VOL. XXIV. CRESTON, B. C., FRIDAY, AUGUST 5, 1932 No. 20

Apple Marketing Next Problem

Attention of Growers and Shippers Directed to Disposal of 1932 Crop—Okanagan Situation Chaotic.

With a fairly successful strawberry and raspberry season and good results from the black and red currants and gooseberries; with cherry returns to a certain extent clouded in gloom and uncertainty in this the 11th hour of 1932 cherry marketing, Creston and district is now entering the second phase of this year's crop movement. Small fruits are being replaced in public import nce by tomatoes and cucumbers and such like flora, while executives of the various and sundry fruit marketing agencies here have heaved sighs of relief at the conclusion of a somewhat hectic cherry marketing campaign, wherein many competing districts, organizations and individuals have stamped heavily over each other's toes in the effort to secure what could be obtained in the way of returns from a badly gutted prairie market.

For the time being fruit marketing executives are able to get a little sleep. After all, local growers of the delectable Creston cherry will realize something, and with so much of the harvesting done by family members it may be that prophecies of blue ruin and damnation current a month ago may prove not to be so bad after all. Taking it all in all and sizing it up by large and small, pool cars and l.c.l. and consigned shipments the average return hereabouts should be about one simoleon a crate. For some it may be better, and for some it may be less.

The outcome of tomatoes, etc., is on the laps of the Gods.

Attention is being centered to an increasing degree on the conditions affecting apples. Creston will have a fine crop of apples; so will the Okanagan and various points in the Kootenays. Hence there is some apprehension that apple selling in this year of grace will not be so hot.

In the Okanagan a scrap of huge proportions has been brewing for some time; it is now at a crescendo. Various papers in the dry belt have been spilling over into three column; and banner headlines. All of which indicates that they must be to a certain extent be getting rather hot and bothered about it in that neck of the woods.

It is pointed out the cherry deal has been an instance of what is likely to happen with apples. Fearing this, Associated Sales Service and the B. C. Fruit Shippers Ltd. favor the appointment of a quota adjudicator who would allot to each shipper his share of the daily sales, according to the tonnage controlled. This, it was considered, would put each shipper in the position of getting his share of the market and taking his share of the fruit which might have to be dumped or diverted. It was proposed that 100 per cent. cooperation along this line be obtained and that agreements be signed and bonds executed.

The Shippers' Council considered this unworkable, proposing as an alternative among other things that the council set fruit values but not fixed prices, also that the council take power to regulate that certain grades of any particular variety shall not be shipped in order to avoid a surplus. A bond or deposit from each member was proposed.

To the foregoing the Associated and B.C. Sales Shippers, retort that this plan will not work satisfactorily in that any agreements relating to values or prices had not been observed in the past because of evasions and secret rebates. And that's that.

In the meantime the apples are getting larger each day. If the problem is worked out in the immensely overshadowing Okanagan district satisfactorily, it will help this area; if the reverse is the case, it will mean much more of a scramble for local growers and affiliated marketing organizations with the devil taking the hindmost.

The wooden street crossing in front of the Bank of Commerce has been removed and replaced with a dirt filling.

School Walks Completed

By the end of last week the board walk surrounding the school was completed, effecting a big improvement. Width is eight feet. Walks were also put down connecting with those on the streets. All work was done by day labor, the job being divided equally among local carpenters.

Spokane Visitors Due Here Today

Creston Board of Trade and Bonners Ferry Chamber to be Hosts to Representatives of Spokane Chamber.

Following a visit here last Friday of four members of the Bonners Ferry chamber of commerce, the executive of the Creston board of trade is going ahead with arrangements for cooperating with the Bonners organization in the matter of assisting in entertainment of a delegation from the agricultural committee of the Spokane chamber of commerce on a visit to the Kootenay Valley today. (Friday)

The Spokane residents are scheduled to reach Bonners Ferry at 10:28, a.m., where automobiles with Bonners Ferry drivers and escorts will be available to start the trip. The expedition will head directly for Creston and a Dutch lunch will be ready for the visitors at suitable picnic grounds on the flats. Arrangements in this connection are in the hands of the board's executive. It is arranging for the guidance of the party to points of interest in and about Creston. The return trip will be made via Camp Lister to Porthill, where the river will be crossed to the west side and an inspection made of the reclamation farms in the area between Porthill and Bonners Ferry The latter point will be left by train at 6:39 p.m.

It is expected that about 30 will come in the Spokane delegation, and that the visitors from Bonners Ferry will be about the same in number. Many of them will be visiting the Valley for the first time, while others who have visited the Valley on previous occasions will be able to compare present conditions with several years ago when the reclamation districts south of the line were first organized.

"Members of the Spokane chamber of commerce have always been greatly interested in the development of the rich farm lands of the Kootenai Valley," E. A. Boyd, of the Boyd-Conlee Co., Spokane, said a few days ago, "and this interest was heightened recently when Prof. Ray Neidig, of the Consolidate Mining and Smelting company, speaking before the chamber, told of the results obtained by the use of the fertilizer which his company has distributed in the Valley. Many of the Spokane men are interested, directly or indirectly in farming operations, and Mr. Neidig's talk has turned their minds to the possibilities of using fertilizers in crop production. They want to see for themselves the advantages of its use."

K. V. Garage Changes

Cecil Moore and Charrles Cottrell took over the K. V. Garage here the first of the month. Both men are former Creston residents

For the past five years Mr. Moore has been in charge of the parts department of the Nelson Transfer Co., Nelson. Mr. Cottrell has been a mechanic in Kline's Auto Repair, Nelson, for a number of years. The two are well qualified garage men.

Much new equipment will be installed at the K. V. and service modernized.

Frothblowers vs Poleheavers

Baseball fans enjoyed a good game last Sunday when the Frothblowers and the Kitchener team batted it out on the local diamond. When the score was counted up the local team was found to have the best of the argument over the Poleheavers by a 6-2 score. Louis Anderson and Jim Scott were the batteries for Kitchener, with W. Fortin and C. Schade officiating for the Frothblowers.

Irrigation Loan For Wynndel

$ 30,000 Available From B. C. Conservation Fund—Work on Project Scheduled to Start This Fall.

With announcement from Victoria that the provincial government has consented to a loan of $30,000 to Wynndel irrigation district, assurance is now given that work on this highly important and most beneficial project can be under way this fall. It is officially stated that operations will be started in October.

The loan is from the provincial conservation fund. It was assented to last week by Lieutenant-Governor J. W Fordham Johnston, thus validating the order-in-council respecting it

Financial assistance to the Wynndel project was based on a favorable report by C. C. Kelly, soil expert, of the staff of the Consolidated M. and S. Co.

Outlay on the plant will be in the neighborhood of $35,000. The overhead sprinkling system will be utilized. Duck Creek, which has a heavy flow, will be dammed and the water will be carried by wood-stave and steel pipe lines to the laterals.

Nearly all growers in the immediate vicinity of Wynndel will benefit. Only a few whose ground lies at an altitude exceeding the 500-foot mark above the railway grade will not share in the water. Approximately 500 acres are involved.

