Council concerned

Gibsons council is questioning the village's financial involvement in a $36,000 Sechelt community plan study.

At last week's council meeting Ald. Kurt Hoehne said he was concerned because Gibsons may end up paying part of the costs for a study that involves Sechelt and the immediate vicinity.

Agreement in principle was reached earlier among Sechelt council, the Sechelt Indian Band, and the Regional Board to conduct the $36,000 study leading to a community plan for the community around Sechelt.

The area included in the study is the area south of Tuvanek Point, west of Browning Road, north of Mission Point, and east of the intersection of Highway 101 and Redroofs Road.

Gibsons Ald. Jim Metzler, in presenting a report on the last Regional Board meeting, dispelled Hoehne's concern about how much Gibsons would be contributing through planning and administration costs.

Metzler said he asked the Regional board about Gibsons financial involvement and was assured that the parties involved would be responsible for the bill.

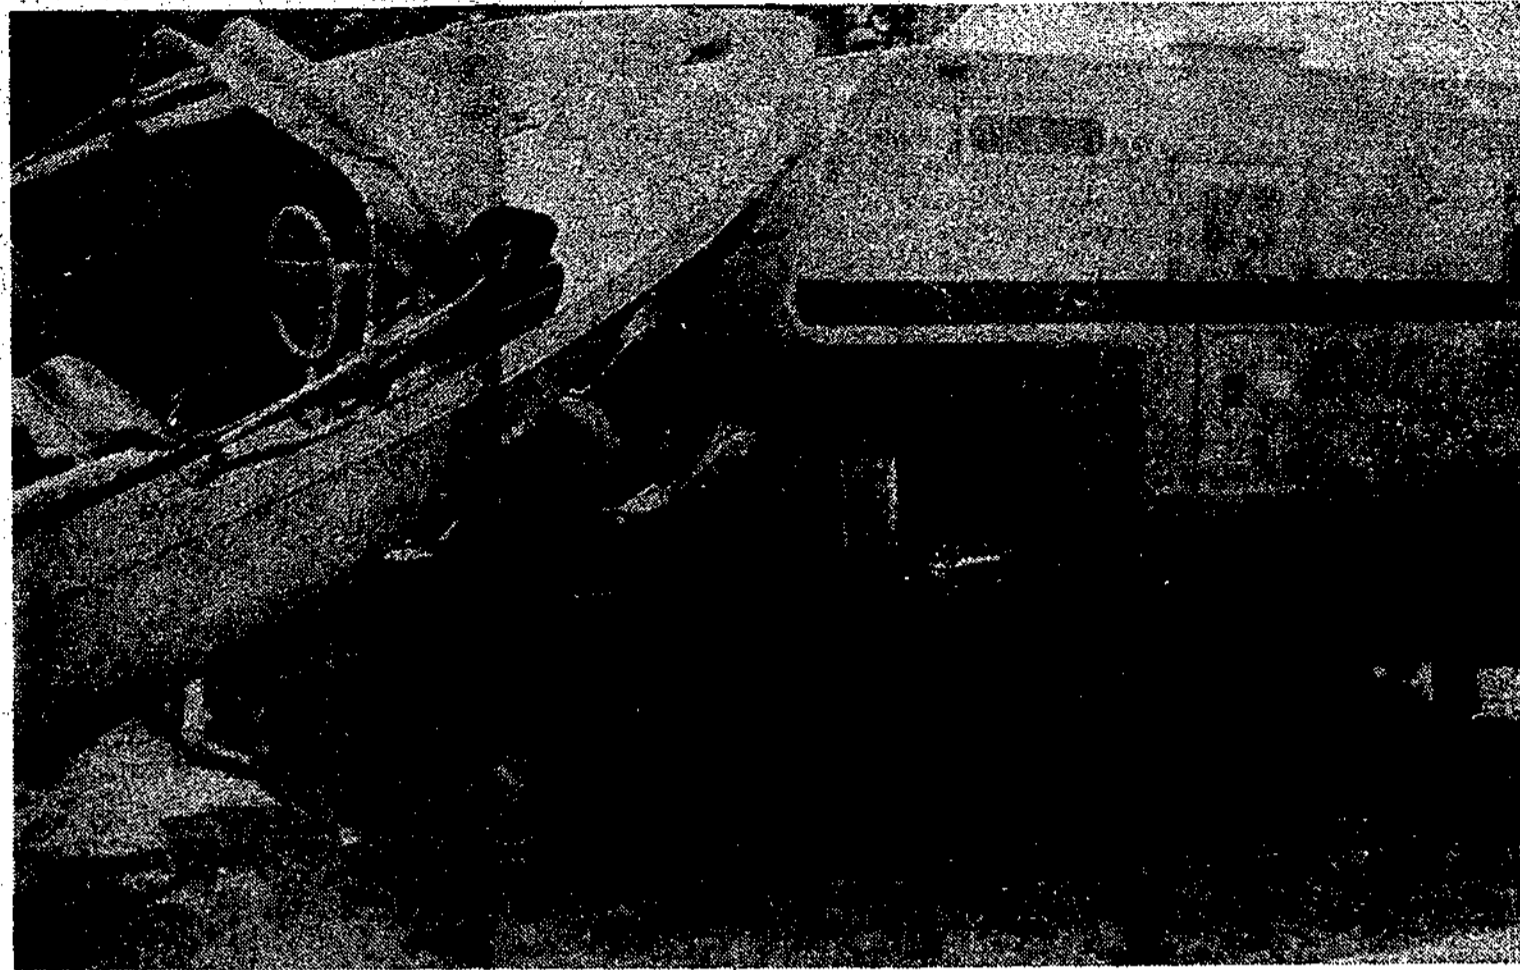

Metzler said the Indian Band had already contributed $9,000 towards the study and the village of Sechelt would also be contributing. Additional money will be raised through the provincial government.

