Powers' Poultry Great Showing

Have Third Best Pen of Egg Layers in all Canada—Average 243 Eggs Bird for Year—Every Pullet Qualifies for Registration

With a total production of 2428 eggs, for an average of 242 per bird, with an egg weight that averaged just over 25 ounces for every dozen laid, the pen of ten White Wyandotte pullets from the plant of Fred Powers, at Camp Lister has captured first place in the 52-week egg laying contest at the Dominion experimental farm at Brandon, Manitoba, for the season 1931-32, which closed at the end of October.

And with final returns now to hand from all the other Canadian contests a checkup of the figures shows the Powers pen to have secured third place in all Canada for egg production, his only superiors being a pen of White Leghorns at Sidney and a pen of Barred Rocks entered in a Prince Edward Island contest.

Another meritorious performance of the Powers pen is that every bird qualified for R. O. P. registration, to secure which birds must lay 200 or more eggs weighing 24 ounces to the dozen. The final statement from Brandon shows these birds to have individual egg production as follows: 260, 256, 255, 253, 248, 246, 241, 225, 215.

A scrutiny of the production records from week to week also reveals the fact that the birds had a uniformly high production all through the year. Even the rigorous Brandon climate in mid winter did not interfere at all with the egg output. The winning pen was selected from a flock of 170 registered birds at the Powers farm a year ago. The Powers' farm has another pen entered for the contest of the current 12 months.

During the past year Mr. and Mrs. Powers have greatly enlarged their operations, their flock of laying hens advancing from 300 to almost 600, with a continuous new laying house erected to house the increase. In addition to baby chicks the Powers' report a sale of over 5500 dozens of eggs, all of which were candled and graded at the farm, and sold almost exclusively at Cranbrook and Kimberley.

Mr. and Mrs. Powers were conspicuous in the poultry section at Creston fall fair last month, their birds sweeping the boards in the Wyandotte class and capturing the cup for the best male bird in the show—which bird has been sold to a fancier at Hammond.

Canyon City

Mrs. Andy Wickholm was a visitor with Cranbrook friends a few days during the past week.

Chas. Wilson of Sirdar spent the week end at Canyon, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. VanAckeran.

The school children commenced rehearsing some of the features that will be presented at the usual Christmas concert and tree at Canyon next month.

Frank Carline of Moosejaw, Sask. spent a couple of days here last week on a visit with his sister, Mrs. Kolthammer. He was en route to Vancouver.

The Crestonian orchestra had a light turnout at their cinderella dance at the hall on Saturday night, but those present speak highly of the music supplied by Conductor Duck and his assistants. The affair came too close to the whist and dance—the evening previous.

Word from the General Hospital, Calgary, Alberta, is to the effect that Robert Lowerison is making satisfactory progress since the operation he underwent at the first of the month.

A small crew of men went to work at the first of the week on the long-expected development of the hydro power at Goat River canyon. We understand preference will be given married men on whatever employment there is.

There was a fine turnout for the final whist and dance in aid of the Christmas tree and entertainment fund at the hall on Friday evening at which the intake was $14. The winners at bridge were Mrs. T. Hickey and Chas. Wilson of Sirdar, while the honors at oldstyle whist went to Mrs. L. Clark and Jock McRobb, jr. An orchestra comprising Mr. and Mrs. Kolthammer, L. W. Stephens, T. R. Mawson and Holly Bond provided music for the dance, which continued until about 2.30 a.m.

Pass Accounts Totalling $1134

Much of Expenditure on Street and Road Improvements—Buy Victoria Avenue Lot—Winter Janitor for Fire Hall.

Reeve McFarland presided, and Councillors Henderson and Jackson were in attendance at the November meeting of the village council on Monday evening, the feature of which was passing of October accounts, totalling $1134—the biggest month's pay roll of the year. Much of this was for street and road improvements, and about $200 for expenses of two delegates sent Victoria in connection with Summit Creek power.

Favorable consideration to the extent of $25 was given a letter from the relief association asking for cash help for their work. Attention will at once be paid a letter from fire chief Art Reed notifying that the tires on the rear wheels of the fire truck are in bad shape and should be replaced. A formal acknowledgement will be accorded a letter from R. L. Hoag who visited here in 1929 prepared to develop Goat River canyon, who is now resident at Nelson and whose services are available to any parties who may be requiring a firstclass electrical engineer.

Councillor Jackson submitted a very full report of the interview he and Chas. Murrell had with the authorities at the capital in connection with Summit Creek power. It was agreed to spend up to $8 a month to secure a caretaker for the firehall for the winter months. Amongst the accounts were a couple totalling $8 which was for labor utilized in clearing and levelling up a place on the fair grounds for an open air skating rink.

Two by-laws were given the necessary three readings and finally passed. No. 40 provides for the purchase of a 35-foot lot on Victoria Avenue, which the village acquires at a nominal sum due to non-payment of taxes. No. 39 is to complete the purchase of the fall fair grounds and buildings, the final payment of $500 and interest on which was authorized last month. This property was formally acquired in August, 1928, at $2500 on instalments of $500, at seven per cent. interest. Total payments of principal and interest have amounted to $2867, and in improvements to make it available for sports and dances, under the name of Park pavilion, another $1100 has already been expended.

Alice Siding

Rev. N. G. Smith, Presbyterian pastor, Creston, is due here Sunday afternoon for the monthly church service at the schoolhouse.

An old landmark has disappeared this week, in the tearing down of the house on the former Noble ranch, which is now owned by J. H. Webster. The salvaged lumber will be used to erect a packing shed.

Rehearsals are under way for a Christmas entertainment to be put on here just before yuletide. At present practices are being held at the home of Mrs. Marshall.

With the duck and geese season due to close at the end of the month there is considerable activity among the bird hunters. Jack Smith is reported to have brought in five geese on a recent hunt, which would seem to be the best showing of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Reed are this week moving into the new residence they have erected on the ranch here.

The dirty weather that has prevailed up till the first of the week did not deter local hunters from their usual quest for venison. Jim Taylor and Everard Constable each secured a buck, and a party made up of Dick Smith, Sandy Taylor and Geo. Hendren accounted for a kill of three at the weekend.

Goat River Canyon Development Started

Men at Work Cutting Timber for Coffey Dam—Put Road in Shape Transport Materials—15 Men Work

Work commenced on Monday morning on the long-expected development of hydro power at Goat River canyon. At present there is a crew of about fifteen men at work under the supervision of Fred Chapman, the West Kootenay Power & Light Company, Limited, superintendent of construction, and R. P. Brown, the company's engineer, who made the original survey of the canyon water power for the company almost two years ago.

At present the men are getting out the timber for the construction of a coffer dam in the Goat which will be needed to divert the stream flow while the cement work on the dam is under way. Others are at work conditioning the road constructed over a year ago at the site of the development which is required for the transport of supplies and machinery for dam construction and at the power plant.

The former Erickson Hotel building has been leased by the company for six months for office quarters and a bunkhouse for the men who will be employed. The former Creston Growers' fruit warehouse has been leased for the storage of cement and other supplies, which are being shipped in already.

