April Meeting Board of Trade

New and Attractive Publicity
Pamphlet Almost Completed
—Progress Report on Hospital
—Name Convention Delegates

President Mallandaine was in charge of the April meeting of Creston Board of Trade which met on Tuesday night with a representative turnout of members with publicity, hospital and highway matters to the fore.

In addition to the usual lot of letters of enquiry Nelson board of trade had a couple of resolutions for endorsement. One requesting better facilities for steamboat traffic through the new bridge at Kootenay Landing was approved, but a hands off policy was adopted in connection with one demanding Kootenay be given cabinet representation in the government at Victoria.

For the Associated Boards of Trade convention at Cranbrook next month President Mallandaine and C. O. Rodgers were named delegates and if auto traveling is good it is likely a number of others will attend the convention.

Considerable progress is being made in assembling necessary information regarding establishing and operating a hospital. An encouraging report was received from Invermere which has a hospital with 14 beds, and New Denver, with a similar sized hospital, also supplied a report which indicated that the maintenance of hospital in these smaller centres is not the serious undertaking many people suppose it to be.

The writup for the publicity pamphlet was submitted. Most all of the photographs required have been secured but some hunting pictures would be particularly welcome. The president, secretary, with R. J. Forbes, F. Putnam and Geo. Johnson were named a special committee to revise the literary content of the booklet as well as to select the illustrations and to have not less than 1000 pamphlets printed.

The matter of getting a cutoff at the Crawford-Andy Anderson corner was up for consideration. The board has taken this up before with the engineer, but this time it was decided to talk the matter over with the local member and again press for immediate action.

R. J. Forbes headed a delegation from the newly-organized tennis club seeking the financial backing for the club's activities. Every possible moral support was assured, but as the board will need all available funds for its own good conduct no financial aid was forthcoming.

Idaho and Local Legion Meet, May

Idaho Legion State Convention to Adjourn to Creston for One
Session—Legion Ladies' Auxiliary Members also Coming.

Early next month Creston is due to entertain the largest and most notable gathering of visitors in the town's history, who will be here on a combined business and pleasure visit. The expected guests are delegates from all points in Idaho, who will be attending the annual state convention of the American Legion at Bonners Ferry, as well as the delegates to the yearly gathering of the American Legion Ladies' Auxiliary, whose state convention will assemble at Bonners Ferry at the same time. In addition to the delegates from Idaho it is expected Legion higher-ups from Montana, Washington and Oregon will also be in attendance. Likewise it is assured that many of the Legion delegates will be accompanied by their wives and if the weather is at all favorable Creston will have visitors to the number of at least 100.

On advice that the Idaho Legion convention would be at Bonners Ferry the Creston Post of the Canadian Legion immediately extended an official invitation to hold part of the convention in Creston and the idea appealed so strongly to the Bonners Ferry ex-service men's organization that on Tuesday of last week Messrs. O. C. Wilson and A. H. White, of Bonners Ferry Legion, visited Creston and had a conference with the executive of Creston Valley Post, at which preliminary arrangements were made for the international get together.

Messrs. Wilson and White in addressing the local members expressed a sincere appreciation of the invitation and believed that a joint meeting would be mutually beneficial. The exchange of ideas in itself was worth while and the strengthening of international goodwill was equally important.

The executive of Creston Post has named R. J. Forbes, W. V. Jackson and S. M. Watson a committee to interview the village council seeking the practical co-operation of the village, and Messrs. Forbes, F. Lewis, Reg. Watson, W. V. Jackson, G. Davis and C. W. Allan were named a committee to generally supervise affairs in connection with the visit.

At present the idea is to have the joint session of the two Legion organizations in the afternoon, to be followed by a supper and a dance in the evening to which all veterans, whether Legion members or not, along with their wives and daughters are invited. It is more than likely Creston Legion will pay Bonners Ferry a similar visit during 1930 and hope is expressed that these conferences may become annual affairs.

The Stumbling Block

Whatever may be the outcome of the naval conference in session in London, and at the time of writing it is still problematical and obscure, the fact that leading statesmen of the world, engrossed, as they are, with many domestic and other problems, and carrying heavy responsibilities, have for months doggedly persevered in their efforts to find common ground upon which a reduction of armaments can be brought about, is, in itself, one of the most hopeful signs for world peace.

Not many years ago such a conference would have, long ere this, broken up in an open confession of failure, with national feelings more embittered than ever, and a still more feverish renewal of warlike preparations on the part of all nations. Even if the present conference does not succeed in reaching a formal and unanimous agreement, the persistency, the intensity with which those participating have sought for a solution is encouraging and full of hope for ultimate future success.

The proceedings of the conference as they have dragged along week after week, have proven the sincerity of the statements made by the various representatives at the opening session, namely, that they and the governments they represent are keenly desirous of reaching an agreement, that they are anxious to make future wars impossible, that they believe in the letter and spirit of the Kellogg peace pact, and to that end are willing to make what they consider sacrifices to achieve a reduction in armaments and a consequent lessening of the possibilities of war and of the burden of taxation imposed upon their people.

