Truckers Still Causing Trouble

Despite Solid Sign Up Apple Prices Cut Locally Say Selling Agencies—Vigilance Committees Named to Help Winters

Although the Valley crop of McIntosh Reds has been cleaned up handily at prices in line with those set by the Okanagan stabilization board, and ok'd by the local board, this has not been accomplished without some grief to the selling agencies, and fear is expressed that things will not be so satisfactory with the winter variety unless greater ontrol is effective on trucks and other agencies that seem to be able to sell to retailers as far as Lethbridge at prices wholesale houses cannot meet.

This was made plain at a growers meeting on Friday night, called for the purpose of hearing reports from the committees appoined at the "Cent a pound or on the ground" growers get-together on September 21st The chair was occupied by W. G. Littlejohn., who is one of the members appointed to the growers, committee of three, and it was announced that W. L. Bell had consented to act as chairman of the stabilization board, which has already had a number of meetings.

All angles of the marketing situation were freely discussed with the selling firms insisting that 100 per cent allegiance to prices set by the board was far from being obtained. Even beyond Lethbridge jobbers were furnishing evidence of retailers buying at prices that would be out of the question if local prices were adhered to, and as the trucks would only account for a movement of 10 per cent. of the valley crop, there must be a leak somewhere.

With trucks becoming more nnmerous, if anything, since the creation of stabilized prices, the meeting decided to establish closer check on the transients and vigilance committees of five members were named for the Canyon, Erickson, Creston and Alice Siding sections It was also decided to ask Wynndel to name a representative on the board in order to simplify handling the new deal.

It was agreed that none of the winter varieties should go out until the Okanagan had been heard from as to prices, provided these are available by the middle of the week. If they are not to hand by that time the local stabilization board was authorized to set the price.

The meeting favored the extension of the control movement as far west as Boswell and Gray Creek and A. F. Rudd of Wynndel, who is responsible for organizing things in the valley, along with E. Ostrensky, will visit these two points during the week, and endeavor to get all the growers there into line.

Canyon City

Miss Margaret Sheppard, who ha. been here on a visit with her sister, Mrs Sid. Parker, left last week for Seattle.

Mrs. Richmond of Cranbrook is a Canyon visitor this week, a guest of her sister, Mrs. Humble.

Some local ranchers report a fourth cut of alfalfa will be available by the end of next week. This is a good showing considering the late spring and dry summer.

Early next week will witness the finish of apple picking in the Canyon area. The fruit has been taken off under almost perfect weather conditions. It is recalled that on Obtober 9th last year Canyon had 25 degrees of frost, freezing all fruit on the trees, with the exception of Rome Beautys.

The C.C.F. had a well attended rally at the community hall on Wednesday evening, at which the speakers were John Murrell, R. G. Penson and Manfred Samuelson. The chair was taken by F. Knott.

Representatives of the Salvation Army as well as Rev. R. Hardy, pastor of the United Church, Cranbrook, have been here during the week lining up donations of fruit and vegetables fpr relief work in that town this winter.

Canyon United Church was prettily decorated for the harvest thanksgiving service on Sunday afternoon, for which special music was provided and Rev. A. Walker's address was on "The Origin of Thanksgiving." The service was well attended.

Tom Mountford, United Front candidate in Creston Nelson, had a meeting at the community hall on Saturday evening, which drew an attendance of about half a hundred, with H. Yerbury of Lister in the chair. After the address there was quite a lively discussion in which Mr. Mountford crossed swords with Messrs. J. Murrell, R. G. Penson and O. M. Samuelson, prominent members of the valley C.C.F. organization.

Another notable sale of Erickson orchard property was completed at the first of the week when P. E. Murer of Calgary, Alberta, purchased the H. A. Clements ranch, of ten acres. Mr. Murer has secured title but, we understand, will not move onto the place until early next year. There is no better improved or better producing orchard property in the valley and Mr. Murer is fortunate in securing the place, Mr. Clements having to retire due to failing health. Macs Cleaned Up Jonathans Roll

McIntosh Reds All Rolled and Jonathan Finish Early in Next Week—Wageners Very Fine —Other Winters Not Sized

Looked at from any angle 1933 apple shipping from all points in Creston Valley is the best in at least the past two years. At the end of last week the McIntosh Red had all moved, and the market was asking for more of them. According to the records of Long, Allan & Long, Limited, it was November the 20th, before the last car of "Macs" was rolled in 1932.

The clean up on Jonathans will be even more satisfactory. Both local packing houses commenced wrapping these on Monday and by early next week they will all have rolled—almost 100 per cent. to export at firm f.o.b. Creston quotations. Although September weather, particularly, seemed to assure at least average size in Jonathans, this has not been realized and the variety is running much heavier to culls than was anticipated, and this despite the fact that as small as 252's are being shipped.

Along with the Jonathans, Delicious, Spitenbergs, Spies and Wageners are also coming in, but none of these winters are moving as yet, chiefly due the fact that the Okanagan stabilization board had not yet set a price. Like the Jonathans, the Delicious are inclined to be small, as well as Spitz., but both firms state that for size and color no better Wageners were ever harvested than those being picked in the valley this week.

With assurance of everything up to and including Jonathans out of the way no trouble is looked for in storing the winter varieties if this should be necessary. The crop of the winters is not above the early season estimates, except with Wageners, which are sure to be above predections.

There is some export demand for Delicious but it is hardly as good as last year. With the others a heavy movement in household is looked for, and when prices are set a good demand is anticipated as advices are all to the effect that the entire crop of McIntosh has now been distributed to retailers and is pretty well consumed.

Long, Allan & Long growers will this week receive final payment on all fruits up to Wealthye.

