HER FAT HAD TO GO

Activity Melted it

Exercise is the enemy of fat. If you are overburdened with superfluous flesh, call up reserves of energy to fight it. Do as this lady did:—

"During the past six months, I have made steady improvement whilst taking Kruschen Salts. I have reduced 28 lbs. in weight during that period, and have benefited greatly from greater agility and liveliness—all directly attributable to that famous preparation."—Mrs. W. P.

You can take off fat with Kruschen Salts if you will take one-half teaspoon in hot water every morning before breakfast, modify your diet and exercise regularly.

While you are losing fat you will be gaining in energy—in endurance—in ambition. Your skin will grow clearer, and your eyes will sparkle with the good health that Kruschen brings. The old arm chair won't hold you any more—you'll want to be up and doing—you'll enjoy work and active recreation and you'll sleep like a top. You'll lose fat, and probably live years longer.

Saskatchewan Government Provides For Temporary Curtailment Of Remedies In View Of Conditions

The following information is published by the authority of the Hon. W. C. Buckle, Minister of Agriculture of the Government of the Province of Saskatchewan.

Taxes: Title to land sold for taxes will not be issued until June 15th, 1932, unless the municipality or council has exempted the land from the provision of the Act passed for the protection of land owners. Under the new Act authorizing the postponement of Issue of Certificate of Title to Land sold for Taxes, any owner of land lying within a municipality sold for taxes in 1929, or in any preceding year, in respect of which a certificate of title has not been issued, may make application to the council of the municipality within which the land lies for a certificate postponing the issue of certificate of title to the land until the thirtieth day of November, 1932. If the council fails or refuses to grant the application and to issue the certificate of postponement, the owner may apply to a judge of the district court for the required certificate, and the decision of the judge in the matter shall be final. If you are unable to take an appeal before a Judge of the District Court, you may ask the Debt Adjustment Commissioner for assistance.

If your land has been sold for taxes in the year 1929, or any preceding year, you are advised to consult the Secretary-Treasurer of your Rural Municipality, or Council, without delay, because after June 15th, if a certificate is not issued to you, title to your land may pass to the purchaser of the tax sale certificate.

The following real and personal property of an execution debtor and his family is free from seizure by virtue of all writs of execution, namely:

1. The necessary and ordinary clothing of himself and his family.
2. Furniture, household furnishings and dairy utensils, to the extent of five hundred dollars.
3. The necessary food for the family of the execution debtor during six months, which may include grain, flour, vegetables and meat either prepared for use or on foot.
4. Four oxen, horses or mules, or any four of them, six cows, six sheep, four pigs, and fifty domestic fowls besides the animals the execution debtor may have chosen to keep for food purposes, and food for the same for the months of November, December, January, February, March and April, or for such of these months or portions thereof as may follow the date of seizure provided such seizure be made between the first day of August and the thirtieth day of April next ensuing.
5. The harness necessary for four animals, one wagon or two carts, one mower or cradle and scythe, one breaking plough, one cross plough, one set of harrows, one horse rake, one sewing machine, one reaper or binder, one set of sleighs and one seed drill.
6. The books of a professional man.
7. The tools and necessary implements to the extent of two hundred dollars used by the execution debtor in the practice of his trade or profession.
8. Seed grain sufficient to sow all his land under cultivation not exceeding one hundred and sixty acres, at the rate of two bushels per acre, defendant to have choice of seed and fourteen bushels of potatoes for planting.
9. The homestead, provided the same be not more than one hundred and sixty acres; in case it be more the surplus may be sold subject to any lien or encumbrance thereon.
10. The house and buildings occupied by the execution debtor and also the lot or lots on which the same are situated according to the registered plan of the same, to the extent of three thousand dollars.

In the event of a chattel mortgage having been given covering horses, machinery, etc., the debtor is still protected under the Exemptions Act for the chattels mentioned above. Should the subject matter of the judgment upon which an execution is issued, represent the amount due on machinery, horses, etc., then such articles are not exempt.

In view of prevailing conditions, the Government of the Province of Saskatchewan deemed it necessary to provide for the temporary curtailment of remedies for the enforcement of payment of certain debts and therefore enacted the Debt Adjustment Act, 1932. This Act extends protection to residents of the province who are actual residents of and personally bona fide engaged in, or the principal part of whose income is derived from farming operations in the province, or urban residents who own their residence, or who are purchasers of their residence under an agreement for sale, or who are retail merchants and includes the executors or administrators of deceased residents if the beneficiaries or any of them are resident of the province.

This Act is for the purpose of assisting debtors who are having difficulties with their creditors. The Commissioner, who administers the Act, endeavours to settle such difficulties but in the event of it being impossible to arrive at an amicable settlement, the Commissioner is authorized to issue a certificate which would stop any legal action brought by the creditor leading to the seizure of chattels under chattel mortgage, foreclosure of mortgages, and cancellation of agreements for sale, also repossession of articles bought under conditional sale agreements and lien notes. The Act, however, does not apply to actions which have been decided before the case is referred to the Debt Adjustment Commissioner. It does, however, apply to foreclosure actions, cancellation of agreements for sale, etc., where final order has not been issued by the courts.

In the event of a certificate being issued, the resident must comply with the Commissioner's directions as to the disposition of his property.

The Commissioner of the Debt Adjustment Act is authorized to act as Custodian and Trustee under the Bankruptcy Act and if any farmer is so badly involved that there are no prospects of his being able to pay his debts, then the Commissioner can arrange for bankruptcy proceedings. The farmer is required to make a deposit of an amount which will take care of the cash disbursements, but no fees are charged for services of the Department.