This sincerity of purpose has been demonstrated over and over again. When any particular formula or plan was found to be unacceptable in any particular to any one nation, the others sought for amendments that would meet the objections raised. When the objections urged were found to be insurmountable, that formula or plan was discarded, and something different brought forward. Step by step, in sub-conferences innumerable, by direct negotiations between those countries which were farthest apart in their views, difficulties were gradually overcome.

Just how much has been accomplished, the world does not yet know; perhaps little of a really definite nature. But the whole effect has been beneficial. It is beyond all question that the nations now understand and appreciate each other's viewpoints and difficulties better than ever before, because it is quite evident that the negotiations have been conducted with great frankness, and yet with an absence of that bitterness and ill-feeling which existed in past years. Whatever the present outcome, the way, we repeat, has been paved to ultimate success.

And what is the obstacle to immediate success, assuming that it cannot at this time be achieved? It is that the centuries-old racial dislikes, suspicions, superiority complexes, and religious differences still project themselves and live in this twentieth century of the Christian era. Each and every nation indignantly denies and rejects the idea that they entertain, desire or propose any policy or act of aggression against any other nation. But each and every nation is, nevertheless, demanding security against other nations. In a word, while professing their own honesty of purpose, they remain doubtful and suspicious of their neighbors.

Here in Canada we may find it somewhat difficult to understand this attitude, and be inclined to question the sincerity of those who adopt it. But if we pause for a moment and ponder over the problem a bit, we will, perhaps, come to appreciate the European viewpoint somewhat better. And in doing so we, too, may learn a lesson of importance to ourselves, our communities, and our Dominion.

After all, what is the chief cause of friction, ill-will, bitterness and suspicion right here in Canada, and in our own community? Does it not arise out of differences in racial origin, different languages employed, differing forms by and through which we worship the same God? Are we not suspicious and distrustful of our neighbors simply because their racial origin differs from our own, because their mother tongue is not ours, because their religious thought and church observances differ from ours? We feel that they should conform to our ideas and ways of thought, and because we feel this, we imagine that they, in turn, are trying to impose their ways upon us.

It is the same European nightmare in a somewhat milder form. We want and demand security. Instead of armies and navies, we place reliance in laws, regulations, prohibitions. France would bring all Europe to her way of thinking, Germany to her way. We, in Canada, seem to demand complete assimilation, absolute uniformity. It is the same principle. And it is a principle if persisted in, and carried to its logical conclusion, results in ill-feeling, bitterness and strife, and makes peace impossible of attainment.

A broader education, a truer appreciation of the fact that all men are brothers, that a man's a man for a' that, a nearer approach to the spirit of the Christ, is an essential of world disarmament and peace, just as it is an essential to community betterment and national peace and progress. Demands for security will only be unnecessary and die when we no longer entertain suspicions and fears of those against whom we would arm in one form or another.

Noted Flier Performs Thrilling Exploit

Australian Ace Forces Machine To Rise In Forest Clearing

Captain Charles Kingsford D. Smith, the Australian ace who flew from the United States to Australia in 1928, has just performed one of the most thrilling exploits of his career.

He is now the director of an air line. Recently when one of the company's triple-engine machines made a forced landing in a forest clearing near Bonalbo, Northern New South Wales, it seemed that the 'plane could be moved only by being dismantled.

Smith went to the scene, repaired the damaged under-carriage, tied the 'plane's tail to a tree and set his engines going full speed. When the machine lifted from the ground a farmer cut the rope and the 'plane flashed away like a rocket.

Even then the straining 'plane, bucking like a broncho, could barely rise above the towering forest trees. A topmost bough tore the fabric from underneath the fuselage and the machine trembled like a wounded bird, but it kept up and Smith got it safely to the air-drome.

Crime In Ontario

Increases In Serious Crimes Shown In Provincial Police Report

Increases were noted in the number of murders, manslaughter charges, offences against women, suicides, automobile fatalities and drownings. Last year there were 20 murders in the province, compared to 14 in 1928; 28 manslaughter charges, against 18; 83 suicides against 58, automobile fatalities totalled 248, while there were only 162 in 1928, and drownings increased from 144 to 191. We can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Good old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, is feverish, or cries and can't sleep, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just keep Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow.

War Restrictions Raised

One of the last remaining relics of the Great War has been abolished by the League of Nations. This is the series of import and export restrictions which were enacted by the various nations during the war to prevent exportation of raw materials and manufactured articles necessary for them to carry on the conflict. As the years rolled by and the regulations were not repealed world trade was seriously hampered.

Linking Canada and Britain

British Post Office To Provide Direct Wireless Phone Service

Canada and Britain are to be linked by direct wireless telephone. The House of Commons recently debated the respective merits of the Marconi and the British post office wireless systems. Hon. H. B. Lees-Smith, postmaster-general, revealed that the Canadian government had expressed a desire for direct service.

The direct service will be provided by the post office. Arguing the general merits of the post office system as contrasted with Marconi, the postmaster-general said the lower costs of its aeriads enabled it to give three wave lengths to each Dominion. The Marconi system provided two to most of the Dominions and only one for Australia.

LIQUOR EXPORT BILL OPPOSED IN THE SENATE

Ottawa, Ont.—A declaration by Senator Charles E. Tanner, of Halifax, that in his opinion the government bill to prohibit liquor clearances to shipments destined for the United States appeared to have been "dictated from Washington," featured discussion of this measure in the Senate.

