Absentee voter loses vote right

Municipal Affairs Minister Jim Lorimer has moved in the legislature to abolish corporate and absentee landowner voting rights and give full municipal voting rights to non-property owners.

Lorimer introduced Bill 96, An Act to Amend the Municipal Act, which is a major overhaul of existing legislation based on the belief that voting rights should be granted to people rather than tracts of land, according to Lorimer.

Provisions of the bill include:

Requires creation of municipal voters' list by June 1, 1974, as part of a plan to establish an over-all voters' list in B.C.

Simplifies procedures for amalgamation of existing municipalities and incorporation of new ones.

Grants tenants the right to vote on money bylaws.

Fixes the percentage for passage of money bylaws at a simple majority. Under existing law, 60 percent approval is required if fewer than 50 percent of the eligible voters turn out at the polls.

Abolishes the requirements that mayoral candidates reside in the municipality they seek to govern.

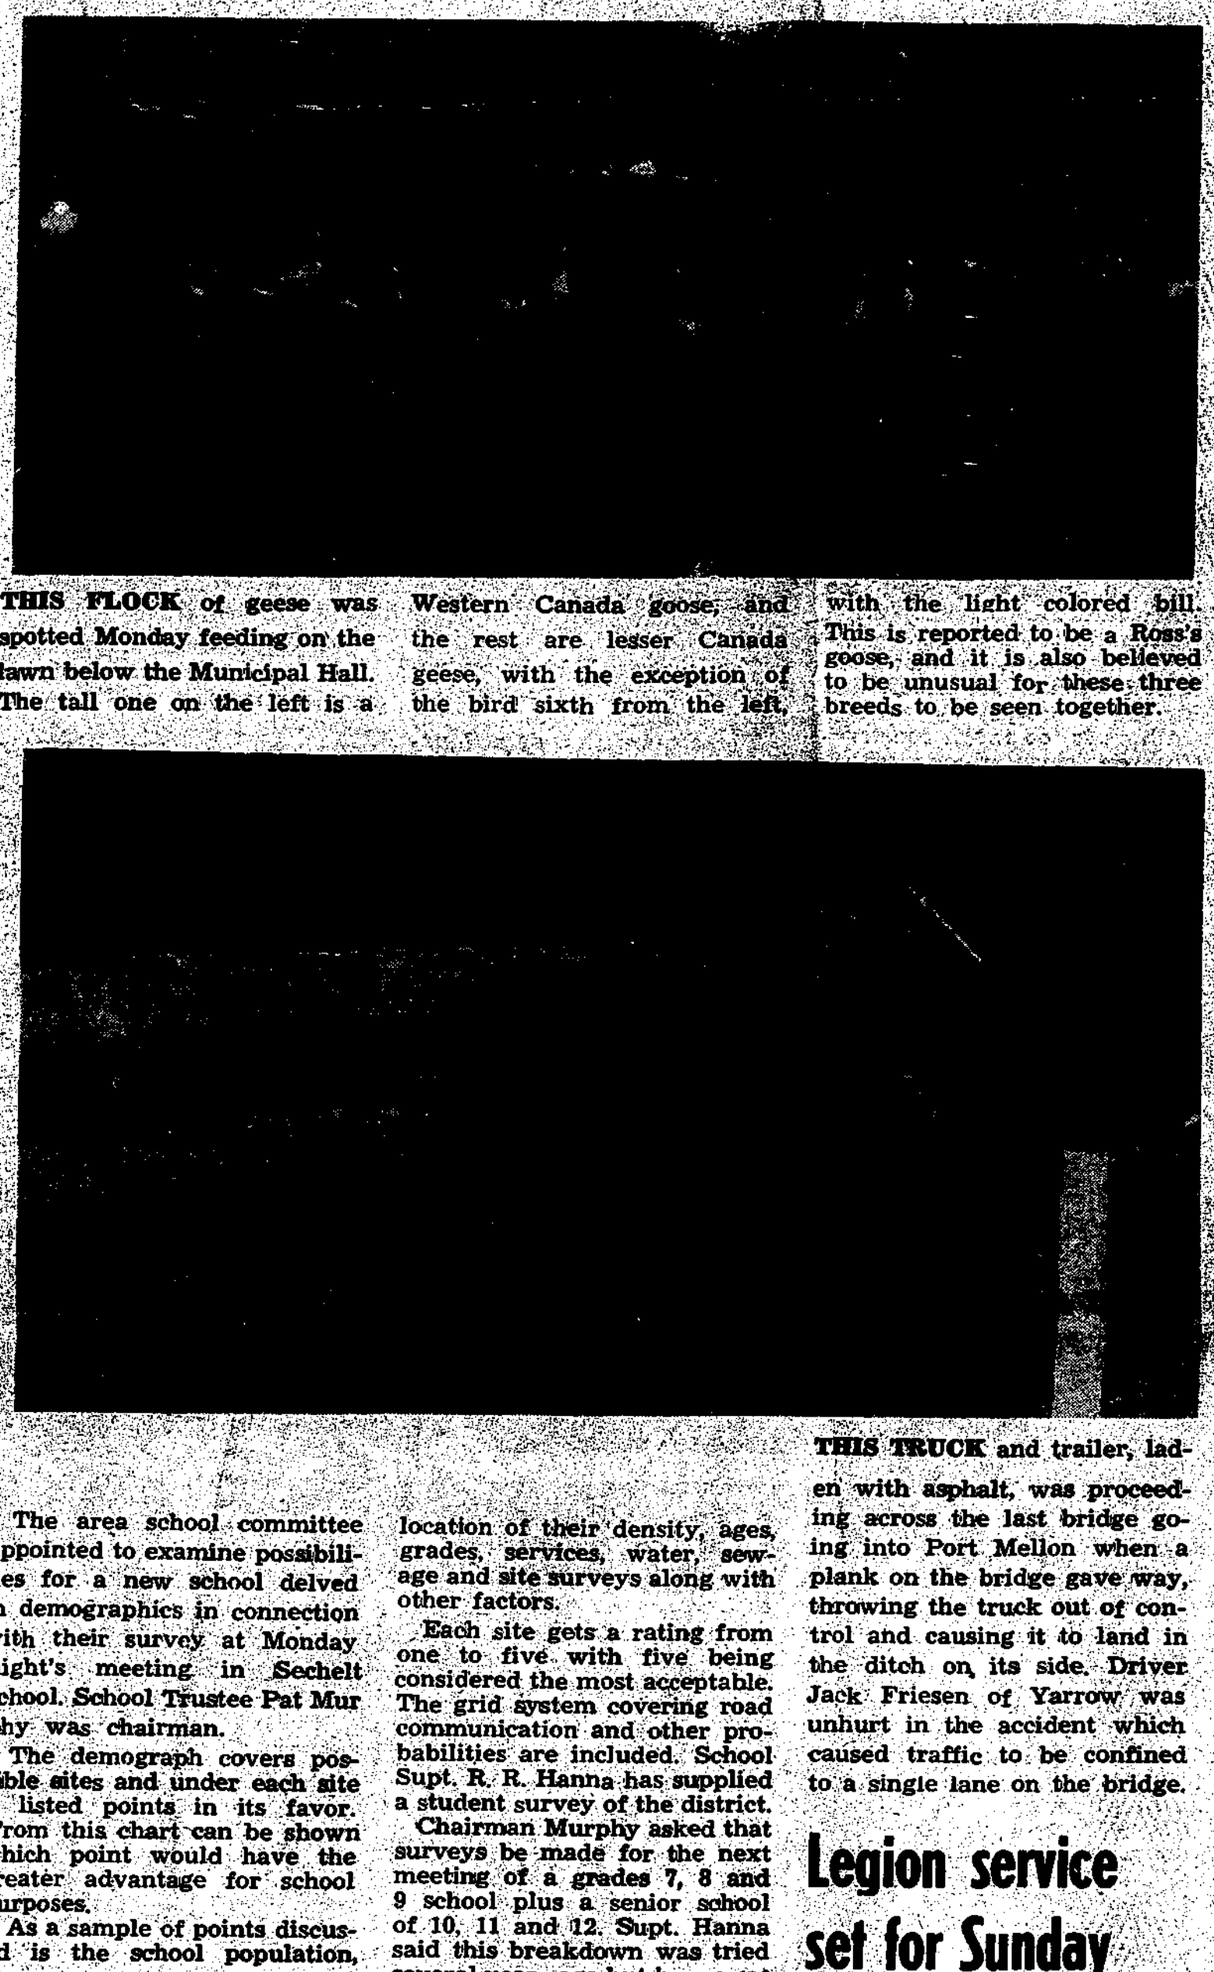
Grants permission to municipalities to charge a $25 processing fee for subdivision applications for the first lot and $10 for all subsequent lots. The fee would apply even if the developer's application is turned down.