So far as it is possible all competent local help will be given employment, with a preference for married men.

Work on the irrigation system is in full swing. Building dam, ditching and laying pipe are well under way.

Mr. Martell was at Creston a few days last week in charge of the Winchcombe barber shop in that town, while Ted was on his annual goose and duck hunt.

The bridge drive on Saturday night in aid of the Christmas tree fund, was quite successful. The door receipts were $11. High score prizes went to Miss Flo. Wood and R. Benedetti. Consolation prizes to Mrs. Lachat and C. Payette.

In spite of bad weather and hard times the Woman's Auxiliary sale of work last Wednesday was a splendid success, the majority of the goods being disposed of. The drawing for wool quilt took place, and Mrs. R. Uri was the holder of ticket 190—the lucky one. The sale of tickets realized $17.45.

The monthly meeting of Wynndel Women's Institute was held in the hall annex on Thursday last, with the president, Mrs. F. C. Robinson, in the chair. It was decided to let only Institute members use the two pairs of Institute carders. Also they can be out only two week at a time, a fine of two

Basketball Sees Close Scoring

Ex-High Nose Out the High Fliers by Single Point—Inability to Shoot Costs Highs Win—Meds Show Better Form.

In a close-checking game, the Ex-High beat the Highfliers by one point, 5-4. Despite the low score, the game was fast; but the Highfliers' defense baffled their opponents who failed to get many tries at the basket. The former team kept a slim lead throughout the first half, but in a mix up before the Fliers' basket one of their own players inadvertently tied the score. A foul shot by Vera McGonegal gave the Ex's a one-point lead, which they maintained until the final whistle.

In the second game a much-improved Meds team gave the High Reps a close run in the first quarter, but fell down in the second and third to allow their opponents a 12-point lead. Mrs. Levris started a rally in the last quarter, but by that time the game was won for the High. Molly Moore played a beautiful game at guard, scoring 8 of the High School points. The final score was 22-10.

The High School boys gave the Imperial Groceria a run for their money, having the best of the play, but failing to score because of their inability to shoot. Geo. Kelly sank a pair of beautiful field goals for the winners.

Next Friday will see three league games, the High Reps vs the Ex-High, the Dominos vs. the Highfliers and the Centipedes vs. the High.

Ex-High—Macdonald, M. Armitage, Olivier, McGonegal 1, Ross, E. Armitage 2, Payne, Brown; Total 5.

Birth—On November 18th, to Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Huseroff, a son.

Practices are under way with the public school children for the usual Christmas concert, which will be early this year as the school closes at December 16th for vacation.

Jim Huseroff has his baling machine at Erickson this week, where he is baling a quantity of alfalfa at Mrs. Cartwright's ranch.

Mr. and Mrs. Paggart of Sutherland, Sask., have returned home after a visit with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dusan. The Paggart's are much taken with this district, and plan to return to locate here permanently.

Helme brothers are busy on a contract of removing the brush and skidding the fallen timber on the acreage at the rear of the site of Canyon City Lumber Company's Camp No. 2. The contract for stumping will be let later.

In connection with Education Week the teachers at Lister school kept open house on Thursday, on which day all parents were invited to visit and inspect the school.

The Community Society are having a dance in aid of the Christmas entertainment fund at the schoolhouse Saturday night, with Canyon orchestra music and an admission of 35 and 25 cents.

Col. Lister is leaving towards the end of the week for Vancouver where he will attend the annual session of the B.C. Conservative Association executive, of which he is a member.

Up to the present there is no word of local hunters getting a deer so far this season. Locally the animals appear less in evidence than ever before.

Past Season Financial Success—Debt on Rink Much Reduced—Dues Again $7.00—Ladies' Club in Prospect this Season

The best attended annual meeting Creston Curling Club has had for some years was in evidence Tuesday night at the town hall, when all details were arranged for the 1932-33 season.

A very complete financial statement was submitted by secretary, R. M. Chandler, which showed that receipts for the past season were $394, and disbursements $361, leaving a balance of $33. In the expenditures attention was directed to a payment of $225 to the shareholders in the rink building, to whom about another $250 is owing on principal and accrued interest.

With the exception of the ice committee all the officers were elected by acclamation, as follows:

Hon. Presidents—Col. E. Mallandaine, Col. Fred Lister, M.P.P., W. M. Archibald.

President—M. R. Joyce.
Vice-President—E. E. Cartwright.
Secretary-treasurer—R. M. Chandler.
Executive—E. Winchcombe, F. Millen, M. J. Boyd.

Referees—H. W. McLaren, M. J. Boyd.
Ice Committee—F. V. Staples, Fred Hale, R. M. Telford.
Chaplain—Rev. A. Walker.

The membership fee was retained at $7 as in the past year. It is apparent that the ladies are anxious to participate in the sport this year, and it was agreed that they should be allowed the use of certain afternoons each week, at a fee of $2 each.

The executive will engage the icemaker and rink caretaker at a salary not to exceed $60 for the season, the ice man to share $50-50 in whatever dues are collected from the lady players.

For invaluable services rendered the secretary will have his dues remitted and after some discussion it was agreed to present the clergymen who wish to play with free memberships. With a prospect of a mild winter it was decided to play two draws each evening—7 and 9 o'clock as in the past. There are five trophies to be played for and it was thought necessary to have the double shift to make sure these contests were completed.

Andy Wickholm of Canyon, who has been doing carpenter work on N. P. Molander's house, has completed the work and left for home last week.

Mrs. E. Driffle, who has been on a visit with her sister, Mrs. Geo. Young, at Creston, returned home Saturday.

Explanations and Comments

Four Disciples Called To Fellowship and To Service, Mark 1:16-20. — Walking along the shore of the Sea of Galilee, Jesus saw the two brothers, Peter and Andrew, casting a net in the sea, letting it down and then lifting it up, first on one side of the boat and then on the other, for they were fishermen. The successful use of this net, W. M. Thompson explains, requires a keen eye, an active frame, and great skill in throwing. The fisherman must also be patient, watchful, and prompt in seizing the exact moment to throw. These were qualities needed by fishers of men, and Jesus called to them: "Come ye after Me, and I will make you to become fishers of men."

It is unlikely that the disciples understood at this time all that this phrase, fishers of men, meant. Jesus' ministry was an itinerant one; He went about from place to place teaching and preaching and healing. The nature of His work made the fellowship and apprenticeship of disciples necessary. He had many things to say that only trained hearers could fathom, many things to do that only loyal pupils could undertake, a legacy of service that only skilled followers could carry out. At once the four left their nets and followed Him.

Paul Called To Dedicate His Life To Christian Work, Acts 26:12-19.—It was midday on his way to Damascus to persecute the Christians that Paul saw a light brighter than that of the sun and heard a voice saying, "Saul, Saul, why persecutest thou Me? It is hard for thee to kick against the pricks." "Paul is really in the position of a plough-ox. Jesus is his driver and holds the goad. Paul can no more resist Jesus than the plough-ox can resist his driver."

