

Gibsons name change set for December vote

A change of official name from Gibsons Landing to Gibsons will be the subject of a referendum along with municipal elections in December.

This was decided at Tuesday night's council meeting when a letter from Hon. Mrs. Isabel Dawson containing advice from Municipal Affairs Minister Campbell was read. This advice was that such a change was not a matter for a private bill in the legislature. It could be handled by a municipal plebiscite under new legislation.

Council has been trying to get a name change for the last two years through legislative processes. Councillors Fred Feeney and Ken Goddard moved that the issue be put to a plebiscite. Councillor Wally Peterson chimed in with the remark that an effort was started some 20 years ago to have the name changed.

Ernie Cartwright, owner of eight lots on the Georgia Heights bay front which some years ago were the subject of a zoning debate after which they were zoned for commercial purposes, now seeks to have some of the lots returned to their original residential status.

Council argued, with Councillor Drummond expressing the opinion that all or none be considered for rezoning. The result was that Mr. Cartwright will be informed that the all or none policy would be the only course council would consider. His verbal approach to the clerk was regarded as a feeler.

Seven applicants for the job of Municipal hall janitor will be taken under consideration of council to see if the type of person so hired would also be available for other work within council's jurisdiction.

Councillor Feeney obtained support to ask the Ferry Authority to erect covered walkways for walking passengers at ferry terminals so they would not have to walk in the rain. Council approved and it was suggested that Sechelt council and the chambers of commerce be asked to add their approval.

Building permit debated

Operation of the building permit system drew steady debate on the subject of constructing starting before a permit has been approved, at Gibsons council meeting Tuesday night. The case discussed was that of the Raymond Fletcher home construction at Winn Road and South Fletcher. It was found that work had started before the permit was approved. A permit was taken out dated Sept. 15, but approval was not given until Monday afternoon this week. In the meantime construction progressed.

It was argued that building should not start until the building and health inspectors had approved the work to be undertaken. Clerk David Johnston explained council's arrangement that approval was given by the inspectors involved and then the matter was reported to council for information purposes only.

Many will remember Gibsons Fiesta Week sponsored by the Sunshine Coast Arts Council in which paintings by local artists were displayed in store windows in early September last year. The idea was borrowed by Mrs. Kay Wells from West Vancouver's Sketch Club which holds a similar show each May.

This year Fiesta Week was held over until the last week of September to tie in with promotion of Adult Education evening classes in visual arts. In addition to a painting in each store window there will be two displays of pottery, ceramics, lapi-dary and woodwork in Marine Men's Wear, Bal's Block, courtesy of Mr. Vince Prewar and the other at Sunnycrest courtesy of Mr. Don Head. The exhibits have been assembled for display by Mrs. Bing, Mr. Bjornson and Mr. Al Porter.

In Sechelt a special display of pictures will be hung in Parkers Hardware following the most successful show held there in March by Mrs. MacLean's Sechelt Art Class. Pictures by members of Mrs. Hooper's Pender Harbour class may have a place in this display. Ceramics and lapidary work will be on display at the Gallery Shop.

Ferry fares argued

Discussion on reduced ferry fares drew comment at the recent convention of the Union of B.C. Municipalities which showed there was some favorable attitudes in the province towards the idea.

Chairman Wes Hodgson of Gibsons said that the 10 miles between Horseshoe Bay and the Sunshine Coast cost $3 for the car and $1 per passenger. A return trip for a couple would cost $10. He explained that he thought it pretty expensive travelling to 20 miles. He asked the delegates to approve the resolution.

He continued by saying that preferential rates might be a beginning as the ferries are in reality a continuation of the highway. He expressed the thought there should be no toll, fares or rates. To get home he travels via highway 101 and the ferry then again on Highway 101 from Langdale. He maintained that while on the ferry he was still on Highway 101, a provincial highway and should have the same privileges given taxpayers who drive home on freeways and bridges without paying tolls or rates. In other words, he argued the ferries are highways conveying taxpayers and tourists from one place to another and should be toll free.

Bush afire

Fire in bushland adjacent to the Fred Feeney home on Sargent Road, started burning at about 7 a.m. Tuesday morning. An alarm was phoned in and after about a 20 minute spell the fire was controlled and put out. The lower picture is from C. P. Ballentine who threw some cuttings away in the spring and was surprised to find they had rooted. The main plant in the picture was three feet tall which he cut down to two feet. There are 23 tomatoes on the plant.

Mrs. Bob Rowland on Gower Point Road has green grapes growing and picked 30 lbs. Monday. There are still more on the vines.

Peter Kerbis, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Kerbis of Langdale grew a tomato plant with his pumpkins and has taken 61 tomatoes off, weighing nine pounds. There are as many more still on the plant. He also had a 40 pound pumpkin in the fair but now has one much larger.

Photography on display

Lingering doubts about art in photography may be dispelled by a visit to the Arts Council Gallery Shop where a small collection of photographs by Dennis Gray of Sechelt is on display until Oct. 7.

The eight 16 x 20 inch pictures form a short documentary entitled by Mr. Gray One Day in September (a father's memories of a day in September when his sons took him fishing). It carries the very essence of this Indian Summer weather when it seems warm days will never cease. Boys from nine to 90 and anyone who has ever loved a small boy will find a warm response to this photographic record of one day in a boy's life.

Mr. Gray is interested in your comments and a visitors' book with space provided will be available. The Gallery Shop is open Wednesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

C.F.P. announcement

PORT MELLON SHUTDOWN POSTPONED

Canadian Forest Products Ltd., Howe Sound Pulp Division announces that the previously announced shutdown, which was anticipated to occur in late October and early November, and be of at least two weeks duration, has been postponed. It is now anticipated that some downtime of approximately two weeks may take place at Christmas in conjunction with the normal holidays.

Production shutdowns are dictated by sales and market conditions which are difficult to assess accurately in advance. These conditions have improved slightly in the short term, although the long term picture remains uncertain.

Auxiliary aids CNIB

How would you read your favorite author if you lost your sight? Nine hundred and sixty one blind persons in British Columbia solved this problem by using the unique library service of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Like the sighted, blind readers enjoy a wide variety of reading from the Bible to science fiction, from the gourmet cook book to hunting and fishing. If you were to visit the library, which serves all Canada from headquarters in Toronto, you would not recognize this National Book Room as a library. Instead of the rows of printed books with their bright jackets and hard cover backs, you would see rows of metallic containers that house the taped cassettes which carry the recorded sound of the printed word. Best sellers are sent to Toronto on tape where copies are made on electronic equipment that produces 12 copies at a time.

