Mermaid Queen ballots pouring in for July 1

Gibsons and area is all set for its annual July celebration with a big parade followed by sports events at Kinsmen Park and an open air dance in the evening on the Super-Valu parking lot.

The committee in charge of the event held its final organization meeting Tuesday night in Legion Hall to iron out last minute details.

Friday's parade will be led by at least two Canadian Legion color parties, one from Roberts Creek, headed by Don Andow and behind the color parties will come Elphinstone High school band with a drill team.

This will be the first major Gibsons event in which the new Elphinstone band has appeared and under Bandmaster Moss it will do its part assisted by the drill team.

Another band which will take part in the parade will be the Sechelt Accordion band which will play march tunes on the way to Kinsmen Park.

Arriving at Kinsmen Park the parade will break up with the color parties, band and drill team, queen candidates and float winners entering the grounds for further ceremonies. The band will supply music for opening ceremonies and during the ceremony of the crowning of the new queen.

Opening ceremonies will be performed by Alfred E. Ritchey, chairman of Gibsons village council and the master of ceremonies will be Joe O'Brien of Port Mellon who will have charge of events once platform ceremonies start at Kinsmen Park.

Last year's queen, Sylvia Wilson, will be on hand to pass her command over to the new queen. Who this queen will be no one will know until an envelope is opened containing the name of the new queen.

This year there will be a ceremony with the band and color parties taking part in a slow march on entering Kinsmen Park. Following them will come the Mermaid Queen candidates who will assemble to approach the platform accompanied by music of the band. The committee this year has tried to add all the ceremony it can to help add to the impressiveness of the queen's crowning.

Later during proceedings the drill team will give an example of the training it has been undergoing with some marching and counter-marching.

There are six candidates entered in the Mermaid Queen contest and they are: Kathy Holland representing Gibsons area Volunteer Fire Services; Elaine Emerson, Kinsmen; Jean Mason, Legion; Joyce Inglis, Kiwanis; Patricia Wilson. I.O.O.F.; and Janet Swanson, Port Mellon Firemen.

Who will emerge the winner? No one will know until about 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon when the envelope containing the name will be opened.

Ray Kehoe and Rev. Denis Harris will be scrutineers of the ballots for election of a new queen and they will total the votes and see which one has the most then write down that name on paper and place it in a sealed envelope to be opened only on the stand in

Summer school opens in Gibsons

A summer school for elementary school children below grade six has been organized by Mrs Doris B. Thompson in Gibsons with the blessing of Sechelt District School board. This was announced during the board meeting Monday night in the School Board office.

The board is not sponsoring this venture. The summer school is Mrs. Thompson's idea and the board has decided to co-operate by allowing the use of the Elementary school annex for July as a start. Mrs. Thompson has 15 pupils lined up for classes from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. The children are from up to grade five.

The matter of Elphinstone school band instruments was discussed by the board which decided to look into the possibility of the parents assuming the responsibility for the purchase of the instruments while at the same time allow the organization which supplied one batch of instruments to check the instruments they sent with a view to settling any dispute.

Gerry Fahrni. temporary chairman suggested that some time in the future a massed band concert be arranged among school bands.

Notification was received that the district school representative, I. H. R. Jeffrey, has been moved to another district and his replacement will be Gordon Johnson from Prince George and Kelowna districts. He has been with the provincial department for the last eight years.

The meeting decided to delay appointment of a chairman until the July 11 meeting. The replacement is caused as the result of the death of Alfred Funnell, the former chairman.

BASEBALL

Sunday June 26 sent the crowd home happy after watching the home town Gibsons Kiwanis edge the Sechelt Connie Mack boys 6-5 in an extremely close contest.

Sechelt coasted for seven innings on the fine pitching of Barry Reeves. Reeves however tired in the seventh and was followed by Joe Fisher and Bob Mikowa, however, both were unable to hold the Gibsons squad in the final two innings.

Robin McSavaney started for Gibsons, was relieved in the enghth by Lowell Pearl, who came in to pitch outstanding relief ball to save the day.

McSavaney chipped in with a bases loaded single in the eighth to drive in what proved to be the winning run.

Batteries for the game were Sechelt: Reeves, Fisher (7) Mikowa (9) and Paine. Gibsons: McSavaney, Pearl (8) and Berdahl.

These same two clubs will be in action at the Elphinstone High School grounds at 6:30 p.m. on July 1.

Watch for a "Connie Mack Day" at the Pink Elephant Laundromat.

MORE SHOW INTEREST

The auxilliary to the Hospital Improvement District Organization met on Monday, June 20 at the Haley residence on the North Road. Mr. John Harvey of the H.I.D. Study Group was speaker. Attendance was up at this meeting and it is hoped that more interested citizens will attend the next meeting.

School affairs continue in the news with Sechelt seeking a trustee to fill the vacancy left by Mrs. W. N. McKee who has retired and moved away, the need for a school board chairman to replace Mr. Alfred Funnell who died June 11 and the Wilson Creek public meeting July 7. Roberts Creek will also meet to select a member on the school board to replace Mr. Funnel.

