Simpler Problems Baffle Man

While world opinion is disturbed and distorted by threats of war and general unrest, while thoughts of budgetary deficits and problems of trade engage anxious minds at home, it is inspiriting to turn to conquests of the physical universe which, from time to time, demonstrate man's ability to master infinitely greater problems than those which threaten his peace, security and prosperity. The statement may be trite and commonplace, but it is nontheless true, that man's ingenuity in solving the riddles of the universe is in marked contrast with his apparent stupidity and futility in seeking solutions of others directly within his own purview and which, as a matter of fact, are his own creation.

The thought is suggested by recent addition to scientific knowledge of the atmosphere which is now known to consist of four layers—the troposphere, the stratosphere, the ozonosphere and the ionosphere. The troposphere, the layer closest to earth's surface, is the stratum of changing temperatures and pressures and of wind-driven clouds. As long ago as 1899, it was discovered, by temperature tests, that this layer terminated relatively abruptly at a height of between six and seven miles. Beyond this height, the temperature was found to be relatively constant up to about 23 miles. This layer of calm, cloudless air of uniform temperature is the stratosphere of comparatively recent conquest by balloon ascension.

As this is written, a prairie dust storm occludes the sun, and, as a result, there is a marked fall in temperature. It is palpalby cooler. It happens that calculations concerning dust shot into the stratosphere by volcanoes prove similar cooling effects. If one seven-hundredth of a cubic mile of fine dust were blown into the stratosphere it could form a screen which would reduce the intensity of the sun's rays by 20 per cent. The screen would remain suspended in that still windless zone for years, and it has been suggested that the ice ages have been caused by such volcanic dust-screens.

Recent research has shown that, above 23 miles and extending up to 38 miles, is another layer rich in ozone and, for that reason, called the ozonosphere. The significance of this layer so far as human history is concerned, lies in the fact that, because it is absorptive of ultra-violet rays from the sun, the earth is adapted to human habitation. Without this screen, it is said, organic life on earth would be wiped out by sun-stroke.

The ozonosphere, unlike the stratosphere, is not cold but hot. Above it and beginning at 50 miles, lies another layer, the ionosphere, so-called because the gasses of the air in that region are in an electrically excited or ionized state. The secrets of this stratum are yielding to radio research although its existence had been deduced, long before the advent of the radio, to explain some of the earth's magnetic phenomena. The ionized particles have the property of reflecting radio waves back to earth and it has been revealed there are two main layers in the ionosphere, at 64 and 112 miles respectively, which reflect these waves. Each of these is split into two during the daytime making a total of four layers. These four layers probably mark the heights at which particular constituents of the atmosphere become electrified or ionized.

Recent research has further demonstrated that the electrification in the layers is more intense in summer than in winter, the condition being normalley due to ultra-violet rays from the sun. Thunderstorms also play their part, it having been calculated that the electrical energy continually released in thunderstorms is more than sufficient to produce all the observed ionization in the ionosphere.

That scientific minds applied to investigation of the seemingly inaccessible have produced so much positive achievement is in striking contrast with the meagre fruits of the efforts of politicians, statesmen, economists and "brain trusts" to solve the problems of man's social and economic relationships. It suggests the thought that, were scientifically trained minds set freely and independently to work, by universal agreement, upon the problems which seem destined to perpetuate embattled borders between peoples of kindred cultures and similar aspirations, their solution quickly would be forthcoming. The rest would be up to us.

Charting Coast Of Labrador

British Naval Surveying Ship Challenger Engaged In Work

The British naval surveying ship Challenger, has sailed from Portsmouth to resume her task of charting the coast of Labrador. This work has never been completed. Last year the admiralty started the Challenger upon the work because it has become necessary to provide safe channels for navigation along this dangerous coast owing to the development of Labrador. The survey will take years to complete.

FINE QUALITY TEA ALWAYS ECONOMICAL

Packers of the finest teas such as "Salada" have been forced to increase prices. As soon as merchants' stocks at present low prices are depleted your favourite beverage will cost you slightly more. This has been brought about by advances at the gardens where production has been purposely restricted in order to save the growers from further disastrous loss. But this comforting beverage is still the cheapest drink in the world next to water itself.

As a matter of fact, your neighbors think just as disagreeable things about you as you do about them.

Weary Days—Sleepless Nights Wrack the Nervous System

MILBURN'S HEALTH AND NERVE PILLS

Men and women toss night after night on sleepless beds. Their eyes do not close in the refreshing repose that comes to those whose nerves are right. They are irritable and nervous, weak and worn out, and everything looks dark and gloomy.

