All our residents are hoping that the road foreman will not let the Arrow Creek road pass out of existence.

O. Arrowsmith has been taking treatment at Creston Valley public hospital at Creston for the past month.

A sure sign of spring: Felix Laney has stored his snow shovel and has turned the job of keeping the trail clear of snow over to Old Sol.

After paying all expenses in connection with the production of "Deacon Dubbs" on March 23rd, there will be $42 clear to apply on the community hall piano fund.

Dolly and Marjorie Tedford, Holly and Grace Bond, Ethel VanAckeran, Gladys Brett, Grace Ryan and June Browell assisted at the Creston Woman's Auxiliary entertainment at Creston on Wednesday evening, and made a decided hit in two dance numbers put on by them under the direction of Mrs. L. There was a rather small turnout of shareholders on Thursday night for the annual meeting of Lister Trading & Supply Company, Limited. President H. Helme occupied the chair and a satisfactory statement of the year's business was submitted by the manager, John Bird. Due in part to the drop in commodity prices, particularly on flour and feed, the year's turnover was less than the preceding year. Dyke Test Holes Are Satisfactory

Creston Reclamation Company Find Soil Formation Ideal—Black Loam Deposit Found on Blue Clay Foundation.

The last lot of engineering information Creston Reclamation Company expects to be called upon to supply the lands department in connection with its 10,000 acre dyking project on Kootenay Flats, has just been forwarded Victoria by the company's engineer, A. L. McCulloch of Nelson, who was here during the past week, making a checkup on the company's latest activity.

The latest demand by the department was the putting down of test holes every 1500 feet along the entire dyke line in order to get accurate information as to the formation of the soil in the area in which the material for the dyke will be secured. In order to doubly safeguard all concerned the company put down a double lot of these test holes; one along the surveyed dyke line and another directly opposite 100 yards distant.

This work was in charge of George Huseroft and R. S. Bevan, who made careful notes of the soil content at each hole, and everyone of them shows a formation ideal for dyke construction. The top layer of black loam was encountered for a depth of from two to four feet, and immediately below this is a blue clay formation which is the best known dyke-making material.

On the Creston side it was decided to shift the dyke line slightly to the north and by so doing it has been possible to escape entirely any gravel formation. The shift from the original survey is not extensive, necessitating a loss of hardly more than 60 acres.

Mr. McCulloch was in session with the company directors after careful examination of the soil data submitted by the test hole diggers, and expressed the utmost satisfaction with soil conditions. At this meeting it was agreed that the dyke at the south end running as far as the ferry at the Reclamation Farm would have a 16-foot top and thus provide a first-class highway for all traffic across the Kootenay River at all seasons of the year.

Creston Reclamation Company is in touch with several contracting companies as well as individual owners of draglines who are keen to secure the contract for the erecting of the dykes, which work can be now done at a price very much lower than these same firms submitted a couple of years ago.

Mrs. G. Huseroft and F. Menhinick; dance by Miss H. Hagen; dialogue by C. Payette and Miss M. Abbott; jingle bell drill by the school children; vocal trio by Messrs. Menhinick, Oglvie and Fortin; and the musical trio, Mr. and Mrs. Greig and Mr. Lunt.

The season is close at hand when once again the roads and highways of the country will witness the passing to and fro, in numbers almost beyond counting, of automobiles, trucks, busses, vans, motor propelled vehicles of all descriptions. Farmers enroute to their marketing centres, city and town people bound for their summer cottages or other resorts, tourists from far and near, commercial travellers and others engaged on business, freight and express cars moving in all directions, will be claiming right-of-way upon rural roads, city streets and provincial highways.

Past years have recorded an ever mounting toll of accidents resulting from all this modern, high powered highway traffic. The lists of killed, maimed for life, seriously and less seriously injured, the money loss in damaged property, have been appalling.

The question is: What is to be the record for this year? Is this costly toll to go higher still, or are we as a civilized people going to come to our senses, and in this year bring about a lessening of these losses?

The following figures have been compiled across the international boundary line. They apply only to the United States, but, while conditions may be somewhat better in Canada, because our population is smaller and our traffic less congested, much the same situation prevails. There is, therefore, a lesson and a warning in these figures for the people of this Dominion. Reference has been made in this column on more than one occasion previously to this subject, but no apology is offered for again directing attention to it at this time because of its importance and in the hope that thereby at least some drivers of motor cars will exercise more caution.

Every year from 1917 through 1931 deaths from automobile accidents have steadily increased. Last year 34,400 people were killed in automotive accidents. Nearly a million others, 997,600 were injured. Losses for a period of eighteen months ending December 31, 1931, exceeded even the United States sacrifices of the World War.

The money cost, also, is prodigious. The Travellers Insurance Company reckons the annual loss at $2,500,000,000.

This is a staggering sum. It is larger than the entire cost of public education in the United States. It is far greater than the entire cost, exclusive of war debts, of the Federal Government. Examination of the circumstances surrounding these accidents shows clearly that they were avoidable. Here are some of the salient facts:

More than 90 per cent. of the motor vehicles involved in personal-injury accidents in 1931 were in good condition. More than 80 per cent. of the accidents occurred in clear weather with dry roads. More than 90 per cent. of the accidents involved drivers of more than one year's experience.

The most hazardous age for driving is under twenty.

Women apparently are safer drivers than men. One male driver out of every twenty-one licensed was involved in a personal injury accident. Only one woman out of every eighty-six licensed was involved in an accident.

The outstanding fact is that automobiles are improperly operated. Exceeding the speed limit was the explanation of 67,080 accidents. Drivers on the wrong side of the road accounted for 62,560. Those who did not have the right-of-way accounted for the largest number, 119,330. Cutting in caused 33,540. Failing to signal accounted for 27,740. Driving off the roadway explained 60,630. Plain reckless driving added another 34,830.

Just one conclusion is possible. Heedless, reckless, inconsiderate driving is taking this tragic toll of life and treasure.

The remedy is not, however, to be found in drastic statutes and regulations limiting speed. That experiment has been tried and it proved an utter failure.

What is practicable is the insistence by law and public opinion upon safe driving at all times and at all places. The man or woman who tends to drive in a way dangerous to pedestrians or other motorists should be denied a license, and if they have already received one, it should be withdrawn. Licenses must be taken from drunken drivers, incompetent drivers and reckless drivers.

