

152 homes in '67; Bypass not settled Gaglardi says upsurge in Sechelt

Sechelt in 1967 had its biggest year of new building since B.C. Hydro started compiling area construction figures back in 1957. This was revealed in the B.C. Hydro tabulation covering 1967. It showed Sechelt's new construction at $160,850. The total was divided with $61,350 for residences and $99,500 for commercial construction. The commercial included the extension of the Parker Hardware store, the Crucil stores and apartments, the Medical clinic and smaller constructions.

Home construction totalled $61,350 covering the cost of about half a dozen homes. Construction in the Sechelt trading area showed good increase as the tabulation lists 16 summer residences in the Sandy Hook, Tuwanek and Tillicum Bay subdivisions on the east side of Porpoise Bay.

Gibsons commercial construction for the year was at a low ebb, the total being $14,750. However the residential side of the picture showed a total in homes of $105,750 which covers 10 new homes.

The rural part of the Sunshine Coast saw construction during the year amounting to $2,867,800 with more than half of that figure, $1,581,600 going into homes. The number of homes built in the entire Sunshine Coast area numbered 152, the largest number yet. About 16 of these homes were built in the two villages and 136 in the rural areas.

Commercial construction in the rural area totalled $1,285,500 and of this amount the greater sums were provided by Ferry Authority construction, harbor shelter at Selma Park and some school board construction. Home construction hit $1,581,600.

Help them play game

Gibsons Athletic association have made an appeal to business men on behalf of the promotion of juvenile sports. The following statement has been sent to all business houses:

As you have no doubt read in the local newspapers, we have obtained the use of the Old Municipal Hall and have started The Gibsons Athletic Association.

The object of the organization is, to promote juvenile sports in the district, have a recreation centre where the children can be given black-board instructions in the vari-

A reply from Hon. P. A. Gaglardi, minister of highways states the location of the new bypass from Langdale around Gibsons has not been settled.

The reply came as the result of the petition of residents in the area involved sent to him through Eric Thomson, lawyer working for the petitioners.

The letter from Mr. Gaglardi reads:

"I wish to acknowledge your letter of January 18 enclosing a petition from the property holders in District Lots 698, 690, 902 and 903 with respect to the proposed by-pass of the Gibsons village by the Sunshine Coast Highway 101.

"We are fully aware of this situation, and, in fact, have been carrying out some further investigations and discussions with local people and with officials of the Parks branch regarding possible alternatives or other solutions. In any event, we will not fix the location until the matter has been settled."

Petitions to Victoria

Petitions with more than 1,000 names on them protesting ferry service operations were being gathered up Wednesday along the Sunshine Coast. They will be forwarded to Victoria for consideration.

A letter to the Coast News by Hon. Isabel Dawson, minister without portfolio and MLA for this constituency reads:

"I have received a considerable number of telegrams, letters and telephone calls in regard to the situation, which is disturbing to say the least. I have had talks with the Premier, the Hon. P. A. Gaglardi, Mr. M. Aldous and Dr. Morrison of the Civil Service Commission. I am assured it is simply a seasonal layoff because of lack of travelling public at this time of year, and all will be rehired and promoted to former positions as soon as business picks up, in two or three months, at the most.

There has been a question that the demotion and layoff contravene the Civil Service Act, but I am informed that this can quite properly be done when the position no longer exists and the employees become redundant.

"I have also been assured that it has been done on a seniority basis as pertains to Langdale and Jervis Inlet runs. Although there have been some demotions, I think that most will agree, for those concerned in this move, it is better to be working during this seasonal layoff than not at all. Naturally, if one vessel is off, the crews of both cannot work on the one still remaining.

"I am most concerned about those who are not eligible for Unemployment Insurance and who have families to maintain and possibly only limited means to fall back on.

"When the very much larger Sunshine Coast Queen comes into service toward the latter part of March, there will be a continuing two-hour service, supplemented as necessary during the summer months and holiday weekends, by the Sechelt or Langdale Queen. With the very much increased capacity of the new ship, plus the revisions of the terminals, we will be able to handle expeditiously much more traffic than we have in the past.

"I assure you I am watching this closely and shall do all possible to see that a fair deal is had by all. Some have already sent in acceptance of temporary demotions."

Gibsons and District Chamber of Commerce held a special executive meeting at the call of the vice-president, Walt Nygren at his place of business Wednesday evening of last week. The executive heard two members of the displaced ferry staff state the case as it effected all other displaced staff.