Canadian books are taped by volunteers in six cities across Canada, including Vancouver, and again sufficient copies are made to keep pace with reader demands. If you continue your tour of the library you will come to a section of large volumes bound in dark green covers with little adornment in print or design. These are the Braille books which are read by touch, once the blind person has mastered the formation of the dots, which make up the Braille alphabet.

When you contribute to the annual financial campaign, organized by Gibsons Legion Ladies Auxiliary and under way here from Oct. 1 for one week, you will share in providing new books for your blind neighbors. You also share in distributing three tons of books across Canada every day of the week post free by Her Majesty's mailman. Watch for the volunteer canvasser to call at your home. Volunteer canvassers are asked to phone Mrs. Pat Schindel at 886-2905.

Night classes start

Two public school buildings will light up Wednesday and Thursday night when adults begin registering in the school district's night classes, Mr. Frank L. Fuller director of Adult Education announces.

Registration for all classes will take place between 7:30 p.m. and 9:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Sept. 27 at Elphinstone Secondary and on Thursday, Sept. 28, same time, at Pender Harbour Secondary. Adults not able to register on those nights may register by mail or the first night of classes.

The regular adult program will be highlighted this year by the addition of four classes of special interest at Elphinstone Secondary. These are: Creative writing, public speaking, advanced art, and a course which will analyse the news behind the headlines.

Mr. Raymond Hull, a professional writer who has written some 30 TV plays and countless magazine articles will be instructing the creative writing and public speaking courses.

Instruction in advanced art techniques will be offered by Mr. Fred Carney. Young Mr. Carney has been a painter for eight years. He is a product of the training at the Vancouver Art School and the Western Washington College of Education. His course will be for individuals with artistic ability who wish to broaden their skills.

Mr. W. S. Potter, principal at Elphinstone Secondary, will analyse the geographical and historical roots behind the exploding headlines in his class, News Behind the Headlines. This class will give students a chance to look closer at many of the crises of today's world. The fee for this 8 week's course will be only $7.50.

All courses, times, dates and classes are listed in the program brochure which the adult education office mailed to all residents this week.

Regions recognized

(By MARIE FIRTH)

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Watson, Cliff House, West Sechelt, arrived home on the weekend after a 10-day trip through the interior. Norman, Regional board chairman, attended the Municipal convention held in Prince George.

Seven Regional Districts were represented and now have full membership and voting rights along with the municipalities. Up until now they have been able to attend but had no voice.

Prince George is an example of successful town planning and shows what can be done in a short time, Mr. Watson felt. In the past two years it has developed from a sprawling interior town into a new city. Many permanent companies and businesses have invested their time and money in the city's future, and have built their own headquarters. The planning and building is still going on as the facilities are bursting at the seams. There seems to be no end to the possibilities in this growing community.

Mr. and Mrs. Watson also visited the new Bennett Dam, but were disappointed as the public tours had been discontinued the day before. According to Mr. Watson it is something that has to be seen to be believed. It is the third largest dam in the world, and as the largest in North America, is a achievement of which B.C. can be proud.

POTLUCK LUNCH

Work a necessity!

In case any person desires to have some understanding of the Coast News editor's opinion of the breed known as the hippies let it be known that he is definitely opposed to the spread of a cult which has no future.

It is true that society down through the years has had a segment of people who can be placed in the hippie bracket but so long as they were in a minority they were far less menacing than the movement that now exists.

Every person has had in mind an easy way of life but the facts are there is no easy way. The hippies think they have one. Time will prove them so wrong.

The world of today was not built by people who flunked their responsibilities. That is what hippies are doing. Any cult that tries to escape from this world as it exists are battling a lost cause. If they are of the opinion they are setting up a new mode of life, they will be right in making that assumption. But — economics being what they are, a cold brutal fact, there is no room for them in the scheme of things as they are today and will be for generations to come.

There is no alternative to work. This is still a pioneering country with plenty of room for those who desire to help improve their condition in life. So, hippies, pull up your socks, spit on your hands and get busy and try and make something of your life other than being a drag on your community.

At last it has happened

The two individuals who found it necessary to lay charges against a truck driver for his antics in traffic on the highway are to be commended for their action.

The fact they placed charges against a truck driver does not mean all truck drivers are to be branded by this action. There are drivers of lighter cars who are a menace on the road too and maybe someday someone will have them before the magistrate to explain their actions on the highway.

A good many truck drivers are careful and do give the smaller car driver a chance, waving them on when a chance to pass occurs. However there is always the maverick that chooses to have his way regardless of consequences. That is why we have courts, police and citizens who have courage to lay charges.

Minute message

Blessed are they that mourn, for they shall be comforted.

This is one of the puzzling sayings of Jesus. It could mean among other things that our capacity to experience grief is the measure of our capacity to experience happiness. If we cannot feel grief deeply, then our happiness will be superficial.

Moreover, deepest grief can be followed by greatest happiness. When we are overwhelmed with sorrow, we are left helpless and in desperate need of a Friend. While appreciating the kindness that human friends may give, we know that human aid is not nearly sufficient.

In our conscious need we turn to the only Source of adequate comfort — the only One who can be with us always and give us hope, strength, victory, peace and encouragement to carry on, and take up our duties again. We turn to Jesus, whose redeeming, comforting Presence gives us deep and abiding happiness, enabling us Urmans Vilmanen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Konrad Vilmanen R.R.1, Chesterville, has been declared winner of the weekly newspapers essay contest. Vilmanen is 18 and will be entering Queen's University this fall. He is also the winner of an Ontario Scholarship following his Grade XIII examinations this summer. He plans to enter law after receiving an engineering degree.

Urmans is one of a family of six children. He lives with his parents on a farm south of Chesterville, Ont., and was born just 18 miles south of that village at Morrisburg. His parents are of Estonian extraction; three of the children were born in Europe. A brother, Toomas, won an Ontario Scholarship in 1966.

The young student was educated in local schools, received the last four years of high school at the central school for the district, North Dundas District High School. He was declared winner of the $50 award offered by the Chesterville Record for his essay at the local level. The essay then went on to win the Ontario Weekly Newspaper association award and finally the top Canadian award offered by Canadian Weekly Newspaper association. Essays were judged by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massay.

custom of a governor-general is outmoded and impractical. However, I cannot accept this view. A good governor-general can actually unify a country through his efforts. The late Mr. Vanier did this admirably. Up to the time of his death, he worked long hours trying to bring the French and English, closer together. When he died, both groups lost a great friend and they realized it. Such a tradition as this surely does serve a purpose. It is my responsibility — and every Canadian's — to respect such wonderful traditions.

