Plan Celebrate King's Jubilee

W. V. Jackson is Chairman of General Committee Named to Handle Affair—Draft Tentative Program at Meet March 25

With the exception of the board of trade and the village council most of the organizations that had been invited to send delegates were represented at the meeting on Friday night at the town hall to discuss the matter of observing the 25th anniversary of the coronation of King George, which falls on May 6th.

The meeting had been called by Creston Valley Post Canadian Legion, whose president, John Bird, called the meeting to order and outlined the proposed celebration. He observed that it was to be made a very important occasion in Great Britain and move was under way at many Canadian centres to see that the occasion was fittingly observed. He favored a valley-wide observance of the day at Creston.

After some discussion a motion prevailed that the day be celebrated at Creston, and Mr. Bird declining nomination as chairman of the central committee, W. V. Jackson was prevailed upon to take the chairmanship. Mrs W. Fraser was named vice chairman; H. A. Powell, secretary; and a committee with power to add as follows: W. J. Craig, Matt York, W. J. Truscott, Mrs. Hayes, Mrs. McLaren and Mrs. Vigne.

A great assortment of ideas to make the day worth while were submitted by those present. It was generally agreed that it would be mainly a big day for the children and that sports should be much to the fore, and a dance at night It was also thought advisable to arrange for transportation for the children from the rural schools.

The matter of finance was also to the fore. A popularity contest with the crowning of the winning queen during the day's proceedings was strongly favored It was expected the various school districts would each make a grant, along with the various lodges and other organizations interested. Whatever surplus there might be on the day's proceedings could go to the cancer fund of the local hospital.

In the meantime any bright ideas there may be for the celebration should be passed along to any member of the committee which will meet on Monday evening, March 25th, to prepare a tentative plan for the day, and to strike the various committees that will be needed to handle an affair of this sort.

Second Place Hoop Teams Win

Review and Groceteria Take the Opening Games of Basketball League Playoffs—Scores Close in Both Contests.

It was a gala night for the runners-up in the Basketball League on Friday last. Both second-place teams managed to nose out the leading teams by a narrow margin to take the first games in the play-off series, Creston Review downing Cecil Moore's Garage by a score 14 9, and Imperial Groceteria defeating the Cardinals, 25-22.

The first score came early in the girls' game when Dot Palmer converted a free throw. Two nice plays from the centre jump culminated in field baskets by Marge Levirs and gave Review a 5 point lead before Edith Swain tossed in the first goal for Moore's Garage. A long dribble down the side-line added two more points for Marge Levirs and the Review, but was almost immediately balanced by a pretty shot from the side by Edith Swain on a pass from Mary Abbott. Dot Palmer was the heroine of the second half, scoring two baskets in quick succession. Edith Swain was a constant scoring threat, but nice checking by Nora Payne held her down to one more basket. Mary Abbott, who had been playing a beautiful guard game, sank a free shot, as did Dot Palmer With ten minutes to go Ada Lewis went off the floor on personals, Hazel Sinclair taking her place very creditably. Baskets by Marge Levias and Betty Speers closed the game. Foul shooting was poor, Review sinking 2 out of 9, and Cecil Moores Garage 1 out of 7.

Creston Review—Levirs 8, Lewis, Sinclair, Payne, Bourdon, Palmer 6. Total 14.

Moores Garage—Abbott 1, Hare, Tompkins, Payne, Swain 6. Speers 2, Crane. Total 9.

The men's game was a fast, hard game, both teams playing the same brand of long passing games. That the Groceteria won due chiefly to their superiority in the longshots. No less than four of their field goals were made through the beams. The game opened with one of these when Bill Bourdon checked his dribble, and, with careful deliberation sank a beautiful basket from well out. There were only four other field goals in the first half, Hunden and Couling scoring for the oradge squad, and Holmes and Cobus for the redshirts. The grocery men sank six free throws and Cards five, giving the former a 12 9 lead at the end of the first half. Coming out with a rush in the second canto, they increased this lead by 5 points before the Cards found a way to stop them, Martello, Hunden and Downes scoring. Then the Cards started their rally, but just a little too late. Holmes figured on the scoring end of three nice offensive plays, with Doug. Corrie contributing another basket to put the Redbirds even Rogers' long shot again gave Groceteria an edge, which Couling increased by two points Hunden added a free throw. Doug. Corrie sank two more pretty shots on dribble plays. Scoring ended with Hunden's free shot. Groceteria converted 9 out of 15 penalty shots and Car linals 6 out f 15.

Groceteria Win Hoop League

Double Score on Cardinals to Take Final Game and Championship—Moore's Garage Win Over Review Ties Up Series.

Basketball fans hailed a new champion team in the men's division last Tuesday night when Imperial Groceteria took the second straight game from the Cardinals by a 38-19 score. Cardinals went in to an early lead in the first five minutes on field goals by H. Corrie and Cobus and free throws by the same two. Martello and Hunden sank penalties to make the score 6-2. After that, Cardinal passes went wild and Groceteria's determined attack built the score up to 14-8 in their favour by half-time, with Martello making most of the baskets. Groceteria carried their offensive into the second half. Hunden and H. Corrie livened things up by getting into an argument. When they tangled for the third time Hunden went off on a disqualifying foul. Shortly after Holmes got his quota of personals and was replaced by Sapanoff. The second stanza was all Groceteria, Hunden, Couling and Martello totalling 24 points between them. Cobus and H. Corrie added 4 points each to the Cardinal total, but Ben Crawford with his strong defensive play took the honors for the redshirts. Rogers also played a nice guard game, although he never broke into the scoring column. The teams:

Imperial Groceteria—Martello 15, Rogers, Hunden 14, Couling 9, Bourdon, Downes: Total 38.

Cardinals—H. Corrie 7, Sapanoff, Holmes, Cobus 7, Crawford 2, D. Corrie 3. Total 19.

Moores Garage evened the series by taking the second game from the Review, 15-11. The first half, and the first quarter especially, were all Moore's, the faster Moores breaking through the Review defence to take an 8-5 lead. The second half was Review's on the play, but their atrocious shooting kept them from ever catching up on the score. Both teams scored the same number of field goals, but Moores superior penalty shooting gave them a 4-point edge. Moores converted 5 out of 12, Review but 1 out of 11. Edith Swain and Nell Payne were easily the pick of the winners, with Mary Abbott strong on the defensive play. Marge Levirs and Irene Bourdon carried the honours for the losers.

Moore's Garage—Speers 2. Tompkins, Hare, Abbott 3, Swain 6, Payne 4. Total 15.

