Sechelt incorporation petition now circulating

A committee of the Sechelt Board of Trade is now circulating the petition advocating Village Incorporation for the area. With the canvas nearing completion the committee is practically assured of at least a 75 percent majority in favor. The canvassers report many people not in possession of the facts regarding the matter, but when the advantages are pointed out they, generally speaking, are in favor. The canvassers report misinformation circulated because they are continually faced with questions of the water system. Many are under the misapprehension that the water will be cut, off, or that rates will be increased, and even that a high-priced engineer will have to be employed to operate the system, once village has had the water-works dumped in its lap.

The committee has checked this carefully and there is no truth in any of these statements. The village cannot be forced to buy the system. The water cannot be cut off, nor the rates raised without the approval of the PUC, the committee reports.

Another question in the minds of some is whether the population is too small and the district not far enough developed. The committee is of the opinion that the sooner incorporation comes the better it will be for all concerned. Delay in incorporating will only add to the problems of planning an orderly community and will hinder the progress of the area, the committee believes.

The old "bugaboo" of increased taxes meets the committee in some quarters. No one wants to pay more taxes, and if the people of the area do not demand too much in the way of improvements, taxes do not need to be raised, the committee says.

Improvements cost money and must be paid out of tax revenue. It is up to the people of Sechelt to declare whether they are willing to pay more taxes for added services. Meanwhile, fire protection, street lighting and road maintenance can be provided with no increases.

It has been suggested that some of the businessmen may derive all the benefits of and when, sidewalks, for instance are required. It is the business men and business properties that will bear the brunt of the taxation for this sort of thing, the committee finds, but everyone who uses them benefits from the convenience of such improvements.

The canvassers report they are pleased with the reception they are receiving and feel confident that a large majority of the residents are wholeheartedly behind them in this very important step towards the development and progress of the village of Sechelt.

Kiwanis camp is silent

There is a deep silence in the Kiwanis camp!

Another battle is raging over the prospects of a second tussle with Chops' Mops.

The element within the Kiwanis preferring a much safer field of endeavor is sticking to its guns for a tea and strawberry social. Efforts to discover the ring leader of this faction have not produced any results because when Kiwanians are approached on the subject they just stare into the future and change the subject.

On the other hand Chops' Mops are raring to go and are keeping their powder, both facial and baseball type, dry. They are ready to take on the Kiwanis aggregation whenever it is ready, Chops McGean reports.

"The team is all ready whenever the Kiwanis set the date. Who they will be playing for this time we do not know. Maybe it is to raise a fund for the cripples left over from the last game," Chops says.

CROWN QUEEN

Patsy Lloyd, of Roberts Creek, was crowned Parks Queen in spite of the rain on Saturday last.

At Elphinstone Park, Roberts Creek, the whole community had gathered to see the crowning of the Parks Queen, and Patsy Lloyd, with her attendants, Jean Gibb and Donna Danroth, proved that a little rain wouldn't melt them.

They were grouped on a beautifully decorated platform, over which a large tarpaulin had been erected during the downpour, and the crowning ceremony was completed. The girls were lovely in the bouffant summer dresses, looking for all the world like lovely flowers in the rain.

Last year's queen, Jean Baba, placed the crown on Patsy's curls to the applause of the damp and shivering crowd. Mr. Bert Scott of Vancouver was master of ceremonies.

The sporting events and the picnic lunch had to be postponed until Sat., Aug. 6 at 2 p.m. The hot dogs cakes and other good things will be brought from the neighbors' deep freezes, and everyone is looking forward to a day of fun at Elphinstone Park.

The Saturday night dance that followed the crowning of the queen was a success, and drew dancers from all over the Peninsula, in spite of the rainy night.

Falling snag kills logger

Samuel Bohach, a logger employed by Woods Logging Co., died as a result of injuries received while falling a snag at Hotham Sound, about 9 a.m., July 26.

Bohach and his partner, Walter Glogoski, were working within about 60 yards of each other. Glogoski heard Bohach cry out, and ran to help. He advised the Logging company and Dr. Swan was called. Bohach died about an hour later.

Bohach was a member of a family of several brothers, of whom John Bohach of 689 Boundary Road, Vancouver, came to Sechelt to make necessary arrangements. An inquest on Friday, July 29 brought in a verdict of accidental death.

Howe Sound Fair in just 16 days

Howe Sound Fair is only 16 days away!

The fair committee realizes that and is working hard, like ants or busy like bees. The last meeting of the Fair committee will take place Friday night, Aug. 8, at the home of Mrs. M. Turner, on North Road, near Sechelt Highway.

In the meantime, Mrs. M. LeFeuvre, the secretary of the Fair committee is laboring diligently to line up whatever entries there are available and is working hard on many other things that will be part of this year's fair.

Given good weather the fair committee is looking forward to a larger attendance and a bigger fair than Gibsons' and district has ever had before.

"We have so many new things lined up," reports Mrs. LeFeuvre. "There will be a display and sale of native handicrafts from Sechelt and there will be a display from Port Mellon school which should prove interesting."

"There will also be a pet parade in charge of Mr. N. Sergeant and Mr. W. Haley, details of which will be announced later. There will also be merry-go-rounds and rides for the younger fry. Mr. J. W. Elliot of Elliot Shows will have one large merry-go-round and two smaller ones. There will also be a number of games for which prizes will be offered," Mrs. LeFeuvre said.

"The Elliot Shows will be on the Elementary School grounds and they should be set up to start operating at 1 p.m. on Friday, the first day of the fair," Mrs. LeFeuvre added.

A display which won the silver medal at the Pacific National Exhibition in 1951 will be seen, with additions, at the Fair.

Mr. C. A. Bedford, who has made a study as well as a fascinating hobby of marine shells and the life histories of their owners, will place his collection of rare and unusual shells gathered from all corners of the world on display for the people of the Peninsula.