At a meeting of the growers at Creston on Friday night A. H. Rudd of Wynndel, and E. Ostrensky of Alice Siding, were named a committee to visit Sirdar and Boswell this week to organize those districts on the "cent a pound" agreement.

In last week's report of the Women's Institute meeting to wind up affairs in connection with the fall fair, mention was overlooked of a letter that the Institute sent W. J. Cooper thanking him for his work in arranging the hall for the fair and for his timely advice in connection with staging the various exhibits, which helped much in making the fair the all round success it proved to be.

The W.-A. turkey supper on Monday 9th, was quite a success. About $40 was taken in at the door. Four long tables were set in the large hall, and were in charge of Mrs Eakin, Mrs. M. Hagen, Mrs. Wall and Mrs. McGregor, with their helpers. Mrs. Towson, Mrs. Wood and their helpers were kept busy in the kitchen. The music for the dance was supplied by R. Walde, A. Goplin and Mr. Price, to whom the W. A. extend grateful thanks.

Baled alfalfa is on the move again this week. John Huscroft loaded out two cars on Friday and Tuesday for the C.M.& S. dairy farm at Marysville, and on Tuesday a carload from the Col. Lister ranch was shipped west.

Tom Mountford, United Front candidate in the Creston-Nelson constituency held a public meeting at the schoolhouse on Friday night, which was fairly well attended, with Harry Yerbury presiding. Considerable of his time was taken up with a rather scathing criticism of the C.C.F.

Nicholls--Eddy Nuptials

A pretty house wedding was that of Sunday morning at the home of the bride's parents, when Rev. Andrew Walker united in marriage Miss Effie Katherine Beryl, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Nicholls of Creston, with Wesley B. Eddy, son of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Eddy of Pincher Creek, Alberta, which was witnessed by the relatives and a few close friends of the contracting parties. The home was prettily decorated with flowers and the ceremony was performed under a bridal floral arch, with the bride given in marriage by her father, and entering the room to the strasns of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by Mrs. Walker. The bride was handsomely gowned in blue silk crepe, long lines and carried a boquet of gladioli. The bridesmaid was Miss Athena Schade, who wore pale green chiffon voile, while the groom was supported by Mr. Howard Corrie. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was onjoyed and later in the morning the newlyweds left by auto on a honeymoon trip to Kellogg and Spokane, returning home this week, and the bride travelling in a black ensemble with hat to match. Mr. and Mrs Eddy will reside in Creston, the groom being in charge of the Exchange barber shop. The bride who is a native daughter of Creston, along with the groom are well known in the younger set and will have the best wishes of all for a successful future.

Legion Auxiliary Bridge

The bridge drive and dance under the auspices of the Legion Auxiliary on Wednesday evening was most successful. About twenty tables participated at cards and the winners at oldstyle whist w re Miss Brady and Miss Bullough. The winners at bridge were Miss Ruth Cartwright and R. M. Jackson of Cranbrook. Consolation prizes were taken by Mrs. F. H. Jackson and Mrs. Webster, who played a gentleman's hand. After cards there was a musical programme to which Mr. Bullough contributed a number of piano solos, and J. B. Holder led the community singing, which was a feature of the evening. On presenting the charter to the Auxiliary Col. Mallandaine made a stirring appeal on behalf of the veterans, and the charter was gracefully received by Mrs. W. McL. Cooper, auxiliary president. Badges were presented to each of the charter members by Col. Mallandaine, and badges to other members will be presented when received from headquarters. After a very fine lunch Mr. Bullough and A. Goplin at the drums played for a couple of hours dancing

Pavilion Rented Winter Sports

Basketball League and Badminton Club Have it Five Nights Week—September Spending is Light—Open Vancouver St.?

Due to the regular meeting night falling on Thanksgiving Day, the October meeting of the village council was transferred to Wednesday evening, with Reeve McFarland presiding, and Councillors Henderson and Jackson in attendance. The session was uneventful, the notable feature being the smallness of the accounts passed for payment, $167, which is about the most meagre monthly outlay in many years.

Minutes of a special meeting held on September 25th were read and confirmed along with the regular September meeting. At the special session the 1934 assessment roll was up for consideration, and the clerk was instructed to write P. Philip, deputy minister of public works as well as the inspector of electrical equipment, that the village objected to the proposal of the West Kootenay Power & Light Company, to erect a pole line along Canyon street, as the highway is too narrow. A letter has been sent the company asking them to make a formal application for the right to erect such a line.

Mrs. R. Stevens, president of the Hospital Women's Auxiliary, was present asking that the council open Vancouver street through from Victoria to Creston Avenues in order to facilitate getting to and from the new hospital from north to town. The council promised consideration but were not at all hopeful of doing anything, as it is figured possibly $1200 or $1500 will be required to put Creston Avenue in travelable shape, including sidewalk.

It was agreed to lease Park pavilion to the Badminton Club and Basketball League on the same nights as last year, each to pay $10 a month rent and provide their own fuel and light, with the council to have the pavilion any night it can be rented for other revenue producing purposes. Under the arrangement there will be badminton Mondays and Wednesdays and basketball Tuesdays, Thursdays and Fridays. The pavilion will not be available for Sunday sports.

The hospital board wrote asking that Creston Avenue be gravelled and graded. G. Sinclair asked for better street lighting in the vicinity of Creston hardware. The Armistice Day wreath will be bought from the Legion Ladies' Auxiliary, and Creston Transfer was given the contract of hauling away garbage after cleanup day. His bid was $9.50, and was the only one received.

The reeve was named to attend a meeting on Tuesday night at which the local relief situation for the winter will be discussed by the agencies intereated. Figures complied by the clerk were submitted in connection with a preliminary investigation as to the wisdom of employing a town handyman and it was found that on street work of various sort, and firehall maintenance, the town during the past year has paid out at the rate of about $40 a month.

