

St. Barts. prefers old church

At the 81st annual meeting of St. Bartholomew's Anglican Church, held Sunday afternoon in the church hall following the morning service and presided over by Rev. David Brown, the congregation voted by almost unanimous decision to remain on the old site and in the old church.

The present edifice and church hall will be repaired with funds available through the eventual disposal of the Dougal property, Lot 12. Similar repairs will be carried out at the rectory from available funds.

Treasurer Ozzie Hincks, presenting the financial statement said that while receipts for 1972 of $3,820.73 were up over the previous year's total of $7,773.98, increased obligations resulted in an operating deficit which had been met by the Synod on behalf of St. Bartholomew's.

Reports were also received from Mrs. Kay Wood, W.A., who presented a cheque for $1,000, the result of the year's efforts of the hard-working women of the church. Reports were also received from other organizations including the Altar Guild, Choir and Church School.

A motion authorizing the disposition of Lot 12, Dougal Rd. was held over for a special meeting of the vestry.

The presentation by the Vicar of a framed color picture of the altar, surrounded by signatures of the congregation, together with a purse of money was received by Mrs. Norah Haley, on behalf of her husband William, in recognition of his 61 years of faithful service as a church organist. Mrs.

Haley received a beautiful corsage from Mrs. Nancy Kruse.

Those attending the annual meeting after Sunday's morning service, were well fortified by a substantial buffet luncheon served by the Women's Auxiliary with Rev. Brown's home-made bread and Mrs. Trueman's Boston baked scarlet runner beans along with cold cuts plus coffee.

Officers elected for the year were: Vicar's warden, A. S. Trueman; people's warden, Fred Allnutt; vestry clerk, Nancy Kruse; treasurer, Ozzie Hincks; delegates to Synod, Nancy Kruse and Winston Robinson with alternates Mrs. Florence Blake and Barbara Valancius; President W.A., Mrs. Lucy Goddard; altar guild Mrs. Edith Baker, and church school, Mrs. Barbara Valancius.

School costs continue to rise

The school board budget for this year totalling $2,448,620 shows an increase over last year of $242,478 with increases of varying size in each of the components making up the budget.

The major increase occurs in the administration, instruction and operation sections and is mainly wage and salary increases.

Actual operating expenses for this year are $2,168,555 compared to last year's $1,926,077. This includes administration, instruction, operation, repairs and maintenance, bus transportation and auxiliary services. This leaves less than $300,000 for other expenses such as debt and non-operating costs.

To explain how the formula by which the budget is made up, you take the 108 instructional units in the school system plus six special classes making a total of 114.

The instructional unit value, set by the education department, is $18,520. This multiplied by the 114 instructional units, totals $1,769,280. Then add approved transportation costs of $99,041, and approved auxiliary services of $17,351. This makes the total allowance of $1,885,672 for the basic education program.

To that figure you add the additional ten percent of the budget figure as allowed by the department in its financial formula and you achieve a budget of $2,074,239.

Here are the components of the budget:

	1972	1973
Administration	$ 74,488	$ 82,500
Instruction	1,382,165	1,561,930
Operation	241,980	263,570
Repairs, Maintenance	123,432	135,700
Pupil Conveyance	96,167	104,385
Auxiliary Services	17,323	20,380
TOTAL	1,935,657	2,168,555

Church packed for Lamb funeral

Mrs. Thomas Lamb of Sechelt, described by many people as a true Christian, died Jan. 26, and besides her husband, daughter and two sons, she leaves a host of Sechelt community folk who regard her death as a great loss.

Her maiden family name was Ross and she was the daughter of a minister. Sechelt friends look back on the numerous mercy missions she, with R.N. experience, accomplished largely without other help, caring for sick and aged people. If food was required she cooked it and carried it to those who needed it. She was also a driving force in the care of retarded children. As an active worker in the Davis Bay United Church, the void she has left will not be filled too easily.

The funeral service, which was held in Gibsons United Church Monday, with Rev. Jim Williamson officiating, was attended by more people than the church could comfortably accommodate.

She leaves her husband and one daughter, Mrs. William Quarry, two sons, Tom and David.

GUSTAVE A. JOHNSON

Gustave Alfred Johnson, 85, of Geddes Road, Gibsons, died Jan. 27. The funeral was held Jan. 31 at the Bell Funeral Home, Vancouver, with Pastor L. L. Nadiger officiating. Burial was made in Ocean View Burial Park. He leaves a daughter, Mrs. E. J. (Ruth) Ranchoux of Vancouver.

However this year's budget of $2,168,555 is $94,316 over what the departmental formula allows. This sum must be raised by the school board through bylaws to cover bank borrowings. The amount raised last year under the same circumstance was $90,679.

With cost increases across the board for school supplies plus salary boosts, the board has difficulty in estimating costs particularly when the government formula is set before school boards know what teacher and maintenance staff salary increases will be.

School board committees were formed for 1973 by Chairman Agnes Labonte at last week's board meeting. With the first named being chairman, committees are:

Finance, John MacLeod and Terry Booth.

Education: Pat Murphy, John MacLeod and Peter Prescesky.

Buildings and Grounds: Peter Prescesky, Pat Murphy, William Nimmo.

Personnel: William Nimmo, Terry Booth, Pat Murphy.

Wolverton chairs

The opening ceremony at last week's Regional District board first 1973 meeting was the swearing-in of newly elected board members by Magistrate Mittlesteadt.