Expands municipal powers to deposit sinking-fund credits in credit unions.

Inclusion of the costs of real property taxes and the costs of heat and other services in determining the gross annual rental value of property for business tax purposes.

Simplification of citizen notification procedures for public hearings on rezoning applications. Now, councils would be able to address notifications simply to occupants, instead of costly individual addressing.

Lorimer said the bill was introduced this session in order to be effective for the 1974 municipal elections. It does not affect this year's elections.



THIS FLOCK of geese was spotted Monday feeding on the lawn below the Municipal Hall. The tall one on the left is a Western Canada goose, and the rest are lesser Canada geese, with the exception of the bird sixth from the left, with the light colored bill. This is reported to be a Ross's goose, and it is also believed to be unusual for these three breeds to be seen together.

THIS TRUCK and trailer, laden with asphalt, was proceeding across the last bridge going into Port Mellon when a plank on the bridge gave way, throwing the truck out of control and causing it to land in the ditch on its side. Driver Jack Friesen of Yarrow was unhurt in the accident which caused traffic to be confined to a single lane on the bridge.

2nd fatality on North rd.

A fatal automobile accident at the same spot where a woman and baby were killed on North Road, took the life of 19-year old Graham Macdonold Gillis, son of Dr. John G. Gillis of Vancouver.

Three others in the car escaped with slight injuries. They were Simon Biffen, 18; Robert Weir, 20; and David Wallace, 19.

The four were coming downhill in their car approaching the hairpin turn when the car failed to negotiate a bend and toppled over, hitting the same stump that took the lives of Mrs. Kathleen Kelly, 23 and her seven months old son George Joshua, also injuring her husband and three other passengers.

The Kelly accident occurred at about 6:40 a.m. and the accident in which Gillis died occurred at about 1:30 a.m. The death of Gillis was apparently the result of a cave-in of the car roof hitting the stump, according to the RCMP report.

An inquest has been ordered which will be held within the next two weeks. It is expected the inquest will look into the conditions causing accidents in that area. Other minor accidents have occurred in the same area.

