THE CRESTON REVIEW

VOL. XIII. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1921 No. 39

Wynndel

Miss Merle Bathie left on Tuesday to join her sister at Nelson for a short visit, and to join in the festivities that are to be held at the end of the packing season.

The United Farmers resumed their monthly meetings on Wednesday, the business being to discuss the advisability of sending delegates to the West Kootenay nominating convention at Nelson on November 1st. A new amusement committee has been appointed.

During the winter months the stores in Wyndel will close at 6 p.m. The postoffice will also close at six o'clock, on and after November 1st.

D. J. Dewar and sons were greatly surprised hosts at a most enjoyable surprise party last Wednesday, about 30 people dropping in on them unexpectedly. The evening was spent in dancing and some splendid selections were furnished on the gramaphone. A very dainty supper was served about midnight, after which dancing was again in order until the wee sma' 'oors.

Mrs. T. Sadler left on Saturday for Brockett, Alta., where she expects to spend at least a month at the Indian school there.

A. S. Joy, who has been in Saskatchewan looking after his crops, returned to his ranch here last Wednesday. He reports things looking fairly good on the prairie.

The local bridges are undergoing repairs at present, with Mr. Harris of Creston in charge of operations.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Rudd left on Saturday for Canyon City, where the former is working for C. O. Rodgers.

Now the apple packing season is over Wynndel will once more be able to have some dances, and hope to be able to announce one in the near future.

Alice Siding

M. Churchill is busy these days hauling lumber for some quite extensive improvements he intends making to his barn buildings.

R. Alderson, who has spent the past week at his ranch here, returned to Hosmer on Monday.

Now that the fruit and vegetable harvest is complete the school attendance is back to normal, Miss Wadds having a daily showing of some fifteen scholars.

Building permits issued this week include one for a new hay shed which R. Beazer is erecting on his ranch here.

Word has again come that work of widening and lessening the grade on the Simister hill will be done this fall. The delay at present is for the arrival of a spell of wet weather, after which the work can be undertaken to better advantage then at present.

Miss M. Vaness left on Monday for Cranbrook, where she has taken a position, and will likely remain for a few months.

Reed & Mather are expecting to have the banner crop of potatoes in the Valley this year. Digging operations have just commenced on an acre of spuds that will probably run not less than seven tons to the acre.

W. H. Hilton is going back into dairying again, and this week has purchased a purebred Jersey from W. V. Jackson.

Messrs. Constable and Sutcliffe are busy on the flats these days measuring up the year's hay cut for the Stockbreeders' Association. If the aggregate cut has increased in the same proportion as haystacks appear to have grown in number, this year's cut of feed must be the biggest ever.

Lister

The Trading & Supply Comyany's new premises look very citified with a fine display of goods in the large windows.

Jas. Jory has moved his gang of carpenters over to the Frank Banting place this week.

The sawmill started up on Monday, cutting up the balance of the spring cut of logs.

The Literary, Musical and Dramatic Society have arranged to hold a mock trial on Wednesday evening, Nov. 2nd, at the schoolhouse at 8 o'clock. The best of the settlement speakers are taking part and this will assuredly be the best debate ever held here.

The Literary, Musical and Dramatic Club held a successful meeting on Wednesday evening last in the schoolhouse, with President E. Langston in the chair. The feature of the evening was the debate on the topic, Resolved, "That city life is better than country life." Mrs. Alfred R. Webb presided during the debate, while E. Langston rallied the city bunch, against T. Atkins' country people. Both sides put up admirable arguments, but the decision was in favor of country life.

The concert at the schoolhouse on Saturday for the benefit of Lister school finances attracted a crowd that filled the building to the doors, a number of visitors motoring out from Creston and Canyon to attend the event. The chair was occupied by Alfred R. Webb, who, before announcing the programme, explained that the concert was to help finance the school—the area not yet being out of the government's hands is not subject to taxation. The programme of fifteen numbers was all by local talent and everyone of the performers drew a hearty encore. So uniformly vigorous was the applause that it would be unfair to specially mention any of the numbers, so we will be content with giving only the names of those taking part. Vocal solos were furnished by Harry Brown, E. Langston, Mrs. J. Johnston, T. Atkins and Fred Kunst. Vocal duett, Mrs. J. Johnston and Jas Jory. Recitations by Mrs. G. Jacks who made two appearances that were equally popular. Instrumental solos were furnished by Harry Brown, violin; J. Jory, clarionet; J. Finlay, jr., cornet; and F. Bagshaw, piano. H. and T. Yewbury were popular with their Hiwaiian guitars, as were they in a trio with H. Brown in an orchestral waltz. The concert concluded with a hearty rendering of God Save the King, and was followed by dancing until midnight. In connection with the entertainment praise is due Mesdames Liddicoatt and Johnston and Mr. H. Brown who were responsible for the assembling of the talent, and Mrs. Jory and Miss C. I. Campion of Nelson, who made efficient accompanistes, while Mrs. Garland (Creston) was as fully as popular for her effort at the piano during the dancing. The nett proceeds of the concert will be in the neighborhood of $60.

AN APPLE-EATING RECORD

Lethbridge Daily Herald

The demolishment of a box of apples in ten minutes by the office clock was the record established by the members of The Herald staff yesterday. It was "Apple Day" with Ashley Cooper of Creston, donating the apples and editors, reporters, clerks, printers, operators, "devils," caretakers, etc., furnishing the appetites.

And such apples!

Large, luscious beauties, deeply tinged with that peculiar Creston Valley red which starts the saliva flowing before the milk white meat enters the mouth.

The staff voted that there were apples and apples, but none quite so delicious as Creston Valley No. 1 McIntosh Reds.

In explaining about the apples, Friend Hayes of the Creston Review, says not to mention him at all. But we're agoin' to, for he and Ashley Cooper and Sons, Wynndel, were responsible for the delightful surprise.

And in closing, we will just add—"Thanks!"

Extensive Roads Program for 1922

Wm. Ramsay of Nelson, provincial public works department engineer for West Kootenay, was here on an official visit on Saturday and Sunday, and during his stay made one of his thorough investigations of the territory between Kitchener and Kuskanook to get a line on the work requiring attention next season, in order to make ample provision for taking care of it in the estimates he is submitting the public works department for 1922 operations.

Approximately a mile of hard surfaced road has been put down in the Erickson section this year, besides the quarter mile stretch of it north of town, and last week saw the stopping of this work, the colder weather conditions militating against good road making. As soon as the machinery is stored for the winter foreman Davis will continue to employ a small crew of men assembling rock at the site of the crusher will occupy next year, so that crushing operations can commence at the earliest possible moment and the crushed rock in quantity be available for road making as soon as the highways are in shape to start hard surfacing work. Under these conditions it is safe to assume the main roads into Erickson will all be hard surfaced before the season of 1922 ends, and possibly a further stretch of good roads laid down north of the town.

Many of the flats hay haulers will hear with satisfaction that as soon as a little more moisture descends and highway work can be done a little more expeditiously the job of widening and reducing the grade on the Simister hill will be tackled and completed throughout. Due to its quite excessive steepness and narrowness in places this hill has not only been dangerous to haul over, but has also prevented the handling of anywhere near capacity loads.