One new board member was Rita Relf, representing Halfmoon Bay area. Her alternate, G. T. London was also sworn in. Re-elected Lorne Wolverton (Langdale) and Harry Almond (Roberts Creek) were also sworn in.

Following this ceremony board members elected their 1973 chairman, Director Lorne Wolverton, for a second term. He was chairman in 1969.

THE SOD TURNING ceremony for the Kiwanis Club Senior Citizens Village in North Road area took place Saturday afternoon when William Haley, a past president of the Gibsons Old Age Pensioners Organization wielded a spade and made it official. Above are Ozzie Hincks, Oscar Hogue, William Wright, Mr. Haley, Roy Taylor, Frank Daugherty and Jim Munro. Ken Goddard, also on the committee, was unable to be present.

L & K company study planned

L & K Lumber (North Shore) Limited has informed the Regional District board it is making a feasibility study of establishing a log conversion plant in the Twin Creeks area, Port Mellon road.

Information supplied the board is that the proposed plant will be a modern complete utilization sawmill with a daily three-shift production of 450 thousand board feet of dimension lumber. No burner or steam production equipment will be required.

The board learned that the environmental service of the Fisheries Branch is investigating the proposal. The land involved, described as Lot 1405 is in the board's industrial zone.

Island ferry to have radar

As a result of complaints about the navigational handling of the Dogwood Princess, small ferry running between Langdale and Gambier and Keats Islands, a radar set will be installed and the crew of the vessel trained in its use, Robert Strachan, the minister of highways says.

This was announced by Don Lockstead, MLA for Mackenzie constituency by telephone from Victoria. The radar would be of valuable use in foggy weather and would be of assistance when the small craft runs into fog banks. The radar would also note the presence of other ships close by.

Award tender

Douglas Fraser of Gibsons area, operating under the name Shoal Developments was awarded the contract by the Regional District board for maintenance of area garbage dumps. His tender was for $24,350 and was the lowest of 12. The highest was $54,144.

LIBRARY BOARD MEETING

Goddard new chairman

Election of Ken Goddard as chairman of Gibsons Public Library board was followed by naming Jules Mainil, retiring chairman, a life member, at the Jan. 24 annual meeting in the new library.

Mrs. Carmichael was elected deputy chairman; Mrs. Jean Morrison, secretary; Mrs. Jean Mainil, treasurer; Mrs. Wynne Stewart, library custodian; Mrs. Farris, juvenile department and as board members Mrs. R. Fletcher, Mrs. M. Ranniger and Mrs. T. E. Meredith. Mr. and Mrs. G. Carmichael are auditors.

The retiring president, Mr. Mainil in summing up the year's work, said:

This past year has been difficult but very satisfying. We have moved from our old library building to the splendid new quarters provided by the municipality. The move was expeditious and economical. Less than $1,000 was spent for the shelving, both iron and wood, a walnut table, attractive chairs, a new receiving desk and a multitude of other items. All this was made possible through the co-operation and help from a multitude of people.

To our great satisfaction the old library has returned to its original sponsors. The Kiwanis Club purchased the building and moved it to the senior citizens' housing site.

I am not going to mention many of our own people, they are true volunteers. They give much and expect little in return.

We were unfortunate that while in the throes of moving, because of health and family responsibilities, we lost the service of our able and much loved librarian, Miss Margaret Steven. We were fortunate that her deputy, Mrs. Wynne Stewart could efficiently step in when she was very much needed.

The library is ending the year in a sound financial position. The Library Development Commission, in their wisdom and according to their minimum standards, saw fit to give us minimal grants, $50 in 1971 and $150 in 1972. It is true that we have found it impossible to conform to the commission's policy. We had to make a choice; retain considerable local autonomy, lose some grants and as a consequence have to use stringent economy. We chose the latter. The statistics on the use of our library seem to bear out the correctness of our choice. We are accumulating significant sources of information and recreation while creating an efficient and pleasant library facility that does not duplicate the service available in (Continued on Page 4)

Two more L.I.P.s

Two more Local Improvement Program grants have been made in this area. One goes to the school district totalling $11,833 for children's specific language disability treatment. Five teachers will be involved.

The second, $28,314, goes to the Sechelt Reserve Administration to improve recreational facilities, clearing and draining of a park area, improvements to band housing, development of a play area for children and creation of a foreshore park.

Israel lecture

Grant and Barbara Livingstone, a husband and wife team with a strong interest in Israel and its history will present Shalom Israel, a slide feature at 3 p.m. Feb. 4 in the Catholic Church Hall, Park Rd and the highway.

Mrs. Livingstone's service with the Canadian embassy in Israel and Mr. Livingstone's background in geographical, historical, and Biblical studies have given their feature unusual value and interest

Annual meeting for Arts Council

The Sunshine Coast Arts Council general meeting will be held Thurs., Feb. 8 in Wilson's Creek's Community hall when events of the past year and those for this year will be discussed.

There will be an international Spring Festival with more than 100 dancers from ethnic groups this year; a travelling children's art display in Gibsons, Sechelt and Pender Harbor; a Flea Market; an art seminar supported by the Federation of Canadian Artists including handicrafts and an arts and crafts exhibition as part of Sea Cavalcade festivities.

Newcomers to the Sunshine Coast who are artistically inclined are invited to attend this meeting. Ed Sherman of Port Mellon will provide a talk on Red China and show slides, including some of the Canadian Trade Fair at Peking.

