne Lang, both in their 10th grade under Mrs. Allen, displayed excellent co-ordination and expression in the dual rendition of Brahms' Hungarian Dance and Chopin's Polonaise.

Janet Kruse, Dianne McDonald, Patty Smith, Gail Greggain, Carol Moorhouse, Sharan Stewart and Anne Lang completed the second portion of the program with solos which showed care and feeling in their presentations. Retarded children are helped by volunteers

Wednesday evening, June 17, the Sechelt and District Association for Retarded Children held their last meeting of the season at Sechelt school. The Sechelt Kinsmen have shown an interest in the Association's endeavours. Once again three of their members were present at the meeting and for this they are thanked.

During the month of June, classes were held for the retarded children of School District No. 46 in the Anglican church hall at Sechelt on Thurs day and Friday each week. These classes were held to give some idea of how transportation would work and give pupils and teachers a chance to meet.

Thanks to the school board the children from the Roberts Creek and Gibsons areas are able to travel to Sechelt in empty high school buses driven by Mr. Yates and Mr. Garry. The Pender Harbour people have been forced to depend on private cars as there is a gap in the school bus service at that end. Perhaps when the Pender Harbour people read this they will discuss the matter with friends and find some people willing to drive the children down for the two or three school days each week next term.

Mrs. Hubert Evans of Roberts Creek kindly took on the task of teaching the class with the help of Mrs. Jean Klein of Pender Harbour. These two have in the six days they have been with the children, given them something to be happy about, something that is theirs alone. For most of them who have been denied the right to go to school, here at last is an opportunity to climb aboard the yellow school bus or come by car to attend a class with others where they are given things to do at their own level of ability.

The hope is that the association will become stronger through the assistance of the people of the Sunshine Coast and help provide this much needed special class for the six children of school age and those of pre-school age who will be needing the help. At present the association works on a slim budget — a small grant administered by the school board. Both Mrs. Evans and Mrs. Klein have given their services free this month so that there may be something on hand to buy much needed school supplies for the class next term.

The association welcomes anyone interested in the welfare of children at the meetings to add their moral support. These children can, with training, become useful and acceptable citizens within the community instead of social outcasts and a burden on the public.