As a result the executive decided to wire Hon. Mrs. Dawson minister without portfolio, to arrange with her a date for a meeting with her in Gibsons.

Fire guts home

Fire completely gutted the inside of a one-room home at the corner of Franklin Road and Burns Road in Gibsons shortly before midnight Monday.

The home owned by Jack Edge who lives in the next house was rented to Peter Choquette who is now in Vancouver. Eric Edward McRae and friend were occupants at the time of the fire which started apparently from an over heated oil stove.

Gibsons Volunteer firemen were at the time concluding their Monday night meeting with a member from the fire marshall's department in Vancouver, Tom Hastings.

The firemen were about to leave for their homes when the alarm was turned in by Mrs. F. Cooper, a neighbor. So along with Mr. Hastings the trucks speeded to the blaze and gave the fire marshall's representative a chance to see the firemen in action. As the fire had a good hold on the interior the firemen were only able to save the shell of the structure. Mr. Edge reports he intends to tear it down and rebuild. Household contents were a complete loss.

Intercom for firemen

Gibsons fire department was given permission by the municipal council to instal a fire truck communications system to improve its fire fighting facilities.

At Tuesday night's meeting council heard Councillor Gerry Dixon explain the use of such a system which would have a radius of about 20 miles. This would mean one truck could go to distant fires and if further help was needed the communications system would be utilized. B.C. Telephones would set up the system, the cost of which would be halved with the District fire prevention organization.

John Matthews for Sunnycrest Plaza tenants asked for a pressure test on water to the plaza. He suggests a test at the meter to find out whether pipes beyond the meter are corroded. The water supply to the plaza was diminishing, his letter read.

Ken Barker of Aldersprings road complained by letter of the unsightly scene Kinsmen Park presents when viewing it from the low side. He suggested various methods of making it more presentable. Chairman Fred Feeney said Mr. Barker had some good points. The letter was turned over to Councillors Goddard and Crosby for action.

Councillor Wally Peterson hoped for an area-wide clean-up and paint-up in the spring with the Chamber of Commerce offering leadership.

Gibsons Volunteer Fire Services asks that a fire hydrant be installed in vicinity of Elphinstone school. The school board will be approached along with other occupants of the area on the matter of costs.

The Sunshine Coast Regional Recreation committee sought a representative from council on the committee. It was advised that the council was supporting the Gibsons Athletic Club which is taking over all sports in this area with council's support along with that of merchants. Councillor Goddard will attend a regional committee uncommitted.

Those civil liberties

The matter of civil liberties has become an issue in Vancouver. The Coast News has received a letter and a publication of the B.C. Civil Liberties Association from there.

While we have nothing against the general portent of why the association exists we could offer the suggestion that limiting its operations to halting infringement of civil liberties and freedoms is only one side of the coin.

It is true there is public resentment against some types of printed words and pictures. It is also true that the public forgets many of its civil liberties and thereby allows weaknesses to creep in.

For instance there is the civil liberty of using the ballot to express opinions. This record could be improved greatly. Perhaps those individuals who express their opinions on four letter words and nudity in pictures are the ones who cast their ballot on every needed occasion. This is a hope at least.

However one can see great scope for a civil liberties operation which would educate the public on the need for the expression of an opinion on matters involving the well-being of the community. Take for instance the small votes that are involved in governmental, association and fraternal units.

Is rule by the minority something a civil liberties organization can gloss over? The letter sent to Coast News contains this paragraph: "A civil liberties movement should be the concern of every person in the community. The only recognized means of halting infringement of citizens' liberties and freedoms is public opinion."

It's funny but civil liberties become a strong vocal issue when somebody is not allowed to do something. When civil liberties are neglected no one says boo. It's time for a change. How about it?

To some people this editorial may seem far-fetched but is it? If such a passing phase as obscenity and such like can stir people into action it appears hypocritical to ignore the lack of the use of civil liberty where it would do most good. Some people would claim it is their privilege not to cast a vote. It is an expensive privilege and leads to rule by minority.

In being adamant about the liberty for obscenity and taking the stand that freedom of expression in a democratic self-governing society is vital, how about transferring some of the effort of freedom of expression where it would do the most good — the ballot box.

Try some spruce gum!