5 year building cost $14,999,728

In little more than five years the building inspection department of the Regional District board has issued building permits for $14,999,728 in construction costs, most of which has been for homes.

This was revealed at last week's January meeting of the board when F.A. Reyburn, building and plumbing inspector presented his annual report.

Total 1972 building permits were valued at $4,160,100 and included permits for 190 homes single, multi or of the mobile type. Heaviest building occurred in the Pender Harbor, Halfmoon Bay and West Sechelt area. These three areas combined produced permits to the value of close to $3,000,000.

The 1972 permit valuation figure of $4,160,100 was $820,150 more than the 1971's $3,399,950. Mr. Reyburn in his report said industrial and commercial construction accounts for a very small portion of the total. Canadian Forests Products building and the Madeira Park Shopping Centre reached a total of $441,400.

Mr. Reyburn's report stated that with a greater overload in the area north from Sechelt and in particular Pender Harbor it will be necessary to allocate another full day to that area starting early next spring.

The 190 figure for new homes of all types is exceptionally good for the Sunshine Coast as in past years the additional homes averaged about 100 more or less.

Many faiths, one church!

The United and Anglican Churches of Canada are not racing pell mell into unification. On the other hand there are some Canadian towns efforts under way for merging of sects under one roof. It is also going on in Britain where Anglicans, Roman Catholics and Methodists are combining to worship under one roof. Work has already started on an edifice which will form part of a community centre and it is likely to occur at other places in Britain.

Last Sunday at Gibsons United Church, Robert Slocombe, a third year student at the Vancouver School of Theology delivered the sermon. This college is ecumenical, with United Church, Anglican, Methodist and Baptist students studying. There are now three such ecumenical schools in Canada.

In Gibsons St. Bartholomew's Anglican church last Sunday faced the problem of what they should do with their church. They had five recourses but did not get past the first which was to repair the present church. The small congregation is showing spirit in its proposal.

However the paths of the Anglican and United Churches in Canada is still not too certain as to what the future holds and the devotion of the various sects towards their churches is not to be toyed with.

Perhaps as the forms of the two church services come closer to each other the need for two edifices, usually only partly filled each Sabbath, may converge resulting in the facing of the fact that economics are also a part of thinking on religious affairs when it comes to the construction of churches.

Reach for it Cougars!

Under the heading It's Time to Have a Serious Talk, Jack Leonard in Saturday's Vancouver Province wrote:

"The Elphinstone Cougars could be in the B.C. high school basketball championships in the Pacific Coliseum this March. Elphinstone Cougars? Well now is the time to take them seriously, especially after Friday night when they downed Max Cameron Tartars of Powell River 68-66 in an old rivalry.

"The victory was the Cougars' 21st in 22 games this season and left them with the strong possibility of winning their zone playoff which leads to the B.C. Championship."

It would appear to us back home here that the now famous Hell Week, a period of rigorous training, has not been in vain. Go to it Cougars! Reach for the championship!

A record of murder

In view of action in the federal house of commons this week on the death penalty for murderers the following advance information from the judicial division of Statistics Canada is presented for readers to consider:

An average of 222 persons, excluding police and custodial officers, were murdered in each of the seven years 1961 through 1967 when the death penalty was in force for such murders. The average for the following four years, when the death penalty did not apply, was 376. The actual figure for 1971 was 422.

The death penalty for murder, except for the killing of policemen and prison guards while on duty was suspended Dec. 29, 1967, for a five-year trial period.

The comparable 11 year figures for police and custodial officers are 3.6 murdered annually before the trial suspension and 4 per year following. The greatest number in any year were the 11 murdered in 1962. Three such murders were reported for 1971.

A summary of revised statistics on the disposition of murder cases for the ten years 1961-1970 shows that an average of 10 murder cases per year were heard in juvenile court following the death penalty suspension, compared with 3 before 1968.

Plan long range Sunshine Coast study

Members of the UBC School of Community and Regional Planning will make a long range study of the Sunshine Coast between Port Mellon and Earl's Cove. This was announced at last week's January meeting of the Sunshine Coast Regional District board.

In arranging for the survey, students of the UBC class plan to identify and crystallize emerging issues and explore a range of alternate futures for the region. Specific policies to guide the development of the region will be left for citizens of the area and decisions by the Regional Board. They hope to catalyze interest in planning and in implementing policies for orderly development of the area. Assistant Prof. W. E. Rees will head the scheme.

The Sunshine Coast region is experiencing a predicament not unlike that faced by many similar areas throughout Canada. They face recurring confrontation between forces which are developmental in thrust and irreversible in nature, on the one part, and the late coming influence of integrated planning and orderly rational utilization of resources on the other.

As the evidence of human habitation and passage spread across the continent, it has become evident that the vagaries of the marketplace and the compartmentalized approach to resource use do not necessarily result in equitable, or even economical, allocation of resources and amenities among the members of society.

The necessity for an integrated approach to regional development has been perceived only after the major vectors of development were established and their effects becoming evident. Although the British Columbia government has instituted Regional Districts with the mandatory function of regional planning, it has been difficult to bring about changes in the rules of the game of regional development while some of the players, various government departments, forest products companies, land developers and others were already on the field.

