The Players' Orchestra has been reorganized for the season and announce that they will present an eveni g of music in Creston very shortly. The Players started two yeurs ago with but few members. Last season they played at a number of concerts, officiated between acts at the Community Players' presentation of "Eyes of Love," and also appeared at garden parties, as well as upon other occasions.

For this season the original plan of the organization will be followed—that is to play aood music of a classical nature, and before the season is out to launch into heavier numbers. It is not the intention to play for dances, as the players are non-professional.

The orchestra now has six playing members with two others who will qualify shortly for regular membership. This year's leader is Mr. Stephens, school principal at Canyon. Markets For Western Products

The story of the marketing of the grain of the western provinces of Canada is a long, complicated, but exceedingly interesting one. It is a record of one acute problem arising in succession to another as the years passed and conditions both at home and abroad brought about radical but inevitable changes. It is a history filled with heroic efforts, the breaking new trails, the grappling with the seemingly impossible, in the endeavor to solve first one problem and then another, thus removing the difficulties that lay in the path to successful, prosperous, western agriculture.

Twenty-five or thirty years ago the chief cause of complaint was the then existing elevator combine, closely linked with the transportation companies. The passage of the original Canada Grain Act, with its provision of the leading platform, went a long way towards the removal of that grievance.

Then, with rapid increase in settlement and consequent production in the early years of the present century, lack of railway facilities resulting in annually recurring blockades, caused enormous loss to the producers. The great era of railway building largely solved that problem.

The elevator problem, involving questions of grading, dockage, charges for services rendered, depressing of prices, etc., still remained acute. The result was the inauguration of Government-owned and operated elevators in some provinces and farmers' co-operative elevators in Saskatchewan, the creation of the United Grain Growers, and constant revision and amendment of the Canada Grain Act.

Following the war, and the enormous increase in acreage brought under cultivation by the Greater Production campaigns, coupled with the complete demoralization of world trade, falling prices, and lack of credit and buying power in Europe, and, in particular, the abandonment of the war-time Wheat Board, western grain growers found themselves in a serious predicament, faced with prices barely equivalent to, even below, the cost of production. With courage and unsurpassed initiative western farmers grappled with the problem and worked out their own salvation through the organization of their great Wheat Pools.

Conditions improved, marketing became more scientific, prices somewhat more stabilized. Then came the crop of 1928, the largest in volume in the history of the west, but, owing to climatic conditions, one of poor quality. Within two years, too, the "combine" and the motor truck had come very largely into use, with the result that the grain poured into the elevators not only in unprecedented volume, but with unprecedented rapidity. The building of good market roads likewise served to speed up deliveries.

The net result was a situation which, while providing employment for a huge army of harvesters, and an enormous volume of traffic for the transportation companies, left little margin of profit for the grower of the grain. Complaint was almost universal against the Board of Grain Commissioners, it being very generally felt that it was "asleep at the switch," and had not made even reasonable efforts to cope with the situation which had developed. The old Board was replaced by a new one which has the confidence of the farmers and from which better things are expected.

Beneficial as the operations of the Pools have been, there has been developed in some quarters, and notably in Saskatchewan, a feeling that the maximum benefits to be derived from united selling cannot be realized until every bushel of wheat grown in Canada is marketed through one agency, namely, the Pools, and that, human nature being what it is, this cannot be secured through wholly voluntary efforts, and consequently the minority should be compelled by legislation to throw in their lot with the majority and made to deliver their wheat to the Pools.

While this agitation is being carried on, a new situation has developed. Owing to a large carry over from the 1928 crop, and the rapid harvesting and delivery to the elevators of this year's crop, and with a manifest reluctance on the part of European buyers to purchase Canadian wheat at a price commensurate with its value and production cost, there is practically no movement of grain out of Canada at the present time. The result is that all forms of storage in this country are, at the time of writing, almost filled up, and embargoes on shipments in effect.