The rights of mortgagees under crop leases are also restricted this year in that no lease shall affect more than one-third of the crop unless the mortgagee has purchased the seed and pays the cost of threshing and a share of the cost of binder twine proportionate to the share of the crop to which he is entitled under the mortgage. A farmer who is a lessee, purchaser or mortgagor under any lease, agreement of sale or mortgage, may in the year 1932, out of the share of the crop belonging to the lessor, vendor or mortgagee, pay one year's taxes upon the land on which the crop is grown, and, in such case, upon production of the receipt of the municipality for such payment, the lessor, vendor or mortgagee shall be entitled only to his one-third share of the crop less the amount shown upon such receipt.

Seizures under any lien agreement, or conditional sale agreement under the Farm Implements Act, or the Conditional Sales Act, must be made by the sheriff of the judicial district within which the seizure is to be made, or under his direction. Generally, this applies to articles bought on the time payment plan such as farm machinery, automobiles, washing machines, cream separators, horses and cattle.

The vendor's right to recovery of unpaid purchase money on articles sold after April 13th, 1932, on credit, or partly for cash and partly on credit, and if the vendor has a lien thereon, is restricted to his lien upon the articles sold and his right of repossession of such articles unless in the case of sale of land with chattels upon an entire consideration. In other words, if you buy a plow on the time payment plan and cannot meet the payments, the vendor can repossess the plow, but cannot take action against you for the unpaid balance.

The Debt Adjustment Act does not afford protection to urban dwellers who live in rented houses or apartments.

Information regarding the rights and remedies of debtors will be cheerfully given by Commissioner, Debt Adjustment Act, Regina.

Used Right Bait

A widow, the owner of a small shop, was usually escorted home by an admirer who carried the cash-bag containing the day's takings. It was always heavy.

"You must be doin' weel," said the man frequently.

"Oh, ay," the widow would reply, "it's a guid business!"

But she did not disclose the fact that besides the moderate takings the bag contained the counter weights The canny lover only discovered that fact after marriage.

"I Was Terribly Run Down"

Says Mrs. Doughty: "Dr. Williams' Pink Pills Built Me Up"

Wrought Marvellous Change

"I believe it my duty to tell others what wonderful results I obtained from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills," writes Mrs. James Doughty, Brantford, Ont. "I was in a terribly nervous and run-down condition; very pale and with no ambition. I took three boxes of the Pills, and I soon began to feel like a new woman. No trouble to do my housework. The Pills built me up and put me in first-class condition."

Mrs. Richard Rusk, Roblin, Man., writes: "Diphtheria left our daughter, Beth, a nervous wreck. She was unable to continue at school. I gave her Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and the change in her was marvellous. She is enjoying splendid health — and we do feel that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved her life."

Don't allow yourself or your daughter to be robbed of health and vigour. Take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They are no temporary relief. They banish run-down or nervous conditions by creating new blood, which imparts health, vigour and vitality. 50c—at your druggist's.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JUNE 12

JUDAH THE TRUE BROTHER

Golden Text: "Behold how good and how pleasant it is for brethren to dwell together in unity."—Psalm 133. 1.

Lesson: Genesis 44.18 to 45.15.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 26.1-7.

Explanations and Comments

Judah's Plea For Benjamin, 44.18-34—Read chapters 42 and 43. Sincerity and depth of feeling mark Judah's plea throughout. He first of all recalls to Joseph's mind—the great man who is "even as Pharaoh,"—the way in which he had insisted upon bringing of Benjamin to him. He had asked the brothers if they had father or brother, and they told him that their father was living and with him was the only remaining child of his mother, "and his father loveth him." "Bring him down," the great lord had said, "that I may set mine eyes upon him." And when they had said that the lad could not leave his father, that his father would die if he did, the great man had emphatically declared, "Except your youngest brother come down with you, ye shall see my face no more."

Very touching is Judah's picture then of his father's reluctance to part with Benjamin, a reluctance overcome at last by dire hunger. But his father had reminded them at parting of how he had lost Joseph; "and if ye take this one from me, and harm befall him," he cried, "ye will bring down my gray hairs with sorrow to Sheol."

"Now therefore, when I come to thy servant my father, and the lad is not with us; seeing that his life is bound up in the lad's life," thus Judah speaks, trying to picture what could not, must not be—"it will come to pass that he will die." He had become surety with his father for the lad, and he ends his pathetic plea by begging to be made himself a slave in the place of Benjamin. How noble Judah appears at this moment!

"Oh, how much of poetry and of pathos lie behind some of the roughest men, only waiting for some great sorrow to smite open the upper crust, and bore the artesian well!"—F. B. Meyer.

Joseph Reveals Himself To His Brothers, 45.1-15.—The stern ruler breaks down as Judah ends his intercession for Benjamin. He is satisfied with the result of his test. His brothers are not the men at whose hands he himself had suffered. The time was ripe for making known to them the fact that he, the great ruler in Egypt, was none other than Joseph, their brother. God, too, was satisfied. The brothers were ready to stand together, and it was time to bring them down into Egypt, there to lay the foundation of a national life. There follows a dramatic scene.

Joseph sends away his Egyptian attendants that he may be alone with his brothers. Bursting into tears, he exclaims, "I am Joseph, your brother, whom ye sold into Egypt." They are amazed and troubled, and he hastens to add: "Be not grieved, nor angry with yourselves, that ye sold me hither; for God did send me before you to preserve life. It was not you that sent me hither, but God."

THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

— BY —

MARGARET PEDLER

Author Of
"The Splendid Folly." "The Hermit Of Far End."
Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd., London.

Burke fitted the key into the lock of the door and turned it sulkily.

"You prim little thing! I was only teasing you," he said. "Do you mean you're really as frightened as all that of—what people may say? I thought you were above minding gossip of ill-natured scandalmongers."

Jean grasped eagerly at the excuse. It would serve to hide the real motive of her impulsive action.

