

Hospital expansion vote set for Feb. 22

Dr. Hylton friend of animals

Dr. Robert Henry Hylton, of Reid Rd., Gibsons area, who died on Dec. 12, was born in China Sept. 12, 1920. At the age of three, his parents moved to Truro, Nova Scotia, for a short period. When he was five years old they moved to Weston, Ont. He spent his boyhood there, and graduated from Weston High School. Although he suffered from poor health even as a child he was very active in all sports and became captain of his hockey team.

As a child he was devoted to animals, and at an early age, decided on his career as a veterinary surgeon. He graduated with honors from Guelph Veterinary College in 1947, and from there moved to Mission, B.C., to begin his practice. During the course of those years, having many friends on the Sunshine Coast, he would give his services, whenever possible while visiting here, and in the spring of 1957 decided to move here permanently.

All those who were fortunate enough to be in his presence, even for a short period, were quick to recognize his magnetic personality, his four-footed friends in particular, and they readily responded to his love and kindness.

Over the years, he wrote down his thoughts and opinions on life as a whole, hoping someday to compile them all into something tangible.

The following is a quotation from some of his last writings, addressed to his fellow friends, and written just a few short weeks before he passed away.

"Anybody who becomes a doctor of medicine is a person who feels compassion and love for fellow sufferers, be it man or animal. His main concern is to relieve suffering. Time and place after all, are no factor; suffering is suffering, and pain is pain, and that is precisely why we took our oath. We love and we want to exhibit this in the only way we know how. We are not concerned with our personal image, or our own gains, we are concerned with you and helping you.

"We are akin to the religious organizations. They, God bless them, are concerned and determined to alleviate the suffering of the soul, and we hope and pray we can relieve the suffering of the body.

"You are my friends, my loving brethren, and I will do all I can to alleviate any suffering or pain you may encounter. Therefore have faith in me. I love you and I am your obedient servant."

He was truly a great and good man.

Saturday, Feb. 22 has been selected as the date for the plebiscite vote on the $518,276 expansion for St. Mary's Hospital. This expansion calls for 18 acute care beds and 22 beds for extended hospital care plus improved diagnostic, treatment and service departments of the existing hospital building, plus the purchase of necessary equipment and supplies and improvements to the hospital site.

This was announced at Friday night's meeting of the Sunshine Coast Regional District hospital board. Actually the hospital board and Regional District board are one and the same. It means that the hospital board arranges for the financing of hospital improvements while the supervisory board of the hospital board and St. Mary's Hospital Society looks after the planning and construction.

Calling the February date for the plebiscite was done so that the usual three month gap between the vote and starting of construction will place the start somewhere about mid-June.

Sunshine Coast Regional Hospital District by-law question will read as follows:

Are you in favor of the Sunshine Coast Regional Hospital District Hospital Financing By-law No. 1?

This explanatory note will also be on the ballot:

By-law No. 1 authorizes the borrowing of a net sum not exceeding $518,276 for the following hospital project:

A construction and renovation project which will increase the acute-care bed capacity of St. Mary's Hospital, Sechelt, by approximately 22 beds for extended hospital care. In addition, the funds to be provided will be used to improve diagnostic, treatment and service departments of the existing hospital building; purchase of necessary equipment and supplies; provide necessary working capital and carry out improvements to the hospital site.

The provincial government will share in the cost of annual principal and interest payments on the moneys borrowed as provided in the Regional Hospital Districts Act.

Regional budget eased by surplus

The Regional District board's provisional budget for next year to $765,425, which includes $660,000 for water supply and distribution.

This was revealed at Friday night's meeting of the board in its Davis Bay office when the provisional budget came up for discussion.

Of the $765,425 total something like $693,300 would be revenue bearing from water, garbage collection, building permits, and street lighting assessments plus an $11,900 grant from the provisional government.

The actual budget for the Regional District administration and other minor costs comes to $51,975 and while this is an estimate of possible costs for the year there is no definite indication that all of it will be used.

Assessment of the electoral districts from Pender Harbor to Port Mellon will provide $51,975 with Pender Harbor, Halfmoon Bay and Sechelt rural and village providing $17,800 and Roberts Creek, Gibsons rural and village also Port Mellon, $34,175.

Chairman West commented that due to an efficient clerk the board had not spent as much during this year as it could have spent.

The board is operating with a surplus from unexpended amounts from this year totalling $9,500 which will mean that the net total of the 1968 budget will be $693,300 by subtracting the surplus from this year's budget. One slight change was made on advice of Mayor Fred Feeney who noted that Gibsons had been assessed $816 on garbage dump maintenance. He argued that Gibsons looked after its dump. This was agreed to and the amount was sliced to $300 which Gibsons was prepared to pay.