Creston Review—Levirs 6, Bourdon 4, Payne, Palmer 1, Lewis. Total 11.

Significant Trends

Whether they believe in them or not, and irrespective of the fact whether they are ardent supporters or skeptical critics, people are deeply interested in the outcome of the various experiments now being tried throughout the world in matters of government, economics and finance. Quite apart from the fact whether or not they are convinced that the old order has, as some contend, broken down beyond all hope of repair and is now definitely and forever passing away, or, on the contrary, still adhere to the view that while changes are taking place, mistakes corrected, abuses eliminated, and improvements made, the old order is essentially sound and will prevail and achieve greater triumphs than ever before, people cannot be indifferent to present day events and the influence which such events are bound to have upon their lives and the times in which they live.

But, as has been noted and commented on many times, we are a credulous people. Of the American people it was said that they thought prohibition, termed a noble experiment, would end liquor and the saloon, and later that they thought the repeal of prohibition would end the bootlegger. Now, under the N.R.A., the United States has embarked upon anoher experiment, —the business of making rules for business. Rules have been laid down in nearly 500 codes governing 500 industries; and the problem now is how these rules are to be forced. For it has to be recognized that there are many men in every trade who can be counted on to invent devices, as the bootlegger did, for chronic evasion.

As a matter of fact, a small army is now employed across the line in the task of ferreting out evasions and seeking to convict violaters of the various N.R.A. codes and thus protect those who are honestly endeavoring to carry out the obligations imposed upon them and their businesses under the New Deal. But notwitstanding all these efforts, a well known authority makes the statement that it is quite safe to say that in the great majority of codes there is no enforcement because any attempt to enforce the rules would lead to abandonment of the code. For this reason there is a strong group in Washington which demands that an immense section of the rules be abandoned. In fact, the proposal is now seriously advanced that codes be applied only to those businesses which do an inter-State business and that they no longer be applied to the smaller concerns whose operations are more local and restricted to the State within which the business is located. This is a most significant development. It indicates that practical regimentation of business has it limitations.

Turning to the Canadian picture, it would appear that much the same thought is entertained by people on this side of the line. The recent voting throughout the three prairie provinces on the proposal to establish a compulsory egg and poultry pool is one indication. The scheme was defeated in Manitoba by a three to one vote, and in neither Saskatchewan nor Alberta was the required two-thirds majority obtained, and in Saskatchewan less than one-half of those entitled to vote even took the trouble to return their ballots, thus indicating either opposition or indifference which amounted to opposition in view of the two-thirds vote requirement to carry.

As a result of this voting, it is announced from Ottawa that the compulsory feature will be dropped from all other proposals for the inauguration of schemes under the National Products Marketing Act, and that while efforts will be continued to further develop the idea of co-operation in support of prices and marketing methods, the plan of making any of these schemes compulsory upon an opposing minority has been definitely abandoned. This, too, is significant as indicating that the Canadian people are not ready to accept either the theories or plans of Communism on the one hand or Facsism on the other hand but that they are still firm believers in the ideals and methods of a free democracy.

But, while thus revealing a degree of confidence in the existing order, and a belief that necessary reforms can be brought about to correct the evils and remove the abuses which have developed like barnacles upon it, there can be little doubt but that the minds of the Canadian people are firmly fixed upon achieving those very necessary reforms and to do so without loss of time. That is to say, the violators of proper, honest business ethics and methods will be brought to book, made to observe and live up to honest and fair-dealing methods, or forced out of business altogether. There is going to be a New Deal, but it will be invoked and enforced by a free democracy.

Canadian Aviation

Importance Of Canada As Link In World Air Highways

The importance of Canada as a main link in future world air highways was stressed by Hon. Grote Stirling, minister of national defence, at Montreal, in addressing the annual banquet which closed the two-day convention of the Canadian Flying Clubs' Association.

With the future of Canadian aviation in mind, the government looked to the C.F.C.A. to take a leading part. The minister regretted his inability to promise the association further assistance at the present time due to the state of national finances.

He trusted the opportunity would soon be forthcoming when he could feel justified in putting forward proposals to the cabinet that would enable the government, if they accepted his advice, to provide the assistance the association hoped for.

"A distinct relationhip exists between the department of national defence and the Flying Clubs' Association," he said. The one-time expected clash of interests between the non-permanent flying forces and the flying clubs had never happened. It had been shown the clubs provided the very important task of training young men wishing to gain their commissions in the military aviation service.

COULD NOT SEW A BUTTON ON

Her Hands Were Helpless with Rheumatism

At one time she thought she would lose the use of her right hand. But "a blessing"—in the form of Kruschen Salts—put her right again.

"I was sure in a bad state," she writes. "In fact, I could not do my housework, I was so bad with rheumatism in my arms and hands. I could not sleep at nights, and I thought I would lose the use of my right hand. I could not hold anything, nor could I sew a button on. My arm would go dead. I was advised to try Kruschen, and inside of three weeks I found such a change. I have kept on taking it, and now I sleep all night—thanks to Kruschen's help and relief."—(Mrs.) J. H.

Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals, which are responsible for rheumatic agony. Other ingredients of these salts assist Nature to expel these dissolved crystals through the natural channel.

Preparing To Visit London

Advance Bookings Of Cunard White Star Line Indicate Many Will Attend Silver Jubilee

Large numbers of Canadians are preparing to visit London for the King's Silver Jubilee celebrations, commemorating the reign which began on May 6, 1910, and reaches its 25th anniversary on May 6 of this year, the date to be known as Silver Jubilee Day, according to advance bookings for the first Cunard White Star sailings from Montreal. These are on April 26 when the Alaunia to Plymouth, Havre and London, and the Andania to Glasgow, Belfast and Liverpool, will open the St. Lawrence season for this line.

These two sailings are sure to be popular because of the fact that tourist and third class passengers using these two sailings will still be able to take advantage of the special round-trip excursion rates of single fare and one-third which allow 15 days' stay in Europe. This rate is only good until April 30.

Another War Weapon

A German inventor, Herr Kellhaus, has offered the French government a new weapon which would deprive armed forces on land, at sea, and in the air of the power of sight. This weapon can project 1,000,000 candle-power flashes, capable of blinding anyone within its radius. Experiments were carried out on cattle half a mile distant. The beasts dropped senseless.

China's Food Problems

Little Arable Land Not Now Being Cultivated

Although China's population has increased by 31 per cent. during the last 60 years, despite famines, floods and civil wars, the area of land actually being farmed neither increased nor decreased during those six decades, according to findings given out by the national agriculture research bureau at Nanking.