This is how I see my duty to my country. I must try to keep an open mind towards its problems. I must accept some things. I must reject others. But I must always be proud to be a Canadian citizen. I think I owe at least that to my country.

My responsibility as a Canadian

By Urmans Vilmanen

Throughout history, every society has laid down certain rules and obligations for its citizens. These duties are necessary for the welfare and benefit of every citizen of the society. Rome developed as a mighty nation because her leaders set up a high moral code which all Romans were expected to live up to. Duty to the state always came first. But then the Romans began to neglect their duties to the state, and instead lived only for themselves. As a result, the old system crumbled and the empire disintegrated into nothingness.

The countries of today can still learn from the example of Rome. The strong nations of today are the ones which do insist on certain obligations from each citizen. Most countries, in fact all, demand the payment of taxes by the citizens. In addition, others such as America expect citizens to be willing to fight for them when called upon. Notably, Russia insists on many similar things, thus showing that this idea of citizen duty is not confined to any one form of political system. But what does Canada expect from her citizens? What are her citizens willing to do for her? In effect, what is my responsibility as a Canadian?

This is Canada's centennial. Everywhere one goes, he hears of all the different people and ideas that have come into focus this year. Everybody seems to be bursting with pride concerning our Canadian heritage. However, I think that it is time that we tried to put things in their proper perspective. Sure,

I am glad to see national pride develop this year. But I am not so happy when a centennial is our country. We still have a used as a reason to cloud over the problems which confront cultural split between the French, English and assorted minorities. We still have poverty in Canada; we still have inequalities; we still have disunity. I hope that, as long as I am a Canadian, I will be able to see any weak points in my country's social, economic and political structure. I think I owe it to my country to be honest about it.

But to be a responsible citizen, I cannot just sit back and pick it apart. If I do, I accomplish nothing. For example, I could say that our present system of education is inadequate. Nobody would listen, or if they did, they would just visualize a bleak picture. However, if I added that education could be improved through federalization, the listeners could see a better tomorrow. At least the picture would have rays of hope illumining it. Thus, I think that it is my duty to criticize, not destructively but constructively, certain aspects of our present society.

However, just as there are some things which should be critically examined in Canada, there also are other things which must be respected. The laws of the country are such an institution. To be a good citizen of this democracy, one must respect certain rules which exist, not for the protection of a select few, but for the protection of all. Another thing which should be respected by all citizens is the right to vote. I cannot help but feel that a refusal to vote for the "candidate of your choice" is actually a refusal to respect a privilege. To waste one's privileges is to actually abuse them. In this "go-go" world, there are very few things which we can hold onto as permanent and everlasting. But among them are the traditions, the unspoken things which are passed down from generation to generation. In Canada, the idea of a prime minister is actually a tradition. It has never been formally recognized in any parliamentary bill. Then we have the office of the governor-general which, while provided for in the British North America Act, is actually a symbol which many feel we do not need.

These detractors say that the

We welcome written questions on legal points from readers. If possible they will be answered in this column. Letters must be brief, signed and your address shown. Send to "Point of Law," c/o this newspaper.

Q. I am a businessman in a small town and a competitor is running down my goods — stating that they are of poor quality. What can I do about it?

A. Plenty. This falls under a branch of law known as defamation. You did not say whether the defamation was in writing (libel) or spoken (slander). In case there should be some confusion about this (as the legal results of these two acts are often quite different), it should be understood that for this particular type of defamation it makes no difference whether the defamatory statement is written or spoken.

You should see your lawyer immediately and instruct him to write a letter demanding an apology and retraction — in writing. We would not advise a suit for damages — unless a substantial business loss has already been incurred. A law suit would probably be defended and there would be some delay before the matter came on for trial. You would have to prove the statements were false and there would be expenses involved and the usual loss of time, and wear and tear on the nervous system attendant upon any legal action. In addition — even if you were successful and were awarded a sum of money by way of damages — many people would still say where there's smoke, there's fire.

It is generally best to stop the repetition of the defamatory statements. If the letter doesn't work you can sue for damages and an injunction (a court order) prohibiting the repetition of the defamatory material, until trial. The trial would not come up for many months (if at all) but the injunction can be applied for in a few days. This court order is granted 99 times out of 100, and the matter may be allowed to rest there. The person sued may force the matter on to trial if he wants to — but this would be unusual. Of course, if the statement is repeated, the person sued can be fined or imprisoned (or both) for contempt of court.

If damages have been suffered, the person suing can always have a trial if he wishes. The letter from a lawyer as suggested will usually solve the problem without the necessity for any further action. To overcome our grief. Blessed are they that mourn for they shall be comforted. — Rev. W. M. Cameron, United Church of Canada.

Friends gathered at the home of Canon and Mrs. A. Greene, Redroofs, to help celebrate their anniversary, on Sept. 21.

Congratulations go to Mr. and Mrs. Stan Bryant, of West Sechelt on the birth of their first grandson. The proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Bryant of Manchester, England. Mr. and Mrs. S. Bryant have just returned to Sechelt from a two-month trip to England and the continent, which they toured by car through France, Germany, Switzerland and Spain.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. T. Denny of West Vancouver, were guests for the weekend at Trail Acres, West Sechelt, the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. Vosburgh.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. D. Hayward for a few days last week were Mr. and Mrs. B. Crowell of Nakusp and their son Stanley of Revelstoke. The Crowells have purchased property in West Sechelt and hope to move here in the near future.

Newcomers to Sechelt, but not to the district, are Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Shaw from Silver Sands, who have purchased property in West Sechelt and will be moving in next month. They will be welcomed by their many friends in the area. Mr. Shaw is an experienced wood worker and finisher, while Mrs. Shaw taught piano for many years in Vancouver.

On Sept. 20 the J. A. Girls of the Anglican Church met for their first fall meeting at the home of Mrs. Stan Bryant. Only five girls attended so if there are any young girls eight to twelve who would like to join this group phone 885-9792. They would be welcome. There is a short devotional period followed by handicraft classes and should prove of interest to this age group.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Holby and son Bill are down from Kamloops for a few days visiting Mr. and Mrs. Pat Mullen and family of West Sechelt and enjoying the fishing.

A good crowd is expected on Oct. 7, for the Sechelt Garden Club Flower Show, in St. Hilda's Church hall, Sechelt. Attend and enjoy the beautiful chrysanthemums and fall flowers and a friendly cup of tea. Non-competitive entries are welcome. The date is Sat., Oct. 7, from 2 to 8 p.m.