The entire time of the Senate during sitting was devoted to discussion of the bill. Senator Tanner occupied the major part of the time in a lengthy speech supporting the Conservative amendment to the motion for second reading.

This amendment which was moved by Senator W. B. Willoughby, Conservative leader in the Senate, asks that the bill be not read a second time at present, "but that it be referred to a special committee, to be selected by the Senate, for the purpose of first obtaining information as to the effect the passing of the bill would have on the economic, national and international conditions and relations of Canada."

Senator Tanner asserted that the bill could commit Canada to a policy of the prevention of liquor export to the United States.

"The more we give these people, the more they want," said Senator Tanner, with reference to the United States. As far as the government of the United States was concerned he considered it both "relentless and selfish." The United States, he declared, always got the best of any bargain that it entered into with Canada.

"Are they taking our interests into consideration in the tariffs they are framing?" asked Senator Tanner, in elaborating on his declaration that the United States consequently looked after its own interest exclusively. "How about the Chicago diversion? Are we getting any nearer to a solution of that?"

Senator Tanner said that the United States representatives in London today were saying: "Here we are. If you care to come to our terms there'll be an agreement." The senator expressed admiration for the point of view which he attributed to the United States. They were looking after their own interests, and he wished that the government of Canada would take a similar attitude in respect to the Dominion.

There were two other speakers. Senator Nathaniel Curry of Nova Scotia, said he would not vote for the bill. In his opinion withdrawal of Canada's liquor exports from the United States would not affect the situation in that country. Canada exported about two per cent. of the liquor consumed in the United States. Illicit manufacturers would very soon make up that deficiency.

Carried By Large Majority

Jews In Quebec Are Granted Separate School Rights

Quebec, Que.—By a vote of 52 to 5 the Quebec Legislative Assembly approved of giving separate schools to the Jewish people on the Island of Montreal.

Hon. Athanase David, provincial secretary, explained the bill, and said it spoke for the attitude of toleration which this province has always taken as regards minorities. Premier Taschereau made it clear he stands against the neutral school, and for this he also favored the bill. He hoped if Jewish schools are established they will be along lines of good Canadian thought.

War Reparations

Ottawa. — Canada has received $10,151,436 in payment of war reparations, Hon. Fernand Rinfret, secretary of state, informed the House of Commons in reply to a question from Earl Lawson (Con., York West). The question also asked the amount paid out of reparations for claims awarded by the reparations commission. The reply to this was that no sums were paid out of the amount received for reparations. Payments were paid under the provisions of the reparation payment act.

Question Of General Election Discussed

But No Official Statement Is Issued For Press

Ottawa, Ont.—The question of a general election was discussed at a recent caucus of the Liberal party.

While no official statement was issued at the conclusion of the meeting, it is understood Premier Mackenzie King stated that he was no more decided whether to hold an election this year or in 1931, than he was three months ago. But, at the same time, it is said the prime minister warned members they should begin preparations and continue to make preparations.

The views of a number of private members were expressed; and, it is understood, that in the course of this discussion a suggestion was made that August 25 next, might possibly be the date for an election.

Menaced By Oil Gusher

Fire Hazard Threatens Lives and Property Of Oklahoma

Oklahoma City, Okla.—A great gusher roared like a young volcano in the backyard of Oklahoma City, while men made futile efforts to control a spout of gas and oil unleashed in the race for riches.

The gusher has driven inhabitants from its environs, deluged the section with a thick coat of petroleum, through which even trucks cannot pull, filling ravines with gas and threatened lives and property with a fire hazard.

A pebble, driven by the tremendous flow of gas released into the sky, might strike the spark which would envelop the countryside in flames.

Outrages At Neudorf

Reward Of $500 Is Offered For Conviction Of Offenders

Neudorf, Sask.—The municipality of McLeod has offered a reward of $500 for the conviction of the parties believed to be waging a Vendetta against Louis Ulmer, a farmer of this district and his family. Last September, when the farm was in possession of Ulmer's father, four horses and two cows were killed in a peculiarly cruel manner, and subsequently the granary was burned down, 1,400 bushels of wheat being destroyed. Recently two more horses, a cow and a calf were killed outright and four horses badly injured.

High Prices For Livestock

Calgary, Alberta. — Forty mature Aberdeen-Angus bulls brought an average price of approximately $190 each at auction during the opening session of the Calgary spring bull sale. A total of 13 animals were sold including a number of yearlings, which were less in demand, the average for the animals of this breed being $171.

Travels 2,000 Miles By Air

Edmonton, Alberta.—Covering the two thousand miles from Aklavik, on the Arctic ocean, to Edmonton in 17 hours of actual flying time, His Lordship Bishop W. A. Geddes completed a trip last Sunday which would have taken ten weeks of ordinary winter travel. In open water, the journey by steamboat would have lasted three weeks.

Cosgrave who had been defeated by a narrow margin recently on an old age pensions bill, was chosen for his old post by the Dail after De Valera and the Laborite leader, T. J. O'Connell, had been thrust aside in turn.

The successive votes were:

For De Valera: 54 for, 93 opposed.
For O'Connell: 13 for, 78 opposed.

Doukhobors On Rampage

Eight Fanatics Stage Nude Demonstration At Nelson, B.C.

