Hi Girls, Loallo Motors Winners

Motors Show Best Form of Season and Humble Review—Pharmacy Troublesome for Hi Girls but Lose Narrowly,

Commercial League basketball games at Park Pavilion on Friday night were the best witnessed so far this season. The girls' teams especially put up real games both of which were very evenly contested. The High Rep. girls are still unbeaten but were given keen oppossition by Pharmacy in 40 minutes of play, the former winning 17-14. Creston Review were upset by Creston Motors 12-15, and the unbeaten Loallo quint. defeated High School boys 31-9.

In the opener Pharmacy came pretty close to downing the High girls, the former putting up their best exhibition of the season. As always the pillpounders had nice combination with a strong defence, which the High School found no easy task to penetrate. In fact, three quarters of the High School baskets were made from far out At half time the score was nine all. In the second half the crowd went wild with rooters for both teams dividing the noise making honors. Mary Abbott, although not scoring, did some accurate passing. Agnes Crane was the high scorer with nine of the fourteen points garnered by herself. Most of her shots were converted from passes from Betty Speers who played a fine game. Nell Payne, centre, for High School, accounted for nine points but was certainly hogging the ball from the rest of the team. There were 11 penalties against each team, two of which were converted by Pharmacy and the High School benefitted by three of theirs. Theo Tompkins played hard and efficiently, along with Ruby Palmer and Thelma Erickson. Teams:

High School—Payne 9, Tompkins 3, Hare 1, Ruby Palmer 4, Erickson, Staples, Ferguson, Hendy, Beryl Palmer. Total 17.

Pharmacy—Learmonth 2, Speers, Crane 9, Abbott, V. LaBelle 2, E. LaBelle, M. Moore, P MacDonald, Fay Tompkins. Total 14.

In the second game Creston Review was outclassed in every department by the lowly Creston Motors. Every player on the winners lineup played inspired basketball from the opening to the final whistle. Speedy on attack and with a stonewall defence Motors were a championship squad as they walked over last year's league leaders. Liz. Armitage led the attack, with June Browell and Ethel VanAckeren also having a hand in the scoring. Review played poor ball throughout the entire game and were never able to work in one play. Palmer went off for personals and Bourdon, taking her place, refused to pass to the rest of the squad. Nora Payne at centre loafed the whole game, and Martello had an off night finding the basket. The whole newspaper squad played poor basketball and will certainly have to show greatly improved form if they intend to stay in the running Teams:

Creston Motors—Browell 3, H. LaBelle, Armitage 5, D. MacDonald 1, Avery, Wightmann 2, K. Payne, VanAckeren 4. Total 15.

Creston Review—N. Payne 2, Swain 1, Martello 7, D. Palmer, Bourdon 2, Clark. Total 12.

The final encounter, Loallo vs. High School boys was fast but a little one sided. High School worked well and had their share of the floor play but could not locate the basket. Wilf. LaBelle was the pick of the losers, and was ably backed by York and Goplin. High School were a little rougher than their opponents having nine penalties against them, as compared with loallo's seven. For the winners Dale, Young, S. Nastasi and Maddess were responsible for a large portion of the plays, the latter accounting for 13 points. Teams:

High School—Gus. Morabito 2, LaBelle 5, York Goplin, Truscott 2, Weir, Rogers, Avery. Total 9.

Loallo—Maddess 13, F. Bourdon 6, Young 2, S. Nastasi 4, Art Nastasi 2, Dale, Scott. Total 31.

The evening's referees were Jim Dale, Art Nastasi, Doug. Corrie, Jack Payne and E. Marriott.

Wynndel Women's Institute to Help Christmas Concert Fund —Send Representatives to the Central Cemetery Conference

Wynndel Women's Institute November meeting was held at the United Church on Thursday afternoon. 24 members and three visitors were present. Financial statement and minutes of previous meeting were read and adopted.

There was a letter from the department of agriculture with which was the grant and congratulating the institute on work successfully undertaken. There was a letter from Creston Institute asking that representatives be sent to a meeting at Creston to discuss the securing of a new cemetery site. The letter was thoroughly discussed and delegates were appointed to attend the meeting at Creston on November 27th.

Letter from the University of British Columbia with regard to lectures was fully considered. It was decided that with road conditions so poor it would not be advisable to set a date for the proposed lecture. Financial statement of Otha Scott fund was read and a letter from the B.C. superintendent of Institutes, Mrs. V. S. MacLachlan, with regard to handicrafts was also submitted. The matter of a contribution to crippled children was left in abeyance.

Request for a donation to the Christmas Tree fund was favorably considered and a grant of $15 was authorized. A heated arguement took place on ways and means of securing institute funds, and how an institute should be run, but nothing definite was accomplished. A number guessing contest was one by Mrs. Hackett and the prize was a jar of honey donated by Mr. Davidge.

Tea hostesses were Mrs. A. F. Rudd, Mrs. Eakin sr., Mrs. W. Cooper, Mrs. Hulme and Mrs. Glasier.

Canyon

Otto and John Johnson have just left for Yahk, where they have taken a contract at log sawing with the C.P.R.

The milder weather and rains this week have brought the frost out of the ground and land operations have been resumed.

Steve Bedry is back from Southern Alberta, where he has been for several weeks helping with harvesting and threshing.

J. Barnett of Spokane, who recently purchased the Geo. Leach ranch at Canyon, arrived during the past week, and has taken possession.

J. Gardener, who has had the Geo. Leach place on lease the past two years, is reported to have bought the Geo. Strong ranch, and will take possession almost immediately.

Now that C. O. Rodgers has shut down woods operations at Ryan his horses have been brought here to winter at Camp 8. A number of local men who were employed at Ryan have returned to Canyon.

The Jarvis boys, Gus Oberg and C. Hogland, who have been employed for the past month at logging with the J. B. Winlaw Company, are home again. Operations have been discontinued for the present, at least.

Word has been received here of the death at Seattle of J. G. Porterfield, who is known to quite a number here. Deceased was a son-in-law of the late Eric Olson, and visited Canyon frequently during the illness and passing of the late Mr. Olson.

L. Craig and Martin Nelson have taken a logging contract in some timber operations at Arrow Creek on the Arrowsmith limits. It is possible a portable mill may be put in to saw the logs there, or they may be trucked to the Rodgers plant at Creston.

Mr. and Mrs. Lymbery of Gray Creek have left for a few months holiday in England. In their absence their property is in charge of Mr. Wolfheart.

C. Schaub has returned from Nelson and has now settled with his family on the former Gullett ranch. Mr. and Mrs S. Gullett are visiting with friends at Harrop.

Frank Nadon of Universal Motors, Creston, passed through with two 1936 Ford V-8's for delivery at Creston. R. Malloy was a business visitor at Creston, Saturday.

Considering the heavy rains of the past few days the roads are in good shape. Many Boswell residents plan to visit Nelson for the opening of the Auditorium at the end of the week.

Mr. Ramsden of the circulation staff of the Daily News, Nelson, was a weekend visitor. He called on Dick Davidson at Sanca and took a number of photos of his dog, Duke, doing some of the tricks for which he is well known. Mr. Kelly was another Boswell business visitor the past week.

Organize Junior Hoop League

Made up of Public and High School Talent—Creston Supplies Five Teams—Canyon and Wynndel Each Provide Two

Creston and District Junior Basketball League, which was such a success last season, is again to commence the season's play, with the first games scheduled for November 29th, at Canyon and Wynndel. The initial game at Creston is at Creston, December 6th.

Wynndel is entering a girls' and boys' team from the public school, which will be in charge of Principal Fred Martello. Canyon will also have boys' and girls' squads with Principal Jack Hunden in charge. Creston will supply five teams. Three of these will be from the High School (two girls and one boys), and the Public School a girls' and boys'—the two latter to be coached and managed by Principal E. Marriott and vice-principal Ben Crawford. The High School squads will be handled by Dave Todd.

The Junior League is a great thing as it encourages the players and helps to develop them for senior talent. Many of the players on the Girls High Rep. team in the Commercial League were absolutely new talent last year, and with good coaching have developed into fast hoopsters. Ruby Palmer, Doris Hendy and Thelma Erickson, who had their first year at the sport in 1934-35 with the junior league, are now on Girls' High Reps. Beryl Palmer, Helen Staples and Maisie Ferguson, who learned the game last season with the High School are also in Senior company. June Browell and Ethel VanAckeren, from Canyon, had only one season's experience and are now playing regularly with Creston Motors. The schedule:

NOV. 29th—Creston H.S. Girls 1st vs. Canyon Girls, at Canyon. Creston H.S. Boys vs. Canyon Boys, at Canyon, Creston P. S. Boys vs. Wynndel Boys at Wynndel. Creston P.S. Girls vs. Wynndel Girls, at Wynndel.