Mr. Bedford says his shells have come from Scotland, Bermuda, Hawaii, the Gulf of Persia and other places as well as from Alaska, Queen Charlotte Islands and the mainland coast of B.C.

Invalidated from the services after the second world war, Mr. Bedford came to B.C. for his health, and since 1949, has devoted his time to the study and collection of marine shells. He will give information and interesting comment on any shells in the collection.

Arrangements are now underway for the allotment of space for exhibits and there will be some outside exhibits as well as those of various Gibsons merchants. It is expected Gibsons' and Sechelt merchants and others will be represented at the fair with a booth of some sort or demonstration showing off their wares.

There will be a special stall prepared by the fair committee which will be used for the sale of goods donated to the fair for sale to help cover expenses. Such items would include fancy aprons, candies in raffia baskets, home-cooking donations, preserves, fresh fruits and vegetables. Any items of this kind donated to the fair will be placed on sale at this special Fair committee booth and offered for sale.

Last year there was $374 offered in prizes and this year there is a possibility this amount might be increased.

The raffle this year will include a pair of white woolen blankets and a pair of pillow cases.

The committee in charge of preparing for the fair includes: honorary chairman, Mr. Norman Sergeant, Gibsons; Farmers' Institute, T. Clark, R. S. Clarkson, Len Coates, Mrs. J. Fitchett, Mrs. L. Coates, Mrs. M. Turner, Mrs. E. Pilling, Mrs. J. Davies and Mrs. N. Haley; Women's Institute, Mrs. G. Corlett and Mrs. W. B. Hodgson; Gibsons Garden Club, Mrs. E. I. Lowe and Mrs. G. Corlett; PTA, Mrs. I. Feidler; Roberts Creek representative, Wm. Gilbert; Wilson Creek representatives, Mr. and Mrs. Little; Sechelt representative, N. Watson, and Port Mellon representative, N. Marleau.

Hopkins assn. may wind up

At the annual meeting of the Hopkins Landing Community Association on Friday, the members of the group considered disbanding their association.

Due to lack of active interest in affairs of the association it was decided, after considerable discussion to adjourn the meeting until Saturday, Aug. 15, at 8 p.m. when a final decision will be reached.

Some time ago the group experienced a renewal of life when the older members turned affairs over to the younger group, after having kept it alive, paying taxes on the property, and making what use of the building they could before and after the second war.

Today's living at Hopkins Landing has temporarily rendered the need for the hall obsolete, the members feel.

TEEN CLUB FOR SECHELT

The young people of Sechelt and surrounding districts have formed a club which will sponsor dances, parties and outings for the members. The initiation fee of $1 will be used to pay rent for the monthly dances in the Wilson Creek Hall.

Harry Forbes was elected president, and Darlene Laycock secretary. Three husky bouncers will see that order is maintained at all the social affairs.

An orchestra, consisting of teen-age members has been selected to play at the dances. A committee of girls will attend to the refreshments.

These boys and girls are to be commended heartily for their willingness to tackle such a project without adult supervision or well-meant advice.

Jack Whitaker of Wilson Creek very modestly admitted to having been godfather to the plan in its infancy.

The initial dollar fee also entitles the members of the Teen Club to partake in the activities of the Wilson Creek Community Club.

Conrad death an accident

At the coroner's inquest, on Wednesday, July 27, J. W. Whitelaw, Compensation Board inspector, brought out the fact Harry Conrad had not been wearing a protective hard hat when he was fatally injured, July 26. Working on an extra slashing crew, Conrad had not yet been supplied with the safety hat, which was on order for him.

The facts brought out showed that the hat could not have saved him from injury, as the blow from the alder struck him on the side of the head.

Jurors George Hopkins, Vic Metcalfe, Earle Bingley, Herbert Winn, R. Davies and C. Wingrave, with coroner Dr. D. McColl, concluded that death was the result of an accident. Extra juror was C. P. Ballentine.

Strange letter

Strange things happen, even on the Sunshine Coast.

An envelope addressed to The Coast News, Gibsons, B.C. from Irvine's Landing contained absolutely nothing.

The Coast News is not reading between the lines of this letter that did not come so cannot even guess what was intended.

Maybe it was an order for printing. Maybe it was a nice large advertisement for the paper. Maybe it was a word of praise for the editor — and (dark thought) maybe it was just the opposite. Maybe, the mailer of the letter can tell us.

Our Postal Service

Sunshine Coast mail service is rapidly becoming out-of-date and not keeping pace with growth. This fact is brought home to The Coast-News every other day or so by people who complain generally about the slow service or lack of service.

Such complaints are not aimed specifically at the operators of the postal service on the Peninsula but rather at the type of service the area is receiving.

In a general way it might be explained that postal officials are reasonably well-acquainted with situations in various areas through postal department employees and it is on their recommendation that the first move is made towards improvement.

One of the first things to be done will be to find out how many people receive mail on the Peninsula. When this is known and as the result of improved water and road communication from Vancouver all the way up to Powell River it is quite likely there might be a change in the present system of handling mail.

Growing areas are always a headache to postal officials because they are invariably at the stage where they are too big for one type of service and too small for another. In between times, postal officials have to take abuse that accumulates under such circumstances.

It will take a little time for the Peninsula postal problem to be straightened out to the satisfaction of all but it should be taken for granted that there will be an improvement. Just when will not be easy to forecast because postal officials do not rush in—they wait until they are sure there is no other way out.

In the meantime pick up your mail at your usual time and if there are not too many bills in it, smile at the postmaster and his staff. They do not make postal regulations.

An Act for Apprentices

The Hon. Lyle Wicks has announced the Cabinet has approved new regulations covering apprenticeship and the issuance of certificates of proficiency under the "Apprenticeship and Tradesmen's Qualification Act." The Act, passed at the last session of the legislature, replaced the "Apprenticeship Act."