Installation of dams and pipe lines will be such as to make development of hydro-electric power comparatively inexpensive whenever Wynndel determines to put in such a plant.

The irrigation district was set up by an order-in council last April.

Wynndel is unquestionably the leading strawberry producing community of the Kootenays, with a product ranging between $60,000 and $75,000 annually. With irrigation this output will be greatly increased and of greater value as it will enable growers to crowd vines ahead to a stronger growth following the burning subsequent to harvesting of each season's crop.

Regatta a Financial Success

Preliminary figures show that cash receipts of the Boswell regatta were approximately $400, and that after all expenses are taken care of a substantial balance will be available.

The committee wishes to express the thanks of its members for many generous contributions to the prize list. Such thanks are not only from the committee but on behalf of the general public of the regatta district.

Leading the prize list stands the beautiful total points trophy, a large silver cup presented by Col. Lister, M. P. P., and held jointly this year by Floyd Cummings and Jim Hughes with the score of 12 points each. A number of other choice cups and trophies, a large variety of merchandise and generous cash donations made possible a prize list offering splendid rewards to successful athletes. For such donations thanks are more specifically due the following:

Wynndel Fall Fair On September 21

Comprehensive Prize List Affords Broad Competitive Scope for District Fruit and Vegetable Growers.

While fall fairs are being very freely adandoned in other localities this season, the healthy condition of this section is demonstrated by the determination of the Wynndel Women's Institute to hold a fall fair—the initial event of its kind to take place in the strawberry metropolis of West Kootenay.

Date set is Sebtember 21, with the splendid Wynndel community hall as the scene of the exhibition. The showing will be a very complete one, it is anticipated, with a fine line of exhibits from various points in the district. A most cordial invitation has been extended to growers to enter their products in competition for a splendid series of merchandise and cash prizes.

The fruit section will have 17 classes for entry; vegetables, 18; farm produce, 10; home baking, 23; canning, 6; school 10; needlework, 18; poultry, 1. There will be a sports' program with a list of 15 events.

A strong committee of the Wynndel W. I. is hard at work getting final arrangements for the fair completed.

The following rules govern entrants:

Exhibitor's fees 50 cents, which includes free admission to hall.

Non-Exhibitor's admission 25 cents.

All entries from school children free.

All exhibits in every section must be in and arranged by 10 p.m. September 20, except cooking and poultry, which must be in by 9.30 a.m. September 21.

Intending Exhibitor's must fill in entry form provided and send it in to the Secretary, (Miss) Olga Hagen, Wynndel, by September 19.

"The Brat" Coming

In keeping with the popular demand for novelty on the screen, something new in the way of film entertainment is promised with "The Brat," which opens next Saturday at the Grand Theatre, with Sally O'Neil in the title role.

Whether this picture should be classified as a romantic comedy, or a comedy drama, or a dramatic romance, is hard to say. It has plenty of action, a joyous and "different" sort of love story, bits of sheer pathos, and dozens of hilariously funny situations—a melange that makes it thoroughly enjoyable, whatever difficulties it offers to classification.

A penniless cinderella from the Bowery is taken to the home of a wealthy author, who is looking for a heroine for his next novel. The girl's dual romance with the writer and his younger brother, the jealously her coming arouses in the two society girls who have already marked the author as the matrimonial prey, and the resulting complications all keep the interest at a high pitch.

Allan Dinehart, noted Broadway stage star, who makes his screen debut in the film, enacts the role of the author and Frank Albertson that of the brother, while June Collyer and Virginia Cherrill play the two society girls. William Collier, Sr., is also featured while Farrell Macdonald, Mary Forbes, Albert Gran, Louise Makintosh and Margaret Mann complete a distinguished supporting cast. John Ford directed this Fox Film version of the original stage play by Maude Fulton. In addition to his role in the picture Collier also acted as stage director.

One of the finest window exhibits of aluminum ware ever displayed in Creston is on view this week in the premises of Creston Hardware store. The display is very attractive and was neatly placed under the artistic eye of Manager Sinclair.

Police Nab Four For Store Robbery

Camera Film Furnishes Unique Bit of Evidence at Preliminary Held at Court House Here Yesterday.

Thanks to the efficiency of the provincial poiice there has been a general roundup of the gentlemen believed to be concerned in the recent epidemic of burglaries in this vicinity. Last week Charles W. Garrow and Mike Melinchuk were taken into custody at Kimberley, while on Monday Leo Gillett and Oliver Ellis were arrested at Vernon.

It appears that on Tuesday of last week H. Dewhirst was driving his car to Chapman camp and collided with an auto driven by Garrow and Melinchuk near that point. As they were strangers they were questioned closely and acting on advices from here their car was searched. A quantity of articles tallying with goods disappearing after the robbery of the Creston Drug & Book store was found. Constable Hazzard proceeded to Kimberley and identified the goods. Other material found included a bunch of tools that had been reported as missing from a camp up the road east of Creston,

An outstanding feature of the case was the assistance given in a photographic way by means of one of the stolen cameras. It appears that the men concerned were rather proud of their exploit, for they loaded one of the cameras taken from the drug store with film, stood in a row with various articles of adornment and beauty in the shape of watches, etc. on their persons, and had a photograph taken. Under development the film came out splendidly, disclosing the fact that four were concerned in the festivities, it is claimed.

The robberies complained of took place about two weeks ago, a quality of merchandise being taken from Creston Drug & Book store, some $20 from the C.P.R. depot and a number of tools from a road camp.

The quartette appeared before Stipendiary Magistrate Mallandine for a preliminary as this issue of The Review was going to press.

Of the 15 Grade 11 students, all were successful in chemistry, some with very high marks, and 12 obtained standing in physics. The Grade 12 student succeeding in completing his course, except for two supps.

The Creston High School class averaged 75.5 in Chemistry as compared with a provincial average of 62.4, and 56.4 in physics as compared with provincial average of 49.8.

Creston listeners-in on on the radio broadcast Tuesday of the weekly luncheon of the Spokane chamber of commerce was interested to hear an announcement regarding the visit here today of a delegation of the agricultural committee of the Spokane chamber. Announcement was made by Secretary Ford, who spoke interestingly of the attractions of this section.

Safe Cars And Reckless Drivers

Between six and seven o'clock on Tuesday morning is the safest hour in the week to ride in an automobile. The most dangerous hour is between five and six o'clock on Sunday afternoon. Automobile accidents happen most frequently in broad daylight, on clear days, when roads are dry. If the driver of the car is between 20 and 30 years old, the chances of an accident taking place are 81 per cent. greater than if he is between 40 and 50.

These are some surprising and little known facts about automobile accidents brought out by an analysis recently completed by United States insurance statisticians. They relate, of course, to that country, but inasmuch as conditions in Canada and the United States are so similar in so many respects it is possible that we would not be far astray if, in the absence of detailed information relating to Canada, these figures were applied to this Dominion as well.

