$60,000 Foodland now open

A $60,000 Foodland store will open Thursday in Gibsons. Ken Watson who opened his first Gibsons store about three years ago which expanded to double its size 18 months ago, will now greet his customers in a brand new store almost opposite his former store.

Mr. Watson has ventured into a new Foodland store with the idea of serving a growing community with a first class store in Gibsons village. It will be operated in up-to-date methods which coupled with an efficient staff will mean city prices will prevail.

Labor saving devices through out will make the new Ken's Foodland an efficient project starting with the entry of shipments in the rear warehouse which is on an upper level to allow unloading in the rear. From there packages pass by chute to the warehouse and when required in the store below will pass down another chute to floor level where distribution can be made with ease.

The meat section, with its long open face display cabinets will be serviced from a 100 cubic foot walk-in refrigerator along one side of the store. Continuing around the store there are triple deck frozen food sections, a dairy goods section and on the other side a vegetable section with a moistening device in one section and a dry section alongside. All equipment is the latest type.

The centre of the store is a pleasing alignment of gondolas from which customers can pick their purchases, taking them to a two cash register counter close by the door which enables quick handling.

The refrigerant section in the store cost $32,000 and is one of the most up-to-date installed in Gibsons. Lighting above is from 26 eight foot fluorescent lights which light up every inch of the tiled floor store stretching from wall to wall, enabling the customer to reach for canned and packaged goods with ease.

The building which cost about $20,000 completed is painted in light coloring to give the greatest possible light in every corner. There is parking space in front of the store which will make shopping easy. There will be two butchers on meats and the fast self-serving aided by store carts will speed up the housewife's operation of buying the food supplies for her family.

Marina wanted

Roberts Creek Community association meeting for September discussed improvements for highway, a need for a marina and a breakwater for the area. Letters will be sent to the various governmental departments to draw to the attention of necessary officials requirements of the district.

Books in the Mrs. Rooke cottage will be sorted and those of further use will be moved to the upper room in Centennial House for disposition of the Library committee. The treasurer's report showed a bank balance of more than $300. Next meeting will be held Oct 14 in the hall kitchen.

Cottages afire

Three summer cottages on Thormanby Island were destroyed last Friday in a fire which is believed to have started in an overheated stove. Crew members of a passing tug Strapy V, raised Sechelt RCMP by radio who notified people on the island at Halfmoon Bay and Secret Cove.

The cabins were owned by Vancouver people and about 20 others along the shore were saved after about a one hour fight.

READY BOYS, READY

Bingo for next Thursday, the $50 four corner prize is sure to go. It was very nearly won last Thursday.

Story hour

The Juvenile Department of Gibsons Public Library will reopen the story hour on Saturday, Oct. 3.

The staff will meet the children at the library every Saturday morning from 10 to 11:45 a.m.

Gibsons church service to be heard in Holland

A United Church Sunday service has been tape-recorded so it can be heard over the Dutch Christian Radio service of Radio Nederland.

This service was recorded recently in Gibsons United Church when Rev. David Donaldson, the minister and the choir arranged this special service which was picked up by microphone and taped in the vestry of the church.

It was arranged for Mr. and Mrs. M.C. Spoel who were holidaying in this area from Holland. They stayed with their daughter and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. H.J. Barendregt at Hopkins Landing from March 24 until Sept. 24 when the Spoels returned by boat to Holland.

Mr. Spoel has had an active life with most of his career being spent as a tropical agricultural engineer in the former Dutch East Indies now the Re-

Hall near completion

Following the summer stand-down, the September meeting of the Pender Harbour branch of the Legion drew an excellent turnout at the Legion Hall. President Tom Forrester, now residing at Sechelt, journeyed up coast to take the chair.

It was reported that wiring, ceiling, painting of the new recreation hall have been completed. Rockgas cooking facilities have been installed; a large blower-type heater purchased, and the building equipped with regulation entrance and exit doors. Arrangements are in hand for sanding and varnishing the floor and it is expected that the hall will be

An expert on oil palm (Elaeis-guin) Mr. Spoel was, just before he left the East Indies, manager of the large oil palm estate of Oud Wassenaar, a 10,000-acre operation in South Sumatra. At present he holds a position with the Dutch migration service in The Hague.

Mr. and Mrs. Spoel were impressed by all they saw in Canada, the wide open spaces, the seemingly endless forests and beauty of the country which reminded them considerably of their former home in Sumatra. They agree life here is not tense as it is in overpopulated Europe. They are taking the tape-recorded church service back home with them where it will be heard by friends and others.

The installing team included Installing Officer Winston Robinson, Senior Councillor Wilson Anderson, Junior Councillor Bert Sim, Chaplain Rev. D. Harris, and Marshall Cedric Trueman.

Mrs. Margaret Zelmer explained what a P.T.A. Council can accomplish and described the functions and benefits of a workshop. Having established such a workshop, Powell River has offered to travel here at their own expense to offer assistance in starting one.