"No womn can afford to ignore scandal," she answered quickly. "After all, a woman's happiness depends mostly on her reputation."

Burke's eyes narrowed suddenly. He looked at her speculatively, as though her words had suggested a new train of thought, but he made no comment. Somewhat abstractedly he opened the door and allowed her to pass out and down the stairs. Outside the door of the inn they found the mare and dog-cart in charge of an ostler.

"The mare's foot's rather badly torn, sir," volunteered the man, "but the blacksmith thinks she'll travel all right. Far to go, sir?"

"Nine or ten miles," responded Burke laconically.

He was curiously silent on the way home. It was as though the chain of reasoning started by Jean's comment on the relation scandal bears to a woman's happiness still absorbed him. His brows were knit together morosely.

Jean supposed he was probably reproaching himself for his conduct that afternoon. After all, she reflected, he was normally a man of decent instincts, and though the flood-tide of his passion had swept him into taking advantage of the circumstances which had flung them together in the solitude of the little inn, he would be the first to agree, when in a less lawless frame of mind, that his conduct had been unpardonable. Although, even from that, one could not premise that he would not be equally culpable another time!

Blaise had proved painfully correct in his estimate of the dangers attaching to unexploded bombs. Jean admitted it to herself ruefully. And she was honest enough also to admit that, with his warning ringing in her ears and with the memory of what had happened in the rose-garden to illumine it, she herself was not altogether clear of blame for the incidents of the afternoon.

She had played with Burke, even encouraged him to a certain extent, allowing him to be in her company far more frequently than was altogether wise, considering the circumstance of his hot-headed love for her.

It was somewhat of a mental start of surprise that she found herself seeking for excuses for his behaviour—actually trying to supply adequate reasons why she should overlook it!

His brooding, sulky silence as he drove along, mile after mile, was not without its appeal to the inherent femininity of her. He did not try to excuse or palliate his conduct, made no attempt to sue for forgiveness. He loved her and he had let her see it; manlike, he had taken what the opportunity offered. And she didn't suppose he regretted it.

The faintest smile twitched the corners of her lips. Burke was not the type of man to regret an unlawful kiss or two!

She was conscious that—as usual, where he was concerned—her virtuous indignation was oozing away in the most discreditable and hopeless fashion. There was an audacious charm about the man, an attractiveness that would not be denied in the hot-headed way he went, all out, for what he wanted.

Other women besides Jean had found it equally difficult to resist. His sheer virility, with its splendid disregard for other people's claims and its conscienceless belief that the battle should assuredly be to the strong, earned him forgiveness where, for misdeeds not half so flagrant, a less imperious sinner would have been promptly shown the door.

But no woman—not even the women to whom he had made love without excuse of loving—had ever shown Burke the door or given him the kind of treatment which he had thoroughly well merited twenty times over. And Jean was no exception to the rule.

At least he had some genuine claim on her forgiveness—the claim of a love which had swept through his very being like a flame, the fierce passion of a man to whom love means adoration, worship—above all, possession.

And what woman can ever long remain angry with a man who loves her—and whose very offence is the outcome of the overmastering quality of that love? Very few, and certainly none who was so very much a woman, so essentially feminine as Jean.

It was in a very small voice, which she endeavoured to make airily detached, that she at last broke the silence which had reigned for the last six miles or so.

"I suppose I shall have to forgive you—more or less. One can't exactly quarrel with one's next door neighbour."

Burke smiled grimly.

"Can't one?"

"Well, there's Judith to be considered."

A rather curious expression came into his eyes.

"Yes," he agreed. "There's Judith to be considered." There was a hint of irony in the dry tones.

"It would complicate matters if I were not on speaking terms with her brother," pursued Jean.

She waited for his answer, but none came. The threatened possibility contained in her speech seemed to have fallen on deaf ears, and the silence seemed likely to continue indefinitely.

Jean prompted him gently.

"You might, at least, say you are sorry for—for——"

"For kissing you?"—swiftly.

"Yes"—flushing a little.

"But I'm not. Kissing you"—with deliberation—"is one of the things I shall never regret. When I come to make my peace with Heaven and repent in sackcloth and ashes for my sins of omission and commission, I shan't include this afternoon in the list, I assure you. It was worth it—if I pay for it afterwards in hell."

He was silent a moment. Then:

"But I'll promise you one thing. I'll never kiss you again till you give me your lips yourself."

Jean smiled at the characteristic speech. She supposed this was as near an apology as Burke would ever get.

"That's all right, then," she replied composedly. "Because I shall never do that."

He flicked the chestnut lightly with the whip.

"I think you will," he said. "I think"—he looked at her somewhat enigmatically—"that you will give me everything I want—some day."

CHAPTER XXIII.

On the Side Of the Angels

Throughout the day following that of the expedition to Dartmoor, Nick seemed determined to keep out of Jean's way. It was as though he feared she might force some confidence from him that he was loth to give, and, in consequence, deliberately avoided being alone with her.

On the second day, however, as luck would have it, she encountered him in the corridor just outside her own sitting-room. He was striding blindly along, obviously not heeding where he was going, and had almost collided with her before he realized that she was there.

He jerked himself backwards.

"I beg your pardon," he muttered, still without looking at her, and made as though to pass on.

Jean checked him with a hand on his sleeve. She had not watched the dogged sullenness of his face throughout yesterday to no purpose, and now, as her swift gaze searched it anew, she was convinced that something fresh had occurred to stir him. It was impossible for Jean to see a friend in trouble without wanting to "stand by."

"Nick, old thing, what's wrong?" she asked.

He stared at her unseeingly.

"Wrong?" he muttered. "Wrong?"

"Yes. Come in here and let's talk it out—whatever it is." With gentle insistence she drew him into her sitting-room. "Now," she said, when she had established him in an easy-chair by the open window and herself in another, "what's gone wrong? Are you still boiling over about that trick Sir Adrian played on Claire the day of the picnic?"