The obligations of an apprentice and the employer are clearly outlined. Among other responsibilities the apprentice is required to render faithful service; attend work and trade training classes regularly; avoid damage and waste of the employer's equipment and goods; obey lawful and reasonable demands of the employer. Wilful failure on the part of the apprentice to attend prescribed trade training classes may incur the loss of periodic wage increases or in extreme cases, cancellation of the contract.

The employer must notify the director of apprenticeship when employing a minor or apprentice in a designated trade. He is also to provide adequate training for each apprentice; arrange for apprentices to attend trade training classes; and to the best of his ability provide continuous employment for the apprentice.

Examinations for a certificate of proficiency will not be compulsory, but will enable successful workers to display their certificates as proof of their capability. The examinations shall include theoretical and practical tests of the applicants' knowledge and skill. These examinations are to be given as to best evaluate the knowledge and skill of the applicant.

Of great importance to apprentices is that recognition may be given by the examining board to the examination already taken by the apprentice to obtain his apprenticeship certificate. If the examining board approves, an apprentice who hereafter receives an apprenticeship certificate, is entitled to a certificate of proficiency with respect to that trade without further examination or payment of fees.

Examining boards are to be composed of three members appointed by the minister. The chairman is to be a member of the provincial apprenticeship committee or the labor department and the other two members are to be selected from employers and employees. It is the responsibility of the board to examine the candidates for certificates of proficiency.

Within a short time copies of the regulations will be available to the public without charge, by writing to the department of labor at any of its offices.

Wit -- Humor

A much married man was trying to chisel free advice from a lawyer friend.

"Isn't there some way in which a man can avoid paying alimony?"

"Yes," replied the lawyer, "two. He can stay single or stay married."

Driving through a sleepy little English village one evening our headlights suddenly picked out the figure of a woman—running for all she was worth down the road. Close behind her followed a man who appeared to be gaining at every step.

We screeched to a halt and, leaping out, I asked the woman if I could be of assistance.

"Oh no, thanks," she panted. "My husband and I always race home like this from the cinema. Last one in does the supper-dishes."

Pa—Well, John, I hear you are courtin' a school teacher.
John—Uh Huh.
Pa—How're ye doin'?
John—She marked 14 errors in my last letter.

CHURCH FELLOWSHIP

A Vancouver theologian, Professor S. Vernon Fawcett of Union College, has been awarded a World Council of Churches international fellowship for 15 months study in England, Palestine and Switzerland.

Dr. Fawcett, only man in North America to receive one of the two fellowships offered this year, sails for England Friday.

Jervis Inlet names are historical

BY GLADYS McNUTT

1758 was the birth date of Admiral Lord Nelson and Captain George Vancouver.

Nelson at the age of 12, although sickly and having little endurance, begged to go to sea. At 15 he was a coxswain, at 19 a second-lieutenant, at 20 a commander and next year a post-captain. Each time, visits to the West Indies and Central America brought on illness.

In the meantime Vancouver was serving with Captain Cook, one of the most famous navigators of all time, who practically changed the map of the world. Vancouver accompanied him on his second and third voyages, which were to the Southern Seas.

In 1719 Vancouver was sent to Nootka Sound to receive formal transfer of the land over which Great Britain and Spain had been disputing. Between 1792 and 1795 he explored this Pacific Coast from 36 degrees to 56 degrees north latitude.

In the meantime the Napoleonic Wars had started, 1793. Nelson, who was in charge of the Boreas, was given a new command, the Agamemnon, and sent to join the Mediterranean fleet. During the blockade of Corsica he lost his right eye.

As a rear Admiral he fought at the battle of Cape St. Vincent, 1797, under Sir John Jervis (later Lord St. Vincent). For this Nelson received the Order of the Bath.

His one defeat was the battle of Santa Cruz which cost him his right arm.

At Aboukir Bay, off the Nile, he defeated a French fleet winning the title Baron of the Nile. His ship at that time was the Vanguard.

In 1801 Nelson fought the Battle of Copenhagen. In 1803 he was commander-in-chief of the fleet his ship the Victory. After pursuing the French fleet almost to the West Indies and back he caught up with them off Trafalgar in 1805. Here Nelson received his death wound, his 28 ships having defeated a combined Spanish and French fleet. He died at the moment of victory in the arms of Captain Thomas Hardy. His flag signal to the fleet before the battle was "England expects every man to do his duty."

Captain Vancouver, who had been in ill health for quite some time, had died back in 1798, aged 40. As a result of this we find no place names celebrating any of Nelson's victories after that date.

It would appear that Vancouver did not name places when he first saw them but waited until he completed his maps. This must have been so, because the Battle of St. Vincent did not occur until two years after he left this coast.

It is interesting to wonder why he chose the most important names of his time for Jervis Inlet. Could it be the impressive scenery remained long in his memory?

Thus we have: Nelson Island, Jervis Inlet, St. Vincent's Bay and Nile Point.

For ships: Agamemnon Bay and Channel, Vanguard Bay, Goliath Bay, Captain Island and Fearnay Point (Fear-nought).

Of officers, etc.: Hardy Island, Dacres Point, Mount Troubridge (behind Saltery Bay), Hotham Sound and Edmont Point.

For the Royal family: Princess Royal Reach, Prince of Wales Reach, Queen's Reach, and Princess Louisa Inlet.

A step back in history was taken to name two outstanding landmarks at Vancouver Bay, Marlborough Heights and Churchill for John Churchill, Duke of Marlborough, who won the famous battle of Blenheim against the French and Germans.

A Logger's Tales

(BOCAS DEL CARNELO)
BY L.S.J.

But propt on beds of amaranth and moly,
How sweet, while warm airs lull us, blowing lowly.

Tennyson had never heard of the Bocas Del Carmelo when he penned the "Song of the Lotus Eaters." Many and devious were the ways of making a living hereabouts in the long ago. It was made much easier if one had a gas boat that would be about 28 feet and a 5 hp engine of one cylinder. Possession of such a boat made you a beachcomber and once in that category you had reached the lowest or perhaps the first rung in the social ladder.