DEC. 6—Canyon Girls vs. Creston P.S. Girls, at Creston. Canyon Boys vs. Creston P.S. Boys, at Creston. Creston H.S. Girls 2nd vs. Wynndel Girls, at Wynndel. Creston H.S. Boys vs. Wynndel Boys, at Wynndel.

DEC. 13—Wynndel Girls vs Creston H S. Girls 2nd, at Creston. Wynndel Boys vs. Creston H. S. Boys.

DEC. 20—Creston H.S. Girls 1st, vs. Creston P.S. Girls, at Creston. Creston H.S Boys vs, Creston P.S. Boys, at Creston.

Wynndel Girls vs. Canyon Girls, at Canyon. Wynndel Boys vs. Canyon Boys at Canyon.

All games will commence at 4 p.m Friday afternoons, except when Wynndel is at Canyon or Canyon at Wynndel when the games will get under way at 4 30. On afternoons when no boys' games are posted exhibition games may be arranged between schools playing. Playoff games will be arranged at the close of the season if desired, The management hope to stage games in town without charge for admission.

Old Spinning Wheel

In Perfect Condition Still Turns Out Good Homespun Cloth

In perfect condition and still able to turn out as good a quality of homespun cloth as the day it was built a spinning wheel more than 100 years old is in the possession of Mrs. Joseph Poirier of Sydney, N.B.

Of small design the wheel carries the Scotch manufacurere's name as "Alex MacIntosh, built in 1818." Mrs. Poirier has used it continuously for 25 years. Previous to her ownership it was used by her aunt, Miss Catherine McPhee at Grand Mira, who used it from 1875 to 1910. The wheel is stated to be good and light as well as strong and fast and the present owner could not be induced to part with it any price.

City Built In Three Months

Turkish Dictator Wants His People To Lead Outdoor Lives

"Build a city by the sea, near Istanbul, where the masses may go and enjoy themselves. It must be finished within three months. It must have a hotel, a casino, a bathing beach. It must have all other attractions of a first-class watering place. It must be a national playground for the people."

Turkey's dictator, Kamel Ataturk, formerly Mustapha Kemal, gave these orders to the mayor of Istanbul. The mayor put 8,000 men on the job. Within three months to a day the seaside city sprang up.

The place is called Florya. It is on the European side of the Sea of Marmora, about 30 miles from Istanbul. It is the Turkish version of Monte Carlo, minus the gambling.

The first one to plunge into the sea at the resort was Kemal, as an example. He wants to free the people from centuries of traditions, from latticed windows and harems. He wants them to lead outdoor lives, like Americans and Europeans.

Londoners Had Thrill

Subway Housed Live Cows Used In Milk Campaign

A living cow cafe in an underground station is a new thing even in the metropolis of London where anything may happen without causing undue excitement. People arriving at Charing Cross subway station recently received a thrill when they came face to face with two Jersey cows. It was no optical illusion. The cows were there, beyond a doubt, stabled in the entrance hall as snugly as if they were in the country.

The cows were "put up" for a season of three weeks, to act as living cafeterias for the milk marketing boards "drink more milk" campaign. Their milk, cooled and tested, was being sold by four neat and attractive milkmaids, over a milk bar, at fourpence a glass, either flavored or in its natural state.

Divinity Fudge

No Trouble To Make It This Easy Way

3½ cups granulated sugar
½ cup "Crown Brand" Corn Syrup
⅔ cups water
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 egg whites
1½ cups chopped walnuts
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Method: Cook the sugar, "Crown Brand' Corn Syrup, water and salt to soft ball stage (238 F. degrees). Take out ½ cup of this syrup and cook the remainder to the hard ball or brittle stage. Stiffly beat the two egg whites and gradually pour over them the first half cup of syrup, beating constantly. Then, add the remainder of the syrup; add the nuts and vanilla, and continue beating until thick and creamy. Pour on buttered sheet and cut before it hardens.

Gold Production In B.C.

Is Expected To Reach Value Of 45,000,000 For Year

British Columbia metals and minerals have added $17,000,000 to the annual value of production in the last three years, are expected to exceed $45,000,000 this year, compared with little more than $28,000,000 in 1932, or a gain of some 62 per cent.

This is conceded by British Columbia mines officials, who added $1,000,000 to all previous estimates, due to record gold recoveries in the first nine months of the current year.

British Columbia gold production is now running at the rate of $1,000,000 a month, with not less than $12,000,000 in Canadian funds as the expected total for the year.

That compares with gold production which brought producers on B.C. properties, but $3,250,000 in 1929, and marks the greatest single change in the mining industry within the province.

EZRA'S MISSION TO JERUSALEM

Golden text: The hand of our God is upon all them that seek him, for good. Ezra 8:22.

Lesson: Ezra 7:1 to 8:36.

Devotional reading: Pslam 63:1-8.

Explanations And Comments

Ezra Comes to Jerusalem, Ezra 7:6-10. Ezra was a learned priest and scribe among the exiles in Babylon. As "a ready scribe in the law of Moses" he not only studied the law but copied it and interpreted it. He sought permission of Artaxerxes, the Persian king, to lead to Jerusalem a large company of exiles. His request was readily granted, thanks to the favor of the Eternal his God (Moffatt's translation). With the company were priests, scribes and singers for the temple service, porters to keep the temple gates (1 Ch. 9:17), and Nethinim, attendants for the temple (I. Ch. 9:2). They left Babylon the first day of the first month (Nisan, corresponding to March-April) of the seventh year of King Artaxerxes' reign, and reached Jerusalem on the first day of the fifth month (Ab, corresponding to July-August), after a journey of nearly four months.

Ezra had set his heart upon teaching in Israel the statutes and ordinances. As for himself, he had set his heart upon seeking to know the law of Jehovah, and, what is more, of doing it.

Between the knowing what should be done and the doing of it there is, alas! too often a gulf never bridged. In the words of Horace Bushnell, "Do the good you mediate, or if you never find the time for doing it, have the frankness to confess that your good intentions are hollow and worthless."

Letter of Artaxerxes, King of Persia, with its Instructions about Beautifying the Temple, Ezra 7:11-28. Artaxerxes not only granted Ezra's request, but he gave him much gold and silver for the temple, and also a letter in which he directed his officers in Judea to do whatever Ezra might ask. "Blessed be Jehovah, the God of our fathers," exclaimed Ezra, "who hath put such a thing as this in the king's heart, to beautify the house of Jehovah; and hath extended his lovingkindness to me."

Gifts for the Temple Weighed, Ezra 8:24-30. The treasures of gold and silver and sacred vessels which the king and counsellors and the Israelites had given for the temple, Ezra had weighed and counted and given into the charge of 12 priests and 10 Levites, making them responsible for their safe-keeping until the treasure could be again weighed and counted before witnesses in the chambers of the temple—the store rooms around the outer walls of the court of the temple.

On the Way to Jerusalem and the Arrival, Ezra 8:31-36. The river Ahava was left on the twelfth of the first month, and Jerusalem was reached on the first day of the fifth month. God delivered them "from the hand of the enemy and the lier-in-wait by the way." After resting three days, the treasure was weighed in the temple, and burnt-offerings were offered.

Shoe manufacturing was introduced into America in 1629 by Thomas Beard, who brought hides over on the Mayflower.

The girl spoke softly, her dimple showing for a moment; but to her surprise Jack answered in all seriousness: "After what you did during the blizzard? You know better, sis. But Matt's different from some boys, and I wouldn't like to think you'd hurt him."

Said Nancy, endeavoring to make her voice sound light: "You talk like Aunt Judy! She imagines that every boy who looks my way has lost his heart!"

"Well," observed Jack, "most any one would think that Matt had; but I never saw him act so happy and keyed up as he did this evening—and last night too. Say! will you ever forget how excited Mr. Adam was over your finding that crucifix? I think they're the finest family I ever knew, Nance. So enthusiastic, all of 'em. Do you suppose Dadn' Mother'll let me come back next winter? With Mark in California studying forestry they'll be short of help here at the ranch; and gee! I'd like it more'n anything!"

"I'll say a good word for you," promised his sister; and then: "Get back to bed, Jack. We must be up in good season, and it's long past midnight."

Despite her wakefulness, Nancy was up early next morning, though not so early as Matthew Adam, who had, according to Aurora, delivered milk at the Tubbs abode before she was out of bed.