She spoke lightly—more lightly than the occasion warranted—of set purpose, hoping to reduce the tension under which Nick was obviously labouring. His face hurt her. The familiar lazy insouciance which was half its charm was blotted out of it by some heavy cloud tragic significance. He looked as though he had not slept for days, and his eyes, the gaiety burnt out of them by pain, seemed sunken in his head.

He stared at her blankly for a moment. Then he seemed to awaken to the meaning of her question.

Little Helps For This Week

"Your heavenly Father knoweth that ye have need of all these things."—Matthew vi. 32.

The dear God hears and pities all;
He knoweth all our wants;
And what we blindly ask of Him,
His love withholds or grants.

And so I sometimes think our prayers
Might well be merged in one;
And nest and perche, and hearth and church
Repeat, "Thy will be done!"
—John Greenleaf Whittier.

What Christ's prayer was, all true prayer must be; you must pray with the great prayer in sight. You must feel the mountains above you while you work upon your little garden. Little by little your special wishes and the eternal will of God will grow in harmony with one another; all conflict will die away, and the great spiritual landscape from horizon to horizon will be but one.—Lucy Larcom.

How Outsiders See B.C. Political Affairs

Winnipeg Free Press.

"That the Tolmie administration lost ground during the recent session of the Legislature was patent to everyone, and even to the members of the government, when that body rose.

"To explain all the things that happened during the session to hurt the government would be an impossible task within the scope of this article. Everything went wrong. To begin with, the Premier was ill when the House opened and was an absentee for several weeks. It was expected he would retire and that there would be a reorganization of the government, possibly with W. J. Bowser, the former Conservative Premier, at its head. But the Premier returned to his seat towards the close of the session and definitely announced his determination to stick to his post. Many Conservatives were disappointed with Dr. Tolmie's decision, their personal liking for him as a man being subservient to the fear that he is too good-natured to deal with those of his colleagues who have made his government unpopular.

"Chief of these without a doubt is Hon. William Atkinson, a political nonentity whom Dr. Tolmie placed at the head of the Department of Agriculture when more able men were available. As a consequence the administration of the affairs of this important department has been marked by a dumbness that has angered the members of the farming communities, irrespective of their political leanings. The most outspoken critic of the minister and his works have been prominent Conservative agriculturists who have publicly stated that they look back with longing to the days wheu Hon. E. D. Barrow, the former able and popular minister of agricultnre, was in charge of the department. When appointed Atkinson got off on the wrong foot with the farmers by dismissing the deputy minister, Dr. David Warnock, a former federal member of parliament for Pincher Creek, Alberta, and a most efficient and popular deputy.

"Having made a major error to start with Atkinson has kept right on doing the wrong thing. Under his administration grants to farm associations, which in Manitoba and other provinces have been reduced, were completely wiped out. Their activities were crippled. The 'massacre' of agriculture estimates at Ottawa has been mild compared with what has happened at Victoria, while the minister has made no attempt to save the agricultural department of the University of British Columbia from being almost wholly dismantled.

"Shortage of revenue has also forced acfion by Hon. Joshua Hinchliffe, minister of education, which has been unpopular, more especially a fifty per cent reduction in the grant to the University of British Columbia, following a heavy cut last year. As a consequence of this heavy onslaught on university finances it is claimed that the university will drop from the status of a first-class institution to that of a third or fourth rate college. Students staged a battle against the heavy reduction and 60,000 electors signed petitions of protest, but the government was adamant in its refusal not to grant even the additional $40,000 with which the university authorities said they could get along.

"While the agricultural and educational developments were such as to cause an uproar, it was mild as compared with the criticism unloosed by the investigation into the government's handling of the unemployment situation, following charges that the Dominion authorities han not fulfilled their promises to the provincial government and counter charges from Ottawa that the administration of relief funds in British Columbia had been attended by extravagance. The inquiry was conducted by a committee of the Legislature which applied a thick coat of whitewash to the B.C. activities after the Liberal members of the committee had refused to have anythi~g to do with the framing of the report on the score that the committee had not carried out its instruetions and that the conduct of the inquiry had been unfair.

"The climax of the unemployment situation was reached when Major Harold Brown, president of the Vancouver Board of Trade, addressing a business gathering in Vancouver, stated that, after viewing the performances of the committee, he believed a witness would be 'crucified' who told the truth. Promptly summonsed to Victoria by Mr. Twigg, chairman of the committee, Major Brown declined to retract his statements, saying that he was performing a public service in giving expression to the general feeling of the business community and other people. The committee in its report censured Major Brown, whereupon the Vancovver Province said that the committee in censuring the major censured the people of the provinc and has been responsible for "as fine a piece of political stupidity as one could wish to find."

"Other developments of the session which will hurt the Tolmie government include the decision to wipe out all exemptions for unmarried persons in collecting the one per cent general income tax; the transfer of 50 per cent of the cost of certain social services to the municipalities; the continuance in operation of a three-man Liquor Board, although it had been announced that two of the commissioners would be retired, and the passing of a redistribution bill by which the membership of the Legislature was reduced from 48 to 47—a futile gesture, following a promise of something more effective.

"One member of the government only has been the recipient of praise, the Hon. J. W. Jones, minister of finance, who is generally creditek with making a real effort to balance the budget and to initiate a much needed period of retrenchment in public expenditures. There is no real expectation, however, that the budget will balance, even if the anticipated income is realized, as no provision was made in it for unemployment relief or for the fire-fighting expenditures which each season run into large figures. At the best, it is thought last year's deficit of almost five millions will be pulled down to a couple of million.

