FOREST BRANCH FIGHTING FIRES

The town of Hearst in Ontario was recently destroyed by a forest fire. Several villages in New Brunswick have been swept away by forest fires this summer. During the past four summers at least two dozen villages have suffered through forest fires in Eastern Canada. The prime cause of these fires is neglect in protecting young timber from fire. Since the burning of the Crows Nest Valley in 1908, with the loss of lives and millions of dollars worth of property, special care has been paid throught the Province of British Columbia to the prevention and control of forest fires in young timber as well as mature timber.

It has been found by experience that a large proportion of the fires which start in slash or young timber will, if allowed to run, spread to valuable timber or property, and when beyond control destroy the homes of settlers in the small villages now being built up throughout the Province and cause loss of life. The protection of the settlers as well as the timber, is not assured unless all bush fires are kept under control during the dry season.

Young timber growing on non-agricultural land is an asset worth protecting from fire. Nearly every settler knows how rapidly young timber grows to pole and tie size. In most districts in British Columbia timber reaceas commercial size in sixty oreighty years. It requires no planting, grows without care or expense and produces a valuable crop which now beautifies the hills, protects the watersheds and will in another generation support industries. These facts are so well understood in British Columbia that the Forest Branch is everywhere securing the cooperation of the residents in preventing destructive fires in the young as well as the old timber

BUILDING ACTIVITY AT KAMLOOPS, B. C.

With every probability for the early commencement of work on the Krm'oops-Kelown branch of the Canadian Northern and in view of the marked improvement noted this season in industrial and building lines at Kamloops, the belief is freely expressed here that the return to normal conditions in the local business situation is now evidence as a result of building work nowin progress and projected, including several business blocks in central location as well as numerous residences already started or in process of completion.

Early in the coming month the new drill hall will be begun and this in addition to Government buildings about to be started will bring the aggregate actual operations to around $200,000 for the present season. Pheonix Pioneer.

CANADIAN HEATHER AT SIMPSON PASS

An unusual Government publicotion has recently been issued by the Dominion Parks Brauch of the Department of the Interior. It consists of a small souvenir booklet artistically bound in duplex leather wild grass paper and tied with an olive green silk cord. The lettering is embossed in gold and a very unique design has been chosen for the cover. The latter is cut out so as to form a sort of frame and in this is inset a spray of Canadian Heather from the Rocky Mountains Park, the purplish flowers of the heather against the wood-brown background making a very attractive color combination. The matter is set up in 10 point Caslon Old Style type and the booklet is illustrated throughout with vignettes of scenes in the Banff a d Yoho Parks printed in golden olive by the offset method.

It will no doubt be a matter of surprise to many to learn that Canada possesses a heather of her own. This plant is not, as it has sometimes been called a "poor relation" of Scotch heather, but has a family connection and standing of its own well recognized by botanists, and is nearly allied to the Heather of the British Isles. The booklet gives an interesting account of the locality from which the sovenir was gathered, Simpson pass, about thirty miles south of Banff and some of the legends and stories connected with the heather in other lands. Its main purpose however is to call the attention of Canadians to the National Parks of the Dominion, not only to the attractions they offer to those who are able to visit them, but also to their value in the national life. Their commercial potentialities are somewhat startling. It is pointed out that owing to the increasing modern taste for travel, striking scenery has become one of the most valuable source of revenue a nation con possess. The tourist revenue of Switzerland per year is placed at 150 million dollars, that of France at 600 millions, that of Italy at over 100 millions. The sum which Americans annually spend abroad is estimated at the enormous total of 500 million dollars It would appear, therefore, that the creation of national parks which are one of the best means of attracting and providing for tourist travel may well be considered as it is now being considered in the United States, as a "solid business proposition."

It is on other ground than the commercial however that the Parks lay claim to recognition. Chief of these is an aid to producing efficient citizens. These great natural reserves are reservoirs of vitality for the the race. As an antidote to the ills of over-civilization and the emplex life of modern cities, they offer the opportunity for life in the wilderness and the best sort of re-creation whose fresh air, and beautiful natural scenery are combined. The problem of the preservation of the vitality of the race is admitted by all conservationists today, to be the first of all conservation problems and the value of parks, playgrounds and recreation in this respect is each year being given a larger place.

Norman R. Carter, D. D. S. of Kaslo, will be in Creston from August 2nd to 12th for the purpose of doing dental work. He has been in the Province for three years and in Kaslo for one. He is a graduate of the University of Michigan.

BIG INCREASE IN MINERS' LICENCES

From the Rossland Miner

Sir Richard McBride, Premier and Minister of Mines, states that reports just received were to the effect that that there has been a very considerable increase--169, to be exact—in the number of free miners' certificates issued this year over last year. All free miners' certificates expire on May 31, and the promptitude with which they are renewed and new ones issued, furnishes the most accurate evidence of the faith of the prospector in the potential mineral wealth of the province.