As the P.T.A. conference is slated for Nov. 3, the meeting favored combining the conference and a workshop on that date.

GIBSONS SCOUTS

Talking books aid blind

The staggering amount of talking books which leave the C.N.I.B. library every day amounts to two tons.

Talking books were born 25 years ago and the first to reach the library were "Goodbye Mr Chips" in three records and "Lost Horizons" in twelve. So now a brand new service is available to deaf-blind Canadians.

Mrs. Albert McGuffin of Vancouver was appointed national consultant to blind Canadians who suffer the additional handicap of deafness. She has just completed a coast to coast tour meeting 150 before taking a tap apart. Even a little coverage of how not to blood blister your finger when hanging a picture frame.

The following are still being arranged for: Art, Typing, Housebuilding, Pender Harbour

A women's Keep Fit class instructed by Mrs. Lowe is planned.

For the men Mr. A. Tjorhom (pronounced Chorom) is interested in a Pro Rec group. For information or if any further suggestions please contact Mr. A. Tjorhom at Pender High School.

For information about courses or registering your name please contact B. Dombroski at Gibsons 49Y or Sechelt 72Y.

3rd doctor

Dr. Swan and Dr. Stonier, Garden Bay, announce that Dr. Eric Paetkau will be joining them in general practice. Dr. Paetkau is a graduate of the University of Saskatchewan, and for the past two years has been at Mercy Hospital, in San Diego California as interne and resident in surgery.

Council asks for easement

With tax levies being forced upwards to cover inflated costs Gibsons village council seeks relief from charges levied under the Tuberculosis institutions act.

Under this act village councils, whose tax levy exceeds $12,500, are liable for a portion of the cost of tubercular patients. The village council argues the $12,500 levy, set back in 1939, should be raised to $25,000 to keep things in line. In past years, up to 60 percent of the tax levy was absorbed by tubercular costs before the $12,500 limit was set.

The assistance of Sechelt and Squamish councils will be sought along with the help of Tony Gargrave, MLA for this constituency.

Accounts passed covered expenditure of $5,179.70 and the largest amount was for $4,899.53 for the gravity water main work which was done during summer months. Remainder of the accounts totalled $280.17 for miscellaneous small accounts.

Imperial Builders Ltd. of Vancouver obtained a building permit covering $28,000 construction work on the new RCMP headquarters.

A grant of $300 was approved for Gibsons Public Library. This is an annual grant and will be used this year as part of the building fund.

Vandals busy

Seventeen members of the Roberts Creek Badminton club attended the first session on Sept. 22 at Roberts Creek Community Hall. Albert Lynn of Roberts Creek was elected president and Mrs. Ethel Walker of Sechelt, secretary.

Although many games were enjoyed, the players spent some time picking up glass from broken windows due to vandalism. It is hoped that former members will be back in full force for next Tuesday and that there will be new ones as well. Novices will be taught and experts will be given a run for their money — which by the way is nominal.

TEACHERS' MEETING

The Sechelt District Teachers Association held a meeting at the Sechelt Elementary School on Sep. 22, with Mr. Cooper, president, in the chair. After the business meeting refreshments were served as teachers browsed through the book display from J.M. Dent and Sons.

Hospital group has big job

Highlight of the last meeting of the St. Mary's Hospital Study Group was the discussion of the map of the area and the graphs showing the growth of Sechelt Peninsula.

The map and graphs have been prepared in conjunction with the plan to improve hospital facilities on the Peninsula.

The study group which was formed in April and made up of members from Pender Harbour to Port Mellon, is preparing a brief to present to the provincial government. The brief will show the pressing need for improved hospital facilities on the Sechelt Peninsula and will be the first step in the formation of a Hospital Improvement District, the extent roughly approximating that of the Sechelt School District No. 46.

The map, which shows the communities and areas under consideration from Pender Harbour to Port Mellon, will be used to illustrate population density in various parts of the peninsula. Many graphs illustrate the rapid growth of the Sechelt Peninsula in the last 10 years. The graph of telephone installations shows that ten times the number of telephones are now installed as were installed in 1948. Building permits issued this year for a total value in excess of $1,000,000 will be approximately five times greater than in 1956; school population has more than doubled in the last 10 years, while the same holds true for area population.

In addition to the graphs and charts a preliminary copy of the brief to be presented is now being studied by the committee members. At the next meeting, the final draft will be prepared and the form of the presentation will be decided.

The Study group were originally chosen to obtain a good distribution of members from all parts of the peninsula. However, due to other commitments, several Gibsons members have been unable to continue attending. The committee is publicizing the need for one or two more representatives from Gibsons. Anyone interested can contact the local representative, Dr. H. Inglis.

W. M. Granger

Funeral services were held Wed., Sept. 23 at Bethel Baptist Church, Sechelt, for W.M. Granger, son of James Granger, West Sechelt.