"He spoke through the window," she related, "and almost frightened Victor into a collapse. He said I was to tell Jack to be ready to ride down on the truck along with the trunks, and Mark and Luke and John (young John, I mean) and Mary Taylor and Juan'ta. I told him it would look like a straw ride, but he said, 'Who cares?' I'll have to admit that for a feller who's sweet on a girl that's goin' two thousand miles away where he'll likely never lay eyes on her again, Matthew Adam looked pretty well resigned. And not more'n three days ago he resembled a man just comin' from the cemetery after buryin' his last relation. He's to drive the Ford with his father and mother and Miss Columbine and you, Nancy. I declare, if I wasn't quite so fleshy I'd squeeze in between on the front seat and go too."

"Why not go down on the truck?" suggested Miss Columbine, emerging from her bedroom.

"Among all them trunks and young folks and milk cans?" retorted the good woman. "No thank you, Miss Columbine, I have my pride, and there's house cleanin' to do even if you are going home with Eve Adam for over Sunday. I must say it was real considerate of Eve to ask you, for this house'll seem about as cheerful as the tomb till we get used to it. Well" (she sighed mournfully), "the last breakfast is ready, and you'd bet ter eat if you've any appetites, which I haven't myself. A cup of coffee and four doughnuts was all I could get down this mornin'. I've took the liberty of inviting Victor Tubbs to dinner, Miss Columbine. I need food, and goodness knows I couldn't eat a bite if I was to be here alone."

The truck was gone at last, leaving Aurora flattered and rosy at Jack's farewell kiss.

"It's just as well," she said, waving her apron as a last salute, "that Victor wasn't here to see. He's still jealous. Nancy, after more than 20 years of married life; and though Jack didn't mean nothin' in the world by kissin' me good-bye, Victor Tubbs might have misunderstood."

"Which proves that there's no fool like an old fool," declared Miss Columbine tartly. "Here comes the Ford, Aurora. I'd rather have Mark Adam drive us down the pass, but no doubt Matthew will be careful with his load of old folks. Where are you going, Nancy? I thought everything had been brought down."

"I must have one last look at the view from my tower," the girl responded, laughing; but once in the familiar room she tip-toed to a carefully closed closet and drew forth something she had hidden.

"Will you send Matt up to get my suitcase, Aurora?" she called with charming innocence from the head of the steep stairs. "Those stupid boys have overlooked it."

The last ride down the historic pass was over. The station came into view, with an impatient "delegation," as Jack called it, on the platform. All too soon a gigantic engine roared past the waiting crowd, and slowly stopped; while, dazed and breathless, Nance found herself mounting steps into the Pullman, a dusky porter armed with luggage leading her on, and Jack behind, stopping to call something to somebody. . . .

"Section eight. This way, lady."

From her window Nance looked out upon a sort of composite picture of that friendly gathering. Then, as the wheels turned, she caught the glimpse her eyes were seeking: Cousin Columbine in her scarlet middy, with Matt close by, bareheaded as she had seen him first—his hand slipped through the old lady's arm protectingly. . . .

Dear Matt! She'd forgotten to tell him to look out for Cousin Columbine, but he knew. Something tightened in Nancy's throat. The landscape blurred. Then Jack was saying:

"Thank heaven that's over! I never felt so—so conspicuous in my life. Did you kiss every member of the Adam family? I donno but I did! I'm sure I kissed Juanita Tubbs—by mistake, of course. And I believe I must have kissed Cousin Columbine three times! Isn't she the dandiet old sport, Nance? Kept a stiff upper lip right to the last minute, but I miss my guess if she didn't want to bawl. Made me feel bad just to look at her. But some one will understand and cheer her up, sis. Of course somebody will!"

Jack was right. As the wheels moved faster and Miss Columbine's steady lip began to tremble, a firm young hand drew her away, back from the crowd that still stared, stupidly, it seemed, at the departing train.

"Listen," said Matthew. "Li-listen, Miss Columbine. It's not quite so awful as it seems, having her go. I promised not to tell even Mother till—till Nancy got home and could tell hers; but she left a note for you in—in case you seemed too lonely; and anyway, I'll probably explode if I don't tell some one, so—so you see. . . ."

This was the old, shy Matthew, hesitating as if there were no words with which to say this thing; but as she glanced up, puzzled, Columbine Nelson surprised a light upon his face that startled her.

"What are you trying to tell me, Matthew Adam?" she demanded brusquely. "Stop stumbling over your words like that. I'm not a stranger. Don't keep me on tenter hooks a minute longer or I'll do the exploding. What are you trying to say?"

And at the reappearance of her own brisk self, Matt laughed, while in the face and eyes of an astonished baggage-man, he caught the oddly-attired lady in a bear-like hug.

"Only that Nance is coming back," he told her joyously. "And—and next time, Miss Columbine, she'll come—to stay!"

Phenomenal Doll Sales

Publicity Was Large Factor In The Success Of These Toys

Dolls have been the outstanding best sellers in the toy sections of departmental stores in the United States this year, according to national survey reports of toy world. Shirley Temple dolls, Dionne quintuplets and fairy princess dolls, the latter prompted by Colleen Moore's fairy doll house now touring the country, have won first place in over-the-counter sales.

Needless to say, the newspaper, movie and magazine publicity has been a big factor in the success of these toys. As a result of this year's phenomenal doll sales, the stores also report a fine demand for doll clothes and accessories.

Velocipides and bicycles held a firm place during the summer months and are expected to maintain a strong position with Santa Claus this Christmas.

The four best selling games of the past month, according to the survey, were "Monopoly," "Finance," "Banded Parcheesi' 'and "Badminton," all made by different manufacturers.

Old Chief Enters Movies

Aged Indian Dresses In Ceremonial Costume And Dances Sun Dance

Chief David, 109-year-old Saanich Indian of Vancouver Island, danced his way into the movies recently. When cameramen making a picture there inquired for someone who could interpret the ancient sun dance of the tribe, this grizzled old chief put on his ceremonial headdress and grunted his readiness to begin.

He went through the difficult movements of the dance without faltering. Then he told about his boyhood—how he had watched his tribesmen attack old Fort Victoria back in 1843.

Little Helps For This Week

For I reckon the sufferings of this present time are not worthy to be compared with the glory that shall be revealed in us. Romans 8:18.

Thou knowest in thy inmost heart
Thou art not clay, thy soul hath wings
And what thou seest is but part.

Every contradiction of our will, every little ailment, every petty disappointment, will if we take it patiently become a blessing. So, walking on earth we may be in heaven; the ill-temper of others, the slights of the world, the daily accidents with which God hath mercifully strewed our path, instead of ruffling or disturbing our peace may cause His peace to be shed abroad in our hearts abundantly.

Substitutes For Food

People In Hungary Are Buying Foxes And Crows

At the market at Keeskemet (Hungary) crows are on sale, where they are fetching as much as three cents each. They are bought by the poor who make them into a form of "chicken broth." Foxes are also being sold by the farmers at a shilling a head. Never since the war have the inhabitants of this wealthy district been forced by hard times to resort to such substitutes for food.

Old Spinning Wheel

In Perfect Condition Still Turns Out Good Homespun Cloth

In perfect condition and still able to turn out as good a quality of homespun cloth as the day it was built a spinning wheel more than 100 years old is in the possession of Mrs. Joseph Poirier of Sydney, N.B.

Of small design the wheel carries the Scotch manufacurere's name as "Alex MacIntosh, built in 1818." Mrs. Poirier has used it continuously for 25 years. Previous to her ownership it was used by her aunt, Miss Catherine McPhee at Grand Mira, who used it from 1875 to 1910. The wheel is stated to be good and light as well as strong and fast and the present owner could not be induced to part with it any price.

City Built In Three Months

Turkish Dictator Wants His People To Lead Outdoor Lives

"Build a city by the sea, near Istanbul, where the masses may go and enjoy themselves. It must be finished within three months. It must have a hotel, a casino, a bathing beach. It must have all other attractions of a first-class watering place. It must be a national playground for the people."

Turkey's dictator, Kamel Ataturk, formerly Mustapha Kemal, gave these orders to the mayor of Istanbul. The mayor put 8,000 men on the job. Within three months to a day the seaside city sprang up.

The place is called Florya. It is on the European side of the Sea of Marmora, about 30 miles from Istanbul. It is the Turkish version of Monte Carlo, minus the gambling.

The first one to plunge into the sea at the resort was Kemal, as an example. He wants to free the people from centuries of traditions, from latticed windows and harems. He wants them to lead outdoor lives, like Americans and Europeans.

