Mrs. Cockle, late of Alice Siding, arrived here on Saturday and has decided to take up residence in the M. Wigen boarding house where, we understand, she has decided to stay for the winter months.

BIRTH—On October 23rd, to Mr. and Mrs. Clem Fayette, a daughter.

Pete Wallace and Pete Wasnock, locally known as "Big and Little Pete," returned to their homes at Fernie on Tuesday. They will be sadly missed in some quarters, but great hopes are entertained of their return next spring when mill work opens up.

Carl Carlson entrained on Tuesday, en route to Arrow Park. He says he will probably return in a month, but knowing the gentleman we will expect him when we see him.

We are glad to be able to report that Mrs. R. Uri, who has been on the sick list for some time, is getting around again nicely.

These days of glorious sunshine have sent the haymakers hustling out on the sough. By now the majority have finished operations, but there are a few who still journey out every day hoping to get through before the weather sees fit to break again.

There will be a general meeting of the United Farmers on Saturday night, Oct. 30th, at the schoolhouse, at 8.30 prompt. Business general with a discussion and vote on the national policy and whether we are prepared to take any political action.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

EDITOR REVIEW:
SIR,—In your last complete issue the Creston and District Public Library has been quite clearly outlined, and the good news given out that it is hoped to have the library started possibly by the first of December. As no direct appeal has yet been made for funds I trust the few suggestions I have to make will not come too late—nor lead me to be classed as one opposed to the library.

In connection with any new undertaking it has always been my opinion that continued success depends in a great measure upon the kind of a start accorded it. With this conviction in my mind it seems to me that the library plan outlined has two rather serious defects, these being in the high and sliding scale of membership fees as well as the limited number of times per week that it is proposed to have the library open at the start.

As to membership fee I am strongly in favor of a popular fee of not more than $1 per year. The policy of a library should always be that of doing the greatest good to the greatest number, and in a community that is launching a real public library for the first time I fear a fee of $2 will not appeal favorably to the heads of many households whom it is very desirable in every way to have as library patrons.

Too, another feature in connection with the fixing of the fee that should not be overlooked is that hitherto members of the Women's Institute have had access to a free library, and as this has now been absorbed by the Creston and District Library those who enjoyed the privilege of free reading for a matter of almost two years have had their book supply cut off, and if they are to continue to enjoy the pleasures obtained from a supply of books that cost them nothing a charge of $2 is going to seem pretty steep—if one can judge by the expressions of opinion already heard.

As to the principle outlined of allowing a patron so many books for a membership fee of $2, and so many extra ones if a $3 fee is paid, it seems to me a lot of trouble will be saved the librarian, as well as the board, if but one fee is established and the principle of one book per member made a hard and fast rule. In every library there are just so many so-called worth while volumes, and the aim should be to keep these circulating as freely as possible, which would be out of the question were the higher-priced members to have the privilege of taking home three or four books at a time.

Next to having the books, equally as important is the factor of being able to hand the books out at the convenience of the majority of library members, and certainly if a fee of $2 is to be charged something better than one afternoon and one night will be expected. In this connection I understand the matter of the best possible service depends almost entirely upon finances, and that the estimated revenue at present is not sufficient to lead the board to expect to be able to have the library open oftener than twice weekly. As to library accommodation my information is that the present plans are to fit up the present Women's Institute library quarters and continue to have it as the library home. Up till very recently one of the local merchants found it good business to handle the small government libraries and give a six-day a week service. Would it not be possible to have one of the stores take charge of the new library on the same or slightly more generous terms than they use to handle the government libraries.

While too much stress cannot be laid upon the desirability of having a librarian familiar with the books in charge and a library service separate and distinct from any other line of business, would it not be well, for the present at least, to waive this quite important detail in order to afford book-changing accommodation which must be provided if it is expected to have the people of Wynndel, Canyon City, Erickson and Lister patronize the library in the numbers that will be essential if the library is to carry on successfully. To secure and retain the co-operation of the country folk the library service must, as far as possible, suit their convenience—which is a very much different proposition than the convenience of town or near-town folks.