On the improvement of the transprovincial highway from Goat River into Kitchener and the road diversions at Arrow Creek and Wynndel-Sirdar, Mr. Ramsay unhesitatingly states that all three pieces of new work will be done immediately weather will permit in the spring, and it is just possible that if the need for work to take care of unemployment is as great as some anticipate some of these new stretches of highway will be gone on with this fall. Early completion of this work is essential in view of the heavy tourist traffic already in evidence—this trinity of bad stretches of highway being the only really bad spots in the Crows Nest auto tourist route in this part of Kootenay. 40 per cent. of the cost of these particular road improvements are borne by the federal government, which some months ago was supplied with all the engineering data necessary before calling tenders for the work.

Mr. Ramsay assured that construction of the big new Kootenay River ferry was about complete and that on his next visit early next month he hoped to see it installed. It will be of ample dimensions to transport four ordinary teams and wagon loads at one trip, and that while the original specifications on it do not provide for power operation he will likely secure the necessary engine and equipment to run it by power. With power to propel the scow, in the average year the ferry should be able to run the whole twelve months—except in the seasons when excessive high water prevails.

While instructions from Victoria are to the effect than an appropriation no larger than that available for 1921 should be looked for in 1922, with the prospect of the federal 40 per cent. of at least $16,000 already spent on hard surfacing road work, available next season, Mr. Ramsay anticipates one of the biggest and most satisfactory year's highway operations in the Creston end of the Kaslo riding that he has yet had. And assuredly if his programme goes through intact the main travelled roads in this section will compare quite favorable with those in most parts of the province.

Canyon City

The Fruit Growers Union loaded out its third straight car of apples at the siding at the end of the week. There were about 800 boxes of Wagners in this shipment.

Otto Johnson was a business visitor at Yahk for a few days the latter part of the week.

The box factory shut down on Saturday after the biggest make of crates and boxes in its history. Things will be quiet at the mill until sleighing arrives, when the cut of logs still on the skids will be hauled in and sawn.

A. Speaker reports a great cut in the cost of living—due to his having shot a prime young buck deer on Saturday. This makes at least a half dozen carcasses of venison local hunters have brought in so far.

T. Mawson and H. Young were amongst those from here who were at Lister for the school concert on Saturday night. The programme was an exceptionally good one and there was a large crowd in attendance.

Owing to unfavorable climatic conditions the number from here at the United Farmers meeting at Erickson on Tuesday night was small. One of the main items of business was the discussion of the wisdom of sending a delegate to Nelson for the convention that may bring out a farmer-labor candidate in West Kootenay.

Land selling in the Canyon City district continues brisk—and the buyers are men who intend to at once get busy clearing and become permanent residents. Within the past few days another 60 acres of the Land Settlement Board area has been disposed of. Messrs. Gartland and Larsen have acquired the twenty acres east of Andy Wickholm's and are making preparations to build and get busy at clearing operations. Both are married men and with their wives are at present guests of Mr. Wickholm. The 20 acres to the west of Mr. Wickholm has just been purchased by Hans. Anderson, who up till lately was employed at the mill. He will also build immediately and get on with clearing operations. A third sale of 20 acres is to Mr. Pipe, who had been a resident at Lister, but who has acquired 20 acres near the Cleave ranch, and is busy at clearing work. The two latter buyers are returned men.

Let us frame your pictures, prices reasonable. Asher's studio, Creston.

I have for sale one light democrat, one heavy democrat, two sets of sleighs, rubber tyred two seat phaeton and one single buggy. Morrow's blacksmith shop.

Sirdar

Fruit shipping is practically complete at this point for this year, and the records indicate that there has been an export of almost three carloads of apples, and the biggest-ever year in tomatoes.

Now the crews are working at nights between trains visitors at Creston are numerous. R. Dennes favored the metropolis with a call on Thursday and Yardmaster Loasby made the trip on Friday.

Colder weather on the prairie last week has hustled the ducks and geese south in a hurry, and the flocks of these birds now in evidence at the Landing should be attracting the usual squad of hunters very soon.

Police officers McLaren and Smith of Creston were through here on Friday, en route to Kuskanook, near which point they were investigating some George Washington operations in one of the orchards.

Mrs. Loasby left last week for Cranbrook, where she is spending a couple of weeks with friends.

Sid McCabe is off on a couple of weeks vacation, which he is spending in the Windermere country, while Mrs. McCabe is visiting at Kingsgate.

R. McMasters, who has been off work for almost the past month due to illness, is beginning to feel his old time self and will likely be back on the job at the first of the month.

Report has it that Mr. Nowell of St. Paul, who has acquired the Great Northern land holdings in this section, will have his surveyors in a few days, and their first job will be to subdivide the townsite at Kuskanook.

When the Clouds Roll By

There's absolutely no secret about the wonderful ability Douglas Fairbanks displays in doing his hazardous stunts and the way he does them, for Doug is just like a boy who has never grown up. He is constantly trying out new perilous feats that keep everyone around his studio in a constant state of breathless suspense.

During the making of his latest production, "When the Clouds Roll By," which will be shown at the Grand Theatre Saturday, Oct. 29, Doug decided that one scene would be improved if he performed a standing back somersault. But he had never done such a stunt and did not know quite how to go about it. For days and days he practiced in his gymnasium at the studio and incidentally got some rather severe falls. Still he could not give up. And when the day finally arrived for the filming of his particular "set" he did his back somersault without the slightest bit of trouble.

Canada Needs Population

Although the results of the census of Canada taken in June last have not yet been officially announced, sufficient information is available to establish the fact that the figures of population are going to prove highly disappointing to those people who, basing their calculations on the yearly return of immigrants entering the Dominion, had expectations of seeing a very substantial increase in the number of people in Canada.

Each recurring decennial census in Canada brings the same disappointment. Between one census and the next, hundreds of thousands, yes, millions of immigrants are reported as having entered the Dominion. The vital statistics likewise report the fact that the number of births exceed deaths by many more hundreds of thousands. Yet when the census is taken the people which are supposed to be here, and presumably ought to be here, are not in evidence. They came here but they have disappeared. The question which demands an answer is: Where have they gone, and why?

The Canadian Council of Agriculture, which has been giving some study to this problem, in a statement recently made public, points out that, according to the returns of the Department of Immigration, no less than 1,812,836 immigrants came to this country between April 1, 1911, and March 31, 1921, which corresponds with the census period; also that during this same period births in Canada exceeded deaths by 1,140,000. In other words, that from these two sources there should be an increase in Canada's population of 2,952,836, which would bring the 1911 census of population of 7,206,643 up to 10,159,479 in 1921. As a matter of fact it is now confidently predicted that the census of 1921 will not show nine million people, and possibly not many more than 8,500,000.

On all sides the statement is heard that Canada needs a larger population; that the future of its railways, the ability to carry and ultimately pay off the huge national debt, depends upon the development of its natural resources, and that such development can only be brought about by a large influx of people to do the necessary work. The need for a strong, aggressive immigration policy is, therefore, urged. True, there are a few voices raised in opposition to such a policy, but they are in a minority.

The writer of this column agrees that such an immigration policy is necessary, and that Canada's efforts to secure settlers of the right type should not be spasmodic, but permanent, well organized and continuous. But in the light of past immigration returns, reports of vital statistics, and census takings, it is apparent that something more than getting people to come to Canada is needed. The adoption of policies that will keep them here seems to be required above everything else.

If Canada cannot retain its native-born sons and daughters it is idle to expect new people to come and stay here. Clearly there is something wrong somewhere. If our native-born had remained at home, and if we had retained the large percentage of incoming immigrants during the past quarter of a century, Canada's population today would be double what it is, and, like compound interest, the future increase would be rapid.