In a draft proposal presented to the Regional Board, Regional planner Adrain Stott said "it is recognized by all parties that this attempt by provincial municipal governments and an Indian Band to cooperate in examining and discussing the social and physical future of our community is unique and difficult."

"It must be clearly understood that this endeavor of people to co-operate is just that, and that in no way is there any intent on the part of the provincially based jurisdictions to impose their wishes or legislative power upon the Indian Band or vice-versa."

Some of the major steps in the study, besides the gathering of data, will involve design of broad alternatives for the community's future, choice among the alternatives, development of policies to implement the chosen alternatives, and plan adoption and implementation.

There should be significant public involvement in the plan development process, the draft proposal states.

NO ONE was injured when a boat and trailer rammed a small camper truck Sunday.

Camper rammed by boat and trailer

A freak accident in Roberts Creek Sunday afternoon caused about $4,000 damage to a parked vehicle and a boat trailer.

Gibsons RCMP report that a boat and trailer had broken loose from a vehicle driven by Daniel Weinhandl of Gibsons. The boat and trailer swerved across Highway 101 and rammed a small camper truck parked on the side of the road.

Damage to the parked vehicle, owned by Carl Gust of Pratt Road, was estimated at $3,500.

Police said the trailer had apparently hit a dip in the road causing it to come loose from the hitch. The safety chain was also broken.

No one was injured in the accident.

Cavalcade activities increase

Approximately 150 people enjoyed a varied menu at the Sea Cavalcade Queens' smorgasbord held at Gibsons Legion Hall July 3.

The event, one of several organized to raise money for Miss Sea Cavalcade 1975, was sponsored by ladies and wives of those sponsoring the queen contestants. Honored guests at the luncheon were Dr. and Mrs. Hugh Inglis.

Barbara Bradshaw, head of this year's Cavalcade Queen committee, said the luncheon was a success and thanks all those who were involved.

There are still tickets left for the Retiring Queen's Ball Saturday, July 12 at Gibsons Legion Hall. Tickets for the semi-formal dinner-dance honoring last year's Miss Sea Cavalcade Perry Bradshaw are $10 each. They are available from Diane Strom at 886-2674.

Entertainment will be provided by the Country Classics. This year's queen contestants will also be on hand.

In other Cavalcade news, the Clambake hosted by Ralph and Ethel Harding in Roberts Creek was reported to be a great success. The June 29 event featuring home-made clam chowder was attended by the Queen contestants who assisted with serving.

Co-ordinator Charlie Mandelkau reports that there are now quite a few entrants for the tugboat race. He says the race should be a good one this year.

Charlie also said there will be no demolition derby as earlier scheduled because the insurance rates are too high.

Support for Lot 12

Sunshine Coast Regional Board members have given formal support to the School Board's choice of Lot 12 as the site of a new Sechelt Junior Secondary.

Earlier reports from Gibsons council indicated the Regional Board had objections to Lot 12 as a potential school site.

In a meeting of Regional District directors and School board trustees Monday night, the Regional board re-affirmed it would not influence the school board in a decision for the school site.

"The board is in no way voicing an objection to the choice of Lot 12," Regional District Secretary - Treasurer, Anne Pressley said Tuesday. She said the object of Monday's meeting was for information purposes only.

Mrs. Pressley said the Regional Board, in fact, generally felt Lot 12 was a good choice for the site of the new school.

WHILE THIS week's lightning and thunder storms sent a lot of people under the bed in fright, Kim Bracewell of Hopkins Landing was out taking pictures.

Kim took this picture about 11 p.m. Sunday night. To capture the lightning on film Kim said he just opened the shutter on his camera and waited for the lightning to come. He estimated his exposure time to be anywhere from one to five minutes. Another photo can be found on page ten.

Sewer delegation to Victoria

Representatives from the Sunshine Coast will be meeting with officials in Victoria shortly in an attempt to make sewers in Sechelt a reality.

Sechelt Ald. Norm Watson told council last week that he, Regional Board Chairman Frank West and Sechelt Clerk Tom Wood would meet with the deputy minister of municipalities to discuss the wording of a proposed sewer bylaw.

At a Regional Board meeting last month, the village of Sechelt and several regional district areas made a resolution to jointly enter into the sewerage disposal function.

Watson said at that time that the joint sewer venture would be advantageous to everyone involved. If the function is granted by the provincial government, the village and other electoral areas involved would become a specified taxation area with that taxation going

At the Sechelt council meeting last week, Watson said the sewer bylaw would be a declaration stating the sewer would be built. He said the major issue to be discussed is the fee structure for residents and commercial property owners.