What are the causes behind the rapidly increasing hazards of motoring? In at least nine out of ten automobile accidents, the cause can be traced directly to an error made either by a driver or a pedestrian. Only once in 20 times is the machine definitely at fault. The commonest mistakes made by a driver, leading to a fatality, are driving off the roadway, exceeding the speed limit for the time and place, and going ahead without having the right of way. Other important factors in accidents caused by drivers are: Reckless driving, driving on the wrong side of the road, skidding, cutting in, passing on a curve or hill, and failing to signal properly. Left turns are far more dangerous than right turns.

The "weaving driver," "the speeder," and the "road hog" are the three types of motorists who cause most highway accidents. Among pedestrians, those who cross the street in the middle of the block, walk in the direction of traffic on country roads, or step out into the street from behind parked cars are responsible for a majority of accidents in which those on foot are struck by passing autos.

In only 56,330 cases, out of 1,281,400 accidents studied, were the crashes due to mechanical failure. When the cars were at fault, defective brakes led the list as a cause. In the order named, other defects contributed to the accident toll: Lack of chains on slippery roads, blowouts and punctures, one or both headlights out, defective steering gear, glaring headlights, taillights out or obstructed.

If you ask most people under what road conditions a majority of auto accidents occur, you will probably be told: "Icy roads" or "wet streets." As a matter of fact, the insurance company experts found that only three per cent. of the 1931 accidents occurred on icy surfaces and less than 16 per cent. on wet surfaces. In 81 per cent. of all mishaps, the roads were dry. Also, 85 out of every 100 accidents resulting in deaths occurred under clear weather conditions. And most accidents happened in daylight.

When a motorist starts on a ride, if he meets with an accident, the chances that it will occur before he gets out of the driveway are one to 200. The chances of its occurring on a railroad crossing are slightly greater; of its happening on a bridge, one to 100; of its taking place on a curve, one to 25; on a state highway, one to five, and at a street crossing, one to two and a half.

What kind of drivers are most frequently in accidents: Young or old, experienced or inexperienced? Figures compiled in the survey upset some popular beliefs. For instance, they show that more than 91 per cent. of all drivers involved in accidents which resulted in fatalities or injuries were experienced motorists with a year or more practice at the wheel. Over-confidence is given as a major reason for the high percentage of experienced motorists who figured in mishaps.

So far as age is concerned, the most hazardous time for automobile driving is under 20. The accident record of drivers under this age, last year, was 39 per cent. worse than the average. The record of those between 20 and 30 was 29 per cent. worse than the average; between 30 and 40, three per cent. better than the average; between 40 and 50, 29 per cent. better; and beyond 50, 36 per cent. better.

While it is still a disputed point whether the increasing average speed of automobiles and the lifting of the speed limit on country roads is causing more accidents, the investigation shows undeniably that the stepping up of speeds has increased the seriousness of accidents when they have occurred. Incidentally, too, researches just made by the Chicago Motor Club reveal that travelling a mile a minute is three times as expensive as motoring 45 miles an hour. The extra 15 miles an hour trebles the upkeep costs of the car.

With such facts in mind as have been established by this survey, motor car drivers should govern themselves accordingly, and by so doing they may save themselves much sorrow. First, check over your car for defects which it has been shown are the chief cause of accidents resulting from mechanical weaknesses. Then note the principal causes of accidents due to the driver himself, where and when they are most likely to take place, and the steps that should be taken to prevent them taking place. If an accident takes place, the responsibility is, first and foremost, your own; secondly, the driver of the other car; thirdly, the condition of your own car; fourthly, the condition of the other fellow's car. Therefore, it is up to you to prevent an accident.

Unusual Guest Of Honor

Skeleton Made London University Dinner Creepy Affair

A man who died a century ago was the guest of honor at a dinner given at University College, London, England.

He was Jeremy Bentham, great philosopher and lawyer, who was one of the founders of the college.

He wore the same clothes as he did a century ago, and looked on with tacit approval at the 20 distinguished professors, economists, philosophers, and lawyers who toasted him.

The eerie dinner was given to celebrate the hundredth anniversary of his death. In his will he had expressed the hope that his disciples gathered together to discuss his great work, would have his skeleton in their midst.

For years the skeleton has sat on a chair in a glass case, dressed in his own clothes, with the skull at his feet, and a wax effigy of his face in its proper place.

The distinguished gathering drank to his health, and then proceeded to discuss his great ideas which have become a part of our legal and moral standards.

It was Jeremy Bentham who said, "The greatest happiness for the greatest numbers."

Appointed Acting President For C.N.R.

S. J. Hungerford, One Of Canada's Best Known Railroad Operating Officers

With the resignation of Sir Henry Thornton as Chairman and President of the Canadian National Railways, effective August 1, Mr. Hungerford, Operating Vice-President, has been appointed by the Board of Directors, as Acting President of the Company.

Samuel J. Hungerford is one of Canada's best known railroad operating officers. His experience has ranged, in more than 45 years, from the humble position of machinist's apprentice, where he commenced in 1886, to that of Vice-President in charge of Operation, Maintenance and Construction of Canada's largest railroad system, the Canadian National Railways.

Born in Bedford, Que., sixty years ago, S. J. Hungerford entered railroading as an apprentice with the Southeastern Railroad, later part of the C.P.R., at Farnham, Que. Completing his apprenticeship he worked as machinist at many points in Quebec, Ontario, and Vermont, and in 1894 was appointed Chargeman at Windsor Street Station, Montreal. From 1897 Mr. Hungerford worked as assistant foreman, locomotive foreman and general foreman at Farnham, Megantic and McAdam Junction, and in 1901 was transferred to Cranbrook, B.C., as locomotive foreman with the Canadian Pacific. From Cranbrook, he moved in 1903 to Calgary as master mechanic of the Canadian Pacific's western division, and in the following year was made superintendent of the locomotive shops at Winnipeg, becoming in 1908 superintendent of shops.

In 1910, Mr. Hungerford joined the Canadian Northern Railway, as superintendent of rolling stock with headquarters at Winnipeg and in 1915 he moved to Toronto in the same position. In 1917 Mr. Hungerford became general manager of the Eastern Lines, Canadian Northern Railway, and in the following year was named Assistant Vice-President, Operating, Maintenance and Construction Departments of the Canadian National Railways with headquarters at Toronto. With the taking over of the Grand Trunk Pacific lines, Mr. Hungerford, in October, 1920, became Vice-President in charge of Operating and Maintenance Departments of the Canadian National and Grand Trunk Pacific Railways and two years later, in October, 1922, he was made Vice-President and General Manager of these lines, with headquarters at Toronto, in which position he continued until his appointment, in February, 1923, as Vice-President in charge of Operation, Maintenance and Construction of the Canadian National System, with headquarters at Montreal.

Railroading conditions have altered vastly since the days when S. J. Hungerford commenced service as an apprentice at Farnham in 1886. Then, woodburning locomotives were still in use; cars were coupled by the old "links and pins" and airbrakes were unknown. Hours of work were long and pay was small, and apprentice training systems were not brought to the stage where they are today when every effort is made to educate and encourage the boys to learn while they earn and fit themselves for better jobs.

