THE CRESTON REVIEW

VOL XX. CRESTON, B.C., FRIDAY, JUNE 1, 1928 No. 17

Developing Boy Scout Activities

The Scout Troop now numbers 17 and is divided into three patrols with Andrew Miller, George Murrell and Jack Payne as patrol leaders.

Friday evening is the meeting night which are now held outside when scout training and games are the order of the day with special training in 'Semaphore'. In this four hold proficiency badges, Andrew and Ro and Miller, George Murrell and Jack Payne. It is hoped that by the end of the summer that most of the scouts will be able to send and read as some tests will be arronged when a message will be sent from point to point and it will be interesting to see what comes through.

First aid is also studied, with special attention to what to do for a drowning person, while later on life saving wil. be taken up.

Mr. R. Harris, who is a King's scout, gives us valuable assistance at times and it is hoped that anyone who has been a scout will come forward and help. This is a world wide movement and a boy who is a scout finds friends wherever he goes and likewise does his bit towards world peace when he meets scouts from all nations. Our most pressing need at present is a Scout hall which can be used for all purposes.

The attendance is not all that can be wished as some of our members do not seem to realize that a scout is always in his place, and punctual, too. There is so much to scouting that unless real enthusiasm is displayed it makes it hard for the scoutmaster to bring his troop to a reasonable degree of efficiency. It is a fact however that a comparatively small percentage ever qualify as First class scouts but there are always a few in every troop who go ahead of the rest and it is so here. There is no reason why Creston cannot have some Kings Scouts as well as other troops.—Com.

The much wanted rain came on Saturday night, and already the berries and other crops show the benefits of the wetting.

The water has risen so high on the flats that part of R. Uri's strawberry crop is in danger of being ruined. The burner at the Winlaw sawmill is completely under water.

The Winlaw mill was shut down most of Monday owing to a broken boom allowing drift logs to enter the channel and block the way of the logs to the jack ladder.

Miss Irene Huscroft of Creston was here for the weekend, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Ogilvie.

The Co-Operative Fruit Growers' Association are to commence work at once on a 30 x 40 foot addition at the east end of the pre cooling plant. The new compartment will be used as a freezing room to put berries in the best possible shape to ship out for jam and for the manufacture of ice cream flavorings, and it is hoped to have it in use by June 20th. The erection of the freezer is entirely due to receiving a grant of another $5000 from the minister of agriculture at Ottawa, and the money was votrd due the efforts of R. H. Gale, who was also successful a year ago in getting a similar grant for the pre cooler.

A very enjoyable day was spent at Kuskanook on May 24th, when about 100 mothers and children took part in a picnic. Five cars and Mr. Sixsmith's truck made two trips to convey the picnicers to their destination. Lunch was served, and the afternoon spent with various kinds of sports both for young and old. Of course all hands were on the wharf when the boats pulled in. The children were served with all the ice cream they could eat as well as peanuts, which were the gift of Mr. Cameron. After supper a baseball game was played, girls vs. boys, with the boys winning. The picnic committee wish to thank E. Uri, R. Uri, C. Wigen, J. Wigen, E. Ringheim and G. Taylor who kindly put their cars at the disposal of the holiday makers.

North and South Highway Assured

The best highway news that ever reached Creston came by wire from Victoria on Tuesday to Frank Putnam, Liberal candidate, and is from Hon. W. H. Sutherland, minister of public works, announcing that the necessary work order has been issued for the construction of the Porthill Creston link of the North and South International Scenic Highway, with work to start this week.

The abandoned roadbed of the Great Northern Railway will be used, and will not only provide an ideal grade but will also shorten the Creston-Porthill run about four miles, as compared with the circuitous route now in use via Canyon and Huscrofts.

The amount of money appropriated is not stated but Mr. Putnam informs that in his discussion of the matter with P. Philip, deputy minister, who was here on Saturday, and made his first inspection of the route, it was agreed that ample funds should be made available to open up the road in good travellable shape and that next year a further appropriation will be made to make the road a first-class Ramsay highway.

This north and south road is a thoroughfare the Creston Board of Trade has been fighting for for the past 2 years particularly and that organization and the citizens of Creston very much appreciate the effort Mr. Putnam has put forth since entering public life, and has now brought success in a project that will mean thousands of dollars to the business interests of the village.

BONNERS FERRY, May 31—Approximately four miles of new graveled highway, several miles of resurfacing and considerable maintenance work will be done by the state highway department in Boundary county this summer according to C. J. Chaffins, district engineer of the state highway department, who was a business visitor in Bonners Ferry today.

The new surface road will be constructed on the Copeland Porthill route. The commissioners of Boundary county have made a levy to cover the county's share of the cost. It is the understanding of both the county officials and the state highway department that the remaining four miles of the Copeland Porthill road will be completed next year. It is also possible that arrangements can be made whereby the entire eight miles will be constructed this year, but at the present time the highway department is planning on only four miles.

Engineer Chaffins stated that the new road work would begin in about 60 days.

Canyon City

Canyon orchardists are busy this with the third spray of the season. The rain of almost an inch at the weekend was most welcome, particularly for the just planted gardens.

Everyone should be out for the card party and sociable in the community hall tonight. There will be both bridge and whist followed by several musical numbers and a lunch. Mrs. Evah McKowan of Cranbrook will give a ten minute talk. The affair is under the auspices of Canyon Liberals.

The splendid reputation Hungry Hollow section has long enjoyed for honesty has been badly soiled with the theft, on Sunday night last, of the wire fencing in front of the Kemp ranch, the owner of which is in the Old Country. The police have the matter in hand.

