Have Margin of Four Sets and 30 Points—Games All Won by Rather Comfortable Margins—Mixed Doubles are Closest

A total of 16 sets were played with Yahk capturing ten of them for 198 points, as compared with six wins and 168 points for Creston.

Accustomed to a lower ceiling at Yahk the visitors had a slight advantage in the roomier quarters that now obtain at Creston, and this was much in evidence in the men's doubles in which Yahk captured four of the five sets. For the most part the sets were taken by rather comfortable margins, the closest play being in the mixed doubles where a couple of sets went to 12 points before the decision was gained. The scores:

Mr. and Mrs. Williams, Yahk, lost to Mrs. Thomson and E. Whitfield, Creston, 15-7.

A. Verch and Miss S. Baker, Yahk, beat W. R. Long and Mrs. Levirs, Creston, 15-12.

Are We Over-Governed?

Considering, in this concluding article, some of the broader aspects of the above subject which we have been discussing in this series of articles, it is self-evident that any conclusion to be reached must be based upon the effect upon (a) efficiency; (b) economy; (c) the individual taxpayer. It might be possible to achieve a substantial reduction in Provincial expenditures by imposing upon the municipalities the obligation of providing certain services, as, for example, the making of smaller grants for schools or municipal roads, but this would simply mean increasing the burden to be borne by the individual taxpayer in his municipality in exact ratio to the lessening of that burden upon the same individual in his capacity as a Provincial taxpayer. Thus, there would be no gain. Or a lessening of the weight of taxation imposed by the Province might be effected by transferring certain obligations to the Dominion, as, for example, Old Age Pensions. But, again, there would be no gain because what the individual did not pay to the Province in taxes he would have to pay in increased Federal taxes.

Any gain, therefore, must be the result, not of a shifting of the burden from one shoulder to another, but the entire elimination of the burden. This at once brings us face to face with the real problem. That is, are the people,—that is the taxpayers,—prepared to forego services and conveniences now provided by the State through taxation, and do without them altogether, or provide them individually for themselves where possible, in order that taxes may be reduced? Are they ready and willing to do without services and conveniences they expect will be provided in days to come, and do without them until the country is more thickly populated, better developed, and producing a substantially larger volume of new wealth annually?

Reduction in governmental machinery, whether it be accomplished through the merging of small school districts into larger districts, combining several small municipalities into one, or uniting the three prairie provinces into one large province, must result in some inconvenience to the people now served by the smaller units. If the three provinces were made one province, the Dominion Treasury would be saved the payment of two of the three grants now made to the Provinces for "Government and Legislation." As Federal taxpayers we would save this money; as Western Provincial taxpayers we would lose it, but if the cost of Provincial Government was reduced as a result, it would be money saved.

While it is open to serious question whether union of the three Western Provinces is now a practical proposition, especially when a comparison is made between the size of our Canadian provinces (except the three Maritimes), with the much smaller states across the line, or with such countries as Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Italy, or even the larger European countries, except Russia, and having in mind the ultimate large populations of these three Provinces, it is quite practical to effect substantial savings through joint Provincial action, or in conjunction with the Dominion.

Such action is already being taken. Some years ago Saskatchewan disbanded its own Provincial Police Force and made a contract with the Dominion Government whereby the Mounted Police now perform police duties for the Province, thus effecting a large saving. Now Alberta and Manitoba are adopting the same policy. The need for a School for the Blind in the West is realized, but one such school will serve the needs of all three Provinces for many years to come; there is no necessity for erecting and maintaining three such schools, and, fortunately, this is recognized. We repeat, what was stated in a previous article, that, in our opinion, one Court of Appeal for the three provinces could handle all appeal cases, and it would appear the part of wisdom for the three Governments and the Dominion to give consideration to effecting such an economy.

These are but examples where inconveniences to the public would be small while the savings would be large, and are cited as indicating the general policy which, in the interests of the taxpayers, should be followed.

But to achieve even these reforms, and to inaugurate such policies for future development and extension, will necessitate a larger patriotism on the part of all, and the elimination of those local jealousies and sectional ambitions, all those purely selfish considerations which now operate to prevent many economies in governmental administration. All such considerations must be ruthlessly set aside for the common good of all taxpayers. If they are not it will be well nigh hopeless to effect necessary economies, or to prevent an even more serious condition of being over-governed than at present exists.

Governments are not so much to blame as are the people themselves, because Governments have acted in the past, and will act in the future, as the people desire, and if the people are actuated by petty, local, selfish considerations, rather than by a large and fine consideration for the welfare of the whole, their views will be reflected in future governmental action. The people can and will get what they demand, and as, in the final analysis, they must do the paying through the medium of taxation, it is up to them to decide just what they want.

Gas in the Stomach
 Is Dangerous

Recommends Daily Use Of Bisurated Magnesia To Overcome Trouble Caused By Acid Indigestion

Gas in the stomach accompanied by a full, bloated feeling after eating are almost certain evidence of the presence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach, creating so-called "acid indigestion."

Acid stomachs are dangerous because too much acid irritates the delicate lining of the stomach, often leading to gastritis accompanied by serious stomach ulcers. Food ferments and sours, creating the distressing gas which distends the stomach and hampers the normal functions of the vital internal organs, often affecting the heart.