The funeral was held under the auspices of Canadian Legion Branch 140, with guard of honor formed by Mr. H. Hill and Mr. D. Walker. Pallbearers were Colonel R. Quigley, Major Browning, C. Brookman, J. Yipp and O. Geer. The service was conducted by Rev. E. Jessop, with Mrs. Jessop serving as organist.

Born in Victoria in 1910, Mr. Granger served on many ships and travelled extensively as radio telegrapher for the British Marconi Co. When war broke out he continued in the service of the Merchant Navy, until torpedoed by the German warship Scharnhorst. He then spent three years in the prisoner of war camp Marlag and Milag Nor.

On his return to Canada he taught for a short time at Sprott Shaw School in Vancouver, then joined the department of transport as radar technician on weather ships ploughing the west coast. While on special assignment for the department of transport in Oklahoma City, illness forced an end to his career.

Pre-deceased by his mother in April, 1958, he leaves his father J. Granger, West Sechelt, a brother A.K. Granger, Edmonton and his aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. H. Wood, West Sechelt.

Too many orphans

The following editorial appeared in the Coast News Oct. 17, 1957 and is repeated at the request of members of two PTA groups with the hope the hint might reach the right places.

There are a great many children in this community who are just plain orphans. They are orphans because no one knows about their parents.

Some parents and most teachers know the "parentless" youngsters must have someone looking after them because they attend school well fed and clothed.

However when it comes to taking in an important meeting like that of the Parent-Teachers Association, the larger number of children most decidedly appear to be orphans because their parents just do not exist at that time.

Speakers laud our democratic institutions and we say "Amen" to their words of praise about the way in which the institutions operate but when it comes to making them operate — George or George's wife can do it.

Now George and George's wife can do only so much and when the load becomes too heavy, they just drop out of the picture completely and leave it to some other George and his wife.

There are various organizations along the Sunshine Coast functioning on a democratic basis with a small core of workers battling their brains out trying to keep the democratic institution operating in a democratic manner. Surely it is not asking too much that this core of workers should get better support. As far as the PTA is concerned parents should stand up and be counted so their children will not be regarded as "orphans." It could help the children become better citizens.

The trouble with a chronic borrower is that he always keeps everything but his word.

Five men with problems

News that RCMP patrol cars are now equipped with two-way radio communication should be important to Sunshine Coast residents, many of whom have been too prone to impute laxity in police labors.

There are five RCMP who make up the total police force for the Sunshine Coast area, from beyond Port Mellon to Jervis Inlet and including all adjacent islands. Mileage on the main land area is approximately 60 miles to which one must add the miles to Bowen, Keats, Gambier and part of Anvil Island, Thormanby and other islands, too and this does not consider police work that can and does arise in the interior.

Five men, who have a considerable amount of office work to do, must make out reports on happenings. A large number of them do not make general news but they must be recorded just the same. Two men cover the area from Roberts Creek to Port Mellon and adjacent areas. A trip to Bowen Gambier or Anvil Islands takes the better part of a day. This leaves one man who has to be everything and everywhere while operating alone. In Sechelt there are three men with a rambling area and islands included. Scatter a couple of them along the route and you still have a police problem — especially when someone wants a constable immediately.

Members of the RCMP in this area have no sinecure. Follow them around for one day and part of a night and see. A certain element of the population gives considerable trouble and has to be watched closely. This close watching has to be taken in stride with the common complaints and the tracing down of clues when some misdemeanor has occurred. The Gilbert and Sullivan song from the Pirates of Penzance about a Policeman's Lot is Not a 'appy One or a Nappy one if you prefer contains more truth than poetry.

However some day officials in the right place will more than likely arrive at the right decision and do the right thing by the RCMP in this area and realize that the Sunshine Coast which was at one time just a summer resort is now a suburb of Vancouver with police problems on the increase.

Those things that come to the man who waits seldom turn out to be the things he's waiting for.

An obvious difference

The visit of the Russian Premier Krushchev as far as the average person is concerned contains one unusual feature. There did appear to be an obvious difference in the manner used by the Russian premier, when one compares his demeanor with that of his underlings under similar circumstances.

Remember when Mikoyan, the deputy premier visited the United States. His was a deliberate poker face. Gromyko also in any of his TV appearances in and out of United Nations orbit has the same poker face. Their answers to questions were the same strict party line answers and nothing more, with emphasis on the nothing more.

Krushchev made himself acceptable by indulging in humorous banter when the occasion arose. He was quick with the quip and rarely made a mistake.

Perhaps a careful analysis of his quips and other humorous asides might contain clues as to the deliberate policy of the Russian government. His outright attempts at propaganda, obvious as they were, contain nothing not already known.