Party politics can find no place for discussion in this column. There are plenty of forums for the discussion of such politics, but this is not one of them. But policies in the broad meaning of the term—that is, the science and business of government as distinct from party organization, shibboloths and particular policies—have a proper place here. In fact, no good citizen or true patriot can properly neglect them.

It is our conviction, then, that while Canada does need the most wide-awake, progressive and aggressive immigration policy that can possibly be devised, and that full advantage should now be taken of the opportunity which presents itself throughout the world owing to the desire of millions of people to emigrate from the old world countries, the first step in the framing of Canada's immigration policy should be a determination of the causes of the drift of people away from Canada, native-born and immigrants.

There is a cause for it, or a combination of causes. The cause should be ascertainable, and once ascertained it ought to be possible to apply a remedy and remove the cause. Every manufacturer, financier, railway operator, merchant, professional man, artizan and farmer is interested, and vitally interested in this problem. The application of the needed remedy might upset many preconceived ideas and destroy long accepted and time honored policies. But what of it, if those ideas and policies are the cause of Canada's loss?

Suppose some cherished policy of the manufacturers on the one hand, or the farmers on the other hand, had to go by the board, would they not both be the gainers by adding millions to the population? Imagine what it would mean to Canada's manufacturers today if all the immigrants and native-born between 1911 and 1921 were in Canada now. What a domestic market in which to sell their goods. And what a relief in taxation, and in improved facilities for the farmer would result if the Dominion's population was between ten and fifteen millions instead of less than nine millions!

The need of population is Canada's greatest need. It is the outstanding national issue. In it is bound up all other issues and through its solution practically all other problems will be solved.

Success of Grande Prairie Pioneer.

Henry Robertson, one of the pioneers of the Grande Prairie, Alta., district, some twelve miles west of the city, expects to thresh from fifteen to eighteen thousand bushels of wheat this season, making his twelfth consecutive bumper crop here. His yield per acre during this period has never dropped below twenty-five bushels, and has run as high as fifty.

Corn and Sunflower Crop Good.

Forty new silos have been erected by farmers in the surrounding country this year which are all now filled with sunflowers and corn. Sunflowers in yield have averaged more than twelve tons to the acre and the corn crop has been the best ever harvested in Southern Alberta.

Alberta's Grain Capacity

Large Storage Elevators Are Found in Many Towns.

The average grain capacity per station for the whole of the Province of Alberta amounts to over 110,000 bushels, as compared with 89,000 bushels for Saskatchewan, and 58,000 bushels for Manitoba. The largest country storage elevator is at Vegreville, Alberta, with a capacity of 475,000 bushels, although Verigin in Saskatchewan runs a good second with a capacity of 440,000 bushels. Alberta towns are uniformly possessed of large storage facilities; Youngstown has space for 384,000 bushels, Barons 373,000 bushels, Carmangay 320,000 bushels and Blackie 290,000 bushels.

Growing Hemp In Manitoba

First Year's Crop Will Be Five Hundred Tons.

The hemp crop of Manitoba for 1921, the first year that it has been cultivated extensively, will be large, according to a Winnipeg company, under whose direction farmers in the Province seed and sow the hemp. Five hundred tons will be realized, it is estimated, and at Portage la Prairie, 200 acres were under cultivation. More than 400 acres have been sown to hemp in the Swan River district.

Contracts Let For Irrigation Scheme

Experts Say It Presents Few Engineering Difficulties.

Contracts have been let for the construction of the United Irrigation district, which when completed will make possible the irrigation of about fifteen thousand acres of fertile farm lands about forty miles southwest of Lethbridge. Irrigation experts who have been over this district say they have never met with any scheme of its size that presents fewer engineering difficulties. It is hoped to have the works completed in time for the irrigation of 1923.

The Oil of the People.—Many oils have come and gone, but Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil continues to maintain its position and increase its sphere of usefulness each year. Careful Father.

Sores Flee Before It.—There are many who have been afflicted with sores and have driven them away with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. All similarly troubled should lose no time in applying this splendid remedy, as there is nothing like it to be had. It is cheap, but its power is in no way expressed by its low price.

Emphatic.

A sentimental youth, who had been suffering for some time from severe love-sickness, arrived one morning at the office looking the picture of abject misery. "What's the matter?" asked his employer. "I can scarcely tell you," he faltered. "I—I—I have at last proposed—and I have been rejected." "Tut-tut," said the employer cheerfully. "It will turn out all right in the end. 'A woman's 'No' often means 'Yes.'" "Perhaps it does," was the sorrowful reply. "But this woman didn't say 'No.' She said 'Rats!'"

WHAT TO DO FOR STOMACH TROUBLE

Good Advice From One Who Had Suffered Much.

Nine-tenths of all forms of indigestion or so-called stomach trouble are not due to the condition of the stomach at all, but are caused by other influences. The great contributing cause of indigestion is thin blood. Good blood and plenty of it is required by the stomach to take care of the food. If the blood is thin the stomach functions sluggish, food lies undigested, gas forms and causes pains in various parts of the body. Instead of getting nourishment from the blood the system gets poison.

Relief from this condition can be obtained by the tonic treatment which Mr. D. Shaw, Mt. Stewart, P.E.I., tried and now warmly recommends to others. Mr. Shaw says: "I suffered from indigestion for over four years, and have tried many of the well-known remedies for such troubles, but never obtained more than temporary relief. The trouble was aggravated by constipation setting in owing to the stomach failing to do its work, and laxatives only gave relief to the bowels and left the stomach in worse condition. The result was my blood was growing more and more anaemic, I did not sleep well at night and was growing despondent. I was in this wretched condition when a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I got three boxes and by the time they were finished there was some change for the better. This greatly encouraged me and I continued taking the pills for some three months, by which time my stomach was all right again, my blood good, nerves strong and life was again worth living. My advice to all who suffer from stomach trouble is to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

British Premier Pleads For Understanding And Peace Among Nations

London.—In outlining the Government's proposal to alleviate unemployment, Mr. Lloyd George made the following declaration in the House of Commons:

"Peace and a good understanding among nations is vital. Let us get out of the atmosphere where if you talk about a German without a frown on your brow you are not a patriot. Trade cannot start in such an atmosphere. If you intervene to make peace, your motives are misunderstood; but if Great Britain will not do it, who will? We want to see the nations begin again the task of peace."

Mr. Lloyd George, referring to trade with Russia, said there had been no restrictions on the British side to trading, but that the total trade for the first eight months of the present year had been only £3,150,000, which showed there was not an unlimited field in Russia for British or any other enterprise.

In the debate following the Prime Minister's speech, Mr. Asquith said in his judgment the question of unemployment raised the necessity for re-consideration of the entire problem of international indebtedness, including the indebtedness of the Allies to one another, and the indebtedness of their late enemies to the Allies.

Pacific Naval Base Not Named

Premier Hughes Says It Will Not Be Singapore.

Melbourne. — Premier Hughes, speaking in the House of Representatives of the Commonwealth, said the question of a British naval base in the Pacific was discussed at the recent conference of the Empire and that a decision regarding it was reached. He added, however, that the base would not be at Singapore.

Premier Hughes' reference to Singapore may be taken in connection with an article in the London Daily Sketch reviewing the rumor that Great Britain was preparing a new naval base in the Pacific and which stated it was intended to spend £2,000,000 in converting Singapore into a first-class station. The Sketch added that if an agreement were reached at the Washington armament conference, the arrangement which included the creation of an alternative base of less importance in Australia, could be counter-manded.

