Institute Ladies Make Donations

Juvenile entertainment provided by a class from the primary room of Creston public school in charge of Miss Creighton brightened up proceedings at the June meeting of Creston Women's Institute at the Parish Hall on Friday afternoon, which was in charge of president Mrs. C. B. Garland. Several of the youngsters showed decided talent as elocutionists, while their choruses and motion songs were equally well executed.

Reports of committees took up most of the session. For the committee on community needs Mrs. McLaren, convenor, amongst other things pressed for the thorough organization of the town for outdoor amusements, particularly lawn tennis for both the juveniles and adults. She had secured permission from the agricultural association directors to use the fall fair grounds and she thought at least three courts should be put in shape. The matter was referred to a special committee consisting of Mrs. H. McLaren, Mrs. Corp. Smith. Mrs. Jas. Cherrington and Mrs. C. G. Bennett to take under advertisement, and report at a meeting of the directors to be held at the end of the week. This committee also strongly urged pressure being brought to bear on the proper authorities for some needed sidewalk extensions and the putting in of a few street lights about town and at the station.

For the better schools committee Mrs. Garland reported receiving a very welcome letter from the school board thanking the ladies for the putting in of half a dozen teeters and two swings for the use of the children in the two primary rooms.

For the home industries committee Mrs. James Maxwell pleased with her announcement that the committee had completed arrangements with Mrs. Dunk of Nelson to be here in September to conduct a short course in dress making. After six months duty the Institute visiting committee was relieved and a new committee of Mrs. J. A. Lidgate and Mrs. R. Thurston named to carry on for the balance of the year.

The ladies were in a very generous mood and enthusiastically voted $10 for the purchase of a wedding present for Mrs. Frank Bunt (nee Gobbett) whose marriage took place in early June. $7.20 realized on the rental of cushions at the six-day Chautauqua early in June was voted to the Chautauqua guarantors to help out with the small deficit sustained this year, and the $2.75 taken in from the tea collection will go to Vancouver to the fund for crippled children. The afternoon tea hostesses were Mrs. Frank Hayes, Mrs. T. M. Edmondson, Mrs. E. Hendy and Mrs. John Foster.

Just before adjournment Mrs. C. B. Garland, who has occupied the president's chair for the past eighteen months, tendered her resignation as paesident, though it is expected she will retain her place on the directorate, while the resignation of Mrs. Jas. Cherrington as secretary, will be dealt with the meeting of the directors to be held this week.

Kitchener

Kitchener Timber Company is busy with the putting in of another half mile of flume which will speed up the getting of logs into the mill. In the past the long haul has prevented the sawmill running steady.

A number of the subcontractors on the new Kitchener road have small crews at work clearing the right of way, but within a week road building should be under way with a much larger crew.

High water and muddy as well, is making fishing poor, although some fair catches are reported in Meadow Creek the past week.

Mrs. Lionel Forrester is a visitor here from Spokane with Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Forrester.

Pole shipments are quite heavy from Kithcener at present, and Kitchener Timber Co. are hustling out their lumber cut almost as fast as it accumulates.

Gunder Anderson reports killing a couple of bear on a hunting trip up Leadville Creek early this month.

Road foreman Geroux has done fine work on highway improvements between here and Goatfell this season. Good use has been made of the grader and for the whole distance the road is plenty wide enough for cars to pass at regular speeds. Gravelling has also been a feature and the country appears to have got good value for approximately $2000 spent.

Creston is talking of a sports celebration in that town on Dominion Day, July 2nd, and want the Kitchener baseball team to play a game with the Creston senior aggregation.

Canyon City

Norman Strong, who has been working at Wasa the past two months, is home for a short holiday.

The United Farmers had a dance with ice cream sale in connection at the school on Saturday night, at which the freewill offering netted a satisfactory sum for U.F. purposes.

Mrs. Wright, one of the head officials of the Dominion W.C.T.U., delivered a lecture on "Alcohol" to a crowd that well filled the church on Monday night. During her stay she was the guest of Mrs. Knott.

Mr. Humble has gone to Kitchener to work for the balance of the season.

Mrs. Hickey, who has been a patient in Nelson hospital for the past month, arrived home on Saturday, and is making a very satisfactory recovery.

Haying is under way in this section this week and the clover crop coming off is certainly the best for a few years back. The vetch, which was sown as a cover crop is also looking fine and should be in good shape for discing in next month. The Pochin ranch has a remarkable fine showing.

Sam Grathwell's Chautauqua talk on the benefits of paint up is having its effect in Canyon. This week both the church and Wetherhead residence are in the hands of the painters.

E. Nouguier is busy with the erection of a new barn to take care of the heavy hay crop he has to take care of this year.

Alfred Nelson and family have moved back to their ranch at Canyon and will make this their permanent home in future.

Huygens & VanAckeran were the first to ship strawberries at Erickson station this year, with a crate available on Friday, 15th, and going steady ever since. Charles Burgess is expected to be the 1923 king. He has four acres of them and is looking for 800 crates.

Electric light is in prospect for at least the central part of Canyon City. Mr. and Mrs. C. Robinson of Calgary, Alberta, who spent last week at the Cleave home whilst supervising spring work on the Robinson ranch, and getting E. Nouguier busy with clearing up the balance of the ten acres announces that it is his intention to make his permanent home on the ranch either this fall or next spring, and is getting out plans for a modern residence that will cost about 4000. He states that he has an interest in a small electric plant stored in Calgary and that if enough Canyon people will agree to take light at a fixed monthly charge he is prepared to move the plant here and put it in operation. A canvass of this section will be made in this connection this fall.

High School Promotions

Pupils of Creston High School who expected to write on the departmental examinations on Monday next will be agreeably surprised to read the following lists:

Promotions from Preliminary to Advanced Course—Clara Morrow, Evelyn Hurry, Gladys Webster, Signe Nelson, Robert Moore, Edith Davies, Kathleen Littlejohn.

Promotions from Advanced Course to Junior Matriculation—Sidney Bell, Albert Nickel, Louise Bevan, Eva Holmes, Wilfrid Hetherington, Marguerite Crawford, Eva Webster, Freda Lewis.

All others whose names are not in these lists are expected to write the departmental examinations. The explanation is that the department of education has recently signified its refusal to examine first and second year pupils, whom the principals of the High Schools feel to be undoubtedly worthy of promotion.

From Creston High School there are writing two Preliminary candidates, four Advanced, and five Junior Matriculation.

Alice Siding

Mrs. Alderson and children are here from Hosmer, helping with the berry harvest at the ranch.

Mrs. H. B. Macdonald of Calgary, Alberta arrived on Sunday on a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Webster.