Nelson, B.C.—A nude demonstration Sunday by eight non-community Doukhobors, who interrupted the preaching of Peter Veregin at the annual meeting of the Christian Community of Universal Brotherhood, at Brilliant, was followed by further disorders Monday night by about 200 who did not go to the extent of disrobing. The provincial police from Nelson were called out to maintain order.

The demonstration resulted in a committee being appointed by the conference to interview the malcontents and offer them a tract of land in the Slocan Valley for their use, provided they would agree to be law abiding, to send their children to the schools, and to pay lawful taxes. This offer was rejected by the disturbers, who demanded the privilege of living in close association with the community without obligation to pay rates or obey the laws. They were then requested to leave.

Folks Get the Blues When It Is Mid-Winter In the Arctic

Winnipeg, Man.—All the top-of-the-world folk get the blues when it's mid-winter in the arctic. This is the comment of William Murray, manager of the Hudson's Bay Company post at Herschel Island, off the north shore of Canada. He refers to the brief period when daytime is a generous word for two hours of murky twilight.

From November 26 until January 16, observes Mr. Murray, no sun is visible at Herschel Island. Little or no travelling is done although there is fairly good light at mid-day, when a red glare appears in the southern sky. For days before the sun's return natives stand eagerly on top of their igloos seeking first glimpses of Old Sol.

Canberra, Australia.—Hon. E. G. Theodore, Commonwealth treasurer, introduced in the House of Assembly a bill to create a central reserve bank similar to the Central Reserve Bank of South Africa. The bank will have a capital of $10,000,000, drawn from the Commonwealth Bank, and the board will include representatives of Labor.

The proposal marks another step in the Labor government's comprehensive program, for restoration of the economic and financial position of Australia, a program which also includes a compulsory wheat-marketing pool.

STUDY VARIOUS PROBLEMS OF GRAIN INDUSTRY

Ottawa, Ont.—Three fellowships established by the Canadian Wheat Pool to further scientific research in problems of the Western Canadian grain industry, each having an annual value of $1,200 have been awarded by the National Research Council.

As announced the successful candidates are:

R. G. Dunlop, B.Sc., University of Saskatchewan, who will undertake research in the Department of Field Crops and Plant Biochemistry of the University of Alberta.

H. R. Sallans, B.Sc., University of Saskatchewan, who will undertake research in the Department of Wheat Chemistry, of the University of Saskatchewan.

C. A. Winkler, B.Sc., University of Manitoba, who will undertake research in the Department of Agricultural Chemistry of the University of Manitoba.

Sixty-five persons have been successful in securing a national research council post-graduate research scholarship, tenable in Canadian universities during the year 1930-31. This year considerably more than twice as many applications were received as there were awards available, says a statement issued recently by the Research Council.

Three classes of post-graduate scholarships are awarded, known as bursaries, studentships and fellowships, having an annual value of $750, $1,000 and $1,200 respectively.

These awards are provided to enable Canadian students who have graduated with distinction from a university to continue their training in science until they have qualified for a Ph.D. degree in order to build up a corps of thoroughly trained research workers for service in Canadian industries, universities and in the technical departments of the federal and provincial governments.

Famine Takes Heavy Toll

Hundred Die Every Day In Chinese Province Of Shensi

New York, N.Y.—People are dying at the rate of one hundred a day in the plains of the Shensi province in the famine stricken area of China, according to a report received from Mrs. Philip S. Dutton, at Taihu, in North China.

Mrs. Dutton, formerly of Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., estimates that by the beginning of summer two-thirds of the population will be dead. The inhabitants, she says, are tearing down their houses and selling the material to obtain money for food. In every yard is a pile of leaves which the owners are eating. When the leaves are gone they will die. Mrs. Dutton says.

They came out to the end of steel by dog team, and at Mile 327, on the Hudson Bay Railway, they were met by the photographer of the Canadian National Railways who made the above photo in the clothes the Eskimos made for them. Vance is seen on the left and Blasdale on the right.

A few words can save the service

A road gang engaged in blasting operations. Bang! And the telephone lines are down.

Serious interruption to telephone service can be prevented in such cases if those responsible for the blasting will notify the nearest telephone office in advance. A telephone man will then co-operate by stringing temporary lines around the scene, and these will be immediately available for service if the explosion tears down the copper toll wires.

When telephone men are not notified in advance it is often a matter of many hours before service can be restored.

SPIRITUAL VICTORY

CONTRIBUTED

The story of which we are reminded by the approach of Holy Week and Easter is still the most wonderful story in the world.

A modern writer has pointed out that of the four records preserved in the New Testament the fourth differs from the others in that it is not so much a plain narrative of facts as an interpretation of the deepest meaning of the birth, life, death and resurrection of Jesus Christ. The outward events of the story as told in this record are shown to be symbols of eternal truths, a revelation of the counsels of God and his great love to man. Those incomparable and familiar words, "God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten son," strike the keynote of St. John's gospel.

The story of the cross of Christ, as St. John presented it, with its terrible and cruel details, its exhibition of human bigotry, treachery and brutality, is irradiated with heavenly light and turned into something beautiful and glorious. We are not invited to pity a human sufferer; our eyes are directed toward a divine being making the supreme sacrifice for the redemption of mankind of his own freewill. It is not just the description of a shocking judicial murder, but shows evil at its worst overcome by good at its best; a victory won not only on Easter Sunday but on Good Friday. Jesus said, "Be of good cheer, I have overcome the world," at a time when, as He well knew, the world was about to wreak its worst malice upon him.