Visiting round and meeting the folks on the islands with this rig I picked up the odd job of slaughtering cattle or pigs here and there and that's how I came to the group of islands known to the Indians as Smus Pus Tan Quin Ace.

The largest island had what most of the B.C. coast islands had not, a five or six acre cleared flat spot in the middle of it and this was the haunt after dark of the deer that inhabited the place and the two legged predators who in an unlawful manner made life miserable for them.

The cannery mogul who owned the place brought his family there in the summer and they also had plenty visitors which made it necessary to import a couple cows and some chickens. The island was well posted with signs "Keep Out" but as a rule we had some old log pickup permits from tugboat captains that made us immune if we stayed on the beaches. The island has no counterpart this side of Desolation Sound and it is a perfect entity, moated deep and wide.

There is a gem of a bay on the south end that had been cleared of underbrush by the Laird and I can't think of any place more suitable for these few lines from Milton's Lycidas.

And now the sun had stretched out all the hills,
And now was dropt into the Western Bay;
At last he rose, and twitched his mantle brew;
To morrow to fresh woods and pastures new.

We would lay in there and watch the sun go down quite often although the westerly swell, if any, bothered us some. There were nearly always a few spring salmon around the island, especially the north end and about three in the afternoon on a winter's day we would down poles and prow round till dark. I well remember a January evening

Hospital earnings

Patients paid directly 37.5 percent of the net earnings of Canada's public hospitals in 1953. They paid another 18.4 percent through Blue Cross, 3.4 percent through Workmen's Compensation Board, and 8 percent through other group plans and contracts. Government supported hospital care plans paid 23.7 percent of the national total, almost the entire sum going to hospitals in Saskatchewan and British Columbia which have provincial plans in operation. Direct government grants for individuals made up the other 8.6 percent.

when I picked up seven fish in about as many minutes and they weighed 137 pounds and that was the first time I got over 20 cents a pound for fish. The other time I was there to help a town chap kill the two fat cows that the Laird had tired of feeding and while I am not sure of dates this time it was October and we had a bad sleet storm that broke trees down all over the place.

There was a Chinese caretaker there and we knew him slightly from doing a few chores for the Laird. He also knew enough to keep everything locked up, as the beachcombing fraternity those days regarded anything loose as if it had come in on the wind and tide—even if it was in the woodshed. They were a bit fastidious about breaking in as it would take a great deal of palaver to explain a high tide water mark in the summer cottage kitchen. There was also "Jimmy" to contend with too, a rotund limb of the law just returned from the wars and was both game warden and policeman combined. Acting on "information received" he could be found creeping along the shore in a canoe in the dead of night when he thought there might be a chance of picking up a pit-lamper.

In retrospect it is a conundrum as to why we didn't realize then what a blissful existence we led. I am afraid if we had, and could have existed till the welfare state made its debut (and the odd one managed that) we must surely have been in the promised land. There was rarely a day passed that I did not get a trip to Horseshoe Bay when the old gas trains were running from North Van. There used to be a boat in the early morning on Mondays and there was always somebody who couldn't make it.

I well remember one who was an eminent jurist, now gone to be judged, who could not believe there was such an outrage as being charged $3.50 for a run to Horseshoe Bay. A few years ago that same man was getting $100 a day for about four-and-a-half hour's work presiding at an enquiry.

I really must draw this chapter to a close but let us go back once more to the sandy cove on the south end of Smus Pus Tan in Ace on a sunny afternoon in May with enough westerly wind to shimmer the leaves and blossoms of the wild rose. Oh me, Oh my. Mr. Omar Khyam, except for the jug you had nothing more.

Peninsula called region of great scenic beauty

A newly opened Canadian region of great scenic beauty marine drives, tall timber and exceptional salt and fresh water fishing has opened up for highway travellers with the complete accessibility now by car and ferry of British Columbia's Sechelt Peninsula and Powell River areas.

In addition, extension of the Pacific highway beyond Powell River to Lund gives access at that British Columbia coast town to historic Savary Island with its fabulous salmon fishing on the shoal waters of the upper Straits of Georgia.

Previously known only to yachtsmen or towing crews visiting Powell River, "paper capitol of the world", the scenic Sechelt Peninsula - Powell River region is proving increasingly popular for weekend and vacation trips.

On British Columbia's mainland coast north and west of Vancouver across Howe Sound, the Sechelt Peninsula is known as the "Sunshine Coast." From the Black Ball ferry landing at Gibsons along the coast of the peninsula to Earl Cove, a 51-mile drive leads through picturesque summer and resort settlements along the water, dense forests with the lofty mountains of the Coast Range towering in the distance, Indian villages, past lakes and streams and along a fjorded coast line with island-dotted seascapes.

Warm sandy beaches afford swimming, clamming and picnic sites. Comfortable and reasonable motels, cottage courts, lodges, resorts and camp grounds afford good accommodations. Launches, water taxis, rental boats, seaplane charters and children's camps are also available.

At Earl Cove, a second Black Ball ferry crossing, also just over an hour long, crosses Jervis Inlet to Saltery Bay. Each ferry trip is across a placid fjord bordered by snow capped mountains, dotted by islands, and is a "pocket edition" of the famous inland passage cruise to Alaska.

Black Ball motorvessels on the Howe Sound and Jervis Inlet crossings offer wide decks, comfortable lounges, dining service and accommodations for cars, trailers and trucks that require no turning — merely driving straight on and off. Service is frequent with seven trips daily on each crossing.

From Saltery Bay, it is a 23-mile trip to Powell River, "city of paper" in the tall timber country of Northwestern B.C., where a gigantic 20th Century industry lies on the rugged coast. The largest newsprint mill in the British Empire is located at Powell River.