Something, Mr. Editor, might be said as to the wisdom of attempting to have on the library shelves books on fashions, cooking, pickling, pruning, gardening, etc., etc., all of which are very desirable provided the intention is to have a thousand or so books available, but where it will be a matter of only three or four hundred books my advice would be to find out what sort of reading matter Creston Valley's taste runs to, and stock up accordingly. In the meantime the ladies can take their fashions and foodmaking advice from an abundance of publications that come into the home every week, while the resident horticulturist should suffice meantime when current or emergency advice is needed as to ranching ailments. Trusting these observations will be considered in the same friendly spirit in which they are tendered, and assuring those in charge of my practical co-operation in any event. READER.

Canyon City

The fine weather this week was just what was needed to see the finish of the harvest of the roots and vegetables. Potatoes have turned out surprisingly well, the yield averaging at least nine tons to the acre.

Mrs. Witherhead got back from Bruce county, Ontario, last week, where she had been called on account of the fatal illness of her mother, who passed away about two weeks ago. Mr. Witherhead, who is working at Yakk, returned with her for a short stay.

Outside of Creston this district rolled up the biggest "dry" majority of any point in the Valley. The plurality was 14. There were at least 25 citizens absent on polling day, otherwise the lead would have been still larger.

C. Blair last week loaded out a couple of cars of beef stock, which he sold to Joe Walkley, the Cranbrook butcher. On account of the poor haying season he will hardly winter as big a herd as last year.

A. G. Samuelson is busy at present on the erection of a commodious new two-story residence. It will be of log construction, sheeted inside and out.

Elder Reed had a very good turnout at his meeting at the school on Sunday night, and this week is conducting services in the Porthill district. He will be here again this Sunday evening, and will also hold meetings at Kitchener as well as Creston.

Now that threshing is pretty well along the influx of prairie labor is being noticed. Loggers are arriving almost every day now.

It is currently reported that A. G. Samuelson and John Johnson have taken quite a sizable logging contract with J. B. Winlaw, and will be starting work almost at once.

Lister

Lister's majority for government control in the prohibition voting on Wednesday last is 22. 88 votes were polled out of 101 available.

S. T. Harvey of Vancouver is a visitor here at present, a guest of H. A. Reid.

Harry Brown was another absentee from camp for a few days, spending the week-end with Cranbrook friends.

Clearing operations were started this week on the twenty-acre block that will comprise the townsite. It is situated back of the school property, on the main road to Porthill and Creston.

The latest to equip himself with a hay burner is A. W. Brain, who has just invested $145 in a horse and rig, Pete Nelson being the vendor.

This has been a bit of a record week for special meetings. The United met in special session to discuss the U.F. national policy, and on Wednesday afternoon the Ladies' Auxiliary of the G.W.V.A. had an extraordinary general meeting.

Jas. Jory is still further improving his place by the erection of a new 20x24 foot barn.

An unusually large crop of colds is reported in camp at present, some of which are mild types of the old reliable flu.

Lister Conservatives had a well-attended and enthusiastic meeting on Wednesday night for the purposes of organization and selecting delegates.

MILK PRICES

Commencing Nov. 1st the price of milk delivered will be 18 cents a quart, or six tickets for $1.00.

to attend the Kaslo constituency nominating convention. Lance Lowés and Harry Vernon were selected as delegates. On being pressed to allow his name to be placed in nomination as a candidate Col. Lister finally consented to allow his name to go before the convention. He will leave Thursday on a visit to Kaslo.

Interest was not as keen as anticipated in the prohibition referendum vote on Wednesday last, only about 75 per cent. of the Listerites utilizing the ballots. D. R. O. Butler was assisted by Harry Vernon as clerk, with Mrs. D. Chalmers "dry" scrutineer, and S. A. Evans looking after the government control interests.

N. Stones is doing quite a trade in the butcher line now. Some time ago he purchased a few head of beef cattle and these he is now slaughtering, and supplying the camp with prime beef at very reasonable prices.

Rev. G. Knox will take Methodist service here on Sunday morning at 11.30, and his discourse will be on the subject: "Saved for Service."