The latter interests have been unaccustomed to the notion of integrated planning in the community and the region, and have been reluctant to countenance the existence and legitimacy of the planning body beyond a token level. The predicament has been slow in resolving itself in British Columbia, in many cases because planning bodies have in effect been only tentatively advanced into the regional development process; their initial steps have been faltering ones because the resources -- mostly financial -- with which they have been endowed have proved inadequate to produce successful planning.

Planners and interested citizens in many jurisdictions find themselves dashing about in dozens of directions, reacting to crises occasioned by the policies of individuals, corporations, and government agencies. The Sunshine Coast region provides some excellent examples of this phenomenon.

Individuals have reacted to a proposal for a gravel mining operation complete with barge loading facilities on one of the region's beaches. Residents have mobilized in opposition to a Department of Highway's plan to bisect a community with a highway by-pass originally intended to improve traffic flows around the community. While attention is constantly focused on small, seemingly unrelated issues, nobody has time to step back, assess the entire situation, and develop integrated problem-solving strategies.

It might be argued that the present situation is bearable, in that conflicts are ultimately resolved and life goes on peacefully until the next crisis arises. One resident of the region has expressed misgivings about this attitude, however, while commenting on the highway issue cited above:

"What does the future hold if the direct route on, or adjacent to, Hydro right-of-way is not used? Periodic rerouting and rebuilding and a waste of the taxpayers' money, due to lack of foresight and proper planning now?" (Letter to the Editor, Coast News, Nov. 24, 1971)

Obviously, there is no assurance that a succession of crises and single-purpose solutions will lead to a desirable future state for the region. Indeed, a systems view of regional development would indicate that, given the peripheral implications of politics designed for crisis situations, such an outcome is impossible.

Roads are not constructed from one point to another without the terrain between having been surveyed and the destination defined; neither should the Sunshine Coast region attempt to resolve its day-to-day problems without having in mind some future state, and some guidelines by which to make decisions in problem-solving situations that will be conducive to the attainment of that future state.

An important prerequisite to such an approach is the perception of the region by its residents as a discrete area, with potentials and limitations, and an image of its own. Such a view of the region will enable its residents to anticipate problems, rather than react to them, so that their collective goals may be realized and their regional image maintained.

The study group has chosen to concentrate its efforts on encouraging the formulation of necessary policy guidelines by the people of the Sunshine Coast through their representatives on the Regional District Board. It is our intention to provide, first of all, a concept plan wherein the problem shed that pertains to the region will be defined. The problem shed encompasses those issues which are likely to arise in the region within the time horizon of the plan; such issues as resource use, transportation to, from, and within the region, and environmental quality will be primary concerns.

The concept plan will be followed by sets of policies, together with related alternative ways of dealing with the issues within the problem shed. Depending upon which sets or combinations of policy are adopted, a number of future states will be possible for the region; several scenarios will be sketched, describing the likely consequences of the adoption and adherence to selected sets of policies.

The study group have not taken upon themselves the task of dictating solutions to the problems faced by the Sunshine Coast region. They do not intend to prescribe a desirable future state that, inevitably would reflect their own values and biases. Rather, we intend to collect and analyse the information necessary for planning the future development of the region and present a range of alternative courses of action in order to demonstrate a planning approach which will encompass long-term considerations and a decision making framework which will function within this approach. It is felt that such an approach will enable the people of the region and their representatives to abandon their reactive stance and proceed to chart the course of development which they want their region to follow.

Total highway in new plans

A total highway system from Langdale to Earl's Cove is under study by the Highway 101 study committee, E. R. Cuyllits, planning director of the Sunshine Coast Regional District reported at last week's monthly board meeting.

"This committee, formed following the rejection of the Langdale bypass edging Gibsons northern boundary, decided it would ignore all past plans and lay down new regulations encompassing all sections of the community also those at municipal and governmental level, resulting in the formation of a broad committee.

"Here is the report Mr. Cuyllits read to the Regional board at last week's meeting:

"The study for a future highway system on the Sunshine Coast is well underway and it is expected a preliminary report will be produced by the study team in the next few months.

"Unlike previous studies, this report is the outcome of a joint study. The department of highways and municipal affairs and the Sunshine Coast District are co-operating on the project and have representatives on the study team.

"The team has been meeting regularly and it is reported this study will not focus on just one route. Rather it will attempt to propose a total highway system from Langdale to Earl's Cove and will emphasize the relation of this system to the long range development of the area. This total planning approach is an unusual departure from previous studies which focused on a single route only and did not take into account future traffic patterns and impacts on the local neighbourhood environment.

"The preliminary report will concern itself with phase one of the study - the future highway system between Langdale and Sechelt. The proposals in the report will be made available for study and comment to the Regional board, the village councils and the advisory planning commissions before the recommendations are finalized. This will permit public input into the study before any action is taken. A similar procedure will be followed with the second part of the study.

Intensive care to be expanded

St. Mary's Hospital has been informed by BCHIS officials it can proceed with efforts to expand its intensive care unit. Director Frank West informed the Regional Hospital board at its meeting last week.

Reason for this, Director West said, was there were times the Sunshine Coast was isolated from larger hospitals due to weather conditions and that BCHIS officials concluded that local facilities should be increased.

Director West said funds in hospital financing not yet used up could be used on a priority basis. Director West informed the board the hospital was well on its way to regaining the status of accreditation.

Fishing closure still in effect

The 1970 fishing closure in upper Howe Sound will remain in effect at least until this summer due to the high mercury levels in fish species, the fisheries service of the Dept. of the Environment has announced.

