THE CRESTON REVIEW

VOL. XV. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 23, 1923 No. 3

Wynndel

Last Wednesday's hard times dance put on by the Wynndel Ladies Aid was a huge success. Prizes were awarded to Miss M. Topliss and Mr. Packman. Everyone was feeling good, and a real good time was spent.

The Co Operative Fruit Growers held a meeting on Tuesday night to receive a report from the B.C. Berry Growers Association.

The United Farmers had their annual meeting on Thursday night, when H. F. Packman was elected president and A. H. Piggottre-elected secretary. The U.F. now has a new and lively entertainment committee and great things are expected of them.

Mrs. J. B. Rudd left on Monday for Vancouver, where she will undergo hospital treatment for diabetes, from which she has been a great sufferer of late.

There will be a dance in the old schoolhouse on Saturday night, under United Farmers' auspices, dancing to start at 8 o'clock. Gentlemen 50c., ladies please bring lunch. All welcome.

Alice Siding

Miss Tresa Churchill, who has been visiting Nelson friends for a few days, returned home on Tuesday.

Guy Constable, who has been a business visitor at Vernon and other Okanagan points the past three weeks, arrived home on Monday.

Messrs. Carr, Sutcliffe and Hood have been busy with their teams the past week stocking up Creston firms with a summer's supply of ice, the last cold snap giving the frozen fluid a thickness of almost eighteen inches.

A party of almost half a hundred young and middle aged residents of this section foregathered at the Compton packing shed on Friday night, where one of the biggest dances of the season was held accompanied by a fine supper—and a fine time, in consequence, is reported by all present.

The cold snap last week cut the school attendance to less than half a couple of days but sessions were held every day nevertheless.

The chilly and breezy weather that prevailed on the 18th had no terrors for Social Club members who were out in almost full force for the fortnightly dance at the clubhouse on the Pendry place, excellent music being provided by Messrs. McNeil, Tom Marshall and Hector Stewart.

Canyon City

Dr. Illsley of Salmon Arm, provincial veterinary inspector, made an official call at Canyon last week, and made an inspection of the cattle at the Huygens & VanAckeran ranch.

Dr. Henderson of Creston is a frequent visitor in and through Canyon. A few of the men at Camp 3 have been on the sick list lately and requiring his attention.

Guy Browell is taking a rest this week. The heavy handling of ties and truck driving being a little too much for his bad arm.

Canyon Minstrels had a packed house for their show at the schoolhouse on Saturday night, and after paying all expenses will have at least $30 for the piano fund. The programme menu consisted of twenty two numbers about half of which were musical and the others coon comedy sketches of a most amusing sort and these along with the music features were well handled in almost every instance. Whilst all taking part are well deserving of the many complimentary references made to their effort, special mention is due Miss Muriel Knott upon whom devolved the task of training the younger members of the troupe, all of whom acquitted themselves most creditably. As pianist Principal Kolthammer also helped materially in putting the show over in satisfactory style. Those taking part were Mr. and Mrs. Kolthammer, T. R. Mawson, Fred Browell, Hilton Young, Misses Muriel and Frances Knott, Fred and Alfred Bond, Jeffrey Knott, Alfred Speaker and Charlotte and Stella Speaker, Kathleen and Bob Clayton, Jim Bateman, Norman, Minnie and Rita Strong and Ernest Hickey.

A. G. Samuleson expects to complete his contract cut of 5000 ties for Canyon City Lumber Company, Ltd., by the end of the month. With the good sleighing that has prevailed the company have now completed the haul of the Samuelson cut of poles.

Mrs. McPhatter and Miss Vickers, who have been visitors with Mrs. Wetherhead, left at the end of the week for Vancouver.

Three sleighloads of Lister people were here on Saturday night for the minstrel show. The minstrels are having a meeting this week to decide whether they will accede to the request for the appearance of the minstrels at Lister and Porthill.

The social committee of the United Farmers are putting on a whist drive and dance at the schoolhouse on Saturday night, Feb. 24th, to which all are invited.

It would look as if considerable land clearing will be done in the Canyon area this year, judging by the orders for powder that are already in the hands of Secretary Kolthammer of the United Farmers.

Mrs. Chas. Moore left this week for Kaslo, where she will probably spend the next month visiting her mother and other friends in that town.

EGGS FOR HATCHING—Purebred White Wyandotte setting eggs, from good winter layers, $1.25 per setting of 14 eggs. Carl Wigen, Wynndel.

Sunny weather has prevailed since the end of the week, and is rapidly taking off the snowfall of about a foot that happened along on Thursday last, after the cold snap and gales had eased off.

Kitchener

Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Young of Creston were week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Driffil.

Mrs. Kearney, who has been a patient in Cranbrook hospital, has returned home.

Miss Roberts of Kaslo has arrived on a visit to Mr. and Mrs. McKennen.

Miss Schmidt of Sirdar was a week-end guest of Mrs. Hunt.

A basket social and dance was held in Hunt's Hall for the benefit of the school. Everyone had an enjoyable time. Financially it was a great success—so great that even the expansive countenances of Trustees Hunt, Johnson and McGonegal were hardly spacious enough to adequately show off the smiles that they were wearing. The total proceeds were about $160, some of the baskets goibg as high as $26.

Lister

Messrs. Brown, Burgess and H. Langston, who have been visitors here for a week, left for Klockmann again on Sunday to resume work.

F. Bunting and family are moving to Porthill for a few months, where Frank is working at lumbering operations near that town.

A number from here were at the Huscroft schoolhouse on Saturday night for a dance, which was very largely attended and a very fine time was spent by all the guests.