A letter requesting attendance of Charles Gooding, Regional District board clerk, drew a protest from Chairman West and members of the Regional board.

The letter from the BOHIS in Victoria wanted Mr. Gooding to attend a meeting Jan. 10 for the purpose of outlining budget procedures.

Chairman West termed the request as absolutely outrageous in view of the situation clerks find themselves in at the beginning of each year. Mr. West maintained the whole thing could have been done just as well with the use of a six cent stamp on a letter of instructions.

It appears that one set of papers has already been filled out but the BOHIS plans new procedures.

Board members were of the opinion this should have been done in December and that it should be up to the BOHIS people to smarten up. However the clerk will go but a letter will be sent expressing the views of the chairman and board on the calling of the meeting in early January.

Dump battle continues

When Highways Minister Black inferred by letter that the Regional board should have arranged its garbage dump so that it would have road access he aroused the wrath of board members.

They were wrathful because it was an arrangement with government officials which resulted in the dump being located next to that of Gibsons village dump.

Mr. Black estimated the cost of a road to the dump would be $12,000 but some board members thought it would cost less. Mr. Black added he had no appropriation to cover such cost.

Regional board members noted that garbage was piling up due to the road over private property being closed to them and that they would have to make arrangement with the owner similar to that of Gibsons road until next April. In the meantime the board learned that Hon. Mrs. Dawson was to approach Mr. Black on the idea of having a road put through about that time.

Further comment on the letter drew the remark that the board did not have time available for discussing such an asinine letter.

Request slight changes

Gibsons municipal council with Mayor Fred Feeney in the chair at Tuesday night's meeting decided to petition the provincial government to expand the boundaries of the village.

The expansion remains unchanged from the map printed in the Coast News except for properties in the area behind Granthams and three other properties at North Road in vicinity of the ravine which council asks be excluded from the expansion because of their general inaccessibility.

A new map defining the areas to be excluded will be sent Hon. Dan Campbell, municipal minister so he can assess council's desire before granting the petition.

Trio held in narcotic round up

Three Sunshine Coast residents have been arrested and charged with dealing in narcotics, marijuana to be exact.

Those rounded up after an under cover investigation are David Edward Arthur Maw and Tom Bernard Johnson of Gibsons and Thomas Lawrence Jackson, Wilson Creek.

Maw is detained, unable to raise $4,000 bail, Johnson is also detained awaiting bail of $1,500 and Jackson is out on $2,000 cash bail. Trial date will be set in Sechelt court.

Maw and Johnson face two charges, one of trafficking in marijuana and having a substance reported to be another narcotic. Jackson also faces two charges of similar nature.

The arrests were made as the result of considerable under cover work by a detachment constable from Vancouver. The trio will appear in court Dec. 31 and will likely be remanded until Jan. 7.

Coffee party helps fund

Mrs. Bennie's Coffee Party for the Cup of Milk fund raised $165, double other years.

Mrs. Scott's kindergarten class collected $5.50, Mrs. Bujan's kindergarten class sent $7.72. The Elphinstone Secondary Library club sold paperbacks and sent $5.35.

People came from as far as Sechelt and a cheque was sent from Gamier Island.

The cans will remain out until Christmas to collect as much as possible as it is hoped to exceed last year's total of $330.

Motorcycle spill fatal

As the result of a spill from a motorcycle when making a turn on a slippery roadway on Bay road, Gibsons, David Inglis, 16, son of Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Inglis, died Saturday in Vancouver General Hospital.

He was riding tandem with his brother Frederick when the accident occurred at about 3:30 p.m. Friday. He received serious head injury that resulted in his being rushed to the Vancouver hospital by air.

Egmont to join

The Dec. 16 meeting of Pender Harbor Chamber of Commerce received a notice of motion asking that the name be changed to Pender Harbor and Egmont Chamber of Commerce. It will be placed before the membership at the annual general meeting in Pender Harbor hotel, Monday, Jan. 20. This meeting will start at 8 p.m.

John Haddock, president, chaired the meeting at Madeira Park Marina. Among the correspondence was a letter from Hon. Isabel Dawson, minister without portfolio, informing the chamber that a report on Highway 101 will shortly be placed before the highways minister.

A letter from the minister of recreation stated that the job of locating a trail to Skookumchuck Rapid has been assigned to a survey crew this winter and the minister hoped that a youth crew will work on the trail next summer.

The department of transport will be asked to change the waterfront speed signs to something larger as the present 8 mph signs are too small to see at a distance.

Indiscriminate dumping of garbage in the waters of the harbor drew censure from members. It floated in with the tide and littered private properties. The Regional District board will be asked if it can do anything to curb such dumping.