Monday night's school board meeting left the selection of a new chairman until the July 11 meeting. Gerry Fahrni of Sechelt is acting chairman in the meantime.

A public meeting of Roberts Creek attendance area voters will be held July 4 in Roberts Creek Elementary school to select a replacement for Mr. Funnell for the rest of the calendar year. This meeting will commence at 8 o'clock

Nominations for the Sechelt area seat on the school board will be held Thursday, June 30 at 10 a.m. in the Municipal hall for the purpose of selecting someone to replace Mrs. McKee for the remainder of the year.

Manning Park seeks '68 winter Olympics

Manning Park, on the Hope-Princeton Highway, is being proposed as the possible site of the 1968 Winter Olympics.

The enthusiastic backers of Manning Park, and they include many of the lower mainland and interior Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, say this area is far superior to any other B. C. site, and they have the facts to back it up.

To gather these facts a delegation composed of board of trade members, newspaper, radio and television men along with Frank Richter, M.L.A., and several ski experts visited the Park on June 21.

The delegation inspected the valley that has 400 acres of flat land that could house the whole Olympic village, speed skating, ice arena and huge parking lot, Bob Boyd, chief forest ranger, claimed for $1000 he can set up parking for 10,000 cars.

Morning Glory mountain rises from this valley 2,000 feet to give a perfect hillside for the men's slalom, women's downhill, giant slalom and the jumps. An adjacent mountain, Mt. Frosty, is ideal for the men's downhill, as two-thirds of the slope is above the tree line.

The site is only five miles off the Hope-Princeton Highway on a five percent grade. This highway gives access from both east and west. A four-lane highway from Vancouver to Hope will be complete by 1968.

Bob Dawson, professional ski instructor at Vancouver's Mt. Seymour, says the site is perfect because of the dry snow, although in the dry belt it has never been known to be without snow. There is only five to six feet of snow in the Gibson valley whereas coastal mountains have 30 to 40 feet. There is neither the fog and rain of the coast nor the extreme cold of the interior.

Cost of developing Manning Park would be very low. Compared to other areas such as Garibaldi, the saving on road building itself would be tremendous. Many other factors also contribute to the economy of this area.

Accommodation could be spread from Kamloops, through the Okanagan to the Fraser Valley, Vancouver, Bellingham and Seattle. This would eliminate the overbuilding in one area.

The provincial government is being asked by the local and associated boards of trade of the Fraser Valley and lower mainland to form an Olympic site committee with full power to select a B. C. site with all possible dispatch.

Mrs. M. Johnson

Mrs. Myrtle Georgia Johnson, wife of Ralph Johnson, accountant with Sechelt Motor Transport and former village clerk of the village of Sechelt, died June 22 at the age of 57 and the funeral service was held Friday, June 24 at Mount Pleasant chapel, Vancouver, Rev. A. H. Cummings conducted the service. Cremation followed. Harvey Funeral Home, Gibsons, was in charge.

Mrs. Johnson leaves her husband, and four daughters, Mrs. Francis Dye, Mrs. Margaret Price, Miss Patricia, Vancouver and Miss Roberta at home There are three grandchildren, four brothers and three sisters.

Fair plans move ahead

Arrangements for the Sunshine Coast Annual Fair on August 19 and 20 are going ahead smoothly and if all goes well some nice attractions will be on display, particulars of which will be mentioned later.

Mrs. Griffin will be judge for the Weaving and Handicrafts. Mr. C. A Muirhead has promised to judge the livestock and Mr J. L. Webster of the B. C. Department of Agriculture may judge fruits and vegetables. There is no decision yet on the two judges for the Women's Sections and one for Flowers.

The Fair Committee announces a special classification in this year's booklet, cake decoration, Class 236A, Cake decorated, judged for decoration only. Exhibits from those who advanced their talent along this line in the local night school will be welcomed, also exhibits from anyone who has gained knowledge elsewhere on cake decoration.

Exhibits of painting and specimens of the beautiful handicraft made in the local schools would be appreciated. The collections and the special group exhibits are all interesting as well as the Family Group.

Fair booklets can be obtained from Secretary, Mrs. M. LeFeuvre, R. R. 1, Reid Road, Gibsons and from the Coast News, Gibsons.

Hope for the future

The final paragraph in a story on the front page of the June 16 issue probably struck some readers as an understatement considering circumstances. Here is what the paragraph read:

"This steady expansion of the mill not only results in more money being spent on the peninsula but also indicates that the mill will be a permanent operation. It is felt that this will ultimately be beneficial to all residents of the area."

Subject of the story was the $700,000 expansion project at Port Mellon during this year. Port Mellon mill has been a strong influence in this area for the last few years and the present Canadian Forest Products management should get credit for it.

One look at the history of the Port Mellon pulp mill since it was first built would convince the most skeptic reader that the present management has provided this area with a financial backbone which merchants would not like to be without.

There are those merchants in Gibsons area specifically who can recall the Port Mellon of a few homes — a far cry from the present town with more than 100 telephones tied into Gibsons exchange. Today there are more than 300 persons on the mill payroll and there is more than a million dollars a year paid in salaries and wages.