Returning officer speaks up!

The school district returning officer Joan B. Rigby in a letter to the Coast News expresses her feelings on the apathy displayed by the public to school board nominations in view of recent argument over rebuilding Elphinstone school.

Here is her letter:

Editor: As returning officer for Sechelt School District No. 46, I was at the school board office Monday, Oct. 29, in plenty of time to receive and check the validity of nomination papers for the three vacancies in Rural Area B, for school trustees. Two nomination papers were received, from Mr. Joseph Horvath and Mr. John MacLeod.

These gentlemen, as trustees whose present term expires Dec. 31, 1973, could have taken the easy course, and said "No more." However, in spite of the controversy and harsh criticism, the hours and hours of meeting, more hours of acquainting themselves with all the available facts in order to make intelligent decisions these gentlemen, and Mrs. Labonte of the Village of Gibsons, have chosen to remain committed and involved.

Not only did no one come forward to contest these three vacancies, no one came forward to fill the third. It would appear that such confidence is placed in Mr. Horvath and Mr. MacLeod, that we have chosen to let two fill the place of three — until another trustee is APPOINTED for us, rather than ELECTED by us.

I wonder if we know how easily the right to govern ourselves can be lost. Are we only capable of criticizing those who are doing a hard job? Are there not qualified people in Rural Area B, not otherwise involved in other worthwhile community services, who could serve instead of criticize? Do capable people move here just to get away from it all? Is there no one who cares enough for the future of this beautiful area to offer their services to the various governing boards? If reliable citizens will not assume their responsibilities, they are abandoning this community to a diminishing quality of government. The faithful ones cannot serve forever. Thank you Mrs. Labonte, Mr. Horvath and Mr. MacLeod for being willing to carry on the difficult and seemingly thankless task of being a school trustee, at this particularly trying time.

Having chosen to leave the job to the same board, I trust that all those who have been so openly critical of them, will have the grace to let them get on with the job.

—JOAN B. RIGBY.

Many attend memorial service

The high regard and affection with which Robert H. Cunningham and family are held was demonstrated by an over-flow attendance at the memorial service which taxed the capacity of Harvey's funeral chapel at 2 p.m., Thurs. Nov. 1. Mr. Cunningham died while bringing home a new ambulance on Oct 26.

During the service, special tribute was paid him by Rev. John Godkin of St. Hilda's, Anglican, Sechelt, who pointed out that the late Bob Cunningham, a deeply compassionate man, served the people of this area well and faithfully. At the conclusion of the service the mourners moved past the flower-banked dais, in silent tribute to the man, who with his widow Joan, had worked so hard to supply the only properly equipped ambulance service on the Sunshine Coast.

Outside the chapel, a large crowd gathered for a quiet word with the families of the bereaved. In the group were represented doctors, nurses and members of the administrative staff of St. Mary's Hospital, along with the staff of the medical clinics, a detachment of Sechelt R.C.M.P. and Royal Canadian Legion, also the Lions Club, Chamber of Commerce, members from the Regional District Board, Gibsons and Sechelt Councils and Sechelt Indian Band.

Among the out-of-town members of the family was a brother, Joseph Cunningham, Lt-Commander (Major) R.C.N. on compassionate leave from his Nova Scotia command.

A steady stream of donations is being received by Dr B. Kassen, Sechelt Medical Clinic, for the purchase of a heart-lung resusitator, the project Bob was working on at the time of his untimely death at the wheel of the new Cunningham Ambulance unit.

The area school committee appointed to examine possibilities for a new school delved in demographics in connection with their survey at Monday night's meeting in Sechelt school. School Trustee Pat Murphy was chairman.

The demograph covers possible sites and under each site is listed points in its favor. From this chart can be shown which point would have the greater advantage for school purposes.

As a sample of points discused is the school population, location of their density, ages, grades, services, water, sewage and site surveys along with other factors.

Each site gets a rating from one to five with five being considered the most acceptable. The grid system covering road communication and other probabilities are included. School Supt. R. R. Hanna has supplied a student survey of the district.

Chairman Murphy asked that surveys be made for the next meeting of a grades 7, 8 and 9 school plus a senior school of 10, 11 and 12. Supt. Hanna said this breakdown was tried several years ago but he was of the opinion it did not operate in enough time to prove itself.

Chairman Murphy thanked members for the work done so far. Outside of the meeting he said he would ask the school board for an extension of time to complete the study, as the Nov. 15 reporting date is too close.

October rain below average

October rainfall totalled 5.22 inches which is below the 12 year average of 6.48 inches. The range of rainfall for October shows October 1967 with 12 inches and October 1972 had 2 inches.

So far this year 32.2 inches has fallen. With the average yearly rain at 53 inches there is still room for more rain without breaking any record.

Maximum high temperature for October was 64 degrees and the low 39 degrees.

Legion service set for Sunday

Gibsons Legion Remembrance Day service will be held Sunday morning in the Royal Canadian Legion Hall commencing at 11:45 a.m.

A 78 year-old widow from Kipling, Saskatchewan, will represent Canadian motherhood in Ottawa as the nation remembers its war dead on November 11. She had eight children in service. Two were killed. They served in the RCAF.

Cuylits leaving

Ed Cuylits, planner for the Sunshine Coast Regional District board will be leaving the Sunshine Coast at the end of November to take up a position with the department of transport highways branch in Ottawa.

