16 Home development for Cannery road area

A 16 home development in the north-west corner of Sechelt Highway and Cannery road was discussed with Veterans Land Act officials by the village commission at Tuesday night's meeting.

The area involved covers 40 acres and includes the gravel pit now there and would mean running a road up through the centre of the area with houses to be built on both sides of the road which would be a 66 foot regulation road.

The type of homes to be built would be according to V.L.A. specifications and nothing would be erected which would detract from better class homes which would be built.

The V.L.A. officials arranged with the commission for a water supply for the proposed 16 homes. It might take more than a year for the development to get rolling so the strain on the present water supply would not be felt because by the time the development required water an improved water supply system would be installed.

Accounts totalling $181.44 were ordered paid, of which $90.89 was for Municipal hall work, $34 for general expense, $2.78 for fire protection and $53.77 for the water department.

$13,315 blacktop job for roads in Gibsons

Up to $13,315 will be spent on Black-top roads in Gibsons, Roads Commissioner Ballentine said at Tuesday night's village commission meeting.

He made the remark during a discussion on the paving of Gower Point road and other roads this year.

Gower Point road will be black-topped from Wardills corner to the Village boundary at a cost of $6,487 of which the provincial roads department will pay 75 percent.

Beach Avenue from Marine drive to Glen road will also be black-topped and the cost will be $1,350.

The School road from Sechelt Highway for a distance of 440 feet will be black-topped at a cost of $1,625.

Bals road will be double flush coated from Sechelt Highway to Seaview road and from Seaview road westerly to Sechelt Highway. From Franklin road from Gower Point road to Headlands and Headlands from Franklin to Douglas from Headlands to Gower point Road. This work should be completed within a month. The public is urged to watch for road signs during this work.

Highway paving

Columbia Bitulithic Limited having obtained the contract to pave Sechelt highway from Sechelt on expect to be on the job shortly after May 15 according to present indications.

The company at present is working on the unfinished part of last year's contract in the Port Mellon mill town area. After then the company will do some work in Gibsons. They hope to finish the Gibsons work by May 15 so the company will be free for its major contract, Sechelt Highway.

Rebel picture

On Thursday and Friday evenings this week movie fans will enjoy the excellent picture, Rebel without a Cause. This story of teen-age frustration will be of interest to young people and their parents. James Dean stars, and does a marvellous piece of work in his role.

If local audiences are like those in Vancouver, there should be a full house on Saturday's showings of the Lone Ranger. In Vancouver there were as many adults as children flocking to see this story of one of youth's favorite characters in action. There is plenty of action and color in the Lone Ranger for Saturday matinee and evening.

Next week for three big days, Gibsons Theatre has secured the comedy Mr. Roberts, with Henry Fonda in the lead. This is a delightfully hilarious comedy of the trials and tribulations of a naval ship's crew, with Henry Fonda as first mate.

James Cagney, William Powell and Jack Lemmon are tops in their supporting parts. This is a picture you should not miss.

FIRE ALARM

Prompt action by the Gibsons Fire Department stopped a fire in a vacant lot across from Mr. Abbs home in Gibsons on Wednesday morning. An alarm was turned in about 10.45 a.m., and the firemen found an old stump burning in the lot. They put out the fire as a safety measure, as a small wind could have fanned it into a conflagration.

Credit bureau will operate

At the meeting of merchants held at Gibsons on April 25 to discuss the question of the formation of a Merchants Credit Bureau, it was decided to apply for a charter at once and get the operations of the bureau underway as soon as possible.

A full and clear outline of the operations was given to those present by Mr. B.L. Cope who organized the province of Alberta some years ago and was responsible for most of the ideas used in the operating of such a bureau.

It is planned to cover from Port Mellon to Pender Harbour and any merchants doing business in that district are invited to contact Mr. Cope at Roberts Creek (telephone Gibsons 22C) as soon as possible. As soon as the charter is received a meeting will be called to elect the officers and complete the organization.

Hospital WA

A general meeting of all members of St. Mary's Hospital society will be held in the community Hall at Pender Harbour, starting at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 13.