Three sleighloads from here also made the trip to Canyon for the minstrel show on Saturday night, but were rather disappointed in the evening's fun, the show being more of a musical affair than real minstrelsy.

Jas. Huscroft, who has been confined to the house the past week with a very severe cold is able to be about again as usual.

Misses Redpath and Hardisty of the school teaching staff, who have been staying at the Langston home the past six months, are now stopping with Mrs. John Johnston.

A song service of Salvation Army sacred numbers was held at the Weston home on Sunday evening with over twenty of the Lister people attending and very much enjoying the musical occasion.

The donkey engine was dismantled last week and hauled to Canyon siding for shipment to the coast, but as yet nothing is doing at shipping out the stock of lumber.

C. W. Traves of Grand Forks, provincial poultry inspector, was here on Saturday night, when he addressed a fairly well attended meeting in the schoolhouse, discussing the new Kootenay egg marketing association which will be open for business at Nelson this month. Another meeting will be held on Thursday night here to be attended by those interested at Canyon, at which arrangements will be made for co-operative effort in handling egg shipments from both centres. At Lister almost 95 per cent. of the egg output has been signed up for the new movement.

West Creston

J. W. Pendry and family, who have been residents here for almost the past two years, have moved across to Creston, and are occupying the house on the Tose ranch.

Jack Stephens is here from Tacoma, Wash., at present, and is busy at present at woodcutting operations.

West Creston appears to have been warmer than other points in the Valley during last week's cold dip, ten below being the coldest experienced here.

Some trapping operations are being carried on in this section, but about the only successful ones are the Indians who are getting a few rats.

The good sleighing which followed last week's cold dip has been so well taken advantage of by the hay haulers that very few stacks, if any, of this feed can now be seen on the flats.

Johnny French is now stopping with John Irvine whilst attending the Klocman school.

The below zero weather of last week has put a thick coat of ice on the river, and the ferry is laid up for the time being. According to the official records January was about the busiest month the ferry has ever had, almost 600 round trips being made last month.

With the prospect of the road to connect with the Klockmann place being given serious attention this year there is likely to be considerable land clearing this season. More prospective land buyers have visited Creston the past year than ever before and owners are expecting considerable demand for land this year.

Erickson

Mrs. Geo. Cartwright left this week for a holiday visit with relatives and friends in Cranbrook.

Walter Long has re-joined the staff of the Imperial Bank at Creston commencing work at the middle of the month.

Miss Green, principal of Erickson school, was a week-end visitor at her home in Kaslo, returning on Monday. There will be a session of school on Saturday to make up the lost day.

Miss Ruby Palmer left on Saturday for Nelson where she is a visitor with Mrs. Whimster for a few days.

After surviving last week's cold dip without a frozen main anywhere the water users' community are quite safe in figuring the system frostproof.

Apple shipping has been brisk this week. Staples Fruit Company, Limited, loaded out two straight cars on Monday, whilst the Tuesday way-freight took away a couple hundred more boxes.

The Botterill home was the rendezvous of the younger set of Creston and Erickson on Tuesday night when a sendoff dance was given Joe Atkinson, who expects to leave this week for Mullen, Idaho, where he has secured a position and will reside in future. Dancing was the feature of the evening, with a sumptuous lunch served about midnight.

Mrs. Fenton Smith was at home to her numerous Erickson friends on Tuesday evening of last week, whist being the feature of the evening, with the high score prizes going to Mrs. G. P. Smith and T. W. Bundy, whilst the low score trophies were carried off by Mrs. Bundy and Roy Telford. There was a splendid supper about midnight, and the evening was very much enjoyed by all.

1923 Presbyterial Convention Here

There was a large turnout—with every denomination in the town represented—at the initial and open session of the annual conference of the Women's Missionary Society Presbyterial, which is in session here, at St. Stephen's Church Tuesday night, the local pastor, Rev. J. A. James, conducting the opening exercises.

In most happy fashion greetings were extended the guests by Mrs. Lyne, from Christ Church, and Mrs. Fralick, president of the Methodist Ladies' Aid, after which Mr. James also bid them a cordial welcome coupled with the wish that their deliberations would be mutually helpful and their visit pleasant socially.

There is a full quota of delegates present from the Presbyterian congregations at Grand Forks, Trail, Nelson and Cranbrook—the ladies being bilieted at a number of Presbyterian homes in town.

Following the opening features Rev. Dr. Shearer, who is a visitor here this week, gave a splendid talk on the work of the Social Service Council of the church, citing numerous instances to show that the work is being well carried on and is in every way worthy of the hearty support of church people.

The other speaker of the evening was Miss Mitchell, travelling secretary of the W.M.S. who devoted her attention to a review of the W.M.S. effort generally both at home and abroad, pointing out the wide field for useful service that exists amongst the new comers from other lands in Western Canada.

Wednesday members engaged in the routine work of the annual conference, which includes a yearly report from the several branches scattered throughout the Kootenay Presbytery, the Creston local organized last October being the newest.

The visitors were being very hospitably entertained in the spare time at their disposal, Mrs. Henderson being a dinner hostess previous to Tuesday night's session, while at the noon recess Wednesday all were guests of Mrs. James at a luncheon at the manse.

Owing to the extensive business to be disposed of, and although the Wednesday night session did not adjourn until almost 11 o'clock, a Thursday morning session of the Presbyterial was necessary to clean the slate, a very hearty vote of thanks being tendered the members of Creston W.M.S., and the ladies of St. Stephens congregation generally for the hospitality extended the visitors.