Jim Churchill left on Monday for Vancouver after spending four or five days with his parents here.

R. Stewart and Tom Marshall are spending most of the week at Duck Creek, where Mr. Stewart has a job of bricklaying to complete this month.

Mrs. Constable was a visitor to Cranbrook on Sunday, returning on Monday with Master Everard, who has been a hospital patient in that town for the past six weeks.

Walter Carr left on Monday for Lewiston, Idaho, where, we hear, he has taken a permanent position.

The express depot at the Smith crossing was put in shape at the first of the week, and the eastbound train made its first stop on Wednesday. R. Stewart is leading the berry shippers so far, having fourteen crates out on Sunday.

The Social Club had a shirt waist dance at the house on the Scotty Todd ranch on Friday night, with a fairly large turnout of members and the usual good time reported by all.

Art Atkinson of the Creston Growers Ltd., staff was through this section on Monday making an inspection of the strawberries with a view to ascertaining just how likely looking the crop is and what part of it should go to the jam plants.

Wynndel

Mrs. Cuel and daughter, Ada, of Calgary, Alberta, arrived on Thursday last, and are spending their annual holiday with Mrs. E. Wall.

We hear both Miss Topliss and Miss Comfort of the school teaching staff have resigned and the secretary is wearing a worried look these days, and losing some sleep over the job of securing equally good teachers to replace them.

Walter Cooper is a grass widower this week, his wife and young son having taken a trip to Nelson.

Today, Lawn Social

The Methodist Ladies Aid are having a Lawn Social at the home of Mrs. R. B. McLeod, today, June 22nd, from 3 p.m. and on into the evening. The refreshment menu will include Ice Cream plain, Ice Cream and Strawberries, Ice Cream cones, home boiled Ham Sandwiches, Cake, Lemonade and Tea 5 cents each. Cafeteria service.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Wigen and daughter, June, are also Nelson visitors this week.

Strawberries are on the move now and quite a few crates have gone east the last few days.

The Doukhobors, of whom there are now quite a few in the district, make quite a splash of color in the place and give quite a picturesque appearance to the countryside.

Miss Marguerite Joy was hostess at a little party on the occasion of her birthday, Monday, June 18th.

A large brown bear caused quite a little excitement here on Tuesday, when bruin was discovered taking a morning stroll on the Foxall berry patch. Several residents and a large number of school children joined in chasing him off. The bear, however, did not hurry himself and was last seeff rambling along the upper bank of Duck Creek by Davies' place.

Sirdar

The English Church service on Sunday evening was well attended. The westbound train that afternoon did not reach here until almost 6.30.

Mr. and Mrs. Loasby and their guest, Mrs. T. E. Kirkham of Lethbridge, Alberta, were callers at Creston on Monday.

Mrs. Morrow of Cranbrook was a week-end visitor at Sirdar, returning home on Monday.

Switchman Cam is on the sick list at present and his place on the yard crew is taken by Mr. Bleumenauer of Cranbrook.

Gus Kay of Cranbrook arrived on Monday to take the position of night operator at Sirdar.

E. W. Ryckman of Cranbrook is here at present, doing the plumbing work on the Sid McCabe's new residence.

A. Bond of Canyon City is another outsider here at present, doing the plastering on the McCabe house.

P. Cherbo was the first Sirdar rancher to ship 1923 strawberries. He had his first crate for export on the 16th. Other berry growers are finding a ready market for their output in Sirdar.

Ben Whitesides was a business visitor between trains at the metropolis on Monday.

West Creston

Clover cutting is under way in this section this week and the crop is the best in years, some of the yields running as high as three tons to the acre.

The high water season is now at its peak, and thanks to considerable cool weather the expected floods did not make their appearance. The water went at least a foot higher than in 1922.

Jack and Joe Stephens report shooting two bear in the neighborhood of Smith ranch last week, the brown one being almost too heavy for them to roll over.

R. Sinclair Smith is busy with the finish-up construction of a new 40 x 60 ft. hay shed.

The ferry is still tied up at a point about two miles down the river but will be towed back to place as soon as the high water begins to pass.

A number from here were at Creston on Monday of last week for the annual meeting of Creston Valley Stockbreeders Association, Joe Stephens catching a place on the directorate for this year. Locally arrangements have been made to assure an ample hay supply for all.

All the men of the community put in a few days last week helping get out the timber or at carpenter work on West Creston's new school. Jack Stephens and R. Sinclair Smith supervised the erection while Angus Currie as woods superintendent certainly selected a fine lot of cedar logs for its erection. The schoolroom will be at least 18 x 28 feet inside and the wall is ten feet.

New Fruit Selling Firm is Operating

Creston Growers, Limited, opened for business in the old Speers' store on Tuesday morning, with R. B. Staples in charge; Miss Doyle having the position of accountant, and Art Atkinson in charge of shipping and general warehouse manager.

The advent of the new firm does not come as a surprise. At the quarterly meeting of Creston Fruit Growers' Union, Limited, a couple of weeks previous in reviewing the disadvantagee which the Fruit Growers Union directors were encountering in conducting the fruit and vegetable marketing business this year, the meeting by unanimous vote decided to give the directors an absolute free hand in devising ways and means to eliminate the handicap imposed on them due to unfortunate carry-overs from 1922 operations.

Under the new order of things the Creston Growers, Limited, which has been regularly incorporated, will carry on under the direct management of R. B. Staples, who has severed his conection with Creston Fruit Growers Union. Growers, Limited, has taken over the crate and box business from the Union.

Creston Fruit Growers Union, Limited, will continue to do business at the old warehouse premises on the upper side of the track and Alfred Spencer, who has been accountant with the firm for the past three years, will be manager and have full control of Union operations. The Union however, will confine itself to the sale of flour, feed, sugar, and other supplies of that sort.

R. B. Staples who has just returned from a look over the markets in Calgary, Lethbridge, and other Southern Alberta points is quite optimistic as to being able to place the Valley's big berry crop to good advantage and at prices that will appeal to growers in this year of record berry production, and while it is a little early to contemplate raspberry shipments, with little more than a normal crop to dispose of he is equally confident raspberry growers will have an equally satisfactory year. Crop conditions were never better at all points in southern Alberta and southern Saskatchewan, and so long as this state of affairs contidues there will be a more generous buying of all soft fruits than was the case a year ago.

Lister

Albert Mitchell, who is employed at the Continental mine at Klockmann, was a week-end visitor at his ranch here.

R. T. Milner has returnrd for a short time to look after his interests at Lister.

Col. Lister is leaving this week to lend a hand with the speaking tour Hon. W. J. Bowser and other Conservative members are making of the Boundary and Kootenay country, his appearance at Creston being set for Tuesday night.