The official report declares "too optimistic" the belief China's food shortage and over-population problems can be even partially solved by reclaiming land now not used, or by directing settlement to the open spaces of the great northwest. The survey confirms there is little arable land in China not now being cultivated, and classes the waste places of the northwest as largely unfit for farming.

By the bill, cabinet is empowered to appoint a board of guardians with authority over the finances, education and physical well-being of the children.

These "active guardians" will share authority with the father, Oliva Dionne, the "natural guardian," and Dr. Allan Roy Dafoe,, whether or not the physician is appointed as a guardian, Mr. Croll said.

World's Fastest Camera

One of the latest wonders of scientific research is a camera capable of photographing flame travelling at 24,000 miles an hour.

The fastest camera in the world, it has just been perfected in London at the Department of Chemical Technology at the Imperial College of Science by R. P. Fraser, an inventor, and his assistant, Dr. W. H. Wheeler. It is called the Fraser High Speed Camera No. 5. It costs about £1,000 to build.

By the new knowledge it will give of the behavior of explosion flames the camera may be the means of saving hundreds of lives.

SEE FINAL ACT OF THE DRAMA OF GREEK REVOLT

Athens. — Eleutherioz Venizelos, leader of the short-lived Greek revolution, took refuge at Rhodes, the tiny island where pirates interned Julius Caesar 2,000 years ago.

Meanwhile the cruiser Averoff, "flagship" of the rebellion which dropped Venizelos, his Anglo-Greek wife and other rebels at the Italian island of Cassos, arrived at Salamis to complete the government's reconquest of the insurgent fleet.

While the loyalist army continued "mopping up" after routing land rebels in Macedonia, courts martial started grinding away at the grist the 12-day revolt left for them.

Those rebel soldiers who did not flee to neighboring countries probably will be given amnesty, it was indicated, but their officers and those soldiers who joined the movement as volunteers were expected to face military courts.

The Odyssey of the fallen Venizelos, "old fox" of Greek politics and many times the nation's premier, read like the final act of an ancient Greek drama.

Leaving behind him his native Crete, which reports said he meant to declare independent if the revolt failed, the 71-year-old chieftain fled first to the microscopic island of Cassos. Thence Italy moved him to the larger Rhodes, 75 miles away, because it was feared angered Greeks, who constitute the majority of the residents of Cassos, might attack him.

The government took into custody Stylianos Gonatas, president of the senate and premier of the revolutionary government in 1922.

Following the example of the rebel military leader, General Panayotopouloses, Colonel Flengas, chief of staff of the seventh revolutionary division, committed suicide to escape capture.

The belief that a mass execution would mark the final chapter of the uprising was widely held in Athens, where it was recaleld that a similar fate befell the leaders of Greece's last revolution.

The capital buzzed with talk of the possibility of a monarchist restoration. Crowds cheered and thundered "zito"—Grecian exclamation of acclaim—when pictures of the late King Constantine appeared on the streets and were circulated from hand to hand.

It was understood the government will ask Bulgaria for the extradition of General Kamanos and the other rebels who fled across the frontier.

Heavy Fines For Speeding

British Law Will Be Strictly Enforced In London

London. — The unwary motorist who exceeds 30 miles an hour in London's built-up areas is due for an unpleasant surprise.

Plainclothes policemen and policewomen in cars will be used to trap speeding drivers. The patrols will cruise at 30 miles an hour. Anyone who overtakes the police car will be signalled to halt by a resounding gong. The penalty for a first offience will not exceed £20 (about $97) and for a second offence £50 (about $243).

Good Prices For Steers

Calgary.—George Ross, a southern Alberta rancher, has demonstrated the feasibility of feeding steers in the irrigation district of Vauxhall. Ross has completed sale of 500 finished steers to a Chicago packing company at a reported price of $25,000. Brought in from the range, the steers were "finished" in feeding lots in the Vauxhall district.

Trousers For Unemployed

Ottawa.—A contract for 100,000 yards of drill has been awarded by the government to Dominion Textiles, Limited, of Montreal, according to the House of Commons. Committee To Investigate

Will Suggest Means To Deal With Unemployment Among Veterans

Ottawa. — Unemployment in the ranks of ex-service men will be the subject of investigation by a committee which will recommend to Hon. D. M. Sutherland, minister of pensions and national health, the best means of dealing with this problem.

An order-in-council authorizing the inquiry was passed following representations made by the Canadian Legion.

The committee will consist of Hon. Justice J. D. Hyndman, Ottawa; Col. C. B. Price, Montreal, and W. B. Woods, Toronto.

The committee will carry out an investigation into existing facilities for provision of employment for ex-service men, for their care and maintenance while unemployed, and report with such recommendations as may be deemed advisable.

Ottawa.—"The appointment of a committee to investigate the unemployment situation among ex-service men is highly gratifying, resulting as it does from representations made by the Canadian Legion for such action, said Brigadier General Alex. Ross, C.M.G., Dominion president of the legion here.

All For Peace

Ramsay MacDonald Says White Paper Is A Peace Document

London.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, tired and showing the ravages of the severe cold that has kept him abed the last week, returned to duty to authorize another denial of reports he is about to resign.

Nevertheless, rumors continued that the veteran leader's retirement is likely, with general reconstruction of the cabinet following.

The prime minister presided at the cabinet session and struck out vigorously in defence of the "white paper" which he wrote to accompany increased estimates for British defence in 1935.

An old fighter for the cause of peace, the prime minister characterized the "white paper" as a "peace document."

"Peace is written on its forehead; peace is its concluding thought; peace is its purpose throughout."

Despite his physician's orders, MacDonald has been working very hard of late, and this has had its effect. His health is far from that robustness which he hoped last year's Canadian vacation would bring.

Trains Collide

Eleven Persons Injured When Freight And Passenger Trains Meet In Blinding Snow Storm

Caradoc, Ont. — Eleven persons were injured here when a Canadian Pacific Railway passenger train and a freight train collided during a blinding snow storm.

Most seriously hurt was Engineer Malcolm D. McTaggart, of London, Ont., in charge of the westbound passenger train, who incurred back injuries in a leap from the locomotive cab when he saw a collision was inevitable.

The other ten suffered shock, cuts, in two cases minor fractures, but were able to continue to their destinations on the next train.

Retiring From Railway Board

Ottawa.—A. D. Cartwright, secretary of the board of railway commissioners, is retiring at the end of this month after 31 years of service. Mr. Cartwright, son of the late Sir Richard Cartwright, minister of trade and commerce in the Laurier government, was the secretary of the original board headed by the late Hon. A. G. Blair. He has held office continuously since then.