The chairman reported that Eric Hensch, Sechelt chamber's president had approached him to have the three chambers approach the school board on the selection of a site for the school board office.

RCMP Cpl. A. de St. Remv, representing the Recreation Centre committee which is planning a Community Centre addressed the meeting resulting in the members showing a positive interest in the project provided it is examined as a 20 year project and also provided that no additional taxation is involved. It was recommended that fund raising events and shares be considered and that stress be put on winter rather than summer recreation.

DANCE PARTY

A group of ladies meet every Tuesday to do Scottish dancing. This group held their annual get-together Dec. 17 when they invited the Oldtimers who were members. Luncheon and the exchange of gifts was a pleasant event at the Cedars, then to the Legion Hall where many dances were enjoyed as well as the tea and cookies.

CANFOR CHORALE

There will be special music at the morning service of the Gibsons United Church, on Sunday, December 29. The Canfor Chorale of Port Mellon under the direction of Mrs. E. C. Sherman, will sing the Christmas cantata, "The Herald Angels Sing." Morning service starts at 11:15 a.m. with Christmas chimes preceding the service.

Only 410 words!

His name was Luke. He was a physician. But history knows him best as the author of the most beloved story in all literature: the Nativity story.

It contains only 416 words, but it has had a greater impact on the minds and hearts of men than any long novel, play or poem.

For more than 1,900 years it has been read and cherished by all kinds of men. It has been translated into more than 1,300 languages and dialects.

It has inspired a tremendous library of music and masterpieces of art.

And, as always at Christmas, this year it will be read in millions of churches and homes, keeping alive: "Glory to God . . . on earth peace, good will toward men."

Democratic? verbosity

Opposition Leader Robert L. Stanfield in the debate on procedural changes in the house of commons argues that the debate concerns the institution of parliament itself. This is quite correct but one can read from that argument something other than Mr. Stanfield means.

Does he mean that the institution of parliament will suffer if prolonged debate by inconsequential speakers, set up for filibustering purposes, sickens the electorate of parliamentary antics?

Actually he does not mean that at all. He just does not want to change the right to debate ad infinitum. This is the stand of a diehard Tory. He is welcome to his ideas on parliamentary procedure but many persons on the outside looking in have other thoughts.

The right to speak in the house of commons should carry with it some form of discipline, not restrictive but of the type that would make the columns of Hansard a receptacle for speeches that are to the point, not time and space filling effusions delivered for the purpose of general obstruction.

Our parliament is a serious business, a very serious business these days. Any serious business which allows discussion on policy does not tolerate inconsequential, time-filling, verbose tirades, which could be explained in a couple of paragraphs, with much better effect than a 40 minute speech.

Apparently the average back-bencher in parliament cannot express himself on a subject before the house within a ten minute period. In that time he should be able to get in a good word for his constituency and have room to spare.

Ministerial speeches outlining new legislation should have more time but a good many of the speeches from the lesser occupants of parliamentary benches, should be given to a news editor to boil down. It would allow more of them to have something to say.

Naturally there will be those who will maintain such a procedure is undemocratic. Phooey We think it more undemocratic to waste valuable time in the house of commons by stalling. Perhaps Mr. Stanfield should recall who put the proponents of long debate in the position of being the opposition. Prime Minister Trudeau capitalized on that point during the last federal election.

PAUL ST. PIERRE, MP

Coast - Chilcotin

Hon. Jean Chretien, minister of Indian affairs and northern development is the youngest member of the federal cabinet, a lawyer from Shawinigan, Quebec.

He married his childhood sweetheart in 1957. She worked while he went to university. Thereafter they had children and in 1963, he came to Ottawa as an MP. I have never asked him why. Probably he had some reason.

Since January, 1968, he has been in the cabinet and since last autumn's reshuffle, he has been minister for the Indians, of which he isn't one, and of the northern territories, 40 per cent of the area of Canada — a land in which he has never dwelt.

(These remarks are intended to be neither laudatory nor critical. They are observations. The Indians, Yukoners, the Eskimos, the Conservatives, the Liberals and the voters of Saint-Maurice riding will all have their turn at criticism.)

He is a slim young man with a harried, anxious face. In the house of commons he answers almost all questions in French, having been almost without any English until he came to Ottawa. However in public meetings when asked questions in English, he answers them very bluntly, with a minimum of equivocation and with practically no retreat to flowery euphemisms.

At an early meeting of the parliamentary standing committee of Indian affairs and northern development, Mr. Chretien spoke for 55 minutes of his plans and his department's present philosophy.

The excerpts in this column represent no more than about four of those 55 minutes, so they are, perhaps, unfairly lifted out of context. Being mere snippets of speech, they will also appear abrupt and disconnected. However, these are measured words, and worth study.