The morning session was featured by the election of the 1923 Presbyterial officers as follows:

Hon. President—Mrs. McEachern, Mrs. J. Smith.
President—Mrs. E. W. MacKay, Cranbrook.
1st. Vice-President—Mrs. A. A. McKinnon, Cranbrook.

Develop Canada's Foreign Trade

The prosperity of the Canadian people depends upon the development of the natural resources of the Dominion for the use of people both at home and abroad. Possessed as yet of only a small population, but with a great extent of territory and an enormous wealth in natural resources, it is a self-evident fact that if the development of Canada's resources is limited to the requirements of the home market, growth will be regretably slow and the prosperity of all people now resident in the Dominion long delayed. While Canada needs population, and the resultant much enlarged home market, it also requires that its foreign trade be enormously and even rapidly extended.

No nation, any more than an individual family, can become rich and prosperous by trade confined to and carried on among its own members. Particularly in the case of a country like Canada, still largely in an undeveloped and pioneer state compared with other countries, is it essential that the raw materials of our resources be developed and sold to those other nations requiring them, and who in turn have something which Canada cannot produce for itself.

Without encroaching upon the realm of controversial political topics, it can, we think, be stated without fear of successful contradiction that the economical, fiscal or trade policy of Canada for many years has been based on the principle of seeking to conserve the home market of Canada to Canada, rather than seeking to develop Canada by energetically endeavoring to place Canadian products in foreign markets. That is to say, the theory which has found general acceptance has been that it was much more important that Canadian-made goods and products should be sold in Canada, even to the exclusion of foreign-made goods and products, than to develop the use of Canadian products and promote Canadian industry and bring wealth into Canada through the export of our goods and products to other lands.

Without presuming to pass judgment in this column on the wisdom or unwisdom of such a policy in the years that have passed, we are strongly of the opinion that the present Canadian policy is following along correct and sound lines in seeking to obtain a larger entrance for Canadian products into the markets of other countries. The action of the Dominion Government during the past few months in negotiating trade treaties with France, Italy and Australia, and in opening negotiations for similar treaties with Belgium and Spain, and possibly with other countries, is undoubtedly in line with the present-day requirements of Canadian industry and progress.

It is an illuminating fact recorded in the press recently that, following the signing of a trade treaty with France, one of the big Ontario manufacturers of agricultural implements secured a large French order, and this Canadian factory began working full staffed and full time on the order at a time when the domestic demand was more or less stagnant.

Canadians can, generally speaking, be depended upon to give a preference in their purchases to the products of their own fields and factories when these can be obtained of as good quality as those of other countries. Both national pride and self-interest dictate the use by Canadians of Canadian-made articles, and compulsion is not needed to promote such trade. But the active interest and assistance of Government is required to open the doors and pave the way for an expansion in Canada's export trade. This is about all a Government should be expected to do. It then remains for transportation interests, both railway and mercantile marine, for financiers, manufacturers and commercial interests generally, to seize the opportunity presented to them and push Canada's wares into these markets.

It is to be hoped that the steps already taken to extend Canada's trade abroad will be continued. Canada needs the services of a larger number of alert and efficient trade commissioners abroad, men appointed not through political pull, or with the idea of providing a soft berth for some friend or party worker, but keen commercial travellers or sales managers for Canada, men on the spot in the world's trade centres who will improve every opportunity to introduce Canada's products into those markets, and who will promptly report every favorable factor that can be utilized for Canada's benefit.

A big, broad, comprehensive trade policy, national in its scope and international in its operations, is one of the things which, rightly conceived and energetically directed, will prove a powerful agency in bringing a return of industrial and commercial activity to Canada and prosperity to its people.

Would Enlarge Probation System

Recommendations to Go Before the Council of the Canadian Bar Association

An increase in the system of probation; permission to administer spanking as punishment of youthful offenders; the necessity of at least five years as a barrister-at-law in order to become eligible for appointment to a judgeship or a magistracy; administrations of prisons after the manner of factories, where wages should be paid to prisoners, to go largely to the support of the prisoners' families; are some of the recommendations to go before the Council of the Canadian Bar Association. They were read by Judge Coatsworth at a meeting of the York Pioneers' Society in Toronto.

With regard to the present-day method of treatment of prisoners, Judge Coatsworth said: "It has been found that 80 to 90 per cent. of the offenders who are placed on probation or parole live up to the required standard and find their way back to respectable society."

A Land of White Houses

People in Bermuda Use No Color in Building

The Bermudas are a land of white houses. No other color is to be seen. They are all built of the native white stone of coral formation, which underlies every foot of soil. When first quarried the stone is so soft that it may be cut with a knife, but it hardens with exposure to the air. When a Bermudan wishes to build himself a house, all he has to do is to buy himself a piece of land and scrape off a foot or two of soil to reach his quarry.

By means of a saw the stone is cut into pieces of the proper size. Thin, flat slabs of the stone material form the roof. The houses, even including the roofs, are frequently whitewashed on the outside, and contrast strongly with the deep green verdure by which they are surrounded. There are no shanties, as there are in the rest of the world.