Since the original closure, mercury levels have decreased considerably, but levels have not reached the safe human consumption level of 0.5 parts per million.

The mercury level in edible crab decreased from an average of 5.32 ppm in 1970 to 1.92 ppm in 1972 and dogfish and rockfish 1.96 and 0.81 respectively.

Rockfish in the vicinity of Keats Island contained from 0.09 to 0.17 ppm of mercury. Outside the closure area, mussels, prawns, and sea anemones also had levels below 0.5 ppm.

Fisheries Minister Jack Davis announces there is half a million dollars available for the government dogfish development program annually. Fishermen will receive $50 a ton for dogfish. The herring bonus is on a two-for-one basis, two tons of herring for every ton of dogfish. Fishermen who earn their herring quota on dogfish caught in Georgia Strait will also be able to fish for herring there.

Opponents ask for consideration on next request

Opponents to the Don Head log salvaging operation in Williamson's Landing area urged the Regional board at its Jan. 25 meeting to adopt a policy of no more commercial for-shore leases in that area.

A delegation which appeared before the board was headed by Malcolm Stevens of Williamson's Landing. He conceded that the opponents had lost their case now, because the board had approved continuation of the Don Head lease for another five years but he hoped the board would take a different view next time.

During discussion members of the delegation maintained that Don Lockstead, M.L.A. said he was sorry he had got mixed up in the affair and that if he had known he would have given the problem more consideration, and it was added by delegation members that he would not have supported the lease. In an earlier Lockstead stand he could see no reason why the lease should not be renewed.

The delegation desired that the zoning of the area should be clarified as to what would be residential and what would be commercial.

When he learned of what had gone on at the Regional meeting, Mr. Lockstead reported from Victoria where he is sitting in the legislature, that he was not sure of the position as regards the Head lease at first, but when he obtained all the facts he was definitely for Head retaining the foreshore lease another five years.

Floods show no respect

Floods respect no one. That includes Regional District board Secretary Charles F. Gooding who wrote a letter to the board seeking some relief from a repetition of flooding to his property at the foot of Selma Park Hill. His letter laid blame on the department of highways.

He said the flooding was the direct result of the increased runoff from newly created subdivisions and roads in the drainage area. He requested the Regional board should delay approval of all subdivision plans in that specific drainage area until the department of highways puts in a drainage system designed by a competent engineer, which would carry off flood water.

Goddard new chairman

The usual number of slow moving, obsolete and worn books have been discarded. Some of the memberships, inactive for a long period, have been dropped from the records, in effect bringing that file up to date. The annual fees were increased from $1 a year per family to $2 a year per family.

Adult circulation was 9,731 and Juvenile, 2,836, a slight drop due to disruption caused by the move.

The revised list shows 411 adult members and 373 juvenile members.

Taking into consideration purchases, donations and discards, adult book stocks went from 3640 in 1971 to 3776 in 1972; junior book stocks, from 1858 in 1971 to 1880 in 1972. A set of World Book Encyclopedia and a set of Childcraft were purchased.

We achieved much but we received much. Some of the people must be named and thanked: Fred Holland, at his busiest period of the year, always found time either early in the morning or after work at night, to help us. He and his assistants moved and helped put in place every bookstack from the old library. Thank you Fred. Subconsciously when I thank this kind and generous man I seem to be talking for the whole community.

When I think of carpentering and repairing, automatically the name Jim Stewart comes to mind. Do we need a bookdrop, Jim does it. The receiving desk is battered, scarred and needs a major overhaul, Jim Stewart does it and beautifully. Thank you Jim.

Another group that I particularly wish to mention is the maintenance and administrative staffs of School District

No. 46. They were never too busy to advise or to help. That kind of co-operation smoothens the roughest of roads.

We thank the reading public. Their constant use of the library is the best sign of appreciation they could give.

They are careful in the use of both the books and the facilities. It is a pleasure to serve them.

I must thank the local artists. They are helping us make what any library should be, the cultural centre of the community. Thank you for your co-operation with Mrs. Trudy Small who so lovingly attends to these matters for us.

We must thank the municipality. This beautiful and efficient building is their work. It is one of the truly valuable assets of the community. The whole council has always been considerate and generous with their help. Alderman Ted Hume is a joy to work with.

We may not always see eye to eye with the Library Development Commission but that in no way diminishes our gratitude for the books they give us, for the books we receive through the Travelling Library and for the excellent Open Shelf services they make available to our readers, and for the advice and help we get in the newsletters.

The Coast News as always has given us unserving support reporting news items, lists of new books and book reviews.

And now, the workers, often taken for granted, their work so well done that it goes almost unnoticed.

This is my last report as your chairman and here I can tell you how proud I am to have been associated with you. Love may be an odd word to use in an official report and yet that is exactly what I have felt for you.

Beverly Roberts Jobie Queen

Saturday night Bethel 28 of the International Order of Job's Daughters installed Beverly Roberts as honored queen in the Masonic Hall at Roberts Creek. The theme for the ceremony was Light of the World.

Following the ceremony refreshments were served in the lower part of the hall.

Installing officer, Cheryl McEwan; guide, Lynn Bredy; marshal, Donna Mandelkau; chaplain, Mary Sharpe; narrator, Glenys Hudson; recorder, Jean Roberts; musician, Lily Dunlop; custodians, Elaine MacKenzie and Wilma Cameron.