On Saturday the annual picnic of Lister Sunday school was held at Huscroft's, with almost 100 children and grownups participating in the outting, in the outing, which was certainly a big success. A plentiful supply of ice cream was taken and this, together with numerous other good things helped to make the event particularly interesting for the younger ones. Races were run, and baseball and other games indulged in. Mrs. Stevens, the Sunday School superintendent, and her staff of teachers, deserve much credit for the successful manner in which the picnic was staged.

"Have you heard from Washington," he asked.

"I got a telegram this morning, saying that the matter is under advisement.

"Under advisement!" Moran snorted, in disgust. "That means that they'll get the cavalry here in time to fire a volley over our graves—ashes to ashes and dust to dust. What are you going to do about it?"

Rexhill blew a huge mouthful of fragrant smoke into the air.

"Frankly, Race, I don't think you're in a proper mood to talk."

"You're right." Something in Moran's voice suggested the explosion of a fire-arm, and the Senator looked at him curiously. "I'm through talking. We've both of us talked too damn much, and that's a fact."

"I'll be obliged to you," the Senator remarked; "if you'll remember that you draw a salary from me and that you owe me a certain amount of respect."

Moran laughed raucously.

"Respect! I don't owe you a damn thing, Senator; and what you owe me you wont' be able to pay if you sit here much longer waiting for something to turn up. You'll be ruined, that's what you'll be—ruined!" He brought his big hand down on the table with a thump.

"By your own carelessness. Now, look here, Race, I've made allowances for you, because . . ."

"You don't needn't to soft soap me, Senator; save that for your office seekers." The agent was fast working himself into another passion. "I've not ruined you, and you know it. A safe's a safe, isn't it? Instead of ruining you, I'm trying to save you. If you go broke, you'll do it yourself with your pap and sentiment. But if I am to pull your chestnuts out of the fire for you, you've got to give me a free hand. I've got to fight fire with fire."

Rexhill wiped his glasses nervously, for despite his assumption of calm, his whole future swung upon the outcome of his Crawling Water venture. If he appeared calm, it was not because he felt so, but because the schooling of a lifetime had taught him that the man who keeps cool usually wins.

"There's nothing to do but go on as we are headed now," he declared. "Wade's discovery of our purpose is most unfortunate"—his voice shook a trifle—"but it can't be helped. In the legal sense, he has added to the list of his crimes, and we have more against him than we ever had. He now has three charges to face—murder, assault and robbery. It rests with us whether he shall be punished by the courts for any of the three."

The Senator spoke emphatically in the effort to convince himself that his statements were practically true, but he avoided Moran's eyes as he did so. His show of optimism had little substance behind it, because now that his motives were likely to be bared to the public, he was too good a lawyer not to realize how little standing he would have before a jury in that section at least; of course, Wade must realize this equally well and feel fortified in his own position. Rexhill's chief hope had been that the support of the cavalry from Fort Mackenzie would enable him to control the situation; but here, too, he was threatened by the unexpected hesitation of the authorities at Washington.

Moran, however, was frankly contemptuous of the prospect of help from that source. He had never believed greatly in it, although at the time it was first mentioned his enthusiasm for any plan of action had inspired him with some measure of the Senator's confidence. Now that his lust of revenge made him intolerant of all opposition, he was thoroughly exasperated by the telegram received from Washington, and had no faith in aid from such a quarter.

"What if your cavalry doesn't come?" he demanded.

"Then we must rely upon the Sheriff here to maintain the law that he is sworn to support."

"Bah! He's weakening now. He's not forgetting that he's to spend the rest of his days in this town, after we've gone back East, or perhaps to hell. Who's to look after him, then, if he's got himself in bad with the folks here? Senator"—Moran clumped painfully over to the safe and leaned upon it as he faced his employer—"it isn't cavalry that'll save you, or that old turkey buzzard of a sheriff either. I'm the man to do it, if anybody is, and the only way out is to lay for this man Wade and kidnap him." Rexhill started violently. "Kidnap him, and take him into the mountains, and keep him there with a gun at his head, until he signs a quit-claim. I've located the very spot to hide him in—Coyote Springs. It's practically inaccessible, a natural hiding-place."

Rexhil llurned a shade or two paler as he nervously brushed some cigar ashes from his vest and sleeve. He had already gone further along the road of crime than he felt to be safe, but the way back seemed even more dangerous than the road ahead. The question was no longer one of ethics, but purely of expediency.

"We haven't time to wait on cavalry and courts," Moran went on. "I'm willing to take the risk, if you are. If we don't take it, you know what the result will be. We may make our get-away to the East, or we may stop here for good—under ground. You have little choice either way. If you get out of this country, you'll be down and out. Your name'll be a by-word and you'll be flat broke, a joke and an object of contempt the nation over. And it's not only yourself you've got to think of; you've got to consider your wife and daughter, and how they'll stand poverty and disgrace. Against all that you've got a chance, a fighting chance. Are you game enough to take it?"

All that Moran said was true enough, for Rexhill knew that if he failed to secure control of Crawling Water Valley, his back would be broken, both politically and financially. He would not only be stripped of his wealth, but of his credit and the power which stood him in lieu of private honor. He would be disgraced beyond redemption in the eyes of his associates, and in the bosom of his family he would find no solace for public sneers. Failure meant the loss forever of his daughter's respect, which might yet be saved to him through glamors of success and the reflection of that tolerance which the world is always ready to extend toward the successful.

"You are right," he admitted, "in saying that I have my wife and daughter to consider, and that reminds me. I haven't told you that Helen overheard our conversation about Wade, in my room, the other night." He rapidly explained her indignation and threat of exposure. "I don't mean to say that your suggestion hasn't something to recommend it," he summed up, "but if Wade were to disappear, and she felt that he had been injured, I probably could not restrain her."

The agent leaned across the desk, leeringly.

"Tell her the truth, that I found Wade here in this room with Dorothy Parnell, at night; that they came here for an assignation, because it was the one place in Crawling Water . . ."

Rexhill got to his feet with an exclamation of disgust.

"Well, say, then, that they came here to rifle the place, but that when I caught them they were spooning. Say anything you like, but make her believe that it was a lovers' meeting. See if she'll care then to save him."

The Senator dropped heavily back into his chair without voicing the protest that had been upon his tongue's end. He was quick to see that, contemptible though the suggestion was, it yet offered him a means whereby to save himself his daughter's respect and affection. The whole danger in that regard lay in her devotion to Wade, which was responsible for her interest in him. If she could be brought to feel that Wade was unworthy, that he had indeed wronged her, her own pride could be trusted to do the rest.