The sister of Mrs. Olive Clear of Halfmoon Bay, Mrs. Ethel Tee of Vancouver, passed away recently. Mrs. Tee had many friends in Sechelt.

How many have seen the Catholic Church on the Reservation since its face-lift? It's sparkling white coat of paint makes it a lovely picture against the blue water and green trees.

Sechelt O.A.P.O.

Sechelt's branch O.A.P.O. held its monthly meeting in the Legion Hall on Sept. 21, with Mrs. Lorene Yates in the chair as Mr. H. Hill was unable to attend. Two delegates were appointed to attend the regional meeting in Squamish on Oct. 13, Canon M. Swan and Mr. M. Bracewell. One of the resolutions to be put forward is to change the name of the organization to Senior Citizens association.

A bus trip is planned for Oct. 11, 12 and 13. The proposed itinerary is through the Okanagan to Kamloops, returning by way of the Fraser Canyon. Those interested in this tour will please phone M. W. Coffey at 885-2161 as soon as possible.

Workers hope for golf next August

A well attended and enthusiastic meeting of more than 70 members in Roberts Creek Community hall Wednesday evening of last week received the reports on the first year's activity on the Sunshine Coast Golf and Country Club.

With Frank Newton, president, in the chair, a most encouraging summary on the progress of the membership committee was given. He pointed out that at August, 1966, the club's initial enrollment was 87 members and now it had 159 with an objective of 300 by next summer. He also gave great credit to Roy Taylor on the grounds and buildings committee and predicted that with the continuation of the work at the present pace, members should be playing on the nine hole course by next August.

Bill Sneddon, chairman of the membership committee stated that of the 159 members enrolled to date, 64 were fully paid up, 71 partially and 21 still remained at the minimum initial payment. He urged balanced payments be arranged so that each member be fully paid up before the opening of the course next summer and further that an intensive drive be organized immediately at full steam to secure the objective of 300 fully paid up members.

The grounds committee of Roy Taylor, Ed McIlwaine and Art Greggain confirmed the president's prediction that the club should indeed be in playing shape by next July or August, barring unforeseen weather and work conditions. Sufficient top soil for all greens would be obtainable on the grounds and seeding could be done one month after the burn-off of the debris.

He pointed out the executive wisely decided on the feasibility of a nine hole course which would be adequate for at least the next ten years, or until the population of the Sunshine Coast area reached at least 25,000, the minimum required for sustaining an 18-hole course.

He acknowledged with thanks the Canadian Forest Products gift of two houses, one to be used as the pro-shop and the other as a home for the grounds keeper and his family. Plans for a 28 x 50 ft. club house of pre-fab construction to include a kitchen and coffee bar are well advanced.

Dick Clayton's treasurer's report showed current assets as of Aug. 31, at $23,560.23 with fixed assets including property and construction cost $25,519.83. Liabilities and equity including current liability, deferred liability (mortgage at $500 per annum at 6 3/4% interest commencing 1970) $7,500, members' equity including membership fees $41,400 less operating deficit of $247.80 bringing total liabilities and equity to $49,080.06.

Bernel Gordon answered questions on the proposed share structure which was being set up with safeguards for the individual members. He indicated these would be divided into three groups, A, B and C with the first 200 paid-up members eligible for Class A, which would participate in profits of the club. The final details are being worked out by club lawyers and directors and the members will be kept well informed as this important phase develops.

Water rights were reported by Keith Wright who assured the members sufficient water was available and rights cleared through the McMillan Bloedel property for an 18 hole course when such extension from nine holes would be feasible.

Kurt Hoehne was complimented by the president for a good job in issuing bulletins. In his report, Mr. Hoehne stated the spring dance which brought out 160 was an unqualified success and the club's only concern for the fall affair which would be held in the Port Mellon hall on Oct. 28, would not be large enough to contain the over 200 attendance already indicated.

Ray Chamberlin took the chair and called for nominations for the 1967-68 executive. A motion receiving unanimous acclamation swept the present slate of officers in for another term. These are Frank Newton, president; Keith Wright, vice-president; Dick Clayton, treasurer, and Mrs. Wilma Morrison, secretary. She received special acclaim from Frank Newton for her unflinching efforts right from the formation of the club. Directors in addition to last year's will be Reg Thomas and Mickey McMay. Continuing directors are Roy Taylor, Bernel Gordon, Art Greggain, Ed McIlwaine, Kurt Hoehne, Michael Jay and Bill Sneddon.

In response to a call for volunteer work crews on weekends members turned out in goodly numbers to help clear away obstacles remaining on the fairways.

Don Douglas moved a vote of thanks to the executive for their efforts in bringing the club so far along the way to reality. The president thanked the members on behalf of his executive for their approval and continued confidence and stressed that next year would undoubtedly prove the biggest and most rewarding in the history of the Sunshine Coast Golf and Country Club.

To review adoption program

The minister of social welfare, Hon. Dan Campbell, has announced a review of the adoption program by his department this fall. This will include a conference of adopting parents in Victoria December 8, 9 and 10.

In order to learn what adopting parents think of British Columbia's adoption services an open invitation is being given to an estimated 20,000 adopting parents to write the minister with their ideas and indicate as well their willingness to complete a questionnaire designed to assist in the improvement of the adoption program.

Hon. Dan Campbell indicated that at the adoption conference the department will invite a limited number of adopting parents and adult adopted persons. The selected delegates will sit down with senior department personnel and the minister to offer suggestions for improvement in adoptions and review ways and means of putting these improvements into operation.

The minister indicated that this conference was a first in North America and is in keeping with the Hon. Mr. Campbell's wish to review each departmental program through the eyes of the persons receiving the service.

The minister stated that he is anxious to share the conference findings with all persons interested in adoption. Press, radio and T.V. personnel will be invited to attend. The minister is anxious to hear from all adoptive families in B.C. Please write the Hon. Dan Campbell, Minister of social welfare, Parliament Buildings, Victoria, B.C.

The Davis Ottawa Diary

By JACK DAVIS, M.P.

Coast-Capilano Constituency

Dr. John J. Deutsch is known to be a far sighted man with the nation's interests at heart. So when he criticized the government for over-spending he was bound to be listened to.

Budget deficits, says Dr. Deutsch in the fourth report of the Economic Council of Canada, are all very well. They may be necessary when our economy is running down. But when it has a full head of steam on, as it does at the present time, they are dangerous. They certainly add fuel to the fires of inflation.