A Red Cross Appeal For Peace

Nations Asked to Join in Campaign Against Spirit of War.

In virtue of a higher law and duty, and of principles above the level of human passions, the helping hand of the Red Cross was stretched forth to all victims throughout the ordeal of the Great War.

Today, the Red Cross owes it to itself and to all its many workers to proclaim as an ideal and a practical intention, a struggle against the horrors of war, an attempt by world-wide help and unselfishness definitely to abolish war.

The mere continuation of Red Cross actyiity in time of peace will no longer suffice. It is the wish of the Red Cross to work in the interest of peace.

Therefore, the Red Cross calls upon all whole-hearted citizens, irrespective of nationality, religious belief, profession, or social rank, to join, as far as lies in their power in a systematic campaign against that spirit of war, which is a constant menace to the world's peace.

During five years, millions of men were killed or mutilated. Today, thousands of ex-soldiers or prisoners at last set free bear indelible marks of bodily and mental suffering. All of them believed that the generations to come would reap the fruits of the great ordeal in a new international life, which would be more brotherly, franker and more full.

Instead, disorder and uncertainty, distrust and greed, hatred and the threat of fresh quarrels are re-appearing throughout the world. The spirit of war, unconquered, reigns supreme. Its sinister influence is evident. It inspires lines of policy and press campaigns, which lead public opinion astray and embitters the economic competition among nations.

During the terrible years of the recent war, superhuman efforts were required of the different nations. In order to inspire such sacrifices, a supreme reward was promised—namely, the annihilation of this same spirit of war, which is a peril as old as the world and a constant menace to mankind.

Thus generations yet unborn would have been delivered from the scourge at the price of the suffering which the war entailed. This hope sustained nations and armies.

Have they hoped in vain?

Have millions of human lives and the wealth of nations been sacrificed in vain?

Faced with these questions, the Red Cross recognized a duty.

At the suggestion of Senator Ciraole, Chairman of the Italian Red Cross, the tenth International Red Cross Conference, which met at Geneva on April 1st, 1921, voted the following resolution:

"The International Committee of the Red Cross and the League of Red Cross Societies shall address an appeal to all nations, exhorting them to combat the spirit of war, which dominates the world."

These two organizations call therefore on nations and individuals to fight with all means in their power this maleficent spirit. May statesmen, writers, school and university, capital and labor remember that it is their duty, in the interest of mankind, to help peace to conquer the earth. Above all, children should be brought up in this fundamental belief.

It is essential that the human mind should once more be open to the broad lines of an internationalism, which, while allowing the citizen to love his town and the patriot his country, teaches all men to respect the existence and the rights of their fellows, by bringing into the daily life the individual light of a justice, which is to be in all the world for all the time.

This true internationalism cannot be attained without the active and intimate co-operation of governments, parliaments, voluntary organizations, the press, the clergy, and above all, National Red Cross Societies. To the union of these forces must be added a supreme factor; the power of individual conviction.

WESTERN EDITORS

E. Hartland, Publisher of the Western Prairie, Cypress River, Man.

Every man, as far as lies in his power, must contribute to make peace permanent in the world.

The individual must no longer see the world in the light of his own selfishness, anger, fear and human passion, but in a spirit of concord and mutual aid.

Thus only can a better future be prepared.

Faithful to the ideal which inspired its founders, and which it has ever served, the Red Cross hereby declares before the whole world, that its work does not end with war. The Red Cross appeals to the heart of all mankind, that each individual may find in himself the needful strength and determination to make and keep universal peace.

Oil Light Beats Electric or Gas

Burns 94% Air

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light, even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 100 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal-oil).

The inventor, T. V. Johnson, 595 McDermot Ave., Winnipeg, is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him to-day for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $200 to $500 per month.

Bank Bandits Get Five Years Each

Sentence Given Men in Hold-Up at Elie, Man.

Winnipeg.—Six young robbers who set out to hold up the branch of the Bank of Hocheloga, Elie, Man., and got away with $1,200, were sentenced each to five years' imprisonment.

The men are Henry B. Quackenbush, James Redding, Sydney L. Roberts, George W. Adams, Clarence W. Adams and David Lefler. Lefler was the man left in charge of the owner of the stolen car which the bandits used. The others entered the bank.

Cascarets Tonight For Liver, Bowels, If Bilious, Headachy

Get a 10-cent box now.

You're headachy. You have a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, your lips parched. No wonder you feel mean. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are gone by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10-cent box will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets too because they never gripe or sicken.

Bomb Sent to U.S. Ambassador.

Paris.—A bomb exploded in the home of Myron T. Herrick, the United States ambassador, seriously injuring the valet who opened the package containing it. The room in which the explosion occurred was wrecked.

Mr. Herrick arrived at the house two minutes after the bomb blew up.

B. C. Canners State Freight Rates Forbid Shipment To Prairies

Vancouver.—While an unlimited n tural market for British Columbia f exists in the prairie provinces of C ada, fishing interests on the Paci coast have never been able to develop this market owing to the unfavorable railway freight tariffs between Pacific coast points to points in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba, B. E. Burke, manager of Wallace Fisheries here, and the leading salmon fish canner, told the Board of Railway Commissioners.

Although the British Columbia product is within a comparatively short distance of the prairie markets, the foreign market has always been more accessible than the nearby domestic market, Mr. Burke declared. During the war enormous quantities of B.C. fresh sea fish were shipped to the prairie provinces but not before the Government paid 25 per cent. of the freight rate. When this bonus was withdrawn at the close of the war the shipments of fish to prairie points fell off to practically nothing and this Mr. Burke attributed to the high freight rates. He urged the elimination of the mountain scale of tariff in order that British Columbia industries might develop a home market.

Comparative freight rates as between Vancouver and Eastern points and Montreal to Western points submitted by Mr. Burke indicated that the British Columbia shipper must pay a freight rate of 97.2 per cent. higher. The value of fish production in British Columbia in 1920 was $22,329,161, or 45.3 per cent. of that produced in all Canada.

F. G. Evans, representing the fruit and vegetable canners of the province, said that the industry he represented suffered from the same discriminatory freight rates as other industries in British Columbia.

Two Minutes Silence For Amistice Day

Proclamation Will Soon be Issued to Canadians.

Ottawa.—In compliance with the request of the British Colonial Office, the Canadian Government will shortly issue a proclamation calling upon all Canadians to observe the two minutes of silence from 11 o'clock in the forenoon until two minutes after, on Friday, November 11, the anniversary of the actual signing of the armistice. Special commemoration ceremonies will be held on Monday, November 7, as provided by the act passed at last session of Parliament.

The two minutes of silence will be observed on November 11 in order to make this mark of respect to those who fell, and in memory of the war, uniform throughout the Empire. As usual, all movement will cease for the period, including ships and trains.

British Boat Sinks Wrangel's Yacht

Former Head of Anti-Bolshevik Government Loses Fortune.

Constantinople. — General Baron Wrangel's entire personal fortune, his wife's, valued at 40,000 francs, and important documents of the Crimean Government were lost when the yacht Lucullus, on which the former head of the Anti-Bolsheviki Government in South Russia, lived, was sunk by the British steamer Adria.

The Lucullus rest in 70 feet of water, and it is believed divers may be able to recover part of the treasure.