The situation is believed to be only a temporary one, and that, as soon as other wheat exporting countries, now selling below the price which Canada demands, are out of the market, there will be a call for Canadian wheat and a price obtainable acceptable to the Canadian producer.

However, with the steadily increasing size of the Canadian wheat crop, and increases in other countries as well, western farmers must inevitably take a keener interest than ever before in the whole subject of finding and developing export markets for Canadian products. The possibilities of the awakening Orient call for close investigation and expert study. Such subjects as the effect of Canada's Government-owned merchant marine, operated at a loss, in opening and developing new markets require careful consideration as to whether the direct operating loss is not more than offset in national gains and profit through the development of export trade.

Indigestion

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali which neutralizes acids. But don't use crude helps. Use what your doctor would advise.

The best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. For the 50 years since its invention it has remained standard with physicians. You will find nothing else so quick in its effect, so harmless, so efficient.

One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. The results are immediate, with no bad after-effects. Once you learn this fact, you will never deal with excess acid in the crude ways. Go learn—now—why this method is supreme.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. Each bottle contains full directions—any drugstore.

London Suffers From Drought

According To Records, Condition worst In Seventy-One Years

London is experiencing the worst drought on record in 71 years, a 32-day lack of substantial rainfall eclipsing the dry period of the summer. The Lea River, supplying a considerable area of eastern and northeastern London, is beginning to fall, causing acute anxiety.

Garden watering from hoses or outside taps was stopped by the authorities several months ago and the special assessment levied for this service will be reduced by half at the next date of payment, the water board promises.

ST. VITUS DANCE

A Disease Of the Nerves Which Must Be Treated Through the Blood

St. Vitus Dance is a disease of the nerves brought on by a morbid condition of the blood. It is a common disease with children, but sometimes attacks adults. The treatment of this trouble to be successful is through the blood, because rich, red blood is the life food of the nerves. In this way Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have proved beneficial in even the most severe forms of this trouble, because they enrich the blood supply, thus carrying the necessary food to the nerves. In proof of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind we have the statement of Mrs. William Stead, Wiarton, Ont., who says:—"My eldest girl at the age of nine years suffered from an attack of whooping cough which left her very weak, and finally developed into a severe attack of St. Vitus Dance. She was under a doctor's care, but with no beneficial results. We also tried other treatment, but with no better results. To make matters worse she was taken down with measles. Again the doctor was called in, as she became so weak, and her limbs so trembly that we had to take her about in a little hand wagon. I thought a change of air and scene might help her, so we sent her by boat to Port McNicol, a distance of about a hundred miles. She seemed to improve while there, but as soon as she came home her strength was gone again. I took her to another doctor, but with no better results. I was distracted to see how helpless she was becoming, so decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial. I got six boxes, and they did what neither doctors nor other remedies had even started to do. They built her up completely; the St. Vitus Dance disappeared, she has no sign of weakness and can run and play with the other girls, a thing she could not even try to do for about eighteen months. She walks to and from school, a distance of about a mile, which, of course, is proof of her present good health. I have much to praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for, and always recommend them in all cases of weakness."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Use Of Combines

More reaper-thresher combines have been in operation in the Brandon district this year than ever before, despite short grain crops.

Sleep is the great nourisher of infants, and without peaceful sleep the child will not thrive. This cannot be got if the infant be troubled with worms. Miller's Worm Powders will destroy worms and drive them from the system, and afterwards the child's rest will be undisturbed. The powders cannot injure the most delicate baby, and there is nothing so effective for restoring the health of a worm-worn infant.

A Wonderful Machine

Transforms Music Into Ribbon Of Light and Responds To Every Change

Music was transformed into a ribbon of light and made to write its soul characteristics on a cloth screen at Steinway Hall, New York.

When low, pure tones were sounded the strip rippled smoothly like wave motion travelling along a rope, but when harsh, discordant sounds were made, the shining line writhed and contorted like an agitated snake. For all graduating of harmony the line showed distinctive waves, different for each sound, even down to discrepancies in tone too fine for the ear.