Unemployment, notes Dr. Deutsch, is down to, or close to, an all time low. The government in other words, deserves top marks on priority item No. 1 — the provision of new jobs for Canadians.

But we are not doing so well on priority item No. 2. Productivity or output per man hour, has not been jumping as it should. Last year, in 1966, it only rose at about half the annual rate which we will have to maintain if we are to hit the 5% target which the Economic Council has set for the 1970's.

Of course private enterprise, in the sense of management and labor, can itself do a great deal to correct this situation. But government also has a responsibility. The Economic Council suggests that it should:

Set up clear cut priorities for spending;

Cut out obsolete programs (subsidies for coal mining for instance);

Make sure the benefits for each project or program are far in excess of its costs;

Adjust the sum total of its expenditures in such a way as to compliment and not clash head on, with those of private enterprise; and

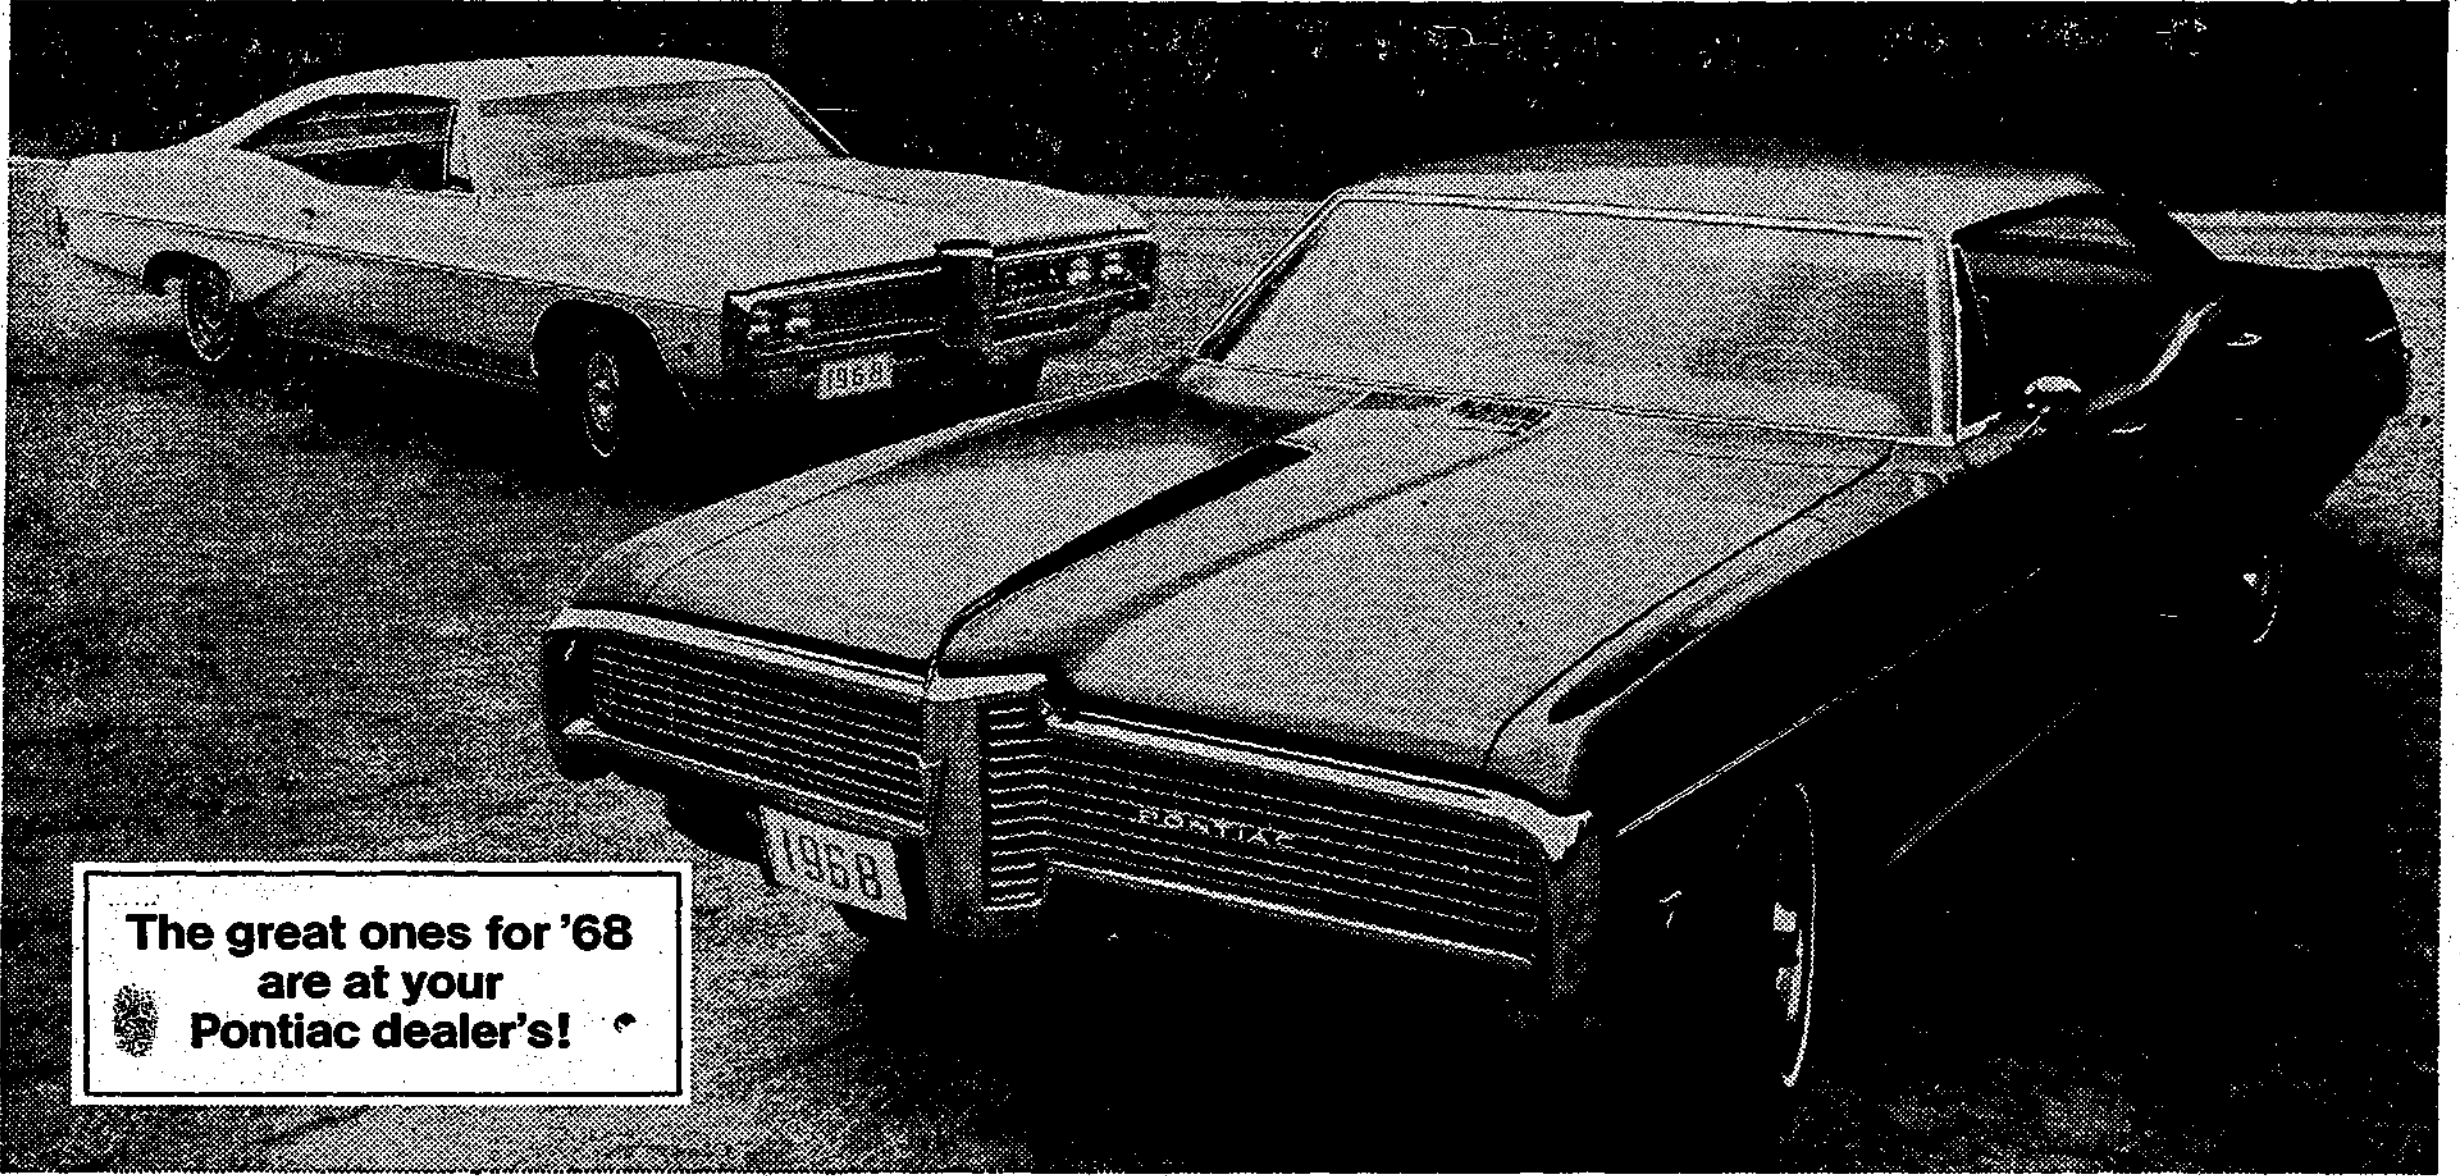

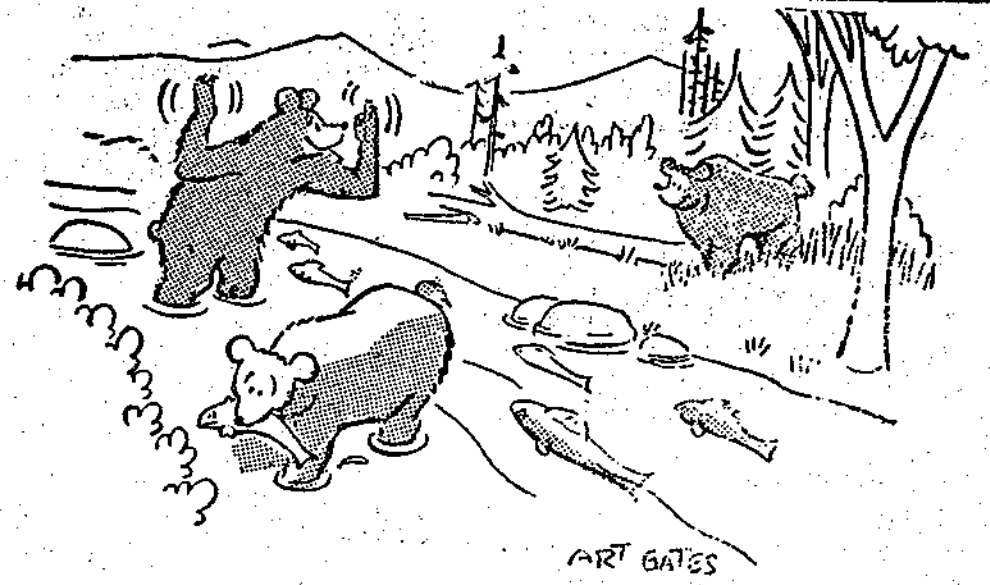

Make our economy more competitive by reducing tariffs and breaking up monopolies.

The Economic Council's fourth report was not all criticism. It struck several cheerful notes. One was that, over the next decade, Canada should grow faster than any other country in the western world. Our population will jump 25% by 1980.

Meanwhile our labor force will be up by a whopping 50%. With more Canadians at work and fewer proportionately, in school or in retirement, our total output should go up dramatically in the 1970s.

It should also be possible to hold the line on taxes. In 1967 Canadians will be paying nearly a third of their income into our three levels of government; national, provincial and local. The figure in 1970, the council says, will be about 33%. And it sees no reason why the percentage of our gross national product being taken away from us for government spending should increase thereafter.

John Deutsch, who for some years was head of the economics department at UBC, is now off to Queen's University. He will be the chancellor there. Behind him in Ottawa he has left, not only four excellent reports but a sound institution. The Economic Council of Canada, set up by the Pearson government as one of its first acts in 1963, has been doing a first class job. It has drawn a number of useful guidelines for the economic future. All of us, whether we be housewives, businessmen, labor leaders, professional people or politician will do well to heed its warnings and its urgings for the years ahead.

