Death Claims Former Resident

John A. McMahon, Had Orchard Here, 1912—Oldtime Railroad Official—Remains Taken Ontario for Interment.

In the death of John A McMahon, who passed away Thursday evening at the home of his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Speers, with whom he had been visiting the past three months, Creston has lost one of its frequent visitors, and one who f r a couple of years was a permanent resident o an orchard property east of town.

Deceased, who was in his 79th year, was a native of Hinchinbrook, Ontario, who at the age of seventeen years commenced railroading with the old Grand Trunk system, now part of the Canadian National line, staying with the company until 1926, at which time he was roadmas er of the Horne Payne-Ottawa, Ontario, division.

From 1911 to 1913 he was a resident at Creston on the prese t J. W. Hamilton orchard property, which he sold to the Hamilton's in the latter year, and returned to Fort William, Ontario, from which city he came to Creston.

He was married in 1885 at Lanark, Ontario, to Miss Annie Mitchell who predeceased him in 1922. A family of one son, Clarence of Fort William, and three daughter , Mrs. Myers and Mrs. McEachern of Toronto, and Mrs Speers, Creston survive, along with a sister. Mrs. A. L. Cameron of Creston, and two brothers, at Vancouver and Sydenham, Ontario.

Rev. A. O. Thomson conducted a short service at the Speers' home on Friday, and on Saturday morning the remains, were shipped to Sydenham, where burial took place on Wednesday, in charge of the Oddfellows lodge, of which deceased was an active me ber.

During his residence and occasional visits to Creston deceased made quite a number of fri nds who will deeply sympathize with those bereaved. Mr. and Mrs. Speers accompanied the body east for the funeral.

Farmers are taking dvantage of the excellent sleighing to bring home the cut of hay stacked on the flats. The snowplough was through here on Saturday night and spoiled the main road for sleighs. Lovirs of Creston, was decidedly rough and tumble, Cecil Moore's Garage downed Creston Motors quint. 18-9. Motors had the best of the play (if either team did) but failed to connect with the new style baskets. After lunch the monthly bridge prizes were awarded as follows: High score, Miss D. McAlpine Again Heads Institute

Reports Submitted Show Better Year in All Departments—Egg Business Expands—Better Powder Storage Facilities.

The annual meeting of Creston Farmers' Institute was held Saturday afternoon in their hall. The attendance was larger than in former years.

W. S. McAlpine, retiring president, rep ted for the board. As on former occasions the report dealt mainly with the work of the advisory board of the Farmers' Institute, and the recommendations made by the government. Commenting on his attendance at the district convention Mr. McAlpine expressed his surprise at the keen interest evident in districts in matters affecting the welfare of farming communities, and felt that Creston institute, now the largest in the province for the amount of business done, should take a wider interest in these matters.

At the store steady progress has been shown during the year. Eggs have been more plentiful and, in consequence, a large number had been received at the grading station. The report proposed the building of a local powder magazine for the convenience of those using stumping powder.

Malnutrition, due to mineral deficiencies in feeding stuffs, was reported on, and a chemical analysis of the various mixed feeds was given in detail. It was noted that the Institute's feed for livestock and poultry were higher in protein content than was the case with many commercial mixtures. Members were also assured that the mixed feed contained the minerals that are considered necessary for proper development and growth. The report concluded with a review o the local butter situation.

After the adoption of the report and financial statement the meeting endorsed a hearty vote of thanks to the officers and staff of the Institute for their services during 1934. The new board of directors elected is as follows:

President—W. S. McAlpine.
Vice-President—F. H. Jackson.
Secretary—John F. Murrell.
Executive—W. H. Hilton and A. W. Sinclair.

Before adjournment the meeting considered matters in connection with the chicken hatchery operations and ways and means of securing a high standard in butter production. Recommendations endorsed for further information as to the new regulation for commercial hatcheries and the purchase of mammoth incubators.

A recommendation sponsored by F. H. Jackson called for the services of an expert buttermaker to provide lectures and demonstrations in up-to date methods.

Death Summons Mrs. H. Truscott

Passes in Her 84th Year After a Life of Unusual Activity and Usefulness—Prairie Pioneer Before Coming to Creston.