The minister says: The Indian and Eskimo people have their own objectives and goals, it is not the responsibility of the government to define them. The departmental role is to establish its own policies so that Indian and Eskimo individuals can determine and reach their own goals within the framework of Canadian society.

It is the objective of the government that Indian and Eskimo people shall be able to choose their goals for themselves and have the capability, training and the clear right to set about achieving them. There should be no social barriers preventing our Native people from pursuing their aims within our society and they must be given the opportunity to draw upon the resources of society and they must be given the opportunity to draw upon the resources of society to provide them with the necessary training and other assistance to bring those goals within their own reach.

TOUR FOR STUDENTS

Thirty Canadian university students will again have the opportunity to see Canadian business in action. President A. Searle Leach of The Canadian Chamber of Commerce has announced that his organization will repeat its travel scholarship program in 1969. The tour will provide 30 university students with a three-week tour of communities across Canada with visits to industrial, educational, political and cultural developments.

They must have the same degree of self-governing local institutions as other Canadians. They must have access to the same institutions and programs of government as other Canadians. They must have the opportunities to achieve for themselves their own aspirations.

It is my intention to press the provincial governments to recognize the claims of the Indian people, as citizens of Canada to the same services and treatment as all other Canadians receive. I hope that further agreements can be made to provide services to Indians from the same agencies as other Canadians turn to in times of stress. I intend to take every opportunity to press this point.

The educational program is progressing on the basis of making integrated schooling available with the consent of parents wherever possible. This policy has justified itself in the better academic record of students. They have suffered less from age/grade retardation. Eighty-five per cent of those students who first entered school in 1945 were age/grade retarded by 1951, when they should have been entering Grade V. Only 13% of those who entered in 1960 were so affected by 1966. This turn around is not the final answer of course. The rate is still too high and there must be further efforts made to accommodate the children within the system and to ease the adjustments.

There is still a serious problem in the High School years and we continue to work to diminish the waste of High School drop-outs. In a way, this is a measure of progress; where once we were concerned that too few entered High School, we are now concerned that too few finish.

It is not necessary for Indian people to give up their Indian identity in order to establish themselves with an acceptable standard of living. They may have to adapt some of their values and ideas to accommodate the society in which they earn their daily bread, but that society may have to change some of its ideas too. Each must yield something if the two societies are to fit together in harmony and ease.

Chief Dan George of the Burrard Indians has said that when the Indians of the West Coast wanted to make a dugout canoe, they hollowed out a long straight cedar log and then sought another piece of cedar appropriately shaped to provide a prow for their vessel. They brought the two pieces of wood together and rubbed them, one against the other until they had a perfect, watertight fit. That is how it must be with two cultures, says Chief George, they must rub against one another, neither giving any more than the other until they achieve a perfect fit.

Osteoporosis is a loss of calcium in the bones. The bones become less solid. This can cause more frequent fractures. Some changes in the joints may result, causing arthritic type pains. Women past their menopause are susceptible because hormone changes can result in a calcium loss, without sufficient replacement of new calcium to the bones.

Relief is slowly possible. Your physician may prescribe a special vitamin supplement to encourage depositing of calcium. Often intake of hormones is helpful. The diet should include calcium-rich foods.

UIC problems

Q. Could you tell me if an official of the Canada Manpower Centre had the authority to disqualify me from the receipt of unemployment insurance benefit on my refusal of a job offer made by CMC.

A. No. Canada Manpower Centres inform area offices of the Unemployment Insurance Commission of refusals of employment they consider suitable. The decision as to whether the employment is suitable under the terms of the Unemployment Insurance Act, and whether the claimant is to be subject to disqualification from benefit on this account, depends on the Unemployment Insurance Commission.

Q. "I applied for a social insurance number about four weeks ago and so far I have not heard anything. I have changed jobs since and my new employer is insisting that I fill out another application as he needs a number for me. I was told some time ago that a person is not permitted to make more than one application for a social insurance number. What should I do?"

A. Four weeks is an abnormally long time to wait for a social insurance number. You should check with your previous employer as it is quite possible that he now has your social insurance number records. If not, contact your nearest UIC office and explain the situation, although it is correct that you are not permitted to make application for more than one social insurance number you can make application for a replacement social insurance card if the first has gone astray.

Q. I have taken a part-time job looking after an apartment building. In return for the chores, I am given a suite free of charge. Am I entitled to stamps for this work and if so, how can deductions be made since I do not receive any money?