Respect for the law and voluntary observation of the rules of safe driving are required. Motorists as a class may well organize for safety, and pedestrians should recognize the fact that, on our motor driven streets and highways, they take their lives in their hands when they disregard the regulations and bylaws enacted for their own safety.

The vast majority of cars are dependable today, but, like any piece of machinery, some part may weaken or get out of order. It is, therefore, the duty of the driver to have it checked over thoroughly and frequently. His own life, as well as the lives of others, may depend upon the precaution.

But, in the final analysis, and in an overwhelming majority of cases, it is the driver, not the condition of the car, who is responsible for accidents. It is the human element that counts; that is the vital factor in nearly all these tragedies. Law alone cannot control him, although it may punish him afterwards, providing he is alive to receive punishment. He must control himself.

New Zealand Leads

The tendency to live in over-heated rooms is cited as one reason for Canada's high infant mortality rate, in a statement issued by the Canadian Council for Child and Family Welfare. New Zealand's low mortality rate—lowest in the world—is attributed to lack of crowding, equable climate and "the lesser distances." "There is little or no real poverty there," the report adds.

Nerves A Complete Wreck Sat Up Half The Night

Mrs. John Rose, Bark Lake, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled so much with my nerves I was a complete wreck.

I could not do my work, and would have to sit up half the night on account of not being able to sleep.

One day a friend recommended Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills. I used one box and got relief, and by the time I had taken six boxes I was as well as ever."

Level Crossing Accidents

Quebec Man Demonstrates Devise To Overcome Danger

An automatic gate, the inventor of which claims it will prevent accidents at level crossings, was demonstrated to provincial road department officials at Quebec. The inventor is Maurice Hebert of Sherbrooke.

The gate is worked by electric contact, located several hundred feet from the crossing. The moment the forward wheels of the locomotive touch the point of contact, the gates begin to lower slowly, at the same time starting the ring of a bell. The bell continues to ring and the gate remains closed until the last wheel of the rear coach has passed the point of contact.

MOURNING WARDROBE

"A death occurred in our family and I had to go in mourning. I could hardly afford to buy all black clothes, so decided to dye what I had. I consulted our druggist and he advised using Diamond Dyes. Everything came out beautifully; coats, wool dresses, stockings and all. I have since learned to appreciate the excellence of the black Diamond Dyes. I tried another black dye and the results were impossible. I had to get Diamond Dyes and do the work over. Recently I have tinted my curtains a beautiful raspberry shade and dyed a rug a lovely garnet with Diamond Dyes. They are real money savers—the finest dyes money can buy—I truly believe."

Ask Rate Adjustment

Want Fair Rate Basis On Shipments Going To Churchill

Adoption of the distribution or town tariff freight rate basis for Churchill cargoes is sought by the Saskatoon Board of Trade.

Opposition to the Fort William terminal basis for incoming and outgoing shipments by the Hudson Bay route was voiced at the quarterly meeting of the board.

The Fort William rate would enforce a rate for distributing centres based on 85 per cent. of the standard mileage in place of a rate fixed on the mileage less an arbitrary deduction of 130 miles no matter the distance from the terminal. The Board of Trade claims that this latter basis is unfair in that it gives a decided advantage to points near the terminus.

Time For Private

Members Is Limited

Allowed One Hour In Evening Twice a Week

Time allotted to private members in the House of Commons will be still further restricted. The government gave notice that after March 21, government business will take precedence on that day until the end of the session. A resolution taking Wednesday for governmental business has been approved by the House. When Monday was also taken over for government business, the only time remaining for private members will be one hour in the evenings on two nights a week.

Tinting the Highways

California Would Like Tan Cement For Roads and Pavements

Sun-kist California wants her sun tan recognized as a sort of trade mark. Down there they want all roads and pavements colored in modernistic tones but rather lean to sun tans. They have discovered an apt process which will make the tinting of sidewalks and highways that color without the least additional cost. The city reports that a far western cement manufacturing concern has found a way to produce a tan-toned cement, without the addition of any coloring material, merely by a special burning process. San Francisco also finds the public awake to the desirability of having other colors than the familiar whitish gray of the ordinary cement mixtures in the construction of pavements. So if they can burn a tan cement maybe the chemists will find a means also of turning out a self-coloring blue, green or even pink. The far western concern's officers have declared their new tan cement to be the finest real improvement in the basic color of Portland cement introduced in 108 years.—Brandon Sun.

Future Of New York

Wonderful Development Is Predicted Within Next Thirty Years

Twenty million inhabitants. A series of industrial and business centres connected by electric rapid transit so that workers can ride to any one without changing cars. Belt-line railways for passengers and freight; airports by the dozen; a vast system of motor highways, boulevards and parkways; more than 5,000 square miles in one gigantic city. That is the New York of 1965, visioned by "The Regional Plan of New York and Environs."

Russia Threatened

With Seed Shortage

Country Evidently Exported More Wheat Than Harvest Justified

During the past month interesting news has been forthcoming from Russia in connection with the difficulties that the Soviet authorities are experiencing as a result of poor harvests in some areas last year, suggesting that Russia has exported more wheat than was justified by the crop harvested in 1931. This information was contained in a statement issued by H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce.

In a cable received by the bureau early in March it was stated that at the end of 1931 there were 150,000 tractors in Russia, of which number 70 per cent. required repairs. Up to February 20, only 44.3 per cent. damaged tractors had been reconditioned. A further cable received on March 15, stated that up to March 1, 50 per cent. of the tractors needing repairs had been placed in operating condition.

Seeks Damages

Action Commenced On Account Of Death Of Seaman On Submarine "Nautilus"

Suit for $100,000 damages was begun recently against the Trans-Arctic Submarine Expedition Company of Delaware, which financed the expedition toward the North Pole led by Sir Hubert Wilkins.

The action is brought by the administrator of the estate of Willard I. Grimmer, seaman, who was swept from the submarine "Nautilus" by high seas and drowned last March 21.

The complaint alleges the life-line was not equipped with secure fasteners and negligence of those in charge of operations led to Grimmer's death.

"SICK HEADACHE?"

IT is not necessary to give-in to headaches. It is just a bit old-fashioned! The modern woman who feels a headache coming on at any time, takes some tablets of Aspirin and heads it off.