Drugstore Liquor Taker Arrested

For the first time in Creston's history the finger print system was, on Tuesday, responsible for providing the necessary evidence to send a delinquent up for trial. The unfortunate was J. O'Brien, who was charged before Magistrate Mallandaine, with forcibly entering Creston Drug & Book Store on the night of February 19th and making off with 17 bottles of liquor. O'Brien had been sent down for two years at Cranbrook a couple of weeks ago, at which time his finger prints were taken at Nelson jail where he was being detained for transport to New Westminster. The finger prints were duly forwarded Victoria and on the usual inspection to see if they matched any previously taken it was discovered that O'Brien's were the exact match of those left on the window at the Creston drugstore, which he had broken in order to gain entrance, and in removing some of the shattered pane had quite unintentionally provided finger prints that officer McLaren had sent on to Victoria at the time of the robbery.

Let Us Celebrate

A year ago the people of Canada engaged with a very real enthusiasm in the celebration of Dominion Day, the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation. It was, of course, an especially memorable anniversary and for weeks and months many committees of public-spirited citizens spent long hours in planning and preparation for the notable ceremonies which marked the sixtieth anniversary of Canada's birth. The effect of that general observance of Dominion Day from sea to sea, and the carefully planned and well executed programmes, including educational and historical features of great value, was at once noticeable in the greater pride and renewed confidence in Canada and its future which was displayed by the Canadian people.

The year which has since elapsed has been a year of expansion and prosperity throughout the Dominion. Steadily, even rapidly, the Dominion of Canada has grown in national stature and in international importance. It has commanded, and continues to command, an ever increasing interest in other countries, while outstanding men and women in realms of government, education, finance, commerce and industry, not only in Canada, but throughout the world, have referred to this Dominion as among the most favored of all lands, and the one country above all others which today offers the greatest opportunities and the brightest promise for the future.

The Diamond Jubilee celebrations of a year ago helped to arouse and to stimulate the national consciousness of the Canadian people, and, because no country can be truly great lacking a national spirit and consciousness, the celebrations last year have more than repaid all the time, thought and money on them.

It is not sufficient, however, to the cultivation and growth of a national spirit and national aspirations that the birthday of a nation be widely and fittingly observed once in every sixty or one hundred years. Individuals observe their anniversaries annually. Once a year every successful business establishment takes stock of its position, notes its gains or losses, and, in the light of the experience thus gained, plans future operations. Every year boys and girls reach that period in life when they grasp the inner meanings and depths of things to which formerly they gave little or no heed. A nation should, therefore, devote time and thought to a suitable recognition and observance of its national day in each and every year in order that its significance and all that it really represents may be impressed upon the minds and engraved in the hearts of its youth.

This article is a plea, therefore, to the people of Canada that they should profit by the experience of a year ago, and that Dominion Day this year, and in each succeeding year, should be more generally observed than was the case prior to last year. True, it is not possible that such annual observance be on the scale of the Dominion Jubilee celebrations, but Dominion Day can be observed each year in something more than the rather perfunctory manner which prevailed in most places prior to 1927.

It is gratifying to note in the columns of the weekly papers of Western Canada that steps are being taken in an unusually large number of communities to again fittingly celebrate Dominion Day this year. But the number of such places could be largely increased, and it is earnestly to be hoped that in those communities where, as yet, no definite action has been taken to organize citizens' committees for a proper celebration of Dominion Day, 1928, no further time will be lost in taking such action. It is a duty we owe to the growing youth of Canada that they be taught to observe the natal day of their country, and that through observance of Dominion Day a true love for and pride in Canada be developed.

SAME SYMPTOMS IN MANY CASES

An Anaemic Condition Easily Recognized—Calls For a Blood Builder

In most cases of anaemia the symptoms are almost the same. The sufferer grows pale and is easily tired after the least exertion. The appetite is fickle and the patient loses in weight. Sometimes there are headaches, and often inability to sleep well. As the blood becomes thinner the symptoms become more pronounced and often there are fainting spells. All this shows that the blood is thin and watery, and at the very first symptom of this condition the patient should take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, the most reliable blood-builder and nerve tonic known. The sole mission of this medicine is to enrich the blood, and when that is done all the distressing symptoms disappear. Among those who have reason to praise this medicine is Mrs. M. E. Patterson, Shanklin, N.B., who says.—"About four years ago I became very much run down, I could not eat, sleep nor rest, and I grew so nervous that the smallest things would annoy me. Eventually I grew so weak that I did not have strength to move about without help. I was just a miserable wreck, and became very much discouraged as I had tried many medicines which failed to help me. In this wretched state a friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. I did so and before long found they were helping me. Gladly I continued taking the pills until I fully regained my health and strength and I have since continued in the best of health. Later my daughter became anaemic and six boxes of the pills restored her to health, strength and color. Naturally I consider Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a blessing to weak, run-down people."

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Takes Place Of Sight

Gauges In New Airplane Enables Pilot To Fly Blindly

An aeroplane which can find its own way about is the latest wonder. This has been invented by a French aircraft designer. A new set of gauges, which a pilot can learn to read in a few hours, takes the place of human sight.

Twelve French pilots were the first to give the new machine a trial. At the beginning each was inclined to spiral, and then to wobble a little, but when they had become used to their instruments, they were able to control their machines perfectly.

They flew blindly to a point thirty miles away, turned, and came back to the take-off. The new invention should be invaluable for flying by night or in fog.

Endorses Peace Treaty

Kellogg Plan Would Make Armies Useless Says Ramsay MacDonald

London.—When the great powers sign the treaty suggested by the proposals of the United States Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, the armies and navies of the world will shrivel up, Ramsay MacDonald, former labour Premier, declared before the American Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon.