Various aspects of the work of the society will be discussed and it is pointed out by the executive that only paid-up members are entitled to vote during the meeting. Applications for membership will be accepted so members are asked to bring along their friends and get them to join the organization.

WALLET STOLEN

A wallet with $200 was taken from the premises of the Sechelt Building Supply Saturday April 28 at about 10 A.M.

The R.C.M.P. have nothing to report yet, except that the wallet containing the money has been found.

The matter of parking in the area opposite the firehall was drawn to the attention of the commission by Commissioner Mylroie. Chairman Ritchey said he had observed the same thing and Clerk Robert Burns also reported the same thing. A motion was passed asking the R.C.M.P. to see that the area was left clear to assist the fire department to operate in case of fire.

The provincial roads department will be asked to clean out highway ditches and clear any gravel that has spread on the highway as it has not been done for some time.

Building permits for an $8,000 home to be built by William Thomas and a verandah costing $200 for Ernest A. Mainwaring were passed. One for a $2,000 guest house to be added to the W. Peterson home was held up for further information.

The Thomas home which will be built on Lot C north block 22/33, district lot 686 will be 28 by 38 with five rooms in one storey.

A special meeting of the commission to give the rates bylaw final reading will be held at 7.30 p.m. Fri., May 4.

Showers, no flowers, yes

Not since April 1933 has there been such a lack of those legendary "showers" which bring "May Flowers".

One third the normal rainfall coupled with sunny skies, low humidities, and much higher than normal temperatures greatly eased the flood threat in the valley, but in turn greatly increased the fire hazard in all our forests.

No less than seven existing records for April were shattered, and the tabled highlights for the month appear below, together with the normal April figures.

1956	Normal
Total rainfall .81 in*	2.27 in
Days with rain	7 12
Highest temp.	72.1* 64.8
Lowest temp.	29.4 27.8
Mean Temp.	48.6* 44.7
Mean max. temp.	58.4* 53.1
Mean min temp.	38.7 36.3
Mean temp 7 am.	44.7 42.7
Mean temp. 7pm.	47.3* 45.2
Days with frost	2* 7
Mean cloud cover 41%*	54%

* denotes new record. While the sunshine coast truly lived up to its name during April, peninsula gardens still plead for rain which the month of may will no doubt provide. Last year, Victoria Day weekend was most pleasant and the warmest in years, and our holiday seekers will expect a repeat performance this year - even though the odds are not in their favor.

Headlands scholarship

At a meeting of Headlands Service Club it was reported that $23.55 was raised at the Primrose Tea on April 19th. Plans were laid for a Garden Party to be held at the home of Mrs. Davis on July 5th.

While other community projects are under consideration, a motion was passed to provide a $100 scholarship to a student from Elphinstone High School to enter a school of Nursing. Requirements will be an average of not less than 80 percent in the student's Junior Matriculation exams. This will be available to this year's graduates.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Adams on May 9th. New members will be welcome.

Maiden trip for Smokwa

With more than 50 guests of Black Ball Ferries on board the "Smokwa" arrived in Gibsons shortly before 1 p.m. Wednesday on its maiden voyage on the Horseshoe Bay-Gibsons run.

The vessel, formerly the Scotian on the Halifax-Dartmouth in Nova Scotia, is the latest addition to the Black Ball fleet operating along the British Columbia coast line.

It was all newly painted and refurbished for its initial run and the guests were quite interested in the lack of vibration experienced on the run.

After docking at Gibsons the general public were given a couple of hours run of the vessel inspecting it from stern to stern and sampled the wares at the coffee bar.

Black Ball officials included Capt. A.M. Peabody, chairman of the board; Col. George Paulin, president; Bud Birse, vice president and Einar Gundersen, director.

Guests from Sechelt included Magistrate A. and Mrs. Johnston; Capt. S. Dawe, Bernel and Mrs. Gordon. From Gibsons there were Mr. and Mrs. Stewart, representing the Board of Trade, Harold and Mrs. Wilson, the village commission Norman and Mrs. Hough, the school board; Mr. and Mrs. Walt Nygren, Mr. and Mrs. Reichelt, Mr. and Mrs. George Hunter, Mr. and Mrs. Rae Kruse and others.