Keep Aspirin handy, and keep your engagements. Headaches, systemic pains, come at inconvenient times. So do colds. You can end them before they're fairly started if you'll only remember this handy, harmless form of relief. Carry it in your purse and insure your comfort while shopping; your evening's pleasure at the theatre. Those little nagging aches that bring a case of "nerves" by day are ended in a jiffy. Pains that once kept people home are forgotten half an hour after taking Aspirin! You'll find these tablets always help. In every package of Aspirin tablets are proven directions which cover colds, headaches, sore throat, toothache, neuralgia, neuritis, sciatica, and even rheumatism.

The tablets stamped Bayer won't fail you, and can't harm you. They don't depress the heart. They don't upset the stomach. So take them whenever you need them, and take enough to end the pain. Aspirin is made in Canada.

DEBT HARASSED FARMERS TO HAVE ASSISTANCE

Winnipeg, Man.—Inquiry into different schemes of debt adjustment to enable debt-harassed farmers to remain on their lands will be made by the agriculture committee of the Manitoba Legislature. This was decided when the legislature passed a resolution ordering the investigation. Farmers, creditors, economists, agricultural professors will be asked to appear before the committee.

Two bills relating to debt adjustment are before the legislature, sponsored by W. J. Major, Attorney-General. One of them would enable a debtor threatened with garnishment or seizure to file a statement of his debts with the county court. The clerk of the court would be empowered to take all circumstances into consideration and specify the amount the debtor should pay into court monthly to be advanced to his creditors. The bill applies to cases where total debts do not exceed $300.

Another bill to amend the Debt Adjustment act applies to persons who have been engaged in farming and have been forced to retire after renting their farms. The debt adjustment commissioner would be authorized to issue certificates to prevent seizure in cases where such people are entirely dependent on revenue from their land.

Further Hardships For Chinese People

Famine and Epidemic of Smallpox Add To Distress

Shanghai, China.—Disease and famine are placing further hardships on the people of China.

As a result of the crowding of refugees during the hostilities at Shanghai an epidemic of smallpox is now sweeping the Orient, according to Dr. Wu Lein-Teh, director of the Chinese maritime quarantine service.

Sir John Hope-Simpson, British director of the China Famine Commission, said at the same time famine conditions had again reached such a pass in some parts of the country that the people were eating the bark of trees, the chaff of threshed grain, and weeds, in order to ward off starvation.

All steamers entering and departing from Shanghai now are required to take special precautions. One of its victims in recent days was E. Koec Lin, French Consul-General.

Foreigners are particularly susceptible to the form of smallpox now prevalent.

Boat Crew From Canadian Destroyer "Champlain" Preserves Order In Trinidad

Port of Spain, Trinidad.—A boat crew from the Canadian destroyer "Champlain" landed in the harbor here and quelled fierce rioting between sailors from the Danish motorship "Stensby" and Trinidad stevedores.

About 35 stevedores were loading sugar into the holds of the "Stensby" when a dispute arose over the distribution of ship bread among them. Immediately fighting broke out between members of the vessel's crew and the resentful stevedores. Two Danes were seriously wounded and there was much bloodshed.

Would Form Central Bureau

Ontario Lines Up With Western Provinces On Insurance Bill

Toronto, Ont.—Formation of a central bureau, established and supported by the authority of provincial statutes, to which all insurance companies carrying out business in the several provinces would be required to submit returns and demonstrate their solvency, was suggested in the legislature by Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General, in introducing his insurance bill.

It is a bill similar to those passed by Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, and is practically a warning to the Dominion government to keep hands off insurance companies.

With establishment of a central bureau, reports would be submitted to the provincial insurance departments for their guidance in the issuance of renewal licenses to transact business, he thought.

The bill submitted by Mr. Price is intended to permit the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council to pass regulations governing insurance, pending the settlement of a constitutional issue with the Federal Government.

Alberta Land Settlement

Government Ready To Assist In Placing Unemployed On Farms

Edmonton, Alberta.—The Alberta Government is ready to join in a sound proposal for the placing of unemployed on farms, and soon after prorogation of the Alberta legislature steps along this line likely will be taken.

The announcement was made in the Alberta Legislature by Premier J. E. Brownlee in answer to a question from Hector Lang, Liberal, Medicine Hat, who asked what progress was being made in land settlement endeavors to aid jobless.

Premier Brownlee stated the government had not yet heard to what extent the Dominion Government was prepared to go in support of land settlement by unemployed, nor what proportion of the cost the federal administration would bear.

Manitoba and Saskatchewan were also interested in the scheme, said the premier, and it was hoped a definite agreement would be effected shortly after the close of the present session.

Bisley Shoot In July

No Reduction In Prize List Unless Absolutely Necessary

London, Eng.—The meeting of the National Rifle Association at Bisley Camp, which annually brings the crack riflemen of the Empire to England, was fixed for July 4 to July 16 next at a meeting of the N.R.A. Council.

Colonel Lord Cottesloe, chairman, presiding at the meeting, said that owing to shrinkage in funds available for the king's trophy and Imperial challenge shields competition, it had been found necessary to discontinue some of the replicas and ammunition grants, to raise the standard for honor medals and to reduce them in weight.

The council had no intention of reducing the prize list for the great Empire meeting at Bisley this coming summer unless it was absolutely compulsory, he added.

C.N.R. Steamship Service

Montreal, Que.—The services to Australia and New Zealand by the Canadian National steamships freight services will be separated during the spring and summer of 1922, to provide a monthly service to and from each country, the company has announced. More frequent departures for the West Indies are also announced. Provision is made for a fortnightly instead of a monthly service between the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, if warranted.

No Irregularities

St. John's, Nfld.—As a result of his investigation into charges made by Hon. Peter Cashin that Premier Sir Richard Squires had falsified minutes of council to facilitate manipulations of public funds, His Excellency Sir John Middleton found "no discrepancy, no falsification and no irregularity." The governor's report was read in the House of Assembly.

DISCUSSES WAR DEBTS

DAVID LLOYD GEORGE

In a bristling book, "The Truth About Reparations and War Debts," the wartime premier considers that Great Britain has been generous, but that France and the United States have not played the game with war debts and reparations.

