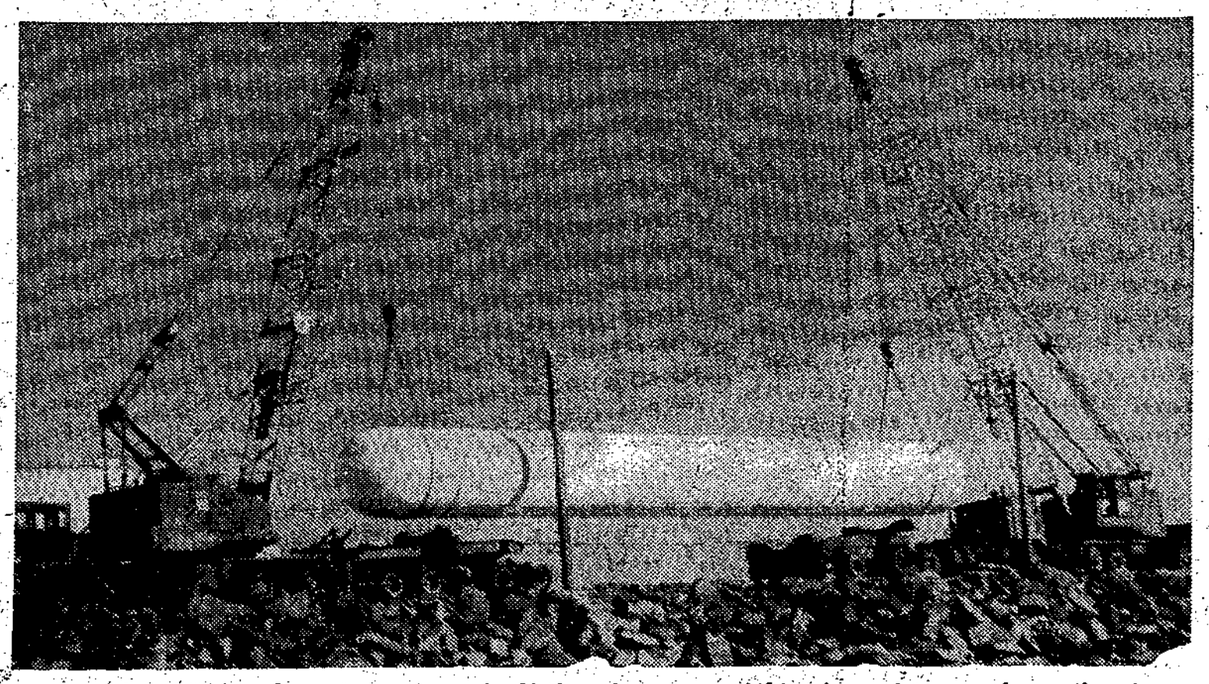
Candidates lining up for election

With the political pot starting to boil now that Prime Minister Trudeau has called a general election for Tuesday, June 25, it is expected that local political organizations will be running full tilt shortly.

While it is not definite yet, expectations are that Gordon Gibsons, Jr., might run as Liberal candidate. The NDP will have Hartley Dent of 100 Mile House as its candidate, and the Social Credit party has nominated Andrew Widstone of Bella Coola.

Norman Watson of Sechelt is chairman of the steering committee of the Sunshine Coast Liberal association. Fred Jorgenson of Sechelt treasurer and Heather Wheeler of Gibsons is secretary.



It was a big lift for these two Johnston cranes as they moved a new 30,000 gallon Rockgas tank into place at the Rockgas plant at Roberts Creek. The tank, which weighs about 30 tons, is 90 feet long and eight feet in diameter, and will double the plant's storage capacity. The tank was brought up by barge, and was tied up in Gibsons for nearly a week awaiting calm enough weather to unload it at Wilson Creek. Once the weather arrived, it was only a matter of a few hours until the tank was resting on its foundation at Roberts Creek.

Open house at 2 points

Members of the provincial government headed by Hon. Isabel Dawson, minister without portfolio, will visit the Sunshine Coast April 30 and May 1.

Hon. Mrs. Dawson will hold open house at Sechelt Legion Hall Tuesday, April 30 from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 7 to 10 p.m.

Open house will also be held in Gibsons at the Legion hall Wednesday, May 1 from 2 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 10 p.m.

At Sechelt she will be accompanied by George Mussallem, MLA for Dewdney, well known for his Scouting work and by Andy Widston, Social Credit candidate for the new federal constituency of Coast-Chilcotin.

At Gibsons she will be accompanied by Robert Wenman, MLA for Delta, youngest MLA in Canada, and Mr. Widston.

An invitation is extended to all to attend, men or women, at either one or both of these open house events. Mrs. Dawson urges those with problems to bring them along. Light refreshments will be served at both events.

In view of expected heavy traffic on Sunshine Coast Highways this summer. Hon Isabel Dawson, minister without portfolio and MLA for Mackenzie constiuency reports the roads department intends to make improvements to North Road.

Mrs. Dawson also reports she is working on Premier Bennett for a better ferry schedule and some indication that soon the Gibsons bypass road will be started.

May Queens to be recorded

A book in which to record the May Day Queens of Sechelt will be obtained by Sechelt's council at the suggestion of Mrs. J. Redman who because of her past experience with May Day events in Sechelt is working with the present Lions club committee.

The book will be used to record the May Queens from the time the event started up to the present and where possible pictures and data about the queen will be included.

Council also learned that this year's May Queen ceremonies will take place on a platform which will be situated in front of the bleachers that have been in Hackett park for several years.

CAR WASH MAY 4

There will be a Hi-C car wash May 4 at Sunnycrest Esso service station starting at 10 a.m.

Frank Hay new Chamber president

Frank Hay was elected president of Gibsons and area Chamber of Commerce at Monday night's dinner meeting in Cedars Inn where some 35 persons attended. E. F. Nyfors was elected vice-president, Mrs. Ellen Irving, secretary and Frank Daugherty, treasurer.

Executive members will include Dr. E. A. Baja, Walt Nygren, William Wright, Charles Mandelkau, Kay Butler, Lyle Schwabe, Norman Rudolph and Mickey Parsey, all prominent in their respective business spheres in Gibsons area.

Following the election the president and vice-president were sworn in by Ewart McMynn, notary public. The new president compliment the retiring officers and executive for the work they accomplished during the term of office. He urged co-operation between members and the executive to get the best work done.

Mr. Hay is manager of Elphinstone Co-op store and Mr. Nyfors is manager of Royal Bank. Ron Haig, retiring president was chairman.