The most northern extension of the Pacific Highway, so familiar to United States and Canadian travellers as "Highway 99", leads north from Powell River to Lund. This fascinating little Scandinavian village is 14 and one-half miles north of Powell river, on a good highway completed late in 1954. From Lund across to Savary Island is a two-mile crossing by small boat.

It is on Savary Island that some of the most famous salmon fishing in the world is to be found. Long the fishing rendezvous of such moving picture stars as Gary Cooper and Bing Crosby, Savary Island is accessible for its first real tourist season via the new road. Discovered by Captain George Vancouver on his 1792 voyage of discovery, Savary Island today has miles of white sand beaches, warm bathing, sheltered coves for pleasure craft and a modern hotel.

Salmon on their way to the northern rivers feed among the little islands, shoals, kelp beds and reefs surrounding Savary Island.

Whether travellers take the entire trip to Savary Island or prefer to stop at one of scenic points en route, this newly-accessible area north of Vancouver offers comfortable accommodations for a relaxing holiday in an unusual and beautiful setting. The entire drive is only 100 highway miles plus the two magnificent but short ferry trips from the busy and important city of Vancouver.

Garden graph

If garden fresh peas are a favorite with you and your family, why not try a late planting in the space vacated by an earlier vegetable.

Late varieties of peas can be planted even as the first cool days of early fall approach and still mature to give a crop before the first frost comes. The yield will not be as large as earlier planted peas, but will add substantially to the family food supply.

In order to give late peas a quick start, soak the trench in which they are to be planted, as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

Peas planted late in the season should be sown deeper than those planted early in the spring when the soil is full of moisture. In heavy soil, plant late peas about four inches deep. Plant them six inches deep if the soil is very light. When the peas have been covered with soil, "walk" the soil to firm it, as shown in the Garden-Graph.

Late peas are apt to be a bit temperamental. Mulching after the plants are well up helps in hot weather. An unfriendly heat wave as they are forming peas, or a cold, wet period while they are blossoming can reduce the crop almost to nothing. For late plantings, select varieties that are locally successful.

Late peas should have some sort of support since they are tall growing. Chicken wire is often used for this purpose. Leggy twigs can also be used.

Shopping With Do.

Always something new under the sun. There's a new shoe polish out now, that comes in liquid form, and you simply paint it on. It dries with a high professional-looking polish that lasts and lasts, even on the most scuffed of shoes. It comes in white and colors.

Plastic continues to blossom out in new forms and colors. Salad sets, servers, fruit serving sets, lamp shades and such items can scarcely be distinguished in appearance from their glass originals. They are lighter, and don't break when dropped, however. There's an appreciable difference in cost too.

Funny, colored soft rubber toys, on rubber handles, will make the tiniest baby gurgle with delight — they squeak at the slightest motion. Bigger children can make them cackle like hens, or squawk like many other animals.

No need to write orders for things like fine cotton sheets, when they are available in local shops in top quality, and at the same, or lower prices than quoted in your catalogue.

As the Peninsula grows, so does the scope of local firms, in serving the buyer. One can now obtain from a local builders' supply firm custom built canopies for pick-up trucks. They're well built, sturdily braced, with steel gussets and I'm told that two visits for measuring and final fitting are all that are required by the builder.

There's a whole new display of glazed pottery and china ornaments, figurines and china flower containers, as well as gift-boxed pieces of Crown Derby China in the Posy pattern, at another shop. They make lovely gifts.

NEW MILK POWDER

A completely new, instantly soluble type of skim milk powder has been developed by the Fraser Valley Milk Producers Association for the home market.

A big problem faced by processors of dried milk has been that of overcoming the slow-mixing characteristic of their product. This factor is well-known to housewives. Introduction of an instant soluble powder is certainly good news for them.

ATOMS CONFERENCE

A University of B.C. metallurgy expert, Frank A. Forward, will be a member of the Canadian delegation to the international "Atoms for Peace" conference at Geneva August 8 to 20. Professor Forward, head of the UBC Mining and Metallurgy department, has been appointed as an advisor on the 28-man Canadian delegation to the 80-nation parlay.

Baby shower

Mrs. Ian MacLean of Wilson Creek was the recipient of many lovely gifts of baby clothes, toys and baby nursing needs, at a shower held at the home of Mrs. Inger in Gibsons last Wednesday.

Mrs. Ken Inger and Mrs. Neil MacLean were co-hostesses for the surprise shower, and 22 guests bearing gifts attended, and had an enjoyable evening of games and fun.

After a pleasant supper served by the hostesses, Mrs. MacLean, while overcome by the generosity of her friends, thanked the guests in a few words of appreciation.

Wilson Creek

BY DOROTHY ERICKSON

Isabel and Josephine Ochoa from Berkeley, Cal., and formerly of Wilson Creek, spent several days visiting here. They called on Mrs. M. McNutt and enjoyed reminiscing about "good old days." They attended school here and at Roberts Creek and left some years ago but in spite of many changes found the scenery and old "haunts" still fascinating.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Taylor who moved from Port Mellon into the former Les Chamberlain home at Davis Bay have been very busy with improvements both inside and out, whenever they have spare time. Fishing is Mr. Taylor's hobby.

Calling on relatives here and en route to Madeira Park last week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Bert Dunfield of Vancouver. Their son and daughter Lynne and Terry will be remembered as they both worked here during their high school holidays. Now both are married and have young children. Bert is connected with a large construction company which builds homes for Kitimat.

He was formerly with Boeing Aircraft war assets and BC Bridge at Duncan Bay. Mrs. Dunfield is a member of the Jackson family and spent the week-end with the Les Wilkinsons at Madeira Park.

The Fred Vigor family was up for a jolly though damp week-end.

Last year over two million pamphlets explaining the nature of cancer, and the importance of early diagnosis were distributed by the Canadian Cancer Society.