Locomotives of 1886 were pygmies as compared with the 6100, 4100 and the 5700 classes of engines used today, on the Canadian National System, and the trains they hauled were mere toys compared with the huge freight loads and all-steel passenger trains which are now operated. Practices of handling locomotives in shops and on the road have altered with the growth in size of locomotives which have had to be "shopped" and many of the improvements in shop practices in Canada have developed under the watchful eye of S. J. Hungerford, who has always held the admiration of those who worked with him because he knew every phase of the work so thoroughly himself.

BELIEVES WHEAT TARIFF WOULD BENEFIT CANADA

Winnipeg, Man.—It is not entirely true that the grain trade of Canada and western grain growers consider a preferential tariff in favor of Canadian wheat in the British market would be of no advantage to Canada, according to James R. Murray, general manager of the Alberta Pacific Grain Company Limited, and at one time executive of the United Grain Growers.

In a statement, Mr. Murray said:

"It is ridiculous to suggest, as press despatches from Ottawa during the past few days indicate, that the entire grain trade of Canada and grain growers of the west consider that a preferential tariff in favor of Canadian wheat in the British market would be of no advantage to Canada.

"Confidential briefs, indicating such a view, may have been submitted to the Dominion Government by the authorized spokesmen of various bodies, but it is absurd to assume there is no contrary opinion among those they purport to represent. The official representations made by grain trade spokesmen are not the views of all grain dealers any more than the wheat pools and provincial government express the views of all farmers in the west.

"Almost everyone can agree that a quota system would be cumbersome and useless, but a preferential tariff is a different matter. Personally, I believe the free entry of Canadian wheat into the British market, by far the biggest importing market in the world, with a duty against non-empire wheat, would be a distinct advantage in marketing our Canadian crop and over a period of years would assist in obtaining better prices for our western grain growers.

"Considering the almost prohibitive tariffs against all wheat imports now in effect in all European countries, I believe there is much to be gained and nothing lost by such a preference.

"It seems to me unfortunate, particularly at this time, when wheat growers in western Canada need all the assistance and encouragement they can get, that spokesmen who at best supposedly represent less than half the farmers in the west, should take the position that a preferential tariff on our wheat in the British market is a matter of supreme indifference to them.

"Whatever the views of our western farmers may have been on this matter 15 or 20 years ago, I do not believe they are today indifferent to the advantages that would accrue to them from such a preference.

"I believe that if the Dominion Government can, in exchange for tariff concessions on British manufactures entering the Canadian market they will accomplish something of great benefit to the whole of Canada and will earn the thanks of the majority of farmers and business men in western Canada."

Soviet Restrictions Against Sales Removed

Peasants May Sell Products With Exception Of Grain

Moscow, Russia.—Soviet authorities announce a new important step in the direction of removing official restrictions against sales by Russian peasants of their own products.

Hereafter all peasants living within a distance of about 30 miles of Moscow are freed from contracts which heretofore obligated them to deliver their produce to state co-operative organizations at fixed prices.

An exception was made regarding grain. Grain contracts will remain in operation.

The only reservation is that those peasants who have not joined the collective farms must carry out 50 per cent. of their contracts for potato deliveries.

Transients Journey East

Calgary Unemployed Leave For Harvest Fields Of Saskatchewan and Manitoba

Calgary, Alberta.—Calgary's transient unemployed situation was relieved somewhat when Royal Canadian Mounted Policemen permitted a number of the workless wanderers to journey eastward to harvest fields in Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

It was learned, however, the men were still not permitted to journey past Winnipeg. Only those the police felt sure were destined to harvest jobs were allowed to leave Calgary via "the rods."

Gorgulov Found Guilty

Assassinator Of President Paul Doumer Must Pay Penalty

Paris, France.—Dr. Paul Gorgulov was found guilty of assassinating President Paul Doumer, of France, at the close of his trial.

Witnesses, telling of Gorgulov's life, said he had to struggle against frequent hysterical outbursts.

Gorgulov protested violently when one alienist said that while not mentally deranged he could not be called entirely normal.

Ivan Lazareff, a Russian laborer, declared on the stand that Gorgulov had been a member of the old Russian cheka, or secret police, and testified that Gorgulov and other members of the cheka captured him on one occasion and tortured him, twisting his arms and beating him, burning his arms and bending back his fingers until they broke.

Two of the defence alienists said Gorgulov unquestionably was insane.

Five River Drivers Drown

Boat Capsized When It Was Sucked Into Rapids

Deux Riviers, Ont.—Four of a party of nine river drivers, employed at sweeping on the Ottawa River for the Upper Ottawa Improvement Company, perished when their boat was sucked into the eddy of the True Rapids and capsized as they were endeavoring to run the turbulent part of the river. Another member of the party is not accounted for and it is feared that he met the same fate. Three managed to cling to the upturned boat and reached the shore safely while another swam to shore.

Wide-Spread Plot

Unearth Plan To Wreck Banks In United States

Chicago.—Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank of Chicago, said he had reports from practically every large city in the United States concerning a plot to wreck banks by circulating unfounded rumors against them.

Informed of an investigation at Pontiac, Mich., into such a plot, said to have been directed by a radical group interested in fomenting a social revolution, Traylor said the same tactics had been used in Chicago.

"There is no doubt," Traylor said, "but that runs on Chicago banks were caused by circulation of rumors by radically interested persons. Anonymous telephone calls were used in attempts to cause panic among depositors of even the largest and strongest banks.

"Reports were received in Chicago from many other cities where the same system was used. I am of the belief that the plot against banks was nation-wide."

Estimating the Crop

Grain Experts Talk Of 430,000,000 Yield This eSason

Winnipeg, Man.—Grain experts who have just returned from a crop inspection tour of western Canada, said that conditions at July 20 indicated a prairie wheat crop estimated at 430,000,000. slightly below the 10-year average of 450,000,000 bushels.

Extreme heat during the past 10 days and lack of rain in parts of central and southern Saskatchewan may cause a slight revision of these figures, they stated, but on the whole crop conditions were reported to be fairly good.

Slight deterioration has taken place in southern Saskatchewan in areas which suffered from drought last year, and rainfall is needed if the standard of the crop is to be maintained, they said. Conditions in Alberta, northern Saskatchewan and Manitoba were found to be very good.

TRADE TREATY WITH S. AFRICA EXPECTED SOON

Ottawa, Ont.—Negotiations between Canada and South Africa since the opening of the Imperial Economic Conference have been so successful that a trade agreement between them is expected in two weeks. It was made clear that this treaty will not conflict with the broader negotiations of the conference.

Experts from the Department of Trade and Commerce, which is under Hon. H. H. Stevens, are meeting with the advisers of the South African delegation and smoothing out the difficulties. They are optimistic that an agreement can be arrived at which will greatly increase the trade between the two countries.

Canada has been seeking for some time to develop trade with South Africa, and this year is buying some 60,000 tons of sugar from that country. There is also hope of increasing the importations of pineapples, wool, oranges, Indian corn, and sisal, a type of hemp cordage.

The balance of trade between the two countries has been considerably in favor of Canada. In the last calendar year she sold South Africa goods to the value of $9,202,200, and bought from her to the value of $4,416,400.