The Canadian Manufacturers' Association is co-operating. W. McL. Clarke, secretary of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said about 500 bookings have already been made. 2090.

VANCOUVER'S MAYOR

Mayor G. G. McGeer of Vancouver, who recently appeared before the private bills committee of the British Columbia Legislature to discuss a bill to amend Vancouver's city charter.

Will Allow No Laxity

Penal Sections Of Reform Measure To Be Enforced

Ottawa.—Rigid enforcement of the penal sections of the government's reform measures was promised by Hon. Wesley Gordon, minister of labor. He was addressing a delegation of the Confederation of Catholic Laborers of Canada.

"If there is to be any laxity on behalf of persons or firms which break these laws, the effectiveness of these measures would not only be imperilled, they would be destroyed," he said.

The unemployment insurance, day-of-rest and the eight-hour day bills all have penalty provisions. The question was raised when the delegation asked that companies which break labor laws lose their charters after two offences and that dismissal of a workman because he has joined a union should be considered a misdemeanor. The minister said the complaint applied more to provincial than Dominion laws, but the reform statutes now before parliament would be vigorously enforced.

Great War Financing

Canada Borrowed $1,447,138,558 For War Purposes

Ottawa.—From August, 1914, until the demobilization of the Canadian overseas military forces was completed, this country borrowed $1,447,138,558 for war purposes, Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes told H. E. Spencer (U.F.A., Battle River), in the House of Commons. All of this amount was borrowed in Canada.

Answering a further question the minister said $1,339,526,528 of bonds were issued free of taxation.

Suspension Of Interest

Mayor McGeer Not Asking For Repudiation Of Vancouver's Obligation

Victoria.—"If the British Columbia government will give Vancouver the same kind of treatment as the province received from the national government, then we will be able to get by without default," Mayor G. G. McGeer told the private bills commitee of the legislature.

The mayor was speaking to a proposal that Vancouver be given power to suspend for two years the payment of more than three per cent. interest on its bonds.

If the province would give the city an $800,000 grant as proposed in the report of Thomas Bradshaw, Toronto financial expert, there would be no need to cut the interest, the mayor said.

He declared the city was not asking power to make a final repudiation of its obligation, but merely a suspension which would enable it to get straight within two years.

R. H. Pooley, Unionist, Esquimalt, suggested Mr. McGeer approach the government to pay the excess interest above three per cent. and get by that way for one year. Then there would be no question about the city's credit in future borrowings.

"I'd be delighted, if they did that," said the mayor.

Want To Celebrate

Unemployed Of Edmonton Want Cash Donation For Jubilee Festivities

Edmonton.—Edmonton's unemployed want to celebrate the king's jubilee, but they must have the aid of the city's relief department to fulfill their desire.

A petition has been presented to the city council urging the unemployed be given a special gift of 50 cents for every relief recipient "to enable us to celebrate the king's jubilee."

The relief recipients were given $1 each as a Christmas gift and it was in cash. No action has been taken on the jubilee request.

Demand For Cars

Production In Automobile Plants Shows Increase

Windsor, Ont.—Heavy increases in employment and production, ranging as high as 77 per cent. in the former and 100 per cent. in the latter for January and February of this year are reported by automotive companies in the Border Cities.

In some instances demand has been so heavy it has been impossible to build up cars for stock purposes. The peak of production is not expected to be reached until another month or so.

FRENCH SCIENTISTS SEE UNUSUAL DEMONSTRATION

Our picture shows Monsieur Lumiere demonstrating what is claimed to be the first practical system of stereoscopic film projection at the Academie des Sciences, Paris. The system is not new and M. Lumiere does not claim in any sense to have invented it. Hitherto, the glasses or screen used, have not contained exactly complementary colors, with the result that the eye quickly tired. M. Lumiere claims to have perfected the glasses so that it is possible to watch stereoscopic films with no strain on the eye.

TARIFF BOARD IS TO INVESTIGATE MOTOR CAR COSTS

Ottawa.—Finance Minister E. N. Rhodes formally authorized Chairman George H. Sedgewick of the tariff board to undertake "at your earliest convenience" an investigation into the automotive industry in Canada, "particularly as regards the bearing thereupon of customs and excise duties or taxes."

The reference is a broad one, embracing "the matter of the relationship of the production of parts to the larger industry, and of both to the general consuming interest."

The action follows a decision reached by the government over a month ago when motor car manufacturers in Canada were advised by Mr. Rhodes that the disparity between the price of cars to the consumer in Canada in contrast with the price of similar cars in the United States was "giving the government grave concern." He then stated the government contemplated taking the necessary steps to remedy the situation.

Stating that in his opinion such an investigation was "in the public interest," Mr. Rhodes instructed the chairman that the inquiry "should have regard for the principles and operations of drawbacks for domestic consumption, as well as for such matters as content and costs of distribution; and it should endeavor to appraise the various factors which determine the prices at which motor vehicles shall be sold at retail in Canada."

Study Production Tax

Alberta Government Plans New Ways To Obtain Revenue

Edmonton. — Before making its final report, the Alberta tax inquiry board will study a production tax for this province, said Premier R. G. Reid in the budget debate in the legislature.

In view of a number of matters which the government had referred to the board, its final report probably will not be available for some time, he said. An interim report will be submitted to the house shortly.

Referring to new wage or sales taxes proposed or already adopted in other western provinces, the premier said that any suggested levies here would undoubtedly be given careful study by the tax inquiry board.

With statistics, the premier denied the Liberal leader's charge that provincial taxation was causing the confiscation of homes. He showed where provincial revenue from the supplementary revenue tax, for example, had materially decreased since 1921.

Awarded Damages

Calgary.—A jury awarded Fred A. Campbell of Beiseker, $24,585 damages against the Regal Oil and Refining Company of Calgary. Campbell was injured during an explosion at the Beiseker plant of the company and sued for $40,389 damages. He charged the company had been negligent.

Jerusalem. Discovery of porcelain archives 2,500 to 2,000 years old, apparently belonging to the leading prince of Judah, was revealed here. The find was regarded of vast importance as corroboration of Bible stories during the pre-Solomon era.

School Ventilation

Editor Review:

Sir,—I would be pleased if you would give me a little space in your paper to express a few ideas on the ventilating of our public schools, and to state a few facts which occurred in reference to the same.