"If I thought that Wade were the man to make her happy," Rexhill puffed heavily, in restraint of his excitement.

"Happy? Him?" Moran's eyes gleamed.

"Or if there was a shred of truth—but to make up such a story out of whole cloth . . ."

"What's the matter with you, Senator? Why, I thought you were a master of men, a general on the field of battle!" The agent leaned forward again until his hot, whiskey-laden breath fanned the other man's face.

"I'm a father, Race, before I'm anything else in God's world."

"But it's true, Senator. True as I'm speaking. Ask any one in Crawling Water. Everybody knows that Wade and this Purnell girl are mad in love with each other."

"Is that true, Race?"

Rexhill looked searchingly into the inflamed slits which marked the location of the agent's eyes.

"As God is my witness. It's the truth now, whatever he may have thought of Helen before. He's been making a fool of her, Senator. I've tried to make her see it, but she won't. You'll not only be protecting yourself, but you'll do her a service." He paused as Rexhill consulted his watch.

"Helen will be over here in a few minutes. I promised to take a walk with her this morning."

"Are you game?"

"I'll do it, Race." Rexhill spoke solemnly. "We might as well try for one thing as another." Grimacing, he shook the hand which the other offered him. "When will you start?"

"Now," Moran answered promptly. "I'll take three or four men with me, and we'll hang around Wade's ranch until we get him. He'll probably be nosing around the range trying to locate the gold, and we shouldn't have much trouble. When you've got him safe . . ." His teeth ground audibly upon each other as he paused abruptly, and the sound seemed to cause the Senator uneasiness.

"By the way, since I've turned near-assassin, you might as well tell me who shot Jensen." Rexhill spoke with a curious effort. "If Wade gets you, instead of you getting Wade, it may be necessary for me to know all the facts."

Moran answered from the window, whither he had stepped to get his hat, which lay on the broad sill.

"It was Tug Bailey, Senator. Here comes Helen now. You needn't tell her that I was tied up all night." He laid Wade's quirt on the desk. "He left that behind him."

Rexhill grunted.

"Yes, I will tell her," he declared sulkily, "and about the Jensen affair, if I've got to be a rascal, you'll be the goat. Give Bailey some money and get him out of town before he tanks up and tells all he knows."

Helen came in, looking very sweet and fresh in a linen suit, and was at first inclined to be sympathetic when she heard of Moran's plight, without knowing the source of it. Before she did know, the odor of liquor on his breath repelled her. He finally departed, not at the bidding of her cool nod, but urged by his lust of revenge, which, even more than the whiskey, had fired his blood.

"Intoxicated, isn't he? How utterly disgusting!"

Her father looked at her admiringly, keenly regretting that he must dispel her love dream. But he took some comfort from the fact that Wade was apparently in love with another woman. The thought of this had been enough to make him seize upon the chance of keeping all her affection for himself.

"He's had a drink or two," he admitted, "but he needed them. He had a hard night. Poor fellow, he was nearly dead when I arrived. Wade handled him very roughly."

Helen looked up in amazement.

"Did Gordon do it? What was he doing here?" The Senator hesitated, and while she waited for his answer she was struck by a sense of humor in what had happened. She laughed softly. "Good for him!"

"We think that he came here to—to see what he could find, partly," Rexhill explained. "That probably was not his only reason. He wasn't alone."

"Oh!" Her tone expressed disappointment that his triumph had not been a single-handed one. "Did they tie him with these?" she asked, picking up one of the crumpled strips of linen, which lay on the floor. Suddenly her face showed surprise. "Why—this is part of a woman's skirt?"

Her father glanced at the strip of linen over his glasses.

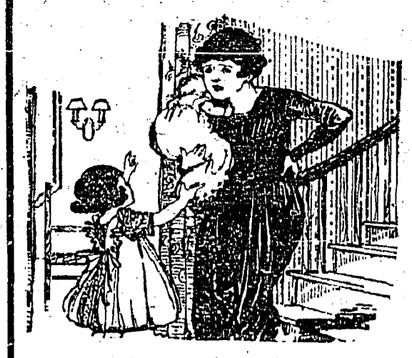
Severe Kidney Trouble



Mrs. F. Rinehart, Campbellville, Ont., writes:

"I had trouble with my kidneys and very frequent urination. This was followed by pains which at times were very severe. The doctor said I had inflammation of the bladder and that an operation might be necessary. To this I refused, and began using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. From the first few doses I felt the benefit. The pains left, urination was corrected, and I have had no recurrence of these ailments."

MRS. JOHN SIMPSON

Do You Need Help? This Advice is Well Worth Reading!

Kirkton, Ont.—"I have found Doctor Pierce's Anuric Tablets to be an excellent medicine. I have been troubled with inflammation in the neck of my bladder for about eight years. I doctored but failed to get cured, so I decided to try Doctor Pierce's Anuric (anti-uric-acid) Tablets and they have relieved me greatly.

"I also can recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for expectant mothers. I have a fine, big baby boy. My nurse asked me what I ate to make him so strong. He looked like a child four or five months old when only three. I certainly would advise every prospective mother to use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."—Mrs. John Simpson, R.R. 1.

TORTURING SCIATICA

A Nerve Trouble Due to a Watery Condition of the Blood

Fierce darting pains. Pains like red hot needles being driven through the flesh—in the thigh, perhaps down the leg to the ankle—that's sciatica. None but the victim can realize the torture of this trouble. But the sufferer need not grow discouraged; the trouble is due to the fact that the nerves are being starved by poor, watery blood, and when the blood is enriched the pains of sciatica will disappear. As a blood enricher and purifier no other medicine can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They bring to the blood just the elements necessary to restore it to normal richness and redness. That is why so many sufferers from sciatica, and other forms of nerve trouble, have found relief through taking these pills. Mr. D. M. Anderson, Beachburg, Ont., tells what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for him as follows:—"Some years ago I was badly afflicted with sciatica. I could hardly walk and suffered great pain when I did so. I went to a doctor, but his medicine did not seem to do me any good. A man who was working with me told me he had once been like that and that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills had made him all right. I began to take them, continuing to work, and the trouble disappeared, and I did not lose a day, although sometimes I suffered terribly. Later I had another attack, and again the pills came to my relief. Now I take three boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills every spring and fall, and I have had no attack of the trouble since that time."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Co-operative Egg Marketing

Saskatchewan Now Exporting Large Quantities of Eggs

The first scheme for the co-operative marketing of eggs to be put into effect in this province has been got under way by the Saskatchewan Co-operative Creameries, Limited. A few years ago this province was a heavy importer of eggs to meet its domestic requirements. Today, as the result of active campaigns conducted by the Provincial and Federal Governments, Saskatchewan is one of the leading egg exporting provinces of the Dominion, and markets have been established in Eastern Canada and the United States.