Paid Visit To Siam

Mr. and Mrs. Butchart, Of Sunken Garden Fame, Entertained By Siamese Rulers

Victoria, B.C.—Mr. and Mrs. Butchart, whose sunken gardens at Benvenuto, near here, are famous, returned home from Siam.

They were guests last month of King Prajadhipok, and Queen Rambai Barni in Bangkok and have come back greatly impressed with the hospitality of the Siamese people. State functions were held in their homes.

The visit to Siam was made at the invitation of the Siamese rulers who last October were entertained at Benvenuto.

Storm Sweeps Southern States

Two Hundred and Seventy-Five People Lose Lives In Hurricane

Birmingham, Ala.—Two hundred and seventy-five persons were killed, hundreds of others injured and made homeless, and unestimated damage wrought by a series of tornadoes that dipped into five southern states.

Alabama bore the brunt of the storm, one of the south's major disasters. Here 220 persons lost their lives when the howling winds blew down their homes in two score communities.

Thirty-four were killed in Georgia, 17 in Tennessee, two in Kentucky and two in South Carolina.

No Official Confirmation

Ottawa, Ont.—"The report is gossip, and we have no official information on the subject," H. H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce, told the House of Commons, in respect to a press report that the British government was giving an order to the Russian government for $25,000,000 worth of timber, some of which was of a class and kind which could be made in Canada.

Dr. Tory To Give Evidence

President Of Research Council To Be Called As Witness

Ottawa, Ont.—Dr. H. M. Tory, president of the National Research Council, will be called as a witness by the House of Commons committee on civil service, it was decided. Chairman J. Earl Lawson (Cons., York West) read a letter from Dr. Tory, who took exception to some statements made before the committee by officers of the civil service commission, one of whom, Commissioner Newton M. MacTavish, had suggested that the research council should come under the civil service commission.

Dr. Tory declared that, contrary to expressed opinions before the committee, the administrative offices of the research council received salaries in many cases lower than those paid employees in similar classes of work in the civil service. The professional workers were paid in accordance with the recommendation of the Beatty Commission report of 1930.

Appointments were not made by Dr. Tory personally, the letter stated, but by the research council as a whole, and professional appointments were made only after their qualifications had been examined by the highest authorities.

Back To The Land

Many Inquiries Received Regarding Settlement Plan In Saskatchewan

Saskatoon, Sask.—Dozens of enquiries with respect to the proposed provincial land settlement scheme whereby unemployed would be placed on farms have been received by Mayor J. E. Underwood in the last few days.

"The majority who are enquiring appear to be of the type who would most likely make good under such a scheme," declared the mayor when interviewed. "Many have had farm experience."

Council will not likely take any definite action with respect to the settlement proposal until after a report setting out details of the scheme, has been received from Premier J. T. M. Anderson.

Under the suggested arrangement the city would be required to contribute $100 to each new settler sent from such municipality, the provincial authorities providing an additional $200.

Would Legalize Lotteries

London, Eng.—Leave to introduce a bill for the legalizing of lotteries for charitable, scientific and artistic purposes, or for any public improvement, was granted in the House of Commons to Sir William Davidson, Conservative member, by a vote of 176 to 123.

Granted An Audience

London, England.—His Majesty granted an audience at Buckingham Palace to Sir George Perley, Minister without portfolio in the Canadian government and leader of the Canadian delegation to the world disarmament conference at Geneva.

SAYS DOMINION HAS UNLIMITED GASOLINE SUPPLY

Ottawa, Ont.—Attention of the committee of the House of Commons investigating the alleged high prices of gasoline in Canada was called to the presence along the Athabasca River, north of Edmonton, of large deposits of tar sands which A. U. G. Bury (Cons., Edmonton East), declared contained "sufficient gasoline to supply the needs of the whole world for hundreds of years."

In suggesting the committee investigate, Mr. Bury advised hearing Dr. S. C. Ellis, Department of Mines, who had found that it would be possible to process the deposits so as to produce gasoline at a commercial rate.

R. C. Matthews (Cons., Toronto East Centre), chairman, ruled it was outside of the jurisdiction of the committee. H. E. Spencer, (U.F.A., Battle River), felt any means of obtaining gasoline from Canada would certainly justify the committee's inquiry. C. J. Bothwell (Liberal, Swift Current), suggested "the committee has got a great deal on its hands now. Suppose we wait until we have concluded examination of the oil companies and then look into the possibility of our investigating the scheme." The committee agreed.

John McNeil, director of sales, employee of Imperial Oil for 26 years, was called to testify as to the cost of distribution of products throughout Canada.

Fundamental difference in gasoline prices was caused by varying freight charges. Hamilton was the lowest rate "zone" in Canada, and prices elsewhere in Canada would be higher, depending on the increased freight haul from the oil fields in the southern states.

Rescue At Sea

Fishermen Saved After Drifting In Small Boat For Eight Days

Miami, Fla.—Eight days drifting far at sea in a small and crippled fishing boat, food gone, throats parched for lack of water—and then when hope had all but fled, a rag soaked in gasoline and ignited by sparks from a storage battery brought rescue.

These were the experiences related here by Frank Oxenfelt and his negro companion, George Maxey. They were brought to Miami by a coastguard cutter which transferred them from the rescue ship "Cuyampa," of the United Fruit Company.

They were fishing near Fowey Rock March 12, and the crankshaft of their motor broke. The boat began drifting and soon thereafter sprang leaks. It was kept afloat by unceasing work at the pumps.

Miraculous Escapes

Fate Played Weird Role In Saving Lives Of Street Car Operators

Calgary, Alberta.—Fate has played its weird role in the form of a ticket package and a steel badge in saving the lives of two Calgary street car operators.

A year ago a bandit shot at John Macdonald in an attempted holdup of a street car. The bullet hit the conductor's steel badge on the front of his cap, preventing a fatal head wound.

Recently a gunman's bullet struck Samuel Emery in the chest during an attempted street car robbery. The bullet lodged in the abdomen after it had been deflected from its course into the man's heart by striking a ticket package in his breast pocket.

To Study Effect Of Duties

London, England.—The British government prefers to watch the working out of the present general imports duties before embarking on further fiscal legislation, said Walter Runciman, president of the Board of Trade, when he was urged by Lord Seone, Conservative, to institute extensive "anti-dumping" measures.