Rarely does one feel competent to quarrel with Mr. Webster but when he wrote a book of words and absolutely ignored spruce gum, it's time for good men to come to the aid of one of Nature's most delicious, chewable and satisfying substances. Men now sitting in decorous, dignified offices remember when they used to go into the woodlot and get a mess of gum for their use. Most farm lads kept a well-secreted box of it somewhere in the woodshed or barn.

There's nothing like spruce gum if it's harvested when it's right. The dark amber masses formed beneath a knot hole or from a break in the bark. When it was ready for use it had turned hard and brittle and reminded one of a piece of resin.

Chewing it took patience. It had to be kept in the mouth to soften for a considerable period, but when it was ready, a lad had a mouthful of pink-tinged material that was practically indestructible.

A small cud could be kept under the tongue all day at school. The tangy, slightly tart, fragrant goodness of it was an appeal a boy couldn't resist. Even if finances were low for boughten candy, one could make out if he had a good supply of spruce gum.

A fool for a son

(By JULES A. MAINIL)

This is a long ago story as our old Ukrainian neighbor would have called it.

It was in the fall of the year, late October probably, and I was due back to school in a week. I think I was about seventeen at the time.

Our farm, a largish operation for those days, was located close to a couple of villages, but we did a good deal of our business in a town some 30 miles away called Estevan. Dad had some business there and, as I needed a few things before returning to school, he took me with him to get whatever it was that I needed.

After Dad had completed his business we walked to the Men's and Women's Clothing Store, and there, in the window, was the COAT. Grey-blue in color, wide lapels, wide belt, a stylish coat, a prince of a coat, and I yearned for it on sight as a young man yearns for his first love. I asked Dad to buy it for me. Now you must understand that I had a perfectly good overcoat. I needed that new coat like a cart needs five wheels. We were a European family, I was the eldest son and primogeniture still meant something. I was loved, pampered and spoiled.

Dad, much against his better judgement, bought me this $35 bauble. I had my coat, my glorious coat. On the way back home there was little conversation but between the chug-chug of the model T, I heard several mumbled damn fools not knowing if they were meant for me or for himself.

Now, I must change the direction of the story. In Saskatchewan in those days duck shooting was the sport of late October and early November when the fat mallards move down from the North. In our family we started shooting as soon as we could lift a gun without a grunt. My brother Hector, three years younger, and I, were avid hunters.

About four days after the trip to Estevan, our neighbor, a young man named Henry Kriegley, who was unquestionably the best shot in the Community, called up and with restrained excitement said, "The ducks are flying in and out of Roy's deep slough by the thousands." Dad was away. I don't know what we were doing at the time, whatever it was we dropped it forthwith, got our guns and a good supply of shells and waited for Henry to pick us up in his old Chev.

It was cold, there was a slight haze in the air and a couple of inches of snow on the ground; one had to be warmly dressed. There must have been a dozen mackinaws, sheepskin coats and heavy leather jackets around the place; and what did I wear, a sweater, a woolen jacket and on top of it all, my glorious new coat. Hector looked at me but said nothing. Henry, who had arrived by this time, looked, shook his head in disgust, "You'll scare every duck in the country with that fool coat." "Oh no," I said, "I'll leave it in the car." We left for Roy's deep slough.

Now I must set this slough as accurately and as clearly as I can or the whole point of the story will be lost. The water covered about four or five acres, all of it frozen but a pool in the centre. It was completely surrounded by a slight and gentle rise, possibly 30 feet high. A growth of willows about ten feet wide circumscribed the whole pond; then there was a clear area about 40 feet wide again surrounding the pond and finally, a broken growth of small poplars around the whole thing.

We got to the spot where we were to leave the car, it was further from the slough than I realized. We took our guns, our shells and I left my coat on; I would hang it on a small poplar. The ducks were flying all over the place. It was going to be a dandy shoot. I picked my spot, took off my beautiful coat and hung it carefully on a poplar about 40 feet from the place I chose to shoot from. Hector and Henry set themselves on the spots of their choice and we started. The shooting was wonderful, but my, it was fast. It was just like skeet shooting. The heavy mallards, with crops well filled, would come scooting over the slight rise and down into the open part of the pond. I was doing fairly well, trying only for one at a time. Hector and Henry, being better shots, were occasionally getting doubles, but not too many. Suddenly a pair of ducks, coming directly at me, barely cleared the rise of land. I took careful aim, scarcely leading the front duck and fired. Heavy number two shot. I missed the duck, but hit the COAT of my dreams right between the shoulders, not in the collar, not in the sleeve, smack in the middle of the back. I didn't believe it, of course, it was one of those things that had happened that couldn't possibly have happened.

and started towards the house holding the coat so the tattered hole would be completely visible. Hector followed a few feet behind and Henry further behind still so he would be close to the back door at explosion time.

