Long distance tolls to be eliminated between Sechelt-PH

Telephone long distance tolls are to be eliminated between Sechelt and Pender Harbour but not between Gibsons and Pender Harbour.

Results of balloting conducted by B.C. Tel last month indicate that subscribers voted 59.96 percent in favor of eliminating the long distance tolls. The proposal to eliminate the tolls between Gibsons-Port Mellon and Pender Harbour was rejected by 60.19 percent.

The results of the balloting were announced by Brian Bagley, District Manager for the B.C. Telephone Company, following a count of ballots by representatives of B.C. Tel and the Sunshine Coast Regional District.

Implementation of the toll-free calling between Sechelt and Pender Harbour is expected to be in operation by the autumn of 1977. Monthly telephone charges will increase for both private and business subscribers. It is expected the rate for a private single-party subscriber will increase 35 cents per month.

Bagley explained that implementation of the new calling plan would require engineering, ordering and installation of additional cables and transmission equipment.

He said the company's next step following the referendum is an application to Canada Transport Commission for authorization to put the proposed toll-free calling plan into operation.

The Regional board earlier encouraged the elimination of the long distance tolls between Pender Harbour and the rest of the Sunshine Coast because it was felt the present system caused social fragmentation.

Arson suspected in residence fire

Sechelt RCMP are searching for suspects who may have set fire to the Sechelt Indian Band Residential school last Thursday morning.

The fire, spotted by RCMP Cst. Wayne Dingle, at 3:40 a.m. completely gutted the third floor of the three storey residence and caused extensive smoke and water damage to the rest of the building.

Much of the furniture and other contents inside the building was also destroyed. No official estimate of the loss is available.

The residence, which closed its doors to students last June, was under the control and administration of the federal Department of Indian Affairs and was to be turned over to the Sechelt Band next month. It was not insured.

Investigations by two members of the Sechelt RCMP detachment and the fire marshall have turned up an empty gas can. Unofficial reports from members of both Sechelt and Roberts Creek fire departments indicate that gasoline or coal oil fumes were present during the fire.

One of the investigating officers said the fire started in one of the small dormitories on the west side of the third floor.

Indian Band councillor Gilbert Joe said the building was slated for demolition as soon as the transfer papers were signed. Contents inside the residence were to be auctioned off on October 20. The contents included such things as beds, books, a television set and pool table.

The residence was built in 1923 and has accommodated both students from the Sechelt area and from isolated villages

Police are continuing their investigations.

CHARRED BED-FRAMES are the only remains in this third-floor dormitory of the Sechelt Indian residence which was gutted by fire last week. Officials believe arson to be the cause of the fire.

Crucil Rd. development halted

The proposed commercial development for Highway 101 and Crucil Road has been given thumbs down by Gibsons council.

Application for rezoning from residential to commercial was made earlier by Impax Development. The complex was to contain ten apartments, a licensed restaurant, a furniture or carpet showroom, and professional offices.

Brian Johnson and Walter Froese, representing Impax, explained the development proposal to council and concerned residents last week. A delegation of Crucil Road residents made it clear to council they did not want the area rezoned commercial.

Contacted for comment after council's decision, Froese said he will appeal to the board of variance. He said if the decision to reject the rezoning application stays firm he will proceed with a six unit housing development.

The housing development, shown to council and residents last week as an alternative to the proposed commercial complex consists of six two-storey boxlike units.

Froese said the housing development would effectively block the view of existing Crucil Road residents and that property values may go down by $10,000 to $15,000.

Mayor Labonte progressing

Gibsons Mayor Larry Labonte is reported to be in satisfactory condition in St. Mary's Hospital after suffering a heart attack last Wednesday.

The Mayor was taken out of intensive care Tuesday and is reported to be progressing well. It is not known how long he will remain in hospital.

A number of residents of Gibsons and the Sunshine Coast have wished the Mayor a speedy recovery. (See page 12).

'Board should not accept responsibility'

It appears that the school bus crisis may be over but both the board and Sechelt School Bus Service are reluctant to accept responsibility for injuries to students when the bus contains more than 37 students.

In a letter to the board, George Hopkins, President of Sechelt School Bus Services said he would be willing to abide by school board policy as long as it does not allow more students per bus than the bus rated capacity and as long as the policy did not contravene the Motor Vehicle Act.

The manufacturer's rated capacity of the bus is 55 passengers and the motor vehicle act states passengers shall be safely and comfortably seated allowing 15 inches for high school students and 12 inches for elementary students. School bus seats are 39 inches across.

Hopkins said in the letter that if any student injuries result from the set policy the school board will be responsible.

However, in advice from Darryl Muralt of the Department of Education the board was told it should not accept responsibility in case of injury to students.

Said Muralt in a memo to the board: "As a licensed motor carrier Sechelt School Bus Service under the law must accept full responsibility for all passengers carried and under no circumstances should the board agree to his [Hopkins'] suggestion that it accept the responsibility for injury to students caused by carrying passengers over the limit of 37."

Reacting to this statement, George Hopkins indicated he would not be willing to accept the responsibility.

"If it is my responsibility then I should have some say over the policy," Hopkins said.