Watson estimated residential costs to be about $95 per unit and commercial units would be about three times that figure.

He said a public referendum would be held in Sechelt if over 10 percent of the residents objected to the installation of the sewers.

DRY JUNE

Rainfall totals for June indicate a relatively dry month with 1.31 inches. Average for June is 1.77 inches.

Daytime high for June was 25 deg. C. on June 1. Overnight low was 6 deg. C. on June 6, 7, 17, 26 and 27.

Gym classes

The Coast Garibaldi Health Unit will present a series of classes this summer for pre-school children and mothers. The classes will be arranged as a personal fitness program so the activities may be continued at home. The classes will aim to teach children about body awareness and the importance of physical fitness.

Classes will be split into three groups, one week each, five days to each week. Classes will be approximately one hour from 10:30 to 11:30 a.m.

The three groups are kindergarten (ages 4, 5), weefolks gym (ages 2 and 3) and diaper gym (walking to 23 months). Kindergarten will run for a week starting July 21, weefolks will start July 28, and diaper gym starts August 4.

The organizers ask moms and tots to wear shorts and light tops. Everyone is welcome and registration begins now. Phone the Public Health Unit at 886-2228 and ask for Jo-Anne.

Grant for airport

A $100,000 assistance grant for the Sechelt-Gibsons Airport provided under the Ministry of Transport's Community Airport Assistance Program was announced today by Jack Pearsall, M.P. for Coast Chilcotin, on behalf of Transport Minister Jean Marchand.

The grant will contribute to the costs of paving a 2,400 foot long, 75 foot wide runway, a 150 foot by 150 foot parking apron and a 200 foot long, 30 foot wide taxiway.

The MOT issued a special report several weeks ago with recommendations that the airport be paved. Estimated cost, according to the report was $181,000.

The report also stated the cost would be offset by savings to local residents. Damage to aircraft would be minimal thus saving money for commercial and chartered airlines and passengers fares.

Let the press decide

The committee on government — the group of local political officials who are to decide what type of government is best for the Sunshine Coast — is being generous.

The committee recently decided the press would be invited to future meetings but only for background information. The meetings are not to be publicized unless sufficient progress is being made to make it of interest to the public.

We are not quite in agreement with that decision.

First of all, placing a reporter in the midst of a meeting or any event and asking him not to report on it is like putting a package of cigarettes in front of a chain smoker and asking him not to smoke.

By his very nature, and the nature of his job, a reporter's prime instinct is to get that story. Granted, journalism must be tempered with a certain amount of responsibility but that responsibility becomes a factor only when dealing with ethics, good taste, and possible libel situations.

What we are dealing with in this case is the journalist's responsibility to keep his readers informed. It is not up to a group of politicians to decide what may or may not be news.

Secondly, the whole thing smacks of the closed door syndrome. We are not making innuendos about dubious tactics. But the political future of the Sunshine Coast is in the hands of these dozen or so people, so let residents know what decisions are being made and how those decisions are being made.

When Gibsons made its bombshell announcement last January, many of those who voiced objections were not so much against the expansion in principle as they were against the fait accompli overtones of the whole thing.

To the committee on government we say, open up the meetings. Let the press decide whether or not they are worth covering. And let the press decide what is worth reporting and what is not worth reporting.

Must we inspect the goods?

In a press release issued recently by the B.C. Department of Consumer Services, Minister Phyllis Young announced an amendment to the Trade Practices Act.

The amendment, in effect, will hold the media legally responsible for an advertisement that may be misleading or deceptive.

"With this amendment," the minister stated, "news-papers and broadcasters, as well as advertisers, would have a responsibility to ensure that advertising copy is not misleading or deceptive. After all, an ad is just a piece of paper or a strip of film until the media broadcast or publish it to the public."

Well thanks a lot. If Joe's Dry Goods advertises a sale in this paper on underwear — 37 percent cotton and 63 percent wool — do we have to go down to inspect the underwear before we can publish the ad?

A lady and her husband from Chicago, touring in India, were staring at the Taj Mahal. "I think it's amazing," she said, what they were able to accomplish before there was any such thing as foreign aid."

Explaining the arrest

Part three of a four part series written by Nisson Goldham deals with arrest. The series, explaining citizens' legal rights and limitations, first appeared in Process, a Justice Development publication.

ARREST

In Canada there are two kinds of criminal offences — indictable and summary. The indictable offence is the more serious — the summary offence the less serious in terms of the consequences following a conviction.

Arrest Without a Warrant (Indictable)

A policeman may arrest a person without the use of a warrant where:

1. he finds the person committing a criminal offence, whether it be summary or indictable;

2. he has reasonable and probable grounds to believe that an indictable offence has been or is about to be committed.

All other arrests must be authorized by warrant.

If you are arrested by warrant you have a right to see the warrant but you must ask that it be shown to you. A policeman has no duty to show you the warrant unless you request him to do so.

In any case, if you are arrested, the person making the arrest has a duty to give the reasons for the arrest unless the reasons are reasonably obvious. For example, where the arrest occurs during the commission of a criminal offence.

Failure to inform the arrested person of the reasons for the arrest may expose the arresting person to an action for "damages for false imprisonment." But once again, it is important for you to keep calm and insist upon your rights.