Mr. Cuylits has been with the Regional District board for three years and in that time has built up the planning section to a fairly high standard with mapping and ancillary requirements.

Music, drama festival outlined

Just 75 days are left to send entries to the Sunshine Coast Music and Drama Festival. January 15 is the closing date for entries in anyone of 90 categories outlined in the program.

Information on any part of the festival can be obtained by calling Mrs. A. Gilker at 886-2463, or Mr. G. L. Brooke at 885-9374, or George Cooper at 886-9344.

The Festival committee has arranged for competitions for just about every type of music and musical instrument you can name. Age is no barrier. If you are 7 years or under or 70 or over, you will find there is a place to show your musical talents or your ability to speak on the stage.

In almost every group of singing or instrumental competitions there is one that leaves the choice of selection open to the competitor. Anyone who plays in a pop combo, or the guitar, accordion, piano or sings will find a spot to show his skill.

There are competitions in reciting and reading, - the speech arts, - as well as in one-act plays for all ages.

Although the committee is busy looking for donors of trophies, they wish to point out that the chief advantage of the competition is the adjudication by judges competent in the field of music or speech arts.

So, a reminder, have your entry in by Jan. 15.

"On paper" conclusions

Control of land development as hinted in the discussions concerning the Land Commission Act appears to require detailed explanation on the part of the authorities.

One theory, for example, is that development of land say at Langdale should not be encouraged. The "on paper" desire is to fill out Gibsons first.

This is a nice idea but at what point would one decide Gibsons village is filled up? What is the meaning of the words "'filled up"? Take the present situation. There are vacant lots and vacant land. Many of these lots are probably held by people who when they reach retirement age will build. Others are holding for speculation and might hold them for many years. They have that right.

Who will make the decision that Gibsons or any other place has reached a point of saturation? What does one do about people who desire to build on a lot elsewhere of their own selection?

One must remember the Sunshine Coast as a unit is not noted for farmland agricultural production. It is noted for being a good place in which to live and the idea of killing residential ribbon develoment here is absurd.

It is natural for settlers to build from the shoreline and by force of circumstance up the side of the mountain. So any desire to reserve farm land for this area is something which requires more explanation than what any Land Commssion Act can provide.

There are areas where such an action would work. One could recommend that the operations of the Land Commission should be centred where the need is far greater than it is on the Sunshine Coast. The Sunshine Coast is becoming the victim of an absurdity.

A rural Sunshine Coast!

Perusal of the questions relating to this area as gathered by the UBC third year School of Community and Regional Planning (published in full on this page) for the Regional District board, reveals in the Land Use and Settlement Pattern, in paragraph one, the troubles that are facing the populace.

The observations of those who spoke up show the growing pains of the area are causing pain to some residents. One notes that the increase of services, such as sewer and water are not welcomed completely. Continuation of a rural Sunshine Coast is apparent. This attitude will continue down through the years without much change.

Take those people who moved in 20 years ago. In those days a baby carriage was a novelty. Not so today! The drive from the cemetery corner towards Sechelt was like driving through Stanley Park. Not so today! There are many other things which can be termed as "not so today!"

Change is taking place and the area is going to continue growth for the next 20 years in much the same way it did during the last 20 years. There is one difference which is protective and yet not desired by all and that is necessary land zoning.

However the various sections of observations (elsewhere on this page) do not give agriculture land much consideration.

Here's what Sunshine Coasters desire

Observations collected by the UBC student body which explored the Sunshine Coast on behalf of the Regional District board contain considerable interest for residents as well as officials. Here are the observations obtained at various meetings throughout the area:

Land use and settlement pattern:

Decreasing lot sizes are resulting in loss of privacy and degradation of the region's rural character. (7) comments

There is insufficient public access to the shore and to lakes. (7)

Developers are buying up large tracts of land, subdividing and selling lots at prices which prevent the vast majority of residents from buying property. (6)

The region is being developed too rapidly and too extensively for the benefit of cottagers and recreationists not living in the region. (3)

Indian Reserve lands are being too intensively and too haphazardly developed. (2)

Existing zoning by-laws accommodate developers and are biased against fishermen and logging interests. (1)

There is too much construction on steep slopes where there is a danger of landslides or erosion. (1)

Natural Resources:

There is a need for more parks and greenbelts. (3)

Logging in the vicinity of watercourses is creating erosion problems and low summer flows. (3)

There are signs of deterioration in water quality through development permitted too close to shores. (2)

There is a need to preserve valuable ecological areas and wildlife habitat. (2)

The region's limited beach areas are becoming overcrowded. (2)

The Dayton-Knight Report over-estimates the region's water resources to the benefit of developers. (2)

Arable land is being lost though improper development. (2)

Spawning streams are being damaged due to logging. (1)

Public Services:

A large scale sewerage system would increase permissible densities and would degrade the rural residential quality of the region. (5)

Present water supply systems are inadequate for present population. (4)

Provision of all essential services is costly and in-efficient because of ribbon development spread along the highway and shoreline. (4)

Health and education services are not being equitably provided throughout the region. (2)

There is a need for additional public camping facilities.(1)

There is a need for improved fire protection services. (1)

Transportation and Communications:

The proposed highway relocation would have undesirable consequence. (6)

The construction of a Squamish - Port Mellon highway route would remove the 'filter' provided by the ferry service. (4)

The ferry system serving the region is inadequate. (4)

There are increasing conflicts between recreational boating and marinas and other marine traffic. (3)