WHY BACKS ACHE

The Kidneys Seldom to Blame—The Trouble Due to Blood Impurities

There is more nonsense talked about backache than any other trouble. Some people have been frightened into the belief that every backache means deadly kidney trouble. As a matter of medical fact not one backache in twenty has anything to do with the kidneys. Most backaches come from sheer weakness and kidney drugs can't help that. You need something to improve your blood and build you up, and that is exactly what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do. Some backaches are really muscular rheumatism; some are the symptoms of such ailments as influenza, indigestion, constipation and liver troubles. In women most backaches come from any weakness or irregularity of the blood supply. To get rid of the trouble take a tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to enrich the blood and bring strength to aching backs and weak nerves. Mr. W. Prince, Lovering, Ont., tells what these pills did for him. He says:—"Periodically I suffered for about five years with backache. If I caught cold it seemed to settle in my back which pained me so badly that I could hardly turn over in bed. These attacks would last for a week or ten days. I tried many remedies but they did not drive away the trouble. About two years ago, while suffering from one of these attacks a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I followed his advice with the best of results, as I have had no attack of the trouble since, and I feel sure that I am permanently relieved."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail postpaid at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Dairying In Alberta

Dairying is the mainstay of farming in the Vermilion district. Between May 1st and October 31st, 1922, approximately 600,000 pounds of butter were shipped to Vancouver. During the months of June, July and August that local dairy company paid out $800 daily for cream to various patrons.

Very Few Farmers Take Advantage Of Opportunity To Move From Dry Areas

Comparatively few of the farmers in the drought-stricken areas of Saskatchewan and Alberta are taking advantage of the provisions which assist them to leave their present locations and move further north in the same provinces where droughts have not been encountered to the same extent, according to information reaching the Department of Agriculture here. Some 200 or 300 farmers in Southern Alberta are stated to have sought new locations under the assistance provided by the Federal and Provincial Governments and the number in Saskatchewan is not more than a few dozen.

"The farmers in the prairie provinces are not quitters," said an official of the department. "There is a healthy feeling of optimism among them and a determination to stick where they are and win, rather than move to a location where next year might see a crop failure as disheartening as those they experienced in the last few years. Another factor which has had considerable bearing on the matter is that in Northwestern Saskatchewan, from about Scott westward, the crops this year were decidedly disappointing, while in the southern district they were more satisfactory.

"All in all, the western farmers today are decidedly more optimistic than they were a year ago. Though prices are low, there is hope that conditions will improve and production costs be reduced before another crop."

SUFFERED SO FROM HEART AND NERVES LIFE WAS A BURDEN

Mr. A. H. Lee, Beamsville, Ont., writes:—"I am delighted to let you know what I have to say regarding the good Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills did me.

A short time ago I suffered with heart and nerve trouble, and was so bad I could not sleep, only about two hours each night. My heart was so bad I had spells when driving on the road and would faint away, and neighbors would carry me in from my wagon. I also took these spells in the night and during my daily work on the farm. My nerves were so bad I would jump out of bed, and was then compelled to walk the floor before I could settle down again, but after taking a few boxes of

Is Through With Exploration Work

Stefansson Will Devote Time to Telling of Commercial Possibilities of Polar Areas

Vilhjamur Stefansson, Arctic explorer, has announced abandonment of his career as an explorer to devote his efforts to proving to a skeptical world that within a decade or two the north polar ocean will be crossed by a network of commercial aviation routes and that the Arctic regions, hitherto known as mysterious, uninhabitable lands, will be a source of developed resources unlimited in magnitude.

Mr. Stefansson said his decision to give up the polar explorations which have made him internationally famous, was prompted by his conviction that the age of exploration was now to yield to the age of commercial development.

"Oil, coal and other resources are there. Climatic conditions are not unconquerable; people are living and flourishing in places where there are colder winters than those at the north pole. For example, temperature at the pole is about 60 degrees below zero, while 70 below zero has been registered in North Dakota, where the winters are just as severe as in the Arctic.

"The course of empire—of civilization—must inevitably move towards the north."

Lions on the Line

Some of the Troubles of Railroading In Africa

We have our railway troubles in Canada, but they are not like those of Uganda. The railway, says The Montreal Gazette, runs through a vast zoological garden. At one station a lion paced the platform like a stationmaster. Another occupied the telegraph office, and a third was in the refreshment room, in which he must have done more than the usual grumbling at the fare.

"There were no more, but the station staff decided that three were enough to deal with the local business and retired. The engine driver surveyed this lion house from afar, and, being a man of infinite resource and sagacity, performed a fantasia of modern music upon his whistle. The lions recognized that civilization has horrors surpassing the endurance of a primitive nature and withdrew."

In Canada there is a conflict between public and private ownership and control, but in Africa there is the most primitive warfare between man and beast.—The Toronto Globe.

Calgary Ponies Win Prizes

Calgary ponies, owned by Peter Welch, and ridden by his daughter and sons, won a total of eighty-four prizes at the Horse Show at Springfield, Mass., and Brockton, Mass., recently. These ponies were shown in competition with practically the best jumpers in the United States and made almost a clean sweep.

Men Do Women's Work

Some Of The Reasons Why Recognition Of Russia By Other Nations Is Delayed

Speaking in the All-Russian Soviet congress, Leo Kameneff said that the only kind of an agreement Russia would make "with bourgeois nations must be like the treaty we made with Germany at Rapallo. We will make no agreement with any other nation that does not give us political recognition—equality."

The chief reason why recognition of Soviet Russia has been slow is that she has not in fact been willing to treat on a basis of political equality. She has laid down a rule of "heads we win, tails you lose," and has arrogantly demanded that other nations conform to it. Even in the act of claiming full recognition she announced at the outset that it is legitimate, in the interest of the international proletariat, to trick "bourgeois" governments, to break faith with which is merely a manoeuvre of class warfare.