Letters to editor

Editor: All children of school age in the province are back at their desks, and busy learning their three Rs. Everyone will wish these children well in their studies, because we have built a society where a well-rounded education is demanded for all. There are some students, however, to whom society should offer a special word of encouragement.

These are children who attend independent schools, because their parents wish them to learn a great deal more than secular subjects. They will be required to meet all academic standards set by the department of education. They will also be helped to grow spiritually, learning the tenets of their own faiths as well as a general understanding of all the great religious thinking of the world. This moral and spiritual growth is considered doubly important in these days of ferment and change. Some 40,000 children of numerous different denominations, attend such schools, which complement this province's educational system.

Catholic wage earners, for one example, are so convinced of the special value of such schools, that they are contributing an additional dollar per month, whether they have children attending such schools or not.

This levy payment which finances the Catholic Public School Board office along with tuition fees paid by parents provides Catholic children with a well-rounded education in which spiritual values are stressed. — R. S. G. Miller, chairman.

Editor: School has opened and one sees the excitement in the eyes of young children, except those of five who are to start school this year but cannot because the school board has no conscience.

I am sure the school bus can accommodate five eager beavers from Port Mellon who may become famous personalities of the future.

It is nice of the school board to provide kindergarten classes in Gibsons but no transport for children from Port Mellon and other outlying areas. While children from Gibsons proper can attend school, children from Port Mellon have to depend on some individual to drive them every day to Gibsons.

High school students have volunteered to take care of their eager beaver friends on the bus even if they have to suffer little hardships. I am sure the school board's conscience will come to the rescue of these children who are so anxious to learn and educate themselves. I am sure there is a way out when there is a will. — Bipin Oza.

Editor: I was not able to attend the meeting addressed by the local member for Mackenzie Riding but it is interesting to note that in a letter published in the Vancouver Sun dated March 11, 1958, I was the first person to nominate her for this riding. It was at a meeting in Vancouver.

We note that she has travelled 10,000 miles and investigated the conditions and needs of more than 195 groups and the end is not yet. Surely enough information should have been produced after covering so much territory and discussing the matter with so many groups. Is she going to continue until every group in Canada has been investigated.

There are some very important matters that concern the Sunshine Coast or parts of it: One is the very poor police work at Roberts Creek which was brought to her attention some six months ago. The other is the idea of a bridge from Gibsons to Keats Island, then a causeway to Bowen Island then another bridge to Horseshoe Bay. All the details are in the possession of a gentleman on Keats Island, depth soundings, mileage, etc. If we had this people could work in Vancouver and live on the Sunshine Coast and the growth of our beloved coast would go by leaps and bounds. The cost would not be would eliminate the long line-ups of cars so often seen from Langdale to almost Granthams Landing.

Let us have some action. The excuse in the past was that as long as we had an N.D.P. member we would not get anything, we have not got much since.

—B. L. Cope.

Dramas shown by Witnesses

One million people are convinced that peace and security will be achieved world wide in this generation, reports A. L. Grant, area supervisor of Jehovah's Witnesses. Convention delegates numbering 1,608 are more firmly convinced of this prospect as a result of last Sunday's unique film showing, God Cannot Lie. The film climaxed a three-day convention at West Vancouver's Sentinel Secondary School.

"Just imagine," said J. Risbey, local presiding minister, "over the past 6,000 years of recorded history not one of God's promises has failed to come true. Having such knowledge, how can anyone doubt that the promise of peace on earth by means of God's kingdom will come on schedule in this generation."

A highlight of the convention was the ordination of seven new ministers Saturday afternoon. The whole of Saturday evening was devoted to family activities. Dramas showed parents and their children how to cope with common family problems in worship, work and play. Jehovah's Witnesses hold three conventions a year.

Etiquette

By ROBERTA LEE

Q. When men and women are seated alternately at a dinner table, is it proper to serve all the women first?

A. This is neither proper nor practical. The guests should be served in regular sequence, whether man or woman.

Q. Please mention some of the foods that may be eaten at the table with the fingers.

A. Corn on the cob, olives, radishes, potato chips, celery, steamed clams, shoestring potatoes, artichokes (the fork is used to eat the centre or heart of this vegetable); all forms of bread except spoon bread may be picked up — it is almost impossible to eat them in any other way.

Pick pique for a crisp blouse now and a suit or dress later. Sew it chalk white and button with military brass or frost with eyelet. When you think Pique think of cotton, nylon, Dacron and Fortrel-Avril in knits, box weaves and ribs (baby to elephant size).
 A surface way to sew a hem so it stays up: Catch-stitch hem to garment from underneath (not over) the hem edge with buttonhole twist. Draw thread loosely and make a knot in the thread every two inches.
 A chic chameleon that could replace the little nothing is the shirt-dress. Wear it anywhere, anytime. Luxurious in glittering gold brocade, prim and trim in brass-studded grey flannel. ## Beauty hints

By LYNN CARTER

Q. What is a good corrective makeup for a nose that is too broad?

A. Extend and blend your rouge from the cheeks up onto the sides of your nose, or use a soft lowlight on each side of it. And to correct wide nostrils, shadow the nose and the tip of the nose as a unit.

Q. What can I do about my bushy, unmanageable hair?

A. An expert, professional haircut will do much to bring your hair under control, the hair trimmed and tapered to make it easier to work with. A cream rinse after each shampoo helps, too. After the hair has been arranged and styled, rub a little cream dressing on the hands and touch it to the hair, or spray it lightly with a lanolized hair spray.

Dear Doris:

DEAR DORIS — I am 13, and have taken music lessons for six years. My mother insists I continue taking them even though I can now play anything I want. But the man from whom I am taking them drives me "buggy."

He runs his fingers through my hair during my lesson, smokes a stupid cigar steadily, and kneels down beside me while I'm playing and holds my arm. And he's so old he almost creaks!

I told Mom what he does but she doesn't seem to understand. I want to quit and the rest of the family, who have also heard what he does, don't blame me in the least for wanting to. I'm getting so I hate the piano and anything that has to do with it.

Going Bugs

DEAR GOING — Mom sees the old gent as harmless; you as a cute little girl, about the same as you were six years ago. But I can't see you learning much from a teacher who drives you up the wall with his familiarities.

Fact is, you are becoming a young lady. As such, you would be entirely within your rights to stop playing when he touches you. Turn and face him, and ask him to please not touch you at all; that it distracts you. Good practice for putting the boys in their place later on.

