Council Arranges January Election

Polling Saturday, 25th; Nominations Monday Previous—Rent Raised Park Pavilion Basketball League—Pass Accounts.

Passing of accounts and making arrangements for municipal polling in January were features of the December meeting of Creston village council on Monday night, at which Reeve F. H. Jackson presided, and Councillors A. Comfort and C. Murrell were in attendance.

E. Marriott, Ben Crawford and F. V. Staples were present from the Commercial Basketball League to discuss the improvements and new scale of rent for the hoop league at Park Pavilion. It was mutually agreed that the rent be advanced from $10 to $15 p.r. month. The chairman of the property committee was authorized to get a new grate for the Pavilion stove, which will eliminate the present smoke nuisance. A new sink and tap will be installed and other minor improvements looked after.

Councillor Comfort, who prior to the meeting had tendered his resignation as chairman of the roads and streets committee, finally consented to carry on in that capacity after around table talk with the other members of the council. He is to see the Messinger Motors to arrange for the new firm's payment of their share of the cost of improvements at the new garage. A change is also to be made in the steps leading down from the garage roadway.

Accounts passed for payment totalled $1001. In this is $253 to meet the handyman's payroll for November, in which is part of the expense of renovating Park pavilion. $108 was spent on gravel and hauling for road betterments last month, and another $150 provided $50 each for the councillors, being their salary for the final six months of 1935.

Arrangements were completed for the election in January next. Miss Arrow-smith, clerk, was named returning officer. Nominations will be on Monday, January 20th, for three commissioners. There will be what is known as an advance poll on January 23rd and 24th, and general voting will be on Saturday, January 25th. At this election the man getting highest vote becomes reeve and will serve for three years. The man polling lowest vote will serve for one year and one councillor will be elected each year hereafter. Music Pupils Heard in Recital

Piano and Elocution Pupils of Mrs. J. E. Johnston Provide Annual Concert—Audience is Fully Appreciative.

The pupils of Mrs. J. E. Johnston's class, along with the Trinity junior choir provided an excellent evening's entertainment at Trinity Church hall on Friday. Despite the inclemency of the weather and the fact that the packing house staffs' ball was the same evening, the hall was filled.

Mrs. Johnston opened proceedings with a few suitable remarks, followed by O. Canada. Both the piano and elocution numbers were well performed and with a confidence evidenced by the pupils reflecting much credit on their teacher, who appears to have the knack of understanding individual pupils and their ability. While it might be a little invidious to mention two or three pupils yet one could not help but be impressed by the two "babies" of the class, Kathleen Martin and Marilyn Warren, who both performed on the piano. Both children showed a real musical sense of rhythm and time. These two youngsters of six years also played a duet together which really would have been a credit to some of the older children.

Mention might also be made of Jimmy Rogers and Ethel Hendren, both of whom have had about two months' tuition at the piano, yet each played a selection and a duet showing real ability.

The elocution pupils were each interesting according to their own poem. Marilyn Warren was particularly captivating in her opinion as to whether there were real fairies. Dorothea Powell was amusing in her interpreting of the girl who was good, working up to a nice little climax. She also gave "Tea for a Rabbit."

In a clear, quiet way Carolyn Jones gave a short version of "Jonathan Joe." Phyllis Wilks was really clever in her rendering of "The King's Breakfast," the selection having three different characters to portray, making a somewhat difficult number for a small pupil like Phyllis. For an encore she gave the hunt for the "Missing Mouse."

The two comedians of the evening were Louis Millin and Louis Johnston. The former gave a graphic and humorous description of how the elephant got his trunk. The latter gave a story on the type of movie he preferred. In a humorous number these two teamed together splendidly, bringing the house down with their jokes.

The choir was enjoyed by all and their singing gave that touch of variety to the evening. They sang Tennyson's "Sweet and Low," "Early One Morning," "A Laughing Song" and "In a Gipsy Tea-room," which was dramatized, were really effective and picturesque. Carolyn Jones and Margaret Donaldson were the gipsy waitresses in costume, and Donald Weir and Jean Pridham, in tea room and centre of romance. Mrs. Fraser received congratulations on the success of the choir, the children having no knowledge of vocal music whatever other than that received at practices under their leader.

The following contributed piano selections and duets: Kathleen Martin, Marilyn Warren, Jimmy Rogers, Ethel Hendren, Patsy Forbes, Lillian Hendren, Audrey Cooper, Margaret Henderson, Henry LeMoigne, Marguerite Grant and Edith Johnston as well as Tom and Louis Johnston. Marguerite Grant also sang "When I Leave the World Behind," which was encored. She possesses a really rich voice. The accompanists were Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. Johnston and Miss Edith Johnston.