Elective Officers: Queen, Beverly Roberts; senior and junior princesses, Karen Vaughn and Heather Moffat; guide Valerie Roberts; marshal, Georgina McConnell.

Appointed Officers: Senior and junior custodians, Nonie Parsey and Heather Duncan; outer and inner guards, Renee Robertson and Laurie Plows; treasurer, Gail Roberts; recorder, Barbara Roberts; chaplain, Margaret Duncan; messengers, Cathie Morrison, Shelly Benson, Cheryl Furness, Sandy Furness, Candy Harrison.

Hall furnace repairs planned

Regular meeting of the Roberts Creek Community Association in the hall, Wed., Jan. 17, was informed that the New Year's Eve Dance had been successful and well attended, and a nice profit was realized.

The hall committee, having met with representatives of the Esso Oil Co. reported an amicable agreement was reached on repairs of the furnace.

Mrs. Marshall's New Horizons project is well under way, though not yet approved by the government department handling these projects. Mrs. Marshall says all that is now necessary is to appoint a director and select a name; also they are desirous of buying bowls for carpet bowling. As these have to be ordered in advance and since the project has not yet obtained funds, the Community Association has agreed to advance money towards this. The Association has also agreed to sponsor and support the project.

Some discussion was held over the damage to roads and property from the recent floods. The secretary was instructed to write to the highways department asking that a complete check of the area be made as to damage and arrange for repairs to same.

Mr. Gilker was delegated to attend meetings of the Sunshine Coast Council of Ratepayers which was organized last fall at Madeira Park.

Movie about B.C.

British Columbia scenery and outdoor activity are well represented in a new film that encourages Canadians to explore their own country. The 27-minute production is also designed to attract foreign visitors, and will eventually be available in nine different language versions for screening abroad.

The film is called Picture Canada and is described by Dan Wallace, director, Canadian Government Travel Bureau, as lively, imaginative and truly national in scope. The bureau will handle distribution of the film, which has been sponsored by Kodak Canada Limited as part of the company's continuing support of tourism in Canada.

Crawley Films Ltd., producers of Picture Canada assigned 15 cameramen to get the 1000 feet of film that make up the finished production. An original musical score written by Larry Crosley of Ottawa adds greatly to the impact of the film.

The future is in our hands.

Most Canadians believe in that thought. Others believe in it, but won't lift a finger to do anything about it. Not all fingers are born equal. That's why, if we want to keep this country together, some need more lifting than others. So what do we do about it?

There is a lot we can do. First thing, we should start caring and understanding. Not just about our own neighborhood, but about all of Canada. We've got to help all those people and parts of Canada that need it most.

There is a have Canada and a have-not Canada. The have-nots from coast to coast need our help. If all of us start caring and understanding our fellow Canadian, surely we'll come together. If we don't, we'll come apart. Do we want to have Canada, or have-not Canada? Only we have the answer.

Advice on foster parents

To become a foster parent you either first apply for a foster child or are approached by a child care agency about being foster parents, then a social worker will come to talk with your family, about your ideas of child care and your general outlook on life.

He will tell you something about the foster parent program and the way in which a social worker and foster parent work together in the interest of the child.

In this way the agency and parents come to know each other and together can decide if there is a child who will fit happily into your home and family life.

There are certain specific things, the social worker needs to know, such as the names and ages of your own family group, their schooling, achievements, and their attitudes toward sharing their home with a foster child. He will want to know that you have reasonable financial security, your religion and family interests and activities.

You'll be asked for four references, a reference from your family doctor, including a report on all members of the family group from the chest clinic, a reference from your minister and two personal friends who have known you over a period of time. In addition assurance as to the safety of your home in relation to fire or accident is considered. The worker will also take into account your accessibility to schools, churches, hospital and medical care.

Caring for other people's children involves a rather special responsibility and by considering these various things together the foster child, you and your family and the child caring agency can know greater assurance and satisfaction the B.C. Federation of Foster Parents reports.

In Court

Eva Christine Pilling, Gibsons, was fined $100 and prohibited from driving for a period of three months when she pleaded guilty to a charge of impaired driving.

Alan Bruce Fraser, Port Mellon, was fined $50 after pleading guilty to a charge of carrying a firearm without having a hunting licence or permit under the firearms act.

IN HOSPITAL

Mrs. Anne Prewer of Granthams is at present a patient in St. Paul's hospital in Vancouver.

BAY OF WRECKS

Destruction Bay, Yukon, got its name because so many boats were wrecked during the gold rush of 1898 as they rounded the point of the bay in Kluane Lake.

Your Horoscope

By TRENT VARRO

ARIES - March 21 to April 20
You should be able to reap a rich harvest of rewards for work done in the past. Many persons have been watching you and your work. Now is the time that it will 'pay off'!

TAURUS - April 21 to May 20
Your business sense is very sharp right now, but watch out for legal entanglements that involve your partner or business associates. Things can be rather 'high strung' at the present.

GEMINI - May 21 to June 20
Look for sudden shifts in your worldly position. You may receive a gift or legacy of some kind that will aid you greatly. Don't press domestic matters right now. Everything will work out later.

CANCER - June 21 to July 21
Don't 'fly off the handle' over some trivial matter next week! If you do, you'll set yourself 'way back'. Be patient, and understanding of others, and hold your temper!

LEO - July 22 to August 21
New doors are being opened up for you in your search for happiness in life. It is very likely that someone will contact you during the next week, who hasn't been in touch with you for years.