"Remember that the heavenly vision comes to you in very humble and every-day forms, not in visions of angels nor light flashing down from the skies. It comes in the simple guise of duty; the thing which you ought to do today, and which you know that you ought to do. That is the heavenly vision of the moment. You are to give up that sin, you are to undertake that bit of work for others, you are to break from certain habits and companionships. That is what God says to you at the moment. You are sure of it. It is the vision which you have to follow—follow it!" —J. G. Greenough.

Peculiar Effect Of Sound Waves On Human Body

It has been found recently that it is possible to take clearer X-ray pictures of parts of the human body after these parts have been exposed to sound waves from a large loud speaker. X-ray photographs taken before and after such vibrations show the latter are much clearer.

A Curious Souvenir

Curious things are preserved as souvenirs. The death at St. Thomas, Ontario, of the famous elephant Jumbo has been discussed recently in Western Ontario papers, and a man comes forward with the claim that he secured some of the hairs off Jumbo's trunk at the time of the disaster. Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald vehemently criticized leisurely preparations for the projected world economic conference in the House of Commons.

Forty-three men and one woman have started working against time to whip into shape before Christmas a constitution for India's population of 360,000,000.

Jobless men who turned to prospecting for gold along the Fraser River and its tributaries during the summer months, have met with gratifying success, according to reports received at the Chamber of Mines, Vancouver.

The power of the Minister of National Revenue to fix valuations for customs duty on imports to Canada will be curtailed by the adoption of Bill No. 6, an act to amend the Customs Act, which was passed by the House Committee.

Princess Imeretinsky, English wife of the Russian nobleman, and widely acclaimed as one of England's most beautiful women, has been granted a decree nisi of divorce from Prince George Imeretinsky, on the grounds of misconduct.

For the three years ending March 31, 1932, a total of 15,364 persons were deported from Canada, according to a return tabled in the House of Commons recently. More than one-third, or 5,573 were English, while the next largest national group were Scots, who numbered 2,600.

To Safeguard Shipping

Extra Precautions Will Be Taken On Hudson Bay Route

Further precautions to prevent loss of ships on the new Hudson Bay route will be undertaken next summer by the government, according to word brought to The Pas, Man., by J. A. Campbell, K.C., local barrister, who was called to Ottawa to be present at the inquiry into the loss of the S.S. Bright Fan, which sank in Hudson Strait, October 1, after striking an iceberg.

Mr. Campbell states that the S.S. N. E. McLean, government icebreaker on patrol duty in the far north, will be provided with charts of the waters traversed by vessels using the grain route, and that these Canadian charts will be available to masters of vessels. The "MacLean" will also be in the neighborhood, as added protection, as was the case this year.

CHAPTER I.

The Killers

Father Claverly, leaning against the rail of the "Midnight Sun," suddenly straightened up, stiff with shock; and stared incredulously at the six men.

For moments he could not believe he actually was witnessing a robbery. Here in this Canadian Northland where outlawry was rare and furtive, here on the mighty Mackenzie where river boats time and again carried unguarded cargoes of half a million in furs and gold, a brazen daylight attack upon a big steamer was simply unthinkable.

A few minutes ago the six men in a pair of birch-bark canoes had skirted out of the tributary river, the Big Alooska, and hailed the steamer as though they were merely trappers or a trading party wanting passage up south. A ladder was innocently let down for them, and they had come aboard, taking a despicable advantage of the friendly, accommodating spirit extended from man to man in this North country.

Now, under the leadership of a huge red-bearded fellow, they stood on a pile of deck cargo amidships, watching each way. With repeating

PAIN relieved instantly

Aspirin will dispel any pain. No doubt about that. One tablet will prove it. Swallow it. The pain is gone. Relief is as simple as that.

No harmful after-effects from Aspirin. It never depresses the heart, and you need never hesitate to make use of these tablets.

So it is needless to suffer from headache, toothache or neuralgia. The pains of sciatica, lumbago, rheumatism or neuritis can be banished completely in a few moments. Periodical suffering of women can be soothed away; the discomfort of colds can be avoided.

Aspirin tablets have other important uses—all described by the proven directions in each box. Look for that name Aspirin on the box—every time you buy these tablets—and be safe. Don't accept substitutes. "Aspirin" is a trade-mark registered in Canada.

rifles alert in their hands, they loomed ugly and menacing over the crowd.

Father Claverly, quickly recovering from his shock, stared sharply at the six men, trying to identify them. One was a 'breed', the other five were nondescript whites. All of them were unknown to him.

While he was wondering what their next move would be, a girl among the passengers suddenly cried out: "Bandits! They're bandits! Oh-oo—"

To half the people aboard the "Midnight Sun" the girl's cry was a first warning of the holdup. Whirling, the passengers stood transfixed, staring at the six vicious strangers who had them covered.

Fearful of bloodshed, Father Claverly glanced around at the crowd. Realizing that a fight would turn this deck into a shambles, he prayed that somehow, by quick thinking, he could avert a battle.

There were courageous men among those fifty on deck; but only one man had the quiet deadly courage to draw a long belt-gun against six rifles.

He was Jimmy Montgomery, mate of the steamer.

Crouched beside a bale of wolf-skins, Jimmy had been pointing out things ashore to his four-year-old daughter. At the cry he glanced up, saw the bandits, understood instantly; and his face hardened. He was Mount-ed-trained, Jimmy was—seven years with the scarlet-and-gold Maintainers of the Right. Shoving his baby girl behind the wolf peltry, he whispered, "Lie down, sweet; keep down, down," and rose to his feet.

His first bullet, fired from the hip, sang between two bandits and whanged into the pines beyond. His second knocked the floppy stetson from a bandit's head. His third was never fired. A Savage spoke out sharply. Jimmy grabbed at his breast, his revolver dropped to the boards, he swayed a moment, then sank down, shot cleanly through the heart.

Father Claverly heard a mutter arising among the crowd; heard the shuffling of feet, the half-hysterical sobbing of women, the snarling oaths of men. Out of the corner of his eye he saw men glancing at one another, waiting for one of their number to raise the long yell; and he realized that this ominous, swelling mutter was the prelude of a concerted rush.

The bandits realized it, too. It was plain to Father Claverly that they had not bargained on a battle, and were cowering at the prospect of rifle talk. But there was no retreating now; they would be forced to fight. In a flashing thought he visioned this deck as it would be a few moments hence; the criminals, rifle-armed, shooting from cover of the cargo piles; the blood-spattered promenade, with women and children caught in that swath of death.

In the next instant Father Claverly saw how he might stop the slaughter. Stepping forward from the rail, he uplifted his arm to draw the eyes and attention of the bandits. Oblivious to personal danger, thinking only of the innocent lives he might save, Father Claverly walked up closer, closer, till the criminals could have touched him with their guns. Either his calm mien or his black robe and hat had power over those rifles, for the muzzles swerved aside from him.

"Don't shoot again," he bade quietly, as one with authority. "You have killed a man. You have murdered." The dark-faced bandit who had fired the shot flinched before that steady accusing gaze, and turned his eyes away from Father Claverly's.

"I was compel' to keel heem. He should not tried to interfere wit' us."