There is a tendency for commercial development to spread along the existing highway. (2)

Pressure for imporvement to the Sunshine Coast Highway is being exerted by Powell River area interests. (2)

Traffic congestion results from the necessity for vehicles, local, commercial, recreational, to use the same route. (1)

Proposals and Policies Advocated at Meetings

Land Use and Settlement Patten:

Zoning by-laws should set large minimum lot sizes for subdivisions outside of the municipalities. (6)

Intensive residential and commercial development should be restricted to the two municipalities. (5)

The maximum density for rural residential living should be determined for each electoral area (based on the 'natural carrying capacity' of the land) and this density should be incorporated into the official plans. (5)

Zoning policy should concentrate all major industry in one area. (3)

The provincial government should provide low cost land for building lots by leasing. (2)

Arable land should be reserved solely for hobby farms. (2)

All vacant land in built-up areas should be 'in-filled' before new areas are used for development. (1)

Natural Resources:

Land surrounding lakes should remain in public owner ship. (3)

An updated survey of water resources is needed. (2)

Headwaters of creeks and streams should be excluded from logging permits in order to preserve watersheds and to maintain areas for wilderness recreation. (2)

The federal Fisheries Branch should be requested to develop a salmon hatchery in Chapman Creek and thus prevent further logging in the watershed. (1)

Experts should be retained to examine aerial photos of the region and to compile a comprehensive inventory of the physical resources. (1)

Public Services:

The Regional District should not become involved in large-scale water and sewerage systems. (5)

The Regional District should implement large scale water and sewerage systems. (2)

Services should not be extended to presently undeveloped areas. (2)

Developers should be required to provide all essential services in conjunction with any subdivision. (2)

Future educational and health services should be located in a central, accessible area in order to avoid inefficient duplication of inadequate services. (2)

Transportation and Communications:

B.C. Ferries should be encouraged to undertake a study of alternatives to the present organization of ferry service. (4)

The existing highway route is sufficient for the foreseeable future as long as the Department of Highways undertakes widening and resurfacing improvements. (3)

The Regional District should express opposition to any Department of Highways plans for a Squamish-Port Mellon highway. (3)

A new highway for through traffic should be constructed along the B.C. Hydro right-of-way. (2)

Sechelt Inlet should be made accessible by the construction of a highway to link Egmont and Sechelt along the Inlet. (1) public access. (1)

A strip of land should be reserved all along the shore for

Land use plans and zoning should be implemented along a new highway route after construction has been completed. (1)

Space for booming grounds should be allocated only when the rights of fishermen or the boating public are not compromised. (1)

The food basket

Last year Canadians consumed about 298 million pounds of cheese of which nearly two-thirds were' cheddar.

Cheddar cheese is made from whole milk and it is the only cheese in Canada that is graded, - most of it qualifying for Canada First Grade. It is graded according to flavor, texture and color and must conform to standards set for fat and moisture content. Cheddar cheese is also labelled mild, medium and old. Under carefully controlled conditions, mild cheddar is held to ripen for two to three months, medium cheddar for four to five months, and old cheddar, at least nine months.

Cheese of all types adds high quality protein and calcium to family meals and foods come alive with flavor when it is a principal ingredient. For these reasons, we suggest stretching your food dollar by substituting cheese main dishes for meat or by combining with smaller quantities of meat.

Here are two delicious family type dishes which are sure to receive requests for more.

Cheese-stuffed Tomatoes
12 medium tomatoes
2 tblsp. butter
2 tblsp. flour
½ tsp. salt
½ tsp. dry mustard
1 cup milk
1½ cups grated cheddar cheese
3 cups cooked macaroni
⅓ cup buttered bread crumbs

Cut a slice off stem end of each tomato. Hollow out centers and turn upside down to drain. Melt butter, blend in flour and seasoning and gradually add milk. Stir and cook until smooth and thick. Add cheese, stir until melted. Combine sauce with macaroni. Sprinkle inside of tomatoes with salt, fill with macaroni and cheese and top with buttered bread crumbs. Place in greased baking dish and bake at 350°F until tomatoes are tender (15 min.). 6 servings.

Letters to Editor

Editor: Referring to a news item published in a local paper two weeks ago during my absence in regard to the O.A.P.O. recreation project under way I feel that clarification is necessary. Firstly, one would get the impression on reading same that due to complications the project was unworkable and could not continue. Such is not the case. The truth is, that due to the provincial board constitution, as it now stands, no group may execute a lease, or purchase of property in the name of the group. However such may be executed by the provincial board and held in their name for the group.

In regard to the lease in question for our project. In a telephone conversation this week between myself and the president of the provincial board, I was assured that the board is more than willing and prepared to sign this lease as soon as it is prepared.

Secondly the report that some member or members of our group had been ringing trees on the project is entirely unfounded. Any ringing of trees on the project is entirely unfounded. Any ringing of trees that has been done has not been done by any member of our group, but had been done about a year ago, long before we had entered into any negotiations with the village for the property. For which we have ample proof. Originally it had been specified that, none of the trees in the park area be touched except certain alder trees for wood, of which many have been cut, but not by us.

Also in a recent telephone conversation with a supposedly leading citizen, I was accused of being a glory hunter and trying to run a one man band. Nothing has been further from my mind as I am in no way power hungry. Nor do I need nor want prestige or power. I merely want to do whatever little I can for all pensioners in the area.