A full week of dramatic entertainment on CBC-TV and radio network lies ahead for viewers and listeners, this summer. Among the top programs in July and August are: Summer Fallow, Monday night on radio, Tuesday night on television; CBC Theatre; CBC Wednesday Night; Drama at Ten, television on Monday night; and the Sunday night radio show, Summer Stage.

Roberts Creek Mr. L. Morrison dies aged 68

BY MRS. M. NEWMAN

A recent guest at the Gordon Reeves home was Mrs. C. White of Victoria. Also a guest was Keith Reeves who returned at the end of the week to his home at Jordan River, accompanied by Miss Nonie Reeves who will visit with her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. John Reeves.

The July dance sponsored by the PTA was patronized by more than 200 dancers, who, besides enjoying an evening of fine dance music by Ernie Prentiss and his orchestra, made a considerable increase to PTA funds thus enabling that organization to make plans for a busy and useful winter's program.

Miss Pam Byrne of Powell River is a guest at Mrs. Ruth Mitchell's home for a few weeks joining several Vancouver girls spending vacations there.

Park Day dawned on a rainy miserable scene and all thought of races and sports was put out of mind.

The crowning of Park Queen, however, took place as planned. Patsy Lloyd was the charming queen escorted by Bill Coles and received her crown from Past Queen Jean Baba escorted by Edward Campbell. Attendants were Jean Gibb and Donna Danroth.

Lovely bouquets for the Queen and her attendants were made by Mrs. J. Rusk while flowers for decorating the stand were donated by residents of the community.

The races and parade will be held on Saturday, August 6 and there will be prizes for the best costumes.

In the evening the Queen and her attendants were guests of honor at the dance at the Community Hall which was put on by the Hall Board. A large number attended.

Mr. and Mrs. Reg Eades returned from a trip which took them to Port Angeles and other American points of interest. While away they visited Mrs. Eades' brother and family in Victoria and Cowichan Lake. Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Eades, with Teddy and Kathie, have returned to their home in Vancouver following two weeks vacation at the creek.

Eight little campers arrived at Stratford Camp Sunday looking for sunshine. Miss Sheila Geddes has joined Miss Barbara Coles to help with the counselling.

Mrs. Mina Bell

After a lengthy illness, Mrs. Mina Bell of Granthams Landing passed away on July 28 at the age of 54.

Mrs. Bell was a well known resident of Granthams Landing, having lived there for some years. She had been hospitalized in Vancouver for the last few months.

She leaves her husband, three sisters and one brother. The funeral service was held from Nunn and Thomson Chapel, July 30, the Rev. G. S. Packham, D.D., officiating.

Sechelt News

BY MRS. E. LUMSDEN

Mr. and Mrs. Steven Borno, Porpoise Bay, have been hosting two ladies from widely separated parts of the world, Mrs. B. Greer, Mrs. Borno's mother from Langley Prairie, and Mrs. A. Roy travelled from Norfolk, England.

Mrs. May Barker, manager-ess of the P.A. Coffee Shop in Sechelt has returned to work after an illness which lasted about three weeks.

Mr. R. D. Minion, manager of the Bank of Montreal in Sechelt, is planning to spend two or three days in Vancouver with his family before leaving for Fort Hammond to visit a brother who is also manager of a bank. He is quite disappointed in the weather, as he had intended to spend his holidays locally, fishing and, as he put it, lazing about; but with the temporary deluge he thought they might as well take the opportunity of travelling.

Mrs. Doug Lister, in Vancouver on a shopping trip with her mother, Mrs. E. Green, unexpectedly met Chuck and Olive Smith, old-time residents of Halfmoon Bay now living in Bella Coola. Mr. Smith worked with Harold Frostrup when he logged in the Bay area years ago. Mrs. Lister said they were both looking well and prosperous.

Terry Nickerson, West Sechelt, left on Thursday, July 28, to visit his sister in Dawson, B.C., whom he has not seen for nine years. He is undecided whether he will look for work in that area and perhaps lengthen his stay.

B. C. Boy Scouts win free trip to jamboree

A Hedley, B.C. Scout, another from Nanaimo, and four from Vancouver will get free trips to the Boy Scout Jamboree next month. They were among the winners in a nationwide essay contest.

The names of British Columbia Boy Scouts who have won all-expense paid trips to the Eighth World Jamboree, at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Aug. 18-28, were announced today by Col. T. C. Batten, Provincial Commissioner, the Boy Scouts Association.

These six B.C. Scouts are among 50 winners from across Canada in an essay contest sponsored by the Bank of Nova Scotia in co-operation with the Boy Scouts Association. The bank will pay transportation and all expenses of ten days at the Jamboree for these Scout winners.

Selected on the basis of the best essays submitted on 'What it Means to be a Boy Scout,' the winners in British Columbia are:

Robert Vincent Calderoni, 16, of Box 35, Hedley, B.C.
Harvey Borden, 17, of 4715 West 4th Ave., Vancouver 8.
Wayne Stilling, 15, of 928, Townsite Rd., Nanaimo.

Eddie Jackson, 14, of 233 W. Second St., North Vancouver.
Malcolm Wilkinson, 15, of 1227 Walnut St., Vancouver.

Donald Michael Sinclair, 16, of 331, 36th Ave., Vancouver.
"We conducted this essay contest because we realized how much attendance at the Jamboree could mean to a Canadian Boy Scout," said a bank spokesman. "The essays themselves certainly warranted the project."

Their enthusiasm for the Scout movement and their pride that Canada is host this year to the world-wide Jamboree are evidenced by these Boy Scout essayists. As one prize-winning essay writer put it: "This year in Canada we shall see Scouting in action. Though orators and journalists may strive to put the essence of Scouting in words, only at such a Jamboree will we finally realize what it means to be a Scout."

Among the 50 winners were 15-year-old twins in Montreal and a new Canadian Scout in Toronto who arrived from Germany just a year ago.