Do Not Want Trotzky

Prague, Czechoslovakia.—Czechoslovakia has revoked permission recently extended to Leon Trotzky, exiled Bolshevik leader, to visit this country for three months.

THE MOTHERLAND'S CHOICE FOR THE IMPERIAL CONFERENCE

Wouldn't mother be pleased?

How long has it been since you last saw your mother? If she is in another country, another province or no farther away than a nearby town, weeks, months, even years may slip by without a reunion.

Wouldn't mother be pleased if you were to surprise her tonight with a long-distance telephone call? The sound of your voice would be almost like having you home. Think of the joy that heart-to-heart talk would give you, too.

And don't forget—Mother's Day is coming! Many are finding that a long-distance telephone call is one of the best ways of remembering mother on that occasion.

Relief Committee Appeal

Editor Review:

Sir, I have been instructed by the Creston Relief Committee to make another appeal through the columns of the Review, for boots, shoes, stockings and socks. The need is great and I feel confident will not pass by unheeded by the people of Creston Valley.

There are children who are unable to attend school through lack of these things and a situation of this kind cannot be allowed to pass unnoticed. Look into your cupboards and drawers. You may find several pairs of discarded articles of this nature. They are possibly filling up room you need. Pass them on to Mrs. Hayes or Mrs. Telford. They will come in very useful with many who are in need. I know the people of this district will respond with their usual generosity.

There may be people who are wondering what the duties of the Creston Relief Committee are, who are its members, and the reason for its formation.

The committee was formed last December at a general meeting of representatives of the various organizations in the Valley. It was empowered at that meeting to investigate cases needing immediate relief; to bring such cases to the attention of the authorities authorized to handle them, and in the interim to serve their needs. The members of this committee are: Chas. Murrell, chairman; Rev. T. Scott, secretary; M. J. Boyd, F. H. Jackson, Mrs. Telford and Mrs. Hayes.

The committee issued an appeal through the Review for boots, blankets, bedding, shoes, etc. This appeal was exceptionally well responded to, and we wish to thank those who came to our aid. The committee would also like to take this opportunity to thank W. M. Archibald and Geo. Johnson for the great assistance they have received from them. We have been able to help 17 needy families, supplying them with clothing, fuel, meat, groceries, etc. The committee is still functioning and it is anxious to serve the needy.

THOS. SCOTT,
Secretary Relief Committee.

The Vanishing Dollar

Editor Review:

Sir,—This subject is rather complicated. It takes on many forms, and much depends upon the meaning of the words, "vanishing dollars." Many men have many minds. It all depends upon the goggles through which we look and behold this subject.

The practical man, looking through green goggles, to him the stock market slump of 1929 is the cause, brought about by foolish speculation in stocks.

The trade unionist, who looks through white goggles, to him, as he views the whole subject, it is all a matter of the decrease in his wages and those of his fellow workers who now have much less to spend than in the days prior to wage reduction, which in turn provides less cash for the butcher, baker, and candle stick maker, and which makes business conditions bad generally.

The christian socialist sees the dollar vanish through a lack of practical Christianity, or the religion of Jesus Christ which spells the brotherhood of man, or a co-operative commonwealth where all men will own all things in common.

For a scientific explanation of the vanishing dollar that might be brought through a debate in the house of parliament—when the cream of our legislative intelligence has not been contaminated through party feeling, but not otherwise. R.B.

"Deacon Dubbs," which made such a hit at Canyon last week will be presented at the Parish Hall Monday night,

What looks like the Canadian record for big egg production was established at the Fred Smith ranch last week when a White Leghorn hen deposited a sample of hen fruit measuring 8 3/4 inches around the end with 7 inches circumference. A unique birthday celebration was that of Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. J. Boyd when the Presbyterian Ladies' Aid were hosts and the guest of honor was Mrs. A. L. Cameron, whose 75th anniversary the day commemorated. The afternoon was pleasantly spent with contests and oldtime sociability and just before lunch was served the guest was presented with an appropriate gift, hearty assurance given of her being a "jolly good fellow" with a rendering of that favorite vocal number. The party broke up to the strains of "Auld Lang Syne," and everyone's wish for many happy returns of the day. Mrs. Cameron has just completed 24 years membership in the aid, having joined in 1908.

When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. Very often the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should be. Bowels need help—mild, gentle help—but effective. Just the kind Castoria gives. Castoria is a pure vegetable preparation made especially for children's ailments. Poultry On the Farm

One Of the Best Paying Lines Of Farm Effort

Official records show that the poultry population of Canada has doubled each ten years during the period of the past thirty years. Each succeeding period of low prices for farm products finds the poultry flock coming to the farmer's rescue. At the present time it can easily be shown that the poultry flock properly bred, housed, and looked after is, from the standpoint of capital investment and feed cost, one of the best paying lines of farm effort. Each succeeding year appears to make it more clear that the farm is the logical place for the development of the poultry industry with respect to both eggs and meat production. The farm flock is a useful medium for the marketing of otherwise unsaleable products in the form of eggs and poultry meat. Banks and loan companies find the farm which has a poultry flock a much better risk than the one which has none.—Dept. of Agriculture, Ottawa.

Pioneer Railroader

J. M. McKay, General Agricultural Agent Of the C.P.R. Western Lines

From turning handbrakes and manipulating the old link-and-pin couplers during the nineties, J. M. McKay, now general agricultural agent of the Canadian Pacific Railway's western lines, arrived on Sunday, March 13th, at his 64th birthday with fingers intact and a vast fund of experience in pioneering in western Canada to his credit.

"Bruce County, of course," was his only explanation of his steady advance from practical railroading to his present executive responsibility. A few years on a farm homestead near Portage la Prairie, and one year—1892-93, patrolling Main Street as a Winnipeg policeman when the Black Maria was the nearest dray, preceded his entry into railroading on the Canadian Pacific.

Beginning in 1893, Mr. McKay drove an express wagon. He became a freight brakeman in 1895 on the Northern Pacific and was promoted to the position of conductor in 1899. In 1906 he was appointed trainmaster out of Winnipeg, and a year later at Souris. Back to Winnipeg in 1911, he took over the duties of acting superintendent of terminals, and in 1912 reached the position of assistant superintendent at Revelstoke. Fighting snowslides in the Rockies with success, he was rewarded with the less hazardous position of superintendent at Saskatoon, where he served from 1917 to 1929, the year in which he became general agricultural agent with headquarters at Winnipeg.