Mr. Daugherty, reading from a Campbell River paper story which outlined the troubles of the chamber there, similar to those affecting a good many chambers of commerce expressed the thought that if the chamber was to be effective it needed everybody working physically, morally and financially for the chamber. The article he read was headed At the Crossroads and depicted the failings of the Campbell River chamber over a period of years.

Two motions were presented and passed. Ewart McMynn asked for continued support to get the highway completed from Squamish to Port Mellon and Mayor Fred Feeney urged the looking into of a hovercraft service to serve the area.

Trio to debate controversial Bill 33

The merits of Bill 33, the controversial labor legislation sponsored by the B.C. government, will be the topic of a panel discussion at a public meeting on Tuesday, April 30 in Gibsons Legion Hall.

Supporters of the bill have asserted that it will bring peace to the labor management scene in B.C. Opponents have charged that the bill threatens the freedom of every worker in B.C.

Speaking in support of the bill on the panel will be Herb Bruch, MLA, from Esquimalt, deputy speaker of the legislature and acting National leader of the Social Credit Party. Speaking against the bill will be John McNevins of the B.C. Federation of Labor, and Ernest Freer, President of IWA 1-71. Frank Fuller, will be chairman and impartial moderator.

The meeting which starts at 7:30 p.m., is open to the public and all interested citizens are invited to participate. The meeting was arranged by a committee from local trade unions including Local 297 Pulp and Sulphite, IWA Local 1-71, The United Fisherman, Local 801 Canadian Union of Public Employees, and the Langdale Local of the Ferry Workers. Mrs. Isabel Dawson, MLA, from the Mackenzie District arranged for Mr. Bruch to speak.

$88,500 for Sr. Citizen homes

Hon. Isabel Dawson, reporting from Victoria said an Order-in-Council April 18 approved an outright grant of $35,000 for the Sunshine Coast Senior Citizens Housing Society, at Sechelt, for the construction of ten single self-contained units. The remainder of construction cost is raised by local participation of 10% and through a loan from Central Mortgage and Housing.

Ottawa has approved a 50 year $53,500 loan.

Directors of the Sunshine Coast Senior Citizens Housing society are receiving congratulations on their fine brochure which fully outlines the plant for providing homes on their property on Ocean avenue in Sechelt. The pictures of many places along the coast give the brochure a very appealing note.

Along with the brochure which will be distributed through the mail on the Sunshine Coast are the donation cards and a letter from the Rev. Canon Alan D. Greene who is the president and chairman of the board of directors. He will be returning from England shortly and will be interested in the response of the citizens. Canon Greene will head the special names committee. Many of these names belong to people who have left here or who may have family or friends here. Already, Canon Greene has received many generous gifts from donors whom he knew in the early days along the coast.

If you have not received one of the brochures, you may have a copy by notifying the assistant secretary of the board, Mrs. Charles Tinkley, R.R.1., Halfmoon Bay.

Power boat race likely

Possibility of a 25 power boat race from Sunset Beach to Gibsons around June 23 was brought to the attention of Gibsons and Area Chamber of Commerce at Monday night's meeting at Cedars Inn. It was revealed by Mayor Fred Feeney in a letter from the B.C. Offshore Racing association.

The letter made the proposal that if it could be arranged it could become an annual event. There would be four permanent trophies already existing and some lesser annual trophies which would be provided by the chamber of commerce.

The craft in the race would arrange to reach Gibsons for a box lunch and before departing would stage power boat racing in the area.

Mayor Feeney said an estimate of the value of the 25 power boats which would take part would be in the region of 250,000 and it would be a big day for Gibsons area if it could be arranged. The matter was turned over to the incoming executive.

School budget slash ordered

The department of education in Victoria has ordered the school board to reduce the operating section of the 1968 Budget by eighty or ninety thousand dollars. The secretary-treasurer received a telephone call to this effect at noon on Wednesday, April 17 and was requested to reply to the department on the following morning with details of the proposed cuts.

The secretary-treasurer informed the district superintendent and the school board of a meeting to be held at 9 a.m. the following morning with the secretary-treasurer and the superintendent of buildings and grounds.

At this meeting, in consultation with its administrative staff, the board reluctantly decided on cuts totalling $67,085. This involves cutting down the present teacher over-entitlement by about a third also maintenance, janitorial, and grounds staff.

This was as far as the board felt it could go, particularly since it had not been possible at such short notice to discuss the proposed cuts in detail with those concerned, and the department of education was so informed.

The British Columbia School Trustees association advised us that they are aware that many other school districts have been asked to reduce their budgets.

It is not possible at the moment to predict the exact effects of this severe cutback in the budget on the education program in the school district, but serious consideration was given that cuts would not be detrimental to the basic education of the children.

The board has not been informed what cuts, if any, the department may have made to the capital section of the budget, in addition to the above-mentioned cuts in the operating budget. The capital section is used for site development, alterations and additions to existing buildings and the purchase of additional equipment for the schools.

(Readers should read the lead editorial on Page 2. It has something to do with school board affairs.)

Sechelt ups taxes

Sechelt's council has decided on a 2.24 mill rate increase for this year's taxation. This will raise the 10 mill rate for the last 11 years to a 12.24 mill rate.

Reason for so doing was to allow an increase of $5000 in the capital expenditures in the budget. This would bring capital expenditures this year up to $12,000. The motion for increasing the mill rate was moved by Ald. M. Thompson and seconded by Ald. Charles Rodway.

Earlier in the meeting council was informed by the provincial surveyor of taxes that the Sechelt Fire Protection District levy would total $4,304.23. This would mean a mill rate of 2.76.

Thus Sechelt would through assessments, provide something like 15 mills for municipal operations and fire protection. On top of that would be the hospital tax af slightly more than one mill making the overall total more than 16 mills.

Council is now preparing the provisional budget for presentation shortly.

A 10 year battle

If anyone has the idea the present education jangle between the public, school boards, municipal councils and the provincial government is of fairly recent origin read the following from the Coast News of ten years ago dated April 24, 1958:

"The following telegram was sent to Premier Bennett by the village council: Preliminary figures issued by your department indicate marked increase in local levy for school costs over last year—stop—We urge that provincial government contribution be increased to ease burden on local taxpayer.

"Council at that time also sent a letter to Tony Gargrave, MLA, complaining that one of the costs of local school operation is interest paid on casual borrowing through which the school board is forced to obtain money in lieu of payments by the provincial government."