"Sign a multi-lateral pact outlawing war," said the leader of the opposition in the House, "and these false securities we have faintly trusted, these defensive armies which have never protected us, will disappear, because they are useless."

Mr. MacDonald described the Kellogg peace note as "this magnificent declaration of simple fact."

With one part only of the British reply Mr. MacDonald found fault — that regarding self-defence.

"When such a treaty is signed," he said, "self-defence becomes unnecessary and any aggressor immediately becomes an outlaw."

Denies Dealing In Immigration Permits

Former Solicitor-General Declares Charge Is Wrong

Ottawa.—Hon. E. J. McMurray, former Solicitor-General, denied absolutely before the parliamentary immigration inquiry that he had dealt in immigration permits for $100 apiece as charged by Alderman M. J. Coldwell, of Regina, before the immigration committee.

"I was astounded and stunned to read in the papers the statements of Mr. Coldwell," Mr. McMuray said. "I denied it and welcomed the opportunity of coming before the committee and clearing away the charge. I was glad to read the denial of the minister of immigration. What he said was true. I have had no dealings with Mr. Forke since he has been in office."

Mr. McMurray explained she had been elected in 1921 from North Winnipeg, which was half foreign born. Many of these people wished to bring relatives to Canada.

"I assisted them, but I never charged them a cent," he said. The numbers had become so great that later on he had charged them telegraph costs and such things. Then he had turned them away.

The records of Mr. McMurray's law firm of 1922 showed that seven applicants had been handled by his firm, "in a strictly legal way."

The legal fees charged varied from $15 to $50. After his return to Winnipeg in 1926, four cases had been handled at fees of $25 each.

Frown On Sunday Labor

Alberta Will Take Steps To Enforce Lord's Day Act

Edmonton. — Attorney-General Lymburn is instructing the Commissioner of Provincial Police to notify all police detachments in the province that it will be the policy of the department to secure a wider and better observance of the law in respect to Sunday work.

The local police will be expected to co-operate with the citizens in maintaining respect for the provisions of the Lord's Day Act.

Mr. Lymburn points out that under the extreme weather conditons that have prevailed at critical periods of the past two years, considerable leniency in regard to the Sunday law has been exercised, because a certain amount of Sunday work on farms was unavoidable.

He says that this is not, however, to be taken as establishing a precedent, and the law of the land still stands. An effort is now being made to appeal to the interest and good judgment of the general public in the direction of better observance of the day of rest.

Gives Life To Aid Science

Doctor Studying Source Of Jungle Fever Succumbs To Disease

New York.—An expedition into Africa in an attempt to discover the relation between South America and African yellow fever resulted in the death of Dr. Hydeyo Noguchi, of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research, the institute was advised.

Dr. Moguchi, discoverer of the source of South American yellow fever in 1916, died at Accra, West Africa. Recently he wrote to New York friends that he had been stricken with African yellow fever and had been in an African hospital from December 28, 1927, to January 9, this year.

He said his own was the first case of the disease to come under his observation and that from his bed he had directed the innoculation of a monkey with some of his own infected blood. The animal died 12 days later and additional experimentation, his letter said, disclosed the micro-organism responsible for the disease.

Says St. Lawrence Scheme Unnecessary

Report Given To Senate By Shipping Federation Officials

Ottawa.—"It is our firm conviction that as far as Canada is concerned the project is untimely and unnecessary," said A. L. W. MacCallum, manager of the Shipping Federation of Canada, to the Senate Committee on waterways with respect to the St. Lawrence project.

Mr. MacCallum assured the committee that the organization which he represented was concerned only with ocean shipping and that it was not wedded to any particular port or ports in Canada. It felt, however, that the immense expenditure on such a scheme as the St. Lawrence waterways could only be justified if it was proven that the benefits would be large.

The Federation had given special consideration to the matter and it has come to the conclusion that the expenditure at present was not warranted.

Buys Another Airplane

Baron Huenefeld Now Owns Sister Ship To the Bremen

Albany, N.Y.—Baron Gunther von Huenefeld, backer of the first successful westward flight across the North Atlantic, has purchased the Junker's plane Europa, sister ship of the Bremen, but what flight he plans in the new plane, are a matter of conjecture.

One report is that the German Baron, Captain Koehl, and Major Fitzmaurice, would attempt a return flight to Europe, having the new plane shipped to New York from Germany. Baron von Huenefeld, however, denies that such are his plans.

He said it was posible that the plane would be shipped to Ireland, and that he and Koehl would fly it there to Germany, but that the plans were indefinite.

Cost of C.N. Equipment

Ottawa.—The Canadian National Railway purchased $56,024,219 worth of equipment in Canada from 1923 to 1927, inclusive, it was stated in reply to a question in the House.

Thornton Will Serve On League Committee

President Of C. N. Railways Has Accepted Appointment

Geneva. — Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, has accepted an invitation to serve as a member of the League of Nations Railway Committee.

Major-General Raymond D. Candolle, former manager of the Great Southern Railways of Buenos Ayres, also has accepted an invitation to serve.

Montreal.—Sir Henry W. Thornton, K.B.E., chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways has accepted an invitation to become a member of the railway sub-committee of the advisory and technical committee on communications and transit of the League of Nations, it was announced here.

The sanction of the Federal administration to the acceptance of the invitation was given to Sir Henry by the Prime Minister and by the Minister of Railways and Canals.

As Sir Henry may not be able to attend some of the meetings, permission has been given to P. A. Clews, European traffic manager of the Canadian National Railways, located at London, to represent him when occasion requires.