Induction Service

Creston Presbyterian Church was well filled on Wednesday night for the service of inducting Rev. J. A. James of Edmonton into the permanent pastoral charge of the church. Rev. T. D. McClintock of Nelson, as interim moderator, was in charge of proceedings, assisted by Rev. A. M. O'Donnell of Trail—the latter preaching the induction sermon and addressing the minister, while the former delivered the customary charge to the congregation. Rev. G. Knox, pastor of Creston Methodist Church, was also present and assisted in the induction exercises. The musical features of the evening were in charge of Mrs. Oatway, who presided at the organ and along with Mrs. Rose and Messrs. Eby and H. H. Taylor contributed a quartette, while Mr. Eby gave a splendid solo rendering of "Abide with Me." After the service the ladies served refreshments which was followed by a number of speeches by both clerics and laymen, and at its conclusion all present were afforded opportunity to meet the new pastor and Mrs. James, who is with him. For the present they are stopping with Mr. and Mrs. Rose, but expect to be moving into the manse at the first of the week.

A Knotty Problem Solved

You have heard of Canada's best flour. Made by Messrs. Ogilvie—And you wish to know the reason why? I will tell it unto thee.

You have heard of streams of water Rush the streets of Londonderry. But have you ever heard of streams Of the wheat berry? Streams of the wheat berry Are the heart—the embryo—Which when ground in Ogilvie mills Make the finest flour you know.

The Government fixed a standard. Called it government standard flour. And the reason why they did it Was because of our great war. For they needed Canada's best flour To give the soldiers pep As they fought at Vimy Ridge And at historic Comenlette.

Government standard flour, Or streams of the wheat berry, Differ in their texture As the apple or the cherry. Some of the grains are shrunken, And some are of poor yield—It's just the way it happens As the wheat grows in the field. But Royal Household Patent flour I'm sure you'd like to know Is made from the choicest, fattest grains That on the prairies grow. No shrunken grains, or frozen, Are in this flour allowed. And this is one great reason Why we feel so justly proud.

Our chemists are kept busy Testing out the golden grain; Our millers, no less busy, Working on with might and main; Making, waiting every year Making Royal Household Patent flour.

As the laboratory at Greenwich Keeps track of Father Time; As gold in British banks Keeps the soldiers on the Rhine, So Royal Household Patent flour With her flag unfurled, Is the acknowledged standard Of all flours in the world.

Erickson

Mrs. Archie Kerr, who has been here helping her parents with the apple harvest, returned to Kitchener the latter part of the week.

Mrs. Alf Palmer was a visitor with friends in Fernie a few days last week.

There has been a big rush at the Union warehouse the past couple of weeks, no less than three packers being hard at it wrapping the wicker varieties of apples.

J. H. Schofield, M.P.P. of Trail, was a visitor with R. J. Long a couple of days the early part of the week.

Mr. Dunn, a resident of West Creston, spent a couple of days here this week, loading out a car of No. 3 apples which he and Mr. Davis purchased locally and shipped to Saskatchewan.

Potatoes have also figured in this week's exports, the Long ranch alone loading out two cars, which they have sold to the C.P.R. mill and lumber camps at Yakk.

Mrs. Brownrigg's parents, who have been visiting here for the past month, left on Wednesday on the return trip to their home at Red Deer, Alta.

The fine weather that has prevailed for almost the past week has enabled the ranchers to get in their vegetable and root crops and no one is now worrying about the possibility of having frosts. On well cultivated areas potatoes in some instances have run almost ten tons to the acre.

If all reports happen to prove true the Erickson section will provide at least two weddings before 1921 is ushered in.

H. Brownrigg was a business visitor at Yakk a couple of days last week.

Official announcement was made yesterday from C.P.R. headquarters that T. W. Bundy has been named to permanently succeed Mr. Hufty as station agent at Erickson. Tom is well and favorably known by all the shippers and his appointment will give universal satisfaction.

The collector for the prohibition cause succeeded in raising $12.75 for the good cause, which amount has been acknowledged by Rev. G. Knox, secretary of the Valley prohibition committee.

Evidence that Mrs. Birney, superintendent of the union Sunday school, is doing a good work amongst the boys and girls under her care is evidenced in the announcement that $5 has just been handed to both the Presbyterian and Methodist churches for home mission purposes.

The Plebiscite

Possibly the best way to express local public opinion in connection with the prohibition plebiscite vote on the 20th is by the old story of the successful lynching of a notorious cattle rascal and the accidentally on purpose too late arrival on the scene of the sheriff, who, on enquiry as to what were the complaints against the unfortunate, was promptly told "there weren't any complaints; everybody's satisfied."