The instrument is a development of the Osiso, which has been used for some time to photograph voice and music characteristics. The new device substitutes a moving picture for a "still." It is a mirror, vibrating under control of an electrical current from a microphone that picks up the sounds to be pictured. This mirror reflects a beam of light through revolving mirrors. It was developed by William Baird White, acoustic engineer of the American Steel & Wire Co., and C. Anderson, engineer of the Westinghouse Electric & Engineering Co.

Music students are given a pattern of a perfect sound and attempt to reproduce it in the light

"It seems certain," said Mr. White, "that improvement can be attained in this way, but it also seems certain that no amount of effort will transform a good clerk into a great artist, for one of the things demonstrated is that each artist products patterns as individual as his signature, and although others may be able to imitate these patterns fairly well, apparently no one else can reproduce them exactly."

The Osiso is designed to calibrate the harmony of musical instruments, and detect imperfections, whether in tones from wires or strings, or reverberations of sounding boards. Mr. White said that it is found sounding boards sometimes reveberate better at some points in the scale than others.

The right way to redye Finest Silks

TEXTILE manufacturers always use special dyes for silk or wool. They know that is the only way to secure the most perfect results. The makers of Diamond Dyes are the first to enable home users to follow this plan.

Next time you want to dye some of your more valuable articles of pure silk or wool, try the special Diamond Dyes in the blue package. They will give these materials clearer, more brilliant colors, with greater depth and permanence than any "all purpose" dye.

These special Diamond Dyes are just as easy to use as ordinary dyes. Like the white package Diamond Dyes, they contain the highest quality anilines money can buy. That's what makes them go on so smoothly and evenly, without spotting or streaking. That's the secret of their brilliance; their resistance to sunlight, wear, and washing.

The white package of Diamond Dyes is the highest quality dye prepared for general use. It will dye, or tint, silk, wool, cotton, linen, rayon (artificial silk), or any mixture of materials. The blue package is a special dye for silk or wool only—with it you can dye your valuable articles of pure silk or wool with results equal to the finest professional work. When you buy—remember this. The blue package dyes silk or wool only. The white package will dye every kind of goods, including silk or wool. Your dealer has both packages.

C. N. R. BRANCH LINE WORK IS WELL ADVANCED

Winnipeg.—Considerable progress has been made by the Canadian National Railways with the construction of branch lines on the prairies during the summer, according to H. A. Dixon, chief engineer of the western lines of the company.

Of the 568 miles of the new line in Saskatchewan and Alberta for which authority to build was granted by parliament at its last session, work has been proceeding on 418 miles. In some cases, grading has been as much as 70 per cent. finished, and on the Aberdeen-Melfort line, 25 miles of steel have been laid in an easterly direction from the junction with the Cudworth subdivision at Wakaw. There will be a continuance of all work on these branch lines until weather conditions no longer permit.

Although the program was one of the heaviest ever undertaken by the company, only 150 miles have had no work done on them. However, plans are prepared to begin work on this mileage next year and the assurance is given by Mr. Dixon that the program will be fully completed within the three-year period defined by parliament.

In addition to this program, the company has also succeeded in putting steel into the Sherritt-Gordon mine over the branch line authorized last fall and in practically completing the first lift of ballast to Fort Churchill over the 90 miles of grade upon which a skeleton track was laid last winter. The engineers in charge expect to have this piece of track in such shape early next summer that through freight and passengers trains will be able to operate between The Pas and Churchill by the end of July at the latest.

Predicts New Legislation

Resolution By Government To Prohibit Liquor Exports Is Expected

Ottawa, Ont.—The Ottawa Evening Journal says: "The announcement by Premier MacKenzie King that the government has not the power to prohibit the export of liquor to the United States is interpreted in well-informed political circles to indicate that at the next session the government will introduce legislation to ban the export of liquor across the border.