In the fiscal year ending March 31, 1931, Canada sold South Africa: wheat, $2,195,300; rubber tires, $1,027,400; newsprint, $1,004,500; automobiles, $2,023,600; farm machinery, $630,400; electrical goods, $400,600; flour, $275,400; binder twine, $79,400; wood products, $300,000; apples, $49,100; rubber boots and shoes, $144,000; canned fish, $121,000; wrapping paper, $400,000. There was also an extensive list of miscellaneous goods in which it is hoped to increase the sales. Lumber is looked upon as one of the products in which there is considerable possibility.

At the present time South Africa enjoys the British preferential tariff in goods coming into Canada.

Outlines Air Mail Service

Iceland Route Offers Advantages Says Captain Von Gronau

Montreal, Que.—An air mail service from Europe to the Pacific Coast was briefly outlined by Captain Wolfgang von Gronau in an interview with the Canadian Press.

"The steamships are so fast now we can offer little competition between Europe and New York," Captain von Gronau said. "But a service direct from Europe via Iceland, Greenland and across the continent to the Pacific Ocean with intermediate stops should offer many advantages and a great saving of time. It is to study such a project that we have made this present flight.

He said he had been in touch with the Royal Canadian Air Force for information about flying conditions and routes in western Canada. The captain was glad to hear his gasoline had arrived safely at Prince Rupert, B.C.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, AUG. 5

SEEKING ANOTHER WHITE ELEPHANT

At a time when every effort is claimed to be required to conserve national financial resources, it is hard to figure out just why Ottawa should wish to get tied in on such a costly and unnecessary undertaking as the St. Lawrence waterways project.

Canada has a huge elephant of the white (or is it red?) variety in the shape of the Canadian National. Now it seems that a mate is sought for it in the waterways deal.

Even the suggestion that the electrical power to be developed has little value; the east has more power on tap than it knows what to do with for a decade or two to come. Existing transportation facilities are more than ample for all requirements for the next generation. Present agencies should be given a chance to survive instead of facing them with added competition when such competition will not be worth a continental to either consumers or producers.

If there is any benefit on minor points, the States will get most of it if the proposed deal is ratified by the U. S. Senate. Fortunately, it is most likely the worthy senators will give it the six months' hoist on general principles.

GIVE US A CHANGE PLEASE!

The Kidd report, advance information indicates, will favor reduction of B. C. constituencies to about 14.

If redistribution is effected to such a drastic extent, it is a matter for wonder just where Creston will come out in the shuffle.

This numerically important but politically footballed area has from the beginning of things been shoved around in a most indiscriminate manner in redistribution from time to time. It has successively been a part of Ymir, Kaslo and Nelson ridings.

In order to complete the rounds properly, provided any action is taken along the lines of the Kidd report as to redistribution, might it be respectfully suggested that Creston be tied in with say Comox-Atlin or Lillooet. Such a shift would easily make it rank as the most cosmopolitan section politically of the province.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

With the recent Democratic and Republican three-ring circuses figuring as past history, immediately ensuing events in the big republic centre on the activities of political stalwarts of the old line parties.

The outcome of the big scrap is already settled. Whether Democrats or Republicans win out, control will remain in the hands of the Hebrew bankers of Manhattan. Hebrew financiers will continue to pull the financial molars of the Gentiles, in retaliation, no doubt, for the Jewish tooth pulling indulged in so frequently and enthusiastically by our Gentile progenitors of a thousand years ago. Thus again are the scriptures fulfilled: "For the last shall be first and the first shall be last."

In the interim, really important matters have been sidetracked to favor the comparatively piffling prohibition issue. It has been drawn along like the proverbial red herring across the trail. It makes no particular difference whether prohibition is retained or repealed within the domain of Uncle Sam. Eighty per cent. of freeborn American citizens voting "dry" will continue to be internally "wet". It is traditional trait of their nationalism that the average American believes in law—for the other fellow—as for himself he is exempt from it when the provisions thereof conflict with personal inclination.

The "Solid South," of course, will be a unit for retention of the Eighteenth Amendment, but will continue to maintain its reputation for the largest per capita consumption of rotgut of any part of the Union.

Complaint is made in Cranbrook of the number of transients in search of back door handouts. If there are any more requests of that order in the East Kootenay metropolis than in Creston, kicks appear to be justified.

"Telephone Talk," official magazine of the B.C. Telephone Company, reports a drop of approximately 1000 telephones in use in this province for June. At the first of that month Creston exchange had 122 phones listed, being exceeded in the East Kootenay area by Cranbrook and Fernie, with 542 and 298 respectively.

The past few weeks have been busy ones at the Wynndel Co-Operative Fruit Growers Association's pre-cooling plant. With a heavy volume of small fruit going into the plant and moving out as carload lots are made up, the staff has been kept pretty much on the move. Export prices of eggs are as follows: Extras, 23; first, 20; pullets, 18c. Trail shippers should bill the two lower grades at one cent higher than the above prices extras being the same. Since the price of eggs has begun to advance there has been a noticable increase in receipts which would seem to indicate that poultrymen were unable to feed their birds to keep up production to the proper level during the prevailing low prices. There is at present no sign of surplus with the market quite steady. All poultrymen marketing their own eggs are urged to maintain the proper price levels when making sales.

Some Memory Experts

Both Women and Men Have Done Remarkable Work

There was once a mathematical wizard, a young chap who was rather stupid in other respects, but could stand beside a railroad track while a long freight train was passing by, jot down in his brain the numbers of every box car, and after the train had passed recite the long list of five and six cipher numbers without one error. Memory experts have done some remarkable work in memorizing whole books; long legal instruments, and other literature. In the case of military spies it is often necessary for them to memorize secret orders so that they cannot be caught with written evidence on their persons. A Mme. Bessy Neumann has memorized the Old Testament and can recite it from beginning to end. She now is learning Shakespeare's plays by heart.

Contract Bridge

By Hamlin B. Hatch, Cavendish Club, Toronto

Defensive Tactics

In my previous article a general outline was given of the high card and distributional strength necessary for the overcalling hand to hold when making a defensive overcall. It was shown that, when vulnerable, the overcaller must have a stronger hand both in high cards, and in taking tricks in the suit bid, than when not vulnerable. Also that, when a bid of two is necessary to overcall, the hand overcalling must be considerably stronger especially when vulnerable. What I will try to show today is how far it is good bridge to carry defensive bidding.

This must be answered by an analysis of the invisible side of the score sheet. An average contract rubber may be said to average one thousand points profit to the winners. This one thousand points for the purpose of this analysis, is divided into four hundred points and six hundred points. The four hundred points represents the concealed or invisible value of the first game of the rubber. The six hundred points represents the concealed or invisible value of the final game of the rubber. If then, a first game of a rubber is worth four hundred points, it follows that defense which stops a sure first game at a cost of four hundred points, is good defense. Notwithstanding the hard fact, that the defense partnership has against them in the honor column a definite four hundred points. Still if the incurring of this four hundred point penalty stopped game by the adversaries, the defense players have really broken even. If, however, after the deal is completed and the four hundred point penalty has been incurred, it is found that the opponents could not have made game, then the penalty incurred is a total loss, to the penalty incurrers. It follows then, that defense bidding must be predicated on two basic factors:—First. It is certain that the opponents can make their contract. If it is not certain, then as a rule, it is best, rather than overbid and take a penalty, to allow the opponents to play the hand with the hope of defeating them. If it is certain that the opponents can make their contract, then the defender must know how large a penalty he is going to incur, and that knowledge constitutes the second basic factor.