When one considers Mr. Krushchev vs Mikoyan and the lesser officials of the Russian government, as far as we know them outside their native land, there appears to be a wide gap in the liberties a lesser official has when speaking for general consumption compared to the liberties Mr. Krushchev displayed.

Krushchev is a smart man. His ready speech, alert mind and ability to directly sum up a question thrown at him places him high in the world of repartee. Whether his generosity in speech also embraces high government policy remains to be seen. It would appear that a waiting spell is necessary before one can evaluate the visit of Krushchev to the United States in its proper perspective. Maybe he plans to adopt the "if you can't beat them, join them" policy from now on.

Writers find today's immigrants urbanite

ARTICLE 3

From "Citizen," Department of Immigration publication.

The urban environment has become more predominant in Canadian novels in recent years and this is reflected in the literature about immigrants. Toronto, Montreal and Winnipeg, for example, form the setting of three outstanding novels by young Jewish writers.

In The Rich Man, Henry Kreisel tells a poignant story of a Jewish immigrant, Jacob Grossman, who, having worked hard for 33 years as a presser in a Toronto clothes factory finally has enough money saved to take a trip back home. He goes to Vienna to see his elderly mother and three married sisters. It is 1935 when unemployment and the Nazi threat cast a shadow over everything. To his family, Jacob seems a rich man, and they cannot understand why he is unable to help his sister whose husband dies leaving her saddled with debt.

Most of the novel takes place in Vienna but the Toronto scenes provide a striking contrast between the new world and the old especially in regard to filial attitudes.

The author, Henry Kreisel, came to Canada from Vienna in 1939. He is now on the staff of the English Department at the University of Alberta.

Mordecai Richler's Son of a Smaller Hero deals with conflict between first and second generation Jews in Canada. The hero is Noah Alder, the place Montreal, and the time the early 1950's. Noah tries to break away from the orthodox Jewish traditions in which he has been reared. He makes friends with non-Jewish people and eventually, like the author himself, goes to Europe in search of independence and a new life. Nevertheless there remains a strong bond between Noah and his grandfather, Melech Adler who had emigrated years previously from the Jewish ghetto in Poland.

The novel describes also how, in this period a new immigrant group arrives — the "greeners" as they are called — and they in their turn are resented by the established Jews of Montreal.

The Sacrifice by Adele Wiseman of Winnipeg is similar in theme to the Richler book. The central character in The Sacrifice, however, is an old man, Abraham, who, with his wife Sarah and son Isaac, fled from the Ukraine after a pogrom in which two sons, Moses and Jacob, were hanged. They came to Canada (presumably Winnipeg) some years before the Second World War. Sarah never really adjusts to the new world

Abraham is a butcher and his whole life is centred in his family and especially in the one son left to him. When Isaac marries, the difference in viewpoint between the old and the young, the orthodox and the unorthodox, becomes apparent. This is accentuated after Sarah and Isaac both die leaving Abraham alone with his daughter-in-law Ruth and his little grandson Moses. As the novel ends, one feels that Moses will probably bring the honor and glory to the family that Abraham longed for, but Abraham will not be there, unfortunately, to enjoy his triumph.

How to become accepted by Canadians is a problem that confronts many newcomers and it is a recurring theme in many of the novels about immigrants. It is the motivating factor in the life of Sandor Hunyadi the hero of a fairly recent novel by John Marlyn entitled Under the Ribs of Death.

Sandor is a Hungarian lad whose parents emigrated to Canada early in this century and settled in Winnipeg. As a boy, Sandor belonged to a gang of "foreign" boys whose "enemies" were a gang of English boys. Sandor was ashamed of his parents who were always poor, who spoke Hungarian or German at home, and who kept roomers.

Sandor's ambition was to be a success and to be accepted by the English. He considered it a sign of progress when his parents started to use tinned foods and "store" bread. As soon as he could he got a job and changed his name to Alex Hunter, Alexander being the Anglicized form of Sandor.

In the 1920's Alex became a successful real estate and insurance agent. He married, acquired an English friend, and bought a house in the better part of the north end (the foreign section). He hoped soon to move to the more prosperous south end of the city. But then came the crash of 1929. In the last chapter, Alex and his wife are living in rooms in the north end; they are on relief, and, bitterest blow of all, Alex's parents are coming to their aid.

The author of this book, John Marlyn, was of Hungarian birth. He came to Canada as a baby in 1912, and grew up in Winnipeg. He is now abroad doing research for another novel.

Home is the Stranger by the Irish-born author, Edward McCourt, is also concerned with the problem of acceptance, though in a very different way from the Marlyn book. It is the story of an Irish war-bride who came to a Saskatchewan farm with her Canadian husband, Jim Armstrong, after World War II.