"This would be done by refusing clearance to shipments intended for American consumption.

"If the government sponsors a resolution to prohibit liquor exports, there is no doubt the measure will carry in the house."

Indians Demand Rights

Northern Ontario Chiefs Base Claims On Treaty Of Utrecht

Sudbury.—Chiefs and delegates from all the principal Indian Reservations in Northern Ontario are meeting here at a general council to seek restoration of their ancient rights and privileges, in the forests where their forefathers reigned supreme. The Indians argue their people are unfitted for modern civilized life yet, that their livelihood is bound up in streams and forests and that trapping is practically their only source of revenue. The treaty of Utrecht and a proclamation of George III., are the basis of their claims.

Plan Junior Police Force

Will Be Similar To Royal Canadian Mounted Police

Ottawa.—Modelled on the Royal Canadian Mounted Police system, a junior police force is to be inaugurated in Ottawa. The force will have no practical work to do at first, but it is hoped eventually it will be recognized by the police department. Formation of the junior corps will, it is expected, reduce juvenile delinquency. Officers of the juvenile court and a local service club leaders are in the movement.

Church Union In Scotland

Large Crowds Were In Attendance At Ceremonies In Edinburgh

Edinburgh, Scotland.—October 2 was an epoch-making day in Scottish ecclesiastical history. The union of the United Free Church and the Church of Scotland took place in the great Hall of Assembly on Annandale Street.

It was a day of joyful thanksgiving. Church bells were pealed, the school children had a holiday, and the Assembly Halls were brilliantly silhouetted by flood lighting.

The Assembly Hall was transformed into a scene of great beauty and dignity for the celebration of the act of union. Formerly it was a motor car garage, but it held 15,000 persons who represented all aspects of Scottish life, and all the Christian churches of Europe and the Dominions.

Intensive emotion made dramatic the signing of the act of union by the moderators. By this act the churches became merged into the Church of Scotland. Rev. Dr. John White, of Glasgow, had the honor of becoming the first moderator of the new and greater body.

Grain Ships Tied Up

Boats On Lower Lakes Have Had Slack Season

Montreal. — Eleven lower lakes bulk freighters of the Canada Steamships Lines have been placed in winter quarters at Kingston, on account of continued depression in the grain situation it is announced here. These vessels have been tied up during the larger part of the season and prospects for cargos during the next two months failed to justify their maintenance in commission.

In view of the fact that grain shipments have been small this season, and more particularly during the last three months, it is expected there will be a heavy movement next year as soon as navigation opens to Montreal. The grain in the country total stocks on September 20 being 149,674,643 bushels in Canadian elevators and 22,616,658 bushels of Canadian grain in U.S. elevators, and must be moved eventually.

Saved Many Lives

Taxi Driver Used Ingenious Method To Rouse People In Burning Building

Brooklyn, N.Y.—A handful of toothpicks, carried by a cab driver probably saved the lives of more than 30 residents of a four-storey block here.

The block caught fire while all the occupants were asleep. The taxi driver, whose name was not learned, was in a restaurant across the street. Seeing the smoke pouring from the building, he rushed voer and found the hallways filled with smoke.

Returning to the restaurant he grabbed a handful of toothpicks. Going back to the burning building, he went from door to door through the hallways, pressing the doorbell buttons in and inserting a toothpick to make them ring continuously. All of the occupants got out of the building, which was gutted by the flames.

No Cause For Alarm

Ottawa. — That Canada has no cause for alarm regarding changes likely to be made in the existing Fordney-McCumber tariff, was the statement of P. J. McCumber, former North Dakota senator and now member of the international joint commission which met here.

INVESTIGATE MOTION PICTURE INDUSTRY

Prof. Kenneth W. Taylor, of the economics department, McMaster University, who has been appointed by the Federal Minister of Labor to conduct, under the Combines Investigation Act, the preliminary investigation into the alleged combine in the motion picture industry in Canada. This preliminary inquiry is to decide as to whether or not a royal commission will be appointed to delve into the matter, and Prof. Taylor expects to submit his report to the government in a couple of weeks.