Arrest Without a Warrant (Summary)

In some indictable offences such as theft under $50.00 or driving while under suspension, and in all summary offences, the police constable normally gives you an Appearance Notice or a Summons. However, if the police constable determines that it is "in the public interest," he may choose to arrest you. The words "public interest" are usually defined as a need to establish who you are, preserve evidence of the supposed offence and prevent a repetition of the offence. After you have been told that you are going to be charged by a police constable and presuming that you would rather be summoned than arrested and jailed, it would be prudent to give out some grounds that would convince the police officer that you have an interest in staying in the community and that you have every intention of appearing in Court to answer the charges.

Once you are arrested you may be searched. The police officer has both the right and the duty to do this.

You may wish to cooperate by giving your name but there is no requirement that you offer further information. If you wish to be released without having to wait for bail application, you should again give out information that will confirm for the Chief Duty Officer that you are a responsible citizen desirous of returning for your trial.

It is only after being arrested that you need accompany the police constable anywhere. If you have been arrested, you will probably be required to accompany the police constable to the police station. You have the right to refrain from answering any questions and to insist that you be given legal advice. Answer only questions designed to show you will return for your trial.

Next week: Bail.

Regulations to be enforced

Sprinkling regulations in the village of Gibsons are not being obeyed and Ald. Kurt Hoehne, chairman of the water committee, is not very happy about it.

Hoehne told council last Wednesday that residents not observing the regulations as circulated in the press will be disconnected from the water service and obligated to pay a connection fee to be hooked up again.

The water committee chairman said some residents were sprinkling on days when they shouldn't have been, some were using two or three hoses on one outlet, and others were using continuous soaking hoses.

The result of this, Hoehne said was that there was very little water pressure at the senior citizens home and upper Gibsons residences.

"We will enforce those regulations very strongly and we will make control checks throughout the summer," Hoehne stated.

The regulations, as publicized several weeks ago, state that even numbered premises may sprinkle only on even numbered calendar days and odd numbered premises may sprinkle only on odd numbered calendar days.

Hours of sprinkling are from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. only and all sprinklers must be turned off if the fire siren is sounded.

In other water committee news Ald. Hoehne told council a new pump station containing two ten horsepower pumps will increase the water pressure considerably in the Gibsons, Heights area.

The exact site of the new station has not yet been determined. The pumps, one for regular use and one for standby and fires, are capable of 120 gallons per minute at 65 pounds pressure.

Building still down

The Regional District Building Inspector's report for the month of May indicates that even building permits have been caught by inflation.

F. A. Reyburn reports that general building is down in May compared to the same month last year but total fees have gone up. The number of building permits issued in May of this year is 28. Last year in May 31 permits were issued.

The total number of permits issued, including permits for plumbing, accessory and alterations, is 75 for May of this year. Last year for the same month the total was 85.

Total fees this year are $4,429 compared to last year's $2,923.

Now she has a different role. Beached on the shore of Kootenay Lake in Kaslo, she's a museum ship that shows the way of life of the Kootenay pioneers. Mannequins stand jauntily within her bows, showing what it was once like to run in a sternwheeler steamer. Her hull is filled now not with freight but with pioneer life exhibits. The S. S. One health inspector

The Sunshine Coast will be getting one health inspector to replace former inspector Mike Wilson but not two as local authorities asked for.

Reporting on a Union Board of Health meeting, Ald. Jim Metzler told Gibsons council last Wednesday the health department is arranging to replace Mike Wilson, who reportedly quit because of overwork, but "there's no chance of getting two."

Two health inspectors working out of the Coast Garibaldi Health Unit have quit recently because the work load was too great for one person.

In the meantime, the two villages, the Regional Board and other groups have asked public health authorities to appoint two inspectors because of the growth of this area.

At present, inspectors from Powell River and Squamish are looking after health matters on the Sunshine Coast.

Local man nets 14 days

A Gibsons man was sentenced to 14 days in jail after pleading guilty to driving with a blood-alcohol level over .08%.

James Glen Maerz was given the jail sentence by Judge Ian Walker Thursday because the accused "showed a total disrespect."

Court was told Maerz was convicted May 15 of this year for refusing to take the breathalyzer test. He was fined $500 for that offense.

Judge Walker asked the accused if he hadn't learned anything since the last conviction and said, "I regard this with the utmost seriousness."

Crown prosecutor Hugh McCallum told the court Maerz was charged June 17 after Gibsons RCMP noticed the vehicle driven by the accused swerving on Martin Road. A subsequent breathalyzer test indicated a reading of .29.

After receiving the jail sentence Maerz disputed the Judge's decision claiming that this offense was his first because "I wasn't impaired the last time — that's why I didn't blow the breathalyzer."

Judge Walker said he didn't agree. Along with 14 days in jail, Maerz will also be prohibited from driving for six months.

In other court news Dorothy L. Krentz was fined $350 and prohibited from driving for two months after pleading guilty to driving with a blood-alcohol content over .08%.

Krentz was the cause of a two car accident on Highway 101 and Hall Road June 15, court was told.

Kenneth L. Phare, 19, was fined a total of $275 after pleading guilty to driving without insurance and without a driver's license. Phare was involved in an accident on Lower Road June 13 resulting in serious injuries to a passenger in the vehicle driven by Phare.