May Not Be Nominated

Reported That Hoover's Chances For Republican Nomination Not So Good

Washington.—It is the well-founded fear in informed and influential Republican circles here that Herbert Hoover, prospective candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, cannot carry the country against Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, whose nomination as Democrat candidate seems assured, and this fear may eventually block Hoover's choice as party leader.

Hoover has identified himself with every policy of the Coolidge administration and is the popular Republican candidate. His nomination, however, is far from assured. The formal opposition to his candidacy within the party is fairly strong and well organized.

Coarse Grain Payment

Saskatchewan Coarse Grain Pool Making Second Interim Payment

Saskatoon, Sask.—A second interim payment amounting to $730,361 is being mailed to members of the Saskatchewan Coarse Grains Pool. This represents a payment of 8 cents a bushel on all grades of oats except a few very low grades; and 10 cents a bushel on all grades of barley, flax and rye. This brings total payments to growers by the Coarse Grain Pool for the 1927 crop to the level of 53 cents a bushel for 2 c.w. oats, 75 cents for 3 c.w. barley; 1 n.w. flax, $1.75 per bushel; and 2 c.w. rye, 95 cents per bushel basis Fort William.

J. S. and Mrs. Calder are Scottish but their sons are Chinese if one is to derive nationality from place of birth. The passport problem was a puzzle but was solaced in one way or another, for here they are "All aboard the C.P.S.S. 'Melita.'" J. S. Calder, senior, has resided in China for twenty-seven years and his sons spoke their native tongue before they learned English. They go to England to school.

ROYAL SOCIETY HONORS THREE FELLOW MEMBERS

Winnipeg. — Distinguished scientists and scholars honored three fellow members of the Royal Society of Canada, in annual meeting here, when outstanding awards were conferred on Bliss Carman, Canadian poet; Dr. A. P. Coleman, F.R.S., of the University of Toronto, scientist; and Dr. Thomas Chamais, of Quebec, historian.

To the distinguished Canadian poet was awarded the Lorne Pierce medal; Dr. Coleman was the recipient of the Flavelle medal, and Dr. Chapais received the Tyrell medal—the highest awards which science and literature can bestow in Canada.

The presentation of awards made by Professor A. H. Reginald Buller, F.R.S.C., of Winnipeg, president of the Society, featured the evening session held at the University of Manitoba.

Many papers on important scientific problems and addresses by outstanding historians were delivered before various sections of the society.

An interesting paper was presented by W. P. Thompson, of the University of Saskatchewan. He displayed slides showing the effects of "crossing" wheats of various strains; how the chromosome numbers of wheat could be calculated in second generation plants, and many important points in the practical breeding of grains.

Wheat, for example, he said, can be crossed with rye, provided wheat is the female parent, but not if it is the male.

A sum of $35,000 has been placed at the disposal of the Royal Society as the nucleus of an endowment fund, by the Carnegie Corporation of New York, it was announced by Sir Robert Falconer, president of Toronto University.

The amount, he stated, will be retained exclusively for endowment purposes.

In reporting to the convention of the Society, Sir Robert said that the endowment committee had given consideration to the policy of raising a fund that would enable the society to be somewhat independent. The Dominion government, he said, so far had only given $6,000.

Other assistance, however, was being sought.

Sixteen new fellows were declared elected to fill vacancies in the council. They are: Sir Robert L. Borden, W. H. Boyd, Ottawa; Robt. H. Clark, Prof. J. S. Delury, Prof. D. C. Harvey, of the University of Manitoba; L. L. Stines, Saskatoon; Geo. W. Scarth, Montreal; Stanley Smith, Albert Ferland, Rev. Father Hugolin, Oskar Klotz, B. R. MacKay, Right Rev. F. X. Ross, James Malcolm Swaine, W. Stewart Wallace and W. T. Waugh.

Alberta Forest Fires

Fire Raging On Both Sides Of the Athabasca River

Calgary.—Fire is raging on both sides of the Athabasca River where it joins the Slave River at Smith, divisional point of the Edmonton, Dunvegan and B.C. railway, a telegram informed the Calgary office of the Dominion Forestry Branch.

J. R. Hall, supervisor of the Lesser Slave National Forest, is in charge of fighting the fire. It is not in the National forest but in the near vicinity.

T. F. Blefgen, district supervisor of fire protection, said that the fire hazard in the whole Northern portion of the province was dangerously acute owing to last year's growth of rank grass and absence of rain to any extent so far this season. No damage has been reported.

"If present weather continued it will be very difficult to keep the fires under control," Mr. Blefgen said.

Tales and Legends From Crestwood

BY MRS. C. C. FRENCH

CHAPTER IV.

The Story of the Golden Float

With Industry apace,
And all the world for a mart,
Nature, here abundantly has bestowed
Her gifts for trade and art.

"A good many years ago," she said, "when there were hardly any white people here at all, two prospectors came in from the Wild Horse country and camped at Cedar Cove for the night, where the rock slide is which happened there the night Oseepie was killed. The next morning one of them busied himself with cooking the breakfast and the other one wandered about the Cove as prospectors usually do to see what he could find. He was just about to return to camp for breakfast when something glittering a little caught his eye, and he went over to it and picked it up, and it turned out to be a rich piece of float which had evidently been carried down by the slide. He hastened to show it to his partner and they made a test of it and found it to be very rich in gold. So after breakfast they started up the creek in search of the mother-lode. They hunted for it all that day and also the next with no success, but on the afternoon of the following day they found a narrow ledge of very rich ore from which the float had undoubtedly been broken off and carried down by the slide. So they extracted some of the ore and brought it down to camp and in about three days' time they had about one hundred dollars' worth of gold. But as they were running short of provisions they decided to go to Walla Walla, which was then the nearest place to get supplies. As they passed by me on their way out I heard them say that they expected to return again in about two months' time, but when crossing the Spokane River one of them was drowned; the other one reached Walla Walla safely but was unable to return as he had expected. However, about ten or twelve years afterwards he returned with his son, then grown to manhood.