The note of victory is consistently sustained all through this record. The author in the first part of his book bears testimony to the divinity of Christ, portraying him as the bread of life, the light of the world, and the living water. He then proceeds to unfold the effect of Christ's contact upon the Jews, culminating finally in their decisive rejection of him, and thus leading up to the final catastrophe.

In the latter chapters Jesus is shown calmly renewing his coming voluntary sacrifice with the disciples, accepting the impending indignities as part of it. When undergoing his trial He towers sublimely above those who judged and condemned him. Even Pilate testified to his majesty by the title he ordered to be set above the cross.

The bystanders who witnessed the crucifixion would not have described the scene as a victory. It is rather how God himself beheld it. Years afterwards the church could see and understand that what looked at the time like complete defeat was the greatest of all conquests. Jesus reigned from the tree.

It is not easy to rise to the level of St. John's teaching. There is a tendency to separate the passion too much from the resurrection; to mourn over a slain deity and then rejoice over his resuscitation; to pretend that we do not know what is to follow Good Friday. Many experience a sense of unreality about it. St. John gave us a truer vision, to look through the pain to the triumph, through the material to the spiritual, to bring together into a unity the whole drama. He approaches the events of Holy Week and Easter as a mystery, a great spiritual truth revealed through these happenings in the outer world.

The cross of Christ is the mystery or sacrament of spiritual victory. Every battle must be fought out in its own field. There are some conflicts which can only be decided by physical force; others which are decided by persuasive eloquence; others which are decided by scientific demonstration or logic. But the warfare against the powers of evil has its own laws, which are strikingly unlike those of earthly battles. In the spiritual conflict, victory generally comes through defeat, gain through pain, achievement through sacrifice. Force is not an attribute of God. Spiritual victories are won through the conversion of human nature itself. The only real dynamic which can change human nature is love. The human heart will melt under certain conditions even as ice will melt at a given temperature. Of all the agencies which have been applied to melt the heart, to shame the conscience, and to quicken the will for good, none has ever approached in effectiveness the cross of Christ.

The gospel was written first upon human hearts, and ever since it has been propagated in the same way, by the influence of goodness upon character. It is a slow way of moving the world, very slow, difficult and secret. But there is no other way of making the world better, than by making the men and women that live in it better. From "each for self" to "each for all" there is but one road. Love in such an imperfect world must take the form of suffering. Not only Christ himself, but most of his truest servants, have received far more ill than good from their fellowmen. The injustice done to them and borne by them has again and again proved its power to touch human hearts; the blood of the martyrs has been the seed of the church. This will prove true again in the persecutions now being suffered by our fellow Christians in unhappy Russia.

Spiritual evils can be fought only with spiritual weapons. These weapons are love and sacrifice. They do their work individually and secretly, and never more effectively than when the powers of evil seem to be too strong for them. The verdict of history is that the church has done least good in the world in the seasons when it has been most popular and prosperous. This is not surprising when we reflect that the church was founded by the crucified Christ. Jesus is among us now to heal the wounds of humanity, but He does not come to us in the robes of a king or in the armor of a conqueror. He comes as the man of sorrows, crowned with thorns, bearing his cross to Calvary. "If any man will come after me, let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and follow me."

Best (formerly of Kaslo), with James Patterson MacDonald, formerly of Fernie now of Creston, in charge of forestry department work in this district.

The ceremony was performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Hassard, with Mr. Hassard giving the bride in marriage. The bride's costume was mauve silk flat crepe trimmed with white with hat of contrasting shade to match. She was supported by Mrs. Sykes of Corbin, sister of the groom, as matron of honor, who was gowned in blue ninon. John MacDonald, brother of the groom, was best man.

Following the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served and a little later Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald left by motor on a wedding trip which will include short visits at Spokane and points in Washington and Oregon, the bride travelling in a costume of peach trimmings with blue and hat to match. On their return they will make their home in Creston.

For the past two years the bride has been on the office staff of C. O. Both enjoy a well deserved popularity with a host of friends all of whom extend heartiest good wishes for future success and happiness.

Better Feed Standards

New Regulations Require a More Careful Elimination Of Weed Seeds

Better feed oats and barley is assured by the new regulations of the seed branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture, which require a more careful elimination of weed seeds. Under these new regulations, while wild oats and other grains present are taken into consideration, the quality of the grain itself now mainly determines the grade.

In the past there have been frequent complaints, especially from the eastern feeders, of the excess of weed seeds contained in feed grain from the west. Under the grain inspection practices now in force even the lowest grades of feed oats and barley may have not more than 3 per cent. of weed seeds.

With this new system of inspection in operation, eastern feeders will be able to buy oats and feed barley on certificate, and with much greater assurance as to the cleanliness and quality of the grain so purchased.