I walked into the large warm farm kitchen holding the coat towards Dad. He was reading his paper, he looked at the coat, he glanced at me, looked at Hector, looked at the slowly retreating Henry and came back to me and there were tears in his eyes. "If I had a son who was a murderer I would defend him with the best lawyer I could get; if I had a son who was a thief I would follow his steps and make good the thefts; if I had a son who was a liar I would follow him with the truth, but what can a father do who has a fool for a son."

Silently, quietly, I crossed the kitchen, entered the corridor to the stairs and climbed to my room. Shaken and appalled, I realized that Dad

Hector and Henry, through that understanding given to friends and brothers, knew something had gone wrong and came to me. I didn't see or hear them, all I could do was stare at the coat. They didn't laugh, they didn't talk, they were as heartbroken as I was.

The shooting stopped, and, as we couldn't stay at the frozen slough for the rest of our days, we started for home. I have seen many a more cheerful funeral cortege. I sat in the back, folded the coat so I couldn't see the gaping hole and was silent. Was I ever in for it, oh, was I ever in for it. Dad was a gentle man, but by no means soft, excitable and very quick tempered.

We got to the yard. The car was in the garage. Dad was home. The weight of my disgrace and stupidity had to be made known. I got out first was completely right.

About four days later I was ready to leave for school. Dressed in my best suit, with money for the term in my pocket and wearing my perfectly good old overcoat, I went into the living room to say good-bye to Dad. He smiled at me as we shook hands and then, with a grin of pure mischief on his face, put his hand in his pocket and took out an envelope. Before I even touched it I knew what it was. Money for a new coat. With that same mischievous grin on his face, he said "You know Jules, it is not a mortal sin to be a fool — occasionally."

The question of coats was suddenly inconsequential but the knowledge that my father believed that a man had the God-given right of making a fool of himself — occasionally — was tremendously important. I left the house with a light heart.

Summer visitor

Residents of the Redroofs resort were shocked to hear of the violent death of Sidney McDonald well known business promoter in West Vancouver over the weekend.

Mr. McDonald had become identified with this area several years ago through his wife, the former Wendy McPherson who had grown up as a summer resident of Redroofs.

According to Mrs. Jim Cooper, wife of the storekeeper, the McDonalds made infrequent trips to their summer place. Mr. McDonald was spoken of as a quiet, friendly soft spoken person, who while not identifying himself actively with the community of summer folk, was well regarded by those who came in contact with him.

Five years of painting

The Arts Council Gallery shop, Wharf Street, Sechelt, closed since Christmas, re-opened Wednesday with a one man show of paintings by Fred Carney.

The 15 paintings which Mr. Carney has chosen cover a period of five years from 1963 to a gay Italian landscape spilling out over the frame dated 1968. The paintings mostly oils with two ventures into acrylic, offer a variety of style and subject, detailed, intricate cityscapes and more recent stark and clear poster style landscapes from Halfmoon Bay.

Mr. Carney who has visited Halfmoon Bay area for several years is taking this year away from his university studies towards a Bachelor of Arts degree from Western Washington State college at Bellingham and is logging with Frank Jorgenson at Halfmoon Bay. He intends to return to Western state later in the year.

Mr. Carney teaches two adult education art classes in this district, at Halfmoon Bay and at Gibsons.

Born in Nelson B.C., and growing up in Vancouver, he has also spent three years at the Vancouver School of Art. The gallery is open Wednesday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. On Friday, January 26 the Gallery will be open in the evening from 7 to 9 p.m. for a special Meet the Artist program.

Winners of the pre-Christmas draw were: desk set, Mrs. B. Laakso, of Secret Cove, and the child's sweater, Mrs. D. Greene of Redroofs.

Burritt Bros. Carpets have donated a 27" by 54" length of pure wool Saxony Wilton carpet Fitted bed sheets with stretch corners are now available. reports the Canadian Cotton Council. Made of cotton percale, the sheets are designed with triangles of elasticized webbing at all four corners. They simplify bed-making because any corner can be the first or last to go on, expanding easily to slip over the mattress. The sheets fit snugly, even with slight variations in mattress sizes, because of their expandable corners.