In the meantime, a fire swept over the mountainside, and, oh, I was so worried for my life, but it was a good thing I was off on these rocks here by myself, for it never reached me. However, it changed the appearance of the country so much with the fallen timber and younger trees and brush growing up, that they were never able to find the lead again.

In later years another man found a small piece of float in the vicinity, but was never able to locate where it came from. Another man comes in here nearly every season to hunt for the lost lead but has never succeeded in finding it yet, but a small piece of radium was found near Boundary Lake, I think it was.

"Yes, I have seen many changes since I have been here," she said, and I held my breath lest I should interrupt her and not hear more of these interesting stories.

"Just to think of the days when there was no boundary line here," she continued. "I well remember when the first light shone from the Custom House at Rykert's, and the little town of Porthill, just across the line, started up. I used to like to watch the reflection of the lights from its stores and post office gleam across the river and flicker almost to my feet. They were wild days then, and when the lights burned on long into the night I knew that a poker game was being played.

Then there was Sam Smith's stage line which ran from Bonner's Ferry to the head of the lake at Kootenay Landing. It used to pass right along on "Dutchie's Ridge," only about two hundred yards from here. I could hear the occupants of the stage talking sometimes, and the tap-tap of the horses' feet as they trotted along over the meadows, and occasionally Sam's voice urging them to make time.

Yes, then there was that chugging thing that used to come down the river from Bonner's Ferry and stop at the river and lake points, the first steamboat, and it did used to jar my nerves so. I was glad when it stopped.

Captain Long, I believe, was in charge of one of those first boats, and now I hear that his wife, "Grandma" Long, is living in Creston.

She made a visit to Crestwood last summer and thought it was such a pretty place, and said it reminded her so much of her girlhood home in Oregon, adjoining that of Dr. John McLoughlin, that historical figure of Hudson Bay fame, and—by-the-way—his grand-children have played on these same moss covered rocks where you are lying, right at my feet—little Angea, Johnnie, Amelia, Sarah and Annie, the baby. I've seen them all, and there—sleeping in the little cemetery at Porthill where the sun's last rays can shine upon them—is their brother, David McLoughlin, son of Dr. John McLoughlin, the "War Eagle of the North" he was called, and with him rests his wife, their Indian mother.

David's sister, Mrs. Dewar, has told of many incidents in David's early life, when he was a dashing youth, full of the fire and vigor of early manhood, in her book entitled "McLoughlin and Old Oregon," and of his romance with the beautiful daughter of a Russian sea captain. His father sent him to England to be educated and later he received a commission in the British army and was sent to Afghanistan. Later on, seeing the possibilities for a young man in this great West, he sent for him to return to Oregon where he was engaged in his father's office for some time.

During this time he sought the hand of the Captain's daughter in marriage, and although she returned his love, her father would not give his consent to marriage, and as a dutiful daughter, she would not marry without it. So not being able to obtain her hand in marriage David became a wanderer through the Indian tribes of the north, and finally settled in this valley, and later married a Princess of the Kootenay tribe.

I have seen him pass here many times—a commanding figure, well over six feet tall, and princely in his bearing, with dark, kindly eyes, bronzed complexion, and black wavy hair. He was a kind and dutiful father, and was also much loved by the Indians.

Mrs. M. Young left on Thursday last on a three-months' holiday visit with relatives in England, sailing from Montreal on the 31st. She will also visit with Rev. S. and Mrs. Newby for a few days at Norwich.

Mrs. H. Hugh Taylor left at the end of the week for Vancouver, where she is attending the Dominion conference of the Presbyterian W.M.S., which is in session in that city this week. She represents the Kootenay presbyterial.

Three of our former townsmen are figuring in Cranbrook's all star baseball team this year. Ben Embree is playing shortfield, and Mickey Argue and Doc Mittun in the outfield. They were rather badly trimmed by Lumberton on the holiday.

Ideal weather prevailed for the Victoria Day holiday on Thursday last and every available auto was in service taking its owner's family and friends out of town for the day. Kuskanook and Bonners Ferry receiving an unusuallp heavy list of visitors.

Mrs. Disney of Nelson has just arrived to take charge of the restaurant which has opened up in the old Hatfield building on Fourth street, opposite the Creston Hotel. The property was purchased about a year ago by M. J. Beninger who has fitted it up specially for a cafe.

P. Philip, deputy minister of public works, Victoria, in company with the district engineer, Wm. Ramsay of Nelson, were here on an official visit on Saturday inspecting the roadmaking operations in the Valley. They also made the trip by auto over the old K.V. roadbed route of the north and south highway.

Lieut. M. D. McLean, who was third in command of the 125th forestry battalion which was recruited and went overseas from Creston in 1917 in charge of Major Mallandaine, has just been offered the Conservative nomination in the Fernie riding but has asked time to consider. He is now working in the mines at Michel.

The May sale of cooking, produce, needlework, white elephants, with serving of refreshments, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild of Christ Church on Saturday afternoon, was a great financial success, the cash intake running close to $100. Mrs. Richardson of Erickson held the lucky ticket on the fruit cake that was raffled.

The final draft of the settlement committee of the United Church was handed out at the closing session of the B.C. conference at Vancouver on Wednesday last, and shows Rev. R. E. Cribb, (B.A.,) selected to succeed Rev. J. Herdman as pastor of Trinity Church, Creston. The new pastor is a married man with two children, and at present located in Dawson City.