As for there being any glory or compensation. There is none only a lot of damned hard work. In no way could I overrule nine other men on the committee. As I hold no legal position on the committee except as co-ordinator. If the group, or the committee think that I am trying to run a one man band, then my resignation and complete divorce from the project is immediately in effect. L.D. MacLaren, Pres. Br. 38, O.A.P.O.

Editor's note: Which local paper? The first three paragraphs of the letter in no way apply to the Coast News. Perhaps the writer is protesting too much!

TO USE 12 CAMERAS

Lord Grey's annual football classic, the Grey Cup game, on Sunday, Nov. 25, comes from Torontos' CNE Stadium, from where it will be telecast live across Canada on all CBC television network stations as well as the CTV network. Preparations have nearly been complet ed for coverage of the game by the CBC sports department. Altogether, 12 cameras will be used in this biggest-ever Grey Cup TV production.

NOW ACCREDITED

Word has been received by St. Mary's Hospital officials that the hospital has again been placed on the basis of accreditation. This means the national organization of hospitals has for the second time raised the status of the hospital service by the approval of the complete hospital staff, equipment and accounting.

The hospital lost its accreditation some months ago but since then necessary corrections have been made and accreditation has been resumed.

Disaster plans cover hospital

Disaster guidelines for St. Mary's Hospital staff have been organized as the result of a disaster meeting with Ellen E. Bragg, hospital administrator as chairman.

Briefly the plan calls for all persons other than patients, ambulance attendants, blood donors and doctors should enter the hospital at the manned fire exit door on the east end of the south side of the hospital. They should park on the Indian band grounds. This will permit clear entrance to the grounds for ambulances and police and orderly evacuation of hospital patients as required

Pioneer girls meet Mondays

For some weeks the Pilgrim section of Pioneer Girls has been meeting each Monday after school and last Monday afternoon, an enrollment service saw several enthusiastic little girls become full-fleged Pioneer Girls. The Pilgrim section is growing, but there is still room for a few more girls in the grade 3 through 6 group.

Colonists are girls grade 7 through 9, and two guides are now ready to begin this section of the Pioneer Girls program. Starting Monday, Nov. 12, Colonists will meet at 3:15 in the little chapel beside Bethel Baptist Church, while the Pilgrims will meet in the main church building.

All girls in the Colonists age group interested in joining may contact the committee chairman at 886-7449.

INSECT IDENTIFICATION

Canadians are bugging Agriculture Canada's insect identification service, that is, they're submitting insects they've collected to be identified, recorded and filled. Last year about 350 new species of insects were identified by the service, part of Agriculture Canada's Biosystematics Research Institute.

Two-hundred and thirty-one British Columbia golfers helped sponsor the same number of handicapped children to a Lions Easter Seal Camp this year. Molson Breweries has just granted $11,000 to the B.C. Lions Society for Crippled Children based upon the number of Holes-In-One scored

The chairman of the board of the society, Ralph H. Long accepted a cheque recently from Tom English the president of Molson Brewery B.C. Limited and thanked Molson's for their efforts and support of the Easter Seal Societies camping program.

The Society operates three camps in British Columbia, one on Vancouver Island, one in the Kelowna area, and one in the Fraser Valley. The camps have programs for about 800 campers each year.

Controls on Topsoil removal

Legislation to prevent removal of topsoil from agricultural land was introduced in the legislature by Agriculture Minister David D. Stupich. This will allow the government to establish controls on the removal of topsoil in areas designated as agricultural land under the Land Commission Act.

The amendments will allow establishment of a permit system administered by local authorities.

Mr. Stupich said this legislation will allow the government to meet the overall intent of the Land Commission Act, preservation of agricultural land. At present, there is no authority to control the indiscriminate removal of agricultural topsoil.

Under the legislation, municipalities and regional districts can establish topsoil committees to guide them in issuing permits. If established, the committee will be comprised of one member of the local authority, one person appointed by the local authority and a member of the British Columbia department of agriculture.

The act requires persons wishing to move topsoil from agricultural land reserves to apply to the local authority for a permit. The act will not prevent individuals from moving topsoil on their own land within an agricultural reserve.

Individuals dissatisfied with decisions regarding the removal of topsoil may be authorized by resolution of the local authority to appeal through the Environment and Land Use Committee. The mechanism for appeal is similar to that provided for under the Land Commission Act.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Editor: While my viewpoint cannot be purported to be entirely objective, and my timing must of necessity be a little hurried, I still cannot countenance your obtuse opinions. You do not seem to be able to co-ordinate your front page with your editorial page.

I have spent the last few days trying to help my family through the difficult time that followed the death of my brother, Bob Cunningham, of Cunningham's Ambulance Service. Indeed the main thrust of my endeavours has been to complete the job my brother was attempting at the time of his death. To achieve this end, we have accepted delivery of the new vehicle, changed over the medical equipment and supplies from the old ambulance and converted the family station wagon into a stand-by vehicle complete with oxygen, stretcher, and standard emergency supplies.

If you had taken the time to research your front page story on my brother's demise you would have been able to corroborate your final statement, 'Joan will carry on the busi- You certainly would have found little basis for your editorial comment that, 'unless someone with sufficient experience takes over immediately the Cunningham's service will be at a stand-still.'