Milburn's H. & N. Pills is the remedy that is required to restore them the blessing of good health. They bring back the sound refreshing sleep, tone up the nerves, and impart that sense of buoyancy to the spirits that is the result of renewed mental and physical vigor.

Russian Aviators Have Completed Big Task

Rescued 101 People From Floating Ice Off Siberian Coast

Two months ago 101 Russians were wrecked on floating ice between Wrangel Island and the coast of Siberia. Since that time the efforts of Russian aviators in rescuing the 101 a few at a time has held the interest and admiration of the world. The task was recently completed. Not a life was lost.

Moscow, aware of the rich mineral resources of this Arctic island whose inaccessibility has become proverbial, rashly determined to populate it with permanent colonists. Of the 101 there were ten women and two children. After their ship had been crushed, the adventurers, who had plenty of food and fuel, built living quarters on the ice and were not uncomfortable in spite of the sub-zero temperatures. They suffered little, but they were constantly in peril, for the breaking up of the ice might bring death at any moment.

The organization of the relief work was thorough and systematic, and its success is a tribute both to the skill and to the indomitable courage of the Russian aviators. It is not without reason that Moscow is celebrating, and praising the efficiency of Soviet organization, the hardihood of the marooned men and women, and the devotion and ability of the rescuers. One Moscow newspaper comments, perhaps with reason, that if the disaster had occuurred in the days of the czars the Wrangel colonists would all have perished while bureaucratic officials argued as to which department should undertake the rescue.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CAST OFF UGLY FAT

Woman Loses 28 lbs. in 3 Months

"Three months ago," a woman writes, "I was persuaded to try Kruschen Salts to reduce my weight, which was 222 lbs. I had tried other things, but all to no avail. Now I know that Kruschen Salts are different. In three weeks I lost 5 lbs., and I felt five years younger. I really must say I feel a different woman. I have now lost 28 lbs. to date."—(Mrs.) S. G. B.

If you are overweight take one half-teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning. There will be no rapid or alarming loss of weight, but just a steady decrease of that flabby fat which is as unhealthy as it is unsightly. Kruschen is a scientific blend of six mineral salts found in the waters of those European spas that have been used by generations of overstout people to reduce weight.

Light Clothes For Warmth

Several Layers Better Than Small Number Of Heavy Ones

Very thick, heavy garments are not so helpful in enabling one to keep warm, as might be supposed. A far better way to defy the cold is to wear a larger number of light ones. The late Lord Kelvin was a great believer in this method. On one occasion when he was making tests of his sounding machine on a battleship on a bitterly cold day, he was asked why he did not wear an ulster. His reply was that he did not need one. The colder the weather, the more thin undervests he put on, and the air between them insulated his body from the freezing winds. Many fishermen have also found that several layers of light garments are more useful than a small number of heavier ones, and act accordingly when facing the intense cold frequently encountered on their winter fishing trips.

Seems Hard To Solve

Perhaps there ought to be a happy medium between the methods of young scientific students of babies and the methods of their grandmothers. A Baltimore specialist condemns the modern method which leaves babies too much alone. It is curious that after several hundred thousand years' experience the human race has not come to definite conclusions as to how babies should be brought up.

Deep Sea Exploration

Diver Will Spend Six Months Studying Fish In Ocean's Depths

Even though he plans to drop 3,000 feet down into the depths of the ocean in a diving glove, William Beebe doesn't expect any sea serpents.

"I saw one once," he said, a grin wrinkling his weathered face. "Then I took a second look. At first glance, it was a tremendous sea serpent writhing away into the horizon. It turned out to be the Atlantic cable."

Mr. Beebe was making last preparations for his departure for St. George, Bermuda, where he will spend six months studying deep sea fish and the strange, weird lives they lead.

Got Post War Job

Showed One-Armed Man Who Did Great Things For England

The story how Sir Edward Hilton Young, minister of health, who lost an arm in the 1918 raid on Zeebrugge, got a post-war job with the admiralty was told in a speech by Lord Riddell. Sir Edward, Lord Riddell said, came back from active service and sought a position with the admiralty only to be told there was "no room for a one-armed man."

Sir Edward, he said, retorted: "Well, come with me to Trafalgar Square and I'll show you a one-armed man who did great things for England."

That, concluded Lord Riddell, was too much, "even for the admiralty", and one of his chiefs replied: "If you are another Nelson we will take you on."

Favor Smaller Bank Notes

The Montreal Board of Trade is in favor of smaller banknotes and announced that a communication had been sent to the Hon. E. N. Rhodes, minister of finance, Ottawa, suggesting the change. Almost Instant Relief From Neuralgia

For Quick Relief Say ASPIRIN When You Buy

Now comes amazingly quick relief from headaches, rheumatism, neuritis, neuralgia . . . the fastest safe relief, it is said, yet discovered.