Father Claverly scorned so flimsy a justification of a brutal killing. Turning away from the bandits, he faced the crowd. Steady, clear, his voice rose:

"Men! Don't stir! Don't make a shambles of this deck. There's nothing aboard this boat as precious as the lives that would be lost. Let them take what they want and go peacefully."

His appeal fell on deaf ears. A slow vengeful wrath was gathering. . . . Jimmy Montgomery, known and loved all along the Mackenzie, lay murdered there on the deck. . . . Those killers were going to pay for that barbarous crime.

The snarling oaths rose again; the muttering swelled audibly; hands crept down and closed upon belt-gun butts. . . .

It was the bandit leader who stopped the rush, who stopped it dead short at one stroke. Swinging his gun at a young schoolmistress, Margaret Fournier, one of the passengers, he ordered her, "Step up here, sister; step up close," and when she obeyed him, wild-eyed with terror, he cocked his weapon with an audible snick and pointed it at her breast.

His voice rose so that the whole deck heard.

"Now shoot! You can't git me afore I c'n git her! First move I see made with a gun, I'll give her what that gent there on the boards just got!"

Without turning or swerving his rifle from the girl, he bade two of his men:

"Andre, you and John go below. Git the dust. Sort out some furs, too, good furs, six or seven hundred pounds—marten, mink, dark fox. You know what's light and valyble."

The two bandits stepped down and seized one of the crew and made him take them down the companionway. Coming up presently, they lowered their booty into the two birchbark canoes that bobbed against the side of the steamer.

As though every man aboard realized that the bandits held the whip-hand, that no one dared stir, that retribution must come from elsewhere, a whisper started, spontaneously, from a dozen points at once:

"Baker! Alan Baker! Sergt. Alan Baker!"

This whisper went from neighbor to neighbor, from group to group; and men smiled grimly as they heard this mere mention of a man's name:

"Baker! Sergt. Alan Baker—at Fort Endurance."

Another of the bandits protected by that rifle pointing at Margaret Fournier's breast, walked boldly out among the passengers; and securing a fire ax, he went from boat to boat on deck, smashing their frail sides so that there could be no pursuit, no retribution, if the two canoes could only get out of rifle range of the steamer.

Seeing now that the threat to Margaret Fournier's life had checked all thought of a rush, Father Claverly walked toward the stack of wolf-skins, crossing himself as he stepped over the dark stream of blood that trickled slowly toward a scupper. Bending, he plucked up the little Montgomery girl, who was looking with wide, uncomprehending eyes at the body of her father. Mercifully taking her away from there, he walked over to the rail, holding the little tot so that she could not look back.

The man beside him said in a low voice: "Look at that devil smashing the boats! They must have planned that 'caution' beforehand, so we couldn't chase 'em. But don't that big red-haired devil know we'll be splat-tering their canoes afore they get ten rods gone?—G—d!—what we'll do to them six!"

The whisper spread. . . . "Wait! Wait'll they start away. . . ." Men folded their arms, and watched quietly, biding their moment of vengeance.

And then, when the canoes were loaded with their booty, the red-bearded leader played his last and best card. Flipping his gun at Margaret Fournier, he ordered her:

"Git down into one of them canoes, sister. We're going to carry you a couple miles up this Big Alooska here and set you off on a bar, see? We ain't meaning to harm you at all. Just start anking over and climbing down into a boat. . . . That's right; that's a sensible girl. . . ."

He raised his voice so that every one could hear; he spoke to Margaret Fournier, but his words were intended for the men aboard:

"Some of the fellows is figuring to shoot h—l out of us afore we c'n git clean gone, see? But they'd better think twicet about that. And I guess they will. First hunk of lead comes whistling our direction, you'll git a bullet squar' atween them pretty eyes, sister!"

"LEST WE FORGET"

By N. G. SMITH, B.A.

Armistice Day Address, Creston, November 11, 1932

Fourteen years ago today the great war came to a close. For most of us those four years of carnage have become a part and parcel of the past. This day is dedicated to remembrance. We remember today in our services of commemoration and in our silences, those men who paid the supreme price for the preservation of our heritage.

This day of remembrance is of value to us only in the measure in which we hold it sacred. If it becomes for us a day when we give way to mere sentiment,—a day when we let our emotions come to the top and think only of what we have suffered and what we have lost,—if that is all this day means to us, then our services and our silences, which we intend as an honouring of the dead, shall become a dishonouring of them and of ourselves.

We keep the remembrance of Armistice day, not to gloat over our victory nor to glorify war; we have learned that war is not a thing in which to glory. We keep the remembrance of this day that we may be reminded of the fact that war, and all the suffering and agony that war entails is the end to which greed and the law of the jungle lead us. For looking back now we may see that the great war was but the outcome of a spirit that had brooded long in Europe—a spirit of selfishness, and a desire for personal aggrandisement at any cost. Germany was not very far ahead of her neighbours in that spirit.

It is the belief of many today, that almost as great as the direct guilt of the German war lords, was the guilt of the whole political society of Europe. Some talk glibly of the war being caused by greed of statesmen and financial magnates risking the lives of men in an enormous gamble for the world's markets and imperial power. But the explanation is not as simple as that. We cannot divorce peoples from their governments, as the victims of a subtle tyranny devised by politicians and financiers. The evil that led to the crime of the war has deeper roots. The fear, and hatred and rivalry of statesmen was only as the fear and hatred and rivalry in the hearts of peoples. The greed of the German war lord was only the greed of the German peasant on a larger scale. And so it was all through. The people of all countries were deeply involved in the general guiltiness of Europe.

It was the faith of many of our noble dead who gave their all in that great struggle, that that war was the "war to end war." They believed that they were to be the last victims of this way of argument. By smashing the German war machine, they believed that they would demonstrate for all time the "criminal folly of militarism." We keep the remembrance of Armistice day, lest we forget the "criminal folly of militarism"; lest we forget the faith in which men whose memory we honour laid down their lives, that the Great War, was to be the war to end war. The lives of men will have been laid down in vain if, by their sacrifice, the world is not lifted to some plane a little higher, than the barbarity that was let loose in Europe in 1914. They will have been betrayed, if the agony they suffered is forgotten, and the war to end war is followed by race hatreds and national ambitions that lead to new and more monstrous conflicts.

For years before 1914 Germany and the world were blinded by the spirit of the aggrandisement of war. The apparent success of war deceived them. War was such a cheap and easy way of gaining the world that it seemed a matter of slight consequence that the nation's soul should be lost in the process. Every question about the rightness of it was silenced by the fact that it paid. In the war of 1870, where the German casualties were slight, German acquired the rich provinces of Alsace and Lorraine, and an indemnity exacted in money which was four times what it cost to make the war. The previous wars with Austria and Denmark were cheaper still, and by them she gained additional provinces and additional wealth. War paid—if waged in this fashion! Such gain and such glory came to the conqueror at such a trifling cost.

But if we have learned anything from the last war, we have surely learned this, that war does not pay. Fourteen years after its close, we still suffer from its effects. Of the destruction wrought by the war half has not been told. It cannot be told in figures, or measured in columns of statistics; it must be thought of in terms of the human life sacrificed there; it must be measured in the pain and anguish, the broken hearts and broken lives that war entails. So long as we remember these things, we will not again be easily deceived by facile theories that war pays.