Declaiming against the delay in other governments to accord Russia full recognition, the Soviet system openly proclaimed the policy of "boring within" those governments for the purpose of ultimately accomplishing their destruction—a holy cause in which any means, however treacherous or violent, was held by Communist moralists to be justified.

If from the beginning Soviet Russia had merely insisted upon the right of the Russian people to overthrow one government, or two, or three, and set up one more to their liking, without interference from other governments, its case would have been largely impregnable. Willingness to treat on terms of real equality, which include a live and let live breadth of view, is the only basis on which enduring political relations can be established between the nations.—From the New York World.

A Hundred Dollars Worth For Thirty-Five Cents

When you are awakened from a sound sleep by Cramps, when without a moment's warning pain springs upon you, it's then you would readily pay a hundred dollars for the quick relief you could secure from a thirty-five cent bottle of trusty old Nerviline. Nothing like Nerviline to relieve cramps, stomach gas, diarrhoea and kindred ills. Nothing better for Neuralgia, cold in the chest and sore throat. The price of Nerviline is thirty-five cents, no more, no less, in all stores where medicines are sold.

Railway Problem Solved

Smokeless Locomotive Has Been Invented by Russian

The problem of smokeless railroad traffic, which has been troubling large cities all over the world, has been solved by the invention of a new locomotive by Professor Lomonozev, of the Russian railroad commission at Berlin, and Professor Meinacke, of the Charlottenburg Technical High School. The new engine will have no smoke stack and will look more like an ordinary baggage car than a locomotive.

Professor Lomonozev says his invention will make it possible to build railroads in the Sahara Desert and other vast stretches where there is no water.

"It took me sixteen years to complete this invention," Professor Lomonozev said. "Just before the war began the Czarist Government placed at my disposal a large fund to enable me to make the necessary experiments, but these were interferred with by the great conflict. Henry Ford, in the United States, and others in England are trying to build a new motor for use in countries short of coal or water, but so far as I know they have not succeeded.

Professor Meinacke and I have finally solved this problem, and already two Diesel engines are being built according to our design. They will be finished and tried out early next year, and the first new locomotive will be used on the German and Russian railroads about next August."

The contract for the exploitation of this invention was signed Dec. 14 by the Russian Government and four steel companies.

Can Fear Cause Disease?

Doctors Believe Many People Are Frightened Into Illness

Once upon a time an old man of the mountains met Death going upon a journey. The man asked whither the dire messenger was bound. "Into the city in the valley to spread a disease and take 10,000 people." Death answered—and passed on his way. A few weeks after the old man of the mountains met the spectre returning. "You told me," he remonstrated with Death, "that you were only going to kill 10,000 people in your epidemic. Why, there are 30,000 dead!" And Death said, "Oh, I only killed my 10,000; fear killed the rest."

Taking up the eastern fable in even modern days, the American Medical Association has felt constrained to issue a bulletin on diseases through fear. It is moved to do so because of the mental fiction mainly about cancer. It approves of the dissemination of certain doctrines among the people, but declares that one of the surest results of centring public attention upon any particular disease is to frighten a large number of healthy persons to such an extent that they develop manias as terrifying as the disease itself. The bulletin issued through the medical reference bureau puts the matter strikingly thus:

"An inevitable accomplishment of directing special attention to any disease is to arouse in a certain number of persons phobias almost as terrifying as the diseases feared. To warn the public that 'moles, excrescences, fistulas, and warts are the first signs of cancer' is to erect a spectre capable of shattering even a normal mentality. To say that 'symptoms of indigestion' are 'signs of cancer' is so small a part of the whole truth that it is better unsaid."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Open Sulphate Mine

Company Formed to Exploit Deposits at Dana, Sask.

Under the title of "Salts and Chemical" an eastern company has established a plant at Dana, Sask., on the Canadian National main line west of Humboldt. The intention of this company is to exploit the sodium sulphate deposits that the Muskakee springs yield every year. It is estimated that about 30,000 tons of salt cake will be produced annually there with the present plant. There is also a possibility of taking magnesium metal out of the district, members of the company have stated to C.N.R. officials. This metal is coming into demand for aeroplane construction, as it is lighter and three times as strong as aluminum.

W. G. Weichel, Mayor of Windsor, Ont.; F. R. Gough and A. J. Gough, Toronto; J. J. Seitz, Toronto; and three Philadelphia financiers are members of the company.

MRS. BUDGE SO WEAK COULD HARDLY STAND

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

River Desert, Que.—"I used to have a severe pain in my side. I would be unable to walk fast and could not stand for any length of time to do my ironing or washing, but I would have to lie down to get relief from the pain. I had this for about two years, then a friend told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as she had had good results. I certainly got good results from it, too, as the last time I had a sore side was last May and I have not had it since. I am also glad of having good nursing for my baby, and I think it is your medicine that helped me in this way."—Mrs. L. V. BUDGE, River Desert, Quebec.

C. F. HAYES, Editor and Owner.

Creston desires to be made the Kootenay sub-headquarters of the new co-operative, and to have a representative on the executive management. Creston also seeks to have separate fruit pools, claiming in that connection a closer connection with prairie and Crows Nest markets.

With the natural desire of Creston to be one of the administrative points of the Co-Operative there should be no disposition to cavil. If it is found advisable to establish a sub-headquarters in the Kootenay, then no donbt Creston will be considered with the other claimants.

Pentieton is itself a candidate for selection as the headquarters of the whole movement and therefore clearly recognizes the natural aspirations of other centres. And we may mention here incidentally, that Penticton will be supporting the new Co-operative right loyally no matter where the headquarters may be placed.