Those results are due to a scientific discovery by which an Aspirin Tablet begins to dissolve, or disintegrate, in the amazing space of two seconds after touching moisture. And hence to start "taking hold" of pain a few minutes after taking.

The illustration of the glass, here, tells the story. An Aspirin Tablet starts to disintegrate almost instantly you swallow it. And thus is ready to go to work almost instantly.

When you buy, though, be on guard against substitutes. To be sure you get ASPIRIN'S quick relief, be sure the name Bayer in the form of a cross is on every tablet of Aspirin.

WHY ASPIRIN WORKS SO FAST

Drop an Aspirin Tablet in a glass of water. Note that BEFORE it touches bottom, it has started to disintegrate.

What it does in this glass it does in your stomach. Hence its fast action.

SOME CHANGES MADE IN GOLD TAX APPLICATION

Ottawa.—The government brought relief to non-dividend paying gold mines, placer miners and producers of low grade ore, by announcing that the proposed tax on gold would not apply to them. The question of constitutionality of the tax, if any existed, was dealt with by changing the procedure to place a 25 per cent. tax on the premium paid instead of 10 per cent. tax on production.

As a further guarantee against anything in the nature of double taxation the gold mine companies will be permitted to credit their corporation income tax against the gold tax.

The tax, which will run from April 1 of this year to May 31, 1935, will not apply to any company not now paying dividends, nor to any company which did not pay dividends prior to January 1, 1933.

In no case will the tax operate when the premium is such that the price to the producer is less than $30 an ounce. This was the same provision placed in the original proposal.

Announcement of the change was made by Prime Minister R. B. Bennett. He referred to the protests that had been raised against the tax, particularly in Ontario, and to the charges that the tax was unconstitutional.

There was no question in his mind as to the power of the government to impose the tax, Mr. Bennett said, and he referred to section 91 of the British North America Act. He described also the long discussions between the government and representatives of the mines.

He believed the plan now proposed would meet with general approval of those most concerned. The conferring mining interests had accepted it as a fair way of dealing with the situation.

It is anticipated the tax well bring in a revenue of about $9,000,000, which will more than offset the loss in revenue from reduction of the tax on sugar for which the original imposition on gold was designed.

The only official protests against the tax from a provincial government, came from Ontario, the prime minister said. Hon. Charles McCrea, Ontario minister of mines, had spent some time in conferences with the prime minister and the minister of finance, and had arranged meetings between the government and the miners. Other provinces had complained "to the populace" through the press, the prime minister said.

People Of Fort Vermillion Forced To Vacate Homes

Fort Vermillion, Alta.—The entire population of Fort Vermillion was forced to flee to the hills to escape flood waters from the Peace river, caused by ice jam just above the town, five homes were completely wrecked, buildings inundated, telegraph towers crashed by ice and thousands of dollars damage done to property and livestock as a great wall of water swept over the town at 4 a.m. Fort Vermillion is about 250 miles north of Peace River Town on the Peace river.

Canadian Wheat For Japan

Dominion Sold Japan Wheat To Value Of Three Million Dollars Last Year

Montreal.—Although Japan buys most of her wheat from Australia due to the latter country's lower rate of exchange Canada nevertheless sold Japan $3,000,000 worth of wheat last year, Hon. Herbert Marler, Canadian minister to Japan, stated here.

He thought it would be many years before Manchuria loomed as a serious competitor in the world's wheat markets. Last year, he pointed out, Manchuria produced about 60,000,000 bushels of wheat, sufficient only for the Harbin area.

B.C. Liquor Revenues

Increase Is Shown For Months Of January and February

Victoria.—British Columbia liquor revenues showed an unexpected gain of 25 per cent. in both January and February, and 40 per cent. in March over the corresponding figures of last year, figures available revealed.

Liquor estimates for the fiscal year commencing April 1, 1934, had been placed at $300,000 less than in the same period last year, but current indications are that they will be up instead of down.

Increased purchasing power within the province is believed responsible.

They had flown to Australia from here, leaving March 22, with the object of surveying the route of the England-Australia air race that will be held late in the summer in connection with the centenary celebration of the state of Victoria.

There will be a tour of South Africa and Rhodesia, the delegates to be the guests of the South African section. Preliminary arrangements for selection of delegates were left in the hands of the executive.

Slipnov received highest Soviet honors for his gallant work in rescuing the castaways.

CONTROL BOARD FOR BAKERIES IS SUGGESTED

Ottawa.—Creation of a Dominion licensing board with powers designed to meet the problem of chain or mill-controlled bakeries and bread sales by chain or departmental stores was proposed to the Stevens price spreads and mass buying parliamentary probe by Mark Bredin, president of Bredin Bread Co., Toronto.