Londoners Had Thrill

Subway Housed Live Cows Used In Milk Campaign

A living cow cafe in an underground station is a new thing even in the metropolis of London where anything may happen without causing undue excitement. People arriving at Charing Cross subway station recently received a thrill when they came face to face with two Jersey cows. It was no optical illusion. The cows were there, beyond a doubt, stabled in the entrance hall as snugly as if they were in the country.

The cows were "put up" for a season of three weeks, to act as living cafeterias for the milk marketing boards "drink more milk" campaign. Their milk, cooled and tested, was being sold by four neat and attractive milkmaids, over a milk bar, at fourpence a glass, either flavored or in its natural state.

Gold Production In B.C.

Is Expected To Reach Value Of 45,000,000 For Year

British Columbia metals and minerals have added $17,000,000 to the annual value of production in the last three years, are expected to exceed $45,000,000 this year, compared with little more than $28,000,000 in 1932, or a gain of some 62 per cent.

This is conceded by British Columbia mines officials, who added $1,000,000 to all previous estimates, due to record gold recoveries in the first nine months of the current year.

British Columbia gold production is now running at the rate of $1,000,000 a month, with not less than $12,000,000 in Canadian funds as the expected total for the year.

That compares with gold production which brought producers on B.C. properties, but $3,250,000 in 1929, and marks the greatest single change in the mining industry within the province.

EZRA'S MISSION TO JERUSALEM

Golden text: The hand of our God is upon all them that seek him, for good. Ezra 8:22.

Lesson: Ezra 7:1 to 8:36.

Devotional reading: Pslam 63:1-8.

Explanations And Comments

Ezra Comes to Jerusalem, Ezra 7: 6-10. Ezra was a learned priest and scribe among the exiles in Babylon. As "a ready scribe in the law of Moses" he not only studied the law but copied it and interpreted it. He sought permission of Artaxerxes, the Persian king, to lead to Jerusalem a large company of exiles. His request was readily granted, thanks to the favor of the Eternal his God (Moffatt's translation). With the company were priests, scribes and singers for the temple service, porters to keep the temple gates (1 Ch. 9:17), and Nethinim, attendants for the temple (I. Ch. 9:2). They left Babylon the first day of the first month (Nisan, corresponding to March-April) of the seventh year of King Artaxerxes' reign, and reached Jerusalem on the first day of the fifth month (Ab, corresponding to July-August), after a journey of nearly four months.

Ezra had set his heart upon teaching in Israel the statutes and ordinances. As for himself, he had set his heart upon seeking to know the law of Jehovah, and, what is more, of doing it.

Between the knowing what should be done and the doing of it there is, alas! too often a gulf never bridged. In the words of Horace Bushnell, "Do the good you mediate, or if you never find the time for doing it, have the frankness to confess that your good intentions are hollow and worthless."

Letter of Artaxerxes, King of Persia, with its Instructions about Beautifying the Temple, Ezra 7:11-28. Artaxerxes not only granted Ezra's request, but he gave him much gold and silver for the temple, and also a letter in which he directed his officers in Judea to do whatever Ezra might ask. "Blessed be Jehovah, the God of our fathers," exclaimed Ezra, "who hath put such a thing as this in the king's heart, to beautify the house of Jehovah; and hath extended his lovingkindness to me."

Gifts for the Temple Weighed, Ezra 8:24-30. The treasures of gold and silver and sacred vessels which the king and counsellors and the Israelites had given for the temple, Ezra had weighed and counted and given into the charge of 12 priests and 10 Levites, making them responsible for their safe-keeping until the treasure could be again weighed and counted before witnesses in the chambers of the temple—the store rooms around the outer walls of the court of the temple.

On the Way to Jerusalem and the Arrival, Ezra 8:31-36. The river Ahava was left on the twelfth of the first month, and Jerusalem was reached on the first day of the fifth month. God delivered them "from the hand of the enemy and the lier-in-wait by the way." After resting three days, the treasure was weighed in the temple, and burnt-offerings were offered.

Shoe manufacturing was introduced into America in 1629 by Thomas Bearg, who brought hides over on the Mayflower.

The girl spoke softly, her dimple showing for a moment; but to her surprise Jack answered in all seriousness: "After what you did during the blizzard? You know better, sis. But Matt's different from some boys, and I wouldn't like to think you'd hurt him."

Said Nancy, endeavoring to make her voice sound light: "You talk like Aunt Judy! She imagines that every boy who looks my way has lost his heart!"

"Well," observed Jack, "most any one would think that Matt had; but I never saw him act so happy and keyed up as he did this evening—and last night too. Say! will you ever forget how excited Mr. Adam was over your finding that crucifix? I think they're the finest family I ever knew, Nance. So enthusiastic, all of 'em. Do you suppose Dadn' Mother'll let me come back next winter? With Mark in California studying forestry they'll be short of help here at the ranch; and gee! I'd like it more'n anything!"

"I'll say a good word for you," promised his sister; and then: "Get back to bed, Jack. We must be up in good season, and it's long past midnight."

Despite her wakefulness, Nancy was up early next morning, though not so early as Matthew Adam, who had, according to Aurora, delivered milk at the Tubbs abode before she was out of bed.

"He spoke through the window," she related, "and almost frightened Victor into a collapse. He said I was to tell Jack to be ready to ride down on the truck along with the trunks, and Mark and Luke and John (young John, I mean) and Mary Taylor and Juan'ta. I told him it would look like a straw ride, but he said, 'Who cares?' I'll have to admit that for a feller who's sweet on a girl that's goin' two thousand miles away where he'll likely never lay eyes on her again, Matthew Adam looked pretty well resigned. And not more'n three days ago he resembled a man just comin' from the cemetery after buryin' his last relation. He's to drive the Ford with his father and mother and Miss Columbine and you, Nancy. I declare, if I wasn't quite so fleshy I'd squeeze in between on the front seat and go too."

"Why not go down on the truck?" suggested Miss Columbine, emerging from her bedroom.

"Among all them trunks and young folks and milk cans?" retorted the good woman. "No thank you, Miss Columbine, I have my pride, and there's house cleanin' to do even if you are going home with Eve Adam for over Sunday. I must say it was real considerate of Eve to ask you, for this house'll seem about as cheerful as the tomb till we get used to it. Well" (she sighed mournfully), "the last breakfast is ready, and you'd bet ter eat if you've any appetites, which I haven't myself. A cup of coffee and four doughnuts was all I could get down this mornin'. I've took the liberty of inviting Victor Tubbs to dinner, Miss Columbine. I need food, and goodness knows I couldn't eat a bite if I was to be here alone."

The truck was gone at last, leaving Aurora flattered and rosy at Jack's farewell kiss.

"It's just as well," she said, waving her apron as a last salute, "that Victor wasn't here to see. He's still jealous. Nancy, after more than 20 years of married life; and though Jack didn't mean nothin' in the world by kissin' me good-bye, Victor Tubbs might have misunderstood."

"Which proves that there's no fool like an old fool," declared Miss Columbine tartly. "Here comes the Ford, Aurora. I'd rather have Mark Adam drive us down the pass, but no doubt Matthew will be careful with his load of old folks. Where are you going, Nancy? I thought everything had been brought down."

"I must have one last look at the view from my tower," the girl responded, laughing; but once in the familiar room she tip-toed to a carefully closed closet and drew forth something she had hidden.

"Will you send Matt up to get my suitcase, Aurora?" she called with charming innocence from the head of the steep stairs. "Those stupid boys have overlooked it."

The last ride down the historic pass was over. The station came into view, with an impatient "delegation," as Jack called it, on the platform. All too soon a gigantic engine roared past the waiting crowd, and slowly stopped; while, dazed and breathless, Nance found herself mounting steps into the Pullman, a dusky porter armed with luggage leading her on, and Jack behind, stopping to call something to somebody. . . .

"Section eight. This way, lady."

From her window Nance looked out upon a sort of composite picture of that friendly gathering. Then, as the wheels turned, she caught the glimpse her eyes were seeking: Cousin Columbine in her scarlet middy, with Matt close by, bareheaded as she had seen him first—his hand slipped through the old lady's arm protectingly. . . .

Dear Matt! She'd forgotten to tell him to look out for Cousin Columbine, but he knew. Something tightened in Nancy's throat. The landscape blurred. Then Jack was saying:

"Thank heaven that's over! I never felt so—so conspicuous in my life. Did you kiss every member of the Adam family? I donno but I did! I'm sure I kissed Juanita Tubbs by mistake, of course. And I believe I must have kissed Cousin Columbine three times! Isn't she the dandiet old sport, Nance? Kept a stiff upper lip right to the last minute, but I miss my guess if she didn't want to bawl. Made me feel bad just to look at her. But some one will understand and cheer her up, sis. Of course somebody will!"