Candidates gear up for November 15 elections

Two incumbents have decided to run for the Sechelt District School Board elections this fall. Jack Macleod and Joe Horvath have indicated they will run again this year after the expiration of the two year school trustee term. Both represent rural area 'B' which is the area from Sechelt south to Langdale and Bowen Island.

Agnes Labonte, representing the village of Gibsons, will not run for the school board position this year.

Celia Fisher, also representing Area 'B' has not decided whether she will run again or not.

The trustees are elected for two year overlapping terms thus insuring some experienced persons are on the seven-person board. Any person may run for election as long as they meet the requirements set down by the B.C. Public Schools Act.

B.C. School Trustees Association President Mike Berg said in a recent press release that too many trustees have been elected by acclamation in the past. The BCSTA is launching a province-wide information campaign to encourage more citizens to run for school trustee this fall. Last year more than 65 trustees throughout B.C. were elected by acclamation.

November 15 will also see elections for other public bodies on the Sunshine Coast.

For Gibsons village council, Alderman Stuart Metcalfe, Jim Metzler and Mayor Larry Labonte have indicated they will seek election again this year.

In Sechelt, Alderman Norm Watson and Mayor Harold Nelson will be seeking another two year term. Aderman Ernie Booth, whose term also expires this fall has not yet made a decision whether or not he will run again.

In the Sunshine Coast Regional Board, Chairman Frank West, representing area 'E' has indicated he will run for re-election. Director Tim Frizzell representing area 'C' will not run this year. A newcomer to the board, John R. Whitaker of Davis Bay, has filed nomination papers for area 'C'. James Causey, director for area 'A', Pender Harbour, will also seek re-election.

All nominations close Monday, October 27. Election day is November 15.

Your chance to get involved

You want to be involved in local school affairs, here's your chance.

School board elections will be held November 15. Four trustee positions will be open. The last year in this school district has seen some breakthroughs in public participation. You had input on the decision of hiring a new district superintendent. You had input on the choice of locations for the new Sechelt Junior Secondary. Good for you.

Now you have a chance for even more direct input. Things are happening in the schools right now. Education philosophies are changing, teachers are expressing opinions on schools and curricula. Parents are becoming more interested in what their children are being taught.

When election time rolls around let's not have trustees elected by acclamation. Let's not have trustees appointed. It's happened here before and it's a strong sign of public apathy. Furthermore, an appointed trustee is a trustee without a public mandate. If you don't care about the education of your children, why should anyone else.

Many major educational decisions are now made at the local board level. The position of school trustee therefore carries a lot of weight. It also involves a lot of work. If you care about your child's education, if you have some strong ideas about what education is all about, here's your chance for input at the most direct level.

Mill resumes production

After a three-month shutdown caused by striking members of the Canadian Paperworkers Union Local 1119, the Canadian Forest Products operation at Port Mellon will resume full-scale production this week.

Picket lines at mill gates were withdrawn Friday night after members of the Port Mellon local voted to abide by the provincial government's back-to-work legislation announced last Tuesday afternoon.

Mill Manager Bill Hughes said the start-up procedure would be slow but maintenance and electrical workers have been busy since last week preparing the mill for operations. He said that by Friday of this week operations would be pretty well back to normal.

Preparations for resuming work were already being made within 48 hours after Bill 146 was passed but there was no indication that striking workers would be back to work until

Not the end of the world

Officials of British Columbia's labor unions, rushing into a situation made by Premier Barrett's Bill 146 felt that history in this case was meaningless. They overlooked the past on the North American continent when striking workers were forced to return to work during a 90 day breathing spell — and the world did not come to an end.

In fact records will show in practically every case where the 90 day action was imposed, the 90 day period passed and the need for strike action passed along with it.

Workers gain more than they lose under the 90 day cooling off period. To buck the laws of the land will not help any union movement.

Premier Barrett has earned the respect of the British Columbian public. The situation warranted his action. It should have been used by Prime Minister Trudeau months ago in the various postal strikes. The Barrett action is much more kindly to labor than is the hands-off principle which has ruled political leaders for the past few years.

Premier Barrett while improving his "face the nation" status has undoubtedly cleared the air of many minor backlashes which have been regarded by the opposition as political dynamite. In past editorials this paper has maintained that Premier Barrett holds all the political aces. He played one of them in Bill 146.

If the Barrett government had continued its earlier decision to keep hands off labor affairs, nobody would have gained and labor might come off in a far worse position than it is today. After having dealt with leaders of the industries involved and leaders of the various unions for a somewhat lengthy space of time the premier decided the only way out was the action he took in presenting Bill 146.

This bill was not hammered out in a few minutes. The thoughts put into it emerged as the debate involving the two sides dragged on day after day with no result.

In a recent copy of the New Statesman of London, England, Paul Johnson, a former editor of that publication wrote an article headed Can Unions Strangle Democracy? The New Statesman is socialist oriented. Here are the two lead paragraphs from that article:

People often assume that rade unionism and socialism are roughly the same thing; that a trade unionist is a socialist, and vice versa; and that trade union and socialist activities are designed to secure the same objects. I would like to show that these assumptions have always been dubious and are now demonstrably and flagrantly false. Indeed it is possible to argue that in Britain today, the trade union movement is not only self-defeating in terms of its own aims but is a positive and growing obstacle to the accomplishment of socialist ones.