The letter went on to say that "quite regularly these scheduled remittances are not received but the department has authorized the local school board to borrow from the bank in the meantime with the local board paying the interest charges. In effect this means the local taxpayer is financing the government. This may help toward that heralded debt free state, but we the local taxpayer are carrying the load."

There does not appear to have been any significant change made as a result of that telegram and letter. Perhaps Mr. Bennett has considered too literally Tennyson's lines:

For men may come and men may go
But I go on forever.

However he may have overlooked the fact that he has dammed the brook.

Bill of rights for squares?

In an editorial in the Stouffville, Ont., Tribune the editor points out that no one today ever mentions majority rights. The TV, radio and daily press is crowded with cries about minority rights. We all stand wide-eyed at so-called civil liberties groups who push for everything from drugs to obscene art.

These groups, which continually hit the headlines are in favor of all the oddball items, seeming to make the rest of us look like a group of old doddlers because we won't go along with a concept of life which contains little backbone and no sense of morality.

Others of the so-called under-privileged groups think its fun to picket everything from parliament to foreign embassies under the guise of anti-Viet Nam war, or any other excuse, to cause trouble.

We squares are getting a bit fed up with it all, he says in conclusion.

With this, quite a number of people will agree heartily. Under the Bill of Rights the squares should organize and ask for equal time on radio, TV and in the press to depict how fed up they are of having to be entertained or educated in the minority way of life. Some of it might rub off on the groups that push for dvreything from drugs to obscene art. Who knows? At least it is worth a trial!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Copy of a letter to Mr. Monty Aldous:

Sir: As head of the B.C. Ferry System, I would like to draw the following to your attention:

On Thursday, April 11 my wife and thousands of other B.C. residents arrived at Horseshoe Bay between 2 and 4 p.m. We waited for three hours to get a ferry to Langdale. Granted you have your problems, but this in neither good business nor good advertising. We need more Ferries, more frequently.

But get this statement: On Sunday, April 14 we still waited three hours to return home. This is not good enough! You must be aware of the number of cars you handle on a long weekend, yet you allowed cars to line up to Granthams Landing when a spare ferry was docked at the Langdale Terminal, and not put into use until 3:30 p.m.

The ferry should be running every hour on every weekend from April on, and certainly every holiday weekend. It seems most unreasonable to put the public to such inconvenience time after time. We feel as B.C. taxpayers in two communities, in common with a great number of the commuters as well as the ferry fare, we are fully paying our way. It is bad enough for people like my wife, myself and our doggie, but what of the many families with young children, sitting in their cars on the highway for hour after hour, far away from rest rooms, restaurants or other facilities.

We need better operational procedure. You people in Government Office are doing a good job, but don't forget the tax payer altogether. — Hector R. Munro, Vancouver and Granthams.

SURRVEY OF DEBRIS

A survey of debris in coastal waters by the water and recreational section of the B.C. Safety council is in full swing. Already alarming facts have been gathered. From marine insurance underwriters who have reported 356 vessels large and small were damaged last year by striking submerged objects resulting in claims of 321,742.00.

Rescue co-ordination centre dispatched rescue flights or coast guard vessels on 19 occasions to assist holed vessels. Nine of these sunk but due to prompt action by the centre in only two incidents were there drownings.

Two other lives were lost in accidents to which the rescue centre was not called. One in September when a sport fisherman's boat hit a deadhead, and one in December when a commercial fish boat sunk from damage to the hull.

A few questions on our criminal law.

Q. A guy owes me some money on a rubber cheque and I told him if he didn't pay I was going to the police and he says now I can get in trouble

A. He's right. You have committed the crime of extortion. The fact that the man you have been dealing with is also guilty of a crime, or that he owes you the money, is immaterial. You may threaten to sue him in a civil court (and you may sue him) but you may not threaten him with criminal proceedings. You may apply to have a criminal charge laid against him because of the cheque. Our advice now however is to sue him civilly and stay away from the police station or you may both take a ride in the paddy wagon together.

Q. I have heard that the supreme court of Canada is an appeal court only and that it does not hear trials. How is it that in the Truscott case, Truscott was tried by the supreme court and they heard evidence and witnesses?

A. You are quite correct — the highest courts of each province and the supreme court of Canada do not conduct trials — they only hear appeals, that is, arguments about points of law. There is, however a special provision that the minister of justice may order the supreme court of Canada to conduct a trial and this is what happened in this unusual case. We believe this is the only case of its kind. It is interesting that the court agreed with the finding of guilty by the jury in the original trial and that not one of the nine supreme court of Canada judges believed Truscott's testimony.

Q. Can you settle a bet for us? I say that in a criminal case you have to plead guilty or not guilty. The guy I'm betting with says you don't.

A. You lose. After the charge is read out, an accused person may: (1) Plead guilty; (2) plead not guilty; (3) plead autrefois acquit; (4) plead autrefois convict; (5) plead pardon; (6) refuse to plead; or (7) fail to plead.

Autrefois acquit means that the accused has been charged before with the same offence and has been acquitted. Autrefois convict means that the accused has been so charged and been convicted. Pardon means that the accused has been pardoned. If the accused says nothing, or refuses to plead, or insists on making a speech about it at this point, or if the charge is one that carries a death penalty, the magistrate will order a plea of not guilty to be entered in the records and the trial or preliminary enquiry proceeds.

In cases of criminal libel a special plea that the published statement is true and for the public benefit is allowed. Too bad about your bet. We hope a large sum isn't involved, but if it is any consolation to you, you may legally refuse to pay it and your friend cannot successfully sue you.

Book review

I Heard the Owl Call My Name by Margaret Craven, published by Clarke Irwin, reviewed by Jules Mainil, Gibson's Public Library.

Out of a prosaic, almost a contrived situation, has been created a work of art.

A young Anglican Vicar, with an incurable disease, which he knows nothing about but which is known to his bishop, is sent as a missionary to the Indians of Kingcome, B.C. It sounds almost artificial doesn't it? Instead of that, it is a work of unbelievable strength and beauty. The character of the Coast Indian is delineated with force and truth. Great love is here but never sentimentality.

In this day when paintings are often meaningless daubs, when poetry neither rhymes nor scans, when so many novels are pornography, when so much music is atonal noise, how wonderful is a work which pictures man and nature with good taste and beauty.

Possibly I am too sentimental in my judgement of this book; I do know that on several occasions I had a lump in my throat and tears stung my eyes. Please read it.