From up coast was Mrs. Jermain and Johnny Haddock from Bargain Harbour.

Reports have it that the "Smokwa" will be transferred to the Jervis Inlet run for a space while the Quillayute undergoes drydocking for a cleanup. The Quillayute will then replace the Bainbridge for the same drydocking. By May 18 when the summer schedule goes into effect the runs should be back to normal.

After the summer runs have ended the "Smokwa" will be trimmed to Howe Sound travel specifications and by the time next spring arrives it will be a new Smokwa on the run.

Cow upsets local truck

Half a dozen cows in the road near the S-turn on the Sechelt highway were the cause of an accident to Telephone Lineman Fred Feeney last Wednesday evening.

He was driving home from a late job and came on the group of cows. He avoided two, and a third ran in front of his truck, which overturned on the highway. Fred was able to crawl out of the door.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Cutbert who were following in their car saw that Fred was not seriously hurt, and left him with a neighbor who had heard the crash. They informed the police in Gibsons, and a wrecker moved the truck as soon as possible, as it was a hazard to traffic.

The cow was killed.

First auto

In 1920, the village of Sechelt boasted one car. It was a model T Ford touring car, with side curtains, owned by Herb Whitaker.

At that time, it was possible during most of the year to drive to Gibsons over the wagon road. There were, of course, off-times during the winter when the car was impractical as means of transport.

Mr. Whitaker also owned the first taxi. It was the above mentioned Ford.

BOY SCOUTS OPEN DRIVE

The Sunshine Coast Boy Scout Association has opened its campaign to collect funds to provide for the expansion of the Scout and Cub movement in this district.

The campaign will run throughout the month of May, closing May 31, in that space of time the movement hopes to raise a minimum of $1,500 for future operations.

Composition of the Scouting movement on the Sunshine Coast has undergone a change within the last couple of years and today the organization is controlled by a district council with Magistrate Johnston as chairman, E. Henniker as treasurer and J. Wood as commissioner. The executive committee includes R. Gill and D. Macklam of Port Mellon, N.R. McKibbin and Harold Wilson of Gibsons, E. Johnson of Hopkins Landing, C.R. Harbord and S. Butler of Roberts Creek, J. McLeod of Wilson Creek, H. Stockwell of Sechelt, O. Dubois of Pender Harbour and W. Robinson of Middle Point.

Letters have been sent out to quite a number of people seeking their contribution towards helping Scouts and Cubs attain their objective. Those who desire to help out can place their donation at the Bank of Montreal in Sechelt or Gibsons where it will be credited to the Scout Association.

The various group committees will be arranging their own efforts to augment Scout funds and while some is to be raised for camping equipment it is pointed out by the district headquarters that Camp Byng belongs to provincial headquarters and is not run by the Sunshine Coast district council. Money raised for camping purposes will be used to purchase equipment for use of the various troops along the Sunshine Coast.

Cookies

coming up

Girl Guides and Brownies are all set for their annual Cookie Week campaign and they expect to garner many a 30 cents, the price of each package.

Cookie week will be from May 12 to May 15 and it is expected that sales will be brisk throughout the week. All profits go to the Brownie and Guide funds towards improvement of their organization.

Distribution centres for the Guides cookie sales campaign will be: Granthams, Mrs. DeMarco; Hopkins, Mrs. Bracewell; Soames Point, Mrs. Kruse; Gower Point, Mrs. Chaster; Headlands, Mrs. Ritchey, Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Ray; Sechelt Highway, Mrs. Charman, Mrs. Turner and Mrs. Stenner; Pratt Road, Mrs. Herrin; Gibsons, Mrs. Robertson, Lang's new drug store, and Mrs. Inglis; Waterfront, Mrs. Clark and Post Office road, Mrs. Labonte.

Safety contest

A giant safety program contest covering all forest industrial operations throughout B.C. has been announced by the joint industry-labor-government committee responsible for Forest Products Safety Week, May 7th to 11th throughout British Columbia.

Awards will be given for the most commendable program used for Safety Week. All entries will be judged by the joint committee on the basis of four main points: breadth of participation within the organization named; number of planned items, ideas or devices used; originality; practicability.