Griddle Cakes

Tested Recipe Is Herewith Given Which Should Give Good Results

Who doesn't like griddle cakes? From father to the youngest member of the family, every one clamors for more — when they are tasty! Here is a tested recipe:

- 1 cupful Borden's St. Charles Milk.
- 1 cupful water.
- 2 tablespoonfuls melted butter.
- 1 egg, well beaten.
- 3 cupfuls white flour.
- 1 teaspoonful salt.
- 2 teaspoonfuls baking powder.
- 2 tablespoonfuls sugar.

Combine the milk and water, add the shortening, sugar, and the egg, and beat in the dry ingredients which have been sifted together. Beat thoroughly and fry as usual on a slightly oiled griddle, or on an un-oiled aluminum or soapstone griddle. The Wealth Of India

Apart from the Indian States there are probably many more millionaires in British India than in America, and they are all, or nearly all, Indian. But these fortunes enormous as they are in the aggregate, are unquestionably a mere fraction of the still more marvellous wealth which exists in the shape of gold and silver hoards throughout the vast domain of India, whether British India, or the Indian States.

More Funds Required To Finance Big Meeting To Be Held In Winnipeg

The committee of medical men in Winnipeg who are in charge of the arrangements for the meeting of the British Medical Association in that city next summer, have requested Manitoba members of parliament, particularly Dr. J. P. Howden, of St. Boniface, to ask the Federal Government for more financial assistance.

The meeting of the British Medical Association will be an event of historic importance. It is 24 years since the association met in Canada, the last occasion being in 1906 when the meeting took place in Toronto.

It is estimated that the cost of looking after the delegates, providing entertainment for them and suitable accommodation for their sessions, will be $60,000. It is understood here that this does not cover the expenses of the delegates in any way, shape or form. Each delegate will come from Great Britain at his own expense.

So far the Federal Government has agreed to give $20,000 to the committee. It is believed that the provincial government of Manitoba is giving $10,000. And the city of Winnipeg $10,000. This still leaves $20,000 to be found. The Canadian Medical fraternity are subscribing privately to a fund to be used for the meeting, but it is thought that in order to make the event certain of success a further Federal grant is desirable. Dr. Howden, probably will ask for a supplementary vote of from $5,000 to $10,000.

THE CHILD AND THE KINGDOM

Golden Text: "Suffer the little children, and forbid them not, to come unto Me; for to such belongeth the kingdom of heaven."—Matthew 19, 14.

Lesson: Matthew 18:1-14; 19:13-15.
Devotional Reading: Psalm 24:1-6.

Explanations and Comments

The Kingdom of Heaven Is Entered By the Childlike, 18:1-4 In answer to the disciples question, "Who then, is greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven?" Jesus called to him a little child (possibly Peter's, if they were in Peter's house at Capernaum at the time), and putting him in the midst of the disciples said, "Except ye turn, and become as little children, ye shall in no wise enter into the Kingdom of Heaven." The double Greek negative in the last clause is most emphatic: far from being the greatest in the Kingdom of Heaven, they were in danger of never entering it. They must turn from their wrong ambition and jealousy, and become unpretentious, humble as little children. A child has no thought about greatness. "Jesus does not say that the childlike spirit is inherently better than the spirit of the man. He does not promise that it shall possess or govern the Kingdom. He affirms only that it is the condition of entering the Kingdom. It is not that the child is better than the man, but that the child stands at the gate of the ideal and takes the first step toward the Christian character. Docility, receptivity, open-mindedness, the eager listening spirit of the little child, this is the polar opposite of the unteachable, satiated, closed heart of the Pharisee, and as the latter blocks the way to the Kingdom, so the former opens it. Better things than childhood has to offer are to be gained through the discipline and stress of life, yet entrance to the Kingdom is attained by no other door than the unspoiled, natural, spontaneous spirit of the child, and many a sophisticated and unteachable life will find a shock of surprise that it has lost the key."—F. G. Peabody.

There is but one class in the Hemp section for seed of any variety. The exhibit must bear the variety name and consists of 30 pounds. There are twenty prizes for Hemp seed grading from $75 down to $12.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION?

Countless remedies are advertised for constipation. Many relieve for the moment but they are habit forming and must be continued. Others contain calomel and dangerous mineral drugs, which remain in the system, settle in the joints and cause aches and pains. Some are harsh purgatives which cramp and gripe and leave a depressed after effect. Avoid lubricating oils which only grease the intestines and encourage nature's machinery to become lazy.

A purely vegetable laxative such as Carter's Little Liver Pills, gently touches the liver, bile starts to flow, the bowels move gently, the intestines are thoroughly cleansed and constipation poisons pass away. The stomach, liver and bowels are now active and the system enjoys a real tonic effect. All druggists 25c and 75c red pkg.

The Family Physician.—The good doctor is always worth his fee. But it is not always possible to get a doctor just when you want him. In such cases, common sense suggests the use of reliable home remedies, such as Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil, which is wonderfully effective in easing inflammatory pains and healing cuts, scratches, bruises and sprains. The presence of this remedy in the family medicine chest saves many a fee.

"I forgot you didn't know I was here to supper. I invited myself; and we ate in the front room so as not to miss any of the excitement! I washed the dishes while Grandma got ready for our spree. I tell you, she's some sport!"

Charmian joined in his laugh, though what she felt was a sudden desire for tears. She couldn't have said just why, but a wave of tenderness for this old friend had overwhelmed her. Jim was so kind, she told herself. What other man would have washed those dishes just to save her a little trouble? What other man would have jollied an old lady all the evening, when he could have been with the young folks at the church festival? What did it matter if he was a bit under his mother's thumb?