DEMAND CONTINUES

Dr. William G. Black of Vancouver was elected president of the Canadian Bible society at the recent meeting of the executive committee. For the world budget of the United Bible societies of $7,500,000 the Canadian Bible society has accepted responsibility for providing $800,000 in 1968. In British Columbia the objective is $145,000 for work in the province, across Canada and throughout the world. The demand for the scriptures is the greatest in history and the 1967 world distribution of over 104 million scriptures was far short of meeting the demand.

Community welfare councils?

By HON. DAN CAMPBELL
(Minister of Social Welfare)

During the course of the coming year I expect public interest in social welfare problems to increase.

I have became convinced that solutions to the problems of the poor must be tackled on a very broad front. It is obvious that the front lines are in the communities of British Columbia and therefore British Columbia communities must establish mechanisms to tackle the problems of welfare on their doorstep.

Welfare problems are obviously not merely a question of rates paid but involve more deeply rooted factors such as lack of education, and lack of job opportunity. Both of these conditions can lead to the creation of the individual that we now know as the chronic welfare recipient.

At the community level public and voluntary funds have created a great use of services in the social service fields. Many of these social services have inherent tie-in one with the other. However, it is often to be found that at the community level these social services remain essentially uncoordinated and very often little known by the community as a whole.

It would seem wise in each community to establish councils involving all of the social service agencies in order that programs can be reviewed as to their effectiveness but also be reviewed so as to avoid unnecessary and costly duplication of effort.

Community life in the United States is breaking down at an alarming rate and I think the essential reason is that the centralized approach to welfare, while transmitting vast sums of money from senior levels of government to the local community, is also responsible for a lack of awareness in the communities that personal involvement is the real base upon which a good community environment rests.

Today it is simply not enough to pay one's taxes and expect that some unknown mechanism of the state will have provided all the answers in the social service area. The poor man obviously is the neighbor of someone and obviously the poor man and his problems would be better known to his community than to any centralized apparatus that one could design.

There is no good reason why communities cannot develop voluntary employment agencies, for example, in order that by that means job opportunities can be pooled. Who has not in recent years, indicated a complaint that it is almost impossible at the community level to find people who are willing to do odd jobs. The potential for odd job work I would suggest is great in every community in British Columbia and yet this potential for giving some chronic welfare recipients some work experience is very much under utilized.

It should be very evident that the old bogey of working for welfare is really a question of semantics. For example, in the United States welfare recipients are often given an opportunity on a voluntary basis to work on state and community projects at the going rate for labor in the area. When some of these programs were introduced they were severely criticized by some of the fussy thinkers in the professional echelons of the welfare world. The programs were degraded by referring to them as work for relief.

The professional niceties were apparently solved when these programs were given such titles as work experience, job opportunities, operation maintenance, operation opportunity. They were given a further aura of acceptability by tagging them with the usual initial designations, for example, Work Experience became that famous program called WE.

With these changes communities not only accepted these programs but. in fact, felt that they had come upon a new idea. The new idea that they had come upon was that it was reasonable to expect that any income should be the result of some effort on the part of the individual. Old fashioned as this new idea really is, dressed up in the jargon of the professional it became acceptable.

In short, I think it is time that the communities of British Columbia examined the social environment which they have created. It is time that personal involvement replaced the mechanical creations of the State. It is time that we realized that social problems affect your neighbor and mine and these can only be solved at the community level.

ARDA assists water users

Rehabilitation of the Southern Okanagan Lands Irrigation District irrigation system, being carried out under the ARDA program, is to be modified, so that a year-round domestic water supply might be provided for dwellings within the district boundaries.

The Southern Okanagan Lands Irrigation District contains 5,000 acres of orchard land, and there are within its boundaries approximately 550 rural dwellings. The majority of these dwellings are dependent for water supply on cisterns which are filled from the irrigation system — an unsatisfactory arrangement, particularly from the health point of view.

The overall rehabilitation project, expected to be completed by 1970, involves the construction of nine separate irrigation systems, drawing water from Osoyoos Lake, the main diversion canal and possibly from wells.

Implementation of this major ARDA-assisted program. being jointly financed by the federal government, the B.C. government and the district itself, is the responsibility of the B.C. department of lands, forests and water resources.

FORESTRY FILMS

The first of a continuing series of informative forestry films produced by the National Film Board for the federal department of forestry and rural development has been released in B.C. Three copies of the 17 minute, 16mm color film Forest Regions of Canada were presented by forest research director Ray Lejeune to the provincial education department

Spring hunger time has arrived in Korea, the period from February until July when the next barley is harvested. Drought in two of the southern provinces affected 2 million farmers at the close of the year and sent thousands into cities already unable to feed or house their existing populations.

These conditions have aggravated what is always a difficult period and the Unitarian Service Committee has sent additional barley to help feed hungry children and adults. Welfare, allocated at only 47c per head per year, is totally inadequate

If you can help, contributions are welcome at USC Headquarters, 56 Sparks Street, Ottawa.

One dollar will supply a child with 13 bowls of barley.

Postal Paqs

The Canada Post Office announced the introduction of two new stamp booklets to be sold across the counter at $1 each.

The booklets will replace the cello-paqs now in use. Available in the four and five cent stamp denominations, the booklets will be more economical to produce and more convenient to carry in pocket or purse. Their introduction will come gradually, as current supplies of cello-paqs become exhausted.

At the same time, stamp booklets priced at 25c will lose their present format in favor of an improved moisture resistant one. featuring a vinyl coating on appropriate surfaces. In a few weeks time, the 25c booklets will be available only from vending machines. This measure is expected to reduce pressure on post office wicket clerks during busy periods, and to increase sales of the one dollar booklets.

Hi-Cs find convention inspiring

This is the first column about Hi-C. Hi-C is a small group of teens who gather each Sunday night to discuss many different and sometimes controversial topics. Any young teen over 15 interested in joining is welcome. We offer special thanks to Mrs. Hume, our counsellor and to Mr. Potter, who is always helping when we need something.

Hi-C members have just returned from a conference at St. Andrews, North Vancouver, in which several Hi-C groups from all over B.C. participated. At the conference we found many ideas from the various groups. We also found many things in which our own group is lacking and we are taking steps to rectify this.

We had several church services which opened our eyes and showed us that religion does not have to be formal. Special note was taken that religion is now updated and can be pointed toward youth. We hope in the near future that we can hold a church service that may be directed to everyone.

At the conference we noted that chaperones were not necessary, the most at any one time was at a church service, when pers and fellowship afterwards.

The conference was organized by four people who were not adults, but Hi-C members. Friday evening we all attended a dance with the Poppy Family and then had a love feast, a communication service which gave us a new insight into the Last Supper. This was followed by a final mugup and a tearful farewell.