It is the worst of folly to neglect such a serious condition or to treat with ordinary digestive aids which have no neutralizing effect on the stomach acids. Instead get from any druggist a little Bisurated Magnesia and take a tea-spoonful or four tablets in water right after eating. This will drive the gas, wind and bloating right out of the body, sweeten the stomach, neutralize the excess acid and prevent its formation and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never in liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and the best form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

One of Western Canada's youngest but most promising industries was closed this season on February 11, when a final shipment of two cars of dried field peas from St. George's, Man., were billed to an eastern soup manufacturing concern.

The Pioneer Growers at St. George's realized a yield of 40 bushels to the acre with an aggregate yield of 4,000 bushels, selling at a cash price of one dollar a bushel F.O.B. cars.

One of the most effective vermifuges on the market is Miller's Worm Powders. They will not only clear the stomach and bowels of worms, but will prove a very serviceable medicine for children in regulating the infantile system and maintaining it in a healthy condition. There is nothing in their composition that will injure the most delicate stomach when directions are followed, and they can be given to children in the full assurance that they will utterly destroy all worms.

Alberta Sheep

Sheep Population Of Western Provinces Placed At 520,000

According to Dr. F. W. Gershaw, Member of Parliament for Medicine Hat, there are about 520,000 sheep in Alberta, the northern sections breeding on a smaller scale than the more southerly areas, where extensive ranching operations are carried out. As one man can herd 1,200 to 1,500 sheep, that number, or some multiple of it, constitutes an economic unit. The sheep population of the whole of Canada is about 4,000,000.

Infinitely Better

A suburban gentleman who raised strawberries invited a number of boys in the neighborhood to a strawberry party. When they had all partaken of the luscious berries, he said to them "Now wasn't that better than stealing into my garden and helping yourselves?"

"Oh, yes sir," chorused the boys. "And why was it better?" he asked desirous of pointing a moral. "Because," said a chubby faced youngster, "we shouldn't have had any sugar and cream with 'em."

A Northern Romance

Eskimo Couple Elope From Native Village In Furious Blizzard

People who believe the thrill of romance runs more wildly through the blood of the people of warm southern climates should listen to the story of Sholeck, full-blooded young Eskimo hunter, who arrived at Churchill the other day with his bride from 480 miles north.

The young couple, who were united at Churchill by an Eskimo chief, fled from their native village far along the barren coast of Hudson Bay by dog team in the teeth of the worst blizzards that have swept the northern Arctic tundra for years. The disapproval of the father of the young bride and his power, as chief of the tribe, to forbid the marriage, did not daunt the two.

Waiting until they were positive no one was watching them, and that their trail could not be picked up in the snow, they set off on the long trip down the coast to Churchill, where another Eskimo chief would marry them.

They arrived after spending two weeks in travel. Food was running low and two of the huskies were being carried in the sleigh with the nice-looking bride. The story of the romantic elopement was told to whites through an interpreter. The pair do not plan to return to their former home, but will leave shortly for points farther inland.

Seek Lost Girl

White Girl Living Among Aboriginal Tribes In Australia May Be Found

A white girl who for nine years has been living among a tribe of little known aborigines in the wilds of Northern Australia was sought recently on basis of rumors filtering back to civilization.

Reports that the beautiful young girl, about 18 years old, had been seen recently resulted in organization of an expedition to penetrate the wilds.

The reports were given substantiation by other reports which followed sinking of the Australian trades commission yacht "Douglas Mawson" in 1923. At that time it was said a woman and her 9-year-old daughter had survived and had made their way to the village of the native aborigines about 400 miles east of Port Darwin. Subsequently the mother was reported to have been killed by the natives and the girl kept captive.

A Queer Profession

London Man Had Wide Reputation As Professional Toastmaster

William Knightsmith, for 40 years the most prominent professional toastmaster in Great Britain, is dead. He was 73 years old.

Knightsmith started life as a dancing instructor and eventually acquired a wide reputation for his ability to conduct the formalities of after-dinner proceedings. Arrayed in a scarlet coat, black knee breeches and buckled shoes—the uniform was his own creation—his voice powerful yet decorous, he would still the largest company chattering over coffee.

MAD TRAPPER IS KILLED BY POLICE POSSE

Aklavik, N.W.T.—Albert Johnson finally came to the end of his blizzard trail. The wild man of the Arctic went down fighting, but Canada's red-coated Royal Canadian Mounted Police won out.

Battling cold, hunger, blizzards and overwhelming odds, the eccentric trapper defied the police for eight solid weeks, now running through the bleak hills of the Arctic, now standing at bay and shooting down his pursuers if they came within range of his deadly rifle.

When his fate overtook him, Johnson was perpetrating one of the foxy, trail-muddling tricks with which he has managed to keep out of range of the police and trapper pursuers. He was doubling back on his trail. This time, however, his pursuers were too close.

He was seen by Staff Sergeant E. F. Hersey, and a trapper named Noel Verville, plugging along in advance of the main posse. Hunter and hunted at once prepared for a gun battle. Hersey and Verville jerked their rifles from their toboggan.

The wild man drew first blood. As Hersey knelt to take aim a bullet from Johnson's rifle struck him in the knee, glanced up through his thigh and another entered his chest. Verville continued firing.

Only a few shots had been exchanged when the main police party, hearing the firing, ran up. They opened fire at once and the desperado went down under a hail of lead from half a dozen rifles.