It was decided to fully co-operate with the move that is afoot to organize a union of the municipalities in East and West Kootenay. At the close Councillor Jackson reported in some detail on the sitting of the royal commission on municipal financing, which he attended in Nelson last month, as representative from the village.

Man Barred From Keeping Dogs And Serves Jail Term

In some instances judgment has been passed on a deeply erring motorist that during his lifetime he shall not again hold a driving license. It is more unusual to hear of a case in which a person is disqualified for life for holding a dog license or keeping dogs. Such an instance occurred in England, at Kingston, when, for causing unnecessary suffering to four dogs, a man had that sentence passed on him in addition to three months' hard labor.

Study Of Sea Birds

McGill University Professor Follows Gulls In Flight Across The Ocean

Completing his fourth and last round trip across the Atlantic this summer, V. C. Wynne-Edwards, Assistant Professor of Ornithology at McGill University, arrived back in Montreal recently in the Cunard liner "Ascania," from Southampton and Havre. These voyages were undertaken solely for the purpose of the study of sea-birds and their habits.

In a statement to the press, Mr. Wynne-Edwards said: "I have just completed the last of my four round trips in the "Ascania" for the purpose of studying the habits of the birds which live far out to sea. These birds are a well-defined group and do not come to land except to breed, so that one is obliged to go to sea to see them at other seasons of the year. A few of those present on the North Atlantic in summer breed only in the southern ocean, and unless one was prepared to make a long journey in a specially chartered ship to Tristan da Cunha or Kerguelen or some others of the remote southern islands, one would never see them at all.

"It is because they are difficult to get at that comparatively little is known of their habits. An ornithologist living on shore spends his spare afternoons and holidays searching for and observing the birds of his own district, and gradually he finds out the details of their ways, their comings and goings, until at last he can piece together his observations like a jig-saw into a complete picture of the local bird-life. Up to the present no one has done the same for ocean birds in any part of the world, with the result that there is a gap in our knowledge. A certain number of people interested in birds have, of course, made single voyages in all parts of the world, and recorded their results. But in this way knowledge accumulates very slowly, and it has been my idea to apply the homely method of bird-watching week by week along the same familiar route, just as I should do in my own district ashore, in order to hurry up and co-ordinate the observations in this particularly interesting but rather inaccessible field of ornithology.

"Naturally a great deal of what I have learnt is rather intangible. It is not easy to express it in a few words. One of the most important additions to knowledge, however, concerns the migration of these oceanic birds, and also of some others which, though not truly oceanic and unable to live indefinitely at sea, use the ocean as a highway in their migrations between Arctic breeding-grounds and winter quarters in the far south. The Arctic Tern, for instance, a bird allied to the gulls but smaller and with more graceful buoyant flight, sometimes called a sea-swallow, breeds on the Canadian Arctic islands, in Greenland and elsewhere within the Arctic circle. They spend the winter as far away as Patagonian and Antarctic shores. This migration takes place almost entirely up and down the high seas; and although terns have webbed feet, they dislike swimming and never alight on the water on migration. What is more, they scarcely ever stop to feed. Practically nothing was known before about their behaviour at this time.

"There is also the pressing and mysterious problem of how these migrants find their way across the uncharted deserts of the sea. Observations of birds actually en route, of how they fly, whether straight or on a zig-zag course, whether fast or leisurely, high or low, how they are affected by wind and weather, all these are of great value and may ultimately help us to solve one of the most outstanding problems of biology today."

Origin Of Wedding Cake

Traced Back Hundreds Of Years To Ancient Rome

The origin of wedding cake goes back hundreds of years. In ancient Rome marriage was effected by the simple process of the bride and bridegroom breaking a cake of bread and eating it together. This, in time, developed into the bride cake. The bride cut it because it was the duty of the woman to prepare food for the man. Everybody knows the superstition about sleeping on wedding cake. Girls, even in this age of cynicism, look forward to the weddings of their friends, so that they may get a piece of wedding cake, which, if placed under the pillow, has the power to produce in dreams the vision of a prospective husband.

Used Money Order

Odd Situation Created By Mayor Of French Town

Trusting innocence leads to odd situations sometimes. The Forgery Investigation Department of the Paris Police, located a gang of forgers in a small town in Central France. They were caught passing counterfeit 1,000-franc notes, red-handed. Ten notes were given to the local mayor, with instructions to send them to Paris by the quickest and safest means available. As two days elapsed without the arrival of a special courier from the Mayor the head of the Paris office telephoned to him and asked what he had done with the notes. The Mayor replied he had sent them at once and when asked how, said he had sent the 10,000 francs by money order.

Explanations and Comments

The Result Of Persecution, 11:19-21.—"The storms of persecution are only winds which fan the fire of faith and carry the sparks of truth to a distance." Luke returns in his narrative to the time immediately following the death of Stephen, recorded in Chapter 7. The persecution that succeeded drove the followers of Christ as far as Phoenicia and the island of Cyprus and Antioch in Syria, and as they sought asylum in these places and elsewhere they explained the reason for their coming and told the story of the Gospel, but to Jews only. "The persecution turns out to be a missionary society unconsciously organized by the Jews of the new faith."—Lynn Harold Hough.

In Antioch, however, there was a new departure. Men from Cyprus and Cyrene came to Antioch and, being themselves Grecian Jews, they had fewer scruples about mixing with Gentiles than had the Jews of Palestine. These converts when they came to Antioch preached the good news about Jesus to the Greeks as well as to the Jews, with the result that many believed and turned unto the Lord. It was a tremendous innovation, this preaching to Gentiles at Antioch, and by reason of its influence upon later events, Antioch has been called the second birthplace of Christianity.