Want Better Understanding

British Ambassador to U.S. Makes Special Plea.

Red Springs, N.C.—Standing under the United States flag with the Union Jack to his right and the flag of Canada to his left, Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador to the United States speaking before the Scottish Society of America in session here, made a plea for a better understanding of international problems by the people—the voters of the country—whom he styled as the real rulers in democratic countries.

Accept Wage Agreement

Chicago Plumbers and Carpenters Agree to End Strike.

Chicago.—Five thousand of the Journeymen Plumbers and Gas Fitters' Union, who have been on strike since the announcement of Judge Landis' wage award of $1 instead of $1.25 an hour, are returning to work under an agreement signed with the Master Plumbers' Association. Carpenters, who have been holding out for a wage scale of $1.25 an hour, now are returning to work at the Landis wage scale, unofficially it was said, though no contract has been signed.

Poisoned Candy Sent to Nurse.

Chicago.—An exhaustive search for the sender of a box of poisoned candy, responsible for the critical illness of six nurses at the West End Hospital, is being conducted by post office inspectors.

The box came through the mail and was addressed to a 17-year-old student nurse. It contained home made fudge, analysis of which was said to show that the deadly poison permeated all the candy.

Senate Ratifies Peace Treaties.

Washington.—The senate has ratified the treaty of peace with Germany, with the reservations reported by the foreign relations committee.

They also ratified the peace treaty with Austria by the same vote, and a similar peace treaty with Hungary, completing the administration's immediate peace programme with the former central powers.

Express Messenger Robbed

About $30,000 Secured From C.P.R. Train No. 4.

Moose Jaw.—Investigation by officials of the Dominion Express Company established the fact that approximately 30,000 was secured when H. Bartle, express messenger on train No. 4, C.P.R., was held up by an unknown bandit in the vicinity of Swift Current. The police, it is believed, are working on the theory that more than one man was concerned in the holdup.

Officials of the Saskatchewan Provincial Police have been scouring the Province in the vicinity of Parkbeg and Chaplin in quest of the bandit, or bandits. Inspector Goldsmith, with several police officers from Regina, has been directing the man-hunt, with Moose Jaw as headquarters.

A cordon of police has been thrown about the two suspected areas in the neighborhood of Chaplin and Parkbeg, and police officers have been afield in an attempt to round up the marauder.

PAINFUL DIARRHOEA

CRAMPS IN STOMACH

Mr. Fred Funston, Craik, Sask., writes:—"A year ago last harvest I was taken with a sudden attack of diarrhoea which completely laid me out, and in a few hours I had to quit work. The cramps in my stomach were dreadful, the beads of perspiration would stand out on my face at times I was in such great distress. At last I got a chance to send to town for a couple of bottles of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I used it according to the way I felt and soon obtained a great change for the better, for which I was very thankful. I don't know what the cause of my sickness was except the extremely hot weather and the active work of stooking the wheat.

Several of my neighbors were taken the same as myself and had the doctor attend them, but they didn't get any great relief until I advised them to use "Dr. Fowler's," when they soon experienced a great change.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been on the market for the past 76 years and many cheap imitations are being offered to the public.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

No More to Say

The government of British Columbia do pump to irrigate.
While Grand Forks, B. C., orchardists
do follow in its wake,
And many towns in Canada do pump
their whole supply;
It is the only source on which they can rely.
But in the Creston Valley men of dense minds and punk,
Refuse to have water forced them
with a pump.
They ridicule light and reason; at science look askance;
Because things in Canada are not like things in France.
Rarefied air, were it condensed, would give the bigger scheme,
For which L. L. sincerely prays some day will come to him.
The pioneers of Creston who have borne the heavy load
Of clearing timbered land for their home and their abode;
Those artful, foxy gentlemen their burden would increase
By forcing them to mortgage for the dew on Gideon's fleece.
You have been given proofs and para-
lell information you have spurned,
Thus no more pearls will be fed you so far as I'm concerned.
In the meantime, should you want it,
Creston town will be supplied
With bounteous streams of water pumped from the mountain side.

A Policy in Poetry

EDITOR REVIEW;

SIR,—This represents my view; how about your readers?

If all the world were farmers,
And each one grew his food,
And no one made machinery
Farm methods would be crude.

If we were all machinists
And no one raised our bread,
We wouldn't need machinery,
For soon we'd all be dead.

Or, if all of us were bankers
And wanted eight per cent—
Well, very soon we'd all go broke
Or else get badly bent.

And it is just the same in politics
Now that one hogs the lot;
The rich guy makes a killing, and
The farmer goes to pot.

So why not have a government
That represents us all?
That takes in all our citizens
In groups both large and small.

A little group for capital,
A group for labor, too;
And groups for all the classes,
including me and you.

WILL BE AS GOOD FARMERS AS THEY WERE SOLDIERS

From "United Farmer."

The Camp Lister local of the United Farmers were very much interested in the article on Camp Lister soldier-farmer colony, which appeared in your issue of August 1. Some of the points made by your correspondent are fair, but he is scarcely to be commended for the accuracy of some of his statements, or on his powers of observation during his residence here.

First your correspondent glibly tells the taxpayers that this settlement has cost the country $500,000. That statement is absolutely inaccurate and misleading. The land, buildings and cleaning done on this settlement is not a gift to the soldiers—please let that be thoroughly understood. We settlers have to pay for it all, and, though we are grateful for the loan, we feel that it is about time that the taxpayers should realize that we are neither asking for nor getting free gifts of large sums of money, as so many people seem to think. The results of the expenditure are here to let the taxpayers see how their money has been expended, and the agreements between the settlers and the government will be plain business agreements, so that their money is guaranteed.

Why, then, talk as though we were receivers of charity and the executive at Victoria guilty of squandering public money on us?

The Taxpayer Repaid

The $4 a day is "the big attraction and magnet and supporter of the colony," and "the executive government had spoiled these soldier settlers by giving them these $4 a day jobs," says the writer, and yet he continues "with $4 a day these men can hardly get ahead of the game of life sufficient to buy any stock whatever."

When those statements are placed together so, the last one makes "the big attraction" shrink and "the magnet" lose more than a little of its magnetism, don't you think? Of course, the truth is that the writer was striving after rhetorical effect at the expense of accuracy. The same applies to his statement that "our nightmare is the dread of the withdrawal of the $4 a day jobs and that it indicates the hired man's spirit rather than that of the farmer."

We settlers simply have not the few hundred dollars (at pre-war purchasing power) as had the rather egotistical Canyon man who would "kick the crutches from those fellows at Lister," consequently we had to work for a day wage, out of which we could save very little, if any. Had we those "few hundreds" we too could buy a cow and pigs and chickens and put in a potato patch, and, if we could buy them at 1919-10 prices, we would still have a few hundreds at the end of six months to buy lots of trees and bushes and still enough left over, so that we should not be in need of the crutches to which he referred.

MINERAL ACT

Certificate of Improvements

NOTICE

Kirby Fr., Kirby Fr. No. 1, Kirby, Kirby No. 2, Kirby No. 3, Kirby No. 4, Kirby No. 5 Mineral Claims, situate in the Ainsworth Mining Division of Kootenay District.

Where located: At Rhondel.