There were hints in the June 16 story of further expansion to come. Perhaps some thoughts about this should be instilled into the minds of those people who harbor a gloomy outlook. Merchants should eye that million dollars in annual wages and make an effort to get some of it.

A natural consequence

Canadian industry is reported to be starting its own news agency with formation of a wire service handling news of business to major newspapers and publications. This is a natural growth and is already operating in the United States.

There is reason for such a service. If anyone has watched the trends in the handling of news it would be readily understood why publicity organizations have spread like mushrooms, so much so they can now get together and organize their own news service.

There was a time when the theatre press agent was the only space seeker going the rounds of newspapers but with the growth of the various "verbotens" that have sprung up in news policies it is quite natural some types of news sources fighting for recognition should band together to protect their interests.

To those who have watched the growth of the public relations phase of news dissemination it can be easily understood. Today the freakish type of news is paramount in the minds of some editors. Climb a 90 foot pole and stand on your head and news photographers will track you down no matter where you hide. Do something of real worth to the community such as develop something of worthwhile nature and the photographers will not bother you much unless you get some cheesecake with dimpled knees to "brighten" your picture. Can you blame business for doing what should be done by news organizations too involved with freaks and the notorious to the exclusion of what really matters?

The Kindersley, Sask, Clarion has just completed a major step in its modernization program. The press upon which last week's issue was printed was probably about 75 years old. This issue, a June 5 editorial read, is printed on a press that is probably not more than 50 years old. A quarter century of progress accomplished over one hectic weekend!

Elphinstone School Band

The Elphinstone Junior-Senior High School band was formed in November, 1959. It was open, on a voluntary basis, to students enrolled in the school. Rehearsals were to be in out-of-class time, at noon hours, or in the evening.

The music teacher of the high school, Mrs. Moss, had made preliminary arrangements for the beginning of the band, and Mr. Moss, who has had considerable experience in conducting, very kindly offered his services in the training of the band. The Board of School Trustees provided, by outright purchase, a limited number of large instruments and provided the rest on a rental basis.

Since its beginning, the band has practiced regularly one or more noon hours per week and one evening per week. It has performed publicly at the high school Drama Night, Variety Night and the Education Week gymnastic display. It plays at the regular Monday morning school assemblies. Recently, it journeyed to Abbotsford where it participated in the International Band Festival there. It participated in the Sechelt May Day parade.

A committee of parents has been formed to assist in the encouragement of the students in the band and to co-ordinate such things as transportation to practices and to special evnnts.

Because such a band is an asset to a community, it is hoped that community organizations will take an interest in it. As the band develops, additional instruments beyond those provided by the school board will have to be purchased. As the band becomes established, provision of uniforms is desirable Both of these items are costly, and while the band can earn some money towards them by putting on a concert from time to time, it will have to seek the assistance of outside groups. The interest of surh groups, therefore, is very much appreciated.

A tribute to a Dumbell

Leonard Young, known to many First Great War veterans, died recently in Montreal. He was one of the original Dumbells, a famous concert party born in 1916 in Bois Des Alleux, in the shadow almost of the ruin of Mount St. Eloi abbey. Later the Dumbells toured Canada, in peaceful times.

Leonard Young was a gentleman in the arts — writing, music, theatre, sketching, dancing — and excelled in the art of satire, the kind which hurt none but pleased mightily. It was tragic that the fine dancer he was should have lost a leg on the Arras-Lens road, June 2, 1917.

During Canadian tours of the Dumbells, he performed in various skits but his peak performance was that of the duchess in "The Duchess Entertains" a satire on the well-meaning efforts of some people to see that the war-wounded were entertained.

In after-war years Leonard wrote some excellent stories for the Amputations Association magazine "The Fragment" In the story that follows, published first in June 1927, Leonard put into words the thoughts many a veteran has experienced. He has now joined some of those "ghosts" he writes about.

THE DREAM THAT WAS REAL

By Leonard Young

It was on a day, a few weeks ago, in what women call "the house-cleaning season," and around my feet and over my head, which was bent over a book in what I call a studious, and my friends a lazy, manner there swirled and eddied all the mad activities of that dreaded and dreadful period in the life of a house.

The fiendish noise of one of those nerve - racking instruments called vacuum cleaners the rushing roar of a cascade of dusty books falling from the top shelf to the floor of a cupboard undergoing its spring overhauling, the swish of a mop being driven relentlessly and slushily over an inoffensive kitchen floor — all these strange and unsettling noises made it difficult to concentrate on my book, which dealt with the unsecular activities of that secular gentleman, Simon called Peter, that parson who found the Great War had incidents and results not entirely spiritual in essence.

A very mild remonstrance was ventured to the Lady Who Rules the House, with results not encouraging to either vanity or laziness. "If you are content to live in a filthy house I am somebody" — with significant emphasis — "somebody who has got to clean. You are by no means an ornament," said she, "and you do not seem inclined to be useful. If you were, I should suggest that you do a little cleaning on your own account. There are those boxes of yours in the cellar, for instance, that haven't been touched for years. I am sure that most of the stuff in them could be thrown away — and if you don't do it, I will!"