A. It is possible that you would not be entitled to stamps for this work. It depends on the contractual nature of the employment and on the extent of the work you perform. In some circumstances stamps would be paid, however, it is necessary that the UIC office consider the circumstances of each individual case before a ruling can be given. Where it is determined that stamps are payable, both the employee and employer shares are paid by the employer and are based on a valuation of the living quarters.

"Grumbling appendix" is not a medical or surgical term, the Canadian Medical Association reports. It is often used by the public to describe a chronic or sub-acute inflammation of the appendix. Such a condition does not call for immediate surgery. Chronic or sub-acute appendicitis, however, can in time progress to the acute stage. When it does, it is accompanied by a sudden increase in abdominal pain, very often with nausea and vomiting. The patient may become acutely ill within a few hours. Early diagnosis and immediate surgery is the rule. If an appendix can be said to grumble, it may in time, like a volcano, come to the point of eruption. The C.M.A. says this must be avoided at all costs.

MILLER - CAMERON

St. James United Church, Vancouver, was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Nov. 2, when Rev. W. Burgess united in marriage June Ellen Cameron and Arnold C. Miller.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Cameron of Madeira Park and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Miller of Vancouver. The church was decorated with white and red mums while the pews were adorned with white bows with red centres.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a sheath gown of white cut velvet, with a matching coat extending into a train. A headpiece of roses and seed pearls held her tiered bouffant veil. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

Phone call hits court

A 20-year-old woman who ran up a 52-minute phone call to California on a fictitious telephone credit card number was acquitted of theft Saturday, in Gibsons police court after she said she believed the number was valid.

Odette Jean Moore, a blonde swimming teacher who gave her home town as San Jose, Calif., admitted making the $20.60 call from Roberts Creek to Los Gatos, Calif., last Oct. 28.

But she testified that the number was given to her as valid by someone she met on the ferry from Vancouver.

She knew him only as Jim. He said she could use the number if she ever got into trouble or had to make a long distance call, she told Magistrate Ian Walker.

She was charged with theft of telephone services under $50.

The magistrate said the explanation was barely credible but it was sufficient to raise a doubt entitling her to dismissal. Miss Moore was defended by lawyer David Leslie.

George F. Holmes, revenue tolls supervisor for B.C. Telephone, testified that the credit card number, J177-5604-123, was non-existent.

Road blocks on!

RCMP report that road blocks which will be continued during Christmas and New Year holiday periods are apparently helping keep drinking drivers off the roads. So far there have been a few warnings but nothing serious has emerged.

Recent snowfalls caused minor accidents chiefly but one caused heavy damage to the car driven by Alfred Pelky of Port Mellon who while trying to navigate a curve in the snow found his car would not respond. It finished up by going over a bank bashing in the front.

Her attendants were all gowned alike in red velvet sheath, carrying white fur muffs, decorated with red flowers, were matron of honor Mrs. Colin Richards; and bridesmaids Misses Anne Cameron, the bride's cousin; Barbara Borthwick and Mrs. Glenn Dingman.

John Whiffin was best man and ushers were Denny Barton, Russell Ellis and John Cameron, the bride's brother.

At the reception in the Gainsborough Room, Blue Boy Motor Hotel the bride's uncle Mr. Duncan Cameron proposed the bridal toast. Later the young couple left on their honeymoon to Barbados. They are making their home in Richmond.

Parliamentary ranch

Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau and Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield officially became ranchers in Cariboo and Chilcotin, in a short ceremony in the Commonwealth Room of the parliament buildings.

Coast Chilcotin member of parliament Paul St. Pierre and Cariboo MP Len Marchand presented the two national leaders with brand certificates and eight-pound branding irons of the hot type.

The prime minister, whose ranch is listed at Big Creek, Chilcotin, B.C., holds the Rocking T brand. "You are now privileged to do anything that a rancher can do, including failing to make money," said St. Pierre.

Mr. Stanfield, whose ranch is listed as Monte Creek, B.C., has the Square S brand which, the MPs told him, can be read as the Squareshooter.

The presentations by the two MPs were made on behalf of British Columbia Beef Growers association. The association bought a prime steer at Kamloops Beef Sale for presentation to the prime minister and opposition leader. Mr. Trudeau donated his half of the animal to the Salvation Army. Mr. Stanfield gave his to the Christmas Exchange, an Ottawa charity.

Mr. Stanfield said the Cariboo was one of the most beautiful areas of Canada he had visited. He spent a holiday there on a ranch some time ago, he said, and found the region vastly impressive. He also spoke in praise of the Cariboo Country television series, which was written by MP St. Pierre.

Mr. Trudeau, chatting briefly with St. Pierre and his son Paul Robert St. Pierre after the brief informal ceremony, said "The ranch country is a place I very much want to spend some time in some day," he said.