Jack was right. As the wheels moved faster and Miss Columbine's steady lip began to tremble, a firm young hand drew her away, back from the crowd that still stared, stupidly, it seemed, at the departing train.

"Listen," said Matthew. "Li-listen, Miss Columbine. It's not quite so awful as it seems, having her go. I promised not to tell even Mother till—till Nancy got home and could tell hers; but she left a note for you in—in case you seemed too lonely; and anyway, I'll probably explode if I don't tell some one, so—so you see. . . ."

This was the old, shy Matthew, hesitating as if there were no words with which to say this thing; but as she glanced up, puzzled, Columbine Nelson surprised a light upon his face that startled her.

"What are you trying to tell me, Matthew Adam?" she demanded brusquely. "Stop stumbling over your words like that. I'm not a stranger. Don't keep me on tenter hooks a minute longer or I'll do the exploding. What are you trying to say?"

And at the reappearance of her own brisk self, Matt laughed, while in the face and eyes of an astonished baggage-man, he caught the oddly-attired lady in a bear-like hug.

"Only that Nance is coming back," he told her joyously. "And—and next time, Miss Columbine, she'll come—to stay!"

The End.

A NEW SERIAL STORY

Arrangements have been completed for presenting to our readers a new serial entitled "Fleming's Folly", by that well-known writer, Lawrence A. Keating. This is an absorbing and exciting story of the western plains, and those who follow the installments as they appear each week, will be thrilled by the intensive situations. This story will be commenced in an early issue. Be sure that you do not miss the opening chapters.

Phenomenal Doll Sales

Publicity Was Large Factor In The Success Of These Toys

Dolls have been the outstanding best sellers in the toy sections of departmental stores in the United States this year, according to national survey reports of toy world. Shirley Temple dolls, Dionne quintuplets and fairy princess dolls, the latter prompted by Colleen Moore's fairy doll house now touring the country, have won first place in over-the-counter sales.

Needless to say, the newspaper, movie and magazine publicity has been a big factor in the success of these toys. As a result of this year's phenomenal doll sales, the stores also report a fine demand for doll clothes and accessories.

Velocipides and bicycles held a firm place during the summer months and are expected to maintain a strong position with Santa Claus this Christmas.

The four best selling games of the past month, according to the survey, were "Monopoly," "Finance," "Banded Parcheesi' 'and "Badminton," all made by different manufacturers.

Old Chief Enters Movies

Aged Indian Dresses In Ceremonial Costume And Dances Sun Dance

Chief David, 109-year-old Saanich Indian of Vancouver Island, danced his way into the movies recently. When cameramen making a picture there inquired for someone who could interpret the ancient sun dance of the tribe, this grizzled old chief put on his ceremonial headdress and grunted his readiness to begin.

He went through the difficult movements of the dance without faltering. Then he told about his boyhood—how he had watched his tribesmen attack old Fort Victoria back in 1843.

High Grade Barley

About 500,000 bushels of high grade barley have been placed in storage at Calgary by a malting company. Another million bushels is now being collected. Much of the present storage stock has been secured from growers who utilized special seed put out by the company in the spring.

Substitutes For Food

People In Hungary Are Buying Foxes And Crows

At the market at Keeskemet (Hungary) crows are on sale, where they are fetching as much as three cents each. They are bought by the poor who make them into a form of "chicken broth." Foxes are also being sold by the farmers at a shilling a head. Never since the war have the inhabitants of this wealthy district been forced by hard times to resort to such substitutes for food.

DOCTORING YOUR DAIRY HERD

Cows aren't machines. They can get sick or hurt. But Minard's Liniment makes it easy to care for their ills. Mrs. Thos. Bulmer of Lardo, B.C., found one of her herd with a lump in her udder. "I rubbed it with Minard's Liniment", she says, "and it soon got better." Minard's is best for Cuts, Bruises, Colic, Distemper, etc., and equally good in stable or in house. Well named "King of Pain". 88

Your telephone's value

Have you ever stopped to consider just what your telephone does for you?

Think of the many lonely days made cheery by telephone visits with friends or relatives; of the countless trips that it saves to the butcher, the baker and the grocer; and think of its value in emergencies when you need help in a hurry. It is the quickest way to reach doctor, police or fireman.

Yes, your telephone is a good companion, a faithful servant and a great protector at a small cost.

Champion Anglers

The prizes awarded by Vic. Mawson in connection with his annual fishing contest have just been awarded as follows: The fishing basket awarded for the largest black bass was won by Ed. Lewis with a sample weighing 5 pounds 8 ounces; 22 inches long, and a girth of 15¾ inches. In this class the second prize of fly book was annexed by W. Keirn with one weighing 5 pounds 2 ounces; length, 20¼ inches, and girth 14¼ inches.

In the trout class the silk casting line for the largest rainbow becomes the property of Harry Webster who led the field with one weighing 2 pounds 15 ounces, 21½ inches long, and a girth ten inches. Julian Cartwright takes the casting reel for highest honors in silver trout, his prize catch weighing 2 pounds 1½ ounces, with a length of 17½ inches, and girth 8½ inches.

Bud Lowther is awarded the championship in the boys squaw fish catching de artment with one weighing 3 pounds 12 ounces; 22 inches long, and girth 12½ inches. His prize is a hunting knife.

Vic. Reports competition in the bass class pretty much on a par with 1934, but there is a slight falling off in the trout entries.

Wedded at Kitchener

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Senesael, Kitchener, on Thursday afternoon last, when Miss Hazel Sarah Bertha McGonegal, second daughter of Mrs. C. Senesael and the late Edwin Lloyd McGonegal, was united in marriage by Rev. J. A. T. McLagan of Creston, to William Archibald Cranna, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Cranna of Penticton.

The bride entered the room on the arm of her stepfather, C. Senesael, looking lovely in a pale blue satin dress of princess lines floor length, with matching jacket with short puff sleeves. She had a silver bando ornamented with pink and pale blue roses. She also wore silver slippers and carried a boquet of pink and white chrysantnemums and maidenhair fern tied with silk bow with streamers tied in lovers knots.

Mrs. Douglas F. Putnam, sister of the bride, was her only attendent. She was attired in Copen blue silk crepe of simple lines and carried bronze and white chrysanthemums with maidenhair ferns. The groom was supported by his brother, Donald Cranna of Penticton. The wedding march was played by Miss Clara Hunt, who also favored with an appropriate instrumental during the signing of the register.

The bride's mother, Mrs. Senesael, wore mauve figured silk crepe and Mrs. Cranna, mother of the groom, favored blue cut velvet and lace. The groom's gift to the bride was a leather purse, and to the matron of honor a gold compact. The best man received a fountain pen. The bride's gift to the groom was a monogrammed leatner belt.

After the service the guests were served with wine and a toast was given the bride. Fourteen guests sat down to a sumptuous wedding dinner. The table was centered with a three tier wedding cake. The rooms were prettily decorated with small chrysanthemums and ferns.

After the reception the newlyweds left by motor for Cranbrook. For travelling Mrs. Cranna wore brown with coat and accessories to match. On Tuesday they left for Penticton where they will visit for a week, after which they go to Beaverdell, where the groom is employed.

The invited guests were Mrs. Cranna, Penticton; Mrs. Frank Putnam, Mrs. E. W. Payne, Creston; Mrs. G. A. Hunt, Mrs. N. P Molander, Mrs. B. Johnson, Mrs. A. Howard, Mrs E. Driffil, Mrs. A. Manuel, Mrs. H. H. Redmile, Mrs. C. Foisy, Mrs. G. Young, Creston; Miss Clara Hunt, Miss Kate Payne, Creston; Mr. and Mrs. D. F. Putnam, Erickson; Donald Cranna, Penticton; and John Belanger, Jaffray.

Push Sale Of Canadian Wheat

Western Canadian farmer organizations are on the right track in taking steps to launch a well defined and co-ordinated program of publicity with the promotion of greater consumption of high grade wheat in customer countries as its objective.

Within a period of a couple of weeks two of the large farmer marketing organizations have given their blessing to such a move. These are the central organization of the Canadian wheat pools, whose plan to place an all-Canadian wheat loaf before the British consumer was endorsed at the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool delegates and the United Grain Growers Ltd., who, at their annual meeting in Winnipeg sponsored a publicity program for Canadian wheat overseas.