"Socialism teaches that the wealth of a society should be administered in the interest of all; that every one of us, men, women and children have an equal duty to it—to do our best—and an equal right to share in its fruits. Socialism is not a program for the industrial workers or the manual workers or any particular group of workers. It is not a program for the working class. It is not a program for any class. Socialism does not believe in classes. It is against particularism, group or sectional interest, and above all it is against sectional interests which organize themselves to exploit the rest of the community.

"Socialism expresses the essential unit and common humanity of society—our sisterhood, our brotherhood. That is why it is inseparable from democracy and why, to be true to itself, it must work through a government responsible to a universally elected assembly. That is where all the essential decisions which affect the life of the community must be taken and nowhere else. Any institution in a society which challenges this principle can not be a socialist institution; indeed, it must be an anti-socialist one." —FC.

Highlights of the financial and economic review

The fiscal year of 1974-75 has been an excellent one for the people and the province of British Columbia, according to the former finance minister Dave Barrett.

In issuing a report on the highlights of the 1975 financial and economic review, Barrett said, "Our economy has continued its outstanding performance, which is reflected in the production of another year of Provincial Government revenues exceeding expenditures. I have said that we will not go into deficit financing to pay for our many new social programs such as Mincome and Pharmacare, and I am pleased to report that in 1974-75 we again paid for these new programs and still produced a surplus in revenues."

The following are the highlights:

In the 1974-75 fiscal year, provincial revenue receipts amounted to $2.625 billion. For the preceeding year (fiscal 1973-74) the comparable number was $2.109 billion.

Budgetary expenditure for the year ending March 31, 1975 was $2.531 billion, up from $1.832 billion the year before.

The revenue surplus on budgetary account at March 31, 1975 was $94.6 million.

Non-budgetary expenditure amounted to $108.2 million. Of this, $80.5 million was appropriated for special-purpose funds. Most of this money went to programs with a high employment generation impact.

Of the balance of the 1974-75 non-budgetary expenditure, $26.7 million was accounted for by grants and advances to provincial crown corporations including a $15 million grant to the British Columbia Railway The remaining $1 million of non-budgetary expenditure resulted from an advance of that amount to the Pacific North Coast Native Co-operative.

At March 31, 1975, the accumulated budgetary cash reserve was $143.7 million. At March 31, 1972, the reserve stood at $98.6 million.

Expenditure Highlights

In 1974-75, expenditures on Health and Social Services exceeded $1 billion for the first time. In 1971-72, expenditures in this area amounted to $505.9 million. In 1974-75, the amount had risen to $1.061 billion. Areas within the Health and Social Services function where expenditure more than doubled over the 1971-72 to 1974-75 period were Public Health, Mincome, Pharmacare, Day Care, Child Welfare and Public Housing.

The share of total expenditures devoted to Health and Social Services and Education stayed roughly the same over the period. Almost two-thirds of total provincial expenditure is devoted to these two areas. In 1971-72, Health and Social Services and Education took 63.4 precent of the budget. In 1974-75, the comparable figure was 63.7 percent.

Highways and ferry expenditure stood at $308.9 million in 1974-75 — up from $239.8 million the year before.

Revenue Highlights

The review indicates that a higher proportion of provincial revenue comes from corporations in 1974-75 than was the case in 1971-72. Higher revenues from natural gas and a higher provincial corporate income tax rate were the principal factors lying behind this shift. The share of provincial revenues arising from taxes and charges on households in 1974-75 were correspondingly less compared to 1971-72.

Total assets of the province increased by $265 million during the fiscal year to a total of $3.845 billion at March 31, 1975. Total assets at March 31 1975 were over three times the total at March 31, 1965.

Fixed assets (highways, bridges, buildings, etc.) of the province totalled $1.828 billion at March 31, 1975 — up $140 million from last year.

The province's excess of assets over liabilities increased $137,064,918 in 1974-75 to $2,338,801,646 at March 31, 1975.

The province held a 12.4 percent interest in Westcoast Transmission Company Limited at March 31, 1975 on an investment of $25,456,750. Dividends of $2,024,969 were received by the province during the fiscal year. A further $1,041,412 has been earned this fiscal year.

The outstanding direct debt of the province fell during the 1974-75 fiscal year by $1 million to $42.7 million. This debt is fully offset by sinking fund investments whose par value at March 31, 1975 was $43 million.

The net contingent liability debt of the province at March 31, 1975, was $3.8 billion. This is debt of provincial crown corporations, municipalities, schools and other local governments and private enterprises which is guaranteed by the province. Most (70 percent) of the contingent liability debt is associated with B.C. Hydro.

Parity development bonds outstanding of the crown corporations have been reduced to $141,505,000, a reduction of $112,020,000 since 1972.

The Review describes the provincial crown corporations and provides detailed financial information on British Columbia Hydro and the British Columbia Railway.

The British Columbia Petroleum Corporation, a crown corporation fromed in November 1973, recorded net income for the year ending March 31, 1975 or $92.6 million.

The 1974 gross provincial product (the market value of all goods and services produced in the province) increased by an estimated $2.35 billion to $16.17 billion or 17 percent higher than in 1973.