It is necessary for the overbidding side to closely approximate, through their knowledge of their combined holdings, together with a knowledge of the combined holdings of the adversaries, the number of tricks they will take when playing the defensive contract. It is assumed always in this discussion that the defender's contract has been doubled.

The following table shows the penalties which are allowable to defenders in order to save game.

To save first game the defenders may be set three tricks doubled. If the contract is set less than three tricks, the defenders show a profit. If set more than three tricks the defenders show a loss.

To save second game, when the defenders are not vulnerable, a set of four tricks doubled may be taken. If the set is less than four tricks, the defenders show a profit, if more than four tricks a loss.

To save rubber game a set of two tricks doubled may be taken. If less than two tricks the defenders show a profit, if more than two tricks a loss.

Defense Against Partial Scores

About one game in four on the average is made by a side having a partial score. It follows then that a partial score is worth one quarter of the game score premium, plus the partial score itself. This gives an invisible value to any partial score of between one hundred and fifty and two hundred points. The factor of safety in defense overbidding to save partial scores is very small and it takes very close figuring by the defenders to successfully defend against partial score contracts. As a rule the most expert bridge player is in difficulties, when trying to figure whether he is going to be set two or three tricks. If to save partial score he is set three tricks doubled unvulnerable, he has suffered a big loss. If he is set two tricks doubled he has broken even, and if he is set one trick doubled he has made a profit.

To sum up then, defensive overbidding is a very important factor in Contract, but its use must be predicated on precise card valuation methods, and also an ability by the player to estimate closely the losing tricks in the combined hands, if the contract is played in the overbid.

Memorial For Adventurers

Danes and Norwegians Plan To Erect Cairn At Churchill

Danes and Norwegians of the Lutheran Faith, are planning to erect a memorial cairn at Churchill to the memory of Captain Jens Munck and his party of 66 adventurers who founded "Winterhaven," on the shores of Hudson Bay in 1619. Announcement was made to this effect at Winnipeg recently by Rev. B. M. Hefrenning of Pine Creek, Minn.

Munck was sent out by King Christian the Fourth of Denmark and Norway in 1619. With the party was Chaplain Rasmus Jensen Aarhus, first Lutheran pastor to set foot in America. Along with 60 of the party, the pastor died of disease during the terrible winter of 1620, leaving Captain Munck and two men the survivors of the ill-fated expedition.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

AUGUST 7

THE TEN COMMANDMENNTS

Golden Text: "Thou shalt love Jehovah thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might."—Deuteronomy 6.5.

Lesson: Exodus 19.1 to 20.11.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 19.7-14.

Explanations and Comments

The First Commandment: Worship God Exclusively, verse 3.—When these laws were promulgated from Sinai the world was given over to the worship of many gods, and the words, "Thou shalt have no other gods before Me,' mean "in addition to Me." The first commandment implies God's unity; it forbids polytheism, the worship of false gods.

"What a man loves, that is his god, Luther reminds us, and justifies this declaration by adding that what he loves he carries in his heart, goes about with it night and day, sleeps and wakes with it, be it what it may—wealth or pelf, pleasure or renown. "There are a great many things which God will put up with in a human heart," says Ruskin; "there is one thing He will not put up with—a second place." We cannot serve God and mammon.

The Second Commandment: Worship God Spiritually, verses 4-6. The second commandment forbids image worship, the making of an object of worship of any graven image or likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth. The earth was thought of as a flat and resting upon a huge abyss of water. God is Spirit; He, the true God, must not be worshipped under false forms.

"For I, Jehovah thy God, am a jealous God," jealous of My honor, of the use of images which turn the worshipper's mind away from Me while they represent Me.

There is a danger that a crucifix, which is but a symbol, may come to be regarded as a charm, a divine talisman, and insensibly become so important in a worshiper's mind as to hide from him the One it symbolizes.

"Visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children, upon the third and fourth generation of them that hate me." A young man who asked a college professor why the text did not say that the sins of the fathers were visited upon the children to the seventh and eighth generations as well as to the third and fourth,, received this answer: "Because there will be no seventh or eighth generations. Sin extinguishes itself before it gets that far."

"This edict is supported by a great physical law which proves that nature is the friend of righteous living and the foe of its opposite. Vice shortens life, weakens posterity and pollutes its blood. Virtue lengthens life and invigorates posterity, insuring its bodily health and intellectual strength. The children of the wicked may repudiate their parental heritage or the children of the good forsake the ways of their fathers. Here a conflict of principles arises. The law of heredity is offset by the law of free choice."—S. Parks Cadman.

The Fourth Commandment: Reverence God's Day, verses 8-11.—The seventh day is to be distinguished from other days by abstinence from labor. "The Sabbath was made for man," Jesus declared. The needs of body, mind, and spirit require one day of rest in seven.

Where Silence Rules

No Word Is Ever Spoken In German Monastery

In the broad orchards of the monastery of Marawald, in the Eifel, Germany, the only sounds are the sighing of the winds in the trees and the songs of the birds. The monks who prune the trees and pluck the fruit are silent. Theirs is the strictest Catholic order of penitents in the world. From abbot to lay brother these monks work for a living, always in complete silence. Their food is simple, and their monastic garb may be changed only every eight days. All of the inmates of the monastery sleep together on plain boards in one room.

Michigan Shop Sells Bait

Lake fishermen at Pontiac, Michigan, may obtain bait from "Ye Olde Worm Shoppe," a stand located near one of Oakland county's most popular fishing resorts. "Clerks" at the "Shoppe" sell worms at six dozen for 25 cents.

Gus: I'll have you understand there's good blood in my family.

Home economics specialists point out that washing fine china with too hot water increased the possibility of its chipping.

Canada Exporting Less Wool

Manufacturers Are Using More Of Home Grown Product

"Three times as much Canadian-produced wool was bought last year by the Canadian industry as was exported," said Major Douglas Hallam, Secretary of the Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers Association, speaking in Toronto. The use of Canadian wool is steadily increasing, due to improved merchandising methods adopted by sellers, the 39% increase in yards of woollen cloth woven in Canada, and the duty placed on Argentine wool."

"In a report issued through the National Research Foundation the methods by which Canadian wool gets to market are outlined. Abattoirs buy live lambs and sheep, the wool is marketed as pulled wool, and over 80% of such wool is bought by Canadian manufacturers. Seventy woollen and knitting mills bought wool direct from farmers. One hundred and eight firms listed as wool dealers of co-operative associations handled Canadian wool for re-sale. Approximately five million lbs. of the clip was used in home industries.

This Burglar Alarm Works

Sounds Siren, Explodes a Bomb and Imprisons Thief

The smash-and-grab jewel thief, who has infested England for the past few months, has met his equal in science.