While the battle raged on the ground, Pilot W. R. "Wop" May circled overhead in his plane. He had bombs ready to drop on the trapper but could not use them as the posse was too close.

As soon as Johnson was killed, May landed, picked up the wounded Hersey and flew back to Aklavik.

In all the long years of police work in Canada's Arctic no other man has proved as tough a customer as Johnson. The police casualty list now stands at one dead, two wounded. Every policeman in the district, members of the Royal Canadian Signals Corps who operated the radio station here, trappers and Indians were pressed into service in the chase. They gave their services gladly, knowing the country was safe for no man while Johnson was still at large.

The straight-shooting hermit carries with him to his death the secret of his strange behaviour. Since he first appeared in the Rat River country not far from where the mighty Mackenzie River empties its waters into the frozen mass of the Arctic Ocean he has shunned all human contact.

Making his home in a little cabin on the side of a hill, Johnson started trapping. As men passed by on the lonely Arctic trails they occasionally called on him, for the Arctic wanderer likes to see a fellow-man once in a while. But Johnson received them coolly. He slammed his door in their faces, and seemed to hate the sight of other men. A sturdily-built man of medium height, the hermit appeared to be about 40 years of age. He spoke with a slight Scandinavian accent, and always appeared well-supplied with money for the purchase of ammunition and supplies.

The most that he ever told anyone about himself was that he had walked into the country from the Yukon.

Thus he lived his solitary life. For in the Arctic men mind their own business and when they learned Johnson's desire to be alone they respected it.

Continue Low Fares

Montreal, Que.—Low week-end round trip fares, which have been offered by the Canadian National, Canadian Pacific and other railway lines in the Dominion since last summer, will remain in force after February 20, the date originally set for their discontinuance, the Canadian Passenger Association announced.

Offer War Services

Canadian Aviators Ready To Face Dangers In Chinese Battle Front

Ottawa, Ont.—Ready to face the dangers of aerial battle in far away China, 80 officers of the Royal Canadian Air Force, soon to be released from the service, have offered their services to Li Tchuin, Chinese consul-general in Canada.

The Canadian officers, who are offering their services to China in the battle against Japan, are being released by the Dominion Government due to general reductions in the estimates for the defence department. The officers now are posted at the Ottawa, Trenton and Vancouver air stations.

The consul-general, however, has had no instructions from his government to engage airmen in Canada, though the offer, no doubt, will be transmitted to the Chinese authorities at Nanking, present seat of government.

"I have no instructions or authority to engage any military instructors, air pilots or any other ranks," said Li Tchuin. "We have had many offers by Canadians to serve in the Chinese army, though today's is the largest by any one group."

Flying Officer F. N. Brooks, a member of the group, stated the offer to the consul-general was made entirely on the officers' own responsibility, without any knowledge or consent of the Canadian Government or the Department of National Defence.

Maximum Working Day

Conference Will Be Called To Discuss Eight Hour Agreement

Ottawa, Ont.—The Dominion Government will call a conference with the provinces "as soon as conditions warrant such a conference being satisfactorily held" to discuss a maximum working day of eight hours called for in the treaty of Versailles to which Canada is a signatory. In a listless debate, with all quarters of the Commons in general agreement, Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, made his announcement in the House of Commons.

Debate was initiated by Hon. P. Heenan (Liberal, Kenora), who in a resolution advocated "appropriate action" for establishment of the eight-hour day. The Versailles Treaty, he recalled, had been signed in 1919 by Sir Robert Borden, and subsequently the eight-hour day principle was adopted at a conference in Washington. A question of jurisdiction had arisen in Canada, but as the eight-hour principle had been put into operation on Dominion Government works in 1930 the Dominion administration should approach the provinces for compulsory legislation throughout Canada for an eight-hour day.

War Strength Of Russia

Figures Given To League Of Nations By Soviet Government

Geneva, Switzerland.—The Soviet Government told the League of Nations and the Disarmament Conference that the Red army numbered 504,393 men. The Red air and naval forces, the report said, had 28,000 and 29,000 men respectively.

The total tonnage of the navy was placed at 160,000, including 71,000 tons of capital ships, and the air force had 750 planes.

The Ogpu (Soviet secret police) guards had 45,000 in its rolls.

Russia spent a total of 1,290,000,000 rubles (roughly $645,000,000) on all its armed forces in 1931.

Probe Gordon Charges

Special Committee For This Purpose Has Been Appointed

Ottawa, Ont.—The special committee which will investigate charges and allegations made by Hon. G. N. Gordon, former deputy speaker of the House of Commons, said to reflect on the Prime Minister, has been appointed.

On motion of Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Minister of Justice, the following were appointed: G. R. Geary (Cons., Toronto South); Onesime Gagnon (Cons., Dorchester); J. L. Bowman (Cons., Pictou); William Duff (Lib., Antigonish-Guysboro); C. B. Howard (Lib., Sherbrooke), and Alfred Speakman (U.F.A., Red Deer).

Tidal Wave In Alaska

Catastrophe Overtakes Native Eskimo Villages With Great Loss Of Property

Fairbanks, Alaska.—Great damage resulted from tidal waves which swept over the western Alaska coast from the Kuskokwim river delta northward and spread many miles inland, Clark M. Garber, superintendent of the Indian Affairs Bureau, said here. He has been over the territory and reported no loss of life.