It is understood and admitted that the basement rooms of the school are unhealthful because of lack of airspace and poor ventilation, but why not go further and admit the fact that the whole of the large school has a very poor system of ventilation; to have to open windows to ventilate rooms, especially in cold weather, is not a very desirable way to supply the necessary oxygen for the needs of the body. Not many children, or adults, are vigorous enough to sit in a warm room with cold air circulating around them without great discomfort and consequent colds.

There are only two rooms in the whole of the school buildings that any attempt has been made to provide a good system of ventilation, if properly installed and kept working.

When it became evident some seven years ago that a new furnace or heating plant was an absolute necessity the writer, then a member of the school board, advocated asking the taxpayers to allow a steam heating and ventilating system to be installed. I was told they would not favor such a system on account of the expense. but time showed that they did approve and favor such a thing, and a motion moved by the writer that a steam heating and ventilating system be installed was passed unanimously and the necessary funds voted to cover cost of same. It was also decided at the same meeting that the secretary write the Department of Education to allow a government engineer to prepare plans for the installation of the said steam heating and ventilating system.

It is now common knowledge that the steam heating plant was installed, but what about the ventilating system called for? There are some, I believe, who, without making any investigation at the school and having heard nothing to the contrary, think that the instructions given by the taxpayers to install these systems were carried out. Well as a matter of fact, the ventilation system was not installed. When the plans were brought to board meeting the writer pointed out that there was no plan of the ventilating system, and the secretary admitted he had not mentioned anything about ventilation when writing Victoria. In other words, mention of the matter was purposely left out, and as the writer stood alone on the matter nothing was done to remedy the omission or to try and install the system.

The system called for in the motion passed by the taxpayers was a very simple and common sense one, namely to allow air to enter through a grating in the outside wall and pass through into a hot air chamber, then on through the hot air registers into the rooms, where it would naturally circulate. The air would then be drawn through the cold air register and to be conducted through a large pipe extending through the roof of the building where it escapes into the outside air. An electric fan located in this discharge pipe near the roof provides a more powerful draft, or suction to expedite this movement and so make a better circulation of air in the classrooms.

Part of the equipment necessary was already in the school in the shape of hot and cold air registers and pipes leading to the same from the old furnace the use of which would have helped to lower the cost of installation. The labor required in the installation of this system is mostly a tinsmith job.

Seeing as the pupils in both public and high schools are taught about the construction of their own bodies, especially the respiratory organs, and the vital need for proper air to help sustain the proper health of their bodies, why not put into practise what is taught them in reference to these matters, by having this simple and common sense system of ventilation installed in the new school it is contemplated building. I do not claim this to be a perfect system but it is far better than any other that I know of.

Sirdar

Herbert Harrop of Nelson passed through on Sunday, on his way home from Creston.

Geese are again plentiful round Kootenay Landing, to a greater extent than for many years past.

James Manarino was a visitor to Nelson for a couple of days, having his eyesight looked after returning on Tuesday.

A new house is in course of construction opposite John Talarico's home. The building will be a four roomed construction.

A. H. Green's representative of Nelson, was here on Friday night on his way to Creston where he will spend a few days on business.

Mr. Deverson, the Crawford Bay poultry man, was at Atbara Thursday on his way back from Creston with a truckload of feed.

Chas. Moore, surveyor, Creston, has been here ll week engaged on the survey of the proposed widening of the highway just east of Sirdar.

Mrs. R. Blumenauer, an old time resident of Sirdar, was here for a few days renewing acquaintances, and was the guest of Mrs. Martin.

Fred Martello and Sydney Rogers were at Creston, Friday night playing for the Imperial Groceteria basketball team. There team were victors over the Cardinals.

Miss Catherine Lombardo who has been on a visit here for the past six days, left for Drury on Monday morning's train, where she will spend a few days with her brother, Frank.

Mrs. ohn Harlow of Nelson, with her little daughter, left for her home in Nelson, Wednesday morning. Mrs. Harlow was the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs J. S. Wilson.

Judging from the large number of mining claims staked around the Sanca-Ginol area, the sector must be almost completely taken up. Much activity is to be looked for this coming spring in this district.

The water as indicated by guage at Slough bridge reads 1.40 a rise of 0.15 for the week. A gradual rise is to be expected from now on. The weather, of course, being the determining factor as to the extent.

Carl Wigen is hauling ha and other requirments for his auto camp at Twin Bays. With the new highway certain to be completed for the summer tourist traffic, he anticipates a good season at this popular resort.

The Bayonne Mining Company are awaiting the arrival of a heavy trailer which is being constructed in Nelson. This trailer will be used for hauling in heavy machinery to the mine. Meantime other work is going ahead until the trailer arrives.

Dr. Henderson of Creston, when returning from Boswell, had the misfortune to get his car bogged on the detour. After a delay of about an hour efforts were successful in getting him on his way again. The detour is in very bad shape, and it is fortunate the highway is now available for traffic.

A. Millen of the B.C. Telephone Company was here looking after the replacing of the telephone line. The line was removed from the highway to permit of blasting operations on the highway, but now that the danger from this sourse is over it will be returned to its original position.

A large road crew is engaged on construction of the new highway and good progress has been made during the week in removing the rock from the big blast. Traffic is now permitted over the road and the detour is now closed. The retaining wall next to the railway is proceeding, and the one at the quarry siding is nearing completion.

Mrs. W. W. Scott and P. G. Rogers of Anaconda, Montana, were here at the end of the week, for the funeral of their sister, the late Mrs Angus McKinnon. Another sister, Mrs. Wm. Warren, who has been here for some months, retutned with them to Anaconda, on Tuesday.

The Imperial Groceteria, champions for the local basketball league, celebrated their outstanding triumph over the Cardinals on Tuesday evening, along with clinching championship honors, with a dinner at Creston Cafe that same evening, tendered them by S. A. Speers, sponsor of the league winning squad. After the splendid dinner spread there were a number of speeches by the players, all of whom expressed their satisfaction in winning as well as the pleasure it gave them to play on such a fine aggregation. Mr. Speers spoke briefly of the equal pleasure it gave him to have such a competent lot of hoop experts in the Groceteria uniform, and was particularly appreciative of the successful effort of the club coach, Fred Martello.

Hospital Board Meets

The March meeting of the board of directors of Creston Valley Hospital Association was held Wednesday, evening last, with President F. V. Staples in the chair. The financial report showed a falling off in hospital days there being 284 compared to 352 in January. However, there was a substantial increase over the 164 hospital days in February, 1934. Revenue showed an increase over January 1935, and a large increase over February, 1934. A pleasing feature of recent collections is the delivery of wood supplied by patients. It is hoped that as soon as the roads dry up further wood will be supplied, for the more of this fuel that is used, the greater the economy in heating the hospital. The hearty thanks of the board were accorded Wynndel Women's Institute for gift of furniture and bedding to their ward, and to the Erickson Ladies Auxiliary for gift of linen to the Erickson ward.