Of course the reader must not take the illustration too literally in this connection. We would not have it inferred that those who supported the present Prohibition Act look forward complacently to the coming into force of government control of the liquor business. But it can be safely said that the almost overwhelming majority coupled with the fact that the majority vote is so uniformly spread over the province, has had the happy effect of convincing the most ardent of our prohibitionists that the people have spoken with no uncertain voice and the opinion thus expressed should be as cheerfully as possible accepted.

So far as Creston Valley is concerned the vote expressed the true feeling of the community. The question has been before the people for weeks and certainly every opportunity has been afforded voters to reach their individual conclusions in the matter without any undue influence being brought to bear by either side to the controversy—and if either side had a measure the best of it in presenting the case surely that advantage was not with the government control forces in this section.

There have been numerous explanations offered as to why the province has reversed in some measure its prohibition verdict of just a little over four years ago. The favorite theory, possibly, is that of failure to strictly enforce the existing dry laws. Locally this manner of reasoning it out does not hold good in fact, for the simple reason that those who are in a position to judge unhesitatingly admit that the law is nowhere better observed in the province than right here in Creston.

While the privilege of accounting for defeat is always one of the consolations of the losing side about the only explanation that will explain the recent reversal of public sentiment on all important issue is that after three years of statutory prohibition the people have discovered that it hasn't been exactly what they wanted and on the first opportunity presented have not been backward in admitting their error of judgment.

Whether government control will fulfil the expectations of those voting in its favor will largely rest with the amount of "control" the new legislation will provide—and the calibre of the men who will be appointed as controllers.

The Memorial

The letter in our last issue over the signature of "Creston and District Library Association" brings to public attention the fact that several hundred dollars has been collected, with three or four hundred collectable but not yet in hand, for the purpose of erecting a memorial to those who served in the great war, and the more effectively to keep green the memory of those "gone west," the letter writers' idea being that in view of some difficulty experienced in securing a site, the money should be diverted (with the consent of the givers) from a monument to that of a building suitable for a public library.

The suggestion is a timely one if nothing further comes of it than the eliciting of a statement from the memorial committee as to just where the proposition is at, and why, after at least a year to come to some conclusion in the matter, a move has not been made to get on with the erection of the granite memorial which was so strongly favored in the vote that was taken to decide as to what form the proposed memorial should take.

If the proposition to divert the money to a library building is entertained great care should be taken to definitely ascertain the wishes of the individual guarantors. When the memorial was under discussion those giving toward the fund were asked to state whether they preferred the money to go toward building of a monument. Not only was the majority decisively in favor of the latter, but several of those promising were very definite in stating that their contribution was for the erection of a granite or marble shaft, and under no circumstances should be used for any other purpose.

A number of others who were pronounced advocates of the monument idea expressed themselves as opposed to a building on the plea that there was no guarantee that the proposed building would be kept open and in operation for the several purposes suggested that it would be useful for.

Too, in connection with those who hoisted for a memorial in the shape of a building the thought then uppermost in people's minds was a structure that could be made use of as a returned men's quarters for various purposes—and granted the objective of $5000 was realized possibly a building that would have served for community social and educational purposes could have been combined.

In view of the pronounced and widely divergent wishes of many of those contributing to the soldiers memorial fund it will be the part of wisdom of those in charge to make haste slowly (but none the less surely) in coming to any decision, and as for the library a few months stay of proceedings will not be harmful. The library is a very necessary and useful institution, with quite a live organization backing it. If those in charge and the others interested in the library can demonstrate that the institution is in good measure filling the place in community life that it ought to, there should be no trouble having it preferred as the memorial in plenty of time to get on with its erection at an early date. But if after a normal probation it does not show signs of being here to stay then it would be a decidedly bad investment for memorial purposes.

Now that at least a year has elapsed since the subscriptions were due and payable, and the demand is made for the use of the funds for a new but none the less commendable purpose, the public will be able to the more intelligently discuss the matter if a statement were forthcoming as to funds in hand and those on the books that are considered collectable, together with such facts concerning the original monument idea as are available for public consumption. Now that a couple of machine guns are due here any day additional provocation is given for further information on a community project.

Even at Greenwood suitable houses for rent are a scarce article.