TV expanding throughout world

There are three times as many television stations in the world, and nearly twice as many receivers, as there were only two years ago. Stations are broadcasting from 38 countries, as against 27 countries in 1953, and a further 20 countries have plans to introduce television within the near future.

These facts are given by the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (Unesco) in a 1955 supplement just released, to "Television: A World Survey" which was published by Unesco in 1953.

Danny honored on anniversary

A group of friends were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Danny Smith, at Danny's Dining Room, to celebrate last weekend, the first anniversary of the opening of their dining place.

An excellent dinner was served. There were toasts to Danny and Evelyn, and wishes for their continued success.

Stories, mostly with a broad Scots flavor, were interspersed with plans for the future, and comments on accomplishments to date.

Bouquets and a lovely potted begonia were received from well wishers, and a special bouquet for Danny, made up of fresh garden vegetables, was presented.

Both Danny and Evelyn feel that the year's hard work has been well worth while and the future looks promising.

The longer look that is the current word on the silhouette is interpreted in this dress-maker jacket suit of medium gray wool. The look is achieved by means of the lengthened tabs which originate from the banding at the shoulders. The banding follows a V-line to the waist, then turns outward and longer than the peplum. A narrow black patent leather belt marks the normal waistline. There is a pink rose at the wide open neckline. The skirt is straight and narrow.

Microwave system for television

Telephone engineers will begin path testing in August between sites of 12 mountain radio relay stations in the rugged B.C. portion of what will be the longest single microwave system in the world.

Designed to provide television channels and long distance telephone circuits over a 3,800 mile route from Vancouver to Sydney, N.S., the network will be operated by the member companies of the Trans-Canada Telephone System.

Aerial surveys of the proposed sites were made earlier this year, and more recently engineers have been carrying out preliminary tests on the ground, using special mirrors to establish line-of-sight paths between the projected relay stations. Actual radio path testing will entail the use of portable 200-foot towers and associated radio equipment. Construction of the B.C. section of the system will cost more than $5,000,000 and is expected to take three years to complete.

Proposed relay sites include Burnaby Mountain, Sumas Mountain, Hope (Ruby Creek), Blackwell Mountain, Manning Park, Hedley, Anarchist Mountain, Phoenix, Mount Santa Rosa in the Trail area, Lost Creek, near Salmo; Thompson Mountain, near Creston, Moyie Mountain and Morrissey Ridge near Fernie.

Known as TD-2, the projected microwave system will provide additional long distance telephone circuits to supplement existing landline facilities, as well as television channels. Television cannot be carried on standard long distance lines, but requires the use of microwave equipment or coaxial cable.

The additional telephone circuits will be a further step toward continent-wide direct dialing of long distance calls. The microwave system will be equipped to transmit television in either black and white or color.

Cities already served or to be connected include Vancouver, Edmonton, Calgary, Saskatoon, Regina, Winnipeg, Fort William, Port Arthur, Timmins, Sudbury, North Bay, Toronto, Peterborough, Kingston, Ottawa, Montreal, Quebec City, Saint John, N.B., and Halifax and Sydney, N.S. Further extensions can be made to connect other points along the route when required.

The Toronto - Ottawa - Montreal - Quebec links are already in operation, and the Toronto - Winnipeg connection will be the next section to go into service. This is expected to be completed by the fall of next year, while the 800-mile Winnipeg - Regina - Calgary section is scheduled to go into service early in 1957. The 710-mile Quebec - Saint John - Sydney links are slated for completion in mid-1957.

Recognized by engineers as the toughest stretch in the 3800-mile route due to the mountainous terrain, the B.C. portion of the system is expected to take about three years to complete.

Many of the relay stations in B.C. will be located at the 4500-foot level or higher and several of these will be situated at altitudes of approximately 7000 feet. In many cases access roads will have to be built through rugged terrain in which snow conditions are described as "heavy."

The TD-2 microwave system operates on a line-of-sight basis on frequencies between 3700 and 4200 megacycles. It permits the "stacking" of 120 telephone circuits above television signal, or, if television is not used, makes it possible to operate between 480 and 600 message circuits, depending on technical variables.

The stations are spaced an average of 28 miles over the entire route and sites are chosen so that there is no obstruction between stations. Accessibility for maintenance is also an important factor in the selection of the sites. The towers carrying the antennas vary in weight up to 115 tons, depending on height required, which in turn depends on elevation of the site.

LET'S EAT --

"What diet regime would you suggest for an adult to keep in good physical condition?"

I was interviewing a man who has learned by practical experience, and whose physical prowess and fine physical condition prove the worth of his words — the former world heavyweight champion, Jack Dempsey.

Lemon and Water

"First, the juice of a lemon in a glass of warm water on rising," he replied. "It's a good natural cleanser. And always an apple on retiring, for the same reason."

"Of course, there should be plenty of fresh air, day and night, and people should have nine hours of sleep, or as much more as they like. I believe in sleeping until you want to get up."

"How about breakfast?"

"Indoor workers should have a light breakfast— fruit or fruit juice; toast or rolls; a cereal with milk, or eggs; and coffee or tea. Outdoor workers need more than that. Lunch, too, I believe, should be a light meal. A bowl of soup (real soup, not hot water), plenty of raw vegetables in a salad with a little chopped egg for garnish. Serve whole wheat bread with this, and stewed or fresh fruit for dessert."

"As to dinner," Mr. Dempsey concluded, "eat whatever you like, but keep the foods plain and cook them so that all the food value is retained. Eat only a few fried foods. Use bread a day old. Eat lightly of sweets."

"If you want dessert, make a whole meal of it, but then don't eat the main course."

U president in Australia

University of Sydney, Australia, conferred an honorary Doctor of Laws degree on University of B.C. president Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie at recent (June 14) convocation ceremonies.

Dr. MacKenzie told Australian students graduating in law and medicine that "relations of human beings, internationally between nations, domestically between groups and classes, and on an individual basis, is of supreme importance."