Foreign Minister Is Dead

Dr. Gustave Stresemann Was Active In World Peace Movement

Berlin.—Foreign Minister Gustave Stresemann died suddenly October 3.

Dr. Stresemann had been in ill-health for months, but recently he had so far recovered as to be able to participate in the arduous conference at The Hague on reparations and the session of the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva.

Dr. Stresemann was one of the foremost statesmen of post-war Europe, and with Aristide Briand, French premier and foreign minister, generally was considered one of the most active of the world's peace workers. He was president of the German People's Party, a member of the Reichstag, a former chancellor of the German Republic and the most widely known member of the present cabinet, headed by Chancellor Mueller.

Death came as a result of a heart attack after a stroke of paralysis.

To Test B.C. Coal

Victoria, B.C.—At a meeting of fuel experts here, presided over by Hon. W. A. MacKenzie, Minister of Mines, ways of developing and widening the market for British Columbia coals were discussed, with the result that it was decided to send a sample carload of forty tons from the various collieries in the province to the new laboratory at Ottawa for testing purposes.

Would Prefer Being Ousted By Britain

But Nova Scotia Hopes To Sell Coal In Canada

Halifax.—If Nova Scotia is to be ousted from the home market in Canada it would be preferable to have it done by British coal rather than U.S. coal, though the result is largely the same for Nova Scotia mines, is a statement issued by Hon. G. S. Harrington, in which the Nova Scotia Minister of Mines declares there is no promise for improvement in the Nova Scotia coal trade in the proposal of Rt. Hon. J. H. Thomas to organize wheat shipments to England and return English coal in the ships.

Hon. Mr. Harrington coupled his statement with an appeal for a national policy which would secure the Canadian market as far as possible for the coal producers of Nova Scotia and Alberta.

Dog Causes Boy's Arrest

Did Not Bark and Police Figured Burglar Was Known

Toronto, Ont.—A 15-year-old boy was arrested charged with the theft of jewelry valued at $3,000 from the home of Samuel Langdon, here. The arrest was brought about by the silence of the Langdon's pet dog, which had kept silent while the boy stole the jewelry from a miniature safe.

When Mrs. Langdon told detectives that she thought it strange that the dog had not raised any commotion, that at once narrowed their search down to people whom the dog knew. They questioned the boy and he finally confessed, they claim.

British Youth Seriously Hurt

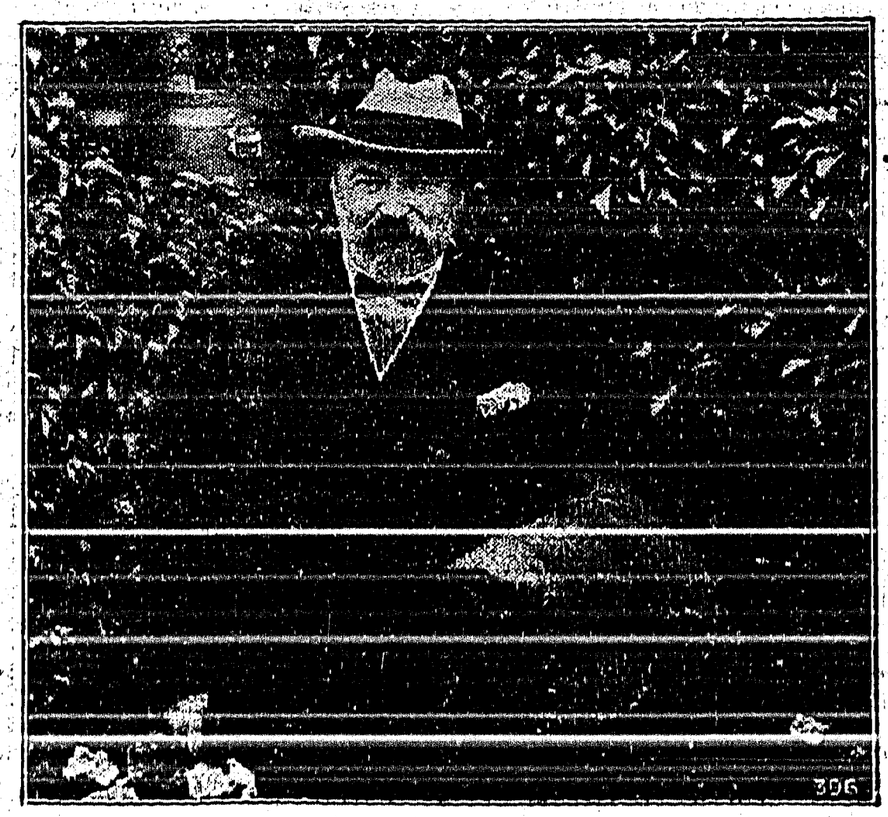
Loses Leg When "Riding Rails" En Route To West