Entries may be for a departmental program, a divisional program or a company program. Participants must agree to assist the judging committee in verifying the performance of their program. A detailed description of each item in the program is required; it should illustrate the extent of management leadership, the scope of labor's participation and the degree to which individuals cooperated.

Deadline for entries is May 23rd, 1956. Address all entries to the Joint Committee, Forest Products Safety Week, 707 West 37th Avenue, Vancouver.

Safety Week photo contest will also be offered. Purpose of the contest is to develop a competitive interest in the campaign, encourage broad participation and at the same time obtain a pictorial record which will include useful publicity material for future safety campaigns.

Suitable subjects include: any promotional activity for Safety Week; flag raising ceremony or scene; dramatic pictures emphasizing safety; an original descriptive safety scene; human interest in safety; a sequence of photos suitable for a "picture story" presentation. One 8x10-inch glossy print is required for judging.

Mail all entries to Photo Competition, Safety Week Committee 707 West 37th Avenue, Vancouver 13, B.C. All entries must be in the mail not later than May 23. This gives contestants time to have finished pictures of Safety Week activities in their localities.

FORESTRY'S FUTURE

During the next five years nearly a quarter of a million dollars will be invested in the pulp and paper industry of this province, so the 1956 issue of Facts about British Columbia's Pulp and Paper Industry records.

In 1956 about $85,275,000 will be expended. This expansion will improve the utilization of the forests of British Columbia, especially in the coastal areas. It will create new jobs and support new or larger permanent communities in the mill areas, 1956 Facts adds.

At this point attention to an article on this page by Dr. G. S. Allen, Dean of the U.B.C. Faculty of Forests. It is an article well worth reading and was published in the monthly U.B.C. Reports issued by the university.

The article along with some interesting data from the 1956 Facts publication contain sufficient information for the average person to realize that British Columbia's pulp and paper industry is riding a tide which for the present does not appear to show any signs of receding, even remotely.

For instance the 1956 facts outlines 32 basic products made from wood products. They range from newsprint to facial tissues and from hardboard to kraft wrapping paper. To say that 32 items reveals an end in sight is being ultra-conservative. Based on the products already made from pulp, the possibilities appear endless. Now that woods previously wasted are being utilized the woods will get a closer inspection because a great deal more of the growth can be utilized.

It is estimated, says 1956 Facts, that the pulp and paper industry recovered approximately 490,000,000 lbm of wood which would otherwise have been wasted or put to poorer use. Seven years ago there were no facilities for the utilization of this material. This recovery, says 1956 Facts, means nearly $40,000,000 of new wealth for British Columbia. To show the growth of new wealth for British Columbia.

To show the growth of production the booklet, 1956 Facts, contains a table showing 1944 short ton production at 471,322 and for 1955 a total of 1,407,561 short tons. This is an increase of nearly one million tons in 15 years, due to increased mill output, new mills and a greater utilization of an increased availability of basic product.

What does all this mean to the Sunshine Coast? Your guess is as good as any other and if you fail to guess that some of that basic product is along this coastal area from Port Mellon to Powell River, you have flunked an elementary question requiring an elementary answer.

The arrival of greater electrical power resources should have a place in your thinking, too.

Forest revolution affects University

BY DR. G.S. ALLEN
 Dean of the Faculty of Forestry

Revolution on a grand scale is going on in the forests of British Columbia. The forces of revolt are many and they are diverse in nature. They are working against less-than-complete utilization of the forest's products, —against the heavy losses caused by fire, insects, and decay, —against incomplete or inefficient use of forest land, —and against complacency respecting the wood supply of the future.

The forces are economic and they are technological. They are founded on common sense and a healthy respect for the renewable nature of the forest. Because wood has increased in value it has become economic to use much more of the tree than was possible previously; more wood is taken off each acre and much more of it finds its way into usable products. And because accessible ripe timber is no longer easily available in the next valley, many operators as well as the Crown are applying their energies to the growing of new crops as well as to harvesting of the old timber provided by nature. In short, they are turning more and more to the land as the real forest resource, —land that properly managed can yield successive crops of wood and other valuable "products" such as wildlife and fish, recreation and water, and protection against flood and erosion.