Briefly, the U.G.G. Ltd. propose to interest boards of trade and other organizations throughout the prairie provinces to sponsor a request to the Federal government to set up a special sales promotion body to be known as the Canadian Wheat Institute with offices in consumer countries, the objective being to develop greater consumption of high quality wheat, which, of course, means wheat grown in Canadian fields.

The necessity for stimulating overseas consumers' interest is cited in the following quotation from the directors' report at the annual meeting of the Saskatchewan Wheat Pool: "In spite of the fact that Great Britain remains the best Canadian overseas customer for Canadian wheat, our wheat is invariably used only for blending with other wheats, particularly in the English mills. The British peoples generally are not familiar with the high quality of bread which can be baked from Canadian flour."

In support of the argument that a publicity campaign should be conducted in Great Britain, figures were quoted at the U.G.G. convention to the effect that while world consumption of wheat has dropped 31 per cent. in the past five years, Canadian wheat exports have been lowered by 49 per cent. in the same period.

While this may be true, it does not necessarily mean, however, that Canada is not holding her own in competition with other wheat exporting countries as total exports have dropped faster than total consumption due to the self-sustaining efforts of a number of the former customer countries in Europe. It does demonstrate, on the other hand, a material reduction of consumption of wheat, during the period under review.

Unfortunately, there is evidence that there is actually a reduction of consumption of wheat in Great Britain, Canada's best customer for high grade wheat. Representatives of the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society, while in Western Canada this summer, testified that while the Scotchman insists upon bread made of wheat of high protein content, as a result of which bread sold by the Co-operative's affiliates and subsidiaries contains 93 per cent. Canadian wheat, he is also eating less bread than formerly and, incredible though it may sound, is consuming less porridge. The Caledonian is substituting more expensive fruit, bacon and eggs and other comestibles, for a percentage of his erstwhile substantial diet of bread and oatmeal.

There are indications that a similar situation exists in England, where the popular taste is for a lower grade loaf than the Scotchman demands, for within the past year the British millers have found it advisable to institute a five-year advertising program at considerable expense in an effort to persuade the population south of the Tweed and the Cheviots that they should eat more bread.

With many of the former markets virtually closed to Canadian wheat and the British market showing a tendency to shrink, due to changing dietetic tastes, or whatever the cause may be, the outlook is not reassuring to the Western Canadian farmer.

The farmer organizations are becoming alive to the need for taking some steps to deal with these conditions and it is to be hoped that some effective program can be devised with all interests working together to a common aim.

In some quarters it is suggested that this is an opportunity for the Canadian Wheat Board to take the initiative in co-operation with the Department of Trade and Commerce. It is pointed out that the Wheat Board, under the Canada Wheat Board Act, is vested with wide enough powers in section 8, sub-section B, which gives the board authority "to sell and dispose of, from time to time, all wheat which the board may acquire for such price as it may consider reasonable with the object of promoting the sale and use of Canadian wheat in the world markets."

Some recent experiments in the home market show that the public will respond to a loaf made more attractive by flavoring or other devices and it is possible that similar efforts to woo the British consumer would pay dividends. At any rate it is worth a trial.

Canada's Chief Loss

In the event of Italy retaliating by refusing to buy from Canada the chief loss would be in wheat, according to the exports for the last fiscal year when wheat to the value of $1,096,624 was shipped to that country.

Terminates Annual Gifts

Rockefeller Believes Sectionalism In Church Is Wrong

Forsaking the traditional practice of his father, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has terminated his annual monetary gifts to the Northern Baptist Church in the belief that inter-denominationalism is the best servitor of Christian religion.

In a searching letter to the Northern Baptist convention, written March 7 last, but revealed only recently, the son of the founder of one of the world's greatest fortunes informed the church that henceforth any future gifts would be only to specific agencies of the church.

"I have long felt," he wrote, "that this denominational emphasis is a divisive force in the progress of organized Christian work and an obstacle to the development of the spirit and life of Christ among men."

To hold young people, Rockefeller said, who are largely unconcerned with denominational distinctions, the church must work with them "in relegating the non-essentials to a place of secondary importance and stand with them for the fundamentals of Christian duty."

Rockefeller, the largest individual donnor to the church, has in the past made annual donations ranging from $250,000 to $1,000,000 to the general budget of the Northern Baptist convention.

Made Noise Like 'Plane

Swarming Wasps Routed Pack Trains In B.C. This Year

Wasps were numerous throughout British Columbia this year. Hundreds of nests honeycombed the rocky ground of the Cariboo district and on Vancouver Island.

"You could stand still anywhere in the woods, listen quietly, and hear a humming like a flock of distant aeroplanes," a logger in the Courtenay district of Vancouver Island reported.

He told of finding an area where a bear had demolished a dozen nests in the space of a quarter of a mile, feasting on the young wasps it found.

Many nests were situated on the Forbidden Plateau and pack trains were often attacked by the stingers. Horses rear and plunge as the swarms sail in to the attack. The stings remain with the horses only a few minutes, however, and they are soon quietened.

Unique Picture Gallery

Has Been Hobby Of Hotelkeeper For 35 Years

Trail, a little mining town in British Columbia, boasts a unique picture gallery. It is owned by Pete Levesque, a hotelkeeper, who has made it his hobby for 35 years, and it covers every inch of wall space in his lobby.

The gallery includes a photograph of every prominent man or woman who has visited Trail since 1900, and many of the photographs are autographed. All carry a short biography of the subject in Mr. Levesque's spidery writing, each ending with the word "died," followed by a blank space to be filled in when the time comes. Some of the subjects have thought this meticulous attention to detail a trifle premature.

Java Has No Poor

Native Diet Is Frugal And Everyone Has Enough

Speaking of the world tour of Lord Baden-Powell and herself which recently concluded with their visit to Canada, Lady Baden-Powell mentioned their stay in Java, and added: "I might say there isn't a poor person in all of Java. Of course the native diet is frugal—a handful of rice and a couple of bananas is sufficient each day. But we could learn a lot from the attitude of these Eastern people. Their kindness, their friendly spirit and their goodness shine from their eyes." 2126

Poultry Congress In Leipsic

Exhibit Building In Berlin Was Destroyed By Fire

Owing to a serious conflagration in the city of Berlin, Germany, the large building in which the live bird exhibit of the Sixth World's Poultry Congress was to have been held in 1936 was destroyed by fire. As there was no other hall in Berlin large enough for the purpose, the Congress authorities decided to hold the Congress in Leipsic. According to official information, this arrangement will give better accommodation than was possible in Berlin, while at the same time the delegates will have every opportunity of seeing the sights in and around Berlin itself on the occasion of a pre-arranged visit. Provision is also being made for the delegates to visit the Olympic Games, which will be held on the outskirts of Berlin. A Canadian tour is being arranged, and already there have been some definite bookings and a large number of applications for information.

Propane Gas Has Many Uses

Can Cool A Refrigerator Or Run A Motor

One of the products of oil and gas wells is a condensible gas, progane. Under compression it is a liquid, but if released to atmospheric pressure it becomes a gas. When it changes from a liquid to a gas it has properties similar to dry ice, solid carbon dioxide. It has frequently been suggested that propane could be used for a dual purpose with completely opposite effects. It could first be evaporated from the liquid state through coils of pipe to cool a refrigerator and the vapor could then be run to a gas stove, where it could be burned as fuel. A parallel application applied to motor trucks transporting perishable foods is described in "Food Industries." The propane is first used for refrigerating the body of the truck and is then used as fuel for the motor instead of gasoline.

Told Astonishing Story

Fishermen On Caspian Sea Marooned For Five Days

Thousands of Caspian fishermen told an astonishing story of having been marooned on the bottom of the sea for five days, dispatches to Moscow stated.

Their report was that at the busiest period of the fishing season the sea itself retired from under the fleet.

It receded along 150 miles of the northern shore line of the Caspian Sea, leaving the ships high and dry several kilometres from solid earth.

Airplanes dropped food to the marooned men until the tide flowed back and allowed them to refloat their ships.

Took Name From Islands

The Canary Islands were called "Canaria" by Pliny, because of the multitude of dogs of great size found there. The domesticated canary took its name from the island, and not the islands from the bird.

The large, white, funnel-shaped "blossoms" of the calla lily are not the true flowers at all, but outer leaves. The real flowers are tiny, inconspicuous things, crowded together on the club-like spadix in the centre.

Some people are noted for their ability to recollect things that never happened.

The poisonous toadstool and the edible mushroom are of the same family.