Neither the vigilance of the police, nor the precautions of jewellers have succeeded in diminishing the number of these brazen robberies. But it will take the best criminal brains in the world to carry on in the face of a new precautionary invention.

A demonstration of the invention was given before jewellers at South-end-On-Sea. A jeweller turned himself into a robber for the purpose of the demonstration.

A hole large enough for a man to pass was made in a jewelry shop by smashing it in with a blackjack. Then a number of melodramatic things happened.

First a deafening siren went off which could be heard for three-quarters of a mile around. A gas bomb exploded, followed by a smoke bomb which cast a screen about the jewels and blinded the raider.

As though this were not enough a secret steel panel snapped across the window, imprisoning the raider and protecting the jewels.

Brain Controls Fast Or Slow Reading

Average Speed Is Around Six Words Per Second

Six words per second, or about four and one-half hours for a standard size book is good average reading speed, and most people can aspire to reach this seemingly extraordinary rapidity. It is the brain, not the eye, which determines the speed of reading. The eye cannot move steadily, but must move in a series of jerks, with pauses between. These pauses are needed to see the printed page clearly, but still more to give time for the meaning to be grasped.

Four women and two men, who started from Melbourne, Australia, by automobile six months ago, have arrived at Dover, England, after having motored 12,000 miles of their tour overland.

Science has figured that the earth travels 584,600,000 miles on its annual trip around the sun, and that more than 1,601,600 miles are travelled by the globe every day.

THE HOUSE OF DREAMS-COME-TRUE

— BY —

MARGARET PEDLER

Author Of "The Splendid Folly." "The Hermit Of Far End."

Hodder & Stoughton, Ltd., London.

But she had courage enough to face the consequences of that refusal, to stand up to the clatter of poisonous tongues that must ensue; and trust enough to bank on the loyalty of her real friends, knowing it would be the same splendid loyalty that she herself would have given to any one of them in like circumstances. For Jean was a woman who won more than mere lip-service from those who called themselves her friends.

Burke had never been more mistaken in his calculations than when he counted upon forcing her hand by the mere fear of scandal. But none the less he held her—and held her in the meshes of a far stronger and more binding net, had he but realized it.

Looking back upon the episode from which her present predicament had actually sprung, Jean could almost have found it in her heart to smile at the relative importance which, at the time, that same incident had assumed in her eyes.

It had seemed to her, then, that for Blaise ever to hear that she had been locked in a room with Burke, had spent an uncounted hour or so with him at the "honeymooners' inn" would be the uttermost calamity that could befall her.

He would never believe that it had been by no will of hers—so she had thought at the time—and that fierce lover's jealousy which had been the origin of their quarrel, and of all the subsequent mutual misunderstandings and aloofness, would be roused to fresh life, and his distrust of her become something infinitely more difficult to combat.

But compared with the present situation which confronted her, the happenings of that past day faded into insignificance. She stood, now, face to face with a choice such as surely few women had been forced to make.

Whichever way she decided, whichever of the two alternatives she accepted, her happiness must pay the price. Nothing she could ever say or do, afterwards, would set her right in the eyes of the man whose belief in her meant everything. Whether she agreed to marry Burke, returning home in the odour of sanctity within the next hour or two, or whether she refused and returned the next morning—free, but with the incontrovertible fact of a night spent at Burke's bungalow, alone with him, behind her, Blaise would never trust or believe in her love for him again.

And if she promised to marry Burke and so save her reputation, it must automatically mean the end of everything between herself and the man she loved—the dropping of an iron curtain compared with which the wall built up out of their frequent misunderstandings in the past seemed something as trifling and as easily demolished as a card house.

On the other hand, if she risked her good name and kept her freedom, she would be equally as cut off from him. Not that she feared that Blaise would take the blackest view of the affair—she was sure that he believed in her enough not to misjudge her as the world might do—but he would inevitably think that she had deliberately chosen to spend an afternoon on the Moor alone with Burke—"playing with fire" exactly as he had warned her not to, and getting her fingers burnt in consequence—and he would accept it as a sheer denial of the silent pledge of love understood which bound them together.

He would never trust her again—nor forgive her. No man could. Love's loyalty, rocked by the swift currents of jealousy and passion, is not of the same quality as the steady loyalty of friendship—that calm, unshakable confidence which may exist between man and man or woman and woman.

Moreover—and here alone was where the fear of gossip troubled her—even if the inconceivable happened and Blaise forgave and trusted her again, she could not go to him with a slurred name, give him herself—when the gift was outwardly tarnished. The Tormarin pride was unyielding as a rock—and Tormarin women had always been above suspicion. She could not break the tradition of an old name—do that disservice to the man she loved! No, if she could find no way out of the web in which she had been caught she was set as far apart from Blaise as though they had never met. Only the agony of meeting and remembrance would be with her for the rest of life!

Jean envisaged very clearly the possibilities that lay ahead—envisaged them with a breathless, torturing perception of their imminence. It was to be a fight—here and now—for the whole happiness that life might hold.

She turned to Burke breaking at last the long silence which had descended upon them.

"And what do you suppose I feel towards you, Geoffrey? Will you be content to have your wife think of you—as I must think?"

A faint shadow flitted across his face. The quiet scorn of her words—their underlying significance—flicked him on the raw.

"I'll be content to have you as my wife—at any price," he said stubbornly. "Jean"—a sudden urgency in his tones—"try to believe I hate all this as much as you do. When you're my wife, I'll spend my life in teaching you to forget it—in wiping the very memory of today out of your mind."

"I shall never forget it," she said slowly. Then bitterly: "I wonder why you even offer me a choice—when you know that it is really no choice."

"Why? Because I swore to you that you should give me what I want—that I wouldn't take even a kiss from you again by force. But"—unevenly—"I didn't know what it meant—the waiting!"

Outside, the mist had thickened into fog, curtaining the windows. The light had dimmed to a queer, glimmering dusk, changing the values of things, and out of the shifting shadows her white face, with its scarlet line of scornful mouth, gleamed at him—elusive, tantalising as a flower that sways out of reach. In the uncertain half-light which struggled in through the dulled window-panes there was something provocative, maddening—a kind of etherealized lure of the senses in the wavering, shadowed loveliness of her. The man's pulses leaped; something within him slipped its leash.

"Kiss me!" he demanded hoarsely. "Don't keep me waiting any longer. Give me your lips . . . . now . . . . now . . . . ."

She sprang aside from him, warding him off. Her eyes stormed at him out of her white face.

"You promised!" she cried, her voice sharp with fear. "You promised!"

The tension of the next moment strained her nerves to breaking-point.

Then he fell back. Slowly his arms dropped to his sides without touching her, his hands clenching with the effort that it cost him.

"You're right," he said, breathing quickly. "I promised. I'll keep my promise." Then, vehemently: "Jean, why won't you let me take you home? I could put the car right in ten minutes. Come home!"

There was unmistakable appeal in his tones. It was obvious he hated the task to which he had set himself, although he had no intention of yielding.

She stared at him doubtfully.

"Will you? Will you take me home, Geoffrey? . . . . Or"—bitterly—"is this only another trap?"