"These people were added to the Lord before they were added to the church. If that were always true, what a difference it would make in our churches!"—A. T. Robertson.

Barnabas Secures Paul As Co-Worker At Antioch, verses 25, 26.—Through the efforts of Barnabas, the church at Jerusalem had accepted Paul as a brother after his conversion, but Paul had been forced to flee from Jerusalem and find a refuge in Tarsus, his home town. Ten or twelve years have passed since then, and now Barnabas needs help in the work at Antioch. "He knows just the right man for the place, one who has the necessary breadth of mind and sympathy of heart, a Hellenistic Jew like himself, familiar with the Greek language and culture and thought. He seeks Paul of Tarsus and brings him back with him to Antioch. Thus it came to pass that the man who had driven from Jerusalem the disciples, who founded the church of Antioch, comes to help them in their work.

"One mark of a real generosity of soul is the absence of jealousy. Barnabas was so generous that he had no room for envy in his heart. When he went to Tarsus for Paul and brought him back to Antioch he knew quite well what he was doing. He had not forgotten the old days when Paul carried everything before him. He knew Paul was much the abler and stronger man. He knew if Paul came to Antioch he must inevitably take first place. But Barnabas never heeded that. All he cared for was the progress of the work, and perhaps this is the ultimate evidence of Barnabas' goodness. Because envy lurks even in good men's souls." J. D. Jones.

Cheap Labor For Japan

Goods Flooding World Markets And Price Is Low

Let there be no mistake about this: Japan intends to drive all her white competitors from the Far East, and the destruction of their trade is to be the first lever employed for that purpose. So long as she lacked essential raw materials, the prospect appeared to be a hopeless one; but the possession of Manchuria has altered all that. . . . The disadvantages from which Japan was suffering as an industrial nation are gradually vanishing, while the advantages remain. And among these advantages we must reckon cheap labor. The average wage of a female operative in a silk filature is ninepence a day . . . In many fields a Japanese manufacturer is today producing a better article than his white competitor, and that at far less cost. Can we then wonder that Japanese goods are flooding the markets of the world? And be it noted that, while she multiplies her own exports, Japan offers less and less as a market for the goods of others.—W. Watkin Davies in the Fortnightly (London).

Englishman Showed What He Could Do With One Arm

When W. H. Sykes, of Bradford, England, lost his arm many years ago he determined that one arm should do the work of two. At a birthday celebration recently he demonstrated some of the things he do—button his shirt cuff, put on his collar and tie, take a match from a box and strike it, sharpen a lead pencil. In addition he can take care of a garden. He was formerly a member of the city council.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt, young and beautiful, falls in love with Peter Anson, fellow student in an art school. She is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family, and he is a poor, struggling sculptor. On their first date Peter spends most of his money to show Camilla a good time, and then decides he must give her up because he cannot stand the financial pace. A chance meeting, however, paves the way for another date. This time they walk in the park. Camilla tells Peter that she is not rich; or, at least, will not inherit the Hoyt fortune. Peter in turn confesses he is practically penniless. They fall into each other's arms. Together, in the park, Peter and Camilla try to arrive at some plan for the future. Mrs. Hoyt, Camilla's foster mother, suspects from Camilla's actions that a romance is brewing. She is anxious to see Camilla wed wealth. Mrs. Hoyt immediately begins to question the girl about the interest Peter is showing her. She manages to be present on one occasion when Peter calls for Camilla, but the latter's clever stage management thwarts her plan. At a school party, Avis Werth, another wealthy art student, who is attracted to Peter, claims a dance with him, and in the meantime Camilla disappears. Peter had last seen her with Gus Matson, his roommate, whom he has befriended.

Now Go On With The Story

CHAPTER XIII.

When Peter first had admitted to Gus that he was serious about Camilla Hoyt, the latter had ridiculed his friend with jeering scorn. "Sure, if you want to land in the gutter just go ahead and fall for all the swell dames that cherish your handsome mug. Be a gigolo. Let some heiress pay your tailor and your barber and your hotel bills and lead you around by a gold leash and collar. Go on, you're built just for that. Let us hemen who are not so good to look at, do the work of the world and take the honors."

"That'll do for you," Peter warned, half angry. "Whether or not I love Camilla and whether or not she has money, will not affect my work in the least."

"Oh, no? Well, I've seen that workout. And it's a wash-out, always. Forget the love-slush, kid, and be a man."

"When you find love, you are a man," Peter said soberly. "If you weren't one before, you have to be then."

"Say, what kinda true confession magazines have you been readin'? I thought I was watchin' your habits better'n that!" he jeered.

To escape such tirades without an exhibition of anger, Peter had decided that if Gus knew Camilla, he would understand how serious he was about her. So he arranged for them to meet. The three had dined together one evening, in an obscure little restaurant on a side street where a bombastic sign in the window had promised, "All You Can Eat for 60c." Camilla had insisted upon going there when Peter suggested the dinner.

He had demurred.

"Where," she demanded, "would you and Gus have dinner, if you were alone? Tell me the truth."

He met her eyes with an amused gleam. "Well, the best kind of place to take Gus is one where they advertise a flat rate. He's a smaller man than I am but his capacity for food is on the down and down."

"That is where we shall go then—to a flat-rate restaurant. You find one—or I shan't go anywhere with you."

That was that, and settled the matter. The walls of the restaurant which they selected were of green tile decorated with a black frieze, instead of painted murals and tapestries. The music was of clattering nickel-silver on vitrolite tables and soprano voices of waitresses calling their orders to the cook.

"But what are you gonna do with her, kid? You can't offord a wife like that any more than you can own a Rolls-Royce or a yacht. The upkeep is about the same. Or do the car and the yacht go with her?"