Submission of baking codes proposed by the industry in British Columbia and Saint John, N.B., was made earlier in the day. Mill controlled baking establishments were attacked by James Dempster, Toronto baker. Charges that ruthless competition by chain and department stores had seriously disorganized the bread business in British Columbia were made by R. W. Ward, Vancouver, vice-president, Canadian Bakeries, Ltd.

The board which Mr. Bredin advocated would have to be clothed with the following powers:

1. To require all bakers, jobbers and independent distributors of bread to operate under a license.

2. Issue and continuance of such license to be conditional upon compliance with regulations from time to time promulgated by such licensing body.

3. The setting up of an advisory body representative of the bakers to assist the licensing body in carrying out its functions, such advisory body consisting of representatives of provincial associations of the baking industry.

4. The regulation of the price of bread in co-operation with the board or committee outlined in provision three, such price to have as its basis the cost of raw materials, all production, delivery and other costs including a fair scale of wages with minimum wages and maximum hours as adopted, and to be enforced by the properly constituted authorities.

5. To compel a high standard of cleanliness and sanitation; adherence to provincial standards of weights.

6. The definition and prevention of unfair trade practices.

7. The elimination of the spread between the resale price at chain and other stores and retail wagon price.

8. The proper consideration of the consumer's interest in the performance of all its functions.

The capital set-up of a number of baking establishments would be taken up at a later stage of the inquiry, Hon. H. H. Stevens, committee chairman intimated.

CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, MAY 11

Associated Takes Stand

Prospects for grower control in whatever policy may be adopted for marketing British Columbia's 1934 fruit crop brightened up measurably last week when the directors of the Associated Growers announced that they had finally decided to back the three-man board of control, better known as the Growers' Stabilization Committee.

Until definite announcement was made by the Associated as to its position doubt existed as to which of the opposing groups in the Okanagan really controlled a majority of the expected 1934 production.

With the Associated, which handled at least 45 per cent. of the 1933 crop, backing the Growers Stabilization Committee—with which Creston growers are indirectly aligned—no doubt now exists as to the preference of more than 60 per cent. of the Okanagan growers, and with this control of production assured representatives of the G.S.C. are on their way to Ottawa to take a hand with getting whatever advantages they may be able to secure in the drafting of the federal Natural Products Marketing Act which is being put through at the dominion capital—the provisions of which mean so much in making effective the new marketing deal in British Columbia.

While the aligning of the Associated means much to the G.S.C., it does not of necessity, mean that the three-man group will have things all their own way. Still to be reckoned with are the grower-shipper and commercial shipper groups, who control more than 25 percent. of the anticipated crop and who, among other things, would like a seven-man board on which they would have some representation.

Legislation setting up the board is expected to provide for a vote of all growers to ascertain their preference, and is liable to insist on a 75 per cent. favorable vote to assure the establishment of any sort of control board. If 75 per cent. be decided upon and the three-man board is defeated, then what?

Cold Storage

The very best news Creston has had for some time is last week's announcement that shippers through Creston Co-Operative Fruit Exchange have, by unanimous vote, decided to forthwith proceed with the installation of a first unit of what is sure to expand into a commodious cold storage system at Creston.

For a start a three-car capacity plant seems ample, and if the installation and operation costs work out as stated, the benefits such a utility will confer will be ample to carry the extra per package handling charge that will have to be collected to finance the undertaking.

As briefly sketched last week, the usefulness of the new plant works out to the advantage of almost every fruit product handled, but extra emphasis may be placed on the benefits to be derived by growers of pears, of which Creston last year shipped 35,135 boxes, and the tonnage on the increase.

The demand for pears is exclusively confined to mixed cars, and continues throughout practically the entire shipping season. In the past, with no cold storage, local pears had to move almost as quickly as they reached the packing sheds, and when forced to go out in carloads always moved at a reduced price as on Creston's preferred market there was no centre that could absorb a carload except at a bargain.

With Creston forced to make a quick cleanup on pears, none of them were left to move later in the season, and with none available dozens of orders for mixed cars—in which pears were wanted—had to be passed up each year, the business going to the Okanagan, which has ample storage, thereby losing for Creston an opportunity to market several thousands additional boxes of apples on our home market.

And, we fancy, what applies to pears, will apply with equal force to other lines—tomatoes, for instance, which are in considerable demand in mixed cars. For the cherry growers—in what promises to be the biggest crop year ever, and reports of light crops in eastern Canada—the advent of the pre cooler seems to be almost as fortunate as the coming of irrigation in east Creston in the dry summer of 1930, which in turn followed an equally dry season of 1929.