"Do you know much about ranching," he asked Paul II. "I've seen them being run but I've never run one myself," said the MP's son.

It was pointed out to the prime minister that he could still find ranches in the B.C. interior which were in almost virgin territory. A relative of the prime minister's Oscar Trudeau, operates a ranch in the remote district near Euchinko on the West Road River.

The branding irons and registration papers for British Columbia's newest ranchers who now also have the distinction of owning the smallest herds. "We thought of giving you the traditional long rope and running iron, but it didn't seem right for men of your probity," said St. Pierre.

Fairyland at Robinson's

Traditional goose will indeed hang high at the home of Charles (Dad) Robinson on School Road this Christmas.

Again surrounded by his five sons and their families, the yuletide reunion will be reminiscent of Dickens Christmas Carol, and even as the Crachit family, there will be a hush of expectancy just before the goose is placed on the festive board. In the words of Bob Crachit, "there never was such a bird... so plump and succulent, cooked and browned to the ultimate degree of tenderness."

Outside the Robinson home, the annual fairyland of lights will sparkle and glow through the night as brightly as ever. From a single string, 16 years ago, the outside illumination now numbers more than 700 vari-colored lights and numerous Biblical and Walt Disney cutouts. As in the past this family Christmas spectacle is masterminded by Carmen Robinson of Vancouver, under Dad Robinson's supervision and assisted by brothers, John, Winston, Godfrey and Charlie.

Weeks before the holidays, the living room and kitchen areas of the old home are turned into a busy workshop, where lifesize storybook figures, including chocolate soldiers, roly poly snowmen and elves, all mounted on plywood, are turned out with assembly line precision.

District to aid Sechelt

Sechelt's municipal council has officially approached the Regional District board to include the village of Sechelt in its Letters Patent covering its water facility. This has been done at the request of the Regional District board because it cannot act for a municipality unless there is a request.

Bidding Alderman Adele de Lange a farewell from council as a result of the recent election, Mayor Swain said it had been a pleasure working with her and he would have liked to have seen her serve another two years. Her work was splendid and very detailed, he said. Council decided to raise the village clerk's salary six percent in view of other increases elsewhere of a like amount.

Mayor Swain reported that his conversations with Sechelt Chamber of Commerce revealed that the chamber would like to see expansion become a major project for council. The mayor suggested that perhaps they should find out first whether the outside people wanted to join the village municipality.

Council decided to support in principle the present drive under way towards obtaining a Recreation Centre for the area. The chamber of commerce asked council to do something next spring about arranging a parking area for visiting tourists to use.

The department of highways recommended to council that it should delay painting crosswalk strips until the weather was more suitable. Help will be sought from the department of public works to get fixed the now broken storm sewer gate at high tide mark on the beach. The job was too much for what equipment the village had available.

Indian home plan extended

The maximum amount of money available as second mortgage on off-reserve housing for Indian people has been increased from $6,000 to $10,000; it was announced by the Hon. Jean Chretien, minister of Indian affairs and northern development.

The loans are part of the department's off-reserve housing program, started in May 1967, which already has provided houses for close to 150 families. More than another 150 families have been granted approval to purchase homes under the program.

At the same time, regulations have been made more flexible. Mr. Chretien explained that under the previous regulations, the maximum available was $6,000 and of this amount, $1,000 had to be used for the purchasing of furnishings. Under the new regulations, if furniture is not required, the purchaser may borrow up to the full amount available to him and apply it towards the cost of his new home.

The Minister said that $1 million has already been committed to the program and another $1 million is to be made available. The program assists Indian people living off the reserves in the purchase of a home by providing second mortgage money to individuals.

The amount of the mortgage is determined by the annual family income. The borrower must also make a minimum personal contribution. Another feature of these loans is that the loan is forgiven at a rate of one-tenth per year if the borrower satisfactorily meets his first mortgage obligations.

In making the announcement, the minister pointed out that the increase was made necessary to allow Indian families to meet minimum earning requirements established by Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation and to offset the higher cost of land outside reserve communities. It had been noted that although some persons received large second mortgages, they could qualify only for a low CMHC mortgage. As a result, in many cases, they had to accept accommodation which did not meet their requirements.

Who's Who!

The phenomenal growth of British Columbia, manifested in all facets of the business, political and socio-economic communities, is further reflected in the announcement this week by Geoffrey Edgelow of Victoria, publisher of Who's Who in British Columbia, that the tenth edition of the publication, the first since 1953, will appear early in 1969.

With slightly over 300 entries listed 15 years ago, Mr. Edgelow anticipates that the edition currently in preparation will have grown to about 2000 names.