"Not much. She goes with me."

"Yeah? 'Whither thou goest, I will go'—that kind of hooey? Say kid," he pushed his hands away with a gesture of disdain. "That's what they all say untill they get you. Then when they've slipped the collar and chain on, they make you do the follown' and take all the fancy steps they do, besides. Good-bye career, for you."

Peter did not enlighten Gus concerning Camilla's situation. That was her secret, and her private affair, anyway. So he ignored Gus's ridicule and dire prophecies, and avoided further references to Camilla as much as possible. The two had met subsequently in the routine of classes, and Gus had been affable in his attentions to Camilla at tonight's reception.

The second time he danced with her, he remarked in a confidential tone, "You're pretty keen about Peter, I guess."

"Eveyone likes Peter," she agreed.

"Sure, swell guy. But I mean seriously, Miss Hoyt, you and Peter have things settled pretty well, I believe."

"Did Peter til you?" surprised.

"No, but I have two eyes, two ears and a brain that works every other impulse or so," he grinned indulgently.

Camilla laughed. "Well?"

He sobered. "I didn't ask you that just to be inquisitive. I had a reason, and a good one. I know some things about Peter that I think it's my duty to tell you. For his good and your own."

Camilla looked up anxiously, with a little puzzled frown. "I shouldn't want to know anything about Peter that he didn't tell me, himself."

"Why not?" he demanded.

"Why—that wouldn't be fair to him, it seems to me."

"You're a queer one," he said. "That's when a woman can be the most help to a man, when she knows things about him he tries to keep from her. How about that first night when he took you out and almost broke the bank tryin' to bluff you into thinkin' he was in your class?"

That was sufficient argument for Camilla. She never had overcome her chagrin over that episode. "Well, of course, anything like that," she admitted.

"Exactly what I mean," he declared.

"Why, if there is anything I can do to help Peter instead of hurting his chances, I'd like to know about it," she agreed.

"How about walkin' outside for the rest of this dance, while I tell you something, then, for your own good as well as his?" Gus invited.

Camilla consented readily.

They strolled toward the lilac hedge, which was no longer fragrant with panicles of bloom, but the night was sweet and warm with the promise of summer. "There are some benches around here, somewhere," he said. "We could sit down and rest while we talk."

Camilla knew well where the benches were, and located one easily.

"Whew!" exclaimed Gus, "Society's not in my line. A little of that goes a long way with me. Of course," he amended in a lower voice, "it's different dancin' with a swell girl like you."

"Let's talk about Peter," she suggested quickly. "What do you think I should know about him, Mr. Matson?"

"So she doesn't want to hear about me, at all," he soliloquized. "I don't count. She wants to know about Peter. Aw' right, aw' right, baby, get a load of this." He announced abruptly in reply to her question, "That he's a cheat and a double-crosser!"

Camilla gasped, astonished to silence for a moment. "Why, how dare you say that about Peter?" she finally demanded.

"I dare to tell you because I'm too crazy about you myself to see you fooled by a slicker like him!"

Camilla stood up angrily, "I'll not listen to another word you have to say."

"Wait a minute," Gus pleaded in a kinder tone, "you'll be sorry as long as you live if you don't listen to me."

She hesitated. "Whether I listen to you or not, I shall not believe a word you say against Peter. So we'd better go back to the party."

"I'll take you back—when you've heard what I'm gonna say. Sit down, please Miss Hoyt." Her loyalty to Peter infuriated him, but he managed to appear calm and disinterested except in her welfare.

Camilla obeyed reluctantly, sitting rigidly on the edge of the bench, away from Gus and facing him, in an attitude of defense. She knew that Gus was not a gentleman. He was the kind of man whom no amount of culture could refine, no amount of training could develop even his talent. He scoffed at refinement and knew all there was to know, told the world, too, in no uncertain terms. She had tolerated him only for Peter's sake, who pitied him and believed that what he needed and deserved was a helping hand. Peter was so kind-hearted and gullible, and this was the way he was being repaid for his charity.

God has brought us unto this time.

If we are not fit to cope with that which he has prepared for us, we should have been utterly unfit for any condition we imagine for ourselves. In this time we are to live and wrestle, and no other. Let us humbly look at it, and we shall not wish that the sun could go back its ten degrees, or that we could go back with it. If easy times have departed it is that the difficult tims may make us more in earnest; that they may teach us not to depend on ourselves. Wins Scholarship

The mental calibre of its students and the thoroughness of the training given at Creston high school is nicely illustrated in a wire received on Tuesday by H. A. Dodd, notifying that his son, Herbert, had been awarded matriculation scholarship at the University of British Columbia which necessitated his attendance at U B C. this term, and advising that no postponement would be granted.

Lateness in receiving advice is due the fact that the scholarship was won by a high girl at Revelstoke, who was unable to accept and was immediately offered the next highest candidate who is young Dodd.

Enquiry reveals the fact that the scholarship is awarded the high school student in East and West Kootenay making the highest standing at the midsummer departmental examinations, which would indicate that Herbert stood second highest in all that territory.

He is just 18 years of age but has a fine public and high school record, never missing a grade and this year successfully passed both his Normal entrance as well as junior matriculation. He is at present attending Normal School at Victoria, but on Tuesday his father wired him to immediately report at U.B.C. to take advantage of the scholarship.

Political Schools

Hon. Vincent Massey, president of the Liberal Federation of Canada, started something when he adopted an idea which has been in operation in Great Britain for a number of years and inaugurated the Liberal Summer Conference held at Port Hope, Ontario, in September. Ontario Conservatives quickly grasped the same idea and followed with a Conservative Summer School at Newmarket. Neither of these gatherings were of a partizan character, nor were they held under the authority of the official party organizations. They were round table conferences for the study and frank discussion of political, economic and social problems. No decisions were formally recorded, nor were resolutions adopted.