With irrigation over most of the valley, West Kootenay light and power available to all, and now a pre cooler at Creston, surely we can truly claim to have a goodly heritage, and our lot cast in pleasant places. Yea, verily.

Losing Competent Engineer

West Kootenay's loss is the Cariboo's gain may well be said on the occasion of the transfer this week of district engineer Wm. Ramsay from Nelson, to become public works engineer at Williams Lake. In fact the Cariboo is doubly fortunate—it secures an engineer of proven ability as well as a citizen of sterling worth.

No written word is required to convince of Mr. Ramsay's highway building capabilities. Every highway in Creston district has had attention under his supervision in the past 15 years, and considering the financial disabilities of the past three or four years no apologies are necessary for valley roads when compared with similiar localities anywhere in the province.

When Wm. Ramsay took charge in West Kootenay this section had travel facilities little better than wagon roads. In the transformation that has been worked the valley has received pretty nearly the maximum of efficiency at about the minimum of cost. And at a time when graft in highway matters was much heard of, no charge of misuse of public funds was ever heard against the departing engineer.

And the efficiency shown in his work was equally emphasized in his dealings with employees, and the public generally. He was a good listener, careful as to his promises and a great believer in what's worth doing is worth doing well.

After his successful experience in making highwas out of wagon roads and trails in the Kootenays, Mr. Ramsay should render even better service to the department in his new district. And here's hoping the term "Ramsay road" will be heard in the Cariboo with the same sincerity in its utterance as applies here when the local autoist travels the many and varied betterments effected during the reign of Ramsay, from Goatfell to Kuskanook, and on around Kootenay Lake.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Leon Trotzky may become a permanent "unwelcome guest" of France, it has been revealed, because no other country will take him.

Negotiations are proceeding satisfactorily for construction of a new 7,000-ton cruiser for the royal Australian navy.

Without discussion the House of Commons voted $2,250 to Jack Miner, famous Kingsville, Ont., naturalist, to enable him to carry on his bird sanctuary.

The season's trans-Atlantic passenger service opened at the port of Quebec, April 30, with the arrival of two liners, the Duchess of Atholl and the Montcalm.

A suggestion that 40,000,000 women of all classes, creeds and races share in the 1934 Nobel peace prize has come to the Nobel committee from Viscount Robert Cecil of Chelwood.

Imports duties collected at the port of Ottawa during the month of April amounted to $301,687, an increase of $205 as compared with the corresponding month of last year, it was announced.

Inauguration of a regular air mail service between Fort Chippewyan, Alta., and Fond du Lac, Sask., on or about June 12 was announced by the post office department. It will be the first direct service ever operated between the two northern posts.

Subject to approval of the Canadian government, which he said he would approach when his plans are matured and sufficient capital for endowment has been secured, Abbot Chao Kung, former Trebitsch Lincoln, will establish a Buddhist monastery in British Columbia.

The world wheat crop over the summer harvesting area was predicted as being about equal to that of 1933. The International Institute of Agriculture, in making this prediction, said that present available figures indicate losses in certain producing countries will be balanced by gains in others.

Stamp Collectors Interested

Thousands Of Letters Received For Delivery Over New Air Service In North

Nearly 20,000 stamp collectors from all parts of the world have sent letter covers to be flown in the first flight of the new air service from Prince Albert and Beauval and Isle a la Crosse.

It means at least $1,500 revenue on the first flight for the post office.

Covers from stamp collectors in New Zealand, Germany, France, England, the South American countries, the United States and every Canadian province have arrived, and await the coveted cancellation stamps and the "cachets," or special marking stamped on each first flight cover.

Extra revenue accrues when collectors put more than the required number of postage stamps on each cover or when the covers are insured to guarantee safe delivery.

Little Journeys In Science

FIRE AND FLAME

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

No one knows when man first kindled fire, but we do know that there was a time when he was not able to do so. The eruption of volcanoes, lightning, and forest fires were his first experiences with the phenomenon, and from these he learned a fear and awe of it, and later he worshipped it. It is not known how primitive man first learned to kindle a fire, but it is thought he did so by friction, a method which is still used in many parts of the world, and which applies to our modern friction match, invented in England a century ago by John Walker.

Fire first served man with its warmth and by helping him to repel the attacks of wild beasts. He used it also as a beacon to guide him through the dark forests, and in it he forged his first primitive weapons.

Lavoisier, the great French scientist who lived in the eighteenth century, first discovered the real nature of fire and flame, and proclaimed it as the rapid combination of fuels with oxygen, accompanied by the production of heat and light.

From the days that man first learned to make fire until comparatively recent times, the fires of home and industry were fed only with wood. Then a new fuel was discovered, which marked the beginning of the age of steel. This new fuel was coal.