South Africa's New Post Office Using Replicas Of Stamps

South Africa's new post office which is now under construction is to have stained glass windows in the form of enlarged replicas of the Union's halfpenny, penny, twopenny and fourpenny postage stamps. Interwoven with the stamp designs are representations of a streamlined train, aeroplane, a motor ship, and a radio station emitting sparks. A pair of symbolic poles help to balance the design which are supported by medallions, sketches of mail coaches and other old methods of postal transport.—L. A. Barnes.

ITALY PLANNING FOOD SUPPLY TO MEET SANCTIONS

Rome.—Premier Mussolini satisfied himself that Italy can feed herself regardless of the economic siege laid down by League of Nations countries opposing his war in Ethiopia.

He approved regulations to limit certain crops whose exportation has been halted by sanctions and to grow others which formerly came from sanctionist countries. The plans affect every one of Italy's 3,646,000 farms.

Details of the program were carefully withheld.

The farm plans were made at a secret meeting at which three big objectives were outlined:

First, to maintain, and increase, where necessary, production of foodstuffs and fodder.

Second, to increase immediately production of certain things needed by Italian industry in the manufacture of substitutes for articles formerly imported.

Third, to limit certain products, some of which have been exported in the past, and devote the land thus released to crops for home consumption.

Geneva.—Ethiopia served notice on the League of Nations she will make no peace that would permit Italy "to reap the reward of its crime."

Answering Italy's Nov. 11 note to the powers, an Ethiopian note flatly refused to entertain any proposal for settlement of the war that might be based on territorial gains by the Fascist armies.

The protest accused Italy of unjustified aggression perpetrated under the most unfair conditions," military barbarity and oppression and attempts to buy traitors for cash, and charged the invading armies have bombarded defenceless towns, killing women and children.

Italy's northern African army stiffened its defences for an anticipated counter-attack. Officers said thousands of Ethiopians were massing in southern Tigre province and that one column even was marching on Selicot, only eight miles south of Makale.

Reports of decisive Ethiopian victories—but at the cost of hundreds of casualties — reached Addis Ababa from the southern front, where Emperor Haile Selassie encouraged his defenders in person. In one engagement, south of Sasa Baneh along the River Fafan, the casualties were said to number more than 150 Italian Somali dead and wounded and more than 300 Ethiopians.

New Era For Farmers

Speaker Visualizes Better Days For Agriculturists

Toronto.—Canada is beginning five or ten years of the greatest progress its agricultural industry has ever seen, declared Hon. Duncan Marshall, Ontario minister of agriculture, speaking to representative farmers and stock raisers from every province, together with prominent guests from the United States and overseas, at the annual dinner of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair.

"One-third of the wealth of Canada is in the hands of the agricultural interests of the country," said Mr. Marshall. "The men and women behind this great industry have had their hard times, they have been through the lean years of depression. But a new day is dawning for the farmer. Canada is coming into its own as one of the greatest agricultural nations of the world."

He is a son of Capt. Aedy, M.C., of Revenue district, and was educated at a country school. The examination set by the air ministry is considered to be exceptionally difficult for a boy of his years.

War Flyer Under Arrest

German Alleged To Have Spied On British Airport

London.—Dr. Hermann Gortz, German war flyer, was under arrest charged with contravention of the official Secrets Act and a war office statement indicated another person was sought on a similar charge.

The war office communique said: "The charges against Dr. Gortz are that at Parish Broadstairs and St. Peter's between Sept. 18 and Oct. 23, 1935, he acted in contravention of the Official Secrets Act and that between Sept. 18 and October 24 at Broadstairs he conspired with another person not in custody to commit offences against the same act."

Dr. Gortz was arrested at Harwich on Nov. 8 and held in Brixton jail following preliminary question at Margate. He was alleged to have spied on the Manston airport near Broadstairs.

The Daily Sketch said his arrest was a sensational development. It stated there was an allegation that Gortz had documents contrary to the Secrets Act.

The newspaper said a beautiful golden-haired young woman sometimes accompanied him on his frequent trips to England. The girl, understood to be his daughter or his niece, returned to Germany this fall, it was stated.

New Zealand Trade Pact

Will Encourage Shipment Of Cars From Canada

Ottawa—With extensive revision of duties on Canadian motor vehicles, including parts, the Canada-New Zealand trade pact expiring next Nov. 24 has been renewed to July 31, 1936, Hon. W. D. Euler, minister of trade and commerce, announced.

The new rates will only become effective next May 1, while further trade negotiations will be carried on between the two countries.

The changes in the New Zealand tariff were made at the request of that country in order to encourage the importation into New Zealand of unassembled cars that the assembling might be done there.

Canadian exports to New Zealand have been increasing steadily from $3,608,500 in the year 1932 to 1933 to $7,344,785 in the year 1934 to 1935. In the last eight months alone, exports to New Zealand reached a total of $4,326,593—an increase of $800,000 from the corresponding six months of the previous year. The chief item of export was automobiles and parts exceeding $1,000,000.

Imports from New Zealand have also been increasing steadily. In the year 1932 to 1933, the amount was $969,704. This increased in the year 1934 to 1935 to $2,534,678.

British Naval Hero

Death Comes To Lord Jellicoe In His 76th Year

London.—Lord Jellicoe, outstanding British naval figure in the Great War, died Nov. 20. Death came to the admiral in his 76th year. He was born Dec. 5, 1859. Lord Jellicoe rose to his greatest fame as commander of the grand fleet at the battle of Jutland in 1916.

The immediate cause of Lord Jellicoe's death was illness contracted Nov. 11 during the Armistice Day ceremony at the cenotaph. All the members of his family, including his wife, were at his bedside when he died in his home in the Kensington district of London.

Montreal Rioting

Exciting Time At Opening Of Election Campaign

Montreal. — Ripe tomatoes and frozen potatoes were hurled through the windows and into St. James market at the first meeting of the Quebec election campaign to be held in Montreal by Premier Taschereau.

By actual count 21 windows were smashed while 15 others were struck by the vegetables thrown by members of a crowd which formed a solid cordon around the outside of the building. Seventeen men were arrested and lodged in the cells.

Most of the missiles were fired at the beginning of the meeting during the speeches of Hon. Irenee Vautrin, minister of colonization, and Premier Taschereau. While Hon. Fernand Rinfret, secretary of state, delivered his half-hour speech there was only one break. By that time the crowd outside had been largely dispersed.

A chorus of boos also coming from outside of the hall greeted many remarks of the first two speakers. Provincial police inside the hall joined municipal contsables outside and cleared the market place of those who failed to give good reason for being there.

In the middle of his speech Premier Taschereau was interrupted by a particularly loud window breaking. "That's all our opponents are good for," he commented—"destruction, nothing constructive."

While there were a few catcalls from inside the hall, it was from the outside the demonstrators led the trouble. Loud-speakers carried the speeches outside the hall and choruses of invective, "boos" and catcalls punctuated the oratory from within.

Even when the barrage of tomatoes and potatoes was at its height, Premier Taschereau broke into a wide smile when a woman in the audience shouted, "It's too bad we don't have the vote. We'd show those gangsters what we think of their methods."

Of the 17 arrested four were released on bail of $10 while 13 were placed in cells over night. All were booked on charges of disturbing the peace.

Alberta's Finances

New Government Is Working On The Problem

Edmonton.—Addressing the 27th annual convention of Alberta Association of Municipal Districts here, Hon. Charles Cockroft, minister of municipal affairs, stated that the actual deficit of the province for the fiscal year ending March 31, 1936, "will be something over $9,000,000."

"By March 31, 1936, we will have an apparent deficit of $4,500,000 but that does not include direct or agricultural relief charges" the minister explained in stating problems facing the government.

After stating the estimated deficit for the fiscal year the speaker declared: "I am giving this information so you can see something has got to be done."

The government had obtained the services of R. J. Magor to study a means of decreasing expenditures and increasing revenues without harmful effects, he continued.

"I am pleased to say that after discussing this matter with Mr. Magor we have come to the conclusion that something might be done to correct the ills in the province at the present time," the minister stated.

"It must be obvious to all we would have to increase taxes in order to balance the budget."

The first question was that of refunding debts and in this connection "our information is most encouraging," he said. "We expect to return to the province with encouraging news—encouraging not only to the government but to the cities concerned."

Regarding refunding the minister said: "The element of sanctity of contracts comes in but I am convinced in my own mind that a bond can have no greater value than the market value allows." Loans were being offered as low as one per cent. to-day, he said.