A life that exceeded even the four score span, rich in experience and accounting for much useful service freely and cheerfully rendered any and all requiring it, came to an end at Creston hospital early Friday morning, January 4th, in the death of Mrs. Hannah Hendy Truscott, in her 84th year

Deceased was born in Cowes, Isle of Wight, England in 1851, and in 1872 was married to George Lewis Truscott, at Davenport, Cornwall, who predeceased her at Creston in 1912, and who for the first few years of their happy married life was in the coastguard service of the British navy in Ireland, Scotland and south coast of England. Leaving the navy service in 1890 to reside in East London where they were associated with Mansfield House University Settlement work—deceased as secretary of the Women's Guild, and her husband in charge of the boys' work. even at that early date her kindly interest in the welfare of the settlement men was so marked that it earned for her the title of mother.

For seven years before leaving England her executive ability was recognized in nomination to the Board of Guardians under the banner of the Independent Labor party, the election, as a rule, not being contested. Her work on that board was marked by many expressions of regret when, in 1903, the family left England for the Barr colony, now the Lloydminster district, Saskatchewan. With Saskatoon as the detraining point, the 200 mile trip by ox wagon to a point now Blackfoot, Alberta, eight miles west of Lloydminster, was a real pioneering venture, with Mrs. Truscott and her family walking alongside the heavily laden wagon. With a very natural scarcity of medical advice those years on the prairie saw much activity in that sphere, especially among the women and children.

Coming to Creston in 1912, shortly after Mr. Truscott reached here seeking better health in a new home, the days were saddened by his death just before Christmas that year. Residing at times with her sons, Will and Percy, Mrs Truscott in recent years became a member of Blossom Temple Pythian Sisters, and was signally honored with the title of Mother Truscott being bestowed upon her. A feature of the temple sessions featured a short talk on matters concerning the temple and lodge, which contained many motherly admonitions to the daughters and sons of her adoption and always providing the birthday cake in evidence at the annual celebration.

The funeral took place on Sunday from Trinity United Church, with interment in Creston cemetery. Due the illness of the pastor the service was taken by Rev. A. O. Thomson of St. Stephen's Presbyterian Church, and the edifice was too small to hold the large number who were out to pay their last tribute of respect.

The funeral service was in charge of Blossom Temple Pythian Sisters, and a brief but splendid tribute to the beauty of deceased's activities and life in the lodge and community was read by Dr. Henderson a past chancellor commander of Wild Rose Lodge Knights of Pythias. At the cemetery the officers of the temple participated in the burial service. Five grandsons, Raymond and Desmond Truscott, and Herbert, George and Arthur Dodd, with Douglas Corrie, a grandson-in-law, were the pallbearers. By request there were no flowers.

A family of five sons and three daughters survive, Mrs. Plater, Blackfoot, Alberta; Mrs. Beaton, Paynton, Sask., ho were with their mother when the end came, and Mrs. H. A. Dodd of Creston. One son, Lewis, was killed in the great war and the boys surviving are George, of Nelson; Charles, of Battleford, Sask.; Walter of Odessa, U.S.S.R.; Will and Percy of Creston.

As mother, friend, counsellor and all the other lovable traits of character so admirably exercised before becoming a resident of Creston were fully maintained during more than a score of years residence here and her passing will be sincerely mourned by the family and a wide circle of friends.

Jack and Jenny are "going places" again

"I'm glad the Browns invited us over," said Jack to Jenny. "I was beginning to t ink our friends had forgotten that we existed."

"You can thank our new telephone for the invitation," said Jenny to Jack. "You know, I kept telling you that people were passing us up because we had no telephone and it was so hard to get in touch with us. Now that we have one, we're 'going places' again."

Nowadays most invitations come by telephone.

Electricty Will Solve the Sanitation Problem

Editor Review:

Dear Sir—I notice in your issue of December 21st a report, in part, of the cost of installing a sewer system for our town. According to this report the estimated cost for the labor and material would amount to $22,807.65, and for the disposal plant, $20,000.00, making a total of $42,807.65.

Several other things regarding the purchase of property for right of ways and the area for the outlet, as well as the lots on Albert Avenue, and Murdock Streets are not included in the report, nor is there anything said about the cartage of material on the ground.

It is not my purpose to criticise this whole report as I have not time at this writing, but would like to draw your attention to one item in this report, namely, that of digging a trench 5700 feet long, 6 feet deep for 10 cents a foot. Now fellow ratepayers, just think of a ditch sufficiently wide and six feet deep being dug for $1.65 per rod. If one compares those figures with those of the Creston Power & Light Company for digging the holes for their power line, when holes six feet cost from $2.50 to $4.00 per hole, it surely would not take a Sherlock Holmes to decide what an enormous mistake has been made in this report.