So long as we remember the suffering and the destruction that war exacts, we will never again allow the old adage of the "glory of war" to pass current among us. We keep the remembrance of Armistice day lest we forget all this.

In the clash of ideals that lay back of the great war, the opposites may be stated in many forms. It may be stated as a clash between autocratic and democratic ideals of organization; between the law of the jungle and the law of brotherhood among nations. If the basal German contention is right, then we have a world where everything goes that has the mailed fist behind it. Justice, fairplay, goodwill—these are mere sentiments to be discarded when they interfere with immediate success. The triumph of the brutal, autocratic ideal was only averted because men in the free nations saw that all the liberties won by their fathers had to be won again or meanly lost. Our generation paid the price in blood and tears that the German type of nation might not afflict the world.

The fruits of victory are ours. But it is not ours to boast of victory. That same prayer which tells us to whom belongs the kingdom and the power, tells us also to whom belongs the glory.

The fruits of victory are ours. Our heritage has been preserved for us at a price—a price was expressly paid that it might not have to be paid again. Upon us now living, because of the heroic valour of our dead, there lies the great responsibility which we bear before God, of seeing that the sacrifice these men have made for us shall not have been an empty speculation or a useless outpouring of unflinching devotion. From the hands of our brethren we have received this sacred trust; it remains for us to keep faith with them, and to carry on.

We may well remember those who have paid such a price for preservation of our heritage. We may well keep their memory sacred.

"They shall not grow old as we that are left grow old; Age shall not weary them, nor shall the years condemn; But at the going down of the sun and in the morning We shall remember them."

Yes we shall remember them. At the going down of the sun and in the morning we shall remember them, and the price they paid for all that we hold dear; and we shall hope and pray that the sacrifice they have made, shall not have been made in vain.

Death of Mrs. Linn

Creston has lost quite a well known citizen in the death of Mrs. D. H. Linn, who passed away at her home on Park Road early Sunday evening at the age of 58 years. Deceased was a native of London, England, who came to Canada in 1896, to take up her home at Red Deer, Alberta, and in which town, two years later, she was married, continuing to reside there until about 1912, when Mr. and Mrs. Linn and family moved to Innisfree, Alberta, where they resided for a short time, and then came to Creston for a short stay, only to return to Innisfree, where they remained until 1919, when they again came to Creston and later to Erickson and again to Creston for a permanent home. The funeral took place on Tuesday from Trinity United Church, with Rev. A. Walker officiating, with interment in Creston Cemetery. Besides her husband, one son, Charlie of Lethbridge, Alberta, and one daughter (Evelyn), Mrs. Hansen who has been with her mother during her illness, are left to mourn her death.

carried out up to and including Thursday, as originally outlined. Dr. Weir was detained at his home at the coast on account of illness.

The week opened auspiciously Sunday evening when Pastors Walker and Smith had large and appreciative audiences for their services at which the subject of education was featured in the sermons.

There was a representative turnout on Monday night for the public meeting sponsored by the board of trade, which was in charge of President R. J. Forbes, and was featured by an introductory talk by High School Principal Leveque, who explained the objects of the week, and was followed by a very practical talk on the present day educational problem by (Rev.) N. G. Smith.

Tuesday afternoon the Parish Hall was filled with an appreciative audience at a meeting that combined educational and entertainment features. Rev. A. Walker gave a timely talk on the subject, literary numbers were contributed by Mrs. Mallandaine and Miss Kitty Littlejohn. There were vocal and instrumental numbers by Mrs. Rose, while little Evelyn Nastasi was a great favorite with her dancing of the highland fling, with Mrs. Rose at the piano.

Thursday evening was largely given over to entertainment of pleasing variety provided by the students in the four grades at the high school. The week concludes today when the six rooms at the public schools are keeping open house. The Saturday night basketball feature has had to be cancelled as the Kimberley team will not make trip with the roads in their present precarious condition.

The Pendulum Swings.

Conditions through which all peoples and nations are presently passing are a testing time of individual character, of community thought and activity, of national stability. Present conditions constitute a yardstick by which to measure one's real outlook upon life and a means whereby to gauge one's inner conception of what truly constitutes life. Is life solely a material existence in which things material are of first importance? Or is life something far greater and nobler, with material things merely necessary adjuncts to our physical well-being in order that the better, finer things of life may be developed and enjoyed?

For the time being the world lies wounded and bleeding at the bottom of a chasm of financial and economic depression. All mankind is suffering. Are we, therefore, to turn and rend each other like animals; allow the purely destructive elements in our natures to have full sway over us, and lash out blindly at all those things and institutions upon which we place the blame for our troubles; tear down what we ourselves, in our calmer, more thoughtful moments, and our predecessors throughout the ages of the past, have erected? And, if we do so, and complete the work of destruction, will we then be wiser, better equipped, more efficient for the work of re-construction?

Three years ago the world was riding the crest of the wave of a so-called prosperity. Everybody was engaged in scaling the heights. Having reached the apex of its swing, the pendulum had, by all the laws of nature, to swing back, and having swung so far to the right it had, of necessity, to swing just as far to the left. It took some years to reach the peak of 1928-29; it will take some years to again reach a normal, trustworthy level. It is not the pendulum itself that is wrong, but the human forces which carried it to one extreme but, having carried it there, are now powerless to prevent its backward swing.

In the so-called after-the-war reconstruction period the world was engaged in a few feverish years of great productive and industrial activity. There were legitimate war losses to make good, but the world did not stop there. People everywhere again carried the pendulum to one extreme. Everybody plunged into debt, buying right and left on credit, much of it on the instalment plan of deferred payments. They kept on doing so until the limit, the saturation point of such buying was reached. The pendulum began its return journey en route again to normal. The limit of easy credit,—much too easy,—was reached; the time to "pay" had arrived. Consequently, purchasing power diminished, died. Industrial production stopped because of lack of purchasers. Unemployment grew apace, and as it grew, feeding upon itself, ability to pay the previously accumulated debts disappeared.

In their trouble and worry thousands of people are in no state of mind to calmly apportion the blame. They refuse to see that they are themselves in any sense responsible; they only did what everybody else was doing. So they say it is the "system" that is to blame; therefore, destroy the system and create a new one. The "system" requires change, reform, improvement. There is no question about that, because people need to be saved from themselves, from their own impulses, from their own selfish desires. But people cannot be saved from their "mistakes," or prevented from making mistakes, unless they are to be treated and governed as immature children. And who are the supermen to whom the responsibility of thus disciplining humanity shall be given? Granted, the "system" calls for change,—and, like everything else in this changing world, the "system" is changing, changing rapidly as a result of the experiences of the past and the present,—but should it be destroyed and some entirely new and untried theories in government, in finance, in the whole complicated world of economics, including all production, distribution, exchange, whether within a given country, or throughout the world, experimented with?