Advance Of Aviation

Travels In Seven Days Distance That Formerly Required 35 Months To Negotiate

When the Africa air mail left the London air station, Croydon, England, recently, there travelled with it a man whose journey illustrated in remarkable fashion the advance of aviation manifested in the chain of 57 aerodromes and landing grounds between Cairo and Cape Town.

Thirty-two years ago Major Ewart Grogan, big game hunter and explorer, walked from the Cape to Cairo, taking three years. He toiled through thousands of miles of bush and jungle, frequently distressed by fever bouts brought on by the hardships of the march and the activities of myriads of disease-carrying insects that infested much of the track he followed. Time and again he was in danger from wild beasts and hostile natives; once a revolt broke out among his porters and he was forced to defend himself with his revolver.

This time Major Grogan went with the air mail, making in seven days the journey that took him 35 months less than a generation ago. He was the first passenger, apart from the members of the small official party which left Croydon on the inaugural flight, to fly through from London to South Africa by the new air route.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

APRIL 3

GOD IN CREATION

Golden Text: "In the beginning God created the heavens and the earth."—Genesis 1.1.

Lesson: Genesis 1.1 to 2.7. Devotional Reading: Psalm 8.

Explanations and Comments

In the Beginning, God, verses 1, 2.—The first verse of the first chapter of Genesis is the summary, the remainder of the first chapter the detailed account of the creation. In the beginning, God—this is the great pronouncement of this chapter. Before the mountains were brought forth, or even thou hadst formed the earth and the world, even from everlasting to everlasting Thou art God, Psalm 90. 2.

"I like the superb organ tones of those primeval words of the primal reason and imagination rest; at the first, before all things, or even creation had issued into the void of space, was the Eternal, the Almighty."—book, 'In the beginning, God.' There Alexander McKenzie.

Light Created; Light and Darkness Separated, verses 3-5.—And God said, "Let there be light." "God utters not grammatical words, but real and material things. The sun, moon, heaven, earth, I, and thou, are scarcely to be reckoned words of God, yea, hardly a syllable and letter in comparison with the entire creation."—Martin Luther.

Let there be light; and there was light. "The third verse is a surpassing example of sublimity of thought and diction."—Longinus.

And God divided the light from the darkness. A writer in "The Outlook" bids us compare the sublimity of the opening sentences of the Bible with these sentences published in a newspaper from a teacher of one of the new religions: "The radiance of spirit penetrates, and dissolves, and disperses the substanceless shadows or images of the mortal concept—the counterfeit man and the counterfeit universe—and discloses the divine reality and spiritual verities of being."

And God called the light Day, and the darkness he called Night. The meaning clearly is that what God enables man to do—for speech and language are the gift of God—by a well understood rule God is said to do for himself."—Sime

And there was evening and there was morning. Evening is doubtless mentioned here before morning because the Jewish day began at sunset. One day. This "day" of Genesis has nothing to do with our period of twenty-four hours, nor with a period of countless years. "It is a beautiful device—this use of a week of days and nights—to show that creation was not instantaneous. The writer might have introduced any other time measurement. He might have suggested years, or centuries, or cycles. But the most convenient, the simplest scale, was the week of days—a figure to help us to the thought of continuous creative energy."—John H. Vincent.

"Better to believe that the world was created in six solar days than to doubt whether it was created at all."—W. H. P. Faunce.

"The spacious firmament on high With all the blue ethereal sky, And spangled heavens, a shining frame, Their great Original proclaim."—Addison.

The Spell Of Martin-Harvey

Celebrated Actor's Art Comprehends a Unique Range Of Stage Portraits

Anyone who has fallen under the spell of Martin-Harvey will grant the fascination of the subject. What is the mystery of the source of inspiration from which springs this great actor's art? Is it true that "Man is composed of many egos" and that in the exercise of his art, by an actor, one of these will live before us in the person of the artist who has called up one of these separate identities? It almost seems so. Witness his representation one night of the subtle, poetic intangibility of Pelleas, a dream which is life reflected in an intangible shadow and atmosphere of beauty radiated by the artist, not to be remotely considered as a creature of flesh and blood. And the very next night there is Manelich, a creature of the hilltops, a gust of elemental passion, a virile man if ever there was one, confronted with grim realities of life.

There is no trick of temperament in the realization of these two parts so opposite in every respect, side by side; and their presentation is almost proof of dual personalities. Behind and beyond a perfect technique, there is something else. In the case of Sir John Martin-Harvey there is a brain, complex, and intensely sympathetic, which understands life and touches it at many angles. Here is disciplined character, the substance of emotions peculiar to us all, realized and bridled, ready to be unleashed at will. This reveals something of the fabric on which great theatrical art is built, a presupposed tangible achievement.

Sir John Martin-Harvey, with Miss N. de Silva and his London company will be seen at the Darke Building for Music, 3 days, commencing Monday, April 4. Mail orders are now being received at the office of O. U. Powell, 508 McCallum-Hill Building, Regina.

League Membership Dues

China Said To Be In Arrears To the Extent Of $1,900,000

Some countries pay their annual dues to the League of Nations. Others don't. Like any other gentlemen's club, memberships are sometimes in arrears when, as in the case of China and the South American republics, civil wars, revolutions and such domestic annoyances deplete the national treasury. The league, then, is out of luck.

Interesting facts relative to this are disclosed in a return tabled in the senate at the behest of Major-General W. A. Griesbach. It shows, among other things, that Canada at least pays her way—and that handsomely.

Canada's assessment in 1931 amounted to $212,573, and she paid on the nail. China's was in the neighborhood of $300,000, but the former celestial kingdom has been hard up for a long time. In fact China owes the league $1,900,000 in membership fees, being her consolidated arrears for the past nine years.

The year 1930 was a bad one for the league's collecting agency. No fewer than seven of the nine South American members passed up their dues, four of them—Bolivia, Paraguay, Argentina and Peru—in whole, and three—Uruguay, Chili, and Colombia—in part.

The seven nations of the British Empire who are members of the league regularly pay in their assessments, which amount to exactly 28 per cent. of the total. Fifty-five nations of the world are members of the league.