Rodger G. Northrup was fined $300 for impaired driving and $200 for refusing to take the breathalyzer. He was involved in an accident June 7 near Sechelt.

Northrup was also prohibited from driving for one year.

THEY SAY THAT 'SERVICE' IS AN OLD FASHIONED CONCEPT...

MAJESTIC VIEW LOT 3426
You will have to visit this lot to fully realize the beauty and splendor of the ocean and nearby islands with a background of snow capped mountains, and at night the moonlight shimmering on the sea, while nearby the twinkling lights of the peaceful village of Gibsons add a touch of serenity to the night time scene. Make an offer and talk it over with Jim, he is a pleasant chap.
JIM WOOD, 885-2571 eves.

Guess that makes us old fashioned. We think service makes plain sense — it's just good manners. Our concept of service goes much further than that, though.

DEADLINE TUESDAY NOON

Of shoes and ships and sealing wax

By ROB DYKSTRA

It's all over between us. I had a feeling the end was going to come some time but I was hoping you could hold out a little while longer. We had one more hill to climb, so to speak, but you failed me. You couldn't make it to the top. And the clincher came when you blew the smoke in my face.

You must admit though, we did have a good time together. I could stand hard and firm right now but sentiment always gets the better of me. Remember the time you got stuck in that five foot snow drift at the Quebec Winter Carnival? I didn't think I could ever pull you out — I thought I'd have to leave you there. But we made it didn't we? And remember the year we drove south to Key West. We drove under blue skies and palm trees and then I left you outside in front of Papa Joe's because I just had to go in and have a drink at the same table as Ernest Hemmingway wrote For Whom the Bell Tolls. I knew you understood the romantic in me.

Ah yes, and the summer we drove over the Rockies. Heading west from Toronto with all our belongings. Oh I knew you hated the climb to Sunday Summit — it was so hot — but you sure did like going downhill. And I did tell you that you would like the west coast didn't I? You, a confirmed Easterner slipping and sliding around on all that snow and ice. The first mild winter here you purred like a kitten, remember?

Well the memories are great. You did have your faults too, you know. I admit sometimes I drove you a bit hard — all the places I wanted to go and all the things I wanted to see. But that's what you get with a restless person.

The one thing I didn't like about you is that you were too noisy. You always felt you could make up for your small size by being loud and trying to attract attention. You attracted attention all right. You can't forget the night you were making all that racket on the highway and the RCMP came along with a ticket for making too much noise. You can't tell me you're proud of that.

And besides being noisy you really were not all that hot looking either. Yes I admit I did fall in love with you on that parking lot on Blue Street. But I liked you because you seemed so practical. And being a poor student at the time, you were good on the pocket book. I couldn't afford anything expensive.

So I suppose I'll have to look around for something else. There's no use moping around. There's a certain model I have my eye on now — a real beauty. But I know she's going to be expensive and I know in my heart she'll never replace you, Vee Doubleyou.

Chamber protests gas surtax

The following is a copy of a letter addressed to John Turner federal minister of finance:

Dear Sir: We are writing to formally protest the recent application of a surtax on gasoline.

We note with interest your comments that this tax was brought into effect in order to conserve our oil supply, and that this surtax would, in effect, force individuals to use more public transportation.

We wish to draw your attention to our particular area and its inherent characteristics, which, by their very existence, cause the surtax to heavily place an unfair burden on the residents.

Firstly, the Sunshine Coast is located on a Peninsula and can only be reached by ferry. This, in itself, has caused our gas prices to be the second highest in British Columbia, next to the Queen Charlotte Islands. Before the surtax came into effect, we were paying 74c for regular gasoline.

Secondly, the average income on the Sunshine Coast is approximately $5,000 to $7,000 with a very high welfare role and unemployment rate.

Lastly, public transportation is virtually nil and travelling distance to and from work is very high. It is an absolute necessity that private vehicles be used for transportation purposes.

Volume is also lower in areas such as ours, which results in higher gasoline prices. It would appear that individual areas have not been taken into consideration when this surtax was being prepared.

We would request that areas such as ours be given the same tax concessions as commercial users of gasoline in order to avoid the extreme hardship that is being placed upon the ordinary individual.

Further, we have failed to note the price after the 10c surtax and before the further 5c tax. It is presently 84c for regular gasoline and 88c for supreme.

We trust we shall hear from you in the very near future.

—Sechart and District
Chamber of Commerce
F. Jorgensen President

Editor: With reference to your report on a recent School Board meeting — maybe I am naive but I thought schools were intended for the benefit of our children, rather than to accommodate vending-machine operators?

Does the School Board really consider the so-called "needs" of the business community more important than good nutrition for young people?

—MARYANNE WEST
Gower Point Road.

Editor: I would like to take this opportunity to reply to your two front page editorial comments regarding the drainage ditch in front of the Elphinstone School.

First, I should tell you that I have been working in co-operation with the present Municipal Council of Gibsons on this matter since the fall of 1972. It is my understanding that those ditches have been there since 1937 and I am not aware that the former MLAs for this riding, or Municipal Councils for the village of Gibsons made any meaningful effort to correct the deplorable condition of those ditches.