In looking over the locations assigned former Creston pastors by the B.C. United Church conference just closed, it is noted that the 1920-25 minister, Rev. Geo. Knox, has been shifted from Sapperton to Cape Mudge, on the north end of Vancouver Island, where he will be a marine missionary. An early-day pastor, Rev. Fred L. Carpenter, will this year be located at Port Alberni. Rev. M. W. Lees, who was here in 1917, is now at Salt Spring Island, while Rev. J. H. Hamilton, the 1919 pastor, is at Kerrisdale.

Farmers' Marketing Tour

Canadian National Railways' Tour To Great Britain and Denmark, 1928

Our first engagement on the following day was to visit Liverpool Cathedral, one of the most beautiful examples of modern architecture in Great Britain and the largest ecclesiastical building in the country. It is 584 feet long and will take in all 75 years to complete. It has now been building twenty years. This wonderful cathedral is exceeded in size only by St. Peter's, Rome, Seville Cathedral, and St. John's Cathedral, New York. The style is Gothic and the building material red sandstone. The roof is of solid copper. It is the first cathedral to be consecrated in the northern counties for 600 years.

The memorial chapel to the men of the diocese killed in the War, is perhaps the most impressive part of the beautiful building. Here is to repose in a receptacle lined with pure cloth of gold, a book containing the names of 40,000 men of all creeds who gave their lives in the Great War. The volume itself has taken eight years to complete and has cost $30,000. The chapel is ringed with the crests cut in stone of the various regiments. At one end is a "Window of Sacrifice" in which are depicted some of the greatest acts of sacrifice in history. Flanking the Holy Table, which is beautifully wrought in solid oak, are two life-size bronze figures of a soldier and a sailor.

The ceiling of the nave is the loftiest in the land, rising 116 feet above the floor and the stained glass window at one end of the nave is the largest in the country. The organ has 168 stops and 10,960 pipes and is electrically operated. It cost £50,000 and is the biggest in the world.

We had fallen so much under the spell of the beautiful cathedral that we had to hurry to keep our appointment with the Liverpool Produce Exchange, operated by the Liverpool Provision Traders' Association. It is organized for trading in pork products (bacons, hams, sides, lard, meats in pickle); in butter, cheese, eggs, etc., and is, therefore, directly interested in Canadian trade. Its dealings are spot and c.i.f. except in lard which may be either option or spot. Its lard option market is the largest in Europe. The actual trading is practically all done privately and a large amount by telephone. Considerable interest was shown in our visit by the members who gave us a cordial welcome.

A tour of the Liverpool Fruit Exchange and Auction was illuminating. Each big brokerage firm has its own auctioneer. Dealers view the fruit before it is put up for auction, or, during the actual selling may be furnished with samples as they require them. To facilitate this an elevator in the centre of the pit brings up samples from the basement of each lot offered for sale. These may be left in boxes or spread out in large shallow baskets in order that all dealers may get a fair idea of the whole lot.

The auctioneers work at high pressure. Much trading is done by signal, and should the auctioneer miss a bid, as he occasionally does, the dealers express their disapproval by stamping. The auctioneer as a rule knows the name of every man in the pit. It is said that one man has sold as many as 16,000 boxes of apples in 20 minutes and on one occasion a whole shipload was disposed of in a similar space of time.

Before leaving Liverpool, we had opportunity to discuss with representatives of the provision trades some of the problems in marketing Canadian produce in Great Britain, and gained valuable information as to the requirements of the British market in bacon, cheese, butter and eggs.

We were now due to leave for Manchester in the magnificent motor coaches of the Globe Travel Company calling en route at the Walton Hall Piggeries, the famous hog breeding centre owned by Lord Daresbury, whose herd of large Whites or Yorkshires has won awards at the most important shows in Great Britain. Several prize boars were brought out for our inspection and we were shown the spotlessly clean farrowing pens and some of the early season's litters. Individuals of this herd are shipped to breeders in South America, Italy, France, Hugary, Poland, Holland and Switzerland.

Manchester, Lancashire's greatest industrial city, although 35 miles in from the sea, is the fourth port of Great Britain. This has been made possible through the construction of the Manchester Ship Canal, by which ocean-going steamers approach the very doors of the city.

Within a radius of 50 miles of Manchester there are as many people as there are in the whole of Canada, and within a radius of 100 miles there is a population of some 20,000,000, about half the population of England and Wales.

With such a great consuming area in its immediate environs, the importance of the Manchester market to all producers of food stuffs is at once appafent. It is for this reason that it was included in our itinerary. Its Smithfield Fruit and Vegetable Market covers six acres and is the largest of its kind in the United Kingdom. Other markets owned by the corporation cover 27 acres. There are also provided, adjoining the Ship Canal, extensive lairages for cattle and cold storage facilities for storing chilled and frozen meats.

We spent the morning in looking over the fruit, vegetable and produce market. The party was divided into groups with well informed guides, and was shown the produce in the market and the methods of carrying on business. From here we proceeded to the tobacco factory of the Co-operative Wholesale Society, where every operation in the making of cigarettes, cigars, plug, twist or other forms of tobacco was shown to us in detail and before leaving we were presented with a substantial box of cigarettes and also one of cigars.

We next saw the buying room of the C.W.S., whose samples of products were spread out for our inspection, also samples indicating the standards which they required for their purposes. We next proceeded to lunch in the great Assembly Hall at the head offices of the society, where we were addressed by two of the directors, Mr. Bradshaw and Councillor Sutton, who told us something of the history of the gigantic movement which has grown from a small organization of 48 affilliated societies to one with over 1,200, and resources exceeding $227,000,000.