Port Arthur, Ont.—Sixteen-year-old Sydney Chapman, new to this country from Whitley, Northumberland, England, joyously "riding the rails" headed for the "Golden West," lies in a serious condition in a local hospital, minus a leg and with his attendants "hopeful he will recover." Young Chapman was found near a track in the Canadian Pacific Railway yards with his severed leg lying 50 yards further down the spur. It is presumed he had attempted to jump from the freight train on which he was riding and had fallen on the rails.

Business Still Increasing

Regina.—The local post office, which has been claimed as the office doing the greatest business in the Dominion per capita of population of the city, showed a general increase in business for September over the corresponding month in 1929.

Much Impressed by West



Hector Charlesworth, editor-in-chief of the Toronto Saturday Night, and author of "Candid Chronicles" and "More Candid Chronicles," has been travelling over Canadian Pacific lines throughout the West on a combination holiday and business tour this summer. He is here seen in the grounds of the Empress Hotel, Victoria, which he visited for the first time since its construction. He was greatly impressed with the rapid growth and development of the entire city of Victoria.

TRADE RELATIONS WITH RUSSIA WILL BENEFIT CANADA

Vancouver.—Resumption of relations with Russia is one of the most important things which can happen in development of Canada's trade in the opinion of Sir John Aird, president of the Bank of Commerce, who was in Vancouver, en route to Japan, where he will represent Canadian bankers at the Institute of Pacific Relations Congress.

"It is unthinkable that present conditions can continue," said Sir John in the course of an interview. "By resuming relations with Russia I believe Britain and Canada will get a good part of the trade now being enjoyed by Germany and the United States."

While Russia is not listed among countries which will be represented at the congress, Sir John is hopeful that it will take some part. He believes this to be of vital import as a factor in better relations in the Pacific. Transportation and radio, Sir John believes, will play an important part in deliberations of the congress. While countries are not bound by the decision of their delegates he believes the meeting will have a beneficial effect on business and relationships.

Outlines Policy Of Labor Government

Secretary For Foreign Affairs Addresses Annual Conference At Brighton

Brighton, England.—Palestine will remain a national home for the Jews; British evacuation of the Rhineland will be complete by December 14; no pledges have been broken in securing agreement with Russia on exchange of ambassadors; and a new treaty with Egypt will be made when the people of Egypt signify they are in support of any Egyptian government.

These are cardinal points of an outline of the Labor Government's policy on the outstanding foreign and empire questions of the day, given by Rt. Hon. Arthur Henderson, secretary for foreign affairs, at the Labor party's annual conference here. Mr. Henderson's address also included a strong plea for support of Britain and the United States, and the statement that the negotiations had reached the stage where it was hoped that Japan, Italy and France would soon be able to join in.

The foreign secretary declared that when with the dominions, "with whom, of course, he acted in close consultation," the British government signed the optional clause and thereby expressed adherence to the court of international justice at The Hague, "it gave a fresh impetus to the cause of international arbitration."