To put this matter into the proper perspective, you should be aware that about one year ago, after a series of meetings arranged by myself between the Village Council and the Department of Highways, agreement had been reached on the proper culverting, and the eventual installation of sidewalks in that area. However, work was not proceeded with at that time, at the request of the Village Council, because the council felt that they would have severe drainage problems with the proposed plan on properties back of the present shopping centre on Park Road.

It therefore became necessary for the Department of Highways to revise their plans, and this process is now in the final stages.

I would like to assure the people in the community of Gibsons that every effort is being made by myself and the Department of Highways to co-operate, and expedite this matter on behalf of the people of Gibsons. I have certainly appreciated the representations that have been made to me by the numerous persons in the community and they have certainly helped me in my working with the Minister.

I hope this letter will assist you in clarifying the situation.

—DON LOCKSTEAD MLA.

Editor: Having read the Coast News for approximately 30 years I cannot help dropping you a few lines to let you that I cannot recall reading anything that gave me more satisfaction than the article written by Lester Peterson in your June 25 issue.

It's unfortunate that Les himself was in the hospital thus being unable to attend the graduation ceremonies. Here's hoping that he has left the hospital in good shape.

I need hardly remind you residents of Gibsons about the countless things that he has done over the years to improve the village status. Here's hoping the grads will benefit from hearing Les's words read to them.

COURSE AND TIME WILL BE IN THE PAPER SOON

How much money can you afford to make?

That's a question everyone who works should think about, including people in the pulp and paper industry.

What you earn is important. Your wages are one measurement of how well you're doing in this world. And the fact is, pulp and paper workers are doing very well indeed.

Pulp and paper workers earn more than most Canadians. The chart below gives you some comparative figures. Now, remember, they're averages. They don't pertain to any one particular job, mill or area. But they do reflect how well Canadian pulp and paper workers are doing. And they may even surprise you.

Average Hourly Earnings	October 1969	October 1974	Increase
Pulp and Paper Mills	$3.66	$6.07	$2.41
All Canadian Manufacturing	$2.84	$4.65	$1.81

Source: Statistics Canada

Pulp and paper workers are ahead of the inflation rate. Between April 1970 and April 1975, the Consumer Price Index in Canada rose 39%. In that same period, the average hourly earnings of people who work in pulp and paper went up some 71%. In other words, definitely ahead of the inflation rate, including the particularly high rate of the last two years.

Nobody is suggesting that pulp and paper workers stop trying to improve their position. We're suggesting that requests be reasonable and fair. For instance, recent wage settlements in the U.S. pulp and paper industry amount to approximately a 10% annual increase in each of the next 3 years. If the trend in Canadian settlements since 1969 continues, our hourly labour rates will be some 30% higher by 1977 than those of our biggest competitor—the U.S.A. Add that to the generally higher costs of Canadian wood, transportation, machinery, materials and taxation, and it's clear: we could lose our ability to compete, both in the export and domestic markets.

A healthy industry must be competitive. And such an enormous disparity in labour costs is totally unhealthy. For an industry, and for an individual. If an industry cannot compete, it loses sales both at home and abroad to foreign competitors. And people lose jobs. That's not a threat—it's a fact of life.

Canadians make good pulp and paper. We've got an enviable combination of traditional skill and modern technology. We have an important natural resource: our forests. We make good products, and we can supply a growing world demand for them. We have a pulp and paper industry with great potential, but only if it can match the toughest competition in the world.

The Pulp and Paper Industry of Canada.

Pearsall reviews the year

By JACK PEARSALL

In a matter of days the 30th session of Parliament will adjourn for a summer recess. This does not mean that your M.P. drops out of sight and everything shuts down until Parliament reconvenes in September.

My office in Ottawa operates on a year-round basis. Joan and Anna will be on duty throughout the summer to answer your requests and assist in taking care of your problems. The constituency offices will also be available for any local issues that may arise during the summer months.

For myself, I will be touring the riding during the recess. I do plan on a few short breaks to be with my family and enjoy a brief vacation with them.

I intend visiting the smaller and more remote areas as I did last summer. As soon as I know my itinerary I will try and let each district know when to expect me.

It has been an interesting and very challenging year for me since my election last July. It is said that a "back bench" M.P. requires six months to find his way around the buildings and another two or three to learn the Parliamentary procedures, the do's and don'ts as the senior members put it.

Three controversial subjects still very much on the minds of the public are the death penalty, gun controls and abortion. A large part of my mail from constituents deals with these three subjects and all asking my stand on each. I have answered these questions on many occasions since becoming your M.P. Once again I am on record as follows:

Death Penalty — I am a retentionist and will vote accordingly in the house when the government puts forth a bill for or against the death penalty.

Gun Controls — I am against the proposed gun control measures currently in a private member's bill in the Senate. I would like to see legislation on the books that will deal most severely with any person convicted of using a gun in a criminal act such as in hold-ups. I would want to see these same penalties imposed on those would-be hunters who hunt on the "sound system" and are the cause of some of the hunting casualties that occur every year.

Abortion — I have maintained that this is a very personal matter between a woman and her doctor, or doctors. In all those cases, where in the opinion of the doctors, the woman's health is at stake, an abortion is permitted. In all cases of rape, where the victim has been impregnated an abortion will be performed, on the request of the victim.