There was more, but I did not wait to hear it, for lives there a man who would allow a woman to rove piratically and unimaginatively through an old and souvenir-filled box, although every vestige of recollection of its contents may have left him!

In five minutes I was in the cellar, in its calm but undeniably dirty atmosphere. Digging deep in the neglected boxes, I found something I had lost — Memories! A little bundle of pen and ink drawings; pictures of people and places of ten years ago, laid away and forgotten except in moments more and more rare as year had suceeded year. And as I look them over the world of today disappeared. I was living an old dream over again — a dream so strange, so unbelievable a thing did war seem in that quiet, dusty cellar with the dim commotion of a peace-time household over my head.

Did we really live that mad adventure? Did we plough through the fields of a foreign land? Lie in the fields on our stomachs listening to the menacing roar of enemy planes overhead? Did we tramp along cobbled roads between rows of poplar trees, to the music of our own singing? Did we hunger and thirst and weary till our bodies sank by the roadside? Did we look on while men died, and wonder when we should suddenly crumple up in our turn?

Was it we, respectable law-abiding citizens of Canada, who gaily forgot for years that there were in the world such things as bathrooms and clean clothes, umbrellas and children in perambulators, white cloths on tables and the sound of women's singing?

Was that wreck of a barn or that fantastic heap of masonry the place where we lived in? Did we wade through the muck-heap in that courtyard without a thought or a worry as to the effect on our footwear? Did we take a bath and tea from the same useful utensil, our mess-tin?

Was that really Tom who used to cuddle up in the same blanket with us on a cold night? Was that Red, who cried terrible tears in the dark into our mud-stained tunic the night he heard his brother had been killed? Was that laughing ruffian Mac, who took our fatigues and our guards when we wanted to see the concert party, and got in return our rum ration which we at the time — poor mad creature! — did not like?

These were my brothers. And except for Red who was with his dead brother before three months had gone by, I do not know where they are or even if they live.

The boxes were not cleaned that April day and the "stuff" therein is gathering more dust and I sat on the floor with my memories for two hours, laughing a bit and weeping a bit more, and very much moved, for ten years had dropped from my age; and such a miracle cannot be accomplished without certain emotional results. In fact when I climbed upstairs again with my little package of drawings I was what the lady of the house called a "sight," for my eyes were red and my face was streaked.

The lady laughed gaily, being in that state of mental spiritual uplift that follows a successful battle against household dirt. "You look as you'd been seeing ghosts," she said, "and you've gone and got yourself all dusty."

"So I have," I said — and the lady did not know that I was answering both her comments.

Fine -- with rain

(By A. J. C.)

Planting a corn patch this year is more than usually an act of faith. The soil is warm enough to bring the plants up, but there they stand, looking sorry for themselves. Tomato plants are worse off under the best of care they turn yellow through lack of sunshine to develop chlorophyll.

At long intervals we have known and survived similar seasons. There was one before the First War that lingered in memory, our only taste of summer came in the first half of September, when I promptly set up my young family in camp on the shore, where we enjoyed all there was of it.

Our campsite was later named Elphinstone Bay and is now a picnic site but at that time there was nobody living on the front between Roberts Creek and Wilson Creek. Summer visitors were few, the coast being little known to Vancouver people, but one family came in on holiday that weepy year — and very disgruntled they were!

In conversation with the man I found that they regarded the weather as normal for this district and I went on the defensive, assuring him that it was general all along the lower mainland coast. But I made no impression; to him and his it was an open-and-shut case. They had been elsewhere the previous year and enjoyed a fine summer (as we had here, too) and they had come here to find three days out of four wet and the fourth cloudy and cool, with a little rain. So they went away saying "Never again!"

But their opinion did not prevent what happened a few years later. The "unknown" era lingered but passed in time. I recall that in paying for an order at a store in town I asked for shipment of my goods to Roberts Creek. The girl at the desk began to write but paused to ask in embarrassment "Where is that?" If I had told her that it was on the Alaska Panhandle she would have so written it.

A few years later the Union boats began to unload crowds at that point on holiday weekends, and the era of the summer camper was upon us. Gibsons, long settled, known and accessible had been host for some years before and was the first to draw numbers in those carefree years following the First War and before the shadow of the second had darkened the horizon. A merry crowd it was, too, requirements in accommodation were not exacting, a tent in the brush a few feet above highwater mark was paradise enow and a board-and-batten shack, built for a few dollars was an unnecessary luxury — rather snobbish in fact! In the dusk of evening their beachfires twinkled around the bay, stringed instruments twangled and voices sang old songs and new — and so into the small hours of morning.

Gospel Rock had its quota too o' moonlit nights, the Bible texts painted on the seaward face that gave it the name were legible in those days. During a heat wave the campers went Polynesian, and were active at night, dormant by day — and in their midnight swims they dispensed with all formality!