Letters to the Editor

Boswell's Case Stated

Boswell, March 19, 1935.
Editor Review:

Sir,—Our attention has been called to your editorial on March 15th re our request for free ferry service, which you state is not good business. We would say that your editorial is most certainly not good business, especially when you state that "All the facilities Nelson has to offer are here", just to mention one item you have no wholesale houses in Creston.

Why should Harrop ranchers have a free ferry across the Lake? Or Nelson residents have a free ferry for 24 hours a day? or the various points on the Arrow Lakes and Castlegar.

Residents on this portion of the lake, Kuskanook to Deanshaven, are certainly just as much entitled to free ferry service and more so, as there is no rail service available, as there is at Harrop, Nelson, Castlegar, etc. What about the Reclamation farm ferry at Creston, why should it be free? We wonder if you are aware of the number of free ferries operating in the Kootenay and Arrow Lakes districts only, and the amount expended on same, we have taken the trouble to ascertain the government's own figures for 1931. Seven free ferries with costs totalling $44,648.82.

The Nelson board of trade endorsed fully our request after mature discussions of the subject and West Kootenay Central Farmers Institute also endorsed it.

Some while back Creston board of trade were asking for an extra ferry one day a week to enable Crestonites to go into Nelson for business and return the same day, why ask for this with all the facilities in Creston at their doorstep, and also a train service giving them a very long day in Nelson.

The Nelson-Creston stage if right on time gives one hour and forty minutes in Creston in the noonday hour, several times Boswell visitors owing to the late arrival of the stage, have been unable to conduct the business they intended to do.

We are indebted to our Member, Frank Putnam for his efforts to secure us the service to which we consider we are entitled, and are glad to say his views do not agree with your editorial.

Boswell and District Farmers Institute,
B. H. SMITH, Secretary.

WORLD HAPPENINGS BRIEFLY TOLD

Sir Frederick Banting, professor of medical research at the Toronto University, has been elected to the fellowship of the Royal Society of England, it was announced recently.

A government revenue return revealed millionaires in the United Kingdom numbered 452 in the fiscal year 1932-33, which is 82 fewer than the previous year.

Twenty-five men will be added to the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Force in Manitoba, it is announced. Development in northern mining areas has opened new territory the present force cannot cover.

The Indian princes will accept the India constitution bill, it was reliably understood, following a conference between the influential Maharajah of Patiala and the Earl of Willingdon, viceroy of India.

Proclamations will be posted in every post office in Canada proclaiming May 6, jubilee day, a public holiday, it was announced. The king's proclamation has been sent out from secretary of state department.

Aged Explorer Dies

Cape Grant In Franz-Josef Land Named After English Adventurer

Death ended the suffering recently at Devon, England, of the 84-year-old explorer and big game hunter, W. J. A. Grant, who a year ago entertained at a "swan dance" to celebrate his then momentarily expected end.

Grant, who almost daily since prayed he might die, and had asked doctors to put him painlessly to sleep and been refused, died quietly. He suffered heart trouble and a complication of ailments.

Grant publicly advocated the practice of euthanasia by physicians, saying "take my own case. I am no use to anybody. I should be only too happy to be given a double dose of sleeping draught."

Months ago Grant instructed his mourners to "wear your gayest clothes, don't come in the miserable garb of woe."

He left a last message in which he said:

"Good health is the most important thing in the world and is a greater goal than the north pole. I tried to reach both and failed, although my grip missed by only a few inches each time."

Cape Grant in Franz-Josef Land is name for Grant. He invited 500 friends throughout England to his champagne supper and all-night party in January, 1934, to celebrate his expected death and they all came, including a bevy of beautiful dancing girls. But after two hours of sleep Grant arose to say he felt fine.

Little Journeys In Science

HYDROCARBONS

(By Gordon H. Guest, M.A.)

Scientists have found that the element carbon forms a larger number of chemical compounds than does any other element. At the present time over 300,000 compounds containing carbon have been discovered and every year new ones are being made in research laboratories. This vast number is due to the fact that carbon possesses the property of combining with certain elements in a number of different proportions, thus forming many different compounds with the same element. For example, carbon combines with the element hydrogen to produce nearly three hundred different compounds. These compounds containing only carbon and hydrogen are known as hydrocarbons.

Some hydrocarbons are gases, others are liquids, and still others are solids. Many of them are of great commercial importance. Certain hydrocarbons mixed in varying proportions make up such valuable materials as natural gas, gasoline, coal oil, lubricating oils, vaseline, and paraffin. Others serve as the raw material from which are made many of our most valuable dyes, drugs, and explosives.

Since there are so many hydrocarbons they are classified into groups or series. One of the most important of these series is the methane series. The members of this series are often known as the paraffin hydrocarbons, because ordinary paraffin is a mixture of the solid members of the series.

Methane or marsh gas is the first member of the methane series of hydrocarbons. It is the chief constituent of natural gas and is also often formed in marshes by the decay of vegetable matter under water. Methane sometimes collects in mines, and when mixed with air is called "fire damp" by the miners because of its great inflammability. "Damp" is an old name for gas. If such a mixture is ignited a very disastrous explosion occurs.

Hazing Was Expensive

Costs To University Of Alberta Amounted To $50,051

Full costs of the Powlett "hazing" action aganist the University of Alberta amounted to $50,051, it was revealed in a detailed statement brought down in the legislature. The case followed confinement in mental hospitals of a student allegedly as the result of initiation brutality at the university.

Of the whole sum, the province is liable for a total of $48,701, while $1,350 was paid by the students medical service.

The amount payable to the Powlett family on passage of the estimates for the fiscal year 1935-36 is $28,228, made up of a judgment for $20,000 and costs of $8,228.

GET RID OF THE CROWS

(By JACK MINER)

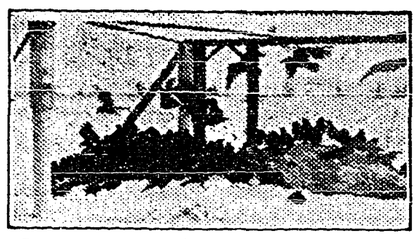
A great deal has been said about the crows' diet, so let me add my testimony. Crows will eat almost anything. Yes, and all about everything. I have had enough pet crows to find this out. But shelled corn will kill young crows about as quickly as any diet you can feed them. If you have a young one and are anxious to raise him, feed custard, one hen's egg to half a cup of milk (no sugar) and just watch him grow. I have fed them chopped up snakes and they always cawed for more snake. Old crows will graze like a chicken. During the winter in this section of the country their chief diet is corn, but if they can find carrion that is what will tickle their palates most.