But signature to the optional clause was not enough, though it provided for compulsory arbitration of international legal disputes. The British Government, said Mr. Henderson, was giving "most earnest consideration" to compulsory arbitration of other classes of disputes. When that problem was settled the government would have paved the way to more than all-round reductions in armaments than ever before was contemplated.

Not Worried Over Deficit

Experts Say Situation In Britain Is Quite Satisfactory

London, England.—A deficit of $360,000,000 is revealed in the government revenue returns for the first six months of the financial year, it is announced. But the situation is regarded by experts as being not unsatisfactory, inasmuch as the deficit is $20,000,000 lower than for the corresponding period last year. Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, as chancellor of the exchequer until a few months ago anticipated a reduction of $60,000,000 in the revenue over the whole year.

St. Gothard's tunnel in Switzerland is 6,600 feet below the peak of the mountain Kastehorn.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Alice Siding Mail Days

Editor Review:

Sir,—I notice a proposition for the alteration of the time of delivery of the bi-weekly mail delivery on R.R. No. 1, but would like to suggest that the days of delivery be altered to Tuesday and Thursday, and that the time of delivery be after the eastbound train. It seems to me Tuesday and Thursday would divide the week better as the majority of people go into Creston on Saturday and there would be practically alternate days of delivery. Also the time of delivery would enable those who are eubscribers to the Nelson paper to get that day's issue. W. A. McMURTRIE.

Synod of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, in Vancouver, there will be no public worship on the 13th inst. Sabbath school will be held as usual.

The evening service at the United Church last Sunday was added materially by the Georgian Singers who remained over here after their two concerts Saturday. Duets by John Edmonsdon and Horace Chapman, and the violin solo by Miss Allegra Elliott were all of a high professionall order. Miss Elliott played "Souvenir" with splendid effect, showing she had all the earmarks of real artist. Miss Beatrice Howarth was a skilled accompanist. The church was well filled, and Rev. R. E. Cribb preached a splendid sermon, making in all a real enjoyable service.

In the award for the K.P. cup presented by that order to the boy making the best record in the school sports Maurice Kelsey tied with Norman Nickel in actual points. The judges take into consideration individual performance as well as the actual nrmber of points gained. It does not necessarily follow that the boy or girl making the greatest number of points for their school would be given the cup as style and being a good sportsman also count highly. In the race for boys ten and under Irwin Nickel and not his brother, Norman, was the winner, as recorded in the prize list last week.

K.P.'s G.C. Coming

The members of Wild Rose Lodge No. 39, Knights of Pythias, are looking forward with a great deal of pleasure to the official visit of Dr. Thomas W. Fletcher, of Vancouver, Grand Chancellor of the Knights of Pythias of British Columbia, on October 24th.

The local lodge at Creston since its inception has obtained a very fine reputation and stands high in the estimation of the Grand Lodge of B. C , and no doubt Dr. Fletcher will find that its high standard of efficiency is maintained.

The Egg Market

Creston Farmers' Institute have asked us to publish the following statement on the Kootenay egg situation as printed in the Egg and Poultry Market Review, issued by the federal department of agriculture. The despatch is from Nelson under date of September 28: The Kootenay egg market continues to show the strong trend of the past few weeks, and at all points eggs are being brought in from outside markets to meet the demand. Receipts continue to decline, although production is holding up remarkably well for the season.

At Nelson production is only sufficient to take care of about half of the demand. Storage eggs from the coast are being used for the cheaper trade, while fresh eggs from the same source are supplementing the local supply. Prices to producers are Extra 50, Firsts 45, Pullet Extra 30.

Production at Cranbrook is lighter and there is a keen demand. Fresh stock from Alberta is taking care of requirments, but this source of supply is cut off for the rest of the season, and storage eggs are being sold in most stores. Prices to producers for fresh eggs are the spme as at Nelson. Storage eggs are retailing at Cranbrook at Extra 50, Firsts 45, and Storage 35-40.