But that question of a separate pool for Creston is a different matter. If we start out by each asking for separate pools we may find ourselves in a great deal of difficulty. For instance, each district priding itself upon its McIntosh or Delicious apples, or Elberta peaches or Bing cherries may demand separate pools in an endeavor to obtain a premium in price. It is true that Creston is close to the prairie markets, but is not that favorable situation taken care of when the fruit is shipped from the Creston packing houses? And on the other hand, Penticton is nearer the Coast for shipments to Vancouver or for export.

Each district has its own advantages, so it is quite possible that general variety pools will work out in a manner fair to each section and beneficial to the industry as a whole. In any case we can leave this question to the experts.

About the matter of representation on the executive management. We agree that each shipping district should be represented, as no doubt it will be, on the general board of directors. But as to the inner executive, to which is entrusted the management of the undertaking, we think members of such a body should be picked for their fitness for the task and not primarily according to location.—Penticton Herald.

1922 Shipments Show Usual Gain

With the ex and crabapples fruit production in Creston Valley for 1922 continues to show an increase that equals pracally every other year since local orchards came into bearing in any considerable quantity, last years's apple shipments totalling 154,307 boxes as compared with 128,756 boxes in 1921, with an estimated 20,000 boxes in storage.

In the vegetable line there is a falling off shown in potatoes shipped, as well as in cabbage, peppers and cucumbers. As to spuds the production was really greater, but due to a poor market large quantities of potatoes were carried over for spring selling, whilst the slump in cucumber output is entirely due to adverse market conditions rendering it inadvisable to ship either the table or pickler varieties.

In the shipping of forest products 1922 has been quite the banner year in the manufactured product, the increase in lumber shipped as compared with 1921 jumping from 162 to 421 cars. There was also a considerable gain in the outgo of poles, but the shipping of ties is much less and there was a decrease in the export of posts. For the first time in several years lath were on the export list the past year with a total sale of almost 2500 bundles.

During 1922 tab was again kept on the shipping of livestock and the records show three carloads of beef cattle left the Valley, but there was only outside sale for five head of horses. A total of 814 hides were shipped, 7800 dozens of eggs and well over three tons of dressed poultry.

The past year's honey output has been officially estimated at just over 7000 lbs, which is high water mark in the history of local beekeeping, a considerable portion of the increase coming from the soldier settlement at Lister, where a few of the farmers are making quite a success of apaiary effort.

In connection with orchard effort in the Valley in 1922 sales of nursery stock were the largest for several years past with a decided preference being shown for McIntosh Red, Delicious and the later winter varieties of apples, whilst there was also an unusually heavy demand for sweet cherries. Top working of orchards has also been quite heavy and in every case the tendency is in the direction of getting late winter varieties of which the Valley is now notoriously short.

To offset the slump in the strawberry crop a decided gain of just over 2000 crates is noted in the outgo of raspberries, and the gain in cherries is almost 100 per cent. as compared with 1921. In ripe tomatoes the increase is from 5910 crates a year ago to 9472 crates shipped in 1922.

Due to lower prices prevailing the value of the 1922 fur shipments shows a decline of about $3000 as compared with the year previous, 1921 having a fur export valued at $12,000. The catch of muskrats was exceptionally heavy the past twelve months, over 2000 of these pelts being shipped in 1922, along with 365 weasel, 136 mink, 115 marten, and much lesser quantities of half a dozen other lines, including 11 bearskins.

During the year the spacious new Fruit Growers' Union warehouse was completed and equipped with the best in labor saving packing house equipment, whilst the firm also installed a Cutler Grader in their Erickson warehouse. During the summer Staples Fruit Company, Limited, also doubled their warehouse cappcity at Erickson, including the purchase of a grading machine, and for the first time in history central pack of apples was established at all points in Creston Valley, the Union operating a packing shed at Canyon as well.

Owing to an adverse marketing situation that has never been equalled in the history of the fruit industry any comparison with 1921 financial returns must needs be detrimental to the year just closed, but averaging prices up on the returns available it is safe to say that the 1922 fruit and vegetable crop brought returns well over the $200,000 mark, and when to these are added the value of the forest products, etc., that were shipped, the gross revenue from all sources in the area from Kitchener to Sirdar last year was something better than half a million dollars.

Another feature of the 1922 marketing policy of the orchardists was the going after the apple export trade, in the neighborhood of thirty cars having been shipped to the London, England, market before the end of the year. In the sale of fruit shown at the Imperial Fruit Show in London in November record prices were fetched on the Cox Orange apple and Clearque pears shown by Robert Stark, the apples bringing $11 a box and the pears $6 in the half-box packages.

CHAPTER IV.

The Gathering Storm

On the north bank of the river, from which it derived its name, the town of Crawling Water lay sprawled out in the shape of an irregular horn. Its original settlers had been men of large ideas, and having had plenty of space at their disposal, they had used it lavishly. The streets, bordered by dusty, weather-beaten, frame buildings, were as wide as those of a large city; indeed, in area, the town could compete with many a metropolis; but there the resemblance ended. Crawling Water was not fated to become a big city. The fact that the nearest railroad point was at Sheridan, forty miles away, did away with any ambitions that Crawling Water might have had to be more than a neighborhood center.

The mixed population was composed of cattle men, sheep men, cow punchers and herders, with a sprinkling of gamblers and other riff-raff. Rough, uncouth, full-blooded men, they were, for the most part, hard working; decisive in their likes and dislikes; fearing neither God nor man, they met Life as they found it and faced Death with a laugh. They were the last of a fast disappearing type, picturesque, but lacking in many of the attributes which differentiate mankind from the beasts.