A great deal has been said about the crow's diet, so let me add to the value of the crows: let me tell you this. A crow will do no more good on the farm than a leghorn chicken that will lay a dollar's worth of eggs a month, and as for the grasshoppers the crow destroys, let me advise you to keep a flock of turkeys and condense these grasshoppers into 50 cents per pound.



One corner of Jack Miner's crow trap.

And now to the sportsmen and bird lovers of the continent, let me hand this boiled-down sentence: Don't expect our desirable birds of Canada to increase until the crows are decreased. Saying nothing about the game birds destroyed by eating their eggs. I honestly believe, especially in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, that by eating the duck eggs, the crows are the cause of decrease of ducks more than the hunter and his gun. In Manitoba crows are so thick that I saw them nesting on the telephone wires. This stark, naked fact is what caused me to study crows so much doing the last five years. To reduce them by shooting campaigns has proven a failure. Thousands of men are trying that and, in spite of their many varieties of decoys, the crows are increasing. Here is where my life's study of them helped me out, for I know how shy and cute a little shooting will make them. At last the idea of catching them presented itself to me and immediately I could see results. More study increased my faith until I simply had to try it out.

Since I knew I would have to bait, I at once called up Mr. Art Brown, one of our Kingsville fisherman, and he agreed to let me have a truck load or so of fish heads, scales and entrails, providing I got them off the dock before the health officers put him off. Next, I secured a dead horse or so and was about all set for crow bait. Then I built the net on the same principle as I had built my net to catch and tag geese, but much smaller, the exact dimensions being six feet high, 12 feet wide and 70 feet long. I started building the net on a Thursday and finished it Saturday, doing practicaly all the work myself. And on the following Tuesday I caught 510 crows at one catch. While there may be dozens of other ways to control crows, yet I do know this method, if put into practice, would soon reduce their numbers to the same proportion as they were 50 years ago.

About the only fault I have heard about my crow net is that it is altogether too expensive. This surely must be a Scotch complaint, for I know two young men that built a crow net last winter and caught as high as 237 at one catch and the net cost them seven dollars. Of course, this one was built of junk material, such as poles from the woods and old fish netting, but it caught the crows just the same. To build a neat net as large as mine and to use new one-inch gas pipe as frame, and new two-inch mesh netting, would cost from 75 to 100 dollars. But it is not necessary to build the net as long as mine. A net 25 feet long, instead of 70 feet, would soon catch some crows.

The big thing to make the net most successful is the attention given to it. That is keeping it well baited. We bait for two or three days outside of the net and then, when we have a thousand or two crows coming, we draw the bait under the net. Of course, we never allow anyone near except toward evening, when the crows have gone to roost, at which time we take the bait out. I understand indirectly that some parties have built nets but had little success, which I think was largely caused by failure to bait the crows enough outside of the net to get them coming before the bait was moved under the net. Again, I have made all my big catches mostly during the winter, when the snow was on the ground, and all the odd ears of corn in the open fields were covered with snow, and thus the crows went any place for food. During the last three winters we have caught thousands of them in this one net and have made as high as two catches in one day. But this happens very seldom because after they get a fright it takes the ones that are not caught two or three days to get over it. So, usually, after we make a catch, we bait well outside the net for two or three days.

A Plausible Story

Flea Was Responsible For Founding Of Overseas Empire

A flea was the granddaddy of the British Empire we are told by Dr. Thomas W. M. Cameron. From his institute of parasiteology at Macdonald College, Quebec, he tells a plausible story. The flea, he says, caused the black death in Europe. This ruined English agriculture and shifted it into sheep growing. This made wool and broadcloth England's stable products and led to the necessity of finding foreign markets. This led in turn to the founding of the overseas empire.

PETER DESCRIBES THE CHRISTIAN LIFE

Golden text: Sanctify in your hearts Christ as Lord. I. Peter 3:15.

Lesson: I. Peter 3:8-18.

Devotional reading: II. Peter 1:1-8.

Explanations And Comments

Love Makes One Thoughtful of Others, verses 8-12. Peter bids all be likeminded, of one mind. Authorized Version. "This oneness of mind does not demand the monotony of similarity, but unity in variety. Not the oneness of a brick, or a pile of bricks; but of the house, in which so many different materials and contrivances combine to shelter the human family. We shall never be of one mind in the sense of all holding the same opinions; but we may be all of one mind when, beneath diversities of opinion, expression, and view, we are animated by a common devotion to Christ" (F. B. Meyer).

Peter counsels his readers to be compassionate (sympathetic), loving one another as brothers, tender-hearted, humble-minded, not paying back evil for evil, reviling for reviling, but, on the contrary, blessing. Having love for others means being thoughtful for others' welfare. It consists not in feeling, but in doing; not in words but in deeds.

For this is your vocation, to bless and inherit blessing (Moffatt's translation). "For": here Peter quotes Psalm 34:12-16 where blessing is promised to the one that trusts in God. "The whole Psalm promises salvation in persecution, and describes just the situation in which Peter's faith sees his readers placed—in danger, but with the angel of the Lord encamping round about them, and all things working out a blessing for them if they trust in him." (Dummelow).

"It would be a marvel to find in any community under heaven a complete embodiment of these injunctions. It were a fair vision, worth going far to see. Yet nothing less than this is the Christian ideal, as it is also that which our Lord died to secure. And it would well become us if, without waiting for others, each one would adopt the injunctions of these verses as the binding rule and regulation of daily life." (F. B. Meyer).

The milk industry may yet use aeroplanes to transport its product to city markets, predicts one agricultural economist. 2090.

"We sure did. And on the way home, when Dustin tried to ride me down in the golpe de caballo, I upset him and I went through his pockets. I found in his pocketbook a note for eleven thousand borrowed on the Hour-glass that he got from Mr. Pegram. Pegram sold the note to Dustin. That's how things stand."

"Uh-huh. And that means that if Dustin sues out the note, he'll have Joe's share of the Hour-glass. Joe can't meet that note right now, you know."

Again Stone nodded.

"And that means, of course," said Crewe moodily, "that Dustin can ruin Joe. Joe's past sixty right now. He only knows cattle. This is his last stake. You know Edith right good. If she ever gets the idea into her red-head that, by marryin' Dustin, she can save her father, she's damned likely to do it. She'd even marry that dirty hound Dustin to save Joe."