Forest conservation today has many facets, —more efficient and more suitable harvesting of mature timber, elimination of waste in the woods and in the mills, more valuable use of the products of the forest, new products, extended life of wood through the application of preservatives, reduction of losses from fire and other damaging influences; quicker regeneration of the new forest, better new forests that will produce a maximum of raw material, stabilization of markets and development of new markets so that the beneficial trends of past years can be maintained. These are not all part of "forestry" but they are matters vitally important to forestry and forest conservation.

One example may be cited. The development of log barkers and chippers in recent years has made possible the use of formerly unused small logs, chunks, and sawmill and plywood-plant refuse. The annual equivalent of this in standing timber volume is over one-third billion board feet or a volume that might be logged for some 7000 acres of good mature forest. Because low quality and small material can now be removed economically from the forest, the logged area is cleaner and often does not require slash burning; this in turn often means quicker seedling-in of the land and a new forest on the ground several years earlier, and because of the forest's increased value, more attention can and must be paid to protecting it from fire and insects.

This chain of relationships extends to the ultimate market for the product. Only by constant attention to sales and market extension can the product be sold to permit of this closer utilization and the benefits that reach back to the forest. Forest conservation thus embraces selling, plus efficient manufacture, plus research and development, plus careful and efficient harvest, plus the best of protection, plus quick establishment of the new forest so that effective use of the land is made.

The University's role in forestry is a unique one, —to provide in part the technical, professional and managerial staffs of government services and industry. Some will be graduates in Commerce, Economics, Chemistry, Chemical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, some will be graduates who have not specialized to any great extent, —but a relatively large number will be graduates in Forestry or Forest Engineering. These are the men who will do the technical work in the forest, —plan and lay out the cutting operations, devise better methods of harvest and reforestation for the many conditions that exist in the province, plan and carry out protection operations, and make studies in the constant search for new knowledge that will aid the forest manager in his practical duties. In short, the forester on the ground will be concerned with all aspects of harvesting, re-producing, and protecting the forest. He may also find a responsible place in manufacture and in selling because of his basic understanding of wood and its properties.

In view of the wide variety of responsibilities and duties that are the forester's, his training is an important matter. Traditionally, the world over, he is given a good grounding in the sciences that underlie the forestry practices and techniques covered by the professional subjects. In more recent years, however, the need for an understanding of economics and business principles and for facility with his mother language, has resulted in the addition to the curriculum of economics, accounting, business administration, and more seminars and English. At the same time attention has been given to subjects such as weather and climate, genetics, and plant physiology, and opportunity has been afforded for some electives in the sciences, economics, commerce, and the humanities.

We might ask if less time should be spent on the non-professional subjects and more time on the professional. This is not easily answered except to say that a great need exists today for men who have not only professional ability but also a potential to rise to administrative and executive responsibilities, in which positions they can do much to promote better forest conservation. At the same time, scientists and engineers and technical foresters will be needed in large numbers at various levels of responsibility to carry out the interesting and important tasks that lie ahead, many of which require them to deal with and work with people.

There is a place for almost every young man of average intelligence who has or develops a keen interest in the forest or in some aspect to it. One of our immediate problems is that too few of our young men are entering the profession and the vast program that lies ahead may be forced to advance slowly because of a lack of trained men. This is true of other professions also, but in a region whose economy is firmly tied to the forest and the forest industry, the shortage of foresters is likely to be of very great concern. Steps have been and are being taken to attract more men to the profession. We are hopeful that they will help solve this vital problem of providing the professional manpower that is needed for forest conservation in British Columbia during the coming decades.

Mental Health Week advice

The Canadian Mental Health Association lists ten safety signs for good mental health. This is in contrast to danger signs with which health organizations usually alert the public.

The safety signs were formulated for Mental Health Week, ending May 5, by Dr. George S. Stevenson, an American colleague of Dr. Clarence M. Hincks, founder of the Canadian Mental Health Association.

The main characteristics of good mental health are:

1. A tolerant, easy-going attitude toward yourself as well as others.
2. A realistic estimate of your own abilities - neither underestimating nor over estimating.