Take notice that I, A. H. Green, acting as agent for A. J. Curle, F.M.C. No. 30590c; W. T. Kirby, F.M.C. No. 30587c; E. L. Kirby, F.M.C. No. 30588c; Freida Burgess, F.M.C. 30591c; and R. V. D. Guthrie, Free Miner's Certificate No. 30589c, intend, sixty days from date hereof, to apply to the Mining Recorder for a Certificate of Improvements, for the purpose of obtaining a Crown Grant of the above claims.

And further take notice that action, under section 85, must be commenced before the issuance of such Certificate of Improvements.

Dated this 22nd day of September, A.D. 1921. A. H. GREEN.

Need bnt a Few Hundred

We think, even at present prices, a very few hundred would do away with the necessity for the daily wage, since we have now five acres each in a fair way for cultivation next spring, and some of us have some implements. In addition some trees are planted, while the remainder are here in nursery rows ready for planting out when the land is prepared. Lacking the few hundreds we must needs work for wages until such times as we can become producers. 'Tis a case of starve and let someone else utilize the land you are making ready for production, or work out now, work at home too, and become the producer yourself.

By the way, the taxpayer will be repaid for the use of those crutches, too.

When settlers came into Creston Valley years ago, they came in a few at a time, and, if they were not so lucky as the Canyon farmer, they would obtain work locally—railways, government work, the sawmills in the neighborhood—and they did so until they had sufficient capital laid by and sufficient land cleared to start farming proper. Had seventy or eighty of such men come in all at once they could not all have obtained work here, consequently such large numbers did not arrive. The government, however, thought the place suitable and brought us here. What other possible way could they have adopted to provide work and keep the men here and get the land cleared so satisfactorily? The time for the "credit at the bank," as proposed by your correspondent, was not in those early days. Co operation was needed to clear large areas satisfactorily, and that was obtained by giving us that $4 a day job to enable us to live with our families while the work was being done.

Getting on Their Feet

Regarding the 5 per cent. who have done any farming, and the 10 per cent. who have bought stock. We are glad to be able to bring your correspondent up-to-date on the matter. Practically every settler has his garden—a start—some have quite a bit. At least 29 have one or more cows; 25 have one or more horses; umpteen have poultry, and several have pigs. Probably this "Soldier's Son" could buy a few eggs, butter, milk and potatoes in Camp Lister after all. Small fruits we have not—at least not for sale—as it is only two years since the clearing first began here.

We cannot agree with the writer's opinion that to build houses, clear five acres and guarantee a job was a mistake at all. We know that our wives would live in a shanty if necessary, but we maintain that such conditions are not necessary, nor are they at all desirable either in their own interests and ideals, or in those of the state. As helpmates of their men folk, raisers and moulders of the future generation, they should have at least some degree of consideration and help. A decent home is absolutely necessary for them if they are to carry out their duties properly, especially as the home influences, early impressions and surroundings will inevitably influence the lives of their children—the future citizens of British Columbia.

Land Clearing Idea Splendid

To clear five acres for each settler is in our opinion a splendid idea. Co-operation in this way meant that modern methods could be employed to clear the land, sufficient for each settler to make a start, and expenses could be cut down to a minimum. With five acres cleared and ploughed a man could begin his ranching in earnest. Had the problem been approached in any other way, by any group of men, who had no previous experience in clearing land preparing it for cultivation, we maintain that very few would have had five acres in nearly as good condition as the land in this settlement at the present time. There have doubtless been mistakes made, Mr. Editor, but that is inevitable in a big new venture of this type. It was impossible that there should be no slight miscalculations and no necessity for some alterations and improvements as the work proceeded.

Can Now Begin Farming Right

We are, however, now at the stage where we can begin as farmers in earnest, and it is now that we need the "few hundreds" to buy the cow, etc., and put into practice the information we have gleamed from our neighbors in the valley who are established, and from reading. Strange that it should not have struck the 'Fils du Soldat," that we too had been picking up information during our two years here—information which, we trust, is more reliable than some of that which he gives to "our" paper.

Now is the time when a credit to the settler, as suggested by your corespondent, would be more valuable, when we are ready to begin the real farm work. Whether the government is able to carry out such a plan and give us a further helping hand, we do not know If they can it will be very helpful, as all those of us who will otherwise have to work out to get the further necessary capital, can not hope to obtain it in the valley Some have already gone to the prairies and mines to gather a stake to see them through the year.

In any case we can assure the readers and other taxpayers who are interested that we who are here, including those temporarily absent, all fully intend to make this settlement go ahead and show ourselves as good and successful farmers as your correspondent said we are soldiers.

The Vital Issue

"What we have to decide is this—Are we going to continue the protective system of this country or are we not? That is the question and that is the whole question. And the great, big, necessary thing is that every voter in this country from the Yukon to Halifax knows that this is the question he or she is deciding when he or she votes in this great contest."

—ARTHUR MEIGHEN

THE vital issue in the coming election—in fact, the only issue—is the Tariff, and to every clear thinking Canadian it should be readily apparent that a Protective Fiscal Policy is absolutely essential to stability, progress and development.

Every important country in the world upholds Protection as an essential economic principle. Even Great Britain—so long the stronghold of Free Trade—has now adopted laws that constitute Protection of the most effective kind. In fact, the present policy among most nations is towards raising their tariff walls, not lowering them. In the face of these facts it would be suicidal for Canada to do exactly the reverse and discard the fiscal system which has been responsible for its progress during the past forty-three years.

Free Trade would mean death to Canadian Industry. It would also result in the immediate closing down of Canadian plants of foreign firms, with consequent additional unemployment. There are to-day 650 American factories alone in Canada. Similar proposed ventures would be abandoned. New capital would refuse to come to a Country lacking adequate protection and present industrial enterprise would be promptly strangled by foreign competition.

The preservation of the home market by a Reasonable Protective Tariff is vital to both city dweller and agrarian alike—now as never before. More capital is urgently needed for the development of Canada's enormous resources, which will result in a lessening of unemployment and an increased population. More work and more workers will produce an enlarged home market for products of both city and farm, and the exodus of Canadian men and women—and the dollars they earn—will be precluded.

The United States has slammed her trade door in the face of Canadian farmers by adopting the Fordney Bill, and the farmer is consequently now even more dependent upon the home market than in the past.

Yet Crerar asks you to destroy that home market by voting for Free Trade.

King's policy—if he has one—will result in the destruction of the Tariff.

Meighen stands four square for Reasonable Protection—Protection for all the people—and asks for an overwhelming mandate to give both industry and agriculture that assurance which will spell prosperity for all. Individual prosperity depends upon National prosperity. Your personal interests and Canada's very existence hang upon your vote.

The Homesteaders

ROBERT J. C. STEAD

"I didn't know it," she protested, I don't believe either Beulah or Jim had any such thought in their head. But even if they did, Jim Travers is as decent a young man as there is in Plainville district, and you've nothing to be ashamed of except your own temper, that drove them away in the way they went."

"I won't listen to that kind of talk from you any longer," said Harris sternly. "I'll chase the young reprobates to earth, if it takes all summer. And unless you can clear yourself of being mixed up in this—well, there'll be something to settle on that score, too. Hitch up the drivers, Allan, and be quick about it."

"You're not going to leave your ploughing, are you?" asked his wife. The words sprang to her lips without any misintent. It was such an unusual thing for her husband, on any account, to leave the farm work unfinished. The practice on the Harris homestead was work first, all other considerations second.

"That's enough of your sarcasm," he snapped. "I would think when our name is threatened with a disgrace like this you would be as anxious to defend it as I am. How it is you go back on me in a moment like this? You're not the woman you once were, Mary."