Special thanks goes to the U.C.W. who helped pay for our registration and extra special thanks to the people who billeted us. We were pleased to find such great cooperation from the parents who took us in, put us up and put up with us.

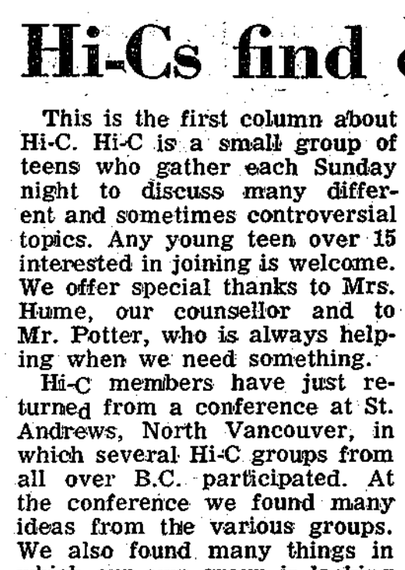
In one discussion we were asked to compare ourselves with an orange. We will share some of these comments in the next column. In the meantime ask yourself this question Why is youth like an orange?

Counsellor's Comments:

What's the matter with the younger generation? Well, after spending three days with 110 young adults, I'd say not too much, if they're given a challenge and a responsibility. Four young people with the guidance of Rev. Wes Warren planned the program, arranged transportation, billets, food, speakers, and a dance. I'm not saying it went with no hitches but they were soon corrected by the committee itself.

But you say these aren't typical teenagers, they are under the influence of the church. Maybe they are under the sponsorship of the church but only a few of them are committed. These are the ordinary home grown variety of teenagers, some of which through this conference have found it not sissy to talk and to be involved with religion.

Maybe as adults we should give these kids a challenge with responsibility instead of complaining about a communcation gap that wouldn't exist if adults would only care to listen and become involved with the youth of today. Who knows, maybe you'll even gain something from them.



Mrs. Daisy Crowhurst, 84, one of Gibsons respected oldtimers, died April 22. The funeral will take place Thursday, at 3 p.m. from the Family Chapel of Harvey Funeral Home, Gibsons, with Rev. H. Kelly officiating. Cremation will follow.

Mrs. Crowhurst was Gibsons Centennial Year Queen for 1966. She has been a resident of Gibsons since her husband's retirement in 1947.

Mrs. Crowhurst has actively participated in activities of the Canadian Legion, Red Cross, St. Bartholomew's Anglican Church and the Old Age Pensioners Organization.

During both world wars she knitted socks and sweaters, and later sewed layettes and gowns for the Red Cross. She was a Past Mistress of the Ladies Orange Benevolent Association No. 90.

Mrs. Crowhurst has always taken a keen interest in gardening and raising indoor plants. She especially prized her African violet collection.

Mr. Crowhurst, who was a veteran of the South African war, died in 1950. For 25 years he was employed as a painter by the Vancouver School Board.

Sons and daughters are Mrs. May Hall, Whonnock; Frank C., South Burnaby; Fred, Powell River, and Albert at home. A brother Joe is in England. There are 18 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

St. George tea by St. Aidans

In brilliant sunshine, Friday, April 19, St. Aidan's Anglican Parish hall, Roberts Creek, was the setting for a delightful tea by the Anglican Church Women of St. Aidan's, in honor of St. George, the patron saint of England.

Mrs. W. M. Cameron, wife of Rev. W. M. Cameron of the United Church declared the tea open. Mrs. Cameron was introduced by Mrs. A. M. Harper, president of the A.C.W. who also received the guests and was ably assisted by Mrs. J. H. Kelly, wife of the vicar of St. Aidan's the Rev. J. H. Kelly.

The hall was tastefully decorated with the flags of St. George and bunches of red roses, and all the guests were presented with a rose bud to wear.

On the centre of each tea table was a small white basket holding miniature red roses and a St. George flag.

Mrs. R. Bernard was in charge of the tea arrangements assisted by Mrs. J. R. Marsh, Mrs. F. W. Downes, Mrs. L. C. Bengough and Mrs. A Dube. The home cooking stall was presided over by Mrs. R. Cumming and Mrs. J. Matthews; cards and novelties by Mrs. Ena C. Harrold and Mrs. C. D. Clough; and plants by Mr. L. C. Bengough and Mrs. C. Bedford.

The door prize tied with a large bow of red and white ribbon was won by Mrs. W. E. Oakley of Roberts Creek. Proceeds of the tea will go toward a scholarship fund for the education of the children of clergy serving in Uganda, the country the A.C.W. are studying as their missionary effort.

Green grass soon?

Work on the Sunshine Coast Golf and Country club is going on apace, according to Reg Thomas, publicity chairman. Roy Taylor, in charge of grounds and greens reports that Ernest Brown, Vancouver architect, a specialist in golf courses, spent several days last week supervising the preparation of the greens and expressed satisfaction on the readiness of four greens for the application of fertilizer, preparatory to seeding and approved the remaining five, now in the final stages of shaping with all but a small amount of light work to go.

The fairways are also taking shape, with numbers six, seven and eight almost ready for seeding. In spite of the continued cool weather the work is proceeding on schedule.

Foundation and sub-floor of the clubhouse are all but completed. The decision was made by the directors to move one instead of two cottages from Port Mellon and this is now on skids awaiting transportation. With a bit of refurbishing this unit will become the groundskeeper's quarters.

Construction of a modern pro shop to complement the clubhouse in construction and design will be undertaken as work on the former is a bit more advanced. Slash fires continue to burn along that part of the course bordering the Sunshine Coast highway permitting a panoramic vista of fairways and greens along that part of the highway. Bill Sneddon, chairman of the membership committee reports that membership is now more than 240, heading for the second cutoff at 250 when cost of memberships will be increased to $250 with an annual fee of $50. He is also anticipating this will be boosted to 300 when memberships will be pegged at $300 and accompanying annual dues increased to $100.

With warmer weather in the offing the call has gone out to all members to join the volunteer weekend cleanup parties.

OCEAN HOUSING

The Japanese Fishery Agency is experimenting with various types of housing on the ocean bottom in the hope of repopulating fishing grounds off the country's coasts. While the more sophisticated experiments involve the building of concrete blocks in various forms, some tests employ more simple devices. Old truck tires are being tried for raising abalone. In other cases old buses have been sunk to sea-bottom to provide apartments for fish. The results have been inconclusive. Some of the buses disappeared. apparently swept away by strong undersea currents. Some others have been erroded or badly distorted. So far, metal structures have not proved satisfactory.