Initially the Cunningham's service was largely voluntary, and it has only been recently that it has been possible to achieve a truly adequate service by plowing a major portion of the proceeds back into equipment. This has resulted in the purchase of the new ambulance which is now fully ready for service. Joan is no less qualified as a First Aid instructor and attendant than she was before and there have been dozens of volunteers to assist with the driving until permanent arrangements can be organized. I am appalled at your naive suggestion that the community would be better served by some new arrangement working out of Pender Harbour, Sechelt and Gibsons. The reason you have a service now is because it grew out of the frustration resulting from the failure of these Communities to agree. Bob has built an effective service over the years and it would be a shame to see it die, to be replaced by a territorially fragmented committee designed horse, that will inevitable turn out to look like a camel.

I hope that Bob's efforts have not been in vain, and that Joan will be able to use the training and skill she has spent so much time and effort acquiring. There is no doubt that the service has always lacked public support and therefore the individuals who have needed it have had to pay dearly for the time the development of a community service, usually at a time when they are least able to pay. Your editorial suggests that all of these efforts should be put aside, that the equipment is stalled, and that there are no experienced operators. I wish I were staying around longer so I could see if you are always that wrong. - J. Cunningham, Major, Canadian Armed Forces.

Editor's note: The Coast News has no desire to close the Cunningham Ambulance service. What it is trying to do is to help the area ambulance service and at the same time include the Cunningham service in any future area-wide setup. As to front page coordination that is a mechanical situation. The editorial was written Sunday and printed Monday. The front page material from Mrs. Cunningham was received Tuesday and printed Wednesday. The Coast News is completely sympathetic with Mrs. Cunningham and her situation and knows that future district ambulance operations, government or otherwise, must include the Cunningham service.

Editor: I wish to thank all concerned for the recent trip to Hawaii of OAP's and others who were fortunate enough to take the trip. I would especially like to thank the hostesses and flight crew of Wardair 440 which took us to Hawaii.

The hostesses were extremely kind and considerate and I would like to mention them by name: K. Garrett, S. Everitt, D. Wille, R. Noffer, M. Johnson C. Cellura and B. Callaghan. To these young ladies a very heartfelt thanks for their kindness.

To the flight crew of Capt. Peterson, First Officer Mr. Fenner, Flight Engineer Mr. Strang, Navigator Mr. Pindar, to these gentlemen, thank you for a wonderful flight to Hawaii and back. We consider ourselves fortunate in having you for the round trip.

The hostesses on the return trip 441 on Oct. 28 were Patti Marr, Arden Poitras, Bobby Callaghan, Grace Dreger, Bararo Nopper and Debbie Beroth. (I apologise for any mispellings).

To all of these young ladies our heartfelt thanks for their kindness and consideration and trust we will have the pleasure of meeting them again on a Wardair Flight. Aloha and Mahoto -- Kay and Jim Holt

Rita—have you got a bone for Bruce?

255 at buffet

A warm aura of friendliness pervaded the atmosphere of Gibsons Auxiliary Aloha buffet last Friday. It might have been the background music or the aroma of the foods spaced out on the smorgasbord tables. The chances are, it was just the people themselves, happy to see each other and chat as they made their food selections. At least that feeling was there and helped make the luncheon a success.

The committee headed by Mrs. J.D. Hobson had hoped for a good turnout and were rewarded by a full 30 percent increase over the buffet held a year ago. About 255 attended President Mrs. C.E. Longley expresses, on behalf of the entire membership, her thanks for all this support. Music was supplied by courtesy of J. Harvey Department Store Ltd.

For the next few weeks there will be daily "Surprise Specials" from 10% to 40% off on some items. Look for the signs when browsing. Miss Bee's, Sechelt.

CHRISTMAS LIGHTS

Once again the Christmas light situation has returned. It is a perennial subject starting usually about Nov. 1. It was brought up at last week's meeting of Gibsons council and passed to Ald. William Laing as his pre-Christmas chore.

It will be his job to find out how many bulbs have burned out from last year and how to get the Sea Cavalcade decorations down. The latter were put up by B.C. Tel. volunteers.

Have a look at the new items from Switzerland. Miss Bee's, Sechelt.

Royal Wedding TV starts Sunday

CBC television will begin programming the royal wedding on Sunday, Nov. 11 at 9 p.m. with a one hour documentary presentation, An Invitation To The Wedding of HRH Princess Anne and Captain Mark Phillips.

The documentary,, produced by Harry Rasky, is a prelude to the Nov. 14 wedding. Douglas Fairbanks Jr. is host at Buckingham Palace, the royal residence in London, along the parade route of the wedding procession and in Westminster Abbey.

There are also scenes of arrangements being made for the mighty wedding cake, robes to be worn, and the special glass coach.

An Invitation To The Wedding of HRH Princess Anne and Captain Mark Phillips is a co-production between ABC-TV and CBC-TV.

WEDDINGS

JOHNSON - FISHER

Sixty relatives were present for the union of Diane Lynne Fisher and Kenneth Raymond Johnson at 6 p.m., on Oct. 13, 1973.

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Fisher of Gibsons are the parents of the bride and she is their eldest daughter. The groom is the eldest son of Mrs. Florence Johnson of West Vancouver, and the late Mr. Raymond Johnson.

Rev. J. Williamson performed the double ring ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H.O. Hincks, where the wedding party stood before the beautiful large stone fireplace.

The lovely bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor length gown of sheer organza fashioned with long sleeves which had lace cuffs. The bodice and stand up collar also featured the same rich lace. Ornamenting the collar was the seed pearl sunburst brooch of the bride's great grandmother. A chic cap style headdress was worn with shoulder length veil, also lace trimmed. The entire bridal costume was made by the bride's aunt, Mrs. David Flumerfelt. The bride carried a cascading bouquet of exquisite pink rosebuds, carnations and baby's breath.