The change from wood to coal brought about a great change in industry. The importance of coal in the smelting of iron made it the foundation upon which our modern machine age has been built. All the early steam locomotives were fired with wood. The adoption of coal for fuel gave them far greater speed.

Oil has been known to man for several thousand years and was used to some extent in all ages. Heavy oil was first used as a fuel in the oil fields of Russia many years ago and it is there that the first oil-burning stoves were invented. Today oil, instead of coal, is the fuel that drives the mightiest battleships and the swiftest ocean liners.

CHRISTIANITY AND PATRIOTISM

Golden Text: "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the great and first commandment. And a second like unto it is this, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself." Matthew 22: 37-39.

Lesson: Matthew 22:1-23.39.

Devotional Reading: Romans 13: 8-14.

Explanations And Comments

An Adroit Question and its Purpose, 22:15-17. The Pharisees were now resolved to bring about the death of Jesus. They had no power to order his death; they must secure from the Roman Governor his death sentence. How was this to be done? They decided to attempt to ensnare him in his talk, hoping to force him to say something which they could report to Pilate, the Governor, as treason. And, indeed, two days later they falsely told Pilate, "We found this man perverting our nation, and forbidding to give tribute to Caesar," Luke 23:2.

Then came the question about which, forsooth, they desired above all things to learn the truth: "Tell us, therefore, What thinkest thou? Is it lawful to give tribute unto Caesar, or not?"

A Wise Answer and tIs Result, 22: 18-22. Jesus understood that back of their compliment and their posing as admirers of fearless straightforwardness was a plot to bring about his death, and he said, "Why make ye trial of me, ye hypocrites?" "Show me the tribute money," he ordered.

"Whose is this image and superscription?" Jesus next asked. "Caesar's," was the answer. "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's," said Jesus, and then added quickly, "and unto God the things that are God's."

The effect of Jesus' answer was to convict both parties of unreality, to awaken every sincere element in the hearts of both, to place the issue at stake on a high plane, to disallow as irrelevant most of the pleas and counterpleas of the long controversy between them." (H. Hensley Henson).

OCCASIONAL WIFE

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER

Author of "Joretta", "Lipstick Girl" Etc.

SYNOPSIS

Camilla Hoyt and Peter Anson, young and in love, marry secretly, deciding to live their own lives apart until Peter is able to provide for her. Peter is a young, struggling sculptor trying to win a competition for a scholarship abroad and Camilla is the adopted daughter of a wealthy family. She is not to inherit money when she comes of age and so is studying commercial art in the hope of landing an agency job. Others in the story are Avis Werth, another wealthy girl who is trying to win Peter, Sylvia Todd, Peter's model, and Gus Matson, his former roommate with whom he has quarrelled. At a party at an exclusive club Peter entertains Camilla's guests with impersonations. When the rest of the members of the party go to a cabaret to continue the gaiety, Peter and Camilla slip off to the beach by themselves and fall asleep on the sand. When they awake it is early morning and Avis and another boy are standing near them. This makes it necessary for Camilla to announce before the party that she and Peter are married. Bowman and Weeks, an advertising agency, where Camilla has submitted some of her work, send for her and offer her a salary of $50.00 a week to start and a prospect of having it doubled. She tells Peter of her good fortune in securing employment. Mrs. Hoyt is also informed that Camilla has obtained work and is going to leave the Hoyt household. Avis Werth rents a studio on the same floor as Peter, and invites him to have lunch there. He accepts reluctantly, but is favorably impressed with his visit. Camilla urges Peter to accept some of her earnings to help him along, but Peter refuses and they quarrel. After Camilla has gone from the studio, Avis Werth calls and persuades Peter to accept a loan of $1,000.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XLII.

"By the way," Peter said suddenly, "we are invited to a party for Saturday night. Avis is having a hot studio-warming, I suppose you would call it, and she commands our presence."

A little frown shadowed Camilla's face for an instant. "I can't understand why Avis took that large studio when she does practically no painting."

"I suppose because she can afford to do whatever she fancies. Just a whim for the moment."

"No doubt. But, even so, I wonder why she didn't take a place in the Craft building, since money is no obstacle. The apartments are ever so much nicer and more modern."

"She doesn't think so at all. I asked her the same question. She says the older building is ever so much more artistic and has more atmosphere than the new. And you know, her suite looks out on that little garden court with a window alcove from each room. I don't know but she's right, at that. Her furnishings are ever so much more effective in those high ceilinged rooms than they would be in the low rooms of the Craft building, with narrow casements and shining new varnish. She has some gorgeous stuff."