Word of the catastrophe seeped out of the inaccessible section a few days ago and Garber's account is the first authentic word picture drawn of the great mountains of ice that descended upon the native villages.

The blocks of ice, he said, crushed igloos, cabins, fish caches and destroyed fish, the principal source of food for the natives. The water flooded the igloos to a depth of four or five feet, trapping the occupants who had to escape through the skylights. Adding to the terror among the Eskimos was the fact the waves came at night, giving the natives little or no chance to save their possessions.

He said probably 2,500 persons were affected, all of whom would be in dire straits for the remainder of the winter because their dried fish supply was destroyed and hunting equipment was lost.

Mr. Garber said he believed relief work could be carried on adequately by the Indian affairs office with the assistance of reindeer supervisors.

Peace River Outlet

No Justification For Building Here Is Opinion Of Railway Expert

Ottawa, Ont.—"No western outlet is justified for the present, as the existing railways furnish the most economical route," is the conclusion of J. M. R. Fairbairn, chief engineer of the Canadian Pacific Railway, and his conferees on the committee appointed by Hon. R. J. Manion, Minister of Railways, to enquire into the Peace River outlet. "It will take many times the present traffic to justify another railway outlet," says the report, which was tabled in the House of Commons.

FRANCE AND ITALY REOPEN NAVAL DISCUSSION

As a result of the efforts of the World Disarmament Conference direct negotiations have been begun between the French and Italian delegations to settle their naval differences. French Minister of War, Andre Tardieu (left) and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy (right), have already met to discuss the subject and their conversations are being followed up by the French and Italian naval experts, Rene Massigli and Augusto Rosso.

Bandits Make Haul

Trio Attack Messenger In Winnipeg and Escape With Large Sum Of Money

Winnipeg, Man.—Police cars were cruising Winnipeg streets seeking a trio of bandits who ambushed George Ridd, provincial treasury messenger, slugged him into insensibility and escaped with a satchel containing $3,600 in cash and $15,000 in cheques and money orders. A stolen automobile, used to whisk the marauders away, is the only clue police have to aid them. Several thousand dollars, in small packets, which Ridd carried in his pockets, were overlooked by the hold-up men.

Ridd, accompanied by Jack Campbell, provincial chauffeur, was walking from a side door to a waiting automobile with receipts from the post office, located in the government buildings. As they neared the car, two men stepped up to them and ordered Ridd to hand over the satchel.

Ridd refused and attempted to run back to the building. Anticipating this, one of the robbers thrust a gun into his side and pulled the trigger. When this failed, he promptly felled Ridd with blows to the head.

Wrenching the bag from Ridd's grasp, the bandit joined his two confederates and quickly fled the scene. The stolen car in which they made their escape was rapidly lost sight of in the raze of automobiles speeding their owners back from the mid-day meal. Ridd was immediately rushed to hospital where his condition was reported as fair. The unfortunate messenger staged a plucky fight against overwhelming odds and only his lapse into unconsciousness released his hold on the money satchel.

A Peculiar Situation

U.S. Farmers Rushing Funds Across the Line To Deposit In Canadian Banks

Halifax, N.S.—United States farmers along the border have not only been depositing their surplus cash in Canadian banks and withdrawing from their home-town institutions to make Canadian deposits, but are actually mortgaging property and rushing the proceeds across the line, according to the February 17 issue of "The Business Week," New York Commercial Journal.

"Yankees in the upper tiers of Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire," says the publication, "are taking their money from banks to deposit in Dominion institutions at a rate of $1.18 to $1.20. Here in the true Yankee country people see an opportunity for profitable trade—a thing always close to the Yankee heart. When the Canadian dollar recovers—as they feel sure it will—they can recall the money and cash their profits. Meanwhile deposits in Canada are drawing interest in the larger face value."

War History In School Books

Geneva, Switzerland.—At a session of the world disarmament conference, Baron Yrjo-Koshinen, Finland's Minister of Foreign Affairs, urged demilitarization of frontiers, and Foreign Minister Ghika, of Rumania, warmly supported the French plan to arm the League of Nations. He also suggested revision of school books to eliminate incitement to war.

BRISK DEBATE IN HOUSE OVER WHEAT BONUS

Ottawa, Ont.—A brisk clash between Robert Gardiner, Alberta United Farmers' leader in the House of Commons, and M. N. Campbell (Prog., McKenzie), one of his supporters, featured debate on a resolution urging a bonus of $1 per acre seeded this year to wheat. The motion was sponsored by Robert MacKenzie (Lib., Assiniboia). Western farmers appreciated greatly the existing five cents a bushel bonus, Mr. Campbell claimed; and he deplored that a United Farmers' convention had denounced it. If the government discontinued the subvention, the farmers would have their leaders to blame, he asserted.

Mr. Gardiner took issue with his supporter. The farmers who had received the five-cent bonus undoubtedly appreciated it; but the distribution of the money did not reach those whose crops had been destroyed either by hail or drought. They believed themselves entitled to some other consideration, and were favorable to a subvention such as suggested in the resolution. If Mr. Campbell visited these dried-out areas he would be in a better position to appreciate the distress prevailing there. The U.F.A. convention's resolution was fully endorsed and would be presented to the government in due course.