They were good days, those; I regret to state that my own pleasant memories of them are based on a sordid commercial consideration. The young folks came up to the ranch and bought corn by the sackful to cook over their fires.

The campers helped to put us on the map. Some bought property, became regular visitors and eventually residents, with the tents replaced by good homes. Others returned as retired people when their work was done. It was an era that followed pioneering days and preceded the present development, from which we may infer that what we know today is also a phase in further development. There is plenty of scope here for the long view and it is still a good district in which to be young and doing.

Calling on an old friend recently we strolled over a lawn that slopes gently to the beach. My hostess paused at one spot and said, somewhat wistfully, "It was here that we pitched our tent in the year that we were married. It stood here where Will had grubbed out the salmonberry tangle and we camped here every summer until we had our first cottage built."

I remembered too, and stepped off a few paces before replying, "And it was under the outer branches of a fine old maple that stood about here."

"I'm glad you remember that tree, we enjoyed its shade in hot weather but at night dead branches would fall on the tent's roof with a loud thud."

"The canvas was taut with dew."

"Yes, I expect so, the girls my younger sister brought up for weekends were frightened by those sudden noises in the night, they thought some wild animal was about to break in and eat them up."

"There were wild animals about at that time too — but they were two-legged!"

"Now, now" — reprovingly, but her smile was mate to my grin.

ENERGY SWITCH

In the years immediately preceding World War II, coal, coke and peat covered 60% of Norway's energy needs, while oil products and water power covered 10% and 30%, respectively. Now, coal covers only 13-14% of the total need, hydro-electric power nearly 50%, and oil products over 36%.—News of Norway.

FROM FT. ST. JOHN

William S. Cumming of Ft. St. John, a brother of Mrs. William Duncan of Gibsons, has been exploring the Sunshine Coast with the intention of settling here some time. The country which Mr. Cumming is now in has had cold up to 65 below and snowfall is so heavy at times houses have to be dug out of the heavy drifts. At present Mr. Cumming is associated with an oil refinery at Taylor.

He is now at Western Washington College and has been setting records in the running department of school athletics He set a record for the 3,000 metre steeplechase of 9:35.2 at a NAIA track meet, trimming 11.6 seconds off the former record. The Western Washington College Collegian paper also ran his picture when he placed second in relays for Olympic trials. In this event he ran second, pushing the winner to a record breaking time. The draws for the five crisp new $50 bills will be for winners holding Mermaid Queen ballot stubs and will take place during open air dancing at the Super-Valu parking lot. The same will apply here. numbers will be called until the five prizes have been claimed. So be there, maybe your ticket is a winner.

Where fish were biting

Sports fish bulletin, issued by the federal department of fisheries in Vancouver for the week ending June 20.

Vancouver - Howe Sound: Sport fishing was limited in the exposed waters of Howe Sound as a result of prevailing weather conditions. Best fishing was in the Gower Point-Salmon Rock area where several large springs were taken. Although catches were generally light one boat brought in three springs and one jack spring in the early morning effort on Sunday. Small numbers of springs and jacks were also taken on the west and east sides of Bowen Island.

Pender Harbour: Sport fishing effort was quite light throughout the week. The weather was poor on the weekend and catches were generally low. A 26 lb. spring salmon in Lees Bay by Douglas Caspar of New Westminster was the best for the week.

Intense fear can cause sneezing.

Who won the only V. C. in Canada?

Timothy O'Hea, an Irish soldier with the British Rifle Brigade has been the only man ever to win the Victoria Cross for a deed of valor performed in Canada. It was also the only occasion on which a V. C. has been awarded for an act of bravery not performed in the actual presence of an enemy.

The time was June 1866 when the threat of a Fenian invasion of Canada was very much to the fore. Munitions were being sent from Quebec to the Lake Erie front. The shipment, which included 95 barrels of gunpowder was attached to a Grand Trunk passenger train carrying 800 German immigrants. O'Hea and three other men of his unit had been detailed as guards.

At Danville, in the Eastern Townships, O'Hea discovered a fire in one of the munitions trucks. Single-handedly and at imminent risk of his life he worked for nearly an hour before he succeeded in putting out the fire. For this service he was invested with the Victoria Cross at Quebec on Jan. 7, 1867. O'Hea, who was born in 1846 in County Cork, died of thirst in the far southwest of Queensland, Australia, in 1874 while searching for survivors of a lost exploring expedition.

What does Restigouche mean?

No one is quite sure of the meaning of this name which rivers, to a county in northern has been applied to one of Canada's most famous salmon New Brunswick and to a Quebec community on the north shore of the river's estuary. Restigouche is a rendering of the Micmac word Lust-a-gooch but the meaning of Lust-a-gooch is obscure. It has been variously translated as "five-fingered river," "river branching like a hand," "big river," "broad river" or "river of the long war."

Which Indian tribe cremated its dead?