Mr. Edgelow feels that the tenth edition of Who's Who in British Columbia will fill a growing need for reliable information on the important people west of the Rockies; and be of value, not only to many of those in the business, academic, professional and social sectors of the province's daily life, but also to those elsewhere whose interests cause them to glance in the direction of British Columbia.

NEW MATH NOT SUITED

The new math may not be suited to modern needs for mathematical skills, suggests Canadian University in its report on a recent mathematics conference in Ottawa. Curt Moser, head of mathematics at Algonquin College's school of technology in Ottawa, maintained that high schools are graduating students with a low mathematics skill — they can't do things like simple interest, percentage and fraction problems — even though, through some of the techniques used in the new math, they have high abstract mathematical skill.

Donors helping senior citizens

Seeing is believing is an old expression which continues to prove true in the case of the Sunshine Coast Senior Citizens' Homes. Over 400 hundred people have come to see the beautiful units which were open for inspection before the tenants moved in and took up residence.

Many of them have shown their appreciation and pride in their newest area feature by making a contribution towards the $100,000 cost of building and land with small, medium and several large gifts.

Mr. Ben Firth reports that the amount given to date has risen to $17,388.79 with $1,403.61 being received during November. A number of donors are giving a small gift each month and it is hoped that many will continue with this practice which will ensure the normal routine expenses being met. It is expected that with many initial expenses there will be a deficit in the receipts for the first few months at least. The interest charges are at their peak also during this initial period.

Several of the tenants have been making plans to have gardens surrounding their homes. Some of the tenants have been watching the games in the elementary school yard and in Hackett Park. This is another reason why the board of directors feel that the choice of property was an excellent one, and last but not least there have been so many comments that no matter how much rain may fall, there is never any mud around the homes.

Requests have been received that containers should be placed in the stores

What to do with a very cold turkey

A mediterranean cousin is the Italian thick pancake style omelet known as Frittata, turned for second-side cooking when the bottom is set firmly — or placed unturned under a broiler to firm the top.

FRITTATA MEDLEY

- 6 eggs
- 2 cups diced turkey (or ham, seafood or crisp vegetables, chopped fine).
- 1 small onion, minced
- Cooking oil
- Salt and pepper to taste
- Brown onion in 2 tbsps. oil; add chopped turkey and vegetables, heating and mixing together. Beat eggs with two tbsps. water as for an omelet and mix in heated turkey and vegetable mixture.

Heat 3 tablespoons oil in omelet pan or skillet, pour in egg mixture and cook at medium heat until browned on bottom. Turn upside down onto a warm plate, add oil to pan and slide turned frittata back in to pan, or place pan under broiler until unturned frittata sets on top. Serve at once.

A hefty turkey soufflé or omelet is a welcome post-Christmas turkey-user.

A superb soufflé as a main course is individual Creole Turkey Soufflés — in which seafood can be substituted to create appetizers if there is no surplus turkey problem.

CREOLE TURKEY SOUFFLE

- 8 large tomatoes
- 3 tbsps. butter
- 2 tbsps. grated onion
- 3 tbsps. flour
- ¾ cup light cream, scalded
- 3 egg yolks
- 1 tsp. salt
- ½ tsp. pepper
- Dash of cayenne

- 2 tps. chopped parsley
  - 1 tsp. sherry (optional)
  - 1½ cups finely chopped cooked turkey
  - 3 egg whites
- Cut a 1-inch slices from stem end of each tomato. Scrape out seeds and pulp, leaving a thick shell. Turn upside down and drain well.

Melt butter in saucepan, add onion and saute 2 minutes. Add flour, stirring until smooth. Gradually add scalded cream, stirring constantly until just boiling. Beat egg yolks until thick in a bowl.

Pour a few tablespoons of the hot mixture gradually into egg yolks, beating steadily. Then pour heated yolks back into hot mixture, stirring constantly. Cook over low heat until thick and smooth. Do not boil. Add salt, pepper, cayenne, parsley, sherry and turkey; mix well. Remove from heat and cook 15 minutes. Meanwhile, preheat oven to 375 degrees (moderately hot).

Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold carefully into turkey mixture. Spoon into tomato shells about ¾ full. Place on greased baking sheet.

Bake 20 minutes. Sprinkle a little finely grated cheddar cheese on top then serve immediately. Serves four as main course with salad or eight as an appetizer.

Many persons have problems about breach of contract. If the other party breaks a condition can one sue for damages? May the contract be repudiated? What about a breach of warranty — or guaranty?

For breach of condition, the contract may be repudiated and the party aggrieved (the one who suffers) may, in addition, generally sue for damages (i.e. his loss), if any. To repudiate a contract, is to cancel it — to regard it as at an end — to refuse to perform under it, etc. For example, to refuse to ship goods under a contract of sale.