Would it be wise at this time, when so much confusion of thought prevails, when people everywhere are not capable of that clear, sane vision with which they are usually endowed, when because of their worries they are naturally inclined to strike out blindly, to destroy and abandon as so much junk all those policies and institutions which only four or five years ago they approved and supported? Because the pendulum, in its backward swing, is for the moment at the extreme left,—although it must, just as inevitably, begin to swing again to the right,—is that any reason to attempt to tear it from its moorings and seek to establish some new order which would defy the laws of gravity and momentum?

When a person is worried or mad on the one hand, or unduly elated on the other hand, is the worst of all times for him to make important, far-reaching decisions that will affect his future career. When people were on the mountain tops of so-called prosperity in 1928-29 they made decisions, mistaken decisions, for which they are now paying in bitterness and woe. To make other, and equally important decisions now when they are in the valley of depression, would be equally unwise, equally fatal.

Let the pendulum get back to normal. Not in the rarified air of the mountain-top, nor in the gloom of the valley,—in neither of which can man permanently reside and survive,—should our momentous decisions be made. Nature herself has her extremes,—from 40 below in winter to 100 in the shade in summer,—but the major days of life are not spent in either one extreme or the other, nor do we when the mercury stands at 40 below plan our summer activities, or vice versa. We should plan for the average of our days, not following extremes, but seeking the normal, middle course, and striving to make that course a highway of life that is broad, and smooth, and pleasant to travel upon; a road to happiness and contentment, based upon a moderate and abiding degree of material prosperity, and time for the development and enjoyment of the finer things of life.

Mrs. George Scribner, Nauwigowan, N.B., writes:—"I was so very nervous I could not sleep at night, and felt tired out all the time."

Britain Must Play Safe

Cannot Afford To Reduce Armaments
 More Than Other Nations

Fifteen years ago one whole nation was singing the doctrine of hate. That hellish doctrine of theirs is likely to continue in that faith for a couple of generations longer unless a miracle is wrought. To match armament with armament has been the only safe way for England. Britain and her offspring have done ninety per cent. of the missionary work that has ever been done in the world, and printed and distributed nearly all the Bibles that are in use in the mission fields; surely it is the will of heaven that her statesmen should be permitted to preserve her life in the same human and divine way that it has been preserved for a thousand years and more.

Car Thefts In Chicago

Exceeded New Ones Sold In Three Summer Months

Here's Chicago summed up in a few sentences. Automobile thefts in that city during the three summer months topped the number of cars sold in the metropolis during the same period.

Figures, released by the Chicago Automobile Trade Association, show that 10,199 autos were stolen, as compared to 9,068 cars purchased. Many of the stolen machines were recovered, but only after they had been stripped, the association report points out.

UNABLE TO KNEEL

Neuritis Hampered Her

In writing of the pain and inconvenience she suffered from neuritis this woman tells also how she rid herself of it:—

"I have been using Kruschen Salts for neuritis, and it certainly has the most wonderful effect. My knees were very painful, and it became almost impossible to kneel. As I do all my own housework, you will appreciate what it means to me. Two months ago I began using Kruschen, and I certainly would not be without a bottle in the house for anything. I consider Kruschen is worth its weight in 22-carat gold."—G. M. W.

Neuritis, like rheumatism, lumbago, and sciatica, is caused by deposits of needle-pointed, flint-hard, uric acid crystals, which pierce the nerves and cause those stabbing pains. Kruschen breaks up these deposits of torturing crystals and converts them into a harmless solution, which is promptly removed through the natural channel—the kidneys. And because Kruschen keeps the inside so regular—so free from fermenting waste matter—no such body poisons as uric acid ever get the chance to accumulate again.

King George Lowers Rents

The King of England has decided to cut rents. He will reduce by twenty per cent. the rents of land at Sandringham, used as allotments, thereby benefiting 60 workmen, who now will only have to pay $5 an acre.

Delightfully cool to the skin. Stimulating and invigorating. Softens and makes the hands flawlessly white. Subtly fragrant. Imparts youth and loveliness to the complexion. Persian Balm is the inevitable choice of the woman who cares.

"Blind" Beggar—Thank you, ma'am, for giving me sixpence.

Old Lady—Then you are not really blind?

Beggar—No. At home they gave me the wrong card. I am deaf and dumb.

Certain morbid conditions must exist in the stomach and intestines to encourage worms, and they will exist as long as those morbid conditions permit them to. To be rid of them and spare the child suffering, use Miller's Worm Powders. They will correct the digestive irregularities by destroying the worms, conditions favorable to worms will disappear, and the child will have no more suffering from that cause.

2 WAYS
 at once!

Being an external treatment, Vicks is especially appreciated by mothers because it avoids the constant "dosing" which so often disturbs children's delicate digestions.

More and more mothers every year turn to the double action of Vicks VapoRub in checking colds, coughs, sore throat and spasmodic croup.

Rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, Vicks acts through the skin like a plaster. At the same time, its medicated vapors, released by the heat of the body, are inhaled direct to the air-passages.

This double action of Vicks breaks up congestion and eases breathing, thus preventing the night coughs which so often rob both mother and child of restful sleep.

Musician Who Lost Job Now Makes Lead Soldiers

Frank Beucha, a musician of Racine, Wisconsin, lost his job with the advent of the "talkies" and the depression, but he has built up a paying business making lead soldiers. Each soldier is hand-painted with the aid of a magnifying glass and all are gayer and brighter than those turned out by regular manufacturers. He has cast and painted numerous armies and hoped to find a military market for his figures, which, he believes, can be used to illustrate soldiers in training.

Lady Oxford Writes Ads.

Londoners were amazed to find that Lady Oxford, better known as Margot Asquith, was writing advertisements. A full-page ad in several leading London papers bore her endorsement for a furniture company.

Requisite On the Farm.—Every farmer and stock-raiser should keep a supply of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil on hand, not only as a ready remedy for ills in the family, but because it is a horse and cattle medicine of great potency. As a substitute for sweet oil for horses and cattle affected by colic it far surpasses anything that can be administered.

PRINCE GIVEN WARM WELCOME IN N. IRELAND

Belfast, Northern Ireland.—Citizens of Belfast and the surrounding countryside turned out in record numbers to give the Prince of Wales an open-armed welcome when he set foot on Irish soil for the first time—a welcome that overshadowed a display of bad temper by objecting nationalists.

When the prince arrived in the harbor a group of bombing planes saluted from overhead. Dockside workers waved flags and sent up such cheers the roar of the 21-gun salute from two warships scarcely drowned them out.

Earlier, an effort that might have had dire consequences was made to prevent sightseers from coming to Belfast to see the prince, smiling good naturedly, take part in a five-mile parade to Stormont where he dedicated the new northern Ireland Parliament Buildings.

Long sections of the railroad between Kells, County Meath, in the Free State, and Belfast, were torn up, and other parts of the road were mined. Rails also were ripped up in the vicinity of Cavan, also in the Free State.

At one end of the breaks in the tracks were placed notices reading: "Ireland belongs to the Irish, both north and south." Red flags were placed at points where the rails were broken.

The Prince, wearing the uniform of a colonel of the Irish Guards, was welcomed by the Duke of Abercorn, Governor of Ulster, Viscount Craigavon, the Prime Minister, and Sir R. Dawson Bates, secretary for home affairs. Then he stepped ashore amid wild cheering.