Legion Reunion Great Success

Three Bugle and Pipe Bands Provide Music—Unfavorable Reduces U.S. Attendance but Much Larger Local Turnout

With cloudy and chilly weather prevailing on Saturday the turnout of American Legion members and their friends for the third international reunion at Creston was not up to the standard of 1931, but the attendance of local residents was on a larger scale, and with the Nelson bugle and pipe bands taking part in the exercises the day (so far as the visitors were concerned) proved to be quite the most satisfactory of the trio of these get-togethers that have been staged to date.

Quite promptly on 4.30 the parade marched off from the Creston View tourist park, on request of the visitors the Creston Post members, headed by Nelson bugle band of 25 pieces along with the Nelson Kilty band of half a dozen pipers were in the van, followed by the Bonners Ferry, Idaho, Post headed by their bugle corps and behing them came the Sandpoint Legion Post with their equally efficient bugle corps at their head. Behind the Sandpoint vets. came American Legion members from Coeur d'Alene and other points in Idaho and Washington. The parade made its way as fa west as the Presbyterian Church and return to the monument at Barton Avenue, where H. G. Rice, commander of the Idaho First District Council, took charge of affairs, which opened with the invocation by Rev. T. Scott, chaplain of Creston Legion post.

Col. Fred Lister, M.P.P. spoke briefly in a characteristic address of welcome, and this was replied to in felicitous terms by H. Dworshak, district commander of the Idaho Legion, who spoke feelingly of the part played and sacrifices of the Canadian forces in the great war and was equally practical in his references to the splendid international spirit stimulated by such gatherings as these.

Mrs. Martha Ramsay, president of the Idaho American Legion Auxiliary, to whom had been assigned the pleasant duty of presenting the plaque showing the names of Creston Valley mothers who had lost sons in the great war, regretted that the plaque had not been received by them from the designers, but would be forwarded as soon as completed. In a brief address she brought greetings from the gold star mothers of the republic to the south, and in apdropriate terms the greetings were acknowledged by Mrs. H. Truscott on behalf of the local Legion.

The closing features of the gathering were particularly impressive. Last Post was sounded by the entire Nelson bugle band, followed by Taps by both bugle corps from Idaho. Then came the lament by the pipers; Reveille by two of the Nelson buglers, and the national anthem in which all joined.

The procession then reformed and paraded back to the auto park where the Dutch lunch and the usual informal hospitality was dispensed on a lavish scale. At 8 p.m., a crowd that over taxed the capacity of the spacious Park pavilion was in evidence for the dance, where the ladies and all local ex-service men were guests of the American Legion members. Music was by the Idaho Stompers orchestra and a highly enjoyable evening is reported by all. An outstanding feature was the one square dance, the music for which was supplied y the kiltie band.

On Sunday morning there was quite a good turnout—particularly of local returned men—for the drumhead service in front of Christ Church, which was in charge of Rev. T. Scott, the Nelson bugle band furnishing music for the parade to and from the service, and the pipers playing a voluntary to summon the men to the parade to service.

A Message From The Prince

In January of this year, the Prince of Wales addressed a message to the youth of Great Britain at a large meeting held in the Royal Albert Hall, London, England. That message is just as applicable to the youth of Canada as it is to the youth of the Old Land, and we, therefore, reproduce the speech, in part, as follows:

Youth cannot long remain a spectator of life, it will only be a short time before the work of the world will be placed on your shoulders to carry. Many tasks wait for your help; knowledge to be discovered, open spaces to be peopled, natural resources to be developed, sickness to be conquered, and wrongs to be righted. With these high quests bfore you, you will realize that the mere acquisition of material things is not in itself the fulfilment of an individual or a national purpose, and is as little, compared with the satisfaction derived from your own effort, especially when that effort advances human welfare and happiness.

I want you to understand that we are not just facing a few months of "grin and bear it," but that we must get into training for a long period of work—hard work and effort, sustained despite possible discouragements. You must be prepared, as others have been before, to enlist "for the duration," without asking how much may in the long run be required of you.

You cannot hope to influence directly the trend of international affairs, but close at hand is a domestic problem, vast and baffling if looked at in the mass, though easier to help when broken up into individual pieces. It is made up of men and women, boys and girls. I am, as you will have guessed, thinking of unemployment. I am thinking now neither in terms of economics nor of politics but of each member of the unemployed population as a single, separate personality, beset by depression, labouring under a sense of frustration and futility—a blank wall in front of him which he can neither climb over nor scramble round. My appeal here is not to statesmen, nor even to philanthropists, but to all those who are in work to play the part of neighbour and friend to the man out of work. That is the open road of duty and a short cut to happiness all round. There is no central machinery here in London that can provide a substitute for the good neighbour.

The enemy today is depression and apathy. Let us attack them with two of our old-fashioned characteristics—good sense and good humour. I believe there are groups of the unemployed here and there, dead sick of prolonged idleness, who are themselves feeling out toward ways of giving their unhired labour in co-operative effort for the help of others in need. It is up to us to back such attempts with every possible support. Get together wherever this burden lies heaviest, face up to the most urgent local need, and see if the community on the spot cannot make its own self-directed contribution toward this vast problem. So far as is humanly possible let us break it up into little pieces and refuse to be browbeaten into paralysis by its size. I am talking, I repeat, neither on the economic nor on the political plane, but on the humane plane of simple friendship in those places where the clouds are darkest, where the pits are closed or the furnaces damped down. What matter if some trifling blunder is committed here or some project falls there. The very attempt of the community to achieve some social betterment for the sake of the workless in their midst will lift the general level of hope and make easier every national solution by statesmen and economist.

The world passed into a new age with the end of the Great War. Never was a new age born in greater agony, nor in a more difficult environment for healthy and normal growth. What we make of it as a democracy is of vital concern not only to ourselves but to the whole world.