An Oil that is Prized Everywhere.—Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil was put upon the market without any flourish over fifty years ago. It was put up to meet the wants of a small section, but as soon as its merits became known it had a whole continent for a field, and it is now known and prized throughout this continent. There is nothing equal to it.

HAD TO FIGHT TO GET HIS BREATH

Reed Declares Gases Were So Bad He Nearly Choked At Times

"The best I can say is not half good enough for Tanlac," states Frederick E. Reed, 286 Roxborough Ave., Hamilton, Ont., well known business man.

"Last winter grippe and tonsilitis confined me to my home for weeks and left me so thin and frail it looked like I could never get back to my business again. I would choke up with gas until I had to fight for breath, was so nauseated I could scarcely retain a thing, and pains in my stomach and sides would double me up. I could scarcely sleep a wink, and my hands were so trembly I couldn't even arrange my tie.

"However, the Tanlac treatment suited my case so well it ended my troubles, increased my weight, and fixed me up to where I felt as fine as I ever did. I feel right all the time now, and haven't missed a day from my business since I finished the treatment. Tanlac has no equal."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists—take no substitute. Over 37-million bottles sold.

Irrigation Farming

May Hold Winter Course in Irrigation Farming at Lethbridge

Plans are under consideration for the holding of a winter course in irrigation farming at the Dominion Experimental Farm at Lethbridge, under the joint auspices of the Provincial and Federal Governments. This work has been carried on by the Provincial Agricultural Schools during the past couple of years, but in view of the fact that some of the agricultural schools will be closed this coming winter and the need of instruction in irrigation farming, the new course is being planned.

Even the sound of my own children playing made me feel as if I must scream if they did not get away from me. I could not even speak right to my husband. The doctor said he could do nothing for me. My husband's mother advised me to take the Vegetable Compound and I started it at once. I was able to do my work once more and it was a pleasure, not a burden. Now I have a fine bouncing baby and am able to nurse her and enjoy doing my work. I cannot help recommending such a medicine, and any one seeing me before I took it, and seeing me now, can see what it does for me. To Help Fruit Growers

Modern Packing Plant to be Located In the Okanagan

Cold storage, canning, as well as modern packing plants for fresh fruits, will do much to further fruit growing in the Okanagan, according to leaders in the fruit industry there who have got together and formed a $1,000,000 company to start such operations. Incorporation was granted to the company recently, under the temporary name of Co-operative Growers' Packing Houses, Ltd., with headquarters at Vernon. It is understood that all the stock is to be held by the growers themselves on a cooperative basis.

Attracted to Dominion About Twenty Million Dollars in Tourist Traffic

Canada's national parks may constitute the Dominion's get-rich-quick scheme if properly appreciated and maintained, according to J. B. Harkin, Dominion Parks Commissioner. During 1922, the national parks attracted to the Dominion about twenty million dollars in tourist traffic, etc., and as the Dominion only spent about one million dollars in maintaining the parks it represented a return at the rate of about 2,000 per cent. on the outlay.

Beautify Grounds With Shrubs From France

Plants and Trees Imported for Saskatchewan Government Buildings

A shipment of approximately 9,000 shrubs and nursery stock has been received from France by George Watt, Provincial Landscape Gardener, for beautifying the grounds surrounding the Parliament Buildings, Regina, and other public buildings throughout the province.

Evergreens, tamaracs, Scotch pines, alders, birch, bush honeysuckle, buckthorns, Russian olives, several varieties of spiroeas and lilac, high bush cranberries, dogwood shrubs and Japanese roses, are included in the shipment.

All the plants received will be planted in the provincial nursery behind the Parliament Buildings where they will remain for a couple of years before being sent out to the various government buildings in the province.

A Sermon Here

It was along by the public library on 5th Avenue. Two elegantly dressed young women, with pendants and barcelets of diamonds, were moving along with the throng. Said one: "Life is simply getting unutterably boring." And the other agreed heartily. Turning down the south side of the library I saw an aged and crippled woman feeding the pigeons and birds with crumbs from a paper sack. Her face was aglow with happiness. There is a sermon there some place.—New York Correspondent.

Millions For Roads

Miller's Worm Powders do not need the after-help of castor oil or any purgative to complete their thoroughness, because they are thorough in themselves. And not only this, but the powders will be certain to exert most beneficial influences in the digestive organs.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, JUNE 15

Watching Ontario

The provincial election which takes place in Ontario on June 25th is being watched with interest by all political parties in British Columbia.

In 1919 the electors of that province who, industrially considered, present much the same situation as exists in British Columbia, replaced the Tory Hearst administration with a Farmer-Labor government which boasted but a very slight majority over the two old parties when combined.

The new party in Ontario, like all new parties, carried the province very largely on the cry of strictest economy and all round reduction in taxes.

Just how well the Farmer-Labor economists succeeded in their policy of administering that province at rock bottom cost is revealed in the statement of Ontario's provincial treasurer presented quite early this spring in which it was shown that for 1922 $9.000.000 more taxes in various forms had been collected than had ever been previously raised in the long history of the old eastern province and yet despite this biggest-ever revenue it had all been spent with the exception of the customary Ontario surplus of about one million dollars.

Judged from this distance it would seem as if the Farmer-Labor government in Ontario has been even more extravagant in every direction than any of its predecessors, whilst in the enforcement of the eastern bone dry liquor act no more success has been achieved than in any of the other provinces where the old line parties are at the helm.

If in the face of all the incompetency and extravagance charged against the government the staid electors of Ontario give it another lease of life Col. McRae and his Provincial party followers may go forward with slightly more hope than was given them during their of East Kootenay.

But should either of Ontario's old parties come into power considerable of the underpinning of the Provincialist in this province will be knocked out from in under them.

Ontario was the first province to adopt third-party government, and the sucess achieved there was largely responsible for the spread of th idea in other provinces and in the federal election of 1921 If after less than four years experience Ontario's Farmer-Labor combination goes into the discard it is not hard to see the possible adverse effect such an eventuality would have on the prospective Provincial party in this province.

Roadmaking

Considerable speculation exists as to what is to become of the Valley's hardsurfacing road equipment when the stretch of road now under construction at Erickson is completed.

Now that the Dominion authorities have withdrawn their 40 per cent. contribution toward the construction of that class of road on the trans Canada highway the putting down of hard surface road appears a bit extravagant in these days when the demand is not so much for permanency as it is for mileage.