The Tahltan Indians, sometimes called the Western Nahani, a tribe occupying the valleys of the upper Stikine and Taku Rivers in northern British Columbia. They practiced two customs that were unusual among the natives of Canada. In addition to cremating the dead, they constructed communal houses for the unmarried males. At the time of their first contact with Europeans, the Tahltan spent their summers as salmon fishermen, the winters in hunting and the autumn in trading with neighboring tribes. They lacked both snowshoes and sleds and depended on a crude tobaggan drawn by the women. Present members of the tribe earn a living as hunters and rivermen in their old area.

How did Reserve get its name?

Reserve is a community in Cape Breton, Nova Scotia, nine miles east of Sydney. It stands in an area where coal deposits were reserved by the Nova Scotia government for the company that would build a railway to connect the collieries along the coast with shipping facilities at Sydney and Louisburg. This area came to be known at Reserve Mines, then simply as Reserve. The Glasgow and Cape Breton Company built the railway in 1875 and acquired the mining rights in the reserved area. In 1893 these were taken over by the Dominion Coal Company. The coal mining shafts that operated in Reserve are now closed.

Doctor speaks on leukemia

The Peninsula Committee on Radiation Hazards met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Corley Friday, June 24. Dr. D. L. Johnson presented a paper on leukemia. The speaker state that in Canada this disease commonly known as 'cancer of the blood,' has increased 400% over the past 20 years. It has been established that people receiving radiation treatment develop leukemia eight times more frequently than those non-exposed.

Strontium 90 resulting from atomic bomb explosions is the latest threat to the bone marrow and sex organs of people all over the world. Radioactive fall-out has come down to earth through rain and snow, and is taken up by plant life with its calcium content. As our children need more calcium for bone building they get more strontium.

Scientific laboratories have discovered that lower forms of life when exposed to radioactivity reproduce abnormalities and monstrosities. Already future generations of the human race may be affected, the doctor said.

There is no effective cure for leukemia which makes for an extremely high fatality rate. Taking all these things into consideration the committee is of the opinion people throughout the world must demand that there be no more nuclear explosions.

JAPANESE READ ORWELL

A wartime absence of English literature in Japan has resulted in a post-war rush of volumes which have brought English authors to unprecedented popularity and influence in that country. Representative works and others enjoying great popularity were George Orwell's "1984." Emily Bronte's "Wuthering Heights," Lawrence Sterne's "A Sentimental Journey," and all the works of D. H. Lawrence. Works of Shakespeare have been retranslated and re-staged in Japan since World War II.

Editor: Dr. Albert Schweitzer has said "Only those who have never been present at the birth of a deformed baby, never witnessed the whimpering shock of the mother, dare to maintain that the risk in going on with nuclear testing is one which must be taken under existing circumstances.

It is the particular duty of women to prevent this sin against the future, It is for them to raise their voices against it in such a way that they will be heard."

Across Canada women are writing to Prime Minister Diefenbaker, House of Commons, Ottawa, or the Hon. L. B. Pearson, Ottawa, or Hazen Argue, M. PNE talent hunt

The annual PNE-sponsored Roy Gordon Talent hunt is on the way and between now and exhibition time thousands of B. C. youngsters will be auditioned.

The hunt, now in its fifth year, will take Hollywood producer-director Roy Gordon to the far corners of the province in his search for new different, natural or developed talent.

The only barrier to this greatest talent search in Canada is age limits. Contestants must be between the ages of 5 and 13 and 13 and 19.

Selected youngsters in each area will appear at the PNE where they will compete before tens of thousands for a fun and excitement-packed trip to Hollywood with all expenses paid.

Last year's winners, comprised of a choir of 17 and a boys musical trio, spent eight days at the U. S. "City of Stars" where they were entertained at some of the top holiday spots in America.

The junket also includes appearances at TV studios and a three-day stay at the world famous Hollywood-Roosevelt Hotel where they will mingle with the top stars and entertainers.

FASHION STUDIES

An eye for detail is Chatelaine fashion editor Vivian Wilcox's suggestion for turning every woman into a fashion leader. In the July issue of Chatelaine magazine Miss Wilcox suggests that women study fashion pictures and analyze what they see. On silhouettes: width of shoulders, length of skirts, location of waistlines. On accessories: Hats high? wide? plain ?trimmed? Shoes strapped? with high heels? With such study of advance fashions Miss Wilcox assures Canadian women, they can be fashion leaders.

PIANO MUSIC MAKERS

"Five and thirty black slaves
Half a hundred white,
All their duty but to sing
For their Queen's delight"
thus wrote Sir William Watson in a poem "The Key-board."

Many parents are ambitious that their child should receive piano lessons. If his elementary instruction is available in a class after school hours at school or in the community, often several children who are chums are eager to embark on this adventure together.

Many outstanding music teachers are agreed that the piano is an excellent choice for musical lessons for a child. Harmony and melody can be made on the piano. Before very long a student has the satisfaction of playing a tune by himself. It is an excellent foundation for learning to play other instruments later in life.

There is a wide choice of music for advanced students to meet every taste or mood. Piano music can add greatly to enjoyment in the home without another musical instrument At the same time an able pianist may encourage family participation in singing solos, duets, or as a group and may be the centre around which a family orchestra is built.