The message that I have tried to give you is a twofold one:—First, for a fresh response to national service, for a greater spirit of unselfish and adventurous helpfulness in the midst of problems which our ablest men find difficult to unravel.

The second point is that the opportunity for service is at our door—in our own village, in our own town.

Canadian Tobacco Exports

Dominion Largest Exporter In Empire Of Tobacco To Great Britain

Canada in the first four months of 1932 has definitely established herself as the largest exporter among countries of the Empire of unmanufactured tobacco to Great Britain.

From January to April, a report of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows, Canada exported 6,863,315 pounds of tobacco compared with 2,809,766 pounds for the same period of 1930. The total imports into Great Britain aggregated 48,236,021 pounds for the four months, with British Empire countries supplying 10,075,085 pounds.

Canadian Bacon For Britain

Mother Country Buys More Bacon From Canada Than From U.S.

Great Britain is at present buying more bacon from Canada than from the United States. A report issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows that imports of bacon into Great Britain from Canada, not including hams, in the first four months of this year totalled 5,727,500 pounds. In 1930 the imports were 3,713,700 pounds, but they dropped to 469,500 pounds in the same period of 1931.

In the first four months of 1930, British imports from the United States amounted to 25,811,000 pounds. This dropped in the same period of 1931 to 8,925,900 pounds, and in 1932 to 2,569,700.

Will Use Bay Route

Famous French Grain Firm Will Make Big Shipment Of Wheat

Dreyfus, famous French grain firm, has purchased a quarter of a million bushels of wheat in western Canada, that will be shipped this season over the Hudson Bay route to France, it was definitely learned from official sources. Through a New York agency the French firm has completed the purchase of the grain and gave the first sign of completion between important grain firms over the use of the new Bay route in shipping grain to European ports. Already nearly two million bushels have been shipped to Churchill for the Continental Grain Company. This group will export at least one million bushels this summer.

L. B. Cusick, Canadian president of the Continental Grain Company, is making a strong effort to obtain cargoes for the four or five boats his company will bring into Churchill this summer for the shipment of their grain.

"If a reasonable amount of incoming cargo can be obtained and the insurance rates lowered slightly, the Hudson Bay route is a cinch," he declared in an interview.

"We firmly believe the insurance rates will be cut this summer, and we expect the people of western Canada to support their new seaport to the extent of obtaining incoming cargoes," he said.

Trains On Rubber Tires

Forerunner Of a New Era In Rail Comfort

The pneumatic-tired railroad coach which made a trial trip from Cleveland to Akron and return this week may easily prove a forerunner of a new era in rail comfort. Trunk lines are speeding up their schedules. Palace car builders are getting away from stereotyped interiors. The pounding of steel wheels on steel rails may ultimately be outlawed as needless.

Railroads in general have been slow to copy devices which give their competitors advantages in the race for business. Be the reasons what they may—and some of them, are obvious enough—rail lines have suffered by the motor industry's avid adoption and improvement of such things as rubber tires, lighter engines, less rigid schedules, better coach construction and other factors. A liberal public attitude toward the use of highways is part of the story.

Tires of rubber, and particularly air-inflated tires, have played a large part in a transportation evolution. If railroads can make use of them, as recent experimentation indicates they hope to, some check may be put on the trek of passengers from rail to highways.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Possibility Of Oil In Northern Alberta

Geologists Believe Ancient Rock Formations Are An Indication

Rock formations in the northern section of Alberta indicate possibilities of oil in commercial quantities. This opinion was expressed at Ottawa before the Royal Society of Canada when a number of geologists described the districts of Mountain Park, Peace River, Wainwright and Viking as containing marine sediments. This would indicate, they said, the district once formed a part of the vast ocean that covered what now forms the three prairie provinces. The rocky formations are about 150,000,000 years old.

Contract Bridge

By Hamlin B Hatch, Cavendish Club, Toronto

Systems In Contract

The average contract bridge player, at the present time is agog over the controversy raging around the different systems of playing. There are four principal systems now being exploited by their different sponsors. In order of importance they rank as follows:—

1st. The Approach-Forcing System (Sponsored by Culbertson).

2nd. The Official System (Sponsored by Lenz et Al).

3rd. The One Over One (Sponsored by Geo. Reith and The Knickerbocker Whist Club).

4th. The Vanderbilt Club (Sponsored by Harold Vanderbilt).

A system in Contract may be defined as an attempt to put into a form easy to learn, the methods the good card player have always used. This being so, it is certain that, as most card players use the same methods with slight variations, any system can differ from any other system only slightly. And this is so. The variations in all four systems are slight and the good contract player is, as a rule, familiar with all the systems, and can, if asked to do so, play any system his partner desires to play.

The Approach-Forcing System

The salient points of the Approach-Forcing System are as follows:—

1st. The opening bid of one which must have a minimum of 2½ honor tricks and four playing tricks, and may have a maximum of six honor tricks and seven or eight playing tricks.

2nd. The weak no trump takeout by the partner of the original bidder. This is made on a max mum of one and one-half honor tricks and a minimum of one honor trick, or in exceptional cases of less than one honor trick. The takeout denies normal support in suit originally bid and practically warns partner that for that particular deal, the partnership must be satisfied with partial score. Further it discloses the fact that, as a rule, the responding hand is balanced i.e., contains no void suit or singleton.

3rd. The Jump-Shift Response. This is a jump bid in a suit other than the suit originally bid and is a demand bid requiring the partnership to keep the bidding open until a game contract is arrived at. It is made by the responding hand usually on a minimum of two and one-half honor tricks, or sometimes less when the hand distribution is favorable.

4th. The Original Two Bid. Based on five and one-half honor tricks as a minimum and demands that bidding be kept open by partnership until game contract is arrived at. The tendency lately, by users of this system is to limit the two bid to hands which will make game with even less than one honor trick in partner's hand.