Since 1919 Canada has spent $2,429,244 on the activities of the league, moneys expended on assessments, incidental expenses and delegations.

I was two weeks in bed, when a friend advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I gave the Pills a fair trial, and they relieved me right away. THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

BY MARGARET PEDLER

Author of "The Splendid Folly," "The Hermit of Far End," Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd., London.

The recognition of the great thing that had come into her life left her a little breathless and shaken. But she did not seek to evade or deny it. The absolute candour of her mind—candid even to itself—accepted the truth quite simply and frankly. No false shame that she had, as far as actual fact went, given her love unasked, tempted her to disguise from herself the reality of what had happened. For good or ill, whether Blaise returned her love or no, it was his.

But in her inmost heart she believed that he, too, cared—half-fearfully, half-joyfully recognizing the penting force which surged behind the bars of his deliberate aloofness.

True, he had never definitely spoken of his love in so many words, but Lady Anne had supplied the key to his silence. The past still bound him! Alive, Nesta had held him by her beauty; and dead, she still held him with the cords of remorse and unavailing self-reproach—cords which can bind almost as closely as the strands of love.

But for that— The hot colour surged into Jean's cheeks at the sweet, secret thought which lay behind that "but." Blaise cared! Cared for her, needed her, just as she cared for and needed him. To her woman's eyes, newly anointed with life's sacramental oil and given sight, it had become suddenly evident in a hundred ways, most of all evident in his sullen effort to conceal it from her.

So much that he had said, or had not said—those clipped sentences, bitten off short with a savage intensity that had often enough troubled and bewildered her, now found their right interpretation. He cared . . . but the bondage of the past still held.

And with that thought came reaction. The brief, quivering ecstasy, which had sent little fugitive thrills and currents racing through every nerve of her, died suddenly like a damped-out fire, as she realized all which that bondage implied.

It was possible he might never break the silence which he himself had decreed. From the very beginning he had recognized—and insisted upon—the fact that they two were only "ships that pass," and though now, for a little space, Fate had directed the course of each into the same channel, a year, at most, would float them out again on to the big ocean of life where vessels signalled—and passed—each other. She must, in the ordinary course of events, return eventually to Beltrahel, while Blaise remained in England. And that would be the end of it.

She knew the man's dogged pertinacity; he would hold to an idea or belief immovably if he conceived it right, no matter what the temptation to break away. And in the flood of light vouchsafed by Lady Anne's disclosure, she felt convinced that he had somehow come to regard the tragic happenings of the past as standing betwixt him and any future happiness. Why, Jean could not altogether fathom, but she guessed that the dominant factor in the matter was probably an exaggerated consciousness of responsibility for his wife's death, and perhaps, too, a certain lingering tenderness, a subconscious feeling of loyalty to the dead woman, which urged him on to sacrifice of his own personal happiness as some kind of atonement.

Unless—and a swift spasm of pain shot through her, searing its way like a tongue of flame—unless Lady Anne had been altogether mistaken in her fixed belief that Blaise had not really cared for his wife but had only been carried away on the swift tide of passion—that tide which runs so fiercely and untrammelled in hot youth.

Jean had her black hour then, when she faced the fact that although her love was given, and although she tremulously believed it was returned, she would probably never know the supreme joy of utter certainty, never hear the beloved's voice utter those words which hold all heaven for the woman who hears them.

But, through the darkness that closed about her, there gleamed a single thread of light—the light of her own bestowal of love. Even if she never knew, of a surety, that Blaise cared, even if—and here she shrank, but forced herself to face the possibility sincerely—even if she was utterly mistaken and he did not care for her in any other way save as a friend—his "little comrade"—still still there would remain always the golden gleam of love that has been given. For no one who loves can be quite unhappy.

CHAPTER XVII. In the Rose Garden

The chalcidony of the spring skies had deepened into the glowing sapphire of early June—a deep, pulsating blue, tremulous with heat. On the sundial, the shadow's finger pointed to twelve o'clock, and the sleepy hush of noontide hung over the rose-garden where Jean was gathering roses for the house.

"Can't I help?" Burke's voice broke across the drowsy quiet so unexpectedly that she jumped, almost letting fall the scissors with which she was scientifically snipping the stems of the roses. She bestowed a small frown upon the head and shoulders appearing above the wooden gate on which he leant.

"It's not very helpful to begin by giving one an electric shock," she complained. "How long have you been there?"

His attitude had a repose about it which suggested that he might have been standing there some time watching her.

"I don't know. But as I am here, may I come in?"

Without waiting for her answer, he unlatched the gate and came striding across the velvet greenness of the lawn.

Since the day when she had lunched at Willow Ferry, and learned, as she believed, to understand and make allowances for the bitterness which had so warped Judith's nature, her acquaintance with both brother and sister ripened rapidly into a friendly intimacy. But the fact that Burke's feelings towards her was something other, and much warmer than mere friendship, had failed to penetrate her consciousness.

It was patent enough to the lookers on, and probably Jean was the only one amongst the little coterie of intimate friends who had not realized what was impending.

It is not very often that a woman remains entirely oblivious of the small, unmistakable signs which go to indicate a man's attitude towards her. In Jean's case, however, her thoughts were so engrossed with the one man that, at the moment, all other men occupied but a very shadowy relationship towards the realities

HE COULDN'T READ FOR INDIGESTION

"For some years previous to 1922 I was subject to indigestion, with headaches and thousands of stars sparking in my eyes, which prevented me from reading. I decided to try Kruschen Salts. That was August, 1922, and I have taken a little in my first morning cup of tea ever since. I now eat anything, and am entirely free from indigestion or 'stars.'—F. C.

Now let it be said quite definitely, that what Kruschen did for him, it will do for everybody else who suffers from indigestion as he did. The fact is that "the little daily dose" first stimulates the flow of gastric juices to aid digestion, and then ensures complete, regular, and unflinching elimination of all waste matter every day.

Soon after you start on Kruschen you will begin to feel the benefit. You will find to your satisfaction that you are able to enjoy your food without any distressing after-effects. And, as you persevere, you will see that the relief which Kruschen brings is lasting relief.

of life as far as she was concerned.