I am out, right now, to challenge this report in this particular item. That it would cost double this amount to dig this trench, but assuming the unestimated part, added to the whole, there would be a cost of approximately $45,000 to $50,000 for the entire project.

There is then the cost the individual who would have to pay $250 to $350 for the installing of the proper connection from his residence to the sewer, say, 100 connections at $225 would make another $25,000.

The question is where is this enormous amount of money to come from, and how can it be paid, and who would pay it? When we consider that agricultural land can not be taxed for a sewer, and those to whom sewer connection cannot be attached are not liable we find ourselves in the state of bankruptcy just when we begin.

We naturally say we certainly cannot stand such a debt, but we do need some way of disposing of our sewage, and in reply we say, yes. Some time ago our town was on the verge of a big electrical law suit which, however, was settled without costing the town a dollar. And the same man who settled that grievance is prepared to settle your sewer problems which would not cost the town a dollar.

An Electric Sewer? "I never heard of an electric sewer," said an electrician to me the other day, and had he come into the world when I came, and compared the happenings and usages of that day with the present, he would be surprised beyond the comprehension of mind or speech. But today we have electricity performing all kinds of feats. By its use our clothes are washed and ironed, our toast is made, our streets are lit, our chains are welded, our street cars are run. We have an electric lighting and power giving system in town. Then why not use it for keeping our homes clean? You say, impossible! I say, possible. And I am prepared in this letter to design an aparatus which, by the aid of electricity, will effectually burn up all discharges from the human body by simply touching an electric button.

Now I proceed. The average discharge from the average person does not exceed 1½ pounds per d y, and yet we think this can not be burned up by the action of electricity. You have your electric toaster, if you don't watch carefully, which, though operated by a few watts, will burn your toast to a crisp in a few minutes. So all that is required is to extract the moisture from the toast, then combustion takes place.

Now here is how to apply electricity so that all the discharges of the human body are burned. In the event of a sewer system being inaugurated it is essential that a part of the home is divided for a lavatory. We take this as for a sewer, and about 20 inches from the seat a cement block—it might need to be fireproof brick—is placed on the floor. This cement block would need to be about 20 inches in diamater, and seven inches thick, a shallow hollow in the top, and a hole in the centre to receive the nozzle of an electric torch. On the top of this is set a chamber or crucible to receive the discharge from the body. On the top of this crucible there is a fire resistant lid made after the style of an inverted funnel. About 16 inches from this funnel is the smoke pipe, the lower part being telescoped on top of the funnel shaped lid. This lower piece of pipe, about 16 inches long, is connected to the upright smoke-pipe. When this is done, the stool being over, all the operator has to do is to turn the switch and quicker than it takes to burn your toast the extrement is reduced to ashes which you may mix in the earth of your flower pots.

Looking Back at 1934 Basketball

With Season Half Over Honors Even in Both Sections and Second Place Teams in Ladies Division Coming Strong.

With the first half of the league basketball season over, and the league taking a vacation of two weeks, the public is looking forward to the start of the second half. This is the fourth year for league basketball i Creston, and each year it becomes more and more popular. The largest turnout of the season accounted for a turnout of 150 fans.

In the ladies section the four teams are very evenly matched. As the league standing now reads we have Creston Motors tied with Pharmacy for second place, and Moore's Garage tied with last year's champions, Creston Review, for first place, each having lost two games.

Creston Motors, captained by Kate Payne, is showing a wonderfull improvement over lasr year's playing, and still have a chance of winning the league. Liz. Armitage is the star shooter of the team, with Kate Payne and Dot Wightman, always dependable guards. This group expect to be further strengthened in the second half of the league by the addition of one of the team's original players, Mrs. T. LaBelle (Helen Browell). Earl Marriott, coach, is certainly handling this squad efficiently. The girls have recently donned their new yellow sweatshi ts, which completes the snappy appearance of the gang.

Pharmacy is putting up a good fight for the league championship, and at the rate they are coming along now everyone expects them to keep on win ing a large percentage of their games. Eva, Yvonne and Opal LaBelle make a fine picture as they cleverly flip the ball up and down the floor. Dot Olivier, last year's swiftest and most dangerous forward, is still playing a crack game. Marjorie Learmonth at centre is one of the cleanest and smoothest of the eight, also a very dependable free throw shooter. Of the four teams in the league these girls have the nicest combination and with their red and blue uniforms are possibly the brightest quint in this year's league. Charlie Holmes is handling this team.