3. Self-respect.
4. Ability to take life's disappointments in stride.
5. Ability to give love and consider the interests of others.
6. Liking and trusting other people and expecting others to feel the same way about you.
7. Feeling part of a group and having a sense of responsibility to your neighbors and fellowmen.
8. Acceptance of your responsibilities and doing something about your problems as they arise.
9. Ability to plan ahead, and setting of realistic goals for yourself.
10. Putting your best efforts into what you do and getting satisfaction out of doing it.

Begonias are popular

Tuberous begonias are increasing in popularity as garden subjects year by year. Although they can be started from seeds. It is more practical for home owners to use tubers. A.P. Chan of Central Experimental Farm, Canada Department of Agriculture, says that by following a few basic rules, success can be assured because they are not really difficult subjects to handle.

The tubers are roundish on one side and the other is concave. The shoots arise from the concave side so the tuber must be planted with this side up. The best way to plant is to take a tuber and twist it into the soil or moss until it is level with the surface. It is a mistake to plant too deep. The best way to plant is to take tubers is to use peat moss in a flat. After the tubers show roots they can be potted in soil. During the starting period, no light is necessary but it will do no harm. As soon as the shoots begin to grow, they should receive fairly bright light, i.e. beside a window. The tubers will start best at a temperature of about 75 degrees. After they are potted, the temperature should be 50-60 degrees F. for sturdy plants.

After planting the tubers in peat moss, a thorough watering is necessary. Then examine the peat moss daily for moisture. When the peat is light in colour, more water will be needed. When watering, avoid wetting the crown of the tuber because this is often the cause of the start of diseases.

If the plants are intended for planting out, they should not be started before April 1st. Starting too early results in plants that are too big. Short, stocky plants are the best for planting out.

COAL STILL NEEDED

For "a long time to come," coal rather than atomic power will remain the world's chief source of energy, according to a report published by the International Labor Organization.

The ILO report states that it is generally agreed that atomic energy will not be produced in substantial quantity in the immediate future and that the increased demand for energy will to a large extent, "still have to be met from traditional sources."

Meet your bank manager...

He's easy to meet—and a good man to talk things over with. Not just because he knows a lot about banking, but because he can be counted on to apply that knowledge and experience to your particular need.

To him banking is more than dollars and cents, more than figures in a ledger. To him, banking is the opportunity to work with people—through bank services to help with your problems, your hopes and plans.

That is what he has been trained to do. That is what he likes to do. You'll find he's a good man to know.

well-known oil company. In the Middle Ages, we are told that the scallop shell was a symbol of piety. Christian pilgrims on their way to a shrine wore it in their hats.

Pilgrims travelling through France to worship at the shrine of St. Jacques (St. James) in Spain were such a common sight, the French people nicknamed the scallop Coquille St. Jacques.

Today if you ask for Coquilles St. Jacques in a Parisienne restaurant, you would be served with scallops in a delicious sauce, arranged in deep scallop shells. This dish is a culinary as well as artistic triumph. The home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries have supplied easy directions for making one version of it.

Coquilles St Jacques

1 pound scallops
1½ cups milk
4 tablespoons flour
¼ cup butter, melted
½ teaspoon salt
2 egg yolks, well beaten
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
1 tablespoon lemon juice
¼ cup dry bread crumbs
1 tablespoon melted butter.

Wipe scallops with a damp cloth and if large, slice. Scald milk and add scallops. Poach scallops at simmering temperature for about 5 minutes or until they lose their watery look and are milk-white to their centres. Drain but save milk. Make a white sauce by blending flour, melted butter and salt and stirring in the heated milk gradually.

When thickened, stir a little of the hot sauce into the beaten egg yolks and then add yolks to the sauce. Add lemon juice and grated lemon rind and stir over hot water a minute or two longer. Add scallops and spoon into buttered scallop shells or indivi-vidual ramekins. Top with buttered crumbs and brown crumbs lightly under the broiler. Serve hot. Makes 4-6 servings.

Many people find it convenient to make a casserole dish early in the day, store it in the refrigerator and then pop it into the oven half an hour or so before dinner is to be served. Whether you adopt this practice or not, here is a recipe for an energy-saving casserole which is endorsed by the home economists of Canada's Department of Fisheries. It is called the Easy Casserole and it is easy - easy on the budget, easy to make and serve, but best of all, easy to enjoy.