To perk up dark cottons, mix a little vinegar in the second rinse when they are laundered. Use clear water for final rinse.

To get a smoother fit after washing, put cotton slip covers back on furniture while they're still slightly damp. Only areas the

A simple beach shift can be made by sewing two bath towels together lengthwise, leaving room for armholes. Use towels with fringed edges for a clever hem treatment. Cut V-neck and edge with bright cotton bias tape.

For a romper suit, use one large beach towel and bind armholes and a scooped neck with foldover cotton braid. Run elastic through the pants legs for a bloomer effect, and cinch still slightly damp. Only areas the

Sechelt News

A successful Friendship Tea was held in the lovely home of Mrs. E. Montgomery, West Sechelt, Jan. 17. These teas were started a few years before her death by Mrs. Ernest Redman, for the purpose of building a fund to go towards a rectory for St. Hilda's Church.

The teas are held once a month in one of the A.C.W.'s homes, and the members bring a friend to enlarge the Friendship Circle.

There were 31 ladies present at Mrs. Montgomery's and several new acquaintances were made. Mrs. A. Dawe presided at the tea table while several members helped with the serving of the refreshments. Over $1,000 has already been raised.

This past week saw quite a few local residents from the Sunshine Coast at the annual Logger's convention in Vancouver. Among these were Mr. and Mrs. R. Malpass, Mr. and Mrs. P. Mullen, Mr. and Mrs. T. Rodway, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Rodway.

We have had everything in the weatherman's book thrown at us this past winter; and I use the term past very lightly. We've had the highest tides, the heaviest winds, the wettest rains, and it looks like one of the earliest springs. When the rains were pelting down, everyone kept saying at least you don't have to shovel it, but there were plenty of people wishing they could have shoveled some of it off their property this past week or so. If this had happened at the same time as the storm in December, we would have been one large lake surrounded by ocean.

On Saturday and Sunday, the sun came out, the temperature went up to 65, the frogs started croaking, the birds singing, the squirrels chattering, and old Baldy, the eagle had been soaring through the sky. ## Letters to editor

The following is a copy to the Coast News, of a letter for Peter Wilson, Secretary-treasurer, Sechelt School District (No. 46).

Dear Mr. Wilson: Will you please request the School Board to have signs posted at each entrance to Gibsons Elementary School grounds stating No Entry. I do not believe No Stopping or No Parking will suffice. I have seen people get out of their vehicles and leave the motor running. They think this constitutes no stopping.

It is quite enough to see the total disregard of the law regarding the speed limit of 20 miles an hour, refusing students the right-of-way in the crosswalk, letting children out on the No Stopping side and knowing there is no patrol or protection for the kindergarten pupils dismissed at 11:30 a.m. or the pupils starting at 12:30, without now allowing the public to drive in the school grounds! And what about the fire danger?

I also think a Warning to Motorists notice should be put in the local papers outlining the Motor Vehicle act with regard to school zones. There is no excuse for a licensed motorist to be ignorant of the law, but I can only assume they are ignorant, or else this community is rampant with intentional law-breakers.

Prevention not punishment is my objective but I am going to start reporting licence numbers to the R.C.M.P. — Mrs. Patricie Fromager.

Mrs. Whitworth

Mrs. Margaret Helen Whitworth, 90, passed away in St. Mary's Hospital, Sechelt, on January 14, was an early settler in Roberts Creek, having lived there 50 years.

Born in California, she was brought as a small child to Victoria. Her father, the late John Hill, a building contractor, after being wiped out by the Vancouver fire of 1886, brought the family to that city within the year. He contributed much to the re-building of the city and was also building inspector of schools. Mrs. Whitworth was predeceased by her husband the late J. W. Whitworth, in 1938.

She leaves to mourn her loss her daughter, Mrs. John T. (Madge) Newman, Roberts Creek, one grandson, Jeff Newman, Edmonton; three great grandchildren; several nieces and nephews among whom are Mrs. Ruth Mitchell and Mrs. Helen Galliford, Roberts Creek.

A 5c Meteorological stamp to be issued by the Canada Post Office on March 13 commemorates the 200th anniversary of Canada's first long-term fixed point weather observations, Postmaster General Jean-Pierre Cote announces.