"Oh, you've seen her apartment?"

"Of course, being her nearest neighbor, I had to pass inspection on it before she opened it to the public," he said lightly. "She's going to have me do some things for her when I get time, too. First prospect, old girl. So you must be your sweetest to the new client. Remember, the customer is always right, whether she is or not."

"Most of the time she isn't, but I'll do my best for the cause," Camilla smiled gallantly. A little secret fear clutched at her heart—was it premonition or warning?

But she quickly dismissed any such depressing thoughts, in the ecstasy of that night with Peter. He was once again her gentle, adoring lover, who laughed delightedly at her quaint remarks and gestures, and told her how much he had accomplished during the three days since she had seen him.

Neither of them referred again to the harsh words of their last meeting, and they each believed that the experience was erased as completely as the day itself that had slipped into the past of countless yesterdays. She lay in his arms and heard the deep resonance of his voice with sweet content, lost herself in his ardent kisses and dreamed again of that happy day when they would be together forever.

Camilla would have preferred to decline the invitation for Saturday evening, but she recognized the obligation as another of those unpleasant duties which she would be called upon to meet many times in the course of her career as Peter's wife. Like him—she would have to serve his public. The more famous he became, the more public would be their private lives. But any duty became a pleasure when it involved being Peter's wife, which position more women would envy her as he advanced.

Avis was one of the first of these. Camilla knew that. She never had been particularly fond of Avis Werth, and her very obvious personal interest in Peter did not diminish her aversion to the other girl. It might be flattering to Peter to have other women adore him, but it did not make life more secure for his wife.

Camilla told herself that such a condition should also be flattering to her—that this man whom other women coveted had selected her from them all, to cherish and honor for all his life. But that was just the trouble, exactly, her caution reminded her. For all his life would probably be for a long time, and there was always a chance—.

The studio party was a magnificent gesture to make an impression upon each and every guest for a long time to come. Most of them being the kind who had grown immune to impressions, it probably failed in that respect, with two exceptions. And those two were the most important targets at which Avis was aiming—so that was all right.

One was Peter, for every woman who is in love will exert herself to the utmost to impress the man she loves. The other was Camilla, who was much more accustomed to expensive displays than Peter; but Avis especially wanted to impress Camilla with the fact that she now held the advantage over her with respect to having money for anything she might wish to do. She did. Camilla knew that although she now felt financially secure about providing for herself, even that salary which she regarded as very good for a beginning was only a mite as compared to the cost of Avis' party.

The guests were many and varied: Avis' own social group, art students and critics, established professionals, favorite models, tenants of both the Craft building and the Annex. They drifted in and out all the long evening, danced, ate, drank and made merry, with the generous encouragement of the hostess and her beverages.

For effect and approbation, she had selected several paintings and sculptured pieces from the most distinguished of her guests for a private exhibit. They added to the attractions and assured her the approval of the leaders of her adopted profession as a patron of the arts, at least. To a certain extent, her efforts linked the producers and the market, and one sale did actually culminate from the affair.

Avis was stunning in wide-mesh black net, like delicate spider-webs that more revealed than concealed her white shoulders and molded form and net-clad ankles below the long, full skirt that left the line of her figure half way down to swirl in a clinging fullness as she moved graciously among her guests.

She held most of the time to Peter's arm, having taking possession of him as soon as she arrived and saying sweetly to Camilla, I'm sure you won't mind if I give Peter a little the better of this evening. He needs to know people—the kind of people who are here to-night, and I want to be sure he meets everyone and they remember who he is. I want everyone to know you, too, but you already know more of them than Peter does and after all, he is the one who has to make an impression with the right people, if he is going to succeed." She inclined her head toward a group across the room and lowered her voice, "I especially want him to meet my uncle, Mr. Dunforth, who is one of the judging committee for the National exhibit. I'll introduce you later, my dear."

As a matter of fact, she failed to do so, but Camilla gave no thought to it. She was just as anxious for Peter to meet Mr. Danforth as Avis was.

She smiled a generous approval of her hostess' plans. "Of course, I want you to introduce Peter to everyone. Is there anything I can do to help you?"

"Indeed there is. Help everyone you know to get acquainted with everyone else. There's Terry over there," she added significantly. "I know he will be delighted to see you again."

Terry was delighted, and expressed his pleasure in no uncertain words and gestures. He took possession of Camilla much as Avis had done with Peter. Camilla wore a sheer frock of cherry red, with cut crystals for ornaments, and more eyes followed her about on Terry's arm than noticed Avis and Peter.

But Avis gave no heed to that, if she noticed it at all. It was Peter's attention which she sought, and held throughout the evening. Except to those who knew he was married, she made no reference to his wife, and Peter did not note the omission. He was gravely anxious to make that impression for which Avis was striving, grateful to her for her unselfish interest and earnestly convinced that she was doing him a very generous favor.