Mr. MacKenzie's resolution read: "Whereas the policy of extending federal assistance to western farmers on a bushel basis rather than on an acreage basis has worked out most unfairly and unjustly to the residents of those districts suffering from failure or near failure of crops;

"And whereas a largely signed petition and memorandum has been presented to the government by the secretary of the Saskatchewan Association of Rural Municipalities, praying for additional legislation to partially remedy the situation that exists;

"Therefore be it resolved: That, in the opinion of this House the Government should give immediate consideration to a more equitable and less discriminatory solution of this problem."

Brief speeches, delivered for the most part by western members, characterized the debate.

Urges Construction Of Bridge

C. R. McIntosh Asks Royal Commission To Consider Request

Ottawa, Ont.—Meetings "in camera" of the Royal Commission on Transportation have been held here, and so far no further public sessions have been scheduled. At the last of these representations were heard from the Ontario Motor Coach Operators Association.

C. R. McIntosh, Liberal member of parliament for North Battleford, Sask., urged upon the commission the necessity for doing something in connection with the construction by the Canadian Pacific Railway of a bridge over the North Saskatchewan river and extension of an existing line northward from Saskatoon to North Battleford. Mr. McIntosh advanced that the completion of this line would serve a rich and rapidly developing country.

The Canyon Power

In his letter of a couple of weeks ago Chas. Murrell has outlined a policy in connection with Goat River canyon development that is sound and fair to all parties concerned, though he is certainly a master optimist in venturing a definite opinion that with a pull all together the actual construction can be got under way before high water. All will agree with him that the completion of this project is the greatest boon that can be conferred on the village and district and certainly every effort should be made to get on with the work.

Having invested several thousand dollars in surveys, road construction and land purchases in the locality West Kootenay Power & Light Company should have first chance at undertaking the work, but the mere fact that they have made this expenditure should not entitle them to any special consideration. As we understand it the Water Act is quite specific as to the time that shall elapse between the granting of a license and getting construction under way, and the provisions of the act should be enforced without fear or favor.

Identically the same treatment should be accorded Creston Power & Light Company, whose application for development rights was rejected in favor of the West Kootenay company. Should they not care to undertake the harnessing of the canyon, then the water power should be thrown wide open for staking by any responsible party—and kept wide open, subject to regulations made and provided by the Water Act, which should be rigidly enforced.

In some quarters Mr. Murrell's idea that the village council should stake the water is treated altogether too lightly. The Review believes the village would be well advised in taking this action and endeavor to ascertain just what a plant to take care of Creston's present and future requirements might cost. Certainly if a plant is to be installed it will never be had at a lower cost than right now, and that small municipalities can handle such undertakings is proven at Bonners Ferry where a village not much larger than Creston is operating a very fine hydro plant at Moyie Falls which is six miles from the town.

If the village finds the undertaking beyond its means it would not be at all amiss for the village to have the license on Goat River canyon so that in case private individuals or corporations can be interested in the work Creston will be in a strong position to arrange terms upon which light and power shall be distributed, at least within the village limits.

That owning and operating a municipal power plant is a mighty fine investment, even in these times of depression, is aptly illustrated at Grand Forks where the council is appropriating $45,000 to put in its own plant at Smelter Lake, three miles distant from town. At present Grand Forks buys its "juice" from the West Kootenay Power Company at what looks like a favorable rate but with its own plant Grand Forks claims it will be able to earn sufficient profits, on the same consumption as shown in 1931, to reduce the town tax rate three mills, reduce the light rate two cents kw hour, cut water rates from $4 to $6 per year, give free porch lights, improved street lighting, abolish monthly charge for meters, and with its own power be in a position to pump more water and allow longer hours for garden watering and lawn sprinkling.

If Grand Forks has all these benefits in prospect as a result of operating their own hydro plant Creston might well stop to enquire as to the substantial savings to be made with a village owned plant as compared with one operated by a private corporation so splendidly equipped as is the West Kootenay Company.

And listen to this from the Cranbrook Courier: "The time for the city to seriously consider the manufacture of its own power has arrived. Every year the city expends about twenty thousand dollars in this direction. The installation of a hydro plant at an approximate cost of $150,000, would make a handsome return to the city, in addition to furnishing cheap power for industrial plants and giving the city, in time, a thoroughly lighted city. The present city council through Alderman Flowers, chairman of the light committee, have made the necessary application for water rights on the St. Mary's River, a move which should receive the endorsement of every taxpayer in Cranbrook."

At a time like this when all are being urged to make necessary expenditures to cope with unemployment it is very questionable if Creston village should be niggardly in at least fully investigating an undertaking that has great possibilities of becoming a great municipal asset, and at a cost that the village might well be able to assume.

A Better Apple Market.

One of the bright spots in connection with 1932 apple marketing is the new tariff of the British Government as it relates to horticultural products, commenting on which J. A. Macdonald, president of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association, said, "It spells the beginning of better times for the fruit growers of the Annapolis Valley," and referring to the matter the Vernon News says:

"By the terms of the new regulations, Canadian apples will enter the Motherland free, with an advantage of a ten per cent import duty imposed on fruit from countries outside the Empire.

"What will benefit Nova Scotia growers of apples will also improve the position of the Okanagan fruit growers.

"In some quarters there is a disposition to belittle the advantages which the Okanagan fruit growers can or will receive under any likely form of British preference.