About Roses

Editor Review:

Sir,—At times I have entertained my associates with yarns about the home of my youth in New Brunswick, the favorite being about the lovely June Roses; fragrant, double deep silvery rose color and extremely hardy, that grow in such profusion, entirely neglected in many cases; forming dense hedges or standards if so wished.

Fulfilling a promise often given I have discovered the species. It is a Rugosa Hybrid, Conrad F. Meyer, and may be bought from any nursery at the coast.

As I knew this rose it blooms over a period of about six weeks, but I am told it has been improved and under favorable conditions will—but just try it and see for yourself.

Yours for a more attractive Creston Valley. RUGOSA.

Cardinals Even League Standing

Loallo Over Confident with the Inevitable Result—Hi Girls Just Outlast Motors—Grocerteria Downs High School.

Thursnay night's Commercial League basketball was witnessed by a very small crowd, which was fortunate as the games were of a very poor standard. Play was slow and rough, with a lot of crabbing about the refereeing. In the first game Creston Motors came pretty close to upsetting the unbeaten High School girls, who had but a one point margin on the garage hands, the final score standing 12-11. Imperial Grocerteria trimmed High School boys 37-20, and Cardinals scored over unbeaten Loallo squad 35-26.

In the first game the 12-11 score did not at all indicate the play. All the way through it was poor basketball with no pep whatever. Motors had the best of game but were decidedly off in their shooting. Liz Armitage was the only one of the losers who could find the basket. Browell and VanAckeren played fine games, Kate Payne did some creditable guarding, holding Ruby Palmer down to one basket. The High School scoring was more evenly divided than Motors. Ruth Hare seemed to think she plays a better game on the forward line than at guard. The teams: Creston Motors—Avery, Browell, Armitage, 10, D. MacDonald, VanAckeren, Wightman, K. Payne. Total 11. High School—N. Payne 2, Tompkins 5, Hare 1, Ruby Palmer 4, Staples, Erickson, Hendy, Beryl Palmer, M. Ferguson. Total 12.

The second game was disappointing so far as Grocerteria was concerned. There was too much conceit on their own individual shooting. Downes had a wonderful night scoring 14 of the team's 37 points. Scoring was evenly divided, but players were too much inclined to nagging at the referees. Allan Speers was a dandy guard. High School boys displayed fine combination. Truscott was the high scorer for high school annexing 8 of the 20 points. Jim Rogers played well, as also did LaBell and Goplin. The score was tied several times throughout the game. Each team had 12 penalties called. Teams: High School—Goplin 4, LaBelle 2, Rogers 3, Weir, Avery 2, Truscott 8. Total 20. Grocerteria—Speers, Bourdon 7, H. Couling 9, Payne 7, Downes 14. Total 37.

The two league leaders in the men's sections, Loallo and Cardinals, put up the best game of the evening, with the latter upsetting the fruit packers and going into a tie for the league leadership. Loallo were too confident of winning and lost by a 35-26 score. Art and Sam Nastasi played nice ball with the former sinking two exceptionally fine field baskets. Bourdon played well with nice combination but had some tough luck with his shooting. D. Corrie led the Cards with 14 points. Cobus had 10, and Ben Crawford 8. Morabito worked well but Hurford was inclined to be rough in his play. The teams: Loallo—Dale 2, Maddess, A. Nastasi 6, S. Nastasi 8, Young 2, Bourdon 8, Scott. Total 26.

Cardinals—Cobus 10, Morabito, Hurford 2, Crawford 8, Corrie 14. Total 35. The refereeing was handled by Ben Crawford, Jack Payne, Tony Morabito, Maraiott and Buff Nastasi.

Due too little interest being taken by members Cranbrook Choral Society has ceased to function. For the same reason the leader of the symphony orchestra has resigned and left town.

At the last meeting of Wild Rose Lodge Knights of Pythias officers were elected for the ensuing six months, as follows: C.C., W. J. Craig; V.C., R. G. Penon; Prelate, Wes. Ed y; M. of W., E. A. Lewis; K.R.S., J. Romano; F.E., W. G. Hendy; M.E., V. Mawson; M.A., A. F. Rudd; I.G., E. Gardiner; O.G., Leroy Johnson. The installation takes place at the first meeting in January.