For breach of warranty, the party aggrieved can sue only for damages. This should not be confused with the term guaranty, the latter being often used when warranty is meant. A guaranty properly means guaranteeing payment of the debt of another.

What is the difference between a condition and a warranty? A condition is a term of a contract going directly to the substance of the contract. It is, in other words, so essential to the nature of the contract that its non-performance may fairly be considered as a substantial failure to perform the contract at all. An example would be the time for delivery of goods in a contract of sale.

A warranty is a term, that is collateral to the main purpose of the contract. In other words, even though there is a breach of warranty, the contract may fairly be considered as substantially performed. Provisions in a contract concerning the time of payment are generally warranties.

Whether a term is a condition or warranty depends upon the intention of the parties as inferred from the court's interpretation of the meaning of the contract.

It is immaterial what the term is called — it is what it is that counts. The law looks to the substance of a thing not the mere form of it. Thus in a written contract a condition may be called a warranty, or vice versa, or a warranty may be incorrectly called a guaranty, but the courts will give effect to what the condition really is and apply the appropriate remedy.

ISABEL WRITES:

By HON. ISABEL DAWSON

British Columbia's manufacturing industry has enjoyed unprecedented growth during the 1960's. An estimated 124,000 people employed in production and administration of the industry received wages and salaries of $775 million in 1967 alone.

The wood-and-paper-products industries dominate manufacturing in the province, accounting for almost 50 percent of factory shipments. Although there has been a marked increase in new manufacturing facilities in other industries, the forest industries will remain in the forefront for many years on the strength of recently completed and planned expansion programs. The pulp and paper sector is growing at the fastest rate, but plywood, lumber and other forest products industries are also experiencing rapid growth.

The major manufacturing industries are in the lower mainland, where activity is highly diversified. Vancouver Island, the second leading area, has a heavy concentration of forest products industries as well.

Smelting and refining are the main industries in the West Kootenay (Trail) and North-west (Kitimat) areas. Food processing is important in the Okanagan, and fish processing, smelting and forestry in the northwest.

In recent years the Prince George area has become Canada's largest centre of chemical pulp production. The leading manufacturing industry, sawmilling, makes up a substantial part of total manufacturing activity in most interior regions.

In British Columbia, manufacturing largely involves the processing of primary products such as logs, ores, crude oil, farm produce and fish. However, there has been recently a rapid expansion of secondary manufacturing to supply the needs of primary processors for such items as mining, logging and transportation equipment.

The production of consumer products is currently a small part of total manufacturing. This, however, is beginning to change owing to a high population growth rate and the high level of personal income.

Geographical distribution of manufacturing in 1965 showed that the lower mainland had 2,000 establishments, (approximately) which employed close to 66,000 people. This area contains the highest concentration of manufacturing in the province.

Lowest concentrations of manufacturing are to be found in the north and the east, particularly the Peace River and East Kootenay regions.

The value of goods produced and capital investment in new manufacturing facilities in British Columbia is exceeded only by Ontario and Quebec.

The Right Honorable Vincent Massey, P.C., C.C., C.H., Canada's first native-born governor-general will be commemorated on a 6c stamp to be released by the Canada Post Office on Feb. 20. Postmaster General Eric Kierans announces.

Twenty-four and one-half million of the new issue, designed by Prof. Imre von Mosdossy of Agincourt, Ontario, will be printed by the Canadian Bank Note Co. Ltd., Ottawa, using a combination of the steel engraving and lithographic processes. An engraved portrait of the late governor-general, printed in dark brown, occupies the upper half of the vertical stamp.

One of the sketches by Canadian artist, John Gould, used in a National Film Board production, about Indian life on the reservations. Entitled "Pikangikum" the film is now in Canadian theatres and is one of several films making up a vast new project of the N.F.B. entitled "Challenge for Change." The program, under the co-sponsorship of several government departments and agencies, is aimed at affecting social change through the use of film and related media.

A new strawberry

Cheam, pronounced she-am, a new strawberry variety developed by plant breeder Dr. Hugh Daubeny and released this year, is performing well in the Pacific Northwest where red stele and other root diseases are present. It is a processing berry, not a fresh-market fruit.

Dr. Daubeny, a member of the staff at the Canada Department of Agriculture's Agassiz Research Station, says he expects farmers will plant more acreage to Cheam next year.

About five acres were planted in 1968.

The new variety, named for a mountain that towers over the Agassiz Research Station, is more winter hardy, has more root rot resistance and better quality fruit than Siletz.

Belugas are the noisiest of all whales. Those on display at the Vancouver Public Aquarium constantly make loud grunts and squeals which are heard above water.