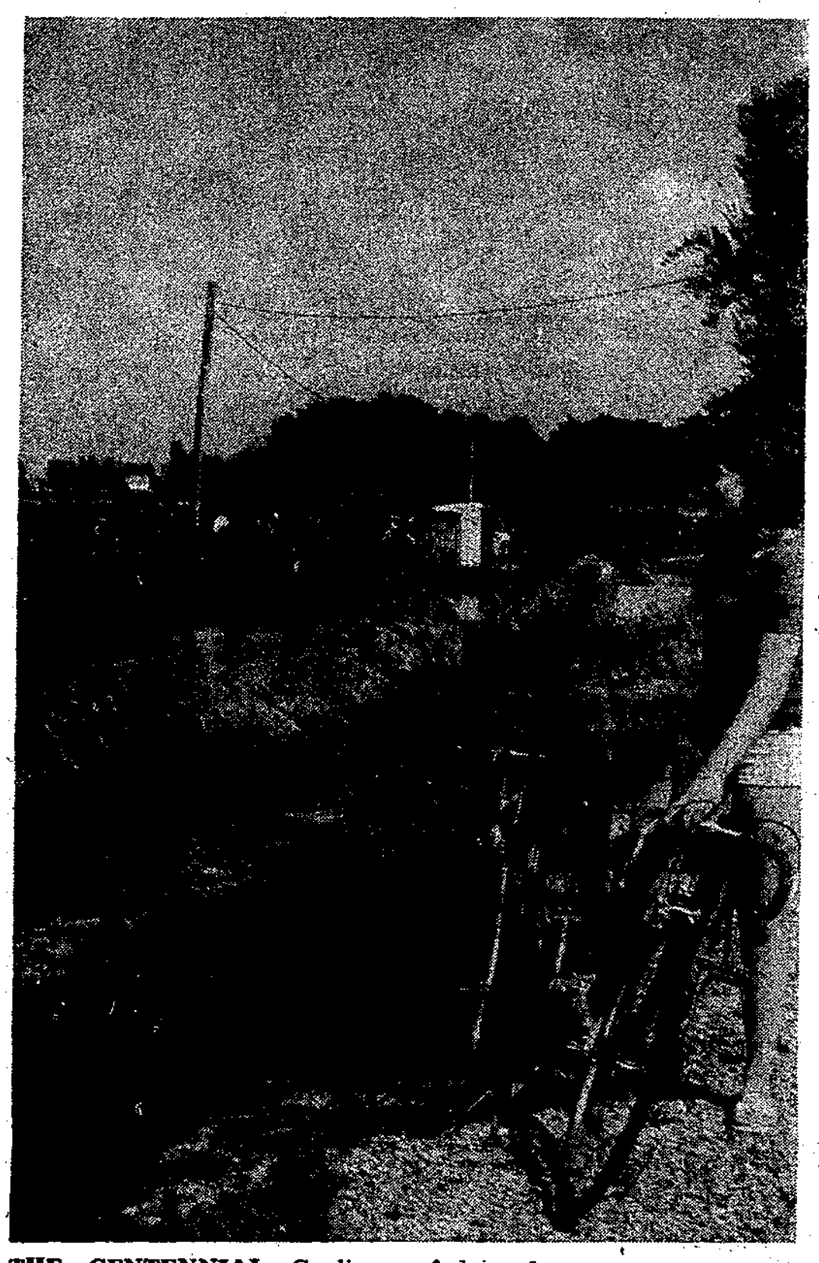
Centennial Trail – 150 miles of history

By DIANE ALDER

The Centennial Trail a 150-mile-long (240 kilometre) path that begins at Burnaby Mountain and ends in Manning Park covers a wide variety of terrain as it meanders through the Fraser Valley. Much of the terrain is suitable only for hikers but there are some sections suitable for cycling, as well as a special Cyclists' Trail in the Matsqui-Abbotsford area.

The trail, a joint project of the Centennial Committee and the Pacific Region of the Canadian Youth Hostels Association in 1966 and 1967, follows as much as possible the original trails of this region.



THE CENTENNIAL Cycling Trail passes through the land of dairy farms. —B.C. Government Photo.

In the early days, the Fraser Valley was home to the Salish Indians, who followed the many waterways for fishing and trading. Later, trappers seeking furs, and miners en route to the Cariboo and Upper Fraser River goldfields carved through the bush and forests to make their way. In this century, the loggers came, and the entire valley is laced with logging roads which stretch up, down and around the stands of timber that cover the coast mountains.

The Centennial Trail began with a combined effort by many groups to survey, clear and mark the various sections of the trail. Eventually, it is planned to continue through Manning Park on the Skyline Trail, through Cathedral Provincial Park and on to Osoyoos some 480 kilometes east of Vancouver

Because the project was undertaken by many groups, maintenance and upkeep is especially difficult, although the CYH hired students in 1972 and again plans to hire help this summer, to recut and remary the original trail. The maple-leaf signposts and red tape markings have slowly disappeared in many sections.

The Centennial Cycling Trail, about a 60-mile (95-kilometre) round trip begins in the Matsqui area at Mount Lehmann. To begin, take the Mount Lehman interchange from Highway 1 and drive north to Harris Road, where both the hiking and cycling trails converge. You can go a little further northwest to the actual starting point, Taylor Avenue and Ross Road.