Possibly the young man felt her yielding in some subtle way, for he said suddenly: "The moon will be full tomorrow night, won't it? Will you go for a ride, Charmian?"

They both turned at a sound behind them. The new doctor stood in the doorway, hesitating to interrupt, perhaps, but at any rate he came forward bravely and dropped the gray crepe shawl over the girl's shoulders.

"Your grandmother says you'll 'take your death o' cold,'" he explained, with a grin that made him very boyish; and Charmian replied, laughing:

"Did she think I was going to stay out till morning? Good-night, Jim. Thanks for everything; and of course I'll go for a ride tomorrow evening. I'd love it."

Jim, who had been cursing the innocent doctor beneath his breadth, and thinking that Charmian hadn't noticed his invitation, went off in such a daze that he barely escaped colliding with a lamp post.

Grandma Davis seemed none the worse for her outing. She was up for breakfast, and eager to hear the news.

"You tell me everything about the supper," she demanded, as Charmian poured the coffee. "Did you have a good time, Doctor? And was that Darling girl upset because her young man didn't show up? Did she wear the hat?"

"She did," answered the doctor. "In fact, it was the first thing that caught my eye when we arrived. It's not a bad hat, really, and, as your granddaughter pointed out, it is becoming; but if the young lady was disturbed because you cut her out last night, she concealed it well."

Charmian threw him a laughing glance.

"Miss Darling found fresh hunting, Grandma," she explained. "Poor Jimmy was forgotten."

"You flatter me," retorted the doctor, arising to make her sweeping bow; while Grandma exclaimed as he resumed his seat:

"Do you mean to say that she made eyes at you, Doctor? She must be brazen!"

"Am I so impossible as all that?" he asked reproachfully.

Grandma shook her head as she went on: "But you're a doctor, even if you haven't got one foot in the grave yet, and—and dignified."

"Good Lord!" he cried, disgusted, "I didn't suspect it!"

"For consolation, let me add that you are not too dignified," smiled Charmian. "Surely not enough so to resent the advances of—"

"Charmian," reproved her grandmother, "you shouldn't talk so—so freely to the doctor. Of course he's dignified. A doctor has to be or folks wouldn't take his medicine. Even Edward Howe is dignified when he's a mind to be; though I remember years ago when—well, maybe it isn't nice for me to tell it, but I remember when he threw a spit ball at the teacher. It was at District Four."

"I venture to guess that the teacher deserved it," said John Carter, his eyes brimming with fun.

"That was the worst of it," went on Grandma seriously, "she didn't, though no one would have guessed it till she burst crying. She'd been snapping the children's heads off for two days, and when Edward threw the spit ball, sort of to relieve everybody's feelings as well as his, it was the last straw. She began to cry, and come to find out her mother was sick and she was worried most to death—afraid to ask leave to go home at that time o' year for fear she'd lose her job, and feeling dreadfully. She was so stirred up she just burst out the whole story to us children. I suppose she hardly knew what she was doing, and it was a relief to say what was in her mind."

"Well, you better believe that boy was ashamed of himself. He apologized right before us all. And he patted that poor woman on the shoulder, for all the world the way, years after, I've seen him pat his patients when he was sorry for 'em. Mercy! how

Caught Disease On the HANDS!

Skin disease threatens us every day. Invisible germs of blood-poison, eczema, etc., are waiting to infect the least cut or sore place. The money you use carries germs—you get them on the handles, rails and straps of the trains and street cars, and in a score of other ways. Solely through Zam-buk, Mr. Henry C. Davis, of South 17th Street, Kansas City, U.S.A., has just escaped a virulent type of eczema, contracted, he suspects, through use of public towels. "I had medical advice," he says, "and in addition all sorts of so-called eczema remedies, without finding the hoped-for relief. Zam-buk treatment soon gave positive results. It took away the painful irritation and quickly purified and healed the deep troublesome sores."

clear it all comes back! Kate Knowles (she was George K's aunt and the girl that Edward Howe was engaged to later), was crying in sympathy; and so was Lizzie Baker, though she wasn't but six years old. But Deacon Howe was on the school board then, and when Edward went home and told the story, his father gave the teacher a month's leave, and she went off that very afternoon.

"Did her mother die?" asked Charmian, who invariably became absorbed in Grandma's reminiscences.

"No, childy, she got better and came to live in Wickfield. They were real nice folks, and stayed here till the daughter got a school in Portland. Dear me! here I wanted to hear about the festival, and instead I've been talking every minute, boring you to death most likely, too. Are you going to finish fixing the doctor's office this morning, Charmian?"

"I'm going to fix it myself," declared the doctor, "if your granddaughter will tell me what to do. I'm thrilled at that office, Mrs. Davis. It's a dream come true."

"Maybe you'd better call me Grandma to start with," said the old lady. "I don't know when any one's said Mrs. to me, and it don't sound natural. Everybody calls me Grandma, even Edward Howe who was only two years back o' me in school. Folks in Wickfield might not know who you meant if you said Mrs. Davis."

"It's very good of you to let me—Grandma," answered the young man, smiling. "It makes me feel like one of the family."