Fifteen players from Selkirk badminton club, Cranbrook, visited Creston on Wednesday evening for a series of games with the local talent at Park pavilion. Sixteen sets were played and the visitors captured only four of them. In the men's doubles honors were even, each club capturing two sets. In mixed doubles Creston had much the best of it taking six of the eight sets. In the ladies' doubles the locals annexed all four sets. A particularly thrilling contest was staged in the mixed doubles when Mr. and Mrs. Argue of Cranbrook lost to Miss Jean Henderson and G. Sinclair. The supper committee was Mrs. Telford, Misses C. Oliver, Jean Henderson, A. McDonald, Nora Payne, and Messrs. Gilroy, Hurford and Wilks.

FLEMING'S FOLLY

— BY —
LAWRENCE A. KEATING

SYNOPSIS

Here is an absorbing and exciting story of a fight against stubborn prejudice and a bitter personal malignancy—of a girl and a man battling, ridicule, sabotage, bullets, and the treachery that would turn them against each other.

The story opens with Link Fleming addressing a meeting of Boone County cattlemen, called together with the object of forming an irrigation company.

(Now Go On With The Story)

Thus, Link Fleming knew that to win Roper to his dream was to spell success. Only Kilgo could swing ranchers into line for irrigation. He was now carrying out his promise of yesterday so that Link could present Soak Torney, the drink-broken civil engineer he had discovered in an Atlas saloon. A mere shell of the man he had once been, he still was as enthusiastic about irrigating barren land as Fleming himself.

"Buzz is a regular fightin' cock," Kilgo grinned at the crowd, putting his arm around young Hamilton. "I'm for him too, 'cause I reckon yuh all know his sister and me are—Well," he said embarrassedly, "Helen will be back in town purty soon, and maybe then she'll let me tell yuh about our plans."

"But that's off the track now. I don't go in for fads as you men know, and maybe irrigation is one. Link, tell us about it; reckon that's what yuh got us here for, ain't it?" This was his chance, his long-sought opportunity to win the ranchers to his views! He had prepared for this moment for a year. Enthusiasm swept over him as it always did when he pondered the new means of improving the range. His pulse sped faster, and standing at full height before them, he chose his words with care.

"If you men could raise alfalfa to feed your stock winters, and use your home grass in the summer, you

OFTEN RELIEVES BY MORNING

Before a miserable cold gets you down, go to bed and apply Vicks VapoRub. Two generations have proved VapoRub the surest help to a milder, shorter cold.

Just rubbed on throat and chest at bedtime, VapoRub acts two ways at once:

1. By stimulation through the skin, like a poultice or plaster.
2. By inhalation of its penetrating medicated vapors, released by body heat and breathed in direct to inflamed air-passages.

Continuing through the night, this combined vapor-poultice action loosens phlegm—soothes irritated membranes—helps break congestion. Often, by morning the worst of the cold is over.

Note for your family: Vicks has developed, especially for home use, a practical Plan for Better Control of Colds. This commonsense guide to fewer and shorter colds has been clinically tested by practicing physicians and further proved in everyday home use by millions. wouldn't need to worry whether the government passed rules about the foothills or not."

"We ain't farmers. We're cattlemen!" Buzz snapped.

"Well, something's got to be done, because we're going to be barred from the foothills, and our range is too thin to support steers all year round. Water the waste land—that's all around us and you can grow alfalfa enough to feed your beef and maybe have some left over to sell. The secret is, irrigation!"

"I've got seventeen hundred acres that hasn't been good for anything. It isn't worth as much as ordinary range, and grass brings only fifty cents an acre. But if I water that wasteland—" He paused impressively. "It will be worth at least a hundred dollars an acre!"

There was a swift exchange of surprised, doubtful, and questioning looks. Kilgo lifted a bushy eyebrow at his friend and henchman, Jackpot Mell. The proprietor of the Half Moon Saloon kept his face a mask but nodded slightly. His lean, wiry fingers toyed with the watch chain of shiny nuggets draped across his flowered vest. Fleming, from his raised position, followed the significant looks and felt a flash of uncertainty. But perhaps it was only his habitual suspicion of the Box 50 owner and his suave crony, a cold blooded killer.

"From fifty cents to a hundred bucks an acre is purty long talk," Seth Howland muttered skeptically.

"Yeab, and dammin' up water costs money. How do yuh figure to finance it, Link?" Honest John Mulrooney inquired.

"By forming the Boone County Improvement Association. We'll all buy stock according to the size of our spreads. That will provide capital for the irrigation ditches and dams."