ROBERTS CREEK

(By MADGE NEWMAN)

At a well attended meeting of Roberts Creek Community association Sept. 20 in the library, the water supply committee reported progress in obtaining names and property numbers of owners.

In answer to a question as to how much would be needed it was estimated 100 gallons per day per person would be the approximate amount.

Mrs. J. R. McSavaney, librarian requested help as she is unable to put the required time into the work. As Mrs. McSavaney has done so much work for the library it was hoped some assistance would be available.

The Centennial committee requested a full meeting to clear up loose ends and a meeting was called for Wed., Oct. 11 at 8 p.m. in the library.

Consistent vandalism in the village was discussed and it was moved that a letter be sent to the RCMP in Gibsons requesting that the official in charge appear at the next meeting to hear complaints and offer some advice as to how to solve the problem.

Discussion on a water supply for the Community hall resulted in the suggestion that it be piped in from the creek.

Halfmoon Bay - Pender Hbr. News

By DOROTHY J. GREENE

Surveyors are at last working on the Redroofs road hill beyond Northwest Bay so perhaps Hon. Philip Gaglardi plans to pave it this year? Local residents would enjoy a weekly shopping bus to Sechelt. This has been promised directly the road is ready for bus travel.

Canon Greene has returned after six days with his son's family in North Vancouver. While there he spent most of his time working on senior citizen housing problems. He also visited his brother Heber, Mr. Frank Lyons and Peter Police in Shaughnessy hospital.

Guests at the Canon and Mrs. Alan Greene's wedding anniversary were Mr. and Mrs. W. McGregor, Bernell Gordon, Finnish Burn, Mr. Nyfors and Mrs. Patsy Murphy.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Clear were in Vancouver to attend the funeral of Mrs. Clear's sister, Olive. Her sister visited the area recently and took in the OAPO Lion's club trip to Clowhom Falls.

The Legion bazaar at Madeira Park Saturday was an overflowing event. There were 48 tables set for tea and a line-up was necessary to handle the second sitting. Home baking was in the hands of Mrs. J. R. Stacey of Francis Peninsula and Mrs. J. Bathgate of Egmont. The White Elephant was run by Mrs. J. Rousseau, sewing, Mrs. D. Cameron and Mrs. J. Cameron; plants, Mrs. Divell and raffles Mrs. A. Aitchison and Mrs. L. Maynard.

The president, Mrs. G. Lee assisted Egmont ladies, Mrs. D. Vaughan and Mrs. I. Griffith with the tea.

Mrs. Dewhurst, secretary of the Save the Children Fund was a guest of the Canon Greenes Sunday with Rev. Barry Jenks preceding the 3 p.m. family service at the Church of His Presence. She will return later to address the St. Hilda's church Young Mothers group which has recently adopted a Korean child.

Among recent visitors from afar who have signed the Church of His Presence visitors book were people from K'itimat, Great Britain and Australia. Twelve members of the congregation had tea with the Greens to celebrate the fifth year of the church.

Rev. Barry Jenks in a ceremony Sat., Sept. 23, officiated at the wedding of Miss Vera May McKinnell of Vancouver to Mr. Leonard Gibbs of North Vancouver. The bride wore a knee length white brocade frock and carried red roses. Flowers were arranged by the bride's sister, Mrs. Pauline Pollock of Madeira Park and Mrs. P. Jorgenson's Star of Bethlehem draped the visitor's book table in a bridal shower of white blossoms.

Photographer Dennis Gray visited the Greene home Saturday taking shots of the three racoon families, three mums and five babies who were busily occupied in feeding on the verandah.

RCMP are keeping a close watch on the dumping of garbage on driveways and ditches of homes.

OES meeting

Thursday was Friendship Night at Mt. Elphinstone Chapter, OES, and the meeting was well attended. Seventeen members of Grace Chapter, Powell River, were guests.

Mrs. R. J. Eades, Grand Chaplain, with Mrs. E. J. Shaw PM, were guests of Mrs. W. Kirkham PGM, in Vancouver before driving to Chilliwack to attend that chapter's session to honor grand representatives on Sept 18. Mrs. Shaw is Grand Representative of New Brunswick.

On Sept. 19, the occasion of the birthday party of Naomi Chapter in West Vancouver, ten members of the local chapter attended. They were: Mrs. V. Franske, worthy matron; Mr. E. J. Shaw, worthy patron; Mrs. R. J. Eades, grand chaplain; Past Matrons Mrs. E. J. Shaw, Doris Drummond, H. Mylroie, C. Wood and Mrs. J. Wardil, Mrs. N. Hough and Mrs. W. Morrison.

Historic site

British Columbia's most recently developed historic site has a colorful past. Fort Steele, at the junction of Wild Horse Creek and the Kootenay River came into being because of the rich placer diggings of Wild Horse Creek, which were first worked in the spring of 1864, and touched off a gold rush that reached fever pitch — and led to the establishment of Fort Steele as the first North West Mounted Police Post west of the Rockies.

In face of a threatened uprising, a request for assistance from settlers and miners brought to Galbraith's Ferry on August 1, 1887, Superintendent Samuel B. Steele and a detachment of 75 North West Mounted Police of "D" Division, representing the Force's first post west of the Rockies.

With the relieving of tension in the Kootenay, settlers moved near Galbraith's Ferry and in honor of Sam Steele's achievement renamed the settlement Fort Steele.

They flush -- outside

When Earl and Pat Asquith, and their three children, left Richmond in August, they went to California, where they visited Disneyland. A copter took them to Los Angeles, and then a jet to Suva, Fiji.

There they saw men and women bathing together in the nude, and there they found that when you hire a taxi driver you get him for keeps. He is a fount of information. He takes you to the best restaurants and is a guest at your table.

From Suva the Asquiths flew to Sidney, Australia, where they boarded a train for Perth, which city they reached three days and five train changes later.

Perth, about the size of Vancouver, is emerging from winter and going into spring with a temperature of about 79 degrees. It took several hours of hunting before temporary living quarters were found. Hospitality and friendliness are the order of the day, and when the family went to a store for purchases, the proprietor invited them to his home for dinner, and also found a house for them.

Earl immediately found a job in his own line of work, car salesman, at a salary and commission. Wages are lower there, but money seems of less importance than in the case here. Homes are adequate and comfortable and people seem to have what they want.

A rumor interested Pat and she tracked it down. It was that certain necessary household accommodations were situated outdoors. Well, they flush, but they are in the back yard.

Pat Asquith is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Mallory, Roberts Creek.