The weather is acknowledged to have a stronger and more continuous impact on our lives than any other feature of the environment in which we live and pioneer weather observers led to a vital modern service provided by the Meteorological branch Department of Transport, whereby untold loss of life and property is nowadays averted by special bulletins ranging from frost warnings for agriculturalists to hurricane alerts; aviation, industry, public utilities, shipping, agriculture and forest interests depend on forecast services provided by the meteorologists.

FLOUR FROM FISH

Future use of fish protein concentrate is under consideration says a report in the current Fisheries of Canada publication. It discusses the possible breakthrough in commercial production of fish protein concentrate in Canada.

The single most critical cost factor governing the production was the landed cost of fish. Fish concentrate production or FPC as it is known could permit considerably more utilization of trash fish and eventually become of important nutritive value in various foods including cereals.

Bride of doctor*GRAINGE — BREMER

Ingrid Karen Bremer wore her grandmother's necklace as something old and something borrowed when she became the bride of Dr. John Michael Grainge in the Church of the Holy Family, Sechelt. She wore a white peau de chamois floor length wedding gown and carried in her bouquet one single red poinsettia.

Father Dominic Kenny officiated at the ceremony joining the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rolph Bremer of Oyster Bay, Pender Harbour, with the son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Grainge, 11231 University Ave., Edmonton, Alberta. The bride's father gave his daughter in marriage.

The church was handsomely decorated in the seasonal motif with white chrysanthemums, boughs of evergreen, and red poinsettias. William Haley, Gibsons, played the organ and Mrs. R. W. Vernon, also of Gibsons, as soloist sang Gounod's Ave Maria.

Miss Solveigh Bremer was maid of honor for her sister. She wore a red velvet gown with white-laced sleeves as did their little cousin, Cynthia Varney, who was the flower girl.

Ralph Miller was best man. Ronald and Peter Grainge, brothers of the groom, ushered the guests.

After the ceremony there was a dinner reception at Ole's Cove, beautifully decorated in seasonal and wedding motives by Mr. and Mrs. Guy Winning. Gracing the head table was a three-tiered wedding cake made by the bride's mother.

F. Maehler proposed the toast to his granddaughter's happiness. Telegrams were read from friends and relatives in Canada and the United States. The couple were honored in a sing-song with songs written for the event.

Visiting the Sunshine Coast for the occasion were friends from the lower mainland and Alberta.

An oldtimer challenge

"It's strange how a single circumstance can change the whole course of one's life" . . . commented R. Birkin, the cabinet-maker and proprietor of Oceanside Furniture and Cabinet Shop, Roberts Creek.

In my case it was Charlie Cassidy, a real old-timer of this area, who passed along six years ago at the age of 78 . . . Charlie was one of the finest artisans of his time. I first ran into him 30 years ago when he was quarry foreman on the construction of the Court House in Vancouver. It was he who threw the challenge to me to do every job a little better than the last, and many a week-end we rambled along the beach here in front of his cottage talking of cabbages and kings and life in general.

It took a little time for Charlie's philosophy to sink in . . . I had already nine years at Sigurdson's Millworks where I learned the business of cabinetry . . . then another five years on my own doing custom jobs for Simpson Sears contract sales, which included a number of interesting assignments up on British Properties. Meantime we'd come under the spell of the Sunshine Coast and picked up this bit of land in 1948, but it wasn't until 1958 when my wife Fay and I found ourselves fed up to the teeth chasing the almighty buck, so we just said, to heck with all that, and came out here for some real living, where there's space to grow and fresh air to breathe, not to mention a good healthy and natural environment for our three children, Ken, Jeffrey and Barbara.

We've never once looked back, not once, and the free and easy atmosphere and good living fits in perfectly with my work. I never take on more than one job at a time, and there are always folk waiting for me to get around to looking after them. Sure it's a challenge, and one of the most interesting assignments was the job to fit out Norm Burley's kitchen at Sechelt. There's a whale of a lot of satisfaction in being given a free hand to carry out your own ideas.

A more recent project was the cabinet work in the remodelled staff lunch room and new bookkeeping office at the Medical Centre, Sechelt, along with the construction of examining tables and fixtures in the new consulting rooms.

The fact that Dick Birkin modestly admits to being a 1/64th-of-an-inch-man testifies to his superb workmanship in all phases of cabinetry.

Sechelt's municipal council at its meeting on Wednesday night of last week has been advised by Dr. P. J. Reynolds, director of Coast-Garibaldi Health Unit to start looking into the sewer situation for the village.