VIRGO - August 22 to Sept. 21
Travel, communication and writing will probably take up much of your time during the next couple of weeks. It would pay you to seek more "understanding" in some problem that has bothered you in the past.

LIBRA - Sept. 22 to Oct. 22
Channel your energies very carefully at this time. There are some splendid opportunities coming up that will challenge your ability to understand the pattern of "human behaviour."

SCORPIO - Oct. 23 to Nov. 21

YOUR INCOME TAXES

By the Institute of Chartered Accountants of British Columbia.

Be extremely careful when buying property situated in Canada from non-residents.

Now that the Canadian Income Tax Act requires income taxes be paid on capital gains, the taxing authorities must be assured that they collect taxes on all such capital gains transacted in Canada whether or not the recipient of the gain is a Canadian resident. The taxing authorities propose collecting this tax by requiring the non-resident vendor to file a declaration in a prescribed form with the department prior to sale or within 10 days after that date. This form will require the vendor to set out his adjusted cost-base and the selling price of the property. This form will also disclose for the department the net gain derived from the sale.

It will be necessary for the vendor to remit tax equal to 25 per cent of the net gain with the prescribed form.

The information contained in the form submitted by the vendor will be mailed by the taxation authorities to both the vendor and the purchaser or proposed purchaser in the form of a certificate of facts of the transaction.

If the details of the sale are different from those restated by the department to the purchaser in the certificate, the purchaser will be responsible for remitting 15 per cent of any actual purchase price in excess of the certified amount.

Should a transaction occur without the taxation authorities getting the necessary information, the purchaser will be required to remit a tax of 15 per cent to the department on the total sale price.

The purchaser may be relieved of this requirement if he can prove that he made reasonable inquiry, and after such, had no reason to believe that the vendor was a non-resident. The onus to prove this will be the purchaser's responsibility.

It would appear that this is just one more illustration of the old saying, caveat emptor, -- buyer beware.

Taxable Canadian Property for purposes of the foregoing requirements will include:

(a) real property situated in Canada or an interest therein
(b) other capital property used in carrying on business in Canada;

(c) shares or interests in shares or corporations resident in Canada (other than public corporations);

(d) an interest in a partnership if, at any time during such of the period of 12 months immediately preceding disposition thereof as is after 1971, 50 per cent of the total fair market value of partnership property (including the amount of money on hand) consists of taxable Canadian property;

(e) a capital interest in a Canadian resident trust (other than a unit trust); and

(f) a unit of a Canadian resident unit trust (other than a mutual fund trust).

New look for Green Book

Travel companion of British Columbia's 1973 visitors will be a much-improved Tourist Directory. Word of the changes comes from Hon. Ernest Hall, minister, department of travel industry, who says the first of 750,000 copies are now rolling off the presses.

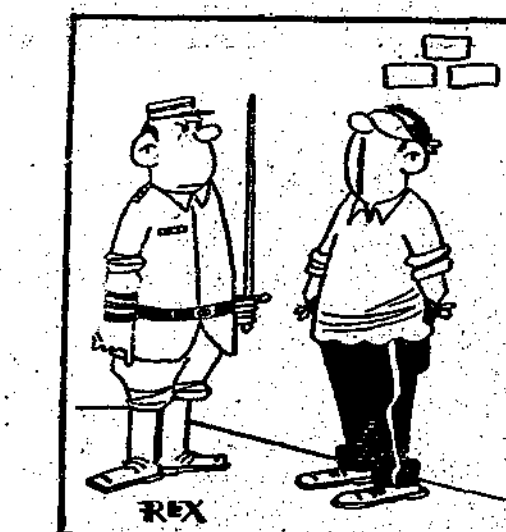

Popularly dubbed the Green Book, the directory contains a wealth of information on transportation, golf courses, campgrounds, boat-launching sites, museums, fishing and hunting regulations, closing days and innumerable other facts and tips to guide the traveller through the province. Strip maps are also shown in the 127 pages that spell out the rates and facilities of more than 2,000 government approved tourist establishments.

The current edition has been designed to be more readable. Pages are now made up in three columns instead of two. "This new book", Mr. Hall says, "will continue to be a valuable part of any tourist's travel equipment and will also help in vacation planning during these long winter days."

Point of Law

(By a Practising Lawyer Copyright)

What can a lawyer charge for his services - does it depend on the amount of time spent on the case?

The answer is complicated. The rules of court lay down with some specificity the amount which a lawyer may charge for the drawing of dozens of different types of documents and other professional attendances. In the case of a difference between lawyer and client as to fees, either party may have them set by the registrar of the court. For this, the lawyer would have to draw up a document listing each item of services rendered.

Lawyers are by law entitled to charge as follows: letters $3 each, telephone conversations $2.50 each. Anything that can be measured on a time basis, that is, interviews, conferences, court appearances, - generally $35 per hour. It should not be thought that lawyers make $35 per hour.

In most law offices at least half the income goes to pay overhead. Of the rest many things are difficult, or impossible, to charge out on a time basis; for example rereading letters and documents received (many of which are complicated and require considerable digestion), looking up the law on obscure points, and just plain thinking about difficult problems. It follows that for ten hours work, perhaps eight or only seven hours can be actually charged out as stated.

Some matters have a more or less standard fee, for example, a simple uncontested divorce, $500, or incorporating a simple private company, $300.