THREE IN COLLISION

Three cars were in a collision Saturday evening at the bottom of Granthams Hill. A truck driven by James E. Jansen of Abbotsford, apparently was unable to stop and collided into the rear of a new car driven by Melvin Hargas of Powell River which in turn came into contact with a car driven by Winnifred Irene Anderson of Gibsons. The Hargas car was described by RCMP as a $3,000 wreck. There were no injuries.

A new industry

A new industry comes to the Sunshine Coast with the opening of the Chalet Upholstery service, operated by Hal and May Aubin, located on Arbutus Road, Davis Bay. In a new, modern and well equipped workshop adjoining their residence, the Aubins will put 23 years of experience in the upholstery business developing this service in this area.

Hal Aubin, an apprentice and master of the upholstery trade has other capabilities such as ten years in the steel business from apprenticeship to superintendent of Britain Steel, Vancouver, to inspector, in which capacity his last big job was the Vancouver air terminal. He is also a master boat builder and a ticketed welder, an achievement in itself, as a Canadian Welding Bureau ticket is tops in this trade.

With all these qualifications the Aubins with their three children, Linda 14, Patsy 12, Kelly 11, move out from Vancouver to the Sunshine Coast because of increasing cut-throat competition in which job integrity is being sacrificed to expediency and slip-shod methods. Hal, May and family took a speculative holiday trip last year. In their camper they travelled up and down Vancouver Island, as far as Campbell River, then across to Powell River, Mr. Aubin's former home, to Pender Harbor where Mrs. Aubin lived for a number of years and down the Sunshine Coast, choosing Davis Bay as the spot to build their new home and workshop.

Within a month of their return to Vancouver they disposed of their house and were back, children, dog, bag and baggage in early October. By Christmas they had cleared the land, built their home and workshop and as Hal remarked, completed the chimney on Christmas eve just in time for the old gentleman with the whiskers.

"It's taken quite a bit of settling in," said May Aubin who as mother, homemaker and Hal's number one assistant she still hopes to find a bit of time for gardening. "We are enjoying this new life, free from tension, and the children particularly have a new sense of freedom and are adjusting well," she added.

Treatment of sewage examined

By JOAN DONOVAN
(In the Campbell River Weekly, Upper Islander)

Early last week I toured the sewage treatment plant, one of the wonders of Gold River.

I wonder how many of us realize the importance of this plant? Or even realize it exists?

We probably do not. And that is only because it is there, doing its job well by keeping the residents of Gold River free from the dangers of poorly treated sewage.

Every day we read of pollution in rivers and lakes, caused by untreated or poorly-treated sewage. Every day we read of the danger of disease. Hepatitis is a year occurance in some parts of B.C. Gold River is not among them though because of its secondary sewage treatment. It was costly — $250,000. The plant has a capacity for 10,000 people, so we are safe for years to come. Maintenance costs are low, but its value continues to rise.

The plant at present handles 90,000 gallons of sewage a day using the extended aeration activated sludge system. Activated sludge is nothing more than a mixture of sewage solids and micro-organisms.

It is formed by suspending sewage solids and bacteria in water containing dissolved oxygen. They are held in suspension by a mixing action created when compressed air is bubbled into the water. After a period of time the solids clump, and are separated from the water by sedimentation. The water is then clear of offensive material. The microbes in the sludge dissolve or digest the sewage with the energy from the oxygen which is derived from the air forced into the tank.

Viewing the plant, you will see the huge green tank where the sewage is being treated. Beside the tanks is the source of energy needed by the microbes to do their job. The source is an air compressor which forces the air into the tank, without which these aerobic bacteria would not exist to do their job of eating the organic materials in the sewage.

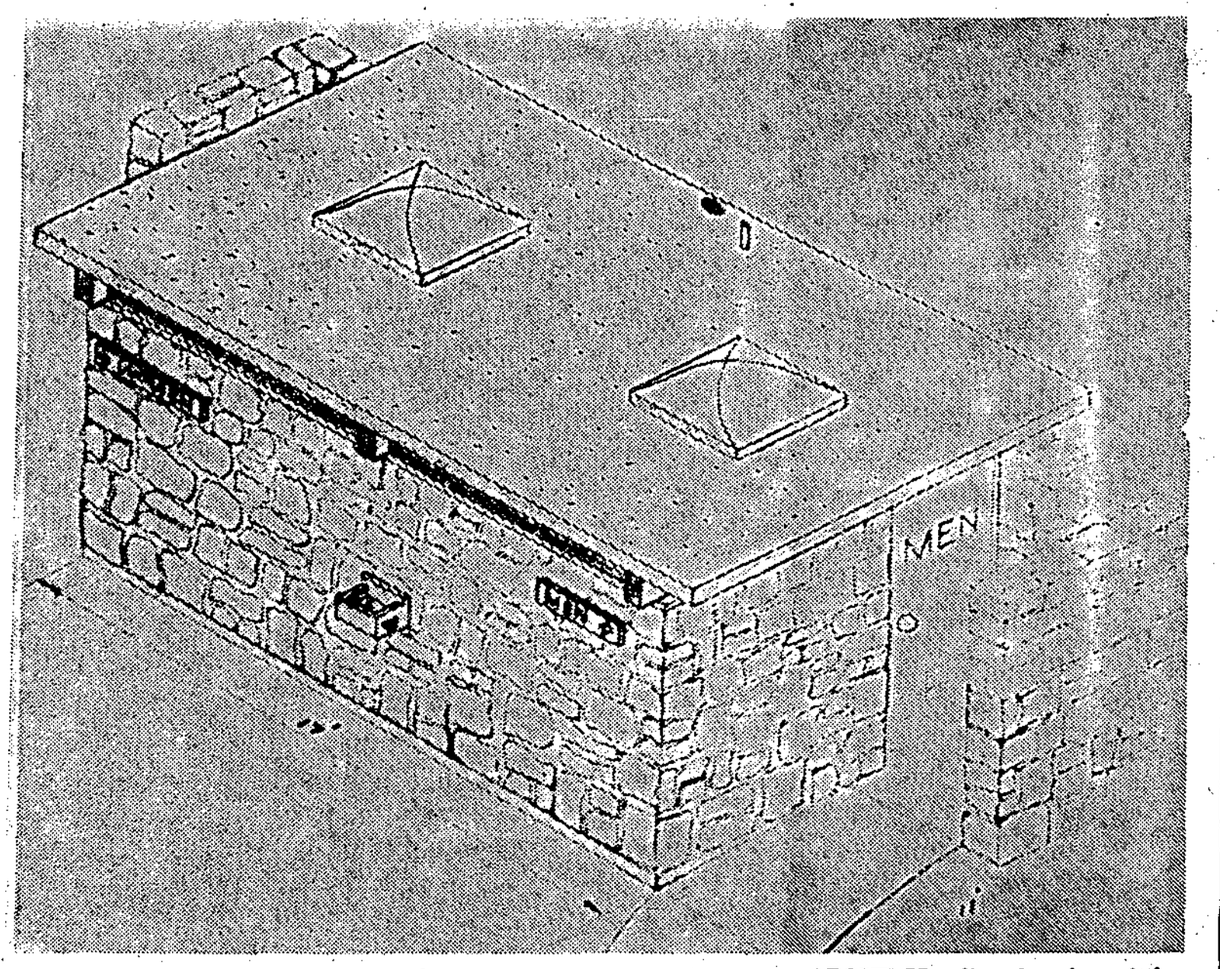
The treatment goes like this: First the sewage is strained, removing rubbish before it enters the aeration tank. There the sewage is thoroughly mixed with the activated sludge containing the microbes. In fact over a 24-hour period, the mixture will travel seven miles.