A fine sample of what can be done at roadmaking with crushed rock and the aid of the steam roller is shown on the short stretch from the Crawford corner down to the Ryckman ranch gate. This has stood the wear and tear of very heavy traffic for almost three years and is standing up as well almost as the regulation hard surface roadway.

For the next few years a wise roadmaking policy would be to repeat this simpler and speedier crushed rock and roller treatment on the highway between Creston and Wynndel, on which money is wasted annually in making repairs with earth which washes or is worn out almost as fast as it can be put in.

What is known as the lower road to Erickson is another bit of highway that should have crushed rock attention.

In the summer the dust nuisance there is fully as bad as in the Erickson area which is now served by the rock road.

With the completion of the new road into Kitchener very little heavy expenditure will be called for new roads in the Valley and the Review hopes that in all future road repair effort the rock crusher, truck and steam roller will figure prominently.

The authorities at Victoria by now should be convinced that our present population is here to stay, and in a section where a patchwork policy has proven not only unsatisfactory but expensive as well, the sooner a more lasting roadmaking campaign is inaugurated so much the better for all parties concerned

Local and Personal

The first real baseball match of the season is announced for Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Exhibition Park, when Wycliffe and Creston will be the opposing teams. Creeton is strengthing any weak spots that have developed in this year's nine, and the fans are assured a fast close game.

At a meeting of the Women's Institute directors on Tuesday afternoon Mrs. H. Lyne was selected to succeed Mrs. Garland, who at the June meeting resigned as president, and Mrs. Cherrington has reconsidered her resignrtion as secretary and consented to fill that position for the balance of the year.

Ronald Hewat of Kaslo was here on Tuesday sitting as a court of revision in connection with this year's revision of the Kaslo riding's voters list. During his stay he added about a dozen names. The additions made this year pretty well offset the names that have been struck off and the 1923 list will show a total of about 1700 names.

The annual picnic of the Girls Mission Band of Creston Presbyterian Church was held at Arrow Creek on Saturday. There were twenty children in the party who were transported in the McCreath auto bus, and were in charge of Miss K. Moore, the band president, assisted by her sister Miss Eunice Moore. The youngsters had a most enjoyable day of it.

Much sympathy is felt for Miss Vickers, vice principal of Creston public school who on Tuesday received the unwelcome intelligence by wire that her father had died that morning at Salmon Arm and that burial would take place on Wednesday. Owing to the Arrow Lake connection being impossible and with Miss Vickers named to preside at the departmental examinations next week it was impossibe for her to attend the funeral.

The biggest array of provincial talent to address a political meeting in Creston is expected here on Tuesday night when Hon. W. J. Bowser leader of the Conservatives, will address a mass meeting in the Grand Theatre, commencing at 8 o'clock prompt. In addition to Col. Fred Lister it is expected, W. K. Esling, Rossland; J. W. Jones, Kelowna, and J. H. Schofield, Trail, all members of the present legislature, will be present and speak.

At a meeting of Christ Church Athletic Club on Tuesday night it was decided to have a one week's summer camp at Cultus Creek either the last week in July or the first week in August and up to the present about 50 have signed up as wishing to take the camping trip. The following have been named to handle the affair: Mesdames Hamilton, Ross and Bush, and Messrs. Moore, Bush and Benham. Details are now being arranged and further announcement will be made later. It is estimated that the cost per person will not be more than $7.50 per head for the week, and this will include transportation charges as well as meals, etc. The Athletic Club is making a great hit with the boys as the membership has more than doubled since the second meeting of the club a couple of months ago.

School Upkeep May Be $10,000

A vote of $10,000 is in prospect for the approval of the ratepayers of Creston school district at the annual meeting early next month, according to the Creston school board, which met in regular June session on Monday night. These figures, of course, are not final, but from a rough estimate of what will be required it is now absolutely certain that a sum considerably in excess of $8,200.00 voted last year will be required.

Up to the present there are no resignations from the high school staff, but two of the five public school teachers have notified that they will not be returning after midsummer. Those quitting are Principal G. P. Smith, who has been at the head of public school affairs for four years, and Miss Creighton, who came last year to take charge of the primary room.

The trustees have decided that no extra accommodation will be provided this year, but in order to get away from this certainly every room will be taxed almost beyond regulation capacity, as there is already a beginners' class of twenty-five to be taken care of, whilst the number of promotions from the high school will be far less than this number. In consequence of this enquiries that are already coming in from points down the lake as far as Harrop and east to Yahk for next year high school tuition are being informed that it is hardly possible that higher education can be provided other than for a few in the higher high school classes.

At Monday night's meeting the trustees decided to call for tenders for kalsomining and painting and varnishing the interior woodwork of the main school building and if the funds are voted other necessary improvements will be undertaken.

Arrangements were completed for handling the Entrance and High School examinations at this point, which start on Monday. Miss Creighton will have charge of the Entrance pupils from outside points, and Miss Wade will supervise some nineteen candidates from Creston school that will be writing on the same tests. Miss Vickers, local vice-principal, will have charge of those writing on the high school papers.

The some considerable increase in school revenues for the next year will be required to provide for necessary increases in salaries, school renovation, and the buying of the usual two year fuel supply, last year being the "off" year for wood purchasing. In addition the treasurer will have no surplus to carry forward at the end of June.

A shipment of kiddy cars just opened out at Beattie Ottways, at $3.50.

No Reason For Discouragement

There has been a lot of unwise and quite uncalled for "blue ruin" talk indulged in by some Western Members of Parliament and other Western men during the past few months. Such talk, instead of being constructive and helpful in bringing about reform and improvement, is almost wholly destructive and hurtful, and makes betterment the more difficult of attainment.

Western Canada has suffered from a number of hard years and adverse conditions. But this is true of the whole world. Furthermore, it was inevitable following the gigantic orgy of destruction in which all civilized nations engaged during 1914-1918, and the inflation which took place during those fateful war years. Anybody who anticipated anything else was a fool who gave no heed to all the lessons of history.

This Western country, and other countries the world over, have had series of bad years from time immemorial, and such periods are always more severly felt in a new and only partly developed country than in those where conditions are more settled and therefore more stable. But this is no cause for pessimism and downright discouragement.

There is a good deal to be said for the theory of Emile Coue. It is no new theory; in fact it is as old as the world. Let one man begin to talk pessimism to his neighbor, and let his neighbor repeat it to a third, and the third to a fourth, and so on, and it will not be long before by their of faith and confidence they produce the very conditions which before only existed in their imagination. Lacking confidence themselves, they inoculate others, and with lack of confidence they adopt methods which soon operate to clog the wheels of industry and progress.

Reversely, let men adopt the view, and act upon it, that "day by day in every way things are getting better and better" and they will get better.