"That's how I want you to feel, sonny," she responded; while Charmian laughed and said:

"Is that the way to address a dignified physician? I'm surprised at you, Grandma! Soon as I get these dishes out of the way, Doctor, I'll join you in the office; and in the meantime you can carry the biggest books up attic. By afternoon you'll be ready for your first patient. Aren't you thrilled at the thought?"

"I shall be more thrilled when he arrives!" answered John Carter. "Here's hoping I don't starve while waiting for him."

Grandma shook her head.

"I never was one to be a wet-blanket; but you may as well swallow the fact right off that Wickfield folks are set in their ways, and they're used to Edward Howe. Isn't that some one in the shop? I heard the door open. You lend me a hand, sonny, and I'll see to 'em so Charmian can get right to work."

A half hour later when Charmian looked in at the new office, John Carter was unpacking a box of his own books and placing them on the shelves.

"Let me hand them to you," she suggested. "You know where you want to put them, and I don't." She glanced at the back of a big volume, and said, so soberly that the doctor laughed: "Gray's Anatomy." What a horrible title! Do you know, I can't help feeling sorry for these shelves, supporting such dry subjects for years and years. I think I'll present you with some detective stories, or something jazzy in the way of novels. A risqué volume might be a relief to these poor shelves after being so deadly respectable for fifty years. First the ponderous law weighing them down, and now—"

She sighed despairingly as she wiped the dust from "Osler's Practice," and held it out.

"Bring on your jazz," invited John Carter as he reached for the despised volume. "I dare say I need it, after a pretty steady diet of the other thing. But I believe you'll find one or two less hopeless subjects in that last box. Let's empty it here on the desk, and then I'll carry off the packing cases and we can clear up."

When he returned she was smiling over "Pepys' Diary," and remarked wickedly: "I think I'll take this in to Grandma. I'd like to see how she'd react to it, wouldn't you?"

"Hush! she read it?"

"I don't believe so, and her comments might be valuable! I'm glad to see that you're a devotee of 'Sherlock Holmes'—and Dickens. I think there's hope for you despite the dignity that Grandma mentioned."

He actually flushed.

"Say, do I put on airs—behave like an idiot or anything?"

Charmian laughed.

"I seem to have got a 'rise' out of you," she said. "Don't worry. I haven't detected any airs, nor the first sign of idiocy. In Grandma's day a doctor never appeared in public without a full beard and a frock coat. She was shocked to death when Doctor Howe began to dress like a civilized being and shaved off his whiskers; but in her eyes he can do no wrong. Because he brought you here you'll appear the ideal M.D. to her, dignity and all. That's why she was appalled at the brazenness of—of the green hat!"

The doctor laughed as he replied: "Poor old hat! It seems to have stirred up a tempest in a teapot."

"It is a new hat," corrected Charmian, "and a tempest isn't a patch on what it has stirred up."

He raised his eyes quickly.

"What do you mean? You sound subtle; and I warn you that subtlety is a quality I can't abide."

HEALTHY CHILDREN ALWAYS SLEEP WELL

The healthy child sleeps well and during its waking hours is never cross but always happy and laughing and spreads sunshine to the whole household. It is only the sickly child that is cross and peevish. Mothers if your children do not sleep well; if they are cross and cry a great deal do not scold them. That is their way of telling you they are ill. When baby is like this give him Baby's Own Tablets and he will soon be well and happy again. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach, banish constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers and promote healthful sleep. They are absolutely guaranteed free from opiates and other harmful drugs and may be given to the new-born babe with perfect safety and good results.

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all dealers in medicine or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Produces Artificial Fever

Scientist Tells Of Possibilities Of New Discovery

Discovery of a new short length wave, that may easily be developed into a death ray, but also may have great curative properties, was announced, at Philadelphia, by E. L. Manning, of the General Electric Company's research laboratories.

Speaking before the Engineers' Club of Philadelphia, Mr. Manning said:

"We have learned to build vacuum tubes which will broadcast such a short length wave that people in the neighborhood will have their blood temperatures raised. This means that we can produce artificial fever and hold it under control, within any limits we choose."

Manning stated that if natural fever was "an attempt on the part of the body to kill off bacteria that attack it, as is believed, this new discovery may prove of startling value in the treatment of disease."

The ray, Manning said, could easily be used to induce such a high fever in human beings that it would result in death.

"We are experimenting with rabbits and rats," said Mr. Manning, "and the results are most encouraging. Diseases corresponding to those of humans appear to have been eliminated by these artificial fevers," he said.

Little Helps For This Week

"Cast thy burden upon the Lord, and He shall sustain thee."—Psalm lv. 22.

Child of my love, lean hard, And let Me feel the pressure of thy care. I know thy burden, child; I shaped it. Poised it in mine own hand, and made no proportion In its weight to thine unaided strength;

For even as I laid it on I said, I shall be near, and while she leans on Me

This burden shall be Mine, not hers, So shall I keep My child within the circling arms

Of Mine own love. Here lay it down, nor fear To impose it upon a shoulder which upholds

The government of worlds. Yet closer come. Thou art near enough; I would embrace thy care,

So I might feel My child reposing on my breast, Thou lovest Me? I know it. Doubt not then,

But loving Me lean hard.