From there it flows in to the settling tank where the sludge drops to the bottom leaving the treated sewage to gradually run off. The sludge is returned to the aeration tank where it begins the work again on the untreated sewage.

Once the clear sewage leaves the settling tank it is safe to return it to the river, but one last process assures its safety. The chlorination tank, which introduces chlorine one part per million into the water. This will destroy any remaining pollutants and at the same time not harm fish in the river.

I examined the sewage outlet at the river and we actually had some difficulty finding it because there is no discoloration evident.

Health authorities who come to Gold River are satisfied with the treatment.



ABOVE IS a line drawing of the comfort station to be built on Gibsons Park land, next to the Bank of Montreal on Marine Drive. Exact position of the building has not been settled. Tenders close at 4 p.m., April 24. Plans can be seen at the Municipal office.

Those first warm days!

By A. R. BUCKLEY

With the first warm days of April, the urge is great to again become active in gardening. For the gardener it is an anxious period. Many tasks require careful thought before being attempted. One such job is uncovering roses.

If the covering is left too long, the rose shoots will become mildewed and damp off. If uncovered too early, they might be frozen by late spring frosts. This is a job that must be done gradually, leaving some protective covering until the new growth becomes a little hardened before full exposure to the frost and sun is given.

If your soil is sandy it can be dug now, but if it is heavy, delay it for awhile. If digging was not done in the fall, it is better left until it is fairly dry and not sticky like glue. Add lots of well-decayed compost to sandy soils, and peat moss to clayey soil and supplement this with a light fertilizer such as 6-9-6.

A good clean-up of the perennial border is in order right now. Old peony or any perennial stalks should be cut back just below the ground level if this was not done in the fall.

Most flowering shrubs will not require pruning until after June. However, if you have a fall-flowering pee gee hydrangea or a snowhill hydrangea or any shrubs that flower in the late summer or fall, they should be pruned now before growth commences: Remove some of the old wood back to the stump or the main stem and shorten the younger growths. This operation ensures getting larger blooms on a more symmetrical plant. Remember though, that this applies only to late summer and fall-flowering shrubs.

Those who like to get early sweet peas may sow the seeds now if the land is at all workable. Here is a trick to adopt to get real good long-stemmed big flowers: Dig a trench eight to twelve inches deep as though you were planting a hedge. Fork up the bottom and add peat moss. On top of this, place three inches of well-decayed leaves. compost or rotted manure and fill in the trench with three inches of topsoil. Then sow the seed; they won't germinate for awhile and when they do, will withstand any frost likely to occur during the next few weeks. As the plants grow and are staked with wires or other supports, fill in the trench to within two inches of the top. This allows a shallow groove in which to pour the large quantities of water the plant requires for good flower production. The Royal Series strain has greater heat resistance than the older Spencer types and is best for planting in hot areas.

Seeding to thicken the sod or fill in bare spots should also be done right now. Use only top quality seed with a 60% Kentucky blue and 40% fescue or similar mixture at three pounds per 1000 square feet. Cover bare spots thickly but use less in areas where there is some grass. Don't expect a new seeding to sprout instantly in cold weather — weeks are needed when the soil is not much above freezing, but it is still good to get the seed out early. It works nicely into the frost pits if the soil freezes at night.

School counselling for panel

The total population of B.C. is approximately 1,750,000 and 40% of this total are children under 20 (700,000). Ten percent of these children need help, according to George Kenwood, executive director of the Canadian Mental Health association. In other words, in any classroom of 30 in B.C., three children need psychiatric attention.

Last year School District No. 46 (Sechelt) appointed Mr. Budd Cumming MacKenzie, B.A., B.Ed., M.S.W. as district special counsellor. Mr. MacKenzie has completed graduate work in the fields of education, clinical psychology and social work in that order. He holds a B.A. degree and a B. Ed. degree from Acadia University (Wolfville, Nova Scotia) and B.S.W. and M.S.W. degrees from the University of British Columbia. In addition to this training, Mr. MacKenzie completed a year of graduate work in vocational guidance and clinical psychology at the Institute of Psychology at Ottawa university.

After graduation Mr. MacKenzie worked as a psychiatric social worker at the Burnaby Mental Health clinic (four years) as a medical social worker at CARS (one year) and as a senior social worker at the Children's Foundation in Vancouver, a residential treatment centre for emotionally disturbed children (four years).

Mr. MacKenzie comes from School District No. 24 (Kamloops) where for the past three years he was employed as the district special counsellor.

Mr. MacKenzie's interests and training are chiefly in the area of individual and family group interviewing, group counselling, research and community organization.

The public is invited to hear how our students may benefit from these counselling services at the next school board educational meeting on April 29th, at 7:30 p.m. in Elphinstone Secondary school. Discussion by panel members Mr. Budd MacKenzie, Mr. Frank Paquette, Mrs. Bea Rankin, Mr. W. S. Potter, and Mr. Sam Reid will follow an address by Dr. Douglas Hunter, psychiatrist on the topic How we can make school a successful experience for students.

Today embroidery is a fashionable trim for tablecloths and sheets as well as dresses. To give embroidered items a neat, smooth appearance, always iron embroidery on the wrong side. Place a cotton terry cloth towel between the embroidery and your ironing board, which should be well-padded.