He urged them "not only to serve clients and make a living, but to understand these relationships of men and women and of nations, and on the basis of understanding rather than of violence, to find solutions."

The degree conferred on Dr. MacKenzie was his 11th honorary Doctor of Laws degree. He has also been awarded the honorary LL.D. degree by the universities of New Brunswick, Toronto, Ottawa, Bristol, Alberta, Glasgow, Dalhousie, St. Francis Xavier, McGill, and Mount Allison.

The president is spending the summer lecturing at Australian universities.

Dr. Joseph Parker, a famous British preacher, of last century, said: "In the realm of moral affairs, every man can be a king, and every woman a queen."

In other departments of life it is different. The intellectual is the partial; a few stand prominently. The rest of us are ordinary or even dunces. I can remember that as a boy I always seemed to be in the middle of the class at school. I once got to the head of the class; my mother nearly had a fit and my dad was so thrilled he gave me a sixpence. Sixpences were scarce in our house, and I can still remember what I did with that one.

The social is partial; thank God this isn't as true as it was, but still some consider themselves to be the "cream of society," and the rest of us "skim milk." Even in the democratic United States as well as our own Canada, there is a good deal of classification.

When it comes to moral affairs, there is a chance for every man and woman alive, to be eminent; here is no ex-

SPORTS WEEK

BY CHUCK TOMPKINS

The big bat of Rudy Crucil of Wilson Creek and the curve ball of the Merchants Gordy Johnson combined to break the hearts of the top running Firemen last week.

Friday night at Wilson Creek was truly Crucil night as the Creek's terrific short-stop practically single handed, beat the Firemen by hitting two tremendous home runs and making many fine plays in the infield as the Firemen bowed 7-3 to the rampaging ranchers.

Teammate Dick Gray walloped one home run and was robbed of his second by the fine catch of left fielder Jim Hall of the Firemen.

Bob Norris hit for the circuit for the Fireboys.

Monday night the unpredictable Merchants, aided by the fine chucking of Johnson, a home run by Pete Slinn and probably the greatest catch of the year by fielder Jack Cresswell, downed the play-off bound Firemen 5-3.

Sechelt backed veteran chucker Sammy MacKenzie last Wednesday and edged out Merchants 8-6.

Wilson Creek romped to an easy 8-1 win over Sechelt Friday night.

The play-off set-up so far is that the winner of the Squamish, Woodfibre, Britannia, Mt. Shear league, will play a sudden death game with the Squamish Jets, a team that is affiliated with the BCASA but that does not play in an organized league.

The winner of that game will play the winner from our league with the victor going to the finals in North Vancouver on August 27.

There is a possibility that should our representative get to the finals we may have a game on the Peninsula (providing fans support it).

The "Popular Player" contest is rolling along and the ballot in this weeks paper will be the final one, so if you would like to see your favorite player decked out in the sport jacket presented by Marine Men's Wear Vote! Vote! Vote!!

The standing so far shows veteran pitcher Norm MacKay in the lead followed closely by Bill Nichols, Rudy Crucil and Danny Bergnach. Deadline is Monday midnight, Aug. 15.

A quote from a small portion from the constitution of Little League reads: "so that boys, regardless of race, creed or color, may play ball."

Last week in one of the southern states no less than 55 teams withdrew from the play-offs for the Little League World Series. Why? because a colored team had proved, by its ball playing, that it was eligible to participate in these play-offs.

Instead of the directors of Little League sticking to their guns they went back on their constitution and ruled the colored boys ineligible to play by some remote law.

Is this sportsmanship? Is this democracy? Is this Little League?

One of the funnier things of the season happened at the Merchants-Firemen game Monday night, when Merchant scorekeeper Ivan Warren, sat on the Merchants bench, loudly rooting for the Firemen. "I Predict" on vacation.

Judy Klein ties for first

A Pender Harbour girl, Judy Klein, tied for first place out of 250 students of the Bob Dressler Accordion College on Saturday, July 30 at the Dunsuir Auditorium in Vancouver.

Mrs. Lou Plumeridge, who teaches at Sechelt, took nine students for their exams. The exams began at 10 a.m. and continued throughout the day.

The exciting day ended with a concert of six accordion bands, and a number of the senior students also entertained.

Some of the Peninsula children had to return on the eight o'clock stage from Vancouver, and were most disappointed about missing a lot of the wonderful concert.

The following students were entered: Judy Klein, Darlene Laycock and Cecelia Hassan. Elementary: Joe Fisher and Jeff Whitaker, Sechelt; Allan Landers and Ken Landers, of Gibsons; Beverly Dubois, and Shirley West, Pender Harbour.

Mrs. Plumeridge plans to form an accordion band in the fall of this year.

Plan swim classes

Norman Watson and Frank Parker, Sechelt Lockers, have received complete data on the formulation of swimming classes from Steve Woodward (Sun Swimming Classes) in Vancouver. They are most interested in having professional instruction here on the peninsula for the youngsters.

The plan is still in its infancy, and it may be a little late to make any headway this summer. If all the details are settled in the near future, there should be no barrier next year at the start of the swimming season.

Mr. Watson said that a minimum of four teachers would be required to properly supervise the large group expected to participate in the classes. It is hoped that Mrs. Lee Redman, possessor of a great many medals for her prowess in aquatic sports, will be on hand for this venture.

Anyone who has the skill, or is interested in the foregoing and willing to learn how to teach the rudiments may contact Norman Watson.

Sourdoughs meet

Sourdoughs are planning to attend the International Sourdough Convention in Eureka, California, Aug. 18 to 21 in full force, according to enthusiastic letters received by Bill Gallop, reunion chairman at his home in Willow Creek, Cal.

For those who plan to go to Shasta Dam on August 17 a letter to Harry Bloomfield at Burney, California will bring details. He should also be contacted for the trip over 299 from Redding through the mining country on August 18. All those planning to take these trips, please write Mr. Bloomfield at once.