Council including two new councillors, Harold Nelson and Charles E. Rodway, was informed that the council has had a sewage survey and furthermore before a sewage system can be considered the water problem would have to be solved. Council is now obtaining an evaluation of the Sechelt Waterworks and should have the report soon.

A $197,700 sewage disposal proposal was given to Sechelt's council at its Jan. 21, 1965 meeting. The proposal presented would cover a population in the system of 3,100. Since then the report has lain dormant in Municipal hall files. Councillors have given the report some study but realizing the village financial position could not stand such expense, have proceeded no further with it.

The letter from Dr. Reynolds is regarded as a reminder to council that government policy has taken away from municipalities sole power to decide on sewage systems.

In the $197,700, the Martin Dayton report allowed for inflation of approximately 20 per cent. Based on a projection covering a few more years it is expected that by 1974 the cost would rise 40 per cent if the present inflationary trend continues.

The present septic tank situation in Sechelt is not regarded as menacing to public health with the exception of a few low spots. Like Gibsons municipal council Sechelt councillors are of the opinion if the government want sewage systems done in a hurry there should be some financial assistance supplied. Sechelt's borrowing power is close to $150,000 and Gibsons $100,000 plus, due to the $113,000 water bylaw.

It was decided that a meeting of council with Mr. Dayton be arranged at some future date. Dr. Reynolds will be informed of Sechelt present position as regards a future sewerage system.

Councillor Morgan Thompson reported on continued vandalism at the Hackett Park building. Councillor Charles E. Rodway brought up the matter of keeping the village office open during the lunch hour and this was agreed to. The chairman doubted the advisability of keeping it open that hour.

Bylaw 81 covering re-zoning on Porpoise Bay Road was given its final reading.

Hill heads OAPO

New officers for 1968 installed at the Sechelt OAPO meeting Jan. 18 in the Legion Hall are: President, Mr. H. A. Hill; vice-presidents, Canon Minto Swan and Mrs. Lorene Yates; secretary, Mrs. O. McGregor; and treasurer Mr. W. Coffey. Committee chairmen are Mrs. H. Evans, entertainment; Mr. and Mrs. Percy Grice, welfare; Mr. W. Coffey assisted by Mrs. Guy Clear, transportation; Mrs. M. Livesey, social and Mrs. M. Tinkley, publicity.

A one-day trip to Vancouver is planned for Feb. 20 and members are requested to book reservations with Mr. Coffey quickly. Mr. Coffey would be glad to receive suggestions from members for trips they would like organized for the coming season.

Messages for Mr. and Mrs. Grice of members on the sick list can be left with Mrs. O. McGregor at 885-2819. Those reported sick in St. Mary's Hospital at present are Mrs. E. McWhinnie, Mr. William Haley, and Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Jessop. Mrs. William Baker is sick at her home in W. Sechelt.