Of the 12,000 men on guard along the five mile route to Stormont, 4,000 were armed soldiers and police and 8,000 were volunteer Orangemen.

The Prince recalled the heroic part played by Ulster in the World War when he made his speech of dedication.

"It is my father's earnest prayer," he said, "that you will meet all of those difficulties which confront the world as well as your own special problems with the courage, tenacity, loyalty and devotion which has always characterized the men of northern Ireland and made them famous in the annals of the empire."

Thief Drops Loot

Jewelry Taken From Residence Is Recovered

Vancouver, B.C.—"Was my face red!" the thief probably remarked as he told of his night's venture.

He made a clean get-a-way with $1,900 worth of jewelry from the home of Mrs. G. M. Hughey, taking the dresser drawer in which it was concealed. He cross-countryed backyards and hurdled fences until in the safety of his hide-out he looked to gloat again over his loot.

The drawer was empty. The denouement came Wednesday when the jewelry was found in an adjoining yard from the home from which it was stolen. The thief had dropped it as he carefully guarded the worthless drawer in the course of his post-Olympic effort.

Grain Shipped Through Maritimes

Saint John, N.B.—A million bushels of grain are moving eastward for shipment through this port early in December. It has already been purchased for shipment via Saint John. It was announced by Harbor Commissioner Thomas Nagle on his return from Montreal, where he interviewed railway and steamship officials and some of the leading shippers.

Loan Is Subscribed

Montreal, Que.—Beyond confirming the statement by Hon. E. N. Rhodes, Minister of Finance, that the new Dominion loan of $80,000,000 had been fully subscribed, the central campaign committee here had no information to offer. Until all the applications had been totaled up it would not be possible to state the extent of the over-subscription.

Russia's Food Problem Is Becoming Serious

People Are Now Subsisting On Most Stringent Rations

Moscow, Russia.—On the eve of the conclusion of the five-year plan—which is being ended in four years—Soviet Russia is struggling with the old and difficult problem of food for its people.

The food situation is bound to be one of the chief problems of the second five-year plan, now in the process of drafting. Russians are subsisting on most stringent rations.

There is a serious shortage of such commodities as wheat, sugar and butter. In the second plan, by all indications, greater emphasis than ever will be placed on the improvement of general living standards.

Although the state of the country's food supply is admittedly bad—some Russians say it is worse than in 1928, when the five-year plan started—no facts are available here to bear out dire predictions heard abroad of widespread suffering this winter. On the contrary, the 1932 harvest is expected to ease present harsh conditions to some extent.

The country failed last year to achieve planned increase in industrial production, but 1932 will record appreciable increases over the previous year.

Exports Increased

Wheat Shipments Boost Exports For Month Of October

Ottawa, Ont.—Exports to foreign countries increased by $1,088,178 during October, according to figures released by the Department of National Revenue.

The increase, compared with the figures for October, 1931, occurred chiefly in exports of wheat, the volume of which was more than double that of the same month last year.

Last month's exports had a value of $56,626,095, as against $55,537,917 for October, 1931. Re-exports were $534,279 compared with $996,082 for the same month last year.

A heavy decline in imports from $45,932,572 in October a year ago to $37,582,206 last month, boosted Canada's export balance to $19,974,068.

Total trade for the month under review had a value of $94,346,580, as against $101,466,571 for October, 1931.

Unemployed Spectre

800,000 Men, Women and Children Receiving Relief In Canada

Ottawa, Ont.—Canada has 800,000 men, women and children receiving relief, Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, announced in the House of Commons.

Of the total number mentioned, said Mr. Gordon, it was estimated that 144,000 were people who had not worked very steadily since 1919. Another 100,000 were what were known as transients, 50 per cent. of whom were recent arrivals in Canada.

Income Tax Collections

Increase Is Shown In Figures Issued At Ottawa

Ottawa, Ont.—An increase of $459,454 in income tax collections is shown in the figures issued by the Department of National Revenue. The total for October, 1931, was $825,443, and for last month $1,284,398.

For the seven months of the fiscal year income tax collections have increased by $2,325,998 over the same period last year. Total collections were $50,546,512 in the 1931 period and $62,872,510 this year.

Policy Unchanged

Relief Administration For West Is Discussed At Ottawa

Ottawa, Ont.—Details of unemployed relief administration in Manitoba and Saskatchewan were discussed when Hon. M. A. MacPherson, provincial treasurer of Saskatchewan, and Hon. Erven McPherson, provincial treasurer of Manitoba, conferred with Harry Hereford, director of unemployment relief for Canada.

The meeting followed a conference with Hon. W. A. Gordon, Minister of Labor, last night, when Hon. George Hadley, Minister of Agriculture for Alberta, was also present.

No change in the general policy governing relief in western Canada was decided upon, it is understood.

Death Of Major Sifton

Secretary-Treasurer Of Winn'peg Free Press Passes In Toronto

Toronto, Ont.—John Wright Sifton, secretary-treasurer of the Winnipeg Free Press, died November 15.

Mr. Sifton, who was 46 years old, had lived in Toronto for some time following a long holiday in the southern United States. He died after a long illness, although his condition did not become critical until a few weeks ago.

Mrs. Sifton, who was formerly Miss Grace Christine Bell, Montreal, survives.

No Benefit Seen

Manchester, Eng.—The Manchester Chamber of Commerce believes reductions in the Canadian tariff already announced are unlikely to enable British cotton, artificial silk and textile exporters appreciably to increase their trade.

Members Of Parliament Falter In Realms Of Higher Mathematics

Ottawa, Ont.—Staid members of parliament reached for pencils and scratch pads when discussing changes in the Canadian tariff resulting from the Anglo-Canadian trade treaty.

Liberals were in an inquisitive mood, wanting to know to what levels the exchange dumping duties, excise duties and sales tax would elevate tariff items specified in the agreement. E. J. Young (Lib., Weyburn), and ardent free-trader, said a 29 per cent. tariff against British-made kitchenware became 47 per cent. when the extra imposts were added. United States kitchenware paid 30 per cent.

Pencils and paper appeared on the desks. Members began involved calculations, most of them giving up in disgust when the realms of higher mathematics were reached.

Youths To Be Spanked

Attorney-General Makes Punishment Fit the Crime

Victoria, B.C.—British Columbia youths who think it is smart to drink in beer parlors will be punished by the good old-fashioned method used by fathers of the last generation in the woodshed.

They will be spanked in the place provided by nature for such correction, under arrangements instituted by the attorney-general's department.

This interesting new punishment, designed to chastise boys, without confining them with criminals in jail, was devised by Attorney-General R. H. Pooley when he was called on to review the case of two Kamloops youngsters. They were convicted of taking a pair of girls to the town of Chase and drinking beer in a beer parlor there, although they were minors and not entitled to enter such premises.