In a sale of land, including deed, agreement for sale or mortgage, a lawyer may, in general, charge a percentage of the purchase price of the land as follows: 1% of the first $2,500, 1/2% of the next $17,500, 1/4% of the balance. This would include: drawing any contract, deed or agreement for sale, searching title in land registry office, checking taxes and fire insurance, preparation of the adjustment statements, drawing and registering land registry documents, etc.

In the collection of accounts, a charge may be made as follows 20% of the first $300 collected, 15% of next $700 and 10% of excess.

In handling of estates, for obtaining grant of letters probate or administration, preparing and filing of estate tax form, succession duty and probate forms, transmitting assets to executor and to beneficiaries there may be charged, in general, 2% of the value of the estate, for estates worth up to $500,000 and thereafter a lesser percentage.

In all cases, the above may be increased according to the complexity of the subject matter and generally the value of the services rendered.

Every well run law office will have a record of every phone call, and the length of time spent on interviews, court appearances, etc. If it doesn't the lawyer will have a hard time proving his fee, if he has to.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Wednesday afternoon's fire call at about 4:30 p.m. was a chimney fire at the Sinn home Soames Point.

Cougars win one and lose one

Elphinstone Cougars won a close 68-66 victory over Max Cameron Tartans in a senior boys basketball game Friday evening. The Cougars really hustled and displayed a good team effort but some credit for the win must go to the tremendous enthusiasm shown by the home crowd.

The game was close with Elphie in the lead 16-11 at the quarter, 29-28 at the half and 47-42 at three-quarter time. Both teams played the entire game with only about six ball players. Brad Norris led the Cougars with 23, Wayne Smith 16, Bill Sneddon 12 and Art Dew 10. Max Cameron guard Rod Christianson gave an outstanding 35 point performance with team mate Roger Bouchie adding 15.

This Friday Elphinstone will host North Delta Huskies J-Vee team and on Saturday the Cougars play St. Thomas Moore. Both games are scheduled for 6:30 at Elphinstone gym. These games should prove quite exciting and the public is encouraged to come out and support the Cougars.

On Saturday last the Senior boys travelled to Agassiz but unfortunately lost to the Chieftans, 53-54. High scorer for the Cougars were Brad Norris, 19, Bill Sneddon 13 and Art Dew 8.

Coach Larrie Grant said that on this particular night they were beaten by a better team, but hoped that they get another chance to prove that the Cougars are really the better the Tri-zone Tourney, hosted team.

The clubs will likely meet at by St. Thomas Moore, March 3. It was the Cougars second loss from 23 starts.

The Junior Boys attended a tourney hosted by Edmonds on the weekend. Their first game against Balmoral, a Burnaby club, started off poorly as the Cougars gave their opponents a 16 point lead at halftime. Although Elphie outscored Balmoral in the second half they still lost 49-54.

The Cougars played poorly in their next game but still won 34-30 over Winslow. Elphinstone was slightly handicapped by the absence of first string centre Don Roberts but Martin Swan did a good job at rented.

In this position, getting a lot of rebounds.

Next weekend the Junior

8 Coast News, Jan. 31, 1973.

boys will attend a six team tournament at Brooks in Powell River.

The Junior girls attended a tourney at J. N. Burnett last weekend also. After leading throughout their first game the Cougars lost 10-12 by J. N. Burnett's last second basket. Birthday girl Barb Dew was high scorer with 6 points.

In their second game against Abbotsford, Elphie won 24-23 with Barb Dew scoring 5 and Kerry Mahlman, Gwenda Havies and Pam Benner adding 4 apiece.

Prepare for vote

Now that Gibsons and Sechelt councils have set April 14 as the date for the vote on the Recreational proposal the Regional District board at its January meeting arranged to prepare the bylaw so it can be put before the public as a plebiscite.

Ald. Bernel Gordon, sitting in for Mayor Ben Lang of Sechelt inquired whether the date could be advanced to the Easter holiday period when more summer visitors would be here who would vote. He was told the villages had set the date and not the board.

Business tax bylaw tackled

Gibsons municipal council was slated to meet in committee to tackle its business license bylaw which has been hanging fire since it was given readings at the Feb. 21 meeting of last year.

Ald. Ted Hume brought the matter up at last week's council meeting when it was decided it should be tackled in committee on Wed., Jan. 31. Delay in processing the bylaw was brought about by the provincial department of municipal affairs officials seeking clarification on taxation of coin machines.

You bed down if 'flu comes

For several weeks B.C. medical health officers have reported widespread outbreaks of influenza-like illness. Influenza Virus Type A2 or Hong Kong strain has been identified as the responsible agent. School absenteeism, a good indication of its effect, has been up slightly in this district.

Influenza viruses exist as three types, A, B and C. There are different strains of A type virus known as A (classic), A1 and A2. The recently reported London strain that has caused widespread disease in Europe is a variation of A2. Immunity to one strain or type does not confer immunity against another strain or type.

The onset of illness caused by type A virus is characteristically sudden. The patient soon feels prostrated and complains of aching of the back and limbs, with headache, chilliness, fever, some cough, and occasionally nausea and vomiting.

The seriousness of influenza lies in the tendency to complications of the lower respiratory tract caused by the virus, often associated with a secondary bacterial infection. Older people and those people with chronic heart or lung disease are more susceptible to complications.

If you get the symptoms of influenza you should go to bed take plenty of liquids, and use a simple medication such as aspirin to relieve the aches and pains. Stay in bed until you feel better, usually 2-5 days.