"And you're not the man you once were, John," she answered. "Oh, can't you see that we're just reaping what has been sown—the crop we're been raising through all these years? Beulah's very life has been crying out for action, for scope, for room, for something that would give her a reason for existence, that would put a purpose into her life, and we've not tried to answer that cry. I blame myself as much as you, John, perhaps more, because I should have read her heart—I should have seen the danger signals long ago. But I was so busy, I didn't think. That's the trouble, John, we've been so busy, both of us, we haven't taken time to keep up with her. The present generation is not the past; what was enough for you and me isn't enough for our children. It doesn't do any good to scold—scolding doesn't change conditions; but if we'd stopped and thought and studied over them we might have changed them—or cured them. We didn't, John; you were too busy with your wheat and your cattle, and I was too busy with my house-work, and what have we made of it? We've gathered some property together, and our cares have grown in proportion, but that which was more to us than all the property in the world we have lost—because we valued it less." The tears were slowly coursing down her cheeks, and her thin, work-worn arms were stealing about his neck. "Don't think, dear," she whispered, "that I'm indifferent, or that this hurts me less than you, or that I would shield myself from one iota of my just blame, but let us face the fact that it has been our mistake rather than Beulah's."

He removed her arms, not ungently. "I never thought it would come to this," he said. "I thought I humoured her every way I could., As for our hard work—well, work makes money, and I noticed Beulah could spend her share. There was no protesting about the work that earned the money when she wanted a new hat or a new dress, and she generally got what she wanted."

"You don't understand, John. It wasn't the work, it was the making a god of work, and giving it so much of our lives that there was none left for her. That's why she looked somewhere else—if she has looked somewhere else."

"Allan works as hard and harder than ever Beulah did, and Allan doesn't feel that way about it."

"That's true," she admitted, "but Allan's ambition is work. He works and is satisfied, but Beulah thinks, and is not satisfied. It's the difference in their nature, and we didn't take it into consideration." In every phrase she tried to link his blame with hers, that the burden might unite instead of separate them.

"If she'd thought a little more before this mad prank it would have been better for everybody," he said. "Well, she'll have plenty of time to think yet." He stepped to the kitchen door, and from the nail above took down the repeating-rifle.

"You're not going to take that!" she cried. "Don't take that, John. It can't possibly do any good, and it may do a lot of harm."

"I won't do anything folish," he answered, "but I'll take it along. just the same."

Allan, with the drivers harnessed to the top buggy, was now at the door. Without saying good-bye to his wife Harris joined him, and the two set off on their search. Almost at the gate they met George Grant, who had come over to haul water for another day's ploughing. He stopped in some surprise at the turnout.

"I guess we won't be ploughing today," said Harris. He hesitated before George's questioning look, and a certain sense of family shame came upon him. But it was evident that he could hardly search for Beulah without mentioning her departure, and he might as well make a clean breast of the affair.

"Nothing wrong at home, I hope, Mr. Harris?" said the young neighbour, noting his troubled appearance. "Nobody sick, or anything?"

"Yes, there is something wrong," said Harris, trying vainly to control the bitterness in his voice. "Beulah's left us."

"Who, Beulah? I can hardly believe that, Mr. Harris. It was only last night I was talking with her."

"Well, she's gone. Left through the night. We—well, I'll tell you, George—we had a little disagreement, but I'd no notion she'd take it so much to heart. Of course you know about the trouble with Jim yesterday. Taking everything together—there won't be no ploughing to-day." Harris had said more than he meant; he could feel the colour mounting into his hair, and the bad English of his last words betrayed a subtle recklessness rather than carelessness of speech.

"Don't you believe a word of it," said George. "I know Jim, and I know Beulah, and if anybody else hinted what you've said you'd want to use that rifle on them. Like enough Beulah's staying somewhere around the neighbourhood, and she'll be back when she has time to think it over."

"That proves you don't know Beulah," said Allan. "As for Jim, I was never able to get below that smile, and I saw more of him than you did, George."

"Well, I hope you find a way out," said George, sincerely. "It would have been like her to come over to our place, but she isn't there. Maybe you'll find her at Morrison's."

"That's possible," said Harris. "We'll go over there, anyway."

But Morrisons knew no more of Beulah's whereabouts than did George, and inquiry at other homes in the neighborhood was equally futile. Harris shrank from carrying his search into the town, as he dreaded the publicity that would be attached to it. He was a subscriber, somewhat in arrears, to the local paper, and by calling on the editor and squaring up for a year in advance he could probably make himself solid in that quarter, but the gossip of the villagers could not be silenced by any such simple method. But as the day wore on and the search continued fruitless he finally found himself in Plainville. If Beulah and Jim were really married the Presbyterian minister would be likely to know something of the matter, and the Rev. Andrew Guthrie was a man of sense and discernment. Harris had frequently gone, to hear him preach before the labours of the farm had grown to their present magnitude, and he even yet contributed five dollars a year to the stipend.

Mr. Guthrie received his guest cordially, albeit with some wonderment as to which member of the family might be sick, but delicacy forbade a direct question. Now, in agricultural communities it is something of an offence to approach any matter of importance by frontal attack. There must be the due amount of verbal skirmishing, reconnoitering, and outflanking before the main purpose is revealed. Consequently, Harris, for all his torture of suspense, spent some minutes in a discussion of the weather, the crops, and the prospect of a labour shortage in harvest.

"They'll be all well at home, I hope?" said Mr. Guthrie at length, feeling that the custom of the community had been sufficiently honoured.

"Yes, all that's there," said Harris.

"All that's there? I didn't know any of your folks were away. Perhaps Mrs. Harris is down East? I'm sure a summer amid the orchards of her old home would be a delight to her, and, of course, Mr. Harris, you are able to gratify yourself in these little matters now. Things are not what they were in the early days, Jack, when I preached in Tom Morrison's log-house, and you led the bass at the services. I'll warrant that voice of yours could sing yet if you gave it a chance."

Harris received these remarks with a mixture of feelings. The minister's reference to his financial standing carried with it a certain gratification, but it consorted poorly with his recent conversations with his wife and with his present mission.

"And Beulah?" continued the minister, conscious that his first shot had gone wild. "She's a fine young woman now. I see her in church occasionally. In fact, I was speaking with Mrs. Burton, the choir leader, a day or so ago, and Beulah's name was mentioned between us."

"It was about Beulah I came to see you," said Harris, with averted eyes. Then in a few words he gave his version of what he knew and what he suspected.

"I fear I can add nothing to your information," said Mr. Guthrie. "They haven't been here. and, as you say, if Beulah contemplated marriage I think she would have called on me. Travers, too, I knew a little, and thought him a decent chap. But we must find the girl and talk this over quietly with her. Is there any place in town she would be likely to go to? What about Mrs. Goode's boarding-house? I will just call up on the telephone. I can make inquiry without the necessity of any explanations."

Inquiry at the house of Mrs. Goode brought a strong ray of light out of the darkness. Beulah had been there during the morning, and had explained that she was leaving on the westbound train, which even now was thrumming at the station. On learning this, without a word, Harris sprang into the buggy, while Allan brought a sharp cut of the whip across the spirited horses. They reached the railway station half a minute late; the train was already pulling out, and as Harris's eyes followed it in anger and vexation they plainly saw Jim Travers swing lithely on to the rear platform.

With an oath the farmer reached for his rifle, but Allan wrenched it from his hands before any onlookers noted the action. 'Don't be a fool," he whispered, and started the horses homeward.