"You forget one thing . . . two things. . . . That ore may be what I feel sure it is. . . ."

"It'll take a year to get even a hundred per cent. mine to workin'," said Crewe. "There'll be a lawsuit first over it."

"We'll find that man Kane," said Stone confidently. "And, too, Gerald Keene'll be in to-morrow night. Something'll turn up."

"By Heavens, that's so. If this Gerald Keene is like his uncle, he'll never see old Joe shoved to the wall. I'm goin' in to Seco to meet him to-morrow. I've got to go to the bank to try to raise money for our payroll. . . . Nine hundred dollars. You better go with me."

"I'd like to see you stop me. I'm for the bunkhouse now." And Stone strode back toward the house.

Halfway to the bunk-house he was stopped by Edith. For a moment she regarded him wordlessly. Her lips were unsmiling, but there was a light in her eyes that he had never seen but once.

"What has happened?" she asked breathlessly.

"Not much. I told Jameson of the Seco paper about the ore and he will have Buxton give an expert opinion on it. The most important thing is that he's tryin' to find Kane."

"That can't help much," she said. "My one hope is in Daddy's new partner, Mr. Keene. He may be able to help us if he will. Do you know what that beast Dustin said to Daddy . . .?" She told him pretty much what Crewe had already said.

"Of course he wants to marry you," he said curtly. "Who in his senses wouldn't? . . ." And at a sudden light in his eyes, she gave back a little and her laugh was a little strained. "The fool. . . The utter fool to think that he can buy a girl like you. . . ."

"What do you mean by that? Buy me?"

For one brief minute he could not decide whether to tell her or not. . . . Then he told. Her eyes widened as she listened and when he stopped, she laid a hand gently on his arm.

"I'm glad you told me this," she said quickly. "I knew Daddy had borrowed some money but I did not know from whom he got it. . . ."

"Your father doesn't yet know that Dustin holds the note," he said. "You'd better not tell him that yet. Wait till Keene gets here."

"I will be careful. I am glad to know the worst at least. . . . I know at least where the thunder will come from."

"You will not even consider marrying that man Dustin, will you?"

"Would you drink poison if you were thirsty and if you knew it was poison?" she countered. "Good night." But her eyes told him untellable things.

Crewe drew him aside after dinner the next day.

"Darn it all," he said. "Old Joe insists on goin' in to Seco with us. I tried to head him off. If he goes to the bank to get the money for the pay-roll, he may find out about that note. It's sure to come up. If he finds that Pegram sold his note to Dustin, he'll likely go on the prod."

Even Edith could not keep her father at home. During that drive he was cranky and querulous, and Stone sensed fight.

"Go straight to the bank. . . ." Carr's usually pleasant voice was a snarl.

Stone headed the car for the bank and stopped under a tree and Carr, with Crewe at his heels, strode into the bank. Peters, seeing them enter, ducked into his cage, and old Pegram, his faced flushed to a dusky tone, dived like a rabbit for his private office. The next moment Joe Carr burst into the room. A sudden babel of raised voices swung out of the empty bank.

"Good Lord," muttered Stone. "The fat's probably in the fire by now. I wonder if I had better have told him about that note of his that Dustin holds."

He was dimly aware that the centre of the trouble had drifted into Pegram's private office. One or two men in the street, hearing the voices raised in anger, stopped, grinned significantly and went on up the street. It was no new thing in Seco to have a sudden war start in Pegram's office. Suddenly old Joe Carr shot out of the place. His very beard was curling with wrath and his eyes were blazing. He stumbled into the car and Crewe pitched in beside him.

"Take it easy, Joe," he said in a low tone. "No need to let all Seco know your affairs. Take it easy, I tell you. Did you get the cash for the pay-roll?"

"Oh, that! Yes. I got that on a thirty-day note for fifteen per cent. . . ." He laughed mirthlessly. "Do you know what that damned dog Pegram has done?" he said in a low, tense tone. "He held my note for eleven thousand secured by the half of the Hour-glass. Damned if he hasn't sold the note. . . . To Dustin, of all men! That's why that damned cur had the nerve to come to me to tell me he wants to marry Edith."

His face suffused with blood and his breath drew hard.

". . . I told Pegram I'd settle that note up on time.

". . . So I will, just as soon as I can make arrangements with Gerald Keene, my partner. Damn it all! He'll buy the ranch from me if I say the word. How do I know? Hell, man! Isn't this Gerald Keene old Peter Vinton's kin? Wouldn't I have done the same for old Peter?"

And Frank Crewe, who knew that Joe was speaking the plain, unvarnished truth, said nothing. Carr snatched out his watch and glanced at it.

"We've got time to get a drink at the Silver Dollar before we meet the train," he snapped.

"We don't want anything to drink," expostulated Stone. "It's late now. The only reason you got into the bank was because it's open after hours."

Carr glared at him. For an employee to give him any back-talk was unheard of but . . . He reflected that this man Stone was a close friend of this Gerald Keene, and this man Keene was an unknown quantity.

"You go to hell, son," he said with heavy pleasantry. "You do as you're told. Drive to the Silver Dollar."

Stone glanced at Crewe and a quick nod reassured him. He stopped the car before the Silver Dollar and stayed in the car while Carr, with Crewe behind him, entered the place. A moment later a hand was laid on his arm and Jameson stopped by him.

"I got some news for you, Stone," he said briefly. "I took that ore to Buxton. He's about crazy over it. He's says it's 'ham boiled in champagne.' You know what an assayer means when he says that. He kept at me for an hour askin' where it comes from and if there is much of it. I stalled him off. By the way . . . How did that big sample get covered with blood?"

"Big sample? . . . Stone stared at him. "Blood? . . . What are you talking about, Jameson?"

"I'm talkin' about that biggest sample that you brought in. You had it in your coat pocket. Did you have a fight?"

"No. I don't understand. I seem to remember that I did notice a dark stain on it when I picked it up. . . . By the way, I got that ore specimen from the place where the camp-fire was. That's probably where the blood came from. Have you succeeded in finding old man Kane yet?"

"No. No one has seen him for some time. They tell me he was being grub-staked by Dustin at the Broken Spur. That's what you said, too. I may have to see Dustin. It's barely possible that that old fool Peyotl Gregg may be able to give us some information about Kane. I saw him heading for the station a while ago. He's all hopped up, as usual. I reckon I'd better wait till he gets a clear head before I tackle him for straight talk."