Inasmuch as the Liberal Conference was a Dominion-wide gathering, while the Conservative School was an Ontario gathering, and further as the Liberal Conference had been promoted some considerable time in advance of its meeting, Mr. Massey was successful in securing the attendance not only of leaders in the political and economic life of Canada, but men of standing and influence in Great Britain and the United States, including Sir Herbert Samuel, leader of the British Liberal party, and Mr. Moley, the chief of the Roosevelt "brain trust." The Liberal Conference, therefore may be regarded as an indication of the character of these gatherings.

That conference was attended by many Conservatives and by supporters of the C.C.F., as well as by Liberals. Conservative views and Socialist views were just as freely expressed as Liberal views. As a matter of fact, the Liberal Conference and the Conservative School exchanged speakers, while men of Socialist views and leanings addressed both Conference and School. In a word, it was a coming together of men and women keenly interested in the current problems of the day as they affect Canada and the world of which Canada constitutes a part. They came together to study these problems, to obtain expert opinion in regard thereto, to examine and criticize suggested remedies and policies, and to frankly and freely exchange views thereon.

It was a school of citizenship in the highest and truest sense designed to engage some of the best thought of the country in a searching analys's of existing conditions and of suggested remedies designed to overcome the weaknesses and evils existing in our economic life and social order, and the part which governments must take in removing such evils and promoting the continued onward march of civilization and a progressive betterment in our whole standard of life and living.

So successful indeed did these gatherings prove to be, that nothing but praise has been voiced by the press of Canada regardless of political affiliations. These conferences or schools are to be continued next year, and the probability is that such gatherings will be organized to be held in different sections of the Dominion in order that an opportunity may be afforded to a much larger number of earnest citizens to attend and participate in them.

Equally important,—perhaps even more important,—is another development arising out of these initial gatherings, and that is the formation in many centres across Canada of Discussion Clubs in which men and women deeply interested in public questions and matters affecting the public welfare are meeting and giving earnest heed and study to such matters.

Nothing but good can result from such study carried on quite apart from the partizan controversies and excitements of election campaigns. Speakers before such Discussion Clubs know that every word they utter will be fully weighed; that the facts they submit will be open to investigation; that the suggestions they advance will be minutely examined to determine their soundness, practicability and worth. Special pleading will be at a discount; emotionalism will not convince; but in the freedom of round table discussion, and in what might be termed the clash of intellects and authoritative opinion, knowledge will be advanced.

The inevitable result of such Schools and Discussion Clubs must be to raise the tone of public discussion in Canada. Political platforms of the future will have to be drafted to be something more than mere vote-catching devices; if they are not they will fail to impress and attract the voters. Members of Parliament and of the Legislatures will find it increasingly necessary to keep themselves well informed, fair and convincing in debate, rather than merely concerned in gaining some party advantage. There will be a more general recognition of the fact that politics, after all, is not something ignoble and to be shunned, but rather that politics is, in fact and reality, the science of government.

It is to be hoped that this movement for a better educated, more enlightened citizenship will spread far and wide throughout Canada; that it will be encouraged and promoted by all political parties and groups, and that people of every variety and shade of political and economic thought will gather together in earnest study and frank but friendly discussion of what, in the final analysis, are the common concern of all, in which the interests of all are inextricably bound together.

Scientists Return From Long Sojourn In The North

"Aurora borealis flashing directly overhead at Fort Rae never came lower to the earth's surface than 55 miles distance during their observations. Dr. J. M. Stagg, leader of the party of British scientists who have spent the last 13 months at Fort Rae, North West Territories, studying northern weather conditions, made this statement.

Dr. Stagg flew from McMurray after coming out by river boat to superintend the transportation of some six tons of valuable instruments used by the scientists in their investigations. Five other members of the party came out some time ago.

Until the large volume of data gathered during the 13-month stay in the north had been studied it was impossible to state the result of their observations, Dr. Stagg said. Some 12 months would be required before the data could be placed in publishable form.

AFTER ACCIDENT SHE PUT ON WEIGHT

Kruschen Took It Off Again!

A woman sends the following account of the consequences of an auto accident in which she was involved:—

"A year ago I had a very bad automobile accident, which left me more or less a cripple. Having to lie in bed so long, and being unable to move, I began to put on flesh. When I was able to walk a little again, I found I was 144 lbs., and being just under 5 feet you may guess how I was placed. So I thought I would try Kruschen Salts, and I must say they have done me a lot of good in every way—but chiefly in keeping my weight down. In three months I lost 6 lbs. Then I left off taking the Kruschen, and I soon went up to 142 lbs. again. So at once I got more Kruschen, and am again steadily reducing. My weight last month was 134 lbs."—(Mrs.) W.H.M.

Kruschen combats the cause of fat by assisting the internal organs to perform their functions properly—to throw off each day those waste products and poisons which, if allowed to accumulate, will be converted by the body's chemistry into fatty tissue.

Advocates More Production

Sir Herbert Samuel Out Of Sympathy With Present Policy

Increased world consumption of commodities, not decreased production, should be the aim, Rt. Hon Sir Herbert Samuel told a Canadian Club luncheon audience at Ottawa. With the policy of decreased production he had no sympathy.

"Surely this is a mad policy," he said. "Statesmanship today is on the wrong lines." He indicated the path, which, he felt, would lead toward prosperity. Production should be encouraged consumption stimulated, trade channels should be opened, currency stabilized and peace and tranquility developed.

Arrangements are in hand whereby passengers on rainy days will be able to borrow these forgotten gamps at certain suburban stations on production of their season ticket and a payment of twopence.