After all, what has the West to be blue about? Saskatchewan is the chief grain producing section of Canada. It produces one-half of all the wheat grown in Canada, and last season Saskatchewan raised the second largest wheat crop in its history, as well as an enormous quantity of other grains. According to a careful and conservative estimate by an official of the Saskatchewan Government who is in the best possible position to judge, the proceeds of the sale of the agricultural crops of Saskatchewan last year netted a profit to the farmers of one hundred millions of dollars.

Granted that the position of Western farmers is not all that it should be and that people would like it to be, the fact remains, nevertheless, that their position is a whole lot better today than a year ago. Saskatchewan's one hundred millions over the cost of agricultural production has gone in the liquidation of debts incurred in equipping the farms of the province and overcoming a few lean years. That money is not going to lie idle; it will find its way back for further productive enterprise. It will all get into circulation.

Millions of dollars have been paid to municipalities in payment of arrears of taxes with the result that Western municipal organizations are now in a position to function as they were not able to do in several preceding years. These millions of dollars were paid by the people as individuals to themselves as a co-operate body. They will themselves reap the benefit. The price of farm implements has come down, farm labor is not so expensive and with a return to more active immigration further reductions may be expected. The railways are again becoming active with more extensive branch line construction programmes than for many years past, and, born of the experiences of the past few years, really constructive and earnest efforts are being put forth to overcome the difficulties and solve the problems which arise to affect Western agriculture.

Why be disheartened, discouraged, blue? Contrast the position of the residents of Western Canada, with life and property secure, and enjoying the widest possible measure of individual liberty, with the people of most countries in Europe today. Taxes heavy? Yes, but not as heavy as in other lands. Pessimism to talk in Western Canada when its most populous province boasts of more rural telephones per head of population than any other country in the world, where education is free and available to all, where the standard of health and living is high, where unemployment is decreasing more rapidly than in most countries, and where opportunity knocks at the door! Such talk is both wicked and absurd—wicked because dishonest; absurd because it has no foundation upon which to rest.

Grenfell of Labrador

American Paper Pays Fitting Tribute to a Remarkable Man

Dr. Wilfred Grenfell is one of the people who needs no introduction anywhere and who long ago became famous as a practical pacifist—that is, as a messenger of goodwill and helpfulness to human beings whose lot has not been cast in pleasant places. As everybody knows, he has practically dedicated himself to making life better worth living in regions where nature for the greater part of the year is in her sternest and most forbidding mood. A mere summary of what he has accomplished in Labrador and Newfoundland constitutes one of the noblest epics of human self-sacrifice and human achievement. It is a personal privilege and inspiration to meet a man of such rare and wonderful character as this, a man who has deliberately picked out for himself one of the most difficult and strenuous tasks of helpfulness to be found anywhere, and who has stuck to it with unfailing cheerfulness and courage for three decades, with no motive but that of sheer pity and love.—Baltimore Sun.

Western Grain Elevators

Recent official records show that the three thousand seven hundred licensed grain elevators in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta have a total storage capacity of over 100,000,000 bushels. Work has been commenced on the new elevator at the Ballantyne Pier, Vancouver, which will cost approximately $2,000,000 to complete. The new elevator will have a storage capacity of 1,500,000 bushels.

Minard's Liniment for Distemper

A Good Type of Settlers

Farmers from Iowa and Nebraska Have Eyes on Western Canada

(By G. C. Porter of Winnipeg)

Des Moines, Iowa.—While I believe the great Southwestern States will send the larger number of farmers to Canada this year, Iowa and Nebraska will contribute the best type. Those going north from these two States have more money, better equipment and are superior farmers. Agriculturally, Iowa and Nebraska are very similar to Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Those now troking to the prairie provinces are the sons and grandsons of former Canadians, Scandinavians, and a considerable sprinkling of Europeans. The pioneer instinct and love of the soil are stronger in them than in the socalled American type from the great Southwest. In one respect they are similar—the resolution to make a home on the soil in the Canadian Northwest.

T. V. Bennett is in charge of the Nebraska territory for the Dominion Government, and A. E. Pilkie in Iowa. I was in Omaha with Bennett and in Des Moines with Pilkie. Each is most optimistic with their mail bulging with inquiries and their offices crowded with men and women who are planning to go north this spring. The day I arrived in Des Moines, Pilkie was sending to the prairies six cars of settlers effects and was busy making out certificates for owners of the stock and farm equipment. Each car carried an automobile and a small tractor, and the agent told me his prospects were much in excess of last year, probably twenty per cent.

Bennett was equally busy and said more of his prospects were taking money to buy farms than in other days, though the man with three or four thousand dollars and equipment was in the majority. They will rent at first or homestead, explained Bennett to me, and later buy land. They are better types, Bennett explained, than in other years, good settlers all.

While the majority of these Nebraska and Iowa people are seeking prairie farm lands, both Pilkie and Bennett said they were having more than the usual number of inquiries about British Columbia ranching proposition and fruit farms. The Prince George district and the Okanagan Valley is the objective point of many of these prospects, these agents explained.

These two states have enjoyed too fine crops in succession and the renters have money now to get a start in Canada. This has proven a big factor in the movement, and also this condition has given many farmers whose land down here is mortgaged, a chance to sell out his equity and go to the Canadian prairies with ten to twenty thousand dollars. It is the experience of the Dominion agents down here that the movement northward is usually most active in those districts that have harvested big crops the previous year.

Striking Development Of The Dairying Industry In The Western Provinces

The most striking development of agriculture in the Canadian Prairie Provinces in recent years, whilst it may not be most apparent to the outside world, has undoubtedly been in dairying. Progress exhibited in this industry has been most encouraging, and this extensive territory, which but a few years ago was devoting its attention exclusively to the support of cattle ranches and expansive wheat fields, and in a period as recent as immediately prior to the war was under the necessity of importing the butter it consumed, has now a large exportable surplus which has already won for itself a favorable reputation in many markets.

Having regard to the dairying industry and the national benefits of more intensive methods of farming, the last eight years have virtually wrought miracles of change in these western provinces. Creameries have come to dot the countryside so profusely that one is to be found conveniently situated to almost every farming community. The car or rig with its cream can behind, is a common feature of the rural roads which was exceptional in the past. Sleek herds of finely bred dairy cattle have come to supplant the nondescript animal prevalent before and break the monotony of what was previously an uninterrupted monotony of ploughland and grain fields. Most keenly of all has the western farmer come to feel the change in a greater sense of assurance and security which accrues from a steady income.