"Well, o' course," Kilgo pointed out, "there's no use to form an association until we're shore the thing'll pay. Way it looks to me, we oughta have the judgment of somebody that knows. Boys, how about listenin' to Soak Torney? Soak's done engineerin' all over the world. He can tell us about Link's scheme, whether it'll work or not."

This, of course, was an adroit leading up to the winning of the whole throng of cattlemen. "I figure to go on what Torney says," Roper went on generously. "How about the rest of you guys?"

Why, the thing was now almost a certainty! If Roper endorsed Torney, the others were certain to follow like sheep. With eagerness he he tried hard to mask, Fleming watched the men react.

"Reckon Soak knows plenty about engineerin', at that," Mulrooney conceded.

"Buzz, will yuh go along on whatever we decide? How about you, Benson? All right, Link, let's hear the facts."

The Star Loop owner realized that perhaps he had misjudged Kilgo. He was being helpful now, and seemed really anxious to know more about irrigation, which he had so derisively opposed during the last year. Yes, Link felt he had done the man an injustice. Roper wasn't as bad as he was painted!

The important thing was to seize this advantage. Turning, he beckoned to Torney. "Come on up here and tell us about it, Soak," he invited as casually as he could manage. "You're the man knows about waterin' land. We want your opinion."

All eyes watched the ragged, unkempt figure of the saloon hanger-on rise from his chair and begin to shuffle forward in his furtive, hang-dog way. Vague apprehension made Link frown as he saw that Soak was the worse for a recent drinking bout, though he had promised earnestly to remain sober for this meeting. His eyes were lustreless and his whole mien that of a spineless barfly.

However—Fleming shrugged—it was merely Torney's endorsement as a civil engineer that was needed to clinch the support of Boone County ranchers. He appeared sufficiently in control of his senses to give that. Pshaw, what damage could he do, even in his present condition?

"What's your idea on this?" Link asked. "Could we build an irrigation plant here?"

The man wet his lips while he blinked self-consciously. "Reckon you can build it anywhere you want."

Roper grinned at him secretively,

The $1.00 size is nearly four times the 50c size, and the $1.50 size is twice the $1.00 size. 52 and nodded. "How much would a proposition like this cost us?" Link went on, drawing him out.

The engineer rubbed his reddish nose as he studied the floor in front of him. "About thirty-five or forty thousand dollars for a starter. You could build part and operate it while yuh raise more money to go on with the scheme."

"Raise more money'n that? What do yuh mean? What's the total?" Howland demanded.

"Around sixty thousand."

Several men gasped. "If you want your land to increase in value it'll take some investment, of course. But if we all chip in it won't be so bad. The thing is sure to be worth while," argued Fleming.

There was a slight pause. "That's the point," Roper drawled slowly. "Will it be worth while? If it will, I've about made up my mind to go in it. How about you boys?"

He gazed from face to face. Several men frowned hesitantly, then nodded. If there were any who distrusted Kilgo's leadership, they feared to oppose it. A few looked glum and several appeared reluctant. But the Box 50 owner's declaration applied to all of them. As usual, they would do what he did, follow him like sheep.

"That's settled then. Me—I'm willin', like you boys, to gamble on Torney's say-so. Should we go ahead with irrigation or stay out? That's the thing in a nutshell. Ain't it, Link?"

"Exactly. Now, Soak," he went on, striving to keep triumph out of his voice, "how about it?"

Torney swallowed hard. He cast a furtive, pleading look at Fleming. His bleary gaze swerved, to hold as if riveted on Kilgo and the cold-eyed Jackpot Mell as he answered in his husky, half-audible whisper.

"You could build dams and raise alfalfa—sure. But it'd be a crazy fool thing to do. Irrigation sounds all right, but it's nothing but a new-fangled way to waste money."

"Roper's said all along this ain't any good," he went on hurriedly. "My advice to you men is to stick to Roper—then you're safe. Why, I wouldn't give two cents for all the irrigation dams an' ditches in the United States."

CHAPTER II.

Silence fell like a blanket over the meeting of cattlemen. Fleming's jaw sagged, and his stunned amazement was mirrored on every face in the throng. For everyone, of course, had fully expected Torney to give emphatic approval. Why, the ranchers who stood blinking before him had been almost won over! Had it not been for this sudden reversal, coming with the unexpectedness of a shot in the dark, the irrigation scheme would proceed to organization with all Boone County backing it.