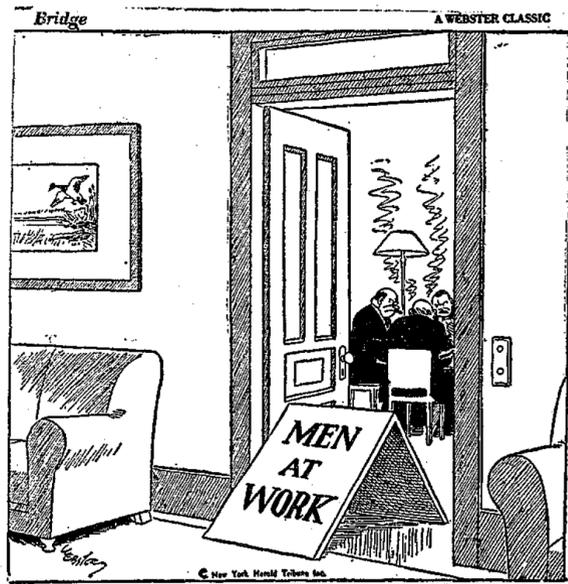

The main interest in this book is the impact of the prairie on the young, sensitive, Irish girl, who had grown up in urban surroundings and amidst the beauty of green Irish hills. Norah did not feel at home with her Canadian neighbors. "Here in this wide lonely land where men lived far apart and saw one another seldom her every act, every word, were being watched and listened to. Here women knew more, suspected more, than people living in the city knew or suspected of their fellows in the same apartment block."

The novel shows how, through bitter experience, Norah finally became reconciled to her prairie home knowing that her husband "loved the vast grey sweep of prairie better than anywhere else on the earth."

The three English ladies, on the other hand, who came to Vancouver around 1895 in Ethel Wilson's novel The Innocent Traveller, never had any trouble "becoming Canadian". Miss Topaz Edgeworth "the innocent traveller" of the book, her widowed sister Annie and her niece Rachel, liked Canada from the very first. "It's my kind of country," said Rachel, "and I never want to go back home again. There's something — well, I feel Canadian, just as if I'd been born here." And the ladies stayed, and Mrs. Hastings' sons (who had preceded them) married Canadian girls and established Canadian families.

This story, by the way, has a foundation in fact, and is said to be based partly on Mrs. Wilson's own family history. Mrs. Wilson was born in South Africa but attended school in England.

Finally, The Grandmothers by Kathleen Coburn, depicts a family background similar to that of many Canadian couples to-day. In this novel Ruth, of Irish-Canadian descent, is married to Jenda of Czechoslovakian origin. Two parallel stories are told, that of Ruth's Canadian born "Gran" and Jenda's Czech "Babicka." The two grandmothers never met but their influence is forever fused through the marriage of their two grandchildren. And thus was founded a typical Canadian family.

School of hard knocks

By Archer Wallace

When someone asked Thomas Carlyle from what university he had graduated, he replied: "The university of hard knocks." It is reasonably certain that many of the world's greatest benefactors have spent a lot of time in the same school. They owed their purpose and resolution to the obstacles they met and overcame. I once heard a millionaire tell a group of friends about his experiences as a newsboy. He said: "I had a tough time and was often discouraged but I know now it was good for me. I learned to meet the public and when rebuffs and insults came I took it on the chin and kept on going."

Many a man with such an experience decides to protect his own children from such hardship and surrounds them with luxuries he never knew as a lad. He has them driving expensive cars while still in their teens. What happens? In most cases they pathetically lack the strong qualities of their father. As one writer puts it: "They recline in slippers and are smothered by their father's success."

One of the best stories we know is told by Dr. Frank Boreham in his book: Rubble and Roseleaves. On the east coast of England near the Dogger Banks there are many little fishing villages where, for many generations, hardy fishermen reap the harvest of the sea and send it on to London and other cities.

There is no scarcity of fish in the near-by waters but the fisherman's troubles began after the fish were caught. The fish, when on their way to London, were kept in large tanks with perforated sides so that the water from the sea could flow in and out and thus the fish were kept fresh. There was, however, this drawback; once securely in the tank which was lowered into the sea, the fish ceased to swim around and simply lay limp and listless. When delivered at Billingsgate, London's famous fish market, they did not appear as appetizing or fresh as when they had been first caught, although they were still alive. All the fishermen had the same trouble — all but one.

There was one fisherman who managed to get his fish to market in excellent condition. He landed them there to the delighted merchants, healthy, lively and firm as when they were first caught. Naturally the dealers were all anxious to buy from this man and to pay him the highest price. Other fishermen marvelled at his success and vainly guessed at the secret of it. That went on for several years and all their guessing was in vain.

Just before his death the old fisherman instructed his daughter to pass on the secret to the other men. She told them that her father used to drop a catfish into the perforated tank. This kept the other fish in a state of excitement; a perfect ferment of agitation and alarm. They never got a chance to lie there and become limp and listless as did the fish in the other tanks. The catfish wouldn't allow them to be lazy; it was constantly on the go and kept them on the go.