That the prairie provinces have only made a commencement on their rise to a pre-eminent place in the Canadian dairy industry is evident from the fact that in the year 1922 Saskatchewan increased its output of dairy butter by 25 per cent. over 1921, Manitoba showed an increase of 23.5 per cent., whilst Alberta also achieved an increase of nearly 20 per cent. The total value of Alberta's dairy products in 1922 was $22,950,000, of Saskatchewan $18,805,216, and of Manitoba $12,434,223, making a total for the three provinces of $54,189,439.

No less remarkable than the growth of production in this western industry is the diligent progress made in creating a product of undoubted excellence. Western Canadian butter is not only of a high rank in Canada, but is able to make satisfactory competition in the United States and Europe. Last year, for instance, Alberta butter was shown at eleven exhibitions, coming into competition with butter from all other parts of the Dominion, and out of a total of a possible 380 awards, the province secured 211, including 54 firsts. Saskatchewan was the premier province in the previous year, securing the first five prizes in Canada for the highest average scores, whilst in the same year Manitoba secured the silver medal in Chicago and the year before took three Canadian provincial championships and twenty first prizes.

Among other factors which have contributed to the high standard of Western Canada's dairy production have been the unflagging efforts made to improve dairy herds and the constant keeping in sight of a high ideal in this regard. This has resulted in the development of exceptional herds of such excellence that though western dairy history is so young and the time of evolution brief, western dairy cattle are already in demand in many countries. Recently a new world's record in butter production was made at the farm of the Dominion Government at Agassiz, British Columbia, where a cow was responsible for a yield of 1,673 pounds of butter in 365 days. There are large herds on the prairies whose average production is over nine thousand pounds of milk in a year. On the Alberta farm of the Canadian Pacific Railway a record of 24,550 pounds of milk was recently made and the entire herd there is averaging close to 36 pounds per day during the winter months.

When an exportable surplus was arrived at, the high quality of the product naturally facilitated the development of markets, and today the provinces which were importing butter, not only for their urban but their rural populations, are exporting the same product in large quantities. Saskatchewan butter is only 30 per cent. marketed in the province, the remainder going to Vancouver and eastern markets. In 1922 the experiment of shipping direct to Great Britain was made, and so successful were the results of the first shipment that before the end of the year some thirty cars had been despatched and a permanent trade in this commodity is in sight for the province. Manitoba, which, in 1914, imported 70 carloads of butter, now exports about 100 carloads per year, and has successfully established its product on the British market. The butter product of Alberta is going in considerable quantity to the Pacific coast of British Columbia, the Yukon and as far east as Montreal.

Canadian Wheat Board

The period of operation of the Canadian Wheat Board Act of 1922, has been extended by Order-in-Council until the fifteenth of July, 1924. The act expires on August 15 this year. The act provides for the appointment of a wheat board on the request of two or more provinces.

It is far better to take people as they are than to waste valuable time in trying to make them as they should be.

Plans Being Developed For Utilization Of Flax Straw Grown By Prairie Farmers

For many years the problem of how to utilize the enormous wastage of straw from the western linseed flax oil crop has been the subject of investigation and study. Every year, for many years past, over a million tons of this straw, after the seed has been recovered by threshing, have been wasted by burning, so as to leave the land clean for future agricultural operations.

Realizing the potential value of this enormous tonnage of waste material, the Canadian Pacific Railway made a close study and careful investigation of its utilization; as it presented itself, under conditions which existed, the problem was a difficult one.

The straw was known to have a certain value for its fibre, being similar in this respect, though of inferior grade, to the straw cultivated for the production of fibre flax. But after leaving the threshing machine the fibre value of this linseed flax straw was destroyed, even for production of commercial tow, owing to the manner in which the straw is broken up in the threshing operation. In consequence of this difficulty, early investigations were along the lines of utilizing the waste straw as a pulping material for the manufacture of paper. The investigations conducted in this connection were entirely successful, and the resulting product was an exceptionally high grade of paper suitable for high-class of writing paper and similar purposes. This research was carried to a semi-commercial scale, but the cost of production of the pulp was too high for practical operation.

Subsequent investigations have been inaugurated by the Honorary Council for Scientific and Industrial Research in efforts to produce a pulp from which a cheap grade of newsprint could be manufactured. The results have not so far been disclosed.

Today the utilization of these vast quantities of waste straw is nearer to accomplishment than ever before. Modern Canadian invented and perfected machinery has made possible the recovery of the linseed without destruction of the straw through a new form of threshing machine. This at once removed the old obstacle to the utilization of the fibre content of the straw and sets free and available an enormous new supply of raw material for the manufacture of the lower grades of linen products, which is certain to mean an important industrial development in Western Canada in the not distant future.

Meantime a successful effort has been made in Manitoba near Winnipeg in the use of this waste flax straw by the production of an insulating material, which has been proved to be an efficient non-conductor of heat and cold, and is being used in western construction work as linings between the walls and under the roofs, to keep out the cold, and appears to have demonstrated effectively its success in these relations. It has been used in public buildings as well as industrial plants—ice- cold storage and others—and is becoming general in its use in private dwellings.

While this is only a beginning, it has created a situation more satisfactory for the future marketing of flax straw, and now its use for tow purposes for upholstering has developed a desire on the part of industries south of the International Boundary to purchase the straw and a large tonnage contract was entered into late in the past year; a tow mill is to be erected in Manitoba to take care of this new market.

This is an interesting western commercial development, befitting of mention as an example of the desire to utilize waste products. The west has already realized that everything must be used commercially to bring about satisfactory financial returns, and continuous investigations into markets and costs of production that are proceeding along various lines will lead ultimately to a greater value being obtained from western raw materials than perhaps has hitherto been the case.

The keynote to the whole situation, however, is a denser population, the creation of new local markets, all of which once more points to Canada's pressing need for a more constructive and aggressive immigration policy.

Klenzo Dental Creme does what your dentifrice should do. It makes the teeth clean — scrupulously clean; gives them the white lustrous look that is the distinguishing mark of beautiful teeth. And, in doing this, Klenzo protects the teeth against decay.

A special feature of Klenzo Dental Creme is the cool, clean feeling it leaves in the mouth. This feeling means that countless little taste nerves have been freed from the stale secretions that make the mouth feel hot and sticky.

Use Klenzo every morning and every night — and, if possible, after meals. Give close attention to the crevices around and between the teeth.

After brushing the teeth, always rinse the mouth—preferably with a diluted solution of Klenzo Liquid Antiseptic.

Klenzo Liquid Antiseptic is a scientific preparation for the mouth, teeth, gums, throat, nose, skin and mucous surfaces, and a valuable aid in the treatment of Pyorrhea. Also very useful in overcoming bad breath.

Use Klenzo Liquid Antiseptic as a mouth-wash, gargle or spray. Full directions on every bottle.