Easy Casserole

1 package of frozen peas or 2 cups of canned peas
2 (½ pound) cans pink salmon or tuna
1½ cups cooked rice
1 (10oz) can of cream of celery soup

½ cup dry bread crumbs
2 tablespoons melted butter.
If using frozen peas, thaw just before using with boiling water and drain. Do not pre-cook. Drain and flake canned fish. If using salmon save the liquid. Place half of the cooked rice in the bottom of a greased 2-quart casserole. Add in three layers the peas followed by the canned fish and remainder of the rice. Dilute the cream of celery soup with the salmon liquid, if using salmon, or with ½ cup of milk if using tuna. Spread evenly over contents of casserole. Top with bread crumbs mixed with melted butter. Bake in a moderate oven at 375 degrees F. for about 30 minutes or until the crumbs are browned and the contents of the casserole are bubbling hot. (If the casserole has been stored at refrigerator temperature, warm at room temperature for a few minutes before placing in pre-heated oven, and allow a little extra cooking time.) Makes 6 servings.

A DOCTOR REFLECTS

A famous New York physician, Dr. Loomis, wrote an account of his 35 years' experience as a consultant. The book was entitled "Consultation Room" and revealed how a wise and extremely sympathetic doctor felt about the thousands of troubled people who, during those years, had sought his advice. One must have patience, he insisted, even with people whose troubles seem imaginary. There is a saying that a lawyer sees the worst side of a man; a clergyman the best, but a doctor sees the real man; no doubt there is much truth in this.

He said that often, when listening to a sufferer from a disease such as cancer, he would be deeply moved, in spite of the fact that he had been hearing similar stories over a long period. Just to know that the patient had suffered so much and would continue to suffer, made him sympathetic. After that person left, his room another would come in whose ailment seemed trivial and superficial; hardly worth bothering about.

"My first impulse," said Dr. Loomis, "is always to say to such a person: 'Your trouble is trifling and petty. A person has just left this room whose malady is 10, 20 times as great as yours. You are making a mountain out of a mole hill.'"

The doctor goes on to say, however, that it is a mistake to make people feel you despise them. After all, their trouble is very real and you cannot help them by holding them up to ridicule. Even if it is only a sore toe, or something less painful, it clouds their whole sky. The wise thing to do is to listen patiently and attentively and by tact enable them to get over it. Whatever you do - don't snub them.

This is good advice. When people are distressed, even if it seems frivolous, they want to tell their story. If they have their say and talk themselves out, they may realize they are making much ado about nothing, but it is better to allow them to arrive at that conclusion themselves. Dr. Ambrose Sheppard of Glasgow, one of the great preachers of last century, was filled with self-reproach in his old age because he had not been more patient with people who bored him; he felt he had not been a good listener.

In a magazine article on good salesmanship, the writer insisted it was necessary that the salesman should train himself in the art of listening. "You don't win the confidence and goodwill of prospective buyers by talking them down," he said. "If you do that, they resent your aggressiveness; after all, conversation isn't a one-way street."

A businessman went on a trip to England and returned to his family after an absence of four months. As he approached home, his six-year-old boy shouted from the verandah: "Daddy, I'm writing with ink now." Lots of more important things had happened in four months, but to that youngster, the world-shaking event was that he had graduated to a place where he could write with ink. That wise businessman appeared astonished and said to the youngster: "That's wonderful, son; I want you to tell me all about it."

It takes a genuinely wise head and a kind heart to listen to other people's woes, but it is well worth doing, and there is scriptural warrant for it. The prophet Ezekiel was distressed and bitter when he saw the idolatries of his fellow-countrymen during their exile, but he wanted to help them as well as rebuke them, and he tells us how he did it. "I sat where they sat," he wrote. He listened to them and got their point of view, and only then was he in a position to help them.