The best way of finding and following either of the trails is to purchase a map of the Fraser Valley, published by Dominion Maps, and featuring the Centennial Trails marked in red from Vancouver as far east as Chilliwack. The CYH office also has infomation on dav hikes on the trail, and on one two-day backpacking trip.

The cycling trail offers an alternate route soon after its beginning. You may either travel south and through the bustling town of Abbotsford, or stick to meandering backroads through the settlements of Straiton and Kilgard. Along the way the country roads wind up and down, through the valleys and low hills that dot the wide, mainly flat Fraser River Valley. These back roads are narrow, often lined with deep drainage ditches, and seldom straight; they follow the streams and creeks that cut through the lush farmlands.

The colors around you are mostly shades of green, from light to dark, yellow-green to deep blue-green of clover, alfalfa grazing land and the neatly-rowed vegetable farms. In the distance on the north side of the river, as well as to the south and east, are the smoky blues and purples of the mountains, until late summer still snow-capped and dotted with white glaciers.

For nature lovers, the cycling trail provides a variety of wildflowers and grasses, with bullrushes along the swampy ditches. Daisies, foxgloves and buttercups line the roadsides. Barns and silos dot the landscape, multi-colored and of every shape and size, for this is a dairy farming area, and the fields are full of the black and white of healthy milk cows.

The cycling trail parallels the highway for a short distance, on a less used road, then cuts back into the farmlands and ends up in the city of Chilliwack, about 30 miles (50 kilometres) from its beginning. It is easy riding for the entire family, and makes a good day's outing.

If you plan to use bicycles on the hiking trail, check first with the local Chamber of Commerce or Visitors Bureau in that region to get up-to-date information on the condition of that portion of the trail, and to obtain local maps that will show other routes that will make an afternoon or evening cycle trip .

THERE ARE NOW THREE NEW FERRY SCHEDULE FOLDERS

With the expansion of British Columbia Ferry services a single schedule, changed seasonally, has finally become too complicated to be easily understood. Services have therefore been divided into three schedule folders. We hope that you will pick up the ones you need at your nearest ferry terminal or travel information outlet.

Northern Routes (Green) featuring the "Inside Passage" (MV Queen of Prince Rupert), Northern Vancouver Island and a directory of all saltwater services north of Campbell River.

Central Routes (Red) includes Vancouver-Nanaimo, Sunshine Coast Ferries and a listing of other local services.

Southern Routes (Blue) Vancouver-Victoria and the Gulf Islands and a directory of other ferry services in the area.

Preparing pumpkin for your favorite fall desserts

Everyone is an artist when it comes to carving a Jack O" Lantern face for Hallowe'en, and everyone can be creative when it comes to preparing a special pumpkin dessert. But the practical cook knows how to cook fresh pumpkin after it's removed from the Jack O' Lantern and before it's made into pumpkin filling.

This is the way the practical cook prepares fresh pumpkin. To boil pumpkin, remove the seeds and pithy parts and scrape out the flesh from the pumpkin with a spoon. Cut in small pieces and cook in boiling salted water for 20 to 30 minutes or until tender. Then drain and mash if desired. To bake or steam pumpkin, just cut in pieces and remove the seeds. Bake it covered, with a little water at 325 deg. F. until tender (about 50 minutes); or steam it on top of the stove 20 to 30 minutes. When tender drain and scoop out of the rind.

If you have too much cooked pumpkin to use at one time it may be frozen (mashed or seived) by simply cooling it and spooning it into freezer containers. Thaw, then use as canned or freshly cooked pumpkin.

PUMPKIN CAN be used in muffins, cookies, pies, breads, custards and preserves, among many other dishes. But for a rather unusual and delicious dessert Food Advisory Services Agriculture Canada offer their recipe for "Pumpkin Creese-cake." The "Pumpkn Preserves" are more traditional but always welcome.

PUMPKIN CHEESECAKE

1½ cups ginger-snap crumbs
¼ cup melted butter
4 egg yolks
1 pound cream cheese, softened
1 cup sugar
1¼ teaspoons cinnamon
½ teaspoon nutmeg
½ teaspoon ginger
½ teaspoon salt
1¾ cups cooked or 1 14-ounce can pumpkin
4 egg whites
½ pint (1¼ cups) dairy sour cream
¼ cup brown sugar
¼ cup chopped nuts

Combine crumbs and melted butter. Press into 9-inch spring form pan. Bake 10 to 15 minutes at 350 deg. F. Beat egg yolks at high speed until thick and lemon-colored (about 5 minutes). Add cheese and beat until smooth. Gradually beat in sugar mixed with spices and salt. Add pumpkin and beat until well blended. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold gently into pumpkin mixture. Pour over crust. Bake at 350 deg. F. until set (about 1 hour). Combine brown sugar and sour cream. Spread evenly over cheesecake. Sprinkle with nuts. Return to oven and bake 5 minutes at 450 deg. F. Cool. Refrigerate in pan until serving time. 8 to 12 servings.