Music teachers often make some practical suggestions to parents of a child learning to play the piano. Over and over again they stress the importance of never forcing a child either to listen to or participate in music. This pressure produces a spirit of rebellion which destroys the attitude necessary for real music. They suggest that a child of average musical ability should start piano lessons between eight and ten, because at that age he has sufficient co-ordination of mind, eye, ear and hand.

The piano itself should be as good a piano as the family can afford and should be kept in tune. It should be placed in the most pleasant place in the room, in a position where the lighting is good so that the notes can be read without eye strain. But it should not stand beside a window where a child's interest will be constantly distracted by happenings he can see through the pane.

A child should have a regular period for practice which is not too long for sustained concentration. Twenty minutes to half an hour is long enough for must juniors. The practice period should not interfere with the regular play time.

How can a mother expect Junior to practice whole heartedly if his pals are enjoying a game of baseball. A child who is too tired cannot learn music (or anything else)! Practising should never be used as a punishment. If it is, music will soon become not only a burden, but actually hated, by a child. Money bribes for practising for a definite length of time are not a good plan. But a natural reward for acquiring a certain degree of proficiency would be to attend a good concert.

Playing the piano, or any other instrument, develops hab its of regular concentration, technical skill and the imagination. It is an emotional outlet.

A boy or girl who plays well should be given the opportunity to play occasionally for a visitor or guest, and to play at a concert.. This plan promotes in a child a sense of accomplishment and adds greatly to the popularity of an adolescent or adult with a group. Entrance in a class in a Musical Festival is another excellent activity. Attendance at the sessions of a festival is a rewarding experience for anyone. Watching so many shining-eyed eager young performers is a reminder of the lines in "The Music Makers" by O'Shaughnessy:

"We are the music-makers
And we are the dreamers of dreams."

Your Teeth

WHY BOTHER FILLING BABY TEETH

To fill or not to fill: that is the question many parents ask themselves when Junior shows some holes in his baby teeth.

Should the parent go to the expense of having a tooth filled that will eventually drop out? And if so, what benefits will accrue?

Dentists unanimously point out that the suffering to the child of a neglected primary tooth is secondary to the lasting harm that can be done if it is not attended to immediately.

At the worst, the suffering can be relieved by extraction But the permanent damage often results in unsightly and ill-positioned permanent teeth, which not only do not function properly but which are readily attacked by tooth decay because they are not "self cleansing" due to improper arrangement in the mouth.

Besides their chewing and biting functions, the foundation teeth have a duty to make sure that adequate space will be available for the permanent teeth.

It is poor economy on the part of a parent to neglect the care and treatment of the foundation teeth because of cost, only to find that the orthodontic or tooth straightening treatment which resulted from this neglect would cost much more than the original treatment.

TRUSTEE CONVENTION

Fifty-sixth annual convention of the B.C. School Trustees Association in Vancouver, Oct. 10 to 12 will endeavor to look into the future of education and the Trustees' role in developing it. Theme of the convention, Education Shapes our Future, will be emphasized by Dr. H. L. Keenlyside, chairman of the B.C. Power Commission and former career diplomat, in the keynote address.

Book an aid to cruising along coast

Will Dawson, with almost 20 years experience of west coast cruising from Puget Sound to Alaska, in his 32 foot yawl "West Wind," writes with the emphasis on his practical knowledge of Pacific Coast waters in his new book Coastal Cruising, published by Mitchell Press.

Well known as the author of "Ahoy There," for his radio commentaries and contributions to such boating publications as "Yachting" he brings a wealth of experience to all pleasure boat operators to make small boat cruising more enjoyable and free from anxiety.

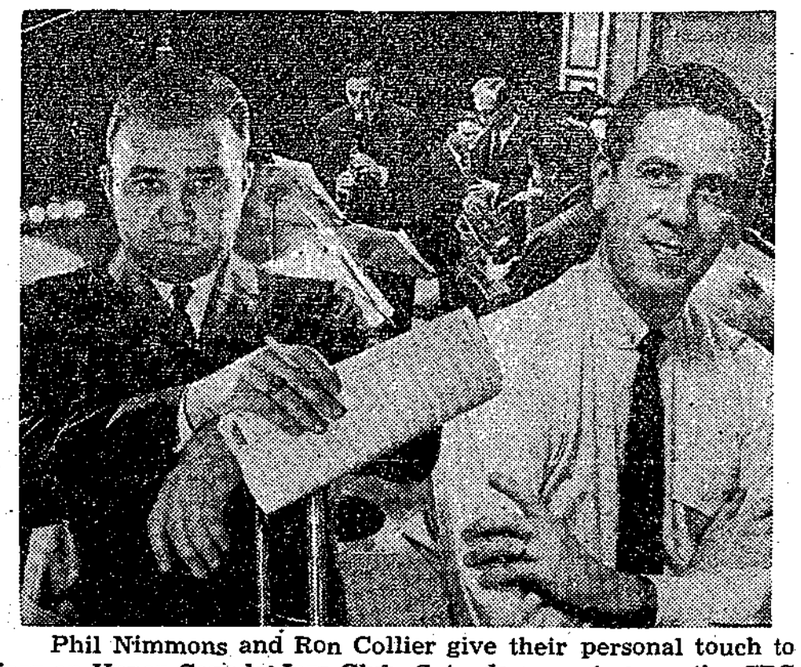
Coastal Cruising provides the answers to all those who go down to the sea in little ships.