JESUS FACING BETRAYAL AND DEATH

Golden Text: "Not what I will, but what Thou wilt."—Mark 14.36.

Lesson: Mark 14.1-42.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 22.1-5, 18, 19.

Explanations and Comments

The Announcement Of the Betrayal, verses 17-21. As Jesus and His twelve disciples were eating the paschal supper, Jesus suddenly said, "Verily I say unto you, One of you shall betray Me, even he that eateth with Me." With great amazement the disciples heard this startling prophecy. One of them, one of that little band whose lives had been so closely united with their Lord's, was to be guilty of so infamous a treachery!

"Is it I?" one by one they questioned. The form of the Greek implies a negative answer, as if each one said, "Surely it is not I!" "Who hath sailed about the world of his own heart, sounded each creek, surveyed each corner, but that there still remains therein much terra incognita to himself?" Thomas Fuller quaintly asks. The mood of the disciples was not that of self-sufficiency. They did not indignantly deny the charge, nor passionately affirm their loyalty. Nor did they ask, "Is it Judas?" "Is it Andrew?" Each with bated breath murmured, "Is it possible that it is I?"

This is the right attitude for every follower of Christ. Let us read all of our Lord's words in this spirit, asking ourselves what they mean for us, how they apply to us.

"It is one of The Twelve, he that dippeth with Me in the dish," Jesus added. The dish was the one containing the sauce of bitter herbs. No doubt all were doing this, and the words only emphasized the treachery of the betrayer. To John, Jesus indicated that it was Judas, John 13.26. "For the Son of Man goeth (to His death), even as it is written of Him." The cross was not an accident; the Lamb was slain from the foundation of the world. "But woe unto that man through whom the Son of Man is betrayed! good were it for that man if he had not been born." The last sentence is a proverbial expression for the most terrible destiny, "forbidding the thought of any deliverance, however remote." "Dante's estimate of the turpitude of Judas' crime—he places the betrayer in the lowest depths of the Inferno—is probably a truer expression of the horror of his deed felt by the unsophisticated conscience than are the the modern attempts to explain away his guilt."—Wm. A. Grist.

Cute in a Baby—Awful at Three —and it's Dangerous

by Ruth Brittain

Thumb sucking does look sweet in a baby, but it is disgusting in the three-year-old and sometimes it hangs on until fifteen or sixteen! The habit may cause an ill-formed mouth or induce adenoids; and it always interferes with digestion. Pinning the sleeve over the hand; attaching mittens, or putting on cardboard cuffs, which prevent bending the arms at the elbows, are some of the ways to stop the habit.

Another bad habit—irregularity in bowel action—is responsible for weak bowels and constipation in babies. Give the tiny bowels an opportunity to act at regular periods each day. If they don't act at first, a little Fletcher's Castoria will soon regulate them. Every mother should keep a bottle of it handy to use in case of colic, cholera, diarrhea, gas on stomach and bowels, constipation, loss of sleep, or when baby is cross and feverish. Its gentle influence over baby's system enables him to get full nourishment from his food, helps him gain, strengthens his bowels.

Castoria is purely vegetable and harmless—the recipe is on the wrapper. Physicians have prescribed it for over 30 years. With each package, you get a valuable book on Motherhood. Look for Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the wrapper so you'll get the genuine.

With the letter in his hand Jack sat looking at his polluted house — his poor desolate, violated house, the emblem of his own life. He had built this house with his own hands, lovingly, taking pleasure in driving every nail and fitting every board. And now—and now—so it had been with his life—he had lived it cleanly, decently.

Try as he would, Jack could not believe that Helmi had forgotten him or been unfaithful to her marriage vow. If the worst he feared was true, it was some racial fault in her—Helmi had not sinned as an individual. What did he know of her traditions? He felt he knew her but little, although she was his wife. Nothing could alter that—she was his wife.

A dog came whimpering to the door. As Jack opened it the sable collie, thin and miserable, sorely neglected since old Sim had gone, looked timidly in at him. Jack recognized the animal—the crazy Englishman's dog. Mrs. McMann said the Englishman had stayed at his house six weeks before. Here was the proof, and this explained the letters . . . . "Arthur Warner" . . . . Jack had never heard his name. He had seen him though, a strange, uncouth, unshaven fellow.

Restraining a first impulse to drive the dog away, Jack coaxed her to come in, which she did, shiveringly. Her feet were sore, her nose hot. Jack went to the butcher shop and bought her some meat, which the hungry animal accepted gratefully. The dog was not to blame, whoever else might be.

The butcher told him about the dog, "The crazy Englishman had shot all his dogs but her. 'Cleo' is her name, and it seems he could not bring himself to shoot her. Old Sim looked after her until he got hurt and had to go to the hospital. Yes, sure, I'll give her bones. It's real good o' you to be providin' for her. The Englishman wasn't any friend of yours either, was he?"

One resolve Jack arrived at—he must get out. He could not spend a night in his little broken house, every inch of which was so dear to him — the little house that had lost its soul.

When Jack left it he did not think of locking the door, although there were things in it, the stove, chairs, table, beds, for which he had paid his hard-earned money. But it did not matter now. His little house, which he had built so eagerly, had been violated.

Jack sealed his letters and returned them to the Post Office, then hired a team at the livery stable and drove to Bannerman, where he would catch a train for Edmonton. On the way he met the time-keeper, who apparently did not want to speak, for although Jack drew up his horses the other went on. Recognizing Jack, he feared embarrassing questions in respect to the money which had been owing The time-keeper had one rule —if trouble seemed near make a wide detour and get around it. Something might happen before it again comes near,—someone might die—the world might come to an end—the coming of the war had made all things possible. So, instead of stopping when he saw Jack drawing up his horses, he hurried on.