It will be noticed that last year's high school team have completely disappeared, but have been replaced by Cecil Moore's Garage. This group consists of most of last year's High Reps., but are not playing with the class of the former team The uniforms of white and blue are quite a contrast against the rest of the outfits.

Moore's Garage, although winning two games from Creston Review fell down before the onslaught of Creston Motors and Pharmacy, one game to each in the first half. Nell Payne, old reliable dead shot, still maintains her good reputation but will have to fight to keep it up. Agnes Crane and Betty Speers are the pick of the forwards—the former, especially, starring in the wins over Creston Review. Mrs. Edith Swain, Erickson, recently added to the team, is an experienced forward, having played with a fast Toronto team a few years ago. Nell Payne is captain of the squad, and Tony Cobus, teacher at Erickson, is coach, has done much to bring the squad along.

Last, but not at all least, are the 1934 lady champions, Creston Review, who have been going strong to uphold their last years reputation These girls are somewhat handicapped this year, having lost their best basket getter, Mrs. Fred Martello. Then, too difficulties have been met with that has cut the team down to five players which, obviously, was responsible for their last defeat by Moore's Garage. Nora Payne, unsurpassed centre, can always be depended on to get the tipoff, and is accompanied on the forward line by Dot Palmer and Irene Bourdon, the latter having played first-class ball all through the first half, although she has had bad luck with her shooting. Mrs. Lovirs and Ada Lewis, guards, are playing their usual games. The former is Creston's best and foxiest player, with a wicked sizzling dead shot. Mrs Jorde of Arrow Creek and Jean Henderson have both found it inconvenient to play on the team, although they joined up at the first of the season. Letty Couling, forward, completes the lineup. Fred Martello, last year's coach, is still with the gang and doing all in his power to have the Review repeat.

The men's section is not as good as last season, but has accounted for two of the most thrilling games of the season, between Imperial Groceteria and Cardinals. The former have been working hard and with new material this season have tied with the Cardinals for first place. The addition of Hunden, formerly playing with U.B.C., Fred Martello and Sid Rodgers of last year's Centipedes, Jack Payne of the High School squad, and Bourdon of the 1934 Cardinals, has given the Groceteria the material needed to make a showing. Hunden, centre; Fred Martello and Herb Couling have been the star shooters, with Jack Payne and Bourdon following closely. Jim Downes, guard, has done well of late, especially ih the last game with the redshirts. Fred Martello is coach.

Cardinals have, so far, lived pretty well up to their reputation of last season. They lost their only game to the Groceteria by a small margin, to tie the league for fi st place. Tony Cobus, formerly of Fernie, an experienced player at guard or centre, greatly strengthens the squad. Howard and Doug Corrie, along with Ben Crawford, make a nice trio, with the former the best shot. Charlie Holmes, another forward has been doing some exceptionally fine shooting. When it comes to getting the tipoffs Bus. Ross is showing unusual skill.

Wynndel Maple Leafs, newcomess to the league, have the making of a real squad. They are handicapped by playing at Park pavilion, as is shown by their exhibition game of a couple of weeks ago when they trimmed the Cardinals at Wynndel community hall. The Cards have been helpful to the Leafs in playing against them at Wynndel and and helping out with coaching from time to time. The last league game in December the Leafs led the Groceteria a merry chase and came close to nosing them out. Buster and Joe Martel, with Andy Hagen and Oswald Payette are the pick of the talent.

Loallo is another new group. These boys have all played on either High or Public School teams at some time, and are the swiftest group in the league. They have excellent combination but lack a few good shooters. Buff Nastasi, Wilfred LaBelle and Lance Maddess are the pick of the quintette. The team is being coached by E. Marriott.

Basketball fans will be interested to hear that Jim Cherrington, a local product, is making a fine showing on the regular team of the University of Alberta, Edmonton. In their last game in December out of a total of 43 points Cherrington collected 24. He plays centre and from reports of the game in the Edmonton Bulletin he is certainly doing his stuff with the top Varsity outfit.

As basketball is the one and only winter sport for the young people great care should be taken to give all players a fair chance to make a show ng. Troubles have already arisen this season whereby players who have paid $3 membership fee have been neglected in both practices and games, to the extent that they no longer wish to waste their time turning out for practices or games. This feature should be carefully considered by the coaches and equal time on the floor should, if possible, be arranged for each player, especially at practices. This will not only do away with embarassment to the player but will popularize the sport to a great extent, and help to keep the teams intact, and have an equal chance of winning.