PUMPKIN PRESERVES

3 lbs. pumpkin cut in ½-inch cubes (about 11 cups)
6½ cups sugar
1 lemon, thinly sliced
½ cup water

Alternate layers of pumpkin and sugar in saucepan and let stand about 30 minutes. Simmer lemon in water until tender (15 to 20 minutes). Cook pumpkin and sugar over low heat until sugar dissolves. Bring to boil and boil rapidly uncovered until fruit is transparent and syrup is thick (20 to 25 minutes.) Add lemon and boil 5 minutes. Pour into sterilized jars and seal. Makes about 8 cups.

Putting the noose on our own neck

Editor: While many Canadians tut tut over the victories of the communists in Chile, Portugal, Spain, Italy or France, they will pooh pooh the idea that it could happen here. Frankly it does not have to when our own politicians are all to eager to implement the wishes of the Canadian Communist Party.

For instance, at the 21st Convention of the Communist Party of Canada held November 27-29, 1971, resolutions formulated and passed included: Government take over and control of land, government take over of all natural resources, gas and oil pipelines, credit unions, insurance companies, transportation and communications.

The Communists in Convention called for rent control, Crown Corporations, free dental care and government control of all pharmaceutical companies. Along with demands for day care centres, a thirty two hour work week and the abolition of compulsory arbitration, they called for maternity leave at full pay for working women.

In patting themselves on the back for work accomplished in promoting "independence" for Quebec, opposition to the War Measures Act and involvement in the "peace" movements, the Party called upon its membership to increase their efforts to get elected to Municipal Councils "in order to implement communist programs."

Obviously we will not have a revolution in Canada — not while we are so intent upon putting the noose around our own neck! Or, like Little Red Riding Hood, we continue to happily feed the wolf about to devour us!

Creating a myth

Editor: Your front page story "MLA charges Socreds — Creating Confrontation" is one of the great myths that NDP party members are trying to perpetuate on the voters of British Columbia.

It's a sad commentary on the quality of our Government when members must spend all their time talking about confrontation and building up the idea that it is Bill Bennett and the Socreds who are responsible for this.

If one checks the record over the past three years, it can be shown that the NDP specialize in attacking individual segments of the community, one at a time, on the theory of divide and conquer. There has been a vendetta against the mining industry, an attack against the forest industry, the Premier has attacked B.C. Mayors and local councils at the UBCM, and the list goes on and on. Unlike Mr. Bennett, who talks about the issues,, the NDP finds very few issues on which it can speak positively, such being the state of the B.C. economy, and B.C. politics.

Even more interesting to note "the big government psychology" of the NDP as revealed by Mr. Lockstead in your article He points to what he thinks is the greatest accomplishment of the government bringing in "two hundred pieces of legislation" since coming to government.

Is this not a classic example of the big government, big stick psychology that has become so much a part of the NDP.

They have shown they can't administrate, all they know is legislate. British Columbians don't want more government, they want less government, and what government they must have should be of a much better quality than the bunch of socialists that are now running this province.

Sunshine Sketches . . .

It seems Gibsons Alderman Bill Laing has passed the final test. At last week's council meeting Ald. Jim Metzler asked Ald. Laing a question concerning the Gibsons-Sechelt airport. Ald. Laing, who is Gibsons representative on the airport committee spoke profoundly on the question for a few minutes. Everyone looked puzzled.

Ald. Metzler then broke out laughing and said to Laing: "You sound too much like a politician."

Speaking of politics, Ald. Kurt Hoehne voiced a bit of disappointment last week. About 30 people had crowded into the council chambers to give opinions on the proposed Crucil Road development. After that topic had been thoroughly discussed the delegation filed out of the chambers leaving only council, the clerk and the members of the press

Ald. Hoehne then proceeded to give his report revealing how well the village has been adhering to this year's budget in spite of inflation and increased labor costs. Those 30 or so village residents missed the best part of the meeting, thought Ald. Hoehne.

That "unidentified' man in the page 12 photograph in the Coast News last week has been identified. The man is Vancouver singer Terry Jacks Jacks had been diving near Gambier Island when he experienced dizziness. A party on board the Jacks boat called the Coast News via radio telephone and asked if we could arrange to have an ambulance on the Gibsons wharf.

It was nothing serious. Apparently the singer had been working too hard in the past few weeks and the only thing he had for breakfast that morning was a rum and egg nog.

Congratulations to John Smith of Hi-Baller Salvage. John won last week's Lions 400 Club draw for $100. Ticket was drawn by Ross Orris in Gibsons Bank of Montreal.

Gibsons RCMP detachment is now officially a sergeant's detachment. October 3 was the big day for Corporal . . . (sorry sarge) Sergeant Harvey Finch who received his promotion on that date.

Sechelt carver Jamie Dixon called last week to say that the photograph of the Indian basket maker which ran on the editorial page of this paper last week was his great grandmother.

Her name was Agnes Charlie and she lived to be 105 years old. Had all her teeth when she died in 1942 said Jamie.

She originally came from Seabird Island near Agassiz and was well known for her baskets in the Sechelt area.

Jamie also said that Captain Jorgenson of the Union Steamship Company was a nephew of Agnes Charlie.

Gibsons resident poet Peter Trower has an article published in the October issue of Vancouver Magazine. The article is called "Over the Edge." It's about Steve Littlejohn's logging truck accident in 1973 on the east side of Alice Lake. Like most other things Peter does, the article is worth reading.

Someone mentioned the other day that barbers are now in the same category as lawyers and doctors. Provincial law says barbers can no longer display their prices. behind that is?