Jack believed the time-keeper's reluctance to speak was because of what had happened, and his heart grew still heavier. A pale moon and starlight enabled the horses to follow the trail, leaving him free to pursue his own gloomy thoughts. He thought, with a stab of memory, of the words he and Helmi said across the running water. The stream was silent now in its fetters of ice, and the marks of their feet in the soft, sandy banks had been obscured long ago. He wondered if Helmi had forgotten it — wondered, too, if he would ever be able to forget?

At the top of the hill, when the flickering lights of the little town came into view, Jack remembered Helmi's fears when they had come there together. "It is not a friendly place," she had cried, "it will bring bad luck! See, the houses are like angry cats about to spring!" And he had laughed at her for her foolish fancy. He marvelled now at her premonition of evil! And, try as he might, he could not overcome his love for her. He wanted her, his high-tempered Finn girl, whose eyes were so tender. Helmi, with the lovely shining hair and the eager questioning mind. No! if he had lost Helmi he had lost everything. Life could not hurt him any more! if Helmi had deceived him he was proof against misfortune. He might as well go to the war, there was no reason for his staying behind, if Helmi were gone; and if he went he might meet Arthur Warner and pay off the score!

Having an hour to wait for the train, Jack wandered around the town. He did not wish to talk to anyone. The night was fine and clear, with Northern lights circling and folding in the sky with a crumpling sound like the rustle of silk. Pink and mauve, violet and amber, they advanced and retreated in endless manoeuvres, shooting, darting, rolling and unrolling, shimmering and dancing. He and Helmi had watched them with endless enjoyment from the north window of their own little house last year. A sudden impulse came to him to go and see the magistrate—he might know something. Anything would be better than this torturing uncertainty.

The magistrate was in and shook hands kindly—too kindly! Jack judged from his manner that he had some damaging evidence and that he was glad he had it.

"I came home today," Jack began at once, "expecting to find my wife, but they tell me she has gone to the city. I expected to be home a month earlier, but was delayed in the north. I can find no trace of her, nor any reason for her going. Do you know anything about her?"

"I did not know she had gone, until today," said the magistrate. "I had a letter from a friend of mine who saw her in the city.

Jack started eagerly. "Where in the city? I shall go there tonight."

The magistrate rubbed the bristles on his chin with a distinctly soiled forefinger, then with one thumb he pressed back the cuticle on the other until it hurt. He loved to do this. When he couldn't hurt anyone else he hurt himself. "I wouldn't try to find her, Mr. Doran, if I were you. She is in a place where you would not be pleased to find her."

"I don't care where she is—she is my wife, and I will never believe that she had done wrong unless she tells me so. I know her better than you do."

"I am sorry for you, Mr. Doran, and that is why I am so patient with you. This Milander girl has gone back to her old associates, the Chinese She is in one of the all-night eating-houses. I suppose you know what it means when a white girl goes into one of these places."

Jack sat staring at him. "Who was your friend who saw her there?"

"I would rather not tell—it is not necessary that I should—and he wrote in confidence. He knew I was interested. She evidently tired of the quiet life here—these girls crave excitement. There was some talk about her and the Englishman who owns the bungalow at English River. He stayed with her for a week before he enlisted. That is common talk at the mines. Men who are going out to fight, you know, like to take their fling."

He did not need to hurt his own thumb now—Jack Doran's face was enough. It had grown suddenly old and seamed and full of hatred. His nostrils quivered like those of a race horse.

He was about to go, but the magistrate waved him to a seat. "Mr. Doran, you were very indignant with me a year ago or a little less, when I dared to advise you. You were quite indignant, and of course I am ready to admit your feelings at that time were very creditable, very creditable —mistaken, but creditable. Since then you have had a bitter lesson, a very bitter lesson. I did not harbor any ill-will; on the contrary, I was still ready to be your friend. I was your friend, even though you scouted my friendship." Col. Blackwood leaned over, and his voice fell. "A man in my position does not expect thanks; we do not get thanks, but that is quite all right. We do not expect thanks, but I hope you see that I was trying to befriend you."

PRE-NATAL DIET

There is a phrase respecting Motherhood "for every child a tooth"—which is to say that during the period of formation of the little life certain changes take place in the mother's teeth causing them to decay and be more easily lost. And this is so. But why?

For the rearing of the little structure that is so quietly proceeding, the little bone-builders, in their construction of the bones and teeth, depend chiefly on the calcium salts. Should the mother's diet be deficient in these building stones, the little workmen are obliged to go to the only other available sources of supply, the bones and teeth, to meet their wants. Robbing Peter to pay Paul—if you will—yet the little structure must be reared at all costs. In such a case the mother's teeth are so structurally weakened as to invite disease.

Not only to avert this disaster to herself, but keeping uppermost the welfare of the coming infant, and remembering that she must contribute generously towards the influence that will make for normally developed teeth in her offspring, the expectant mother should select her diet with the utmost care. Hence she should choose plenty of lime-containing foods — milk, eggs, cereals, the leafy-topped vegetables and fresh fruits.

Following birth also, the demand for calcium in the mother's diet is still high since, with the infant feeding naturally, as it should, the mother's milk requires large amounts of these salts. An inadequate diet on the mother's part certainly affects harmfully her own teeth as well as those developing in the nursing child.

Moreover, it should be stressed that if the teeth are to be of good quality, the infant should at this time be naturally fed. The ravages of tooth decay have been found to be much greater among children who as infants had been artificially fed.

The expectant mother should take at least a quart of milk a day in addition to her other food. This will ensure a proper start of the teeth in the jaws of the infant at birth and as well the proper bony development of the child generally