A number of other bills of a national nature that have been well aired by the news media are currently before the House and it is to be hoped they will receive passage before the year end. These would include such issues as: bail reform, stiffening of criminal code, increase in the building of more houses, easing of mortgage rates to list a few.

The most recent problem that has arisen for B.C. members is, of course disturbances begun by some of our Native people. Coast Chilcotin is one riding that has been feeling these effects for some time. Many people are blaming the federal government as the cause. Our present government in Victoria has consistently refused to sit down with representatives of our Native people to settle the controversial land issue.

On Tuesday, June 24, after continued criticism by the people of B.C., the provincial government has finally agreed to meet with representatives of the Native people and try to settle the "cut-off land" issue.

I am pleased that a forward step has been taken after months of delay by Premier Barrett and Attorney General Macdonald as to what was to be done. Their insistence that it was a federal government matter has foundered and they must now accept the responsibilities rightfully theirs.

There are, undoubtedly, many more matters individual constituents would want me to comment on. I trust such persons will write me and acquaint me with the matter of concern to them. The budget handed down by the Hon. John Turner on the night of June 23 will probably trigger off a whole new set of questions and opinions by the people of Canada. I am sure I will hear from you.

Have a nice summer! I hope to meet as many of you as possible during my visits throughout the riding. Don't forget my office here in Ottawa is always open. The telephone number is area code 613-992-2027. Call me collect (person to person), Joan or Anna will take it from there.

Roberts Creek wins ball tourney

Roberts Creek won the league tournament by downing Pen Hotel in the final 5-2. The Creek had lost to Pen earlier so had to beat them twice to win and they did it in convincing fashion, bombing Pen 10-2 in the semi-final before beating them again. Gerry Ferris was top pitcher in the tournament, winning all of the Creek games which included a 17-0 no hitter against Legion. Ben Jack of Roberts Creek won the home run title with 6 in 5 games while Dennis Mulligan made it a clean sweep for the Creek going 9 for 17 at the plate to win the batting title.

Bizarre film

A peaceful suburban community, in which the women are slavishly devoted to their men is the setting for a bizarre new motion picture, The Stepford Wives, playing at the Twilight Theatre, Wed. Thurs., Fri. July 8, 9 and 10.

Adapted from Ira Levin's best-selling novel, the Stepford Wives focuses on horror and the strange malaise which afflicts a small town, turning once-vigorous women into automats.

Among the afflicted women of Stepford are Katherine Ross, Paula Prentiss and Nanette Newman. Also starred are Peter Masterson, and Patrick O'Neal as Dale Gribble, suspected mastermind of the town's diabolical affairs.

Author Levin admits that his macabre concoction deals with wish fulfillment at its worst. "Almost every man, at some time, fantasizes a perfect wife," he pointed out. "But what a nightmare if he ever gets her."

Good way to 'chicken out'

What do you do when summer is waiting for you on the patio, when the barbecue equipment is calling you over and when the supplies of chicken are good? The only thing to do is 'chicken out.' But there is a good way to do so.

First line the firebox of your barbecue with aluminum foil and a one-inch layer of gravel. This protects the firebox and makes cleaning easier, provides ventilation for the fire and reflects heat, thus saving fuel. Pile the charcoal pieces or briquettes in the center in a pyramid about 12 inches in diameter and five to six inches high. Light the fire with a fire starter and let it burn 30 to 40 minutes. When the coals are covered with grey ash, you start to barbecue. Do not forget to grease the grill to prevent sticking and to use long-handled tongs rather than a fork for turning the meat, to avoid piercing it.

Chicken can be grill-barbecued or spit-barbecued. It is delicious either way.

How to Grill-Barbecue: Use halves, quarters or small pieces allowing ¾ of a pound per person. Brush liberally with oil and sprinkle with salt, pepper and paprika. Place skin side down on the grill about 3 inches from coals. Brown each side about 3 minutes. Raise grill to about 5 inches from coals. Continue cooking turning the meat often to avoid scorching. Baste lightly with oil after each turning. Brush with a sauce near the end of cooking time. The meat is done when it is fork tender and pulls away easily from the bones. For chicken halves, allow 50 to 55 minutes total cooking time and for quarters or pieces allow 30 to 35 minutes.

How to Spit-Barbecue: When the coals are covered with grey ash, bank them to the rear of the firebox. Place a foil pan or a shaped piece of heavy foil under the spit to catch the drippings. Wash and dry the chicken and save the liver.

Balance the trussed chicken carefully on the spit for even cooking. Center it between the forks on the spit and fasten it securely. Check the balance by rotating the spit back and forth. Rub the bird with oil and sprinkle it with salt, pepper and paprika. Place the spit so that the bird is about 4 inches from the coals and start the motor. Cook until the leg of the bird moves readily when lifted or twisted or until a meat thermometer inserted in the thickest part of the thigh registers 185°F. As the bird begins to brown, baste it occasionally with the drippings but do not brush it with a sauce until it is almost cooked. A 3-pound chicken will take about 2½ hours.

Save and freeze the liver from the chickens you cook — they too can add to your barbecuing enjoyment. From Food Advisory Services, Agriculture Canada comes this recipe for Barbecued Chicken Liver Kabobs. Even kids will love them.