There is something worth remembering in that story. There are few people, perhaps, none at all, who do not have something in their lives which "There is always a fly in the irritates and annoys. We say, ointment," yet these things are often beneficial in the long run. We once heard a great teacher say: "Every boy ought to be compelled to study at least one subject which he heartily dislikes."

Many would sharply disagree with that man but we feel sure he was right.

Having to meet difficult and sometimes unpleasant experiences gives us backbone and purpose and resolution.

ENCYCLOPEDIA CANADIANA

What was the west's first newspaper?

The Nor'Wester, the first newspaper in the Canadian Northwest, was established in Winnipeg in 1859 by William Coldwell and William Buckingham. It was published fortnightly and reflected the views of the small but vociferous Canadian party in the settlement.

It attacked the charter of the Hudson's Bay Company, aroused doubts of the validity of the land titles of the old settlers and, preached immediate annexation by Canada. The fears thus aroused provided the foundation for the Rebellion of 1869-70.

Both Coldwell and Buckingham were born in England, the former coming to Canada in 1852 and joining the staff of the Toronto Leader, the latter arriving in 1857 and joining the staff of the Toronto Globe. In 1859 they conveyed a press, type, ink and paper to the Red River by ox-cart to set up their new paper. Buckingham later returned to Upper Canada and became owner of the Norfolk Reformer then of the Stratford Beacon, before serving as private secretary to Prime Minister Alexander Mackenzie from 1873 to 1878.

Is acclamation a Canadian word?

Certainly the word itself is not of Canadian origin. But its use in the phrase "elected by acclamation," meaning elected without a vote because there is no opposing candidate, would seem to be peculiar to Canada. At any rate, this meaning of acclamation is not given in any authoritative English or American dictionary.

When was Canada's first census?

Almost three hundred years ago — in 1686. In that year the great Intendant Talon directed the taking of a census that probably antedates any other national census in the world in the modern sense of the term. Talon himself acted as one of the enumerators.

The 1686 census ascertained the number of inhabitants in New France, their sex, age, marital condition and occupations. The count was 3215 persons. A complete census of the Dominion is taken every ten years — the next one will be in 1961 — and a partial one is taken midway between the regular decennial ones.

What is actinolite?

Actinolite is a mineral, a silicate of calcium, magnesium and iron. The fibrous variety is often mistaken for true asbestos. Deposits of this mineral have been noted in Quebec, Ontario, British Columbia and the Yukon, but the only deposits ever worked in Canada were those near the village of Actinolite in Hastings County, Ontario. They were mined intermittently from 1883 to 1927. The mineral was ground, mixed with coal tar and used for roofing purposes.

Sewing machine tips

With sewing projects galore on the fall agenda, many women may be buying new sewing machines or having old faithfuls reconditioned. Either way, one should resolve to keep our machines in top condition by following local sewing center ex-pers' advice on machine care.

Always keep your sewing machine covered between sewing sessions, to protect it from dust. Keep attachments in a box. When the machine is not in use, it is advisable to let the presser foot down on a scrap of cloth, to help the tension stay at proper adjustment, and to take up any excess oil. When storing machine for several months, first remove dust, lint, then oil to prevent rust damages from moisture-holding lint.

Proper cleaning is important to a sewing machine. The bobbin case is a favorite lodging place for dust and lint. A special lint brush may be obtained at local sewing centers to keep the machine free of lint. Remove bobbin and bobbin case, and clear away all foreign matter.

Also brush between the tension discs, and under the head of the machine. A good feature of several of the most popular sewing machines is the removable cover on the under side of the machine. This cover helps keep the moving parts clean, and free of dust.

After all lint has been removed, refer to the instruction booklet which comes with your machine for points to oil. Place a tiny drop of oil in all oil holes and wherever there is movement of parts. You will find oiling points in such places as the bobbin winder, near the bobbin case, on the head of the machine, inside the face plate where the needle mechanism is located, and underneath the machine.

Automatic machines will also need occasional oiling around the mechanisms that operate the zigzag movement of the needle. On an automatic machine with a stitch chart, oiling is recommended in area underneath the stitch chart.

Apply only one drop of oil in each of the holes and don't oil too heavily. Too much is wasteful, and will collect dust.

Some portions of the machine, such as the gears, require lubrication rather than oiling. Follow directions in your instruction book.

If, through use of improper oil your sewing machine mechanism becomes gummy, apply a drop of kerosene at all working parts. Using a soft piece of material, sew rapidly, wiping up excess kerosene with a lint-free cloth. After the kerosene has softened the oil and every part has been wiped dry, then oil all parts.

CUTTING TREES?

DON'T CUT YOUR POWER!

Each year when the weather is right for land clearing, a lot of people are inconvenienced by interruptions to their electric service because power lines have trees dropped across them, or they are broken by blasting operations. If you are going to clear land, blast or fall trees near our power lines, please tell us about it in advance. By helping us take precautions you might save your neighbors inconvenience, and yourself embarrassment and possible expense.