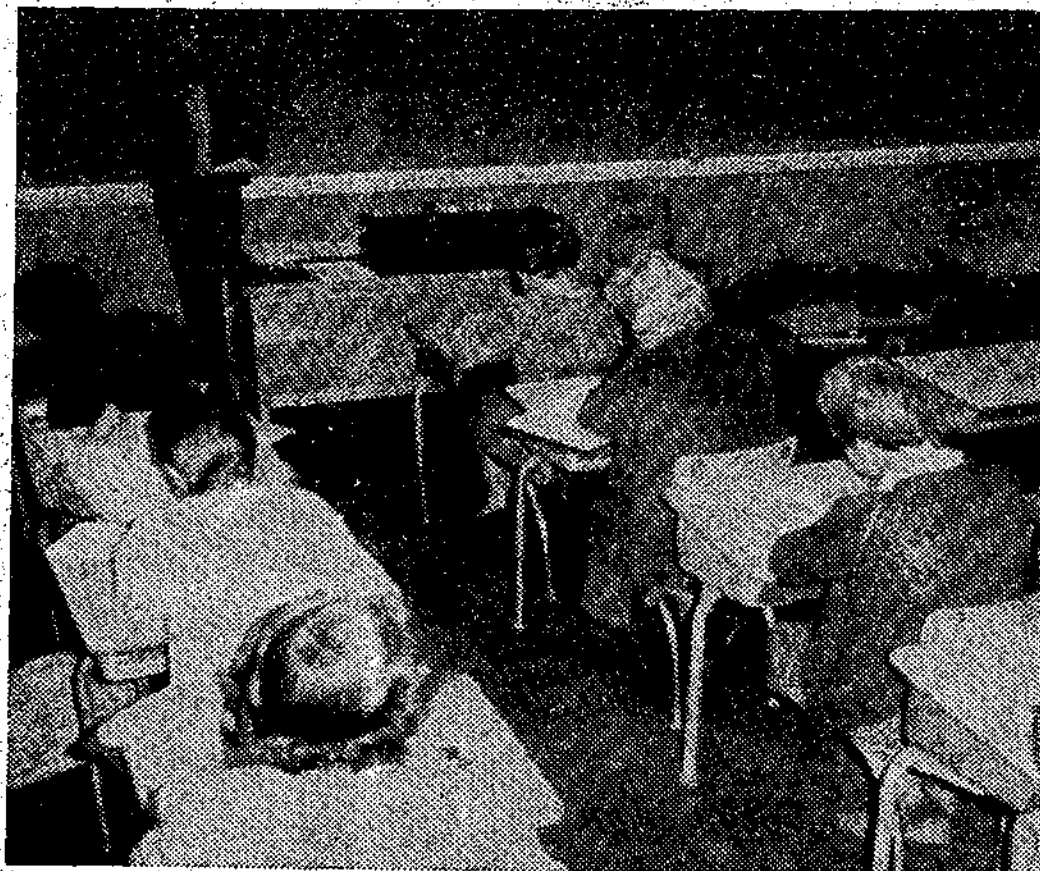

On the Senior Citizens' Housing project, Canon A. Greene reported that considerable progress has been made. The contract for the construction has been let and the price is lower than had been expected. There were still certain formalities to be finalized but as soon as these are completed the work will commence. It is estimated that 10 units should be ready for occupation by the fall.

At the end of February, the major fund raising drive will be launched with a mail campaign covering everybody from Port Mellon to Egmont. Canon Minto Swan will be in charge of the campaign.

Several members have expressed intense interest in the subject of the amalgamation of the OAPO and the Senior Citizens' association, which would strengthen the cause of the elder citizen of Canada. It was urged that at the next North Shore Regional meeting, a strong recommendation be made that every effort be directed towards such amalgamation.

On behalf of the members, Mr. Hill wished Godspeed to Canon and Mrs. Greene who are leaving for a trip to England at the end of the month.

Following the business meeting another fine program of entertainment was offered by Mr. Charles Evans. The Sunshine Songsters led by Mrs. Dorothy Stockwell sang four songs, new to their repertoire. Accompanist was Mrs. Evans. Mrs. Peggy West and her daughter, Mrs. Sunny Trowse sang an interesting and varied range of songs, accompanied by Mrs. Trowse on her guitar. This was followed by a sing-song with a Scottish flavor, accompanied by Mrs. Edna Calbick.

Writers at work!

Author Raymond Hull, instructor in the creative writing class, now in session every Monday night at Elphinstone Secondary, said recently that he often heard would-be writers moaning that they live in the wrong place. If they could live in Montreal, or San Francisco, or Timbuctoo, they would have something to write about.

To this Mr. Hull said: "I tell them to stay right where they are. There's plenty of literary material in every town and village, even on a desert island. Think of Thoreau! Think of Robinson Crusoe!"

The result of Mr. Hull's attitude is that his creative writing classes are lively and interesting. He encourages his students to submit scripts. Each script receives a written analysis from the instructor. Scripts are analyzed in class.

Mr. Hull's philosophy of action will carry over into a new course in dynamic psychology which he will be teaching beginning Feb. 7. For information about the dynamic psychology course call the Adult Education Department, 886-2241.

The executive also decided to send a letter to Premier Bennett as follows: "Gibsons and District Chamber of Commerce views with some discomfort the proposal to supply a ferry every two hours, regarding it as a step backwards and urges the Ferry Authority to reconsider the position."

As regards the labor situation it feels that the wholesale layoff is too severe and urges some consideration be given these men and families.

Construction of the new terminal facilities at Horseshoe Bay is well under way, the British Columbia Ferry Authority has announced, however preliminary grading work combined with last week's heavy rainfall have made parking in the terminal area extremely difficult.

The new multi-level terminal is expected to be completed in July of this year. In the interim, there will be only limited parking at Horseshoe Bay and travellers to and from Nanaimo, the Sunshine Coast and Bowen Island are advised to travel by bus, arrange to be dropped off and picked up, or take their cars aboard the ferries.

B.C. Ferries officials state that every effort is being made to make parking available