DOLLFUSS HAS NARROW ESCAPE FROM ASSASSIN

Vienna.—The step-grandson of an emperor's dentist, wielding a dainty pearl-handled revolver, came within an ace of killing Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss and plunging Austrian and European politics into new and more dangerous confusion.

As it was, however, the two bullets from the gun of Rudolf Dertil, a former corporal in the Austrian army, only grazed the chancellor's left breast and wounded him slightly in the left arm. Dollfuss, after receiving treatment at a hospital, went home within an hour.

Socialist newspapers headlined the accusation that Dertil was a Hitlerite, while, on the other hand, the pro-Dollfuss newspaper Westblatt identified him as a member of the Schutzbund, the dissolved Socialist military organization.

Whatever Dertil's political camp, however, his two bullets were water on a duck's back as far as the diminutive Dollfuss was concerned.

A few hours after the attempt, the little chancellor—four feet, 11 inches tall—was standing in his pyjamas at home delivering a nation-wide address assuring the Austrians he was still up and fighting.

Dollfuss thanked God for the fortunate outcome of the attempt on his life, coupling this with an expression of firm determination to proceed with his patriotic mission. He explained that he took the occasion to make the speech so as to shut off any exaggerated reports of his injury which might circulate.

"That was a close one," was the comment of the chancellor as he left the hospital to return to his home.

The attack was staged at the entrance to the parliament building. As Dollfuss approached, Dertil moved up, apparently with the intention of handing him a manuscript. Police intervened, however, and seized the document. Thereupon, the former corporal stepped back a few paces, drew his gun and fired.

The chancellor was rushed to the hospital.

The officers began rounding up political suspects, leading to the belief in some quarters that drastic action against both the Nazis and the Socialists was impending.

Fascist Party Being Developed In England

Young People Studying Movement States Hon. Herbert Greenfield

Calgary, Alberta.—Within three or four years at the present rate of development, England would have a Fascist party that would be a power to be reckoned with, Hon. Herbert Greenfield told the young men's section of the board of trade. Mr. Greenfield was formerly agent-general for Alberta in London, England.

Unemployment and economic pressure is driving England's youth into the ranks of the Communist and the Fascist, Mr. Greenfield declared. The younger generation is giving profound study to conditions and problems and new movements are springing up.

Reported That U.S. Government Plans To Make Reductions

New York.—The Washington correspondent of the Journal of Commerce says it is indicated that the United States government will embark upon a new monetary policy that will enable foreign debtor governments to conduct appropriate negotiations looking to settlement of their obligations.

It is further manifest, the correspondent reports, that a substantial scaling down of the British debt must be effected. "The chief domestic problem being as to how this may be accomplished without bringing important adverse repercussions to the Roosevelt administration."

Lake Carriers Want Coastal Laws Amended

Claim Higher Rates And More Wheat Shipments Needed

Ottawa, Ont.—The lake carriers are making a vigorous effort to persuade the Federal Government to proclaim the amendment to the coastal laws enacted at the last session of parliament.

It is being urged that unless higher rates can be obtained on the Great Lakes and a larger volume of wheat made available for Canadian owned ships there will not be a solvent company left in the business this fall.

Under the amendment the transshipment of wheat at Buffalo would be stopped, unless carried throughout in Canadian bottoms.

The lake carriers have met a favorable reception at Ottawa. They desire the amendment to be proclaimed now in order that they will reap the maximum advantage on the autumn wheat trade. Apparently most of the cabinet ministers are favorably disposed, but the final decision, it is learned rests with Premier R. B. Bennett. He is said to have requested numerous memorandum giving both sides of the case but has not yet indicated what will be done.

Paris Papers Criticize French Foreign Minister

Making Too Many Concessions To Germans Is Complaint

Geneva, Switzerland.— Criticism appearing in Paris newspapers to the effect that Joseph Paul-Boncour, the French foreign minister, was making too many concessions to the Germans, especially regarding the size of the French army, was said to have decided him to go to Paris and consult with the cabinet.

Revelation that a French statesman had conferred with the secretary of Germany's ministry of propaganda, Paul Joseph Goebbels, was said to have excited some of the French leaders.

M. Paul-Boncour told the assembly of the League of Nations that the four-power European peace pact of Great Britain, France, Italy and Germany strengthens the Locarno pact.

A Strange Phenomenon

Lake Superior Village Inundated By Action Of Waves

Rossport, Ont.—A wall of water, believed to have been thrown up by earth tremors, under Lake Superior, flooded storehouses and carried away fishing docks at this fishing hamlet. Bay waters receded more than 100 feet, leaving boats moored to the docks suspended in the air. On the backwash, buildings along the bay shoreline were flooded and considerable damage done. The unusual phenomenon occurred several times.

Peculiar action of the water left the lake bottom fully exposed and docks and boats high and dry. Each succeeding wave rushed back with great force, breaking inland for some considerable distance. No lives were lost.

Rossport is situated 100 miles north of Port Arthur.

British Steel Plants Busy

News From Sheffield Regarding Business Is Cheering

London, Eng.—Cheering business news came from the United Kingdom's heavy industries, particularly from Sheffield, centre of the steel trade.

C. J. Walsh, just installed in the historic office of master cutler of Sheffield, reported plants in that city are producing more steel than in pre-war days and that the monthly output is 27,000 tons more than a year ago. A considerable share of this improvement, Walsh said, was a direct result of the tariff on imported steel. He added Sheffield's newer products such as magnets, razor blades and stainless steel had made great strides during the last year.

U.S. Unions Backing Canadian Rail Workers

Full Support Pledged In Dispute Over Wage Cut

Cleveland, Ohio.—A. F. Whitney, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' Association, said the organization's full support had been pledged to Canadian railroad workers in their campaign against a second 10 per cent. wage reduction.