5th. The Jump Overcall. A jump bid made by opponents of original bidder and is a strong invitation to partner of the overcaller to keep the bidding open provided partner has the equivalent of one honor trick. If however the overcaller's partner has less than one honor trick he may pass.

6th. The Informative Double. A bid made as an overcall and demands a response from partner of doubler provided there is no intervening bid. It is usually made with strength in the major suits and is a fighting not a defensive bid. With the balance of strength in the hand of the doubler's partner, game is likely in the hand.

7th. The Overcall by the opponents of the suit bid originally by two of the same suit. If the opening bid is one heart and the opponents overcall with two hearts, such an overcall means control of the heart suit i.e. either a void in hearts, the singleton ace, the ace small, or the ace king or ace queen. This bid is the most powerful bid in the approach forcing system, is used definitely as a slam signal and practically guarantees game in any four card suit that the partner of the overcaller has.

The synopsis given above contains practically all the salient features of the Approach-Forcing System. Generally it may be said that in this system whenever there is a four card biddable suit in the hand, this suit is bid in preference to no trump. A biddable four card suit may be defined as one which contains two high honors, one of which must be the ace or king, and the other queen or jack. The no trump opening bid is made only when the hand contains two and one-half honor tricks, no four or five card biddable suit, and has a balanced pattern.

In the next article the main features of the other systems will be outlined.

DEFINITE HELP FOR DWELLERS IN APARTMENTS

Odorless way found to cook fish, cauliflower and cabbage

CANAPAR IS A PRODUCT OF HAMILTON FIRM

Lives there a woman, in apartment, duplex or home, who has not at some time or other reluctantly foregone fish, cabbage, and cauliflower because of the odors they give off when being cooked? Or who has not suffered from other people close by who cooked these foods regardless?

Canapar entirely does away with this annoyance. More than that, it actually improves flavor and food value. Cooking in Canapar parallels the famous French method of simmering and confining food and its flavours to the closed casserole.

Canapar comes in large sheets, in a handy-size package. When boiling vegetables you simply wet the sheet of Canapar and make a bag similar to a pudding bag. If you are steaming them you line your steamer with Canapar, arrange food and seasoning, and fold back corners of the Canapar to prevent steam from dripping back.

Boiled or steamed fish is particularly delicious done this way. No fishy odor in the kitchen, no gummy kettle to clean. When roasting meat, line the pan with Canapar. It prevents the fats and juices from burning, and eliminates scouring of the pan afterwards.

Canapar saves fuel. You can cook three vegetables simultaneously in the same saucepan with it, without intermingling of flavors. And it is very economical. Just rinse the sheet after using it, hang it on the towel rack to dry. Use it over and over again.

Lots of women use Canapar for a dish cloth—it is so silky and satisfactory and does not spread lint. This is a particularly good use if you happen to pierce the sheet of Canapar while testing the food during the cooking of it. Canapar is made by the makers of PARA-SANI the famous heavy waxed paper in the Green box.

MUTUAL GAINS EXPECTED FROM EMPIRE PARLEY

London, England.—Canada goes to the Imperial Economic Conference in Ottawa in July with the clear cut thought that there must be mutual gains and advantages to all component parts of "the greatest commonwealth of free peoples in the history of the world—the British Empire," Prime Minister R. B. Bennett declared here in addressing a banquet climaxing the ninth annual convention of the Western Ontario Conservative Association.

Speaking to 1,700 persons seated at dinner—the largest political banquet in the history of western Ontario—the Prime Minister dealt with matters of trade and commerce and with various aspects of the forthcoming Imperial Conference. "In July, next month," he said, "we gather together as partners to see how, as far as possible, we may keep our trade within this partnership. We comprise the greatest commonwealth of free peoples the world has ever known. We must trade to the advantage not of one but of all. There must be mutual gains and advantages. There must be mutual arrangements for the benefit of all parts of the empire. We need your help and assistance as the people of Canada. As a cross section of public opinion you are representative and we need behind us the collective weight of a solid public opinion."

Agreements must be reached at the Imperial Conference, declared the Canadian Prime Minister, that shall be to the perpetual mutual advantage of all parts of the empire.

Will Invest Millions In Gold Properties

Increase In Canada's Production Attracts British Mining Circles

Montreal, Que.—Nine million dollars of British, Dutch, and Swiss capital is on deposit in Geneva banks at present, awaiting investment in northern Quebec gold properties, stated A. H. Carlisle, British financier, during an interview here.

Fully 40 per cent. of the amount would be used for the purchase of Canadian mining equipment, while the balance was scheduled for prospecting work in connection with the opening up of new districts, he said. Actual work would start within two months.

Mr. Carlisle, who is representing the continental backers of the undertaking, stated that the steady increase in gold production in the first quarter of 1932 in both Quebec and Ontario had attracted much attention in British mining circles where the need of fostering the production of gold throughout the empire was considered of paramount importance.

It was observed on both occasions from the Canadian Pacific steamer "Princess Adelaide," the second time it provided a thrilling close-up by swimming right under the stern of the vessel.

Ottawa, Ont.—Four cavalry and two infantry regiments of the non-permanent active militia have been awarded the battle honor "North West Canada, 1885," according to announcement from the department of national defence here.

These regiments now perpetuate units of the old militia who took part in the Riel Rebellion. They are the 12th Manitoba Dragoons, the 16th Canadian Light Horse, the South Alberta Horse, the Manitoba Horse, the Winnipeg Light Infantry, and the Prince Albert Volunteers.

Economic Conference

Powers May Meet Around a Council Table In London

Washington.—The United States has responded favorably to a British suggestion that the world powers meet around a council table in London, England, to seek ways of alleviating economic distress.

Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon in London, was instructed to inform Great Britain that the United States thought such a conference "might be of real value in the present depression." He will make it plain, however, that his country will not discuss war debts and reparations.

Britain also is suggesting the conference to France, Italy and the other powers.

The British move for an economic conference follows by almost a year President Hoover's proposal for a moratorium on inter-governmental debts. Once again the world's economic plight has called forth extraordinary measures to meet it.

Object To Privy Council

Free State Republicans Resent Appeals To Highest Tribunal In Empire

Dublin, Ireland.—The Republican Government of the Irish Free State is drafting a bill to wipe out appeals to the judicial committee of the Privy Council, the highest tribunal in the empire.

The government, it is understood, hopes to submit the bill to the Dail Eireann before the summer adjournment on July 8. It is an adjunct to the proposals to withhold payment of the land annuities to Great Britain, and to abolish the parliamentary oath of allegiance to the crown.

The right of appeal to the Privy Council is already in effect virtually inoperative in the Free State.

Balloonists Make A Record Flight

U.S. Army Balloon No. 2 Lands Near Hatton, Saskatchewan

Hatton, Sask.—Dogged by adverse weather conditions throughout the long flight, United States army balloon No. 2, under command of Lieutenant Wilfred J. Paul, landed in a driving rain storm 14 miles north of here, winning the National Balloon race from Omaha, Nebraska, and probably setting a new world's duration record for ballons of its capacity.

Lieut. Paul and his co-pilot, Lieut. J. H. Bishop, of Scott Field, Ill., had only a vague idea of their whereabouts when they came to earth. In a make-shift shelter the two weary aeronauts curled up and slept until daybreak, when they set about dismantling the big ship which had not been damaged by the severe electrical storm.

On arrival here, Lieut. Paul told of his experiences on the trip. "We took off from Omaha at 7:30 p.m. May 30," he said, "sailing due north. Several severe lightning storms were narrowly averted during the first night, to avoid which it was necessary to expend a great deal of our ballast supply.

"The next morning found us still sailing in the storm area and above the clouds at an altitude of 12,000 feet. Rain was with us constantly and both Bishop and myself were soaking wet throughout the flight.

Oppose Tank Warfare

Outlawry Of Heavy Tanks Urged At Disarmament Conference

Geneva, Switzerland.—The outlawry of heavy tanks as offensive weapons of war, was urged before the land commission of the disarmament conference Wednesday, June 1, by Lord Stanhope, of Great Britain. He declared that Britain would be prepared to scrap all tanks of 25 tons or more, but favored the retention of lighter tanks for ordinary police work.

Hugh R. Wilson, United States delegate, criticized the commission for its inability to arrive at definitions that would draw a line between tanks and armored cars. Apparently political questions, he said, were dictating the attitude of the experts on this question.

Unanimous agreement was reached by the naval commission to extend the age of battleships from 20 to 26 years. The 26-year-age limit for aircraft carriers, was maintained, however, as well as existing age limits on other categories.

Asks Protection For Mines

Fernie, B.C.—An appeal by Lorne A. Campbell, of Rossland, to the Associated Boards of Trade of eastern British Columbia to "do something to help the coal towns of this section," featured the opening session of the 32nd annual convention. If the unfair competition of U.S. fuel oil for railway use was not counteracted, Mr. Campbell declared, the mines must soon close.

OATH ABOLITION MIGHT ISOLATE IRISH FREE STATE

Dublin, Ireland.—If the Republican Government's bill to abolish the parliamentary oath of allegiance to the king is passed, the Free State runs the risk of becoming a small, isolated state, Senator Bagwell, Independent and opponent of the government, told the senate during debate.

The Free State would be thrown back on her own resources, would be without credit in the civilized world and bereft of all the advantages of the British connection, Senator Bagwell warned.

Contrary to expectations the House was not filled when debate was resumed. There was no indication of any easing of the differences between government and opposition members over the bill and its consequences, one of which will be the elimination of further negotiations with Great Britain.

Senator Wilson, farmer representative and government supporter, argued that even if the oath were removed the king would remain in the constitution as a symbol of the commonwealth.

"I am not frightened by the threat of dire consequences if we pass the bill," declared Senator Johnson, leader of the Labor party. He asserted that far from violating the provisions of the Anglo-Irish treaty, the oath bill actually implemented that agreement.

During debate in the dail on financial resolution, former finance minister Ernest Blythe said many people who were living on incomes derived outside the Free State had left the country and many more intended leaving.

Wednesday night, June 1, it was learned the Dublin tobacco manufacturers, Gallagher, Limited, had given 200 employees a week's notice and had announced the firm would close down. The announcement said it would not carry on in the face of differential duty rates now included in the budget.

New Trade Agreement

United States and France Sign Pact Which Will Stimulate Business

Paris, France.—The United States and France have concluded a trade agreement which cleared the way for increased American imports and wiped out uncertainties against which United States business men have been forced to contend under the French quota system.

The accord grants the United States most favored nation treatment on imports now limited by quotas.

United States trade is said to have suffered about $2,500,000 as a result of the quotas. It was estimated that the agreement would recoup $500,000 of this loss.

Being Held At Border

Holiday Makers Detained At Victoria By United States Authorities

Victoria, B.C.—A number of holiday-makers from the United States who came to Victoria on Memorial Day excursions were held by United States Immigration Authorities here, waiting investigation of their right to return to the United States. Many former Britishers and Canadians took advantage of the holiday to return to Victoria, where they formerly resided. Some of them had entered the United States when regulations were not so strict, and because of long residence there, believed they had a right to remain.

Newspaper Advertising

Toronto, Ont.—One New York department store sold more than $95,000,000 worth of merchandise last year through the medium of newspaper advertising, which cost less than $2,000,000, C. H. Henry, local advertising man, told the Advertising and Sales' Club meeting here.