Mr. Danforth was a solid little man with a handsome head and a Van Dyke beard, who inspected Peter's height with evident approval and appeared to be adequately impressed. Avis made sure that he would not forget Peter.

"Uncle John, I want you to know Peter Anson," she explained distinctly. "He is that favorite pupil of Professor Drake's, who finished National this year and is entering a piece in the Paris scholarship exhibit. I told you about him before."

"You shouldn't tell him everything you know about me," Peter chided her with good humor.

Danforth clasped his big hand firmly. "Yes, indeed, it is a pleasure to know you, Mr. Anson. I look forward to seeing your work. Avis has spoken of you often, in fact, every time I have seen her recently," he laughed. His manner might have implied that Peter was not a married man, and an object of Avis' affections.

But no one heeded that, and the two men entered into an amiable discussion of sculpture, with an interested comment or two from Avis. She was clever enough not to stress too much her interest in Peter's exhibit entry — her objective was to have Peter himself impress his charming personality upon her relative who would hold one of the votes which should determine Peter's future career.

Young Research Worker Believes Revivication May Be Possible

The pink tongue of a dog, revived from death, lapped eagerly as milk was poured into its mouth and Dr. Robert E. Cornish said he hoped the animal's increasing strength eventually would enable it to survive and thereby advance his revivication experiment to aid mankind.

Dr. Cornish, young research worker at the University of California, believes his theory of revivication some day may be applied successfully to human beings who have died from heart failure, shock, submersion and asphyxiation.

The animal, now known as "13" because it was put to death clinically on Friday, April 13, appears to be in a deep stupor and Dr. Cornish explained the dog has not recovered his mental faculties.

"I hope the dog's brain eventually will become restored to the condition it was before death," Dr. Cornish said.

"The dog was dead four minutes by medical standards. It was asphyxiated, the heart had stopped beating, it ceased to breathe and its blood had halted its circulation. There is no question the dog was dead.

"Then I injected heparin to start its heart and defibrinated blood into its veins and within a minute its heart was beating."

THE RHYMING OPTIMIST

By Aline Michaelis

THE GATE

There are wide fields that lie beyond
My narrow boundaries,
And past the fields are mountains tall
And farther, plains and seas.

O, gladly, gladly do I pass
Through fair and changeful ways
To learn the loveliness life holds
And all its joy, its praise;

Its fields of peace, its peaks of hope,
Its seas of bliss that wait;
But never could I enter there
Until I found the gate.

Life's meanings I could never gain,
Its truths I could not prove
Until the gate swung wide for me.
The gate? The gate is love!

Induces Conversation

A man may be a dub in business, in finance or industry, but it is very rarely that he cannot participate in a discussion as to whether his partner bid his hand properly or whether he should or should not have taken a certain finesse. In fact, we can think of nothing so productive of varied and animated conversation as a game of bridge.

Of German invention is a tiny padlock to be sewed inside a coat to fasten it against theft on a closet bar or hook.

Little Helps For This Week

"For this is the will of God, even your sanctification." 1 Thessalonians 4:3.

Between us and Thyself remove
Whatever hindrances may be;
That so our inmost heart may prove
A holy temple, meet for Thee.

Bear in the presence of God to know thyself. Then seek to know for what God sent thee into the world, how thou hast fulfilled it, art thou yet what God willed thee to be, what yet lacketh unto thee, what is God's will for thee now, what thing thou mayest now do by His grace to obtain His favor and approve thyself unto Him. Say to Him "Teach me to do Thy will for Thou art my God", and He will say unto thy soul, "Fear not, I am thy salvation." He will speak peace unto thy soul, He will set thee in the way: He will bear thee above praise of men and things which perish in thy grasp, and give thee, if but afar off, some glimpse of His own unfading unsetting, unperishing brightness and bliss and love.

Genius At Calculation

Seven-Year-Old English Boy Has Uncanny Gift

Try this for a mental sum—multiply 354,489,612,896 by nine! You may not be able to do it, but little seven-year-old Lenon Beason, of Barnfield L.C.C. School, Burnt Oak (Middlesex, England), can. Without pencil or paper to help him, he rattled off the answer 3,190,406,516,064, within eight minutes. He has been two years at school, and while other children are stammering out their "9 times 6s," he is dabbling in millions. His calculating genius is not inherited. "I counted the first five figures and remember that," he said. "Then I count the next five and remember them and so on . . ." Then he takes all the figures which he has photographed in his mind and pieces them together in a panorama of millions. And he can repeat the answer backwards!