"We do know that we have not enough apples of the sizes in demand in Great Britain to secure the full benefit from a preference. We also know that the cost of getting to that market is such that it will not now, nor ever will be, a profitable outlet for low grades of apples. We do know, however, that there is a wonderful luxury market in Great Britain and there is a tremendous demand for apples of the variety and sizes we can produce when we determine to do so.

"For the present it might be as well if we give extra study to orchard practices which will increase the quantity of apples in sizes which are in demand on the British markets."

Electric light users at Kimberley are being asked to pay 10 cents a month extra in order to raise funds to buy some needed fire brigade equipment.

Bonners Ferry Herald—J. F. Van Etten, who has the Bonners Ferry to Porthill mail contract, has been circulating a petition this week, urging the reduction of the grade on the state highway close to Porthill. The surveys for this grade reduction were made last fall and the petition urges the cooperation of state and county authorities in securing the early competition of the project.

JESUS RAISES LAZARUS FROM THE DEAD

Golden Text: "I am the resurrection and the life; he that believeth on Me, though he die, yet shall he live."—John 11.25.

Lesson: John 11.1 to 12.11.
Devotional Reading: 1 Corinthians 15.50-58.

Explanations and Comments

Jesus Talks With His Disciples About Going To Bethany, verses 7-11.—"Let us go into Judea again," said Jesus to His disciples, but they remonstrated with Him because of the danger, for the Jews there had so recently sought to stone Him. Jesus answered them that His life was safe as long as God had work for Him to do, and added that he must go to awaken Lazarus. His disciples took His words literally; if Lazarus was sleeping, he would recover. Then Jesus told them plainly that Lazarus was dead; for the sake of their faith, He said, He was glad he had not been there. Now they must go with Him. And despondent Thomas said loyally and bravely to the others, "Let us also go, that we may die with Him."

The Meeting Of Jesus and Martha, verses 12-27.—When Jesus reached the neighborhood of Bethany, Lazarus had been in the tomb four days, for burial took place on the day of death, as it still does in that land. Martha met Him on the way and exclaimed in her sorrow, "Lord, if Thou hadst been here my brother had not died." And then she added, "Even now I know that whatsoever Thou shalt ask of God, God will give Thee." "Thy brother shall rise again," returned Jesus. "Yes, in the resurrection at the last day," Martha answered, but she found little comfort in that hope of the far-distant future. I am the Resurrection and the Life," solemnly Jesus affirmed; "those who die believing on Me shall live through My life-giving power; and over the eternal life within the living who believe on Me, death shall have no dominion. Believest thou this?" "Thou art the Christ, the Son of God," answered Martha; His power she would not limit.

The Meeting Of Jesus and Mary, verses 28-32.—Martha hurried back to Bethany to summon Mary with the glad words, "The Teacher is here, and calleth thee." When Mary started up quickly to meet Jesus, her friends (some of them were from Jerusalem), thought that she was going to the tomb of Lazarus to weep there, and they followed her. On reaching Jesus she fell at His feet and spoke the same words that Martha had spoken, the thought that had been in their minds constantly since their brother's death, "Lord, if Thou hadst been here."

The Sorrow Of Jesus, verses 33-37.—Jesus was troubled by Mary's weeping and that of the Jews who had come with her. "Where have ye laid him?" He questioned. "Come and see," they returned. Jesus wept. His tears were an expression of that divine sympathy which draws all sorrowing hearts to Him.

Jesus Restores Lazarus To Life, verses 38-44.—The tomb was a cave with a stone before the opening. Jesus ordered the stone to be removed, but Martha objected, reminding Jesus that Lazarus had been dead four days and by this time the body was decaying. Jesus was now face to face with the impossible, she thought; death and corruption had made His healing power of no avail. "Said I not unto thee," exclaimed Jesus, "that if thou believest, thou shouldst see the glory of God?" The stone was taken away. And Jesus lifted up His eyes and said "Father, I thank Thee that Thou hearest Me." His prayer for power had been offered, perhaps when first He heard of Lazarus' sickness, and now He is sure that God has answered that prayer, sure that He can bring Lazarus back to life, and in advance of doing this He thanks His Heavenly Father for hearing Him. "I knew that Thou hearest Me always," continued Jesus, "but because of the multitude that standeth around I said it, that they may believe that Thou didst send Me."

Then with a loud voice Jesus cried, "Lazarus, come forth." And Lazarus came forth.

Petrified Apples Have Been Found By Farmer In Alberta

While fossilized palm leaves, figs and fig leaves have been uncovered in southern Alberta, as proof that around 70,000,000 years ago this part of the west was a tropical land where the dinosaurs roamed, yet it was not until last month that petrified apples have been unearthed.

This discovery was made by a farmer digging a well in the Olds district, who unearthed petrified apples on a petrified branch of the ancient tree. The Calgary museum has been notified of the discovery and the well has been refilled with earth to await further excavation work by experts in this branch of research.

The dominating purpose of the National Research Council is to provide the necessary link between "pure science as taught in the universities and the scientific requirements of industry; in other words, to find a practical value for applied science. Although much has been accomplished in the past, the work of the council has been limited by lack of adequate facilities. That difficulty is now being removed.