"As Minister of Mines, nothing could be more satisfactory to me than the report of the increase of free miners' certificates," said Sir Richard. "It means much more to the country than appears on the face of it. It means that the prospector has more faith than ever before in the mineral wealth of British Columbia. and it means further that there is no truth in what has often been alleged—that the prospector is becoming extinct.

"Personally, I am not at all surprised to be informed that there has been a big increase in the number of free miners' certificates. I have long held the opinion that with the opening up of the country with new lines of railway, territory would be made accessible which would excite the curiosity of the prospector and well repay his investigation.

"But it seems timely to say a wold in appreciation of the prospector as a type of citizen. We can never forget we should indeed never forget that he it was who laic the foundation of all progress and development which have taken place in this marvelous province. With his pack on his back, and with little other assets than his strong right arm and unconquerable faith in the country, he went into the wilderness and disclosed latent wealth and blazed the trail for the thousands who came after him to reap the reward which only too often, alas, was denied him.

"It has always been a matter of regret to me to feel that in too many cases these fine pioneers failed to achieve that success in life which should be the reward of faithful effort along laborious lines. It, is of course, true thdt with old age, most of the pioneer prospectors of the country have vanished from the scenes of their former labors, but it is most gratifying to learn that their places are not to be left vacant that the young men of the present day are also manifesting a faith in the mineral wealth of the country.

"On the latter point, I may say that private reports which have reached me respecting the mineral wealth of those sections of country which lie closely adjacent to the new lines of railway are of the most encouraging nature. I feel that intelligent prospecting will surely bring rich rewards to the men who will today go out into the country and seriously apply themselves to the task of locating mineral deposits."

On Wednesday while repairing a car Dick Bevan had the misfortune to have his left hand crushed by a part of the machine which slipped, while a bystander was helping him to release the left hand he carelessly crushed a finger on Dick s right hand and now he looks as if he had just come back from Ulster

EIGHTH INTERNATIONAL IRRIGATION CONGRESS

Governments of United States and Canada, as will as a number of foreign countries where irrigation is well developed, ore giving of their best and most experienced men to this convention in Canada this year, thus backing up and aiding the noble work which this organization has voluntarily undertaken. These men will give of their valuable experience to those who are actually the daily experimenting with the problems of irrigation in the reclamation of idle lands. and thus assist to accomplish the aims and objects of the organization as expressed in the motto "Make easy the path of Homebilder."

Irrigation is one of the chief works of an advanced civilization. The propulation of the world is advancing more rapidly than the production of food stuffs, and the work of the Irrigation Congress is a distinct effort to perform its share in the development of this civilization.

J. S. Dennis, chairman of the local board of control of the International Irrigation Congress, which meets in Calgary, October 5 to 9 this year, is very anxious, that the convention be largely attended by practical farmers and irrigationists. In the first official bulletin he says: "We are specially desirous that the farmers—the men on the land—who are daily and actively confronted with irrigation problems, should attend this congress.

The people of Canada will be given an excellent opportunity to repay the hospitality of the Americans at the first Irrigation Congress to be held in Canada. This will be in Calgary, October 5 to 9 this year. At previous congresses in the United states Canadians have been will received, and have learned a great deal. This year it is Canad's turn, and this country is arranging for an excellent and instructive visit for the delegates and members of the congress.

The new management wishes to announce that the issue of August 7th will be withheld and the time devoted to the installation of the new machinery and the rearrangement consequent upon the change of management. The paper will appear in due time on August 14th.

CRESTON REVIEW

The Creston Review

Published every Friday at Creston, British Columbia, by the Creston Printing and Publishing Company, Ltd.

The Review is the acknowledged advertising medium of the Creston valley, circulating in nearly one thousand homes throughout the Creston district and reaching out in a broad manner into other communities. Our advertising rates are based on the scale of the Kootenay and Boundary Exchanges' Board of Trade. Land purchase and land lease notices, $7 for statutory time. Display advertisements, $1 per inch per month; other advertising 10 cents per line first issue and 5 cents per line in succeeding weeks. Subscription rates $2.00 a year in advance. Our columns are open to contributions dealing in matters of local interest and the welfare of the community. Contributions must be brief and signed.

A. B. S. Stanley - - - Lessee, Editor and Manager

With this issue the management of the Creston Review goes into other hands. Mr. C. F. Hayes has bought out the interest of the company and will take possession on August the 1st. He has replaced some of the machinery and type and will have a firstclass outfit at his disposal and as he is a man of considerable experience in the printing and publishing line, there is every reason to look for a bright future for the Review.

In addressing our readers for the last time in an editorial capacity we wish to thank you for the measure of support which you have accorded the paper at all times during the brief period in which we have had the honor to guide its destinies.

We have always had a deep appreciation of the Valley and its tremendous possibilities, none the less now that our editorial connection ceases, but rather the more. And it is no small heritage we relinquish to our seccessor.