CHAPTER X.

Into The Farther West.

For the first time in his life Harris surrendered his purpose to the judgment of his son, and as they drove homeward along the dusty trail in the heat of the day the consciousness came home to him that Allan was right. To have used his gun would, of course, have been madness; he had never seriously intended doing anything so rash, although for one impetuous momen this passion had made him irresponsible. And, as he thought it all over, he concluded that nothing was to be gained by pursuit of the runaways. There was only one westbound train in the day; he could not give chase until the morrow, and they would be able to lead him by twenty-four hours as long as he cared to keep up the pursuit. True, he might telegraph ahead to the police, but that meant publicity, and would probably be ineffectual in the end. She had gone of her own free will, and although his heart hurt even under his anger, now that she had gone she might stay. She had left a good home, a fond father, and a share in the family estate for a—hired man—and she might now make the best of her bargain. Harris assured himself, with absolute sincerity, that he had done his duty in the matter, and that in exchange for all his kindness his daughter had treated him very badly indeed.

Remarkable Gain In Weight Reported By This Young Woman

"Before I began taking Tanlac I only weighed 76 pounds, I now weigh over one hundred and am gaining every day," said Miss La Rue Davis, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

"I bought my first bottle of Tanlac at Gas City, Ind., and it helped me so much that I continued using it. I have always been very delicate and suffered a great deal from stomach trouble and rheumatism. I rarely ever had any appetite and simply could not relish anything. I fell off until I only weighed 76 pounds and was so thin I looked perfectly awful. This is the condition I was in when I began taking Tanlac.

"Oh, I feel so different now. Even my complexion is improved. My appetite is good and I can hardly get enough to eat. Tanlac is simply grand and I can truthfully say it is the only medicine that has ever done me any good."

Liberty Is Britain's Binding Principle

Empire Based on Goodwill and a Common Understanding.

"The British Empire is a saving fact in a very distracted world. It is the most hopeful experiment in human organization which the world has yet seen. It is not so much that it combines men of many races, tongues, traditions and creeds in one system of Government. Other empires have done that. But the British Empire differs from all in one essential respect. It is based not on force but on goodwill and a common understanding. Liberty is its binding principle. Where that principle has not hitherto been applied it is gradually being introduced into the structure."

"The opportune revelation supplied by the war of the unity of the British Empire has, in my judgment, altered the history of the world."—Lloyd George.

Mother! Move Child's Bowels With California Fig Syrup

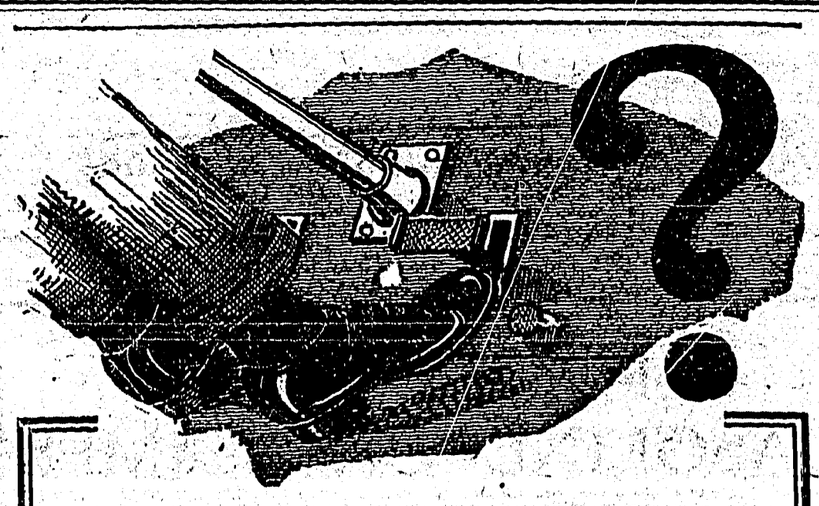
Hurry mother. Even a sick child loves the "fruity" taste of "California Fig Syrup" and it never fails to open the bowels. A teaspoonful today may prevent a sick child tomorrow. If constipated, bilious, feverish, fretful, has cold, colic, or if stomach is sour, tongue coated, breath bad, remember a good cleansing of the little bowels is often all that is necessary.

Ask your druggist for genuine "California Fig Syrup" which has directions for babies and children of all ages printed on bottle. Mother! You must say "California" or you may get an imitation fig syrup.

An Australian Bishop noticed in his congregation a strange face. A day or two later the Bishop met the stranger in the street, congratulated him upon his attendance at the cathedral, and added, "You don't live here, do you?" "No," said the stranger. "I live way back"—mentioning the name of the place. "Have you many Episcopalians there?" inquired the Bishop. "No, sir," was the reply. "What we are mostly worried with is rabbits!"

Dust Causes Asthma. Even a little speck too small to see will lead to agonies which no words can describe. The walls of the breathing tubes contract and it seems as if the very life must pass. From this condition Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy brings the user to rest and health. It relieves the passages and normal breathing is established again.

To love and to be loved is our happiness. It is the foundation of life. Flowing from that source are many specific loves, but of these none are absolutely essential, although we are freely given of them all.



Are you stepping on the brake or the accelerator?

The food you eat does make a difference.

Heavy, starchy foods often do slow down body and mind—often steal the energy that belongs to the day's work. Grape-Nuts is a go-ahead food. It contains the perfected nourishment of Nature's best grains. It includes all those elements needed to nourish body and brain. It is easy to digest. It gives energy without taking energy.

How about your breakfast or lunch—does it give, or take?

Grape-Nuts is sweet, crisp, delightful to the taste, and is an ideal source of power for a busy and difficult day.

THE FALL WEATHER HARD ON LITTLE ONES

Canadian fall weather is extremely hard on little ones. One day it is warm and bright and the next wet and cold. These sudden changes bring on colds, cramps and colic, and unless baby's little stomach is kept right the result may be serious. There is nothing to equal Baby's Own Tablets in keeping the little ones well. They sweeten the stomach, regulate the bowels, break up colds and make baby thrive. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Taffeta Frock For Informal Affairs

By Marie Belmont.

This attractive frock is fashioned from a very lovely piece of apricot colored taffeta. The bodice, which fits the figure snugly, is made in a low waisted style. The skirt shows a somewhat bouffant apron back and front. These aprons are scalloped about the edges and bound with China blue taffeta. The front of the dress is enriched with blue roses made of the taffeta. These are appliqued on the apron as well as on the bodice. A rather straight neckline tops this frock. The scalloped effect is apparent again on the cuff of the long slashed sleeve. A rose made of the blue taffeta ornaments the lower part of the sleeve.

Miller's Worm Powders act mildly and without injury to the child, and there can be no doubt of their deadly effect upon worms. They have been in successful use for a long time and are recognized as a leading preparation for the purpose. They have proved their power in numberless cases and have given relief to many children, who but for the good offices of this compound, would have continued weak and enfeebled.

One of the best known guides in Nova Scotia gives this testimonial of MINARD'S LINIMENT:

Have used Minard's Liniment in my home, hunting and lumber camps for years, and consider it the best white liniment on the market. I find that it gives quick relief to minor ailments, such as sprains, bruises and all kinds of wounds. Also it is a great remedy for coughs, colds, etc., which one is liable to catch when log driving and cruising during the winter and spring months. I would not be without MINARD'S LINIMENT and cannot recommend it too highly.