School of whales sighted from helicopter in Arctic

(By Dr. ROY SMITHURST)
Sechelt Dentist

We have tied up at Churchill (July 24) taking on fuel, cargo and a change of some personnel and passengers.

Several members of a visiting party made generous offers regarding community support if a dentist would locate in the areas which they represented. Much as I love this northland and the Eskimos I fear that I prefer the "Sunshine Coast" as a permanent residence.

Churchill, the town, is anything but attractive. You who live on the Sunshine Coast with its trees can have no idea of the barrenness of this land. There are growths of stunted trees about four feet high, so don't grumble too much about the rain.

Yesterday I was taken by helicopter to consult on certain patients with army dentists. While over Hudson Bay we saw a large school of whales. The water was so clear we could see the enormous animals as they surfaced, blew fountains of water and dived again.

An interesting passenger on the C. D. Howe was Dr. O. Shensky of the National Museum in Ottawa. An anthropologist, he is doing research among the Eskimos. In conversation I was able to give him some information regarding their teeth formation. He became quite interested and I find I am now collaborating with him in quite an investigation of certain characteristics of the dentation which varies from white people.

Two or three days later I was drafted into the archeological group on the C. D. Howe. While working at Coral Harbor, Southampton Island they had found an ancient Eskimo village. Among their findings were some jawbones so I was flown by helicopter to pass an opinion on teeth.

The findings were definitely of food animals. I could identify walrus, bear and some kind of deer, probably caribou but one skull was completely strange to me. On our second day's work there revealed the effects of soft, prepared foods. The wealthier families able to live on the white man's ready-mix had almost all the decayed teeth. In a population of just under 200, there were 30 extractions, 26 fillings, and 10 cavities unfilled due to shortage of time. Fourteen fillings and four left unfilled were among three people, who could afford white man's food.

Our next point of call was to have been Nottingham Island early on July 29 but when we arrived 60 mph winds and rough seas made it impossible to get people aboard by boat or helicopter. The waves came over the aft rail and the medical area was awash two inches deep for a while. The Howe took shelter and as I write 12 hours later we are still hove to in the lee of a small island.

It was about four o'clock on the following morning before we got in when the weather let up. There were only two families to check so we were finished before breakfast then all went to bed as we were faced with a busy session at Cape Dorset.

This was the third time we visited Cape Dorset on this trip so we could clear up the work there but even in this attempt the weather was against us and we were forced to sail leaving about 20 untreated Eskimo. I was personally sorry but when I saw the last boat return and the difficulties of getting the passengers aboard it was apparent we could not be of service to them.

We all remembered the fate of the Nascopie, the ship which the C. D. Howe replaced after it was wrecked on a reef just about 300 feet astern of us.

We next move on to Lake Harbor, Baffin Island but more about that in the next issue.

While farms are becoming fewer in Canada they are increasing in size, the average in 1956 being 302.5 acres against 279.3 in 1951.

MODERN METERED SERVICE

How about a succulent turkey?

Succulent, plump-breasted roasted to a turn B.C. turkey is unsurpassed in downright good flavor and attractiveness. Just think of the numerous occasions that turkey, now available, can help you solve the "what to serve" problem.

Serve turkey hot or cold, with or without stuffing. Slice it into chunky tender slices for cold plate meals or cut up the succulent meat chunk size for mighty good salads, or make-ahead casseroles.

TURKEY TIPS

Ready-to-cook: This bird is drawn and cleaned, ready to cook.

Dressed: This bird is not drawn and the head and feet are still attached. Get your butcher to draw and remove head and feet and the tough leg tendons.

Check time-tables: Some time tables are for "dressed weight" others for "ready-to-cook." Subtract 20 percent or one-fifth of the dressed weight to get the ready-to-cook weight.

Cooking Time-Table: For "dressed" turkey 8 to 10 lbs.: 325 deg. F., 3 to 3½ hours; 10 to 14 lbs.: 325 deg. F., 3½ to 4 hours; 14 to 18 lbs.: 300 deg. F., 4 to 4½ hours; 18 to 20 lbs.: 300 deg. F., for 4½ to 6 hours; over 20 lbs.: 300 deg. F., for 6 to 7 hours.

If bird is straight from refrigerator add 5 minutes per pound to baking time.

If bird is not stuffed it will take 5 minutes less per pound to roast.

If bird is particularly broad breasted add 40 to 60 minutes to total roasting time.

Allow 45 to 50 minutes for the bird to stand after removing from the oven so that juices will set and the bird will be easier to carve. This gives you time to make the gravy and garnish the turkey.

To stuff or not to stuff: Turkey can be served roasted without stuffing. The stuffing can be baked in a separate casserole or try this new trick. Shape stuffing into ball-forms, place on a greased cookie sheet, then bake 400 deg. F., until crispy and brown. The stuffing will bake while the turkey sets.