Representatives of the Canadian railroaders conferred with rail-labor officials in his office on June 1, Mr. Whitney said, and at that time a resolution was adopted providing all legal expenses of the Canadian anti-wage reduction campaign would be paid by the railway labor unions and any other needed support would be given.

The resolution, Mr. Whitney said, provided the association should "go as far as possible" in aiding the workers of the Dominion, many of whom, he said, were receiving wages approximately 17½ per cent. lower than rail workers in the same capacities in the United States.

The rail unions have approximately 14,000 members in Canada, Mr. Whitney said.

Hamburg, Germany.—Professor Albrecht Mendelssohn Bartholdy, grandson of the composer Mendelsschn, has been dismissed from the University of Hamburg and the Institute of Foreign Affairs, of which he was head.

Famous in international law, Bartholdy was dismissed because of his Jewish nationality. He was a pioneer in agitating against the claim of Germany's sole war guilt. His grandfather's music is no longer played nationally.

Gerhar Essar, a noted Jewish professor of civil law decorated in the war, also was dismissed.

Will Balance Budget

Conditions In Britain Show Good Improvement

London, Eng.—Neville Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, told a group of bankers Britain's budget would be balanced this year and that undoubtedly the situation in the United Kingdom offered a more favorable prospect than it did a year ago.

"There is no sign of an approcahing doom," said Mr. Chamberlain, "but on the other hand in almost every direction we see indications of definite progress and a growing sense of the confidence that this is no mere flash in the pan, but the beginning of a permanent advance."

The Chancellor said it seemed likely Great Britain ultimately would return to the gold standard.

"But," he continued, "we in this country cannot consent to link our currency to gold until we are certain that the conditions prevailing are such as will permit the gold standard to function efficiently."

Obligation Rests With Four Western Provinces

Dominion Government Has No Control Over Refunding Timber Dues

Ottawa, Ont.—The obligation to refund timber dues rests with the four western provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia, and not with the Dominion, under the terms of a judgment handed down by the supreme court of Canada.

In its judgment the court dealt wth a reference made to it by the Dominion Government. The reference developed from a dispute between the Dominion and the western provinces concerning dues paid by homesteaders for the privilege of cutting timber on their lands for commercial purposes.

U.S. Veterans Parade

Col. Lafleche Witnesses Imposing Spectacle In Chicago

Then the grand parade of American "Buddies" who did their part in the Great War, along with their women's auxiliaries swung into the Soldier Field amphitheatre to be reviewed by an assemblage of distinguished persons, Col. L. R. Lafleche, Canada's deputy minister of defence, among them.

The march past, which lasted for 10 unbroken hours, was the lone legion activity on the 15th annual convention program.

Toronto, Ont.—Hon. E. A. Dunlop, Ontario provincial treasurer, has announced the government's plan to cut down controllable ordinary expenditures by $4,000,000 had been carried to a successful conclusion and the ordinary expenditure for 1933 would be well within the estimate of $34,950,000.

CANADA NOW ON THE ROAD TO RECOVERY

Ottawa, Ont.—Reasons for the opinion Canada is now on the road to recovery are set forth in a statement with which Prime Minister R. B. Bennett will launch the campaign in connection with the refunding loan which will be offered to the public this week.

"With due precaution against unwarranted opinion I think I may say that in Canada we are now on the road to decovery," the Prime Minister declares.

"The events of the past six months appear to demonstrate with increasing clarity that the downward trend has come to a definite stop and that an upward trend is now in progress."

Mr. Bennett turns to the latest statistical reports on industry and trade. These records, he believes, show that Canada's general economic condition reached its lowest point during the month of February last, and that "today we are definitely above that level following a recovery which has been gradual but persistent and unmistakable.'

Available records of industry since April show that 116,000 have been added to the payrolls while estimates based on these partial reports place the entire increase in employed persons since that date at 246,000.

External trade figures are also offered as proof of the upswing. Both exports and imports have increased and Canada's surplus of exports over imports during the 12months ended with August of this year totalled $114,000,000.

"All these facts and figures I think may be quite safely taken as signposts on the road to recovery," the Prime Minister declares.

Kilmarnock, Scotland. — Kenneth Lindsay, who farmed in the Peace River district of Alberta 10 years ago while studying emigration, may be the National Labor candidate in the Kilmarnock by-election. Lindsay has also lectured in Canada and he was the first Labor president of the Oxford union.

The by-election is due to the appointment of Craigie Aitchison as lord justice-clerk. The only National Laborite elected in Scotland in the last general elections. He had a majority of 7,036 in a straight fight with Labor.

London, Eng.—With the approval of the bishop of London "movie" films are to be shown in churches and mission halls throughout his diocese.

The films will include scenes from the life of Christ, the last days of Livingstone, the martyrdom of Becket and incidents of missionary life. A travelling preacher will go round with the movies, and in due time it is hoped to elaborate this scheme by the introduction of a series of "talkies."

Supervised Farming

President Beatty Of C.P.R. Favors This Idea

Winnipeg, Man.—Supervision of farming in western Canada is essential to the improvement of farm practices generally and is a necessary incident to any federal immigration scheme in the opinion of E. W. Beatty, K.C., president of the Canadian Pacific Railway. "Farm management, for many years to come, will, I think, be an important factor in the success of farming operations in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta," Mr. Beatty said.

Think Port's Future Assured

Churchill, Man.—With the restoration of normal crops the future of Churchill is assured, grain men of this northern Manitoba port believed. Despite a temporary setback received when lower lake freight rates were put into effect, sailings equal to last season's record number, carried a greater quantity of grain to overseas ports.