The Ownership Of Trees

Classed As Real Estate Of Town Or Village

Who owns the trees that flourish on the streets or on the roads of a municipality? They are the real estate of the town or village or township, and as such may not be disposed of by the ipse dixit of a councilman, nor by the whole council except under the strict rules that are laid down for the disposition of other town property. Trees may improve the value of property along a street so that the owners would receive a distinct loss by their removal. The laws of England, of most of the States of the Union, and of Canada give protection to the owners in such a case. Of course, trees may be removed for an important public reason.

Establishment of a public library commission for Saskatchewan, with the co-operation of the Carnegie institute, is a development which may be expected in the province within the next few months.

Recently, representatives of the Carnegie institute visited Regina and met members of the provincial government, and it was learned that consideration is now being given to a plan which would bring to the residents of all the rural sections a book-lending system not possible at present.

The plan, it is learned, provides for a substantial financial grant from the Carnegie institute to the province, controlled by a commission in charge of the library extension work. This commission would work in co-operation with the open-shelf library and travelling library branches of the provincial public service and the system would permit the distribution of books into every rural section of the province.

THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

— BY — MARGARET PEDLER

Author of "The Splendid Folly," "The Herald of Far End," "Hedder & Stoughton, Ltd., London."

She laughed and retorted impertinently:

"I'm sure I'm grateful to the bigger boy who came to the rescue."

There was something quite unconsciously provocative about her as she stood there with one foot poised on the planking, her head thrown back a trifle to meet his glance, and a hint of gentle raillery tilting the corners of her mouth.

The cave-man woke suddenly in him. He was conscious of an almost irresistible impulse to take her in his arms and kiss her. But the conventions of the centuries held, and all Jean knew of that swift flare-up of desire in the man beside her was that the grip of his hand on hers suddenly tightened so that the pain of it almost made her cry out.

And because she was not given to regarding every unmarried man she met in the light of a potential lover—as some women are prone to do—and because, perhaps, her thoughts were subconsciously preoccupied by a lean, dark face, rather stern and weary-looking as though from some past discipline of pain, Jean never ascribed that fierce pressure of the hand to its rightful origin, but merely rubbed her bruised fingers surreptitiously and wished ruefully that men were not quite so muscular.

"I'll go with you up to the house," remarked Burke, without any elaboration of "by your leave."

She was privately of the opinion that her leave would have little or nothing to do with the matter. If this exceedingly autocratic and masculine individual had decided to accompany her through the park, accompany her he would, and she might as well make the best of it.

He was extraordinarily unlike his sister, she thought. Where Judith

WIFE WAS FAT— No Longer Attractive Lost Husband's Love

The above headlines appeared in a New York newspaper, in connection with a divorce trial that has attracted wide attention.

"She was a beautiful woman," one witness testified, "but she got too fat and is not attractive any more."

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their beauty—just because they do not know what to do.

If you are fat, why not do what thousands of women have done to get rid of pounds of unwanted fat? Take one half a teaspoon of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast, and keep it up for 30 days. You can help the action of Kruschen by cutting out pastry and fatty meats, and going light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar. Then weigh yourself and see how many pounds you have lost.

Now you can laugh at the people who pay hundreds of dollars to lose a few pounds of fat, and you will know that the 6 vitalizing salts of Kruschen have presented you with glorious health.

FREE TRIAL OFFER

If you have never tried Kruschen—try it now at our expense. We have distributed a great many special "GIANT" packages which make it easy for you to prove our claim for yourself. Ask your druggist for the new "GIANT" 75c. package. This consists of our regular 75c. bottle together with a separate trial bottle—sufficient for about one week. W. N. U. 1930

Craig would probably seek to attain her ends in a somewhat stealthy, cat-like fashion, Burke would employ the methods of the club and battering-ram. Of the two, perhaps these last were preferable, since they at least left you knowing what you were up against.

"Will you come in?" asked Jean, pausing as they reached the house.

"Though I'm afraid everyone is out."

"So much the better," he replied promptly. "I'd much rather have tea alone with you."

"That's not very polite to the others"—smiling a little. "I thought the Staple people were old friends of yours?"

"So they are. That's exactly it. I felt the mood of the explorer on me this afternoon."

"You're one of the people with a penchant for new acquaintances, then?" she said indifferently, leading the way into the hall, where, in place of the great log fire of chillier days, a bank of growing tulips made a glory of gold and orange and red in the wide hearth.

"No, I'm not," he returned bluntly. "But I've every intention of making your acquaintance right now."

Jean rang the bell and ordered tea. "I think perhaps I might be consulted in the matter," she returned lightly when Baines had left the room. "The settling of questions of that kind is usually considered a woman's prerogative. Supposing"—smiling—"I don't ask you to tea, after all?"

There was a smouldering fire in the glance he bestowed upon her vivid face. "It wouldn't make a bit of difference—in the long run," he replied deliberately. "If a man makes up his mind he can usually get his own way—over most things."

"You can't force friendship," she said quickly. It was as though she was defying something that threatened.

Again that queer gleam showed for a moment in his eyes.

"Friendship? No, perhaps not," he conceded.

He said no more and an uncomfortable silence fell between them. Jean was suddenly conscious that it might be possible to be a little afraid of this man. She did not like that side of him—the self-willed, masterful side—of which, almost deliberately, he had just given her a glimpse.

With the appearance of tea the slight sense of tension vanished, and the conversation dropped into more ordinary channels. She discovered that he had travelled considerably and was familiar with many of the places to which, at different times, she had accompanied her father and mother, and over the interchange of recollections the little hint of discord—of challenge, almost—was forgotten.