Hardly more than a village, Crawling Water was yet a town, and the seat of such machinery of government as had been established, and accordingly, Gordon Wade had ridden directly thither after his far from satisfactory interview with Oscare Jensen. After he had stabled his horse and seen it fed, he started up the street in the direction of Moran's office. He was resolved to find out where the agent stood on the sheep question without any unnecessary delay. Save for a few dogs, sleeping in the blaze of the noon-day sun, which hung overhead like a ball of fire, the town seemed deserted.

When Wade entered the office, Moran was seated at his desk, chewing on a cigar, above which his closely cropped reddish mustache bristled. Like Senator Rexhill, he was a man of girth and bulk, but his ape-like body was endowed with a strength which not even his gross life had been able to wreck, and he was always muscularly fit. Except for the miner's hip boots, which he wore, he was rather handsomely dressed, and would have been called tastefully so in the betting ring of a metropolitan race-track, where his diamond scarf-pin and ring would have been admired.

"Hello!" he boomed as Wade entered. "Have a cigar." He pushed a box of an excellent brand toward his visitor and waved him to a chair. His greeting was noisy rather than cordial.

Wade declined both the chair and the cigar.

"I dropped in to find out why you told Jensen to run his sheep in on my range," he began bluntly.

"Let me see—" The agent very deliberately lifted a large, white hand and took the cigar out of his mouth. "Just what range is that?"

"The upper valley range which I have under lease."

"Which you have under lease?" Moran affected sarcastic surprise. "I wasn't aware that you had any legal right to that part of the valley. It's government land, ain't it?"

"You seem to have forgotten that you once tried to buy the lease from me." The rancher bared his teeth in a grim smile. "We'll not quibble over that, however. We've got our legal right, all of us; but we're a long distance from the courts here. What I want to know in plain English is, will you order Jensen to trail those sheep? Now, wait a moment!"

Moran subsided with a show of tolerance he did not feel.

"Think well before you answer," Wade went on. "I'm not here to threaten you, but there are desperate men in this valley who will take matters into their own hands, if this business is not stopped. There's plenty of grass on the other side of the mountains and your sheep are welcome to it. Why don't you make use of it?"

"Why should I? The sheep have a right to be where they are and there they'll stay until I get ready to move 'em. You cattle men think you own this country, but when it comes to the shown down, you're a bunch of bluffers. Now, Wade, I made you an offer once—I'll admit it, and I'll make it again for the last time. Sell me your homestead and lease rights at the price I offered you—ten thousand dollars, and get out smiling. There isn't room for the two of us in the valley."

"Ten thousand dollars for the homestead and the lease combined!" Wade laughed mirthlessly. "You're crazy, man. Why, you offered me that much for the lease alone a few weeks ago."

"Did I? I'd forgotten it. Anyway, it's a fair offer. The land is still owned by Uncle Sam, you know. You haven't proved up on your claims, and you never will if I can help it. We are spending lots of money here, and the government will see that our interests are protected. You cattle men can't hog the whole of Crawling Water Valley. Times have changed. Well, what do you say?"

The ranchman dismissed the proposition with a gesture, but did not immediately speak. Silently, the two big men faced each other, their glances crossing like rapiers; the cattle man like a statue in bronze in the fixed rigidity of his attitude, but with an expression that showed him one dangerous to trifle with; the agent affecting that half tolerant amusement which one may feel toward an enemy unworthy of one's prowess. Wade presently broke the silence.

"Moran, you may be a big man in the East, but you're not big enough for the job you've tackled here. I've held my friends back as long as I can—longer than I thought I could—and when they break loose, this valley be a little hell, perhaps a shambles. Men are going to be killed, and I have a feeling that you are going to be one of them. Against that time, once more, I warn you. Tell Jensen to trail his sheep!"

Swinging on his heel, the ranchman left the office, paying no attention to the ironical "Good night," which Moran called after him.

In the street, Wade chanced upon a neighboring cattle owner, Lem Trowbridge of the Circle Heart outfit, who fell into step with him.

"Gordon, how long are we going to stand for this thing, eh? Say, do you know what some are saying about you? Now, I'm your friend, and I'm telling you straight that you're gone far enough with this pacifist stuff."

"They say I'm afraid, I suppose?" Wade stopped and faced Trowbridge. "Have they said that to you?"

"To me? Say, what the —— kind of a friend do you take me for?" Trowbridge flamed up like a match. "No, they haven't said just that, Gordon; but they're hinting, and I don't like it."

"Well, if you hear it direct, send the man on to me with it," said Wade, his lips compressing ominously. "I'm about through, Lem, not quite, but pretty nearly. I've told Moran to have Jensen trail those sheep, and if he doesn't. . . ."

Trowbridge nodded and smiled, as they paused at a street corner—one of the few that Crawling Water possessed.

"That's the idea, Gordon. We'll all be the readier for the waiting. Well, I'll not go any farther with you." He winked with elaborate precision and looked in the direction of a snug little cottage, with flower boxes in the windows, a biscuit toss away. "She's home. I saw her leave the store yonder a little while ago."

Wade blushed like a boy and looked foolish.

"I don't get into town so very often," he began lamely, when Trowbridge slapped him heartily on the back.

"You don't need to make any excuses to me, old man," he said, moving off. "That little woman has put Crawling Water on edge with admiration. You're not the only one—or maybe, you are."