All eyes fixed on Link. Because he was the originator and ardent advocate of the plan, his reaction was of prime interest. While he stood with an incredulous, dismayed expression on his tanned face, Roper Kilgo glanced again at Jackpot Mell. Their look lasted but an instant; then they turned their faces front-

No hint of feeling was in their exchange, but deep in Fleming's heart distrust sparkled alive. As positively as if he had heard exultant words between them, he knew why Soak Torney had suddenly changed his attitude toward irrigation.

He must have been reached—threatened or persuaded from his true conviction. Only yesterday the man had been as enthusiastic as Link!

At once his mind began to build on this thought. Roper had always opposed the thing, until yesterday. His seeming friendliness then was the mask of his ruse. That was clear enough now. Perhaps he feared that his leadership, his grip on local cattlemen, was at stake. If Link put this thing into operation he, not Kilgo, would become the chief to whom weaker men looked for guidance. Roper's power would be gone.

Yes, that must be it. Kilgo used this means to kill forever talk of irrigation, in which he did not believe himself. He wanted the subject scotched—and he had chosen a means to accomplish this with wily astuteness that did him credit, schemer that he was.

There was a stir in the crowd, "Huh!" Seth Howland grunted, "reckon that's settled. This waterin' business ain't any better than I thought."

"Hold on, boys!" Link looked about for Torney, but realized that Soak had shambled quickly off during the taut, astonished silence. He cleared his throat scarcely knowing what he could say to hold them, to get new consideration of this matter on which he was so earnestly convinced.

Then, sudden anger waved over him, and with both fists clenched until the knuckles showed white, he spoke in a low, intense tone. "Somebody's tampered with Torney. That wasn't his real opinion! Why, he's told me a hundred times irrigation would do wonders for us all. We've worked on this thing, drawn up blueprints, even. Somebody influenced Soak, made him say what he did!" he cried insistently. "I tell you men you're going to regret it if you don't irrigate!"

Advance In Eye Surgery

Success Through Practice Of Keratoplasty Is Reported

New achievements in eye surgery through the comparatively little known practice of keratoplasty, the science of transplanting the transparent portion of the eye front to restore vision and perspective, were reported by the New York Academy of Medicine.

Just recently, it was learned, the transplanting of the cornea from the eye of one species of animal to the eye of an animal of another species—as from a kitten to a dog, and vice versa—was carried out successfully for the first time.

The possibilities are regarded with much significance. In the human field, two uncommon successes have just been revealed.

One is the case of Freeman Hall, of Iowa, who some months ago underwent an operation at the hands of Dr. Ramon Castroviejo, an authority on keratoplasty, to restore to one eye vision lost in an industrial accident and threatening him with complete blindness.

Hall has just been discharged from Columbia Medical centre, able to see large objects a yard away and able again to go unaided in the world.

The operations—of which there were two—consisted of transplanting in Hall's damaged eye a portion of the cornea of a new born baby, allowing it to grow in place of the damaged portion cut away.

The second successful case reported to the Academy of Medicine was the restoration of vision to a scientist. A laboratory accident destroyed his vision entirely, scarring the windows of the eye, and necessitating a double transplantation. He is now able to see sufficiently well to go unaided.

An elephant would consume 10 tons of food daily if it ate the same amount proportionately as a mouse. The actual consumption of food is 100 pounds, however.

Approximately 400,000 pupils attend the 10,000 privately owned schools of England. 2128

Little Helps For This Week

But this I say brethren, the time is short. 1 Corinthians 7:29.

I sometimes feel the thread of life is slender, And soon with me the labor will be wrought; Then grows my heart to other hearts more tender. The time is short.

You who are letting miserable misunderstandings run on from year to year, meaning to clear them up some day; you who are keeping wretched quarrels alive because you cannot make up your mind that this is the day to sacrifice your pride and kill them; you who are passing men sullenly on the street, not speaking to them out of some silly spite, and yet knowing it would fill you with remorse if you heard that one of them were dead tomorrow morning; you who are letting your neighbor starve till you hear he is dying of starvation, or letting your friend's heart ache for a word of appreciation or sympathy which you mean to give him some day—if you could only know and see all of a sudden that the time is short, how it would break the spell. How you would go and do instantly that which you might never have another chance to do.

Montreal's Dog Population

Montreal's dog population is growing in leaps and bounds. Figures released by F. Lamoureux, superintendent of the license and privilege department, show an increase of more than 1,000 dog licenses issued to date this year, compared with the whole of 1934. Last year's licenses totalled 7,542, while those this year are 8,613.

Union flags are to be supplied free by the government to all public school pupils in South Africa.