They were still chatting amicably together half an hour later when Blaise returned. The latter's face darkened as he entered the hall and found them together, nor did it lighten when Jean recounted the afternoon's adventure.

"I suppose Miss Peterson has your lodge-keeper's boys to thank for this?" he demanded stormily of Burke.

"I'm afraid that's so," admitted the other.

"If you had any consideration for your neighbours, you'd sack the lot of them," returned Blaise sharply.

"Or else see that they're kept under proper control. They've given trouble before, but it is a little too much of a good thing when they dare to play practical jokes of that description on a guest of ours."

Jean stared at him in astonishment. She had told the story as rather a good joke and in explanation of Burke's presence, and, instead of laughing at her dilemma, Tormarin appeared to be thoroughly angry over the matter.

Burke remained coolly unprovoked. "I can't say I've any quarrel with the young ruffians," he said. "They afforded me a charming afternoon." "Doubtless," retorted Blaise. "But that's hardly the point. Anyway"—heatedly—"I'll thank you to see that those lads are kept in hand for the future."

Jean glanced across at Burke with some apprehension, half fearing a responsive explosion of wrath on his part, but to her relief he was smiling—a twinkling (mirthful smile that redeemed the ugliness of his features.

"Fraid I can't truthfully declare I'm sorry, Tormarin," he said good-humouredly. "You wouldn't in my place."

The man was keeping his temper in the face of considerable provocation, and Jean liked him better at that moment than she had done throughout the entire afternoon. Tormarin's own attitude she quite failed to understand, and after Burke's departure she took him to task for his churlishness.

"It was really absurd of you, Blaise," she scolded, half-smiling, half in genuine vexation. "As if Mr. Burke could possibly be held responsible for the actions of a mischievous schoolboy! At least he did all he could to repair the damage; he brought me back, and recovered the missing pair of oars for me. You hadn't the least reason to flare up like that."

Blaise listened to her quietly. The anger had died out of his face and his eyes were somewhat sad.

"You're right," he said at last, "absolutely right. But there rarely is any reason for a Tormarin's temper. Do you know—it sounds ridiculous, but it's perfectly true—it was all I could do not to knock Burke down."

"My dear Blaise, you fill me with alarm! I'd no idea you were such a bloodthirsty individual! But seriously, what had the poor man done to incur your wrath? He's been most helpful."

There was an element of self-mockery in the brief smile which crossed his face.

"Perhaps that was just it. I've rather grown to look upon it as my own particular prerogative to help you out of difficulties."

"Well, naturally I'd rather it had been you," she allowed, twinkling.

"Do you mean that?"—swiftly.

"Of course I do"—lightly. She had failed to notice the eagerness of demand in his quick question. "I'm more used to it! Besides, I believe Mr. Burke rather frightens me. He's a trifle—overwhelming. Still"—shaking her head reprovingly—"I don't think that excuses you. You must have a shocking temper."

He laughed shortly.

"Most of the Tormarins have ruined their lives by their temper. I'm no exception to the rule."

Jean's thoughts flew back to the description she had overheard when in London: "A Tormarin in a temper is like a devil with the bit between his teeth."

ACID STOMACH

EXCESS acid is the common cause of indigestion. It results in pain and sourness about two hours after eating. The quick corrective is an alkali which neutralizes acid. The best corrective is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

One spoonful of Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes instantly many times its volume in acid. Harmless, and tasteless, and yet its action is quick. You will never rely on crude methods, once you learn how quickly this method acts. Be sure to get the genuine.

The ideal dentifrice for clean teeth and healthy gums is Phillips' Dental Magnesia, a superior tooth-paste that safeguards against acid-mouth. (Made in Canada.)

Make and Keep Children Well—As Mothers Know

"Then it's true," escaped her lips. "What's true?"—with some surprise. "That the Tormarins are a vile-tempered lot? Quite. If you want to know more about it, ask my mother. She'll tell you how I came by this white lock of hair—the mark of the beast."

Jean was trying to make the comments of the woman at the hotel and Blaise's own confession tally with her recollection of the latter's complete self-control on several occasions when he, or any other man, might have been pardoned for yielding to momentary anger.

"I believe you're exaggerating absurdly," she said at last. "As a matter of fact, I've often been surprised at your self-control, seeing that I know you have a temper concealed about you somewhere. I think that is why your anger this afternoon took me so aback. It seemed unlike you to be so fearfully annoyed over practically nothing at all. I don't believe"—half smiling—"that really you're anything like as hot-tempered as a Tormarin ought to be—to support the family tradition!"

Little Helps For This Week

"I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me."—Psalm xxiii. 4.

In Heavenly love abiding, No change my heart shall fear, And safe is such confiding, For nothing changes here. The storm may roar without me, My heart may low be laid, But God is round about me, And can I be dismayed?

—Anna Laetitia Waring.

Just suppose that we could get rid of all unnecessary and previous terror; just suppose that we could be sure of final victory in every conflict, and final emergence out of every shadow into brightest day; how our hearts would be lightened, how much more bravely we should work and fight, and march forward! This is the courage to which we are entitled, and which we may find in the thought that God is with us everywhere. The course of our journey has been appointed by Him; He knows the way through the darkness.

—Henry Van Dyke.