So that she scarcely troubled to look up as Burke halted beside her, but went on cutting her roses unconcernedly, merely observing:

"Idlers not allowed. You can make yourself useful by paring the thorns off the stems." She gestured towards a basket which stood on the ground at her side, already overflowing with its scented burden of pink and white and crimson roses.

He glanced at the russet head bent studiously above a bush nose and there was a gleam, half angry, half amused, in his eyes. His fingers went uncertainly to his pocket, where reposed a serviceable knife, then suddenly he drew his hand sharply away, empty.

"No," he said. "I didn't come over to be useful this morning." I came over—he spoke slowly, as though endeavoring to gain her attention—"on a quite different errand."

There was a vibration in his voice that might have warned her had she been less intent upon her task of wrestling with a refractory branch. As it was, she merely questioned absently:

"And what was the 'quite different' errand?"

The next moment she felt his hand close over both hers, gardening scissors and washleather gloves notwithstanding.

"Stop cutting those confounded flowers, and I'll tell you," he said roughly.

She looked up in astonishment, and, at last, a glimmering of what was coming dawned upon her. Even the blindest of women, the most preoccupied, must have read the expression of his eyes at that moment.

"Oh, no—no," she began hastily. "I must finish cutting the roses—really, Geoffrey."

He tried to release her hands, but he held them firmly.

"No," he said coolly. "You won't finish cutting your flowers—at least, not now. You're going to listen to me."

He drew the scissors from her grasp, and they flashed like a fish in the sunshine as he tossed them down on to the rose basket. Then, quite deliberately, he pulled off the loose gloves she was wearing and his big hands gripped themselves suddenly, closely, about her slight, bared ones. "Geoffrey—"

Aviators Have Adventures

Record Of Royal Air Force Makes Fascinating Reading

For an hour during a recent meeting of the British House of Commons was illumined with the romance of high adventure. Sir Phillip Sassoon, Under-Secretary for Air, introduced the air estimates and they were no mere recital of votes and types of aircraft. One saw the Royal Air Force opening up new routes, lending a helping hand in the world's desolate places.

A lost touring car of the Egyptian State Railway was discovered in the sand wastes of the Libyan desert. A friendly hand was given to a district commissioner in the collection of taxes from unwilling semi-nomadic tribes. A case of appendicitis was conveyed 500 miles across the desert from Darfur to Khartoum. Water and supplies were taken to an African trade expedition stranded north of Wadi Halfa with only a small bottle of water between its members.

A political agent on a tour of the Northwest frontier provinces of India—"back of beyond"—received his mail. An Italian aircraft force landed on the Somali coast was located and supplied with provisions. Sick members of an expedition operating in the hinterland of Aden were evacuated by air. And the Sultan's brother was conveyed from Ras-Al-Kaimah to Bahrein for eye trouble.

The worms that infest children from their birth are of two kinds, those that find lodgment in the stomach and those that are found in the intestines. The latter are the most destructive, as they cling to the walls of the intestines and if not interfered with work havoc there. Miller's Worm Powders dislodge both kinds and while expelling them from the system serve to repair the damage they have caused.

FOR REMEMBRANCE

Space has not bereft me,
Still my love is near;
These are what she left me
For remembrance dear;
All the hilt measures
That the Hnet knows,
Sunset's opal treasures,
Petals of the rose,
Popples' satin dresses,
Stargleams through the night,
And the swift caresses
Of the wind in flight.

Thieving time can never
Steal her quite away,
Since with dawning ever
Memories sweet and gay
Wake me from my sleeping,
From my dreams of her,
Thoughts like sunbeams creeping,
Glad as wings astrir.
Space has not bereft me,
Nor have time's fleet wings;
Memories she has left me
In all lovely things.

Little Helps For This Week

"Shall we receive good at the hand of God, and shall we not receive evil?"—Job ii. 10.

With patient mind thy course of duty run,
God nothing does or suffers to be done
But thou wouldn't do thyself, could'st thou but see
The end of all events as well as He. —Dr. Byron.

Of nothing may we be more sure than this; if we cannot sanctify our present lot, we could sanctify no other. Our heaven and our Almighty Father are there, or nowhere. The obstructions of that lot are given for us to heave away by the concurrent touch of a holy spirit and labour of strenuous will, its gloom for us to tint with some celestial light, its mysteries are for our worship, its sorrows for our trust, its perils for our courage, its temptations for our faith. Soldiers of the "Cross," it is not for us, but for our Leader and our Lord to choose the field. It is ours, taking the station which He assigns us, to make it a field of truth and honour, though it be a field of death.—James Martineau.

NEW INVENTION DOES AWAY WITH COOKING ODORS.

Even fish and cauliflower bow down to Canapar Cookery Parchment

BETTER, CHEAPER AND EASIER COOKING

Delicious as cauliflower, cabbage and certain other vegetables are, they have imposed a heavy penalty on people who fearlessly cooked them. Not to mention those who had to suffer the odor without enjoying the finished product. The same thing is equally true of fish.

Canapar Cookery Parchment, a very ingenious invention, does away with this annoyance entirely. While sealing in odors, it also retains flavor and food value. Cooking in Canapar actually parallels the famous French method of simmering and confining food and its flavor in the closed casserole.

You buy Canapar in a large envelope of handy-size sheets which may be rinsed out and used over and over again because they won't absorb odors. When boiling vegetables you simply wet the Canapar and make a bag similar to a pudding bag. If you steam them, you line the steamer with Canapar, arrange food and seasoning, and fold back corners of the Canapar to prevent steam from dripping back. You can actually cook three vegetables at once in the same saucepan, this way—save fuel—and the flavors will not intermingle.

Steamed, or boiled, fish comes out firm, solid and swimming in its own juice. No odours. No sticky steamer or saucepan to clean up afterwards.

Line your roasting pan with Canapar, then the fats and juice can't burn. Meat is more succulent and there is no scouring or scraping of the pan afterwards.

Many women use Canapar for a dish cloth—it is so silky and satisfactory, and doesn't spread lint.

You'll never be without Canapar once you start using it. It saves time and money. Made by the makers of the famous PARA-SANI Heavy Waxed Paper in the Green Box.

Special Offer
Most grocers, druggists and department stores sell Canapar, but if yours doesn't, just send the coupon and we'll give you a new and unique book entitled "Leftovers" containing one hundred recipes as a bonus for your trouble.