Attendants were: maid of honor Miss Ginny Alsager, bridesmaid Miss Kathy Fisher, the bride's sister; flower girls Jill Flumerfelt, cousin of the bride and Carolyn, the bride,s younger sister. All wore full length frocks of deep pink nylon with a dainty pattern of flocked white flowers. They were becomingly styled with panels falling into princess lines, ruffles over the shoulders, and a tie in the back.

The junior attendant dresses featured short puffy sleeves, while the other two had long sleeves. They carried nosegays centered with deep pink carnations surrounded by white carnations, and wore wreaths of pink and white feathered carnations in their hair.

Mr. Robert Johnson was best man for his brother. Mr. Gary Flumerfelt, the bride's uncle, was usher. The men in the wed ding party looked handsome in their brocade jackets and black trousers. The groom's jacket was white, trimmed in black, he wore a deep pink shirt and rosebud buttoniere. The others wore blue brocade jackets and pale blue shirts.

A hanging basket of pink rosebuds and white carnations and other matching floral arrangements, as well as pairs of pink candles, graced the rooms at the Hincks home.

A reception followed at the Royal Canadian Legion, Gibsons, where the Ladies Auxiliary catered for the 160 guests from many points in B.C. and Washington, who enjoyed the delightful smorgasbord. Master of ceremonies was Mr. George Hopkins. Mr. Brian Flumerfelt from Williams Lake proposed the toast to the bride.

The round four tier wedding cake was made by the bride's mother and tastefully decorated by the bride's aunt Mrs. R. Hughes, with delicate pink rosebuds cascading in three spirals and topped by a tiny vase of real flowers. The bride and groom passed the wedding cake to the guests.

Among congratulatory messages received was a telegram from the groom's uncle Mr. Norman Johnson in Mexico.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Fisher chose a long dress of deep pink polyester crepe having long sleeves, empire waist, tie in the back, and a V neckline. Her corsage was of pink rosebuds and white carnations.

The groom's mother was attired in an off-white, long, polyester shirtwist dress and she wore a yellow corsage.

The bride changed to a pant suit of large plaid in shades of camel, chocolate and rust with a self-belt jacket, chocolate brown blouse, purse and shoes en tone. Before leaving for Lord Jim's Lodge, the happy young bride presented her wed ding bouquet to her paternal great grandmother, Mrs. Kay Fisher.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have taken up residence in Sunshine Coast Trailer Park. They are planning a three week trip to Mexico for Christmas.

Point of Law

(By a Practicing Lawyer Copyright)

We have received a number of enquiries on how to avoid paying under contracts entered into as a result of high pressure salesmanship, or other similar tactics.

In general there is no way of getting out of it. The law assumes that everyone will have a reasonable degree of will power. If the contract is otherwise valid, a party to it cannot avoid his duties under it simply because he has changed his mind, or because he was talked into it against his will.

The law, however, provides for the setting aside of a contract entered into as a result of duress. Duress is the use of force or threats of force against a person or his family to induce that person to sign a contract.

Our law also recognizes undue influence. The courts will, under some circumstances, set aside a contract entered into as a result of this type of pressure. Undue influence always implies a dominant party and a subservient party.

The dominant party is the one putting on the pressure and the subservient party is the one being lead astray. Undue influence usually arises in cases involving an elderly senile person who is in some way dependant on the dominant party to the contract.

Our law presumes undue influence in some cases. These are: parent and child, guardian and ward, spiritual adviser and parishioner, doctor and patient, and lawyer and client. This presumption does not mean that a contract between such persons would never be valid. It means that the dominant party must prove that there was no undue influence. The dominant party has at least one strike against him before walking into the court room.

There is a consumers protection act dealing with excessive interest rates and harsh contracts under which the court is given the power to make certain changes in the contract. This act also allows cancellation of contracts entered into with door-to-door sales men if the cancellation is made in three days.

Hospital cost problem eased

A move which Director Frank West, finance chairman of the Regional District Hospital board said would save hospitals a considerable amount of money, was announced at the October meeting of the Regional Hospital board.

The savings would come as the result of the B.C. Hospital Insurance service revision of the departmental grants for construction and purchases of equipment. The 60% formula which previously applied to long term financing will now apply to projects financed from hospital plant funds as well as other minor funds.

RUGBY

Gibsons Rugby Club at UBC Saturday, bounced back from a tough loss the previous weekend, and came up with a big win.

In the first half Robert Anderson with help from his scrummers, scored a tri and conversion. The next scoring play was by Bobby Johnson. He intercepted a pass and broke by their fullback, running 70 yards for his tri. The conversion was good. One other tri was scored in the 1st half by Robert Anderson. At the end of the half the score was 16-0.

In the second half Gibsons club didn't let up. They kept driving and succeeded in scoring more points. The scrum opened the scoring when they had a 5-yard scrum. They overpowered UBC all the way over the goal line and dropped on the ball for the tri, the conversion being good. (22-0). Next scoring was a penalty kick converted by Robert Anderson (25-0). Kenny Johnson broke through UBC's 3-line a few minutes later and ran the 50-yard dash for the tri, Robert Anderson made the conversion. Gibsons ended the game with a convincing 31-0.

Next week-end Gibsons will play the Georgians in Vancouver.