Dr. G.H. Morrison points out that although Jesus became indignant, we never find him ridiculing anybody. He knew what was in man and that knowledge filled him with compassion, even for the most sinful. When Paul wrote to the Philippian Christians he knew how sound was this advice: "Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus." It is easy to raise a laugh at people and sneer at their weaknesses, but it is a dangerous thing to do; it degrades others and does harm to the man who indulges in it. The mind of Christ was never scornful.

Here is the significance of the incarnation; that Jesus became the Son of Man, and of him it truly be said: "He sat where they sat." Wherefor in all things it behoved Him to be made like unto his brethren that He might be merciful and faithful highpriest."

Today's quotation is from the Book of Ezekiel: I sat where they sat.

SPORTS WEEK

BY CHUCK TOMPKINS

The need for a community ball park in Gibsons is growing steadily with the only solution for this year being the High-school grounds.

The school board so far has been very lenient with the use of these grounds and I am sure that all the participants using them appreciate it.

This year with the little league operating at full blast we must have a good park for the spectators as well as the players.

I think that the school board has done enough in allowing the teams to use the grounds and that it should be up to the players of each team to get these grounds in shape.

There are three teams in Gibsons and I do not think that the school board would object to the members of these teams working on the field as long as the work is done for the betterment of the grounds and that the board knows what is being done.

A few rakes, shovels, another set of bleachers some dugouts that can be moved at the end of the season and you will have as good a field as there is on the Peninsula.

The Vancouver Mounties are having a tough time of it and it still boils down to not enough pitching and injured players. Help is supposedly in sight when the parent Baltimore Orioles have to cut down on their roster in a few weeks.

If the Mounties can win a few in the next three weeks I still claim they will finish the season in the first division.

Tribute to a real sportsman: George Agar, the tremendous playing coach of the Allan Cup champion Vernon Canadians, at 37 is so crippled with arthritis that it is an effort for him to lace his skates, but he is the leader all the way and never lets up.

At conference

Rev. and Mrs. M.T. Stronstad returned Saturday from attending the 26 annual provincial conference of the Pentecostal Assemblies of Canada, in Vancouver.

While there, they attended the annual ordination service when four men were ordained into the full time ministry.

They also attended the graduation exercises of British Columbia Bible Institute in Georgia Auditorium, where 21 young men and women received their diplomas, after completing a three years course in theology.

Gargrave expecting election

"I'll be mad to put it mildly if Mr. Bennett calls an election this year" said Tony Gargrave, M.L.A.

He said that he had squared away all his constituency work for the year and hoped to put the summer in quietly at Powell River working for Northern Construction.

"Frankly I'm sick of meetings and politics" he said. "And besides I've got a hunting and fishing trip all lined up for the fall and if we are thrown into a premature election I'll have to go fishing for votes instead."

"However the Premier is making unmistakable noises which sound like an election. Free tolls and free taxes, that is certainly election stuff. Only Social Credit could think of a plan where the Provincial government offers to pay our municipal taxes. I wish they would pay my income tax", he said.

Mr. Gargrave held his last meeting of his legislative reporting trip at Bowen Island Thursday April 26. He has traveled three thousand miles and spoken to seventeen meetings in six weeks. "I'm going back to work to get a rest" he said.

M & W store is purchased

Mr. and Mrs. D.A. Donaghan of Roberts Creek, recently purchased the M & W Store at Roberts Creek, and will take it over on a cash and carry basis May 15.

Mr. Donaghan, whose business was writing for financial publications before coming to the coast, and Mrs. Donaghan, who for years was with McLean-Hunter publications, have fallen in love with this country. They purchased a home on the Lower Road, just east of Roberts Creek.

John Matthews, who with Keith Wright, took over the store in Roberts Creek from E. Shaw in June, 1949, is going into temporary retirement, and has no definite plans for the future.

John and Keith brought the store a long way in their seven years, and modernized it considerably. Dick Kennett, who has been with the M & W since he left the Four-X bread run, will be staying on with the Donaghans.

The first Port Mellon Guide Company with their Captain Mrs. J. Strayhorn and Lieutenant Mrs. E. Preiss left Port Mellon at 7 a.m. Sat., April 28, for their first breakfast hike.

The sun was shining beautifully by the time they reached Robert's Creek Park where each Patrol built a fire, fried