Colored and white cotton sheets can be washed together in the same machine load unless you plan to use a bleach. You can use a mild chlorine bleach on a load of vat-dyed colored sheets. Always dilute bleach in a quart of water before adding to the wash water.

Pants for women have finally won the fashion vote of approval. Dressy hostess pajamas, sporty pants suits, and comfortable short culottes are included in the "pants for women" trend. This summer, the culotte dress, in cool washable cottons, will be a favorite all-purpose outfit.

HEALTH TIPS—

HEART STRAIN

The heart muscle and the blood vessels of a young man or woman can respond to a tremendous range of demand. However, because a few young people have damage to their hearts from congenital abnormalities or rheumatic heart disease, athletes are examined prior to extremely strenuous exercise.

The Canadian Medical Association reports that young people, very rarely, suffer from heart strain. It seems that the heart muscles show some deterioration after age 30, leaving it with less reserve. What reserve is left seems to benefit from constant training. Thus the man of 65 who decides to shovel the snow from his driveway, or push a car, or run quickly for a bus, is probably unwise. There is additional danger to the older man if he has had a recent respiratory infection which causes added strain.

The lesson to be learned about heart strain is that the older person should not subject his heart to sudden and unusual strain, like wrestling or shovelling snow. For those over 40 the C.M.A. recommends gentler exercise such as walking, playing golf, skating or skiing.

When you launder cotton diapers, use a cupful of vinegar after the last rinse to effectively neutralize ammonia. Vinegar-treated diapers have been found to help clear up babies' skin rashes. Add vinegar after the last rinse when the machine is half-filled with water. Without further rinsing, let diapers spin-dry . . . or dry outside.

Here's an idea for do-it-yourself decorating in a baby's room. Make cafe curtains from filmy cotton organdy, in white or a pastel color. Decorate curtains with pictures of storybook characters, drawn with felt markers. Just lay the see-through organdy over the picture you want to copy, and trace outlines with color markers.

Neat-looking unbleached cotton curtains, so popular for rustic decor, are easy to keep fresh and crisp. Wash in mild soapsuds and warm water, and use starch. If possible, spread out on flat surface to dry. Iron curtains while still slightly damp, working the iron from seams and borders toward the center.

Bingo tickets available

At the monthly meeting of the Sechelt O.A.P.O. branch in the Legion Hall April 18 President H. A. Hill announced that tickets are now available for the Bingo to be held in the Legion Hall, Sechelt, on May 11. It will be sponsored jointly with Branch 140 of the Canadian Legion in aid of the Senior Citizens' Housing project at Sechelt. The Legion auxiliary will take care of refreshments.

A grocery hamper has been donated to be raffled off that evening for the same good cause. Tickets may be obtained from Bill Coffey, Sechelt; Harry Hill, Selma Park; Mrs. Bubbles Creighton, Wilson Creek; Mrs. O. McGregor, West Sechelt, and Mrs. M. Tinkley, Halfmoon Bay. The price is $3 which entitles the holder to three cards.

Mr. W. Coffey announced that the last bus trip to Vancouver had been a success, and the next trip is to be in May and will be to Mount Baker via the Deas Island Throughway, Cresl cent Beach and White Rock. The date will be May 29 and he would like reservations as soon as possible. Other trips are being planned for the summer, and include one in June by bus to Vancouver, and then by ferry to Indian Arm. The July picnic will be organized by the Lions Club, and there will also be a trip to the PNE in August.

Reported on the sick list are Mr. Z. McCrea in St. Paul's Hospital, and Miss E. Burrell and Peter Edmunds.

Members wished God Speed to Canon and Mrs. Swan who are sailing in May on the Empress of Canada for a three month trip to Europe. They plan to visit England, Scotland, Ireland, France, Germany, Holland, Belgium and Italy.

Following the meeting the social committee presented another fine program of entertainment. The Sunshine Songsters sang three new songs, Mrs. Dorothy Stockwell and Mr. Bob Barclay sang two duets, and a young student of Elphinstone High School, Brian Swanson of Roberts Creek, gave a fine performance on his accordion, playing three solos and accompanying the community singing which followed.

First meeting for Indians

The first meeting of Indian Band spokesmen with officials of the department of Indian Affairs and Northern Development to discuss the revisions to the Indian Act will take place in Prince George, B.C. on May 6, 7 and 8. The meetings will be held at the Inn of the North and representatives of the bands in the Northern region of British Columbia will attend.

The second meeting will be held at the Evergreen Hall in Chilliwack, B.C. on May 10, 11 and 12 with the third scheduled for Kelowna on the 15, 16 and 17 of May at the Aquatic club. The discussion team will then move on to Alberta for meetings in Edmonton on June 3, 4 and 5 and in Calgary on June 6, 7 and 8.

The Ottawa group will be headed by Robert F. Battle, assistant deputy minister, Indian Affairs. He will be supported by Cyril Fairholm, director of policy and planning and L. L. Brown, chief federal-provincial relations advisor of the Indian Affairs branch. The Indian commissioer for B.C., J. V. Boys will also attend meetings.

The meetings will discuss the 34 questions set out in the recently issued discussion handbook, Choosing A Path issued by the department to all Indian families in Canada. Bands are now selecting spokesmen who will represent them at the meetings.

A four color, Canada Post Office 5c stamp to be released June 5, will commemorate the 300th anniversary of a perilous four month voyage of discovery by the Nonsuch into Canada's northern waters, Postmaster General Jean-Pierre Cote announces. Success of the Nonsuch venture is credited by historians with the opening of Canada's West through the fur trade.

Mucilage employed for this issue is the virtually invisible material used on two previous occasions for Canada Post Office stamps. Customary First Day Cover service will be provided by the Postmaster, Ottawa 2, Ont.

Canada, in dark blue lettering, is printed vertically at the extreme left of the stamp; immediately adjacent is the artist's concept of the Nonsuch with billowing sails proceeding in relatively calm blue seas against a backdrop of icebergs and the aurora borealis in which shades of light green and rose are predominant.

Bean explained

Two versions of what the three foot bean pod held up by Craig Norris of Gibsons in a picture last week. One version from Mrs. Lawson, Gower Point road, maintains it is a jacarunda pod, a tree of the bean family grown mainly in the torrid zone. It was also thought that it was from these dried beans that the maraccas originated. A maracca is used by orchestras with a South American flavor in their music.

Another version from Vince Bracewell claims it is a carrop or carapa, which has much the same type of description as the jacarunda.