As a parting message we urge upon you at all times and under all circumstances, even though they seem to be adverse, to maintain the faith you have in the Creston Valley and its futureprospects. We have never heard of a climate or soil absolutely perfect, each has its defects, but a climate and a soil are perfect when they answer the purpose for which they are designed or adapted, and when agriculturist have found that variety of culture to which this valley is adapted, he is in a fair way to realize perfection. We believe that as a result of the efforts of the past, the day is not frr distant when the the student will have found the species best adapted to this soil and climate and then the goal of perfection will be well in sight. In the meantime the foundation work has been exceeding well carried out and is a credit to all who have had a share, no matter how small, in this important work.

For Mr. Hayes, our successor, we ask your best support, your unstinted loyalty, the hospitality and friendship for which Creston is rightfully notorious.

Bring him your news and your views. Give him your criticisms. If there are faults, tell him, dont tell everybody else first.

Dont cuss him for the things he puts in about you, rather bless him for those he leaves out, about you and your neighbors and the town generally. There are so many thing that are better not published because their publication only means flaunting the mistakes, or worse, of a neighbor before the whole community. On matters of principle the editor generally voices his own personal opinions, but in most matters he expresses the views of the majority of the people of his district. Last, but not least, give the paper your financial support, cheerfully, Willingly, as a matter of pleasurable duty, and in boosting the paper you are boosting the Dristrict, your district.

Reports from the east say the Farmer's bank depositors are holding indignation meetings. Sir Wilfrid and his Grit senators should make point of attending some of them. In passing we note that in the constitencies where the greater number of depositors lived, they did dash out and elect Liberals. No, not to any extent.—Phoenix Pioneer.

It will be the privilege of irrigationsts who attend the International Irrigation Congress at Calgary, October 5 to 9 this year, to see the largest individual irrigation project on the American continent. An excursion has been arranged for to the Bassano dam, which is some eighty miles east of the convention city.

It took several years to complete this project and the total cost was many millions. The estimated mileage of canals and ditches is 2,500.

To bring every possible acre of idle and apparently useless land under the plough is the aim and object of the International Irrigation Congress which this year will hold its convention in Calgary, October 5 to 9. During the past few years there have been millions of acres of land brought under cultivation by the scientific application of water, and the problems that confront the irrigationists are rapidly being solved by the information disseminated at the annual conventions for the discussion of matters that affect the settlers. These questions are vital to the property of the country.

Large tract of good valley farming land just thrown open for free settlement in Oregon. Over 200,000 acres in all. Good climate, rich soil, and does not require irrigation to raise finest crops of grain, fruit and garden truck. For large map, full instructions and information, and a plat of several sections of exceptionally good claims, send $3.40 to John Keefe, Oregon City, Oregon. Three years a U. S. surveyor and timberman. An opportunity to get a good fertile free homstead near town and market.

When you want your next job of printing done, no matter what the job is, bring it to the Review office. We guarantee a first-class job and our prices are right.

DO YOU SWEAR?

Some hold that strong language serves to relieve the temper and to send up, in a vaporous cloud of words, humors that would be much more noxious if shut in behind clinched teeth. But the occasions when swearing may be considered beneficent are rare indeed comped with those when the mephitic art is practised far the art's sake. We are not prigs but we have a feeling of even phyical revoit from the man who makes his mind a cresspool and his mouth a sewer. There are expletives which do not any great harm. But there are expletives also into the cofuage of which an amount of foetid imagination must have gone. Walk along our streets any day with your ears open and your eyes shut. Hear the language of two or three men gathered together and then openyour eyes. You expected to see the outcasts of society polluting the air with their infamious tongues, but that is not what you see. You see, rather, respectably dressed men with considerable pretensions (and some right) to be considered decent. Every other word they speak is blasphemy. Not only is the Holy Name outraged, but the imagery of their speech reeks of immorality and unspeakable filth. Why is this? it is mainly, we may believe the results of a bad habit and in no way indicative of the essential rotteness it seems to connote. If these men were to be judged by thier speech lepers would be clean beside them, and the average clean man would shrink from them as the average clean man shriuks from a festering sore. Let the man of fouil words speak one of his speeches into a gramophone, and in a calmer moment have the machine repeat it to him He would prefer to stand on a dung-heap on a summer day.—Montreal Star.

The August number of Rod and Gun issued by W. J. Taylor Limited Publisher, Woodstock, Ont., has appeared and is up to the usual standard of excellence maintained by this representative Canadain magazine of outdoor life. The cover out is an attractive one and illustrates a big catch of tuna in Nova Scotia where the sport of catching big fish with rod and line is growing in favor. The contents include many interesting stories and articles, among them another conoe story "To Moose Factory by Canoe which in so far as the territy covered is concerned forms a continuation of the account given in last month's issue of a Trip from Lake Temiscaming to Lake Abitibi. Bonnycastle Dale gives a graphic description of "Wild Fowling with the Kwakiutls" and the [illegible] to the general reader as well as articles and departments containing special information for the sportsman.