Powell River man joins Socred nomination race

E. W. (Ted) Cooper announced last week that he is seeking the nomination for the Social Credit Party in the Mackenzie Riding. An acting safety co-ordinator for MacMillan Bloedel in Powell River, Cooper joins two candidates from the Sechelt area, Dr. Eric Paetkau and Peter Prescesky.

Cooper, a native Torontonian, said he declared his candidacy after watching the NDP government in action and listening to the ever increasing complaints from every quarter concerning the escalating labor unrest and the uncertainty pervading the business and industrial sectors of the economy.

"The time has come for a new voice to be heard in Victoria, a voice that is familiar both with the problems facing management and the problems facing union members," Cooper said while visiting the Sunshine Coast last week.

"Few may realize that our forest unions are made up of normal intelligent people. They are caught up in an interlocking web of rapidly increasing prices and wages surrounding them at all points, a situation for which both levels of government must bear a large share of the responsibility.

"Ironically for the welfare pundits in Victoria, no one in the NDP seems to realize that true welfare has something to do with the real efficiency of the economy. All the while the NDP is interested in keeping the business sector off balance, a state of true welfare does not and cannot exist."

Asked about the present NDP social policies, Cooper said the NDP has no preserve in looking after unfortunate people. He agreed in this day and age no one should starve and that any government has a responsibility to the unfortunate members of society.

Commenting on the government's recent back-to-work legislation Cooper said, "I think Barrett is a wolf in management's clothing."

"I agree with Barrett's decision — there was no alternative — but it would have been better if he had done it on his own accord."

Cooper said there should be some efforts in this province to achieve better management-labor relations.

Village buys land

The Village of Gibsons has announced the purchase of 1.36 acres of property along Gower Point Road. The property was purchased from Henry Corlett for $100,000. It is located immediately north of Holland Park adjacent to the firehall.

Plans for the property include commercial development and a building to house the ambulance. A motor vehicle licence office may also be located on the property. The motor vehicle office is presently located in the museum.

A WET WHISTLE

If you left a pail out in the rain and 5 millimetres of rain fell, you'd have barely enough water in the pail to wet your whistle and certainly not enough to wash your hair. But if 50 millimetres fell, and you have a rain barrel, you've got lots of water.

British Columbia Assessment Authority

Notice to RESIDENTIAL PROPERTY OWNERS

Under the provisions of the Assessment Act, property owners who have owned and lived in their homes continuously from January 1, 1959 to the present, may be eligible to have the 1976 assessed value of their land based on its residential use only, regardless of the fact that its actual value may be higher due to influences of a non-residential nature. An example would be a residence in a commercial area.

To claim eligibility it is necessary for you to file an application with the Area Assessor on or before November 1, 1975.

If you consider that your property could qualify under this provision, you are urged to contact the Area Assessor's office immediately and obtain the form of application (known as Form AA 25).

Avoid breakdowns – winterize your car now

If you winterize your car now, you won't be engulfed in a flurry of aggravations at the drop of the first snowflake.

The B.C. Automobile Association road service records show that a large percentage of the 192,652 auto breakdowns that occurred in 1974 took place during the winter months

You can insure your chances against joining this category — and certainly avoid unnecessary inconvenience and delay — by checkng out the following points and paying a visit to a reliable garage.

1. Make sure the battery is fully charged and that cables are tight and have no cracks and corrosion. If the battery is more than three yaers old, a replacement probably is in order.

2. Have an engine tune-up, including an inspection of the ignition system, points, condenser and plugs.

3. Have the cooling system drained and flushed. A proper thermostat should be installed, along with a supply of anti-freeze adequate for the coldest temperatures. Use a proper weight oil — 10W for temperatures below 0 degrees Celsius. Remember that heavy oils can impede starting.

4. Tighten water hoses, and make sure they have no leaks or rotting areas.

5. Adjust brakes and make sure fluid is at the correct level.

6. Lubricate the car to clear all dust, dirt and moisture from moving parts.

7. Replace any worn wind shield wiper blades and add anti-freeze solvent to the automatic windshield washer reservoir.

8. Mount snow tires on the rear after they are inspected for cuts and bruises. Place tire chains, free of worn or broken links, in the trunk.

9. Check to make certain that lights, heater and defroster are all in top working condition.

10. Inspect pulley belts for any necessary adjustment or replacement.

11. Apply graphite or light oil to locks to prevent freezing.

As added insurance against a snow emergency, assemble these items and make sure they're available in your car throughout the cold months: sand or traction mat, small snow shovel, ice scraper, snow brush, extra can of oil, tow chain or cable, bumper jack, flashlight, blanket and booster cables (if you know how to use them).

Use this calculator to measure the efficiency of your oil or gas furnace. The book explains everything that you and your serviceman should do to save fuel and money. Both free when you send in the coupon below.

How much of your heating dollar is going up in smoke?

Get your furnace in shape for winter—so you can be both warm and a little richer. You'll cut your fuel bill by as much as 25%, and help to conserve Canada's fast-dwindling energy reserves:

AS A NATION we waste more energy than some countries consume in total. We're on an energy binge that we can no longer afford. Modest cut-backs now will be easier to face than shortages and even higher prices in a few years time.