Designed for the skippers of small boats both sail and power, from the 12 foot runabout to the 40 foot auxiliary ketch, Coastal Cruising gives a touring service which explores the inlets and islands of the Pacific Coast over a cruising area of 34,350 square miles ranging from the 46th to the 51st parallel of latitude.

Sixteen pages of cruising maps with 36 individual cruises give a selection of voyages in one volume, from one hour to three months through scenic waters of the Pacific Northwest.

Written in simple terms for all to understand, it lifts the veil of the mysteries of seamanship and navigation, leaving a clear picture of the ways of a boat and the sea. It cannot fail to add to the enjoyment and safety of those who cruise the coastal waters of the West.

With its water resistant binding, Coastal Cruising should be in the locker of every pleasure boat that puts to sea.



Phil Nimmons and Ron Collier give their personal touch to jazz on Upper Canada Jazz Club, Saturday evenings on the CBC Trans-Canada radio network. Their groups alternate on the weekly broadcast. Nimmons (left) playing clarinet with his group provides listeners with unique big-band arrangements. Collier's quintet offers experimental, small-group selections with Collier playing trombone. Both groups offer unusual styles for lovers of modern jazz.

All-numeral phone numbers to be rule

B. C. Telephone Co. will use all-numeral telephone numbers in places scheduled for dial telephone service in the future. The new system, which will have seven-digit numbers will be introduced this year in Sooke, near Victoria, Whonnock in the Fraser Valley and Gibsons and Sechelt.

The all-numeral plan is being generally adopted by the telephone industry in Canada and the United States mainly because of the growth in number of phones and the need for more dial codes under the international distance dialing system, a company spokesman said.

Next year Kamloops, Trail and Merritt in the interior of B. C., which are scheduled for conversion to automatic service, will also have the seven-digit system. Existing dial exchange name prefixes will probably remain in existence for some time.

Known as ANC — All Number Calling — the new system has certain advantages as shown by field tests in other phone systems.

The immediate benefit is an increase in available dial codes — from 540 to 576 — for local exchange designation. This permits use of certain letter groupings on the instrument dial, such as JKL.

Other points in favor of ANC include. Faster and more accurate dialing. (The customer does not have to search for the needed letters.) Elimination of confusion between the letter "O" and the figure "0" and between the letter "I" and the figure "1". Elimination of errors due to misspelling. Reduction of language problems due to pronunciation.

While ANC is not likely to be introduced in metropolitan areas for some time, the telephone company itself began using the new system for its own private automatic branch exchange local numbers in Vancouver on May 15. Those calling specific individuals at the Vancouver headquarters of the company are able to call direct by using 662 and four other figures instead of going through the P.B.X. The present listed number, MUtual 3-5511, will continue to be used by the general public when calling the company.

5,000 attend summer school

Advance registration in the University of British Columbia's summer school credit and non-credit courses points to a total nearing 5,000. The seven- week summer session, under director Dr. K. F. Argue, started June 27 with an enrolment of more than 4,000 registered in degree credit courses, with registration to the summer schools of the arts, of communications and public affairs expected to pass the 1,000 mark. About 75 instructors from Europe and U.S. will be present.

Gordon Selman, associate director of the summer school of the arts, stated that the seminar on Central Africa promises to be another outstanding event in the university offerings in international affairs.

TOURISTS ATTRACTED

B. C. Travel Bureau received and answered a total of 47,927 tourist inquiries during the first five months of this year, 37.6% more than the total of 34,807 processed in the same period of 1959. Effective advertising by the government Travel Bureau, widening recognition of B. C. events such as the Vancouver Festival of Arts, and improved accommodations are some of the factors which share credit for growing visitor-interest in our province, Hon. Earle C. Westwood, minister of the department of recreation said.

Shantung, a variety of silk fabric, derives its name from a province in China.

Swim -- but be careful

Swimming is fun and should be enjoyed. Safety is of utmost importance, however, and the All Canada Insurance Federation, representing more than 250 Canadian fire, casualty and automobile insurance companies, recommends these rules for saving lives:

Learn how to swim and teach the children to swim.

Do not swim alone.

Unless accompanied by a boat, do not swim far from shore. Swim parallel to the shore if you wish to try for distance.

Non-swimmers should not float into deep water on inner tubes or other inflated articles. If the float begins to leak the swimmer is in difficulty.

Do not dive into unfamiliar waters and do not swim beneath diving boards.

If a swimmer is in difficulty, try to rescue him with a boat, a rope or an extended oar. Do not swim to him unless it is absolutely necessary. Often the rescuer also becomes a victim.

Wait for at least an hour after meals before swimming.

Beware of undertows in rough water.

Do not swim during lightning storms.

Learn how to administer artificial respiration.