Secretly eager though Wade was to reach the cottage, the nearer he approached it, the slower he walked, fuming at himself for his sudden spinelessness. Although no ladies' man, he had never been woman wary until lately, and this of itself was a sign, the significance of which he was far from realizing. When he was with Dorothy Purnell, he almost forgot her sex in the easy companionability of their relationship; when away from her, he thought no more of her than he might of some man friend; but the approach had become a matter of embarrassing difficulty with him. There had even been occasions when he had walked past the cottage and ridden home without seeing her, trying speciously to convince himself that such had all along been his intention.

Something of the sort might have happened now had she not hailed him from the open doorway.

"Whither bound, stranger?" she smilingly demanded, in her low, rich contralto. "Better come in where it's cool. Mother'll be glad to see you, and I—shan't mind."

She had come to Crawling Water for the restorative effect of the bracing mountain air upon the health of her mother, who was threatened with nervous invalidism, following the death of Mr. Purnell, two years before. The town called them Easterners because their home was as far East as Michigan, but they had never been city dwellers, as Dorothy's fresh complexion and lithe, alert figure bore witness.

Beatty Offers Farm Courses In Alberta For Boys of Britain

Announcement is made that President Beatty, of the C.P.R., is awarding a full summer course at the agricultural schools of Alberta to the four prize winners of the young farmers' clubs of Great Britain.

These organization have been formed in farming communities of the British Isles and also in Western Canada, some particular or specialized line of farming being taken up by members. In Saskatchewan, these organizations increased their membership from 460 in 1913 to 30,000 in 1921, and in the same period in Manitoba they have increased from seven clubs to 240 clubs, with 1,500 branch clubs with a total membership of 25,000.

The four selected boys will arrive in Canada in time to commence their summer course at the Alberta agricultural schools in May next. There is a possibility that the award will be made an annual one.

McARTHUR SAYS WORK'S EASY NOW

Calgary Citizen Declares Tanlac Ended His Rheumatism and Put Him On His Feet

"Tanlac lost no time driving out my troubles two years ago, when I had rheumatism so bad I could hardly work, and I haven't had a pain since." This emphatic statement was made recently by David A. McArthur, 1042, 10th Ave. E., West Calgary, Alberta, well-known proprietor of the barber shop at the National Hotel.

"If you ever had a bad toothache," he said, "you will know how I felt, only that dull, throbbing pain was all up and down my left side. Every joint in my left leg, arm and shoulder pained me all the time, and at night I could get no rest or sleep, no matter what position I tried to lie in. When I was at work the pains were just as bad or worse, and I was simply miserable.

"What people said about Tanlac in the papers started me taking it, and I've been thankful a thousand times. This medicine certainly did the work for me and I gladly recommend it to others."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists.

The Useful Echo

Dr. H. C. Hayes, physicist, told the National Academy of Science in New York that with an echo you can tell to a hair just how deep the ocean is, at any point in all its 140,000,000 square miles, and with an echo to guide you will be able to navigate safely through a fog so thick that you can't see the bows of your own boat.

Britain's Arable Land

Reduction in Amount of Agricultural Land is Announced

Reduction of the arable area of Great Britain has been continuous since 1918. Land now under the plow is not much greater than immediately before the war, according to a report from the ministry of agriculture.

The total area under crops and grass showed less change in 1922 than for several years past, the figures being, 26,025,000 acres in 1922, against 26,140,000 in 1921. The arable area, however, was reduced by 308,000 acres while the permanent grass area was increased by 189,000 acres.

Excellent for Croupy Children.—When a child is suffering with croup it is a good plan to use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It reduces the inflammation and loosens the phlegm giving speedy relief to the little sufferer. It is equally reliable for sore throat and chest, earache, rheumatic pains, cuts, bruises and sprains. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is regarded by many thousands as an indispensable of the family medicine chest.

Dairying In Manitoba

Manitoba's dairying industry has shown remarkable development during the past few years and out of 51,000 farmers in the province there are now 26,000 of them producing and shipping milk and cream.

Powerful Medicine.—The healing properties in six essential oils are concentrated in every bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, forming one of the most beneficial liniments ever offered to the use of man. Many can testify as to its power in allaying pain, and many more can certify that they owe their health to it. Its wonderful power is not expressed by the small price at which it sells.

Indiscriminate Charity

To give money is to pauperize, even to the extent of helping a hungry man. It is infinitely better to put him in the way of earning his own dinner, and then he will be able to earn other dinners and find his self-respect conserved as well as his self-containment strengthened. To build up independence should be the aim of all sound philanthropy. Anything short of that almost invariably does more harm than good.—Ottawa Journal.

Every careful and observant mother knows when her child suffers from worms. She also knows that if some remedy be not speedily applied much harm will result to the infant. An excellent preparation for this purpose is Miller's Worm Powders. They drive worms from the system and set up stimulating and soothing effects, so that the child's progress thereafter is painless and satisfying.

Canadians Not Cheese Eaters

There are about 9,000,000 people in Canada and every one of them over two years of age should be a regular consumer of cheese. Now they eat less than three pounds each a year. They should be consuming twice as much, and even then they would be using only about one-half the quantity per head that is consumed in Great Britain.—Toronto Globe.

Unfortunately for our times, nobody has yet discovered a way to rest in a hurry.

The cheapness of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator puts it within reach of all, and it can be got at any druggist's.

Not Very Definite

The fortune-teller was sending cold streams of horror down her victim's back as she predicted the bad things in store for him in the immediate future.

"You will die in a year!" she hissed at last. "This line in your palm tells me so."

"Help!" gasped the victim. "It surely cannot be as bad as that?"

"As I said," continued the seer, "you will die in a year—but in what year I cannot say."