Winter Fair Winners

Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba Share In Honors

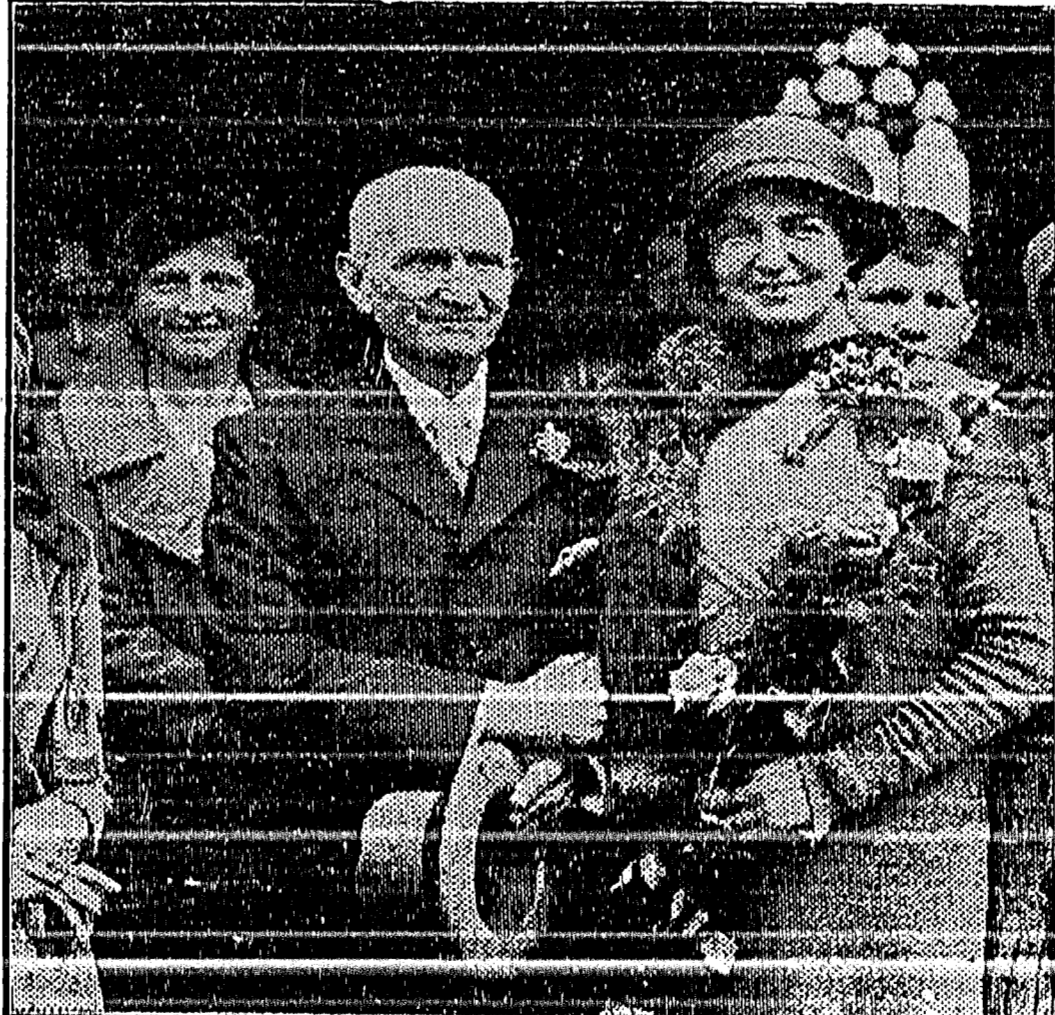

Toronto, Ont.—James Whitehead, grower, of Saskatoon, scored a double victory at the Royal Winter Fair as judging of grain exhibits got under way.

In the grain in sheaves section, Whitehead won with his sample of wheat and also took first place in the barley division. Oats award went to Carl Schilde of Carlsrube, Ontario.

The entry of Patrick Shea, Winnipeg, "Warrior," was declared champion gelding, with reserve going to "Martin," owned by Gibbs Brothers, Lumsden, Saskatchewan.

"Sandy," owned by Jack Lewis, Delroy, Alberta, won the Clydesdale gelding special and "Martin," owned by Gibbs Brothers, the Belgian special.

BRITISH ADMIRAL WEDS AT EIGHTY

The wedding of Admiral Sir George Egerson and Margaret Stella was recorded by our press photographer as the couple left Ringwood Parish Church, in England. The bridegroom who is eighty years of age, entered the British Navy in 1806 and retired in 1916, during which time he held several important appointments, including Naval A.D.C. to the King in 1905. He was second in command of the Atlantic Fleet in 1906-7 and Second Sea Lord in 1911-12.

EVOLVE PLAN IN EUROPE TO AID UNEMPLOYMENT

Paris, France.—The creation of an economic consortium by Great Britain, France and Germany which is designed to assist in the return of prosperity and in coping with the unemployed problem, was announced by Raymond Patenotre, who will be in charge of its operations.

"We foresee," said M. Patenotre, "a return of prosperity by the natural process of the development of industrialization."

"The unemployed in the smaller depressed countries will be given work, while the jobless in the larger countries will be relieved by the operation of factories."

The plan was described as a combination of French capital and German industry, with guarantees covering the subjects of insurance, security and non-competition.

The first project of the consortium will be the offer of a loan of 17,000,000 francs (currently $680,000,000) for the electrification of railways in Poland, Roumania, Iraqe and Portugal.

The Paris edition of the New York Herald Tribune said France and Great Britain would provide 40 per cent of this loan each, and Germany would furnish 20 per cent.

The consortium will consist of three syndicates—Franco-German financial experts, British, French and German bankers, and a Franco-German syndicate designed to carry out recommendations of the banking group in the electrification projects.

M. Patenotre said the organization was purely an economic agreement.

New Duties Now Effective

Ottawa Trade Agreements Now Law In Britain

London, Eng.—The Ottawa agreements bill implementing the United Kingdom's new trade pacts with the Dominions has become law. New duties set out in the bill became effective at midnight, November 16, replacing those of the Import Duties Act passed last year.

The bill was given third reading by the House of Lords and immediately afterwards obtained royal assent by commission.

Meanwhile a treasury order was issued extending, without interrupting, general empire preferences and special tariffs imposed under the Import Duties Act. Another order made the Ottawa preferences effective. Had no agreements been reached at Ottawa the preference would have lapsed November 15.

The treasury order continued preferences on goods from all countries of the British Empire with the exception of the Irish Free State, which failed to conclude an agreement with the United Kingdom at Ottawa.

Remaining provisions of the Ottawa Agreements Act, brought into force at once, concern powers and duties of the treasury and the board of trade which require no immediate action.

Preference For Canadian Ports

Will Be Used Wherever Possible For Overseas Wheat Shipments

Winnipeg, Man.—All things being equal, western exporters of grain will continue to use Canadian Atlantic and Pacific ports for the movement of wheat to the United Kingdom.

Leading grain shippers interviewed by the Canadian Press stated that wherever possible Canadian ports were given the preference in handling Canadian grain for shipment overseas.

May Re-Open Coast Smelter

Victoria, B.C.—Possibility of re-opening the Ladysmith smelter to handle the copper ores from the Britannia mines on Howe Sound, so as to enable those mines to come in under the British preference and continue operating, was under discussion by members of the government.