BARBECUED CHICKEN LIVER KABOBS

For each serving (1 skewer):
2 chicken livers, halved.
4 slices bacon
1 tomato, quartered
4 mushroom caps
4 1½-inch chunks green pepper
4 small onions
¼ cup oil
Salt and pepper
Wrap each liver half in one slice bacon. Dip vegetables in oil. Drain and season with salt and pepper. Thread vegetables alternately with liver on skewer leaving a few inches at each end for handling during cooking. Cook on grill about 4 inches from coals for 15 to 20 minutes, turning often.

Bonniebrook: quiet elegance by the sea

BONNIEBROOK LODGE is once again ready to receive guests.

Some ten or so years ago a visitor could come to Gibsons and spend a week or two in quiet elegance by the sea. The visitor would be accommodated in a stately old lodge and treated in that special way — the "guest" whose eccentricities were at all times to be looked after.

The old English gentleman, perhaps, would come down to breakfast and once again tell the others at the table about his Empire days in India. And the elderly widow from Connecticut, well, she knew he talked a lot but there was a certain charm to the man. Yes, she told herself, she would go for a walk with him on the esplanade, if he asked her. What does it matter what the others thought.

If you feel yourself falling into the spell of a Henry James novel with the ever-present introspective character and the atmosphere of British upper-class affectation, then you're just about to get the gist of the lodge at Bonniebrook.

As far as buildings in the Gibsons area go, the Bonniebrook Lodge probably comes closest to representing one of those venerable old buildings where one can stand alone in the thickly carpeted natural wood living area and be seized by visions of yet another time and place.

It was meant to be just so. Ran Vernon, who along with his wife Ev, owns and operates the Bonniebrook Camp and Trailer Park has attempted to modernize Bonniebrook Lodge while still retaining the old atmosphere.

The value of wisdom teeth

Wisdom teeth like tonsils, were once thought to be of little use and were taken out without concern.

However, doctors have rethought the tonsils situation and dentists have taken a closer look at the value of wisdom teeth since the old "yank-em-out" days. These third molars act as bookends to keep the damage or twist their neighbors out of position.

Neanderthal man had the same number of teeth we do, but he had larger jaws to accommodate them. Sometimes, the wisdom teeth don't have enough room to grow in properly and break through at a 45-degree angle, pointing directly at the second molars. Unless countered, the eruptive force of the wisdom teeth can damage or twist their neighbors out of position.

Other times partial eruption causes pain and swelling of surrounding gums, which is generally treated before extraction. Your dentist may refer you to an oral surgeon if the condition is bad. Extraction can cost $25 to $100 depending on how far the tooth is impacted into supporting bone.

Rarely, complications mean hospitalization. With today's equipment a dentist can usually remove a wisdom tooth in less than 30 minutes — barring complications. You may go through a day of pain after extraction and a week or two of mild discomfort.

For information regarding Church or Hall please contact Mr. Alec Gilmore at 885-9667, or Mrs. H. McCormachie, 885-2344 in Davis Bay, or Mrs. J. Hume at 886-2643 or Mrs. L. Hume at 886-2951 in Gibsons.

Rec centre under way

MEMBERS OF the Gibsons OAPO ready their shovels and hoes as the first cement is poured for the foundation of a new senior citizens activity center.

When the 3,000 square feet aluminum building is finished it will contain a hall, kitchen facilities a library and other recreational facilities for the seniors.

The structure is being built on 3.7 acres of land donated by village council between Burns and Cochrane Roads. Most of the financing for the $28,000 building has been obtained through grants from New Horizons and the Department of Human Resources.

All the work on the project, scheduled for completion in September, is being done voluntarily by OAPO members including the "lady carpenter" Adelle Warner.

OAPO President Jim Holt said a lot of thanks goes to MLA Don Lockstead who was instrumental in obtaining financing for the project.

BONNIEBOOK LODGE

BONNIEBROOK CAMP AND TRAILER PARK

EV and RAN VERNON

TOM GALLANT, a New Brunswick-born singer-composer and recording artist, hosts a new eight-program country music series on CBC-TV this summer, down home country, Friday nights at 9 starting July 11.

The Vernons have been working on the Lodge for about five years. At first, the decision was whether or not to tear down the 40 year old lodge and replace it with a new structure, but the lodge still stands, more in veneration now, than ever before.

And although Ran Vernon talks about the economic feasibility of retaining the old structure rather than build an entirely new one, one still tends to feel the owner's decision was influenced more by the spirits of antiquity than by financial rationale.

Now to say that Bonniebrook Lodge will attract the eclectic mixture of Jamesian characters is somewhat remote. But the rootbeer and hamburger crowd you will not find. For along with numerous renovations, the lodge has a new manager who wants to provide her clientele with a holiday by the sea that's really quite different.

Connie Achterberg, with occasional assistance from her husband William, will be the matron de la maison and indications are that Mrs. Achterberg will be trying nothing less than to make her guests feel lavishly "at home."

Featured at the lodge will be European bed and breakfast accommodation. If you would like to be there for lunch and dinner, that will also be available.

In fact, the dining room will be open to guests and non-guests and with a dining room license pending, a carafe of Beaujolais would probably go quite nicely with your food and view of Georgia Strait.