Safety Notes for Stuffing: Bread stuffing is responsible for many stomach upsets and should be treated carefully. Make stuffing just before placing into the cavity or just before baking the stuffing. If the turkey is to be served cold, the stuffing must be removed and refrigerated separately. For cold turkey both turkey and stuffing should be popped out of the oven and into the refrigerator, no sitting around at room temperature to cool, please. When the stuffed turkey is served hot remove bird to refrigerator as soon as removed from the table. Remove the stuffing and refrigerate in a covered dish. Use stuffing up within 24 hours; the roasted bird within 4 to 5 days.

To Sharp-Freeze Left-overs: Arrange to freezer-wrap and sharp-freeze left-over meat as soon as possible after cutting it from the bird. Or make casseroles, bake them and then chill, wrap and sharp-freeze.

Operation Starshooter launched by Legion

The Canadian Legion has launched its "Operation Star-Shooter" to improve the physical fitness of boys and girls from eight to 18. The announcement was made by the Legion's Dominion executive council.

Physical efficiency tests will be given to measure the fitness of individuals. A choice of three sets of exercises are offered to improve the fitness level. These are the daily run, progressive power and 5 BX (Basic Exercises). All exercises have been approved by the department of national health and welfare.

The sports skills tests are intended to introduce more youngsters into participant sports such as track and field. Certain basic requirements in running and jumping must be met before the subject can pass this phase of "Operation Star-Shooter."

The program is an outgrowth of the Legion's annual track and field clinic in Toronto, a one-week clinic in conjunction with the Canadian National Exhibition. Each year some 150 athletes from all provinces are brought to Toronto to receive training from the world's top coaches.

Experience at the clinic has shown that many athletes too often receive neither leadership nor encouragement when they return to their home towns.

Key to "Operation Star-Shooter" is the development of the heart and lungs. This is where stamina begins, and it can be accomplished through running. Tests conducted in one province suggest that there is a considerable job of stamina building to be done. Sixty-four percent of those tested in one experiment failed to measure up to a satisfactory fitness level. Although, this does not suggest that the national level of unfitness is this high, it does present cause for concern. Part of the value of "Operation Star-Shooter" is in that it will eventually provide a significant national picture of the state of physical fitness among our youth. The program has already been endorsed by many authorities.

Here's new gem-bright beauty, room to sprawl in and sit tall in. New lean-muscle engine economy, new space and silence in the going. For fineness of features, for precise craftsmanship — for all the things that make a car good to own — the '60 Chevrolet stands alone in its price field.

If ever a car stood out from the rest of the crop, it's this '60 Chevy. From its clean-thrusting grille to its dapper rear deck, its styling is as fresh as a new-minted coin. You'll be just as wide-eyed over what's inside — the relaxing roominess, tasteful trim, hushed elegance, all comfortably cradled by Full Coil springs at all four wheels. And yet, you'll find new economy of operation, new dependability, new longer life. Here, truly, is the nearest to perfection a low-priced car ever came. Take to the road in the sparkling new sixty Chevrolet.

Cabinet men
 breakfast guests

B.C. School Trustees Association expects to have members of the provincial cabinet as breakfast guests on Oct. 20 as one of the highlights of the 55th annual convention of the association, Oct. 19 to 21 at the Empress Hotel, Victoria.

Theme of the breakfast meeting will be "Education: Your Job and Mine." The cabinet will appear as the lesser known "Council of Public Instruction" the governmental authority so far as the education system of B.C. is concerned. This year's convention will be opened by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross. Keynote address will be delivered on the opening day by Senator Donald Cameron of Banff and Ottawa who will speak on "Education and Government." Senator Cameron has just completed an exhaustive study of the Alberta educational system as chairman of that province's Royal Commission on Education. His report is now before the Alberta government.

Banquet speaker on the final night will be Dr. Hugh Keenleyside, internationally known Canadian who left the post of UN under secretary for public administration to become chairman of the B.C. Power Commission and adviser to the B.C. government on resource development policies.

Education Minister Peterson will speak on the second day.

Answers: Accordion, Marc Wald; Double bass, Mike Ferby; Guitar, Jack Jensen.

Cochrane, Vancouver; paper dispenser, Miss Shirley Reid, on leave from the Air Force. The floor prize, a tablecloth, was won by Mrs. Don Cameron. Raffle draws were made by Bonnie Lee.

The following ladies were in charge of the various stalls: Mrs. C. Reid, fruit, flowers and vegetables; Mrs. C. Wray, home cooking; Mrs. Don Cameron, sewing and fancy work; Mrs. Hatt-Cook, mystery parcels; Mrs. Jean Rousseau, fishpond; Mrs. Stacey was in charge of the tea, while Mrs. Wilma Thompson was responsible for organizing the raffles.