For every $100 you spend on energy at home, more than half of it goes into heating. So your furnace is a great place to start saving.

Check the efficiency of your oil furnace.

Is your oil furnace working at top efficiency? Find out:

Look for a dirty flame. Lift the flap that covers the small hole on the front of your furnace. If you see black smoke coming from the tip of the flame, your burner needs adjustment. Call the serviceman.

Inspect for soot. Shut the furnace off and poke a flashlight inside the box. An accumulation of soot means it's time for a service call.

Check the barometric damper. This valve between the furnace and chimney bumps open and shut as the wind blows and as the furnace cuts in and out. If it sticks in any position, you're wasting energy.

Put your serviceman to work twice a year.

A thorough oil furnace check-up in summer and mid-winter can cut as much as 25% from your fuel bill. (If you have a gas furnace it should be checked once a year.)

Remember, it will take your serviceman about two hours to do a good job on an oil furnace (somewhat less on gas).

He should remove soot from the firepot, heat exchanger and pipes; check the stack temperature: perhaps try an oil nozzle 10% to 20% smaller (or the lowest firing rate recommended for your furnace).

If you're paying for a complete check of the furnace and heating system, make sure you get it. Start by reading The Billpayer's Guide to Furnace Servicing.

This free book explains everything that you and your serviceman should do to save fuel and money. (See coupon below.) It has a complete oil and gas furnace checklist, and a calculator for determining overall furnace efficiency.

Lower your thermostat.

Dropping your setting from 72 to 68°F will save about 10%. If each of us saves 10%, Canada will conserve 8 million barrels of oil and 24 million cubic feet of natural gas each year.

It's time to pay the piper.

We can't live in the future as we do now. The resources simply won't be available. Here are two facts to ponder:

- If we continue to consume at our present rate of increase, Canada will need twice as much energy in 12 years.
- The capital costs of developing new sources of energy will soar to $110 billion over the next 10 years—an investment of about $20,000 for each Canadian family.

It's no longer a matter of choice. We must save energy to save ourselves.

Free information to help us all.

TWO FREE BOOKS: The Billpayer's Guide to Furnace Servicing shows you how to save fuel by proper furnace servicing. It explains what you can do, and what your serviceman should do. Free when you send in the coupon.

Inquiry service next year

Provincial Secretary Ernest Hall has announced details of a provincial enquiry service to go into operation at the beginning of 1976.

Speaking to delegates to the annual meeting of the B.C. Community Newspapers in Richmond last week, Mr. Hall said, "This service should solve a long-standing communications problem between government offices and the people of the province.

"No more the aggravation of being passed from office to office, from number to number, as you try to track down someone who knows something about the problem concerning you," said the Provincial Secretary.

The telephone enquiry service will be staffed by ten information counsellors who begin an intensive training pro- pated that the counsellors will gram on Monday. It is anticibe able to answer about 95% of the 11,000 calls expected each month. The other 5% of the calls will be transferred to the specific office or official where the answer is available.

People within the province will be able to call the Burnaby office of the enquiry service toll free. Tie lines are also being installed to transfer calls to the Parliament Buildings in Victoria.

Most counsellors speak more than one language so questions can be answered in English and French, Cantonese, Hindi, Dutch, German, Japanese, Polish and Punjabi.

Mr. Hall also announced that a directory of Government services is being prepared for publication.

"These two projects will provide valuable information and communication aids to the people of the province," he said.

Chistmas Lap Packs have now arrived, a very good selection for small gift ideas or for your own use. Miss Bee's, Sechelt.

Trojans to be tough opposition

Gibsons Rugby club will attempt to win their third game of the season when they meet the Vancouver Trojans at Langdale Elementary school this Saturday.

The Trojans will be tough opposition and the game, which kicks off at 1 p.m., should be exciting and fast.

Gibsons record is three wins and one loss.

Come out and support your team.

Kinsmen, Firemen out for your blood

THE ALARM rang at 11 a.m. last Saturday and members of the Gibsons Kinsmen Club rolled out of bed and started pushing. The boys must have had a bad night however, because the early rising Gibsons Volunteer Fire Department (inset) was already well under way.

Even though the Kinsmen lost the pool hall to post office race there was enough bedlam created to help remind everyone of the blood donor clinic Monday October 20 at the Coast Garibaldi Health Unit. Times are from 2:30 to 5 p.m. and from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

The bed race will be an annual event sponsored by the Kinsmen Club of Gibsons.

Christmas Lap Packs have now arrived, a very good selection for small gift ideas or for your own use. Miss Bee's, Sechelt.

THE OAPO recreation centre going up by leaps and bounds thanks to the energy of some hard-working pensioners who hope to make the building a reality before the winter snows come down. The roof was completed last week and inside work can now be done rain or shine. OAPO President Jim Holt said the building is progressing steadily but more volunteer help and financial donations would be welcomed.

Mill faces worker shortage

the local union vote Friday.

Hughes said the biggest single problem facing the mill now is a shortage of mechanical people. Several employees have moved away or found other jobs since the beginning of the strike July 11. He said there was now a shortage of welders and operating people. He estimated that about 30 people would not return to work at the mill.

Hughes said extensive induction programs will commence next week to train newly hired workers.