"I'll take you home—at once, now—if you'll promise to be my wife. Jean, it's better than waiting till tomorrow—till circumstances force you into it!" he urged.

She was silent, thinking rapidly. That sudden break in Burke's control, when for a moment she had feared his promise would not hold him, had warned her to put an end to the scene—if only temporarily—as quickly as possible.

"You are very trusting," she said, forcing herself to speak lightly. "How do you know that I shall not give you the pledge you ask merely in order to get home—and then decline to keep it? I think"—reflectively—"I should be quite justified in the circumstances."

He smiled a little and shook his head.

"No," he said quietly. "I'm not afraid of that. If you give me your word, I know you'll keep it. You wouldn't be—you—if you could do otherwise."

For a moment Jean was tempted, fiercely tempted to take his blind belief in her and use it to extricate herself from the position into which he had thrust her. As she herself had said, the circumstances were such as almost to justify her. Yet something within her, something that was an integral part of her whole nature, rebelled against the idea of giving a promise which, from the moment that she made it, she would have no smallest intention of keeping. It would be like the breaking of a prisoner's given parole—equally mean and dishonourable.

With a little mental shrug she dismissed the idea and the brief temptation. She must find some other way, some other road to safety. If only he would leave her alone, leave her just long enough for her to make a rush for it—out of the house into that wide wilderness of mist-wrapped moor!

It would be a virtually hopeless task to find her way to any village or to the farmstead, three miles away, of which Burke had spoken. She knew that. Even moor-wise folk not infrequently entirely lost their bearings in a Dartmoor mist, and, as far as she herself was concerned, she had not the remotest idea in which direction the nearest habitation lay. It would be a hazardous experiment—fraught with danger. But danger was preferable to the dreadful safety of the bungalow.

In a brief space, stung to swift decision by that tense moment when Burke's self-mastery had given way, she had made up her mind to risk the open moor. But for that she must somehow contrive to be left alone. She must gain time—time to allay Burke's suspicions by pretending to make the best of the matter, and then, on some pretext or other, get him out of the room. It was the sole way of escape she could devise.

"Well, which is it to be?" Burke's voice broke in harshly upon the wild turmoil of her thoughts. "You promise—and Staple within an hour and a half? Or—the other alternative?"

"I don't think it can be either—yet," she said quietly. "What you're asking—it's too big a question for a woman to decide all in a minute. Don't you see"—with a rather shaky little laugh—"it means my whole life? I—I must have time, Geoffrey. I can't decide now. What time is it?"

He struck a match, holding the flame close to the dial of his watch.

Seven o'clock."

"Only that?" The words escaped her involuntarily. It seemed hours, an eternity, since she had read those few brief words contained in Judith's telegram. And it was barely an hour ago!

"Then—then I can have a little time to think it over," she said after a moment. "We could get back to Staple by ten if we left here at eight-thirty?"

"There or thereabouts. We should have to go slow through this infernal mist. Jean"—his voice took on a note of passionate entreaty—"sweetest, won't you give me your promise and let me take you home? You shall never regret it. I——"

"Oh, hush!" she checked him quickly. "I can't answer you now, Geoffrey. I must have time—time. Don't press me now."

"Very well." There was an unaccustomed gentleness in his manner. Perhaps something in the intense weariness of her tones appealed to him. "Are you very tired, Jean?"

"Do you know"—she spoke with some surprise, as though the idea had only just presented itself to her—"do you know, I believe I'm hungry! It sounds very material of me"—laughing a little. "A woman in my predicament ought to be quite above—or beyond—mere pangs of hunger."

"Hungry! By Jove, and well you might be by this hour of the day!" he exclaimed remorsefully. "Look here, we'll have supper. There are some chops in the larder. We'll cook them together—and then you'll see what a really domesticated husband I shall make."

He spoke with a new gaiety, as though he felt very sure of her ultimate decision and glad that the strain of the struggle of opposing wills was past.

"Chops! How heavenly! I'm afraid"—apologetically—"it's very unromantic of me, Geoffrey!"

He laughed and, striking a match, lit the lamp.

"Disgustingly so! But there are moments for romance and moments for chops. And this is distinctly the moment for chops. Come along and help me cook 'em."

He flashed a keen glance at her face as the sudden lamplight dispelled the shadows of the room. But there was nothing in it to contradict the insouciance of her speech. Her cheeks were a little flushed and her eyes very bright, but her smile was quite natural and unforced. Burke reflected that women were queer, unfathomable creatures. They would fight you to the last ditch and then suddenly surrender, probably liking you in secret all the better for having mastered them.

He had forgotten that he was dealing with a daughter of Jacqueline Mavory. All the actress that was Jean's mother came out in her now, called up from some hidden fount of inherited knowledge to meet the imperative need of the moment.

DEFINITE HELP FOR DWELLERS IN APARTMENTS

Odorless way found to cook fish, cauliflower and cabbage

CANAPAR IS A PRODUCT OF HAMILTON FIRM

Lives there a woman, in apartment, duplex or home, who has not at some time or other reluctantly foregone fish, cabbage, and cauliflower because of the odors they give off when being cooked? Or who has not suffered from other people close by who cooked these foods regardless?

Canapar entirely does away with this annoyance. More than that, it actually improves flavor and food value. Cooking in Canapar parallels the famous French method of simmering and confining food and its flavours to the closed casserole.

Canapar comes in large sheets, in a handy-size package. When boiling vegetables you simply wet the sheet of Canapar and make a bag similar to a pudding bag. If you are steaming them you line your steamer with Canapar, arrange food and seasoning, and fold back corners of the Canapar to prevent steam from dripping back.

Boiled or steamed fish is particularly delicious done this way. No fishy odor in the kitchen, no gummy kettle to clean. When roasting meat, line the pan with Canapar. It prevents the fats and juices from burning, and eliminates scouring of the pan afterwards.

Canapar saves fuel. You can cook three vegetables simultaneously in the same saucepan with it, without intermingling of flavors. And it is very economical. Just rinse the sheet after using it, hang it on the towel rack to dry. Use it over and over again.

Lots of women use Canapar for a dish cloth—it is so silky and satisfactory and does not spread lint. This is a particularly good use if you happen to pierce the sheet of Canapar while testing the food during the cooking of it. Canapar is made by the makers of PARA-SANI the famous heavy waxed paper in the Green box.

"I can hardly imagine anything better than this anywhere. Creston appears more prosperous than any place I have been in for a long time." Mr. Nelson decided to stay here at least for a few days looking the ground over with a view to purchase before going any further.

With reference to the interview given by a local gasoline retailer last week regarding the gasoline price situation, railway officials here point out that where tank cars are routed from coast refineries to Creston via the main line, Golden and the Kootenay Central, such routing is given to expedite delivery, as main line freight service is much better than over the Kettle Valley, notwithstanding the fact that the latter is the more direct route. It is pointed out that no saving in freight charges is possible through shipping via the K.V., as rates from the coast are the same either way. It is desired to correct any impression that main line routing of tank cars has anything to do with gasoline retail prices in this vicinity.