Captures Wheat Prize

Royal Winter Fair Award Goes To Alberta Farmer

Toronto.—Howard P. Wright of Airdrie, Alta., won the first major championship in the grain and seed classes of the Royal Winter fair here. His sample of hard red spring wheat was adjudged the best in the show.

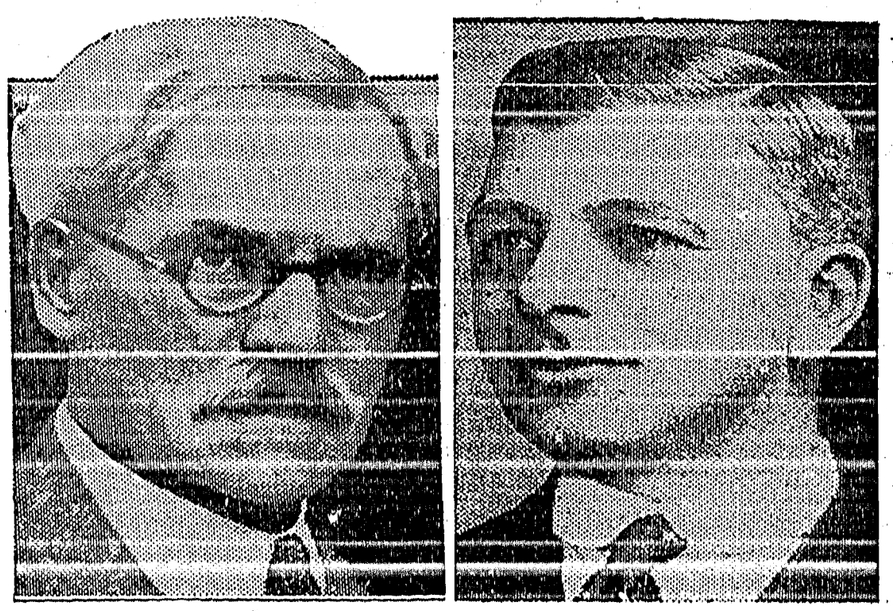
An Ontario grower, Roy C. Chambers of Fenwick, showed the best wheat other than hard red, and may be Wright's chief opponent when the judges decide the grand wheat champions of the fair. Other placings in the wheat classes were not announced with the division champions.

H. G. Neufeld of Codette, Sask., captured the oats championship. The championship for peas travelled to British Columbia, winner being B. Young of Koksilah, B.C.

First place in the flax division was captured by William Suchwold of Cardross, Sask., with Nelson Langry of Homewood, Man., second.

John Hamilton of Coaldale, Alta., captured first place with his exhibit of field beans, other than small white, in the grain and seed judging. The Alberta department of agriculture at Brooks, Alta., won second prize in the small white beans competition.

MAKE UNUSUAL MOVES ON POLITICAL CHESSBOARD



Fate was kind to one former British Labor Cabinet Minister when it allowed him to regain his seat in the House of Commons, but it dealt a totally opposite blow to his former cabinet colleague. Left is former Premier Ramsay MacDonald, who went down to defeat in the General Election, while, right, is the Right Hon. A. V. Alexander, former fellow cabinet minister of Ramsay MacDonald's who regained the seat he lost in 1931.

TURNER VALLEY OIL FIELDS MAY BE DEVELOPED

Ottawa.—Prospects of a much more intensive development in the Turner Valley oil field in Alberta are being studied by the British American Oil Company, H. H. Bronston, controller of the company, told the tariff board.

He said his company was studying a process for the production of a third grade of commercial gasoline from Turner Valley naptha which, if successful, might result in the closing of British America's refinery at Coutts, Alta., and withdrawal by the company from the Cutbank oil fields in Montana.

At present the company produces crude oil from its properties at Cutbank and pipes it to its refinery at Coutts to supply its customers in western Canada. Mr. Bronston said his company was now interested in Turner Valley in a small way and there was a possibility this interest might develop along lines which would make the importation of crude oil from Montana unnecessary. He declined to give details of the scheme when pressed by J. J. Frawley of the Alberta attorney-general's department.

The tariff board's hearing into an application from Saskatchewan cooperative associations for removal of the present gasoline duty continued with presentation of a brief on behalf of British American Oil. Mr. Bronston was questioned after the brief had been submitted.

Mr. Frawley asked the oil company official why his company needed the duty in-so-far as its Alberta business was concerned. His reply was to outline the prospective development.

The Alberta government representative said this proposal was a complete surprise to him and the company should supply more details. At present Alberta was opposed to continuance of tariff protection on gasoline but if that province, with Saskatchewan and part of British Columbia, could be supplied with gasoline by a development at Turner Valley the province might take a different stand.

Mr. Bronston said he was willing to lay all the facts at his disposal before the tariff board and counsel for Alberta and was satisfied they would substantiate his statement. He objected, however, to disclosing them before a public hearing of the board.

Duke's Son Christened

King And Queen Godparents For Prince Edward Of Kent

London.—The first-born son of the Duke and Duchess of Kent was christened Prince Edward George Nicholas Paul Patrick in the private chapel of Buckingham Palace, in the presence of his grandparents, the king and queen.

The ceremony was performed by the Archbishop of Canterbury, using River of Jordan water dipped from the same golden font from which the infant's great-grandfather, King Edward VII., was christened.

Seventh in line of succession to the throne, the king's young grandson will be known generally as "Prince Edward of Kent."

His godparents were the king and queen, the Prince of Wales, Prince Nicholas of Greece — his maternal grandfather—and the Duke of Connaught who was represented at the ceremony by Prince Arthur of Connaught.

Women As 'Plane Pilots

Not Generally A Success Opinion Of Flying Instructor

Toronto. — The average woman makes a poor plane pilot in the opinion of Ken Main, chief instructor at the Toronto Flying Club. He admits Amelia Earhart, Ruth Nichols and Amy Mollison are exceptions to the rule.

"The biggest fault of women flyers," said Main, "is their poor judgment of speed and distance. If you don't believe this, just ask a woman to estimate the speed of a passing auto or to measure by eye the distance between herself and some object.

Christmas Cakes and Puddings should be made at least three weeks before they are required, that they may have time to acquire the mellowness that marks the best products. To ensure success in the making of these two, we offer for your convenience the following Recipes:

CHRISTMAS PUDDING

Plum puddings should be made at least a month before they are required in order that the puddings may have time to acquire the mellowness that ma ks the best products

1¼ cups Five Roses Flour. ½ teaspoon cinnamon. ½ teaspoon nutmeg. Quarter teaspoon of ground mace. ¼ teaspoon of cloves. ½ teaspoon of salt. 1½ cups stale bread crumbs. 1½ cups shredded suet. 1½ cups sugar (Brown). 1 cup sultana raisins. 1 cup muscatel raisins. ¾ cup seeded raisins. 1 cup currants. 1 cup chopped figs. 1½ cups chopped peel. ¾ cups almonds, blanched and cut in slices. 1 cup halved glace cherries. ½ cup strained honey. 4 eggs, well beaten. ½ cup fruit juice, wine or brandy. Between ½ and two-thirds cup of milk.

This pudding is delicious! The amount of milk will depend on the staleness of the crumbs. Mix ingredients in the order given. Two-thirds fill well-buttered moulds or bowls. Cover with strong paper, tie down with pudding cloth and steam for 5 hours. Steam for two hours longer before using.

CHRISTMAS CAKE

1 cup butter. 1 cup sugar. 5 eggs. ½ pound walnut meats. ½ pound dates. ¼ poun i candied cherries. 1½ pounds seeded raisins. 1 pound currants. 2 ounces almonds. ¼ pound candied pineapple. ½ pound mixed peel, shredded. ¼ teaspoon allspice and cinnamon. One-third cup strong cold coffee. ¼ cup grape juice or jelly. 1½ teaspoons baking powder. 3 cups Five Roses Flour.

Pour coffee over the mixed fruits and allow them to stand for three hours. Beat shortening until creamy and light; add the sugar gradually, beating between additions. Then add the eggs, unbeaten, one at a time beating each one in thoroughly before adding the next. If the mixture curdles, add a little of the measured flour, then continue to add the eggs. Add flavouring. Add dry ingredients and liquid alternately. Add prepared fruits and nuts. Citron peel is placed on the batter, in layers, as the batter is put into pans; almonds are added the same way. Steam slowly for 5 hours, then dry cake slowly in moderate oven, or bake 3½ to 4 hours in slow oven.

A full supply of the ingredients can be had at the CO-OP., with our guarantee thatthey are all new stock and will satisfy.