Very few storage eggs are being used yet at Kimberley, as the larger stores there have contracted ahead for supplies of fresh eggs. It is expected, however, that storage eggs will be in general use at that point shortly.

Supplies of fresh continue in fair volume at Trail. Prices there are stiffening, with Extras in demand. Storage eggs are coming into consumption at Trail steadily for the cheaper trade.

The poultry market is strong and dealers gre paying up to 30 cents per pound dressed for roasters. Live roasters bring 25 cents per pound; heavy fowl, 20 to 21 cents: Leghorn hens, 16 cents.

Chinese Massacre Moslems

Three Thousand Slain Because They Rebelled Against Authorities

Reports from Central Kansu province stated that Chinese had executed an appalling massacre of Moslems there, the victims numbering at least 3,000. Details were lacking, but it seems the Moslems rebelled against Chinese authorities, whereupon they were slain.

According to reports, the executions were carried out under guise of a conference with the Moslems. The victims were separated from their wives and then put to death. According to the reports the Moslems died stoically.

It is indicated that the Chinese now fear Moslem retaliations, possibly causing renewed civil war, which in 1918 caused the death of many thousands of Chinese and Moslems in Kansu.

History In Narrative

"Pages From Canada's Story" Of Particular Interest To Pupils In Western Schools

"Pages from Canada's Story," by Helen Palk, is bound to be a considerable aid to students of history, particularly to those in our public schools round the age of eleven. Homeopathists claim that their formula and method of taking medicine is more advantageous to patients than the prescriptions of oleopathists, and Miss Palk can certainly claim that placing before pupils of schools, in Canada, outstanding events in the history of Canada in narrative form will create a more lasting impression upon their minds. A great Frenchman, Rousseau, stated that "the book which, to my thinking is the happiest treatise on natural education is 'Robinson Crusoe'," and it is apparent that the author of this little book realized that children will absorb those incidents connected with the vital events of our country's history, simple portrayals of character, and graphic descriptions of locations, more easily than a precise chronology of events, wearisome through sameness, tedious in its attempts at analysis and redundancy of phraseology.

In these word pictures, the authoress has successfully endeavored to place the essential facts clearly before the eyes of the reader, which instantly photographs them upon the mind, thus aiding the memorising of them.

Extreme care has been taken in choosing the most vital and colorful events which appeal to the imagination of the child, and this without diverging from the truth, but as it has been written particularly in the interest of pupils in Western schools the story of Western development receives more descriptiveness.

The authoress has studiously avoided redundancy of phrasing, the use of hard words, and verbosity, all of which will be to the benefit of the children for whom it is written. It is not written for the historian or erudite person as is readily seen from the sketchy character of constitutional changes.

Its main educative feature lays in the vivid descriptions of early pioneer life. The dangers, struggles and tragedies of the pioneers who laid the foundation of this great nation, which cannot be too emphasized, as we are all prone to ignore the sacrifices and terrible experience of those who "builded better than they wot of." To forget that but for their supreme daring, patient endurance and superb courage the conditions which prevail today, to say nothing of the retention of the country, would not have been attained.

Miss Palk has produced something better than a text book, she has produced a record of outstanding annals which will inevitably appeal to the scholars in our schools and prove both an incentive and fundamental ground for a more exhaustive study of Canadian history, and after all the greatest principle in education is to credit a desire for knowledge, to rear the tender thought and pour fresh instruction over the mind.

The avoidance of dates and tedious details is more of an advantage than otherwise. By taking periods instead of years, the authoress has been able to fix the main features of transpiring events and the chief characteristics of the participants in them more surely in the minds of children. By so doing she has reached the happy height of appealing to the sympathy and understanding of her readers, which of necessity must fill them with pride of ancestral triumphs and achievement, and incidentally a glow of patriotism. Who shall say that some of the children for whom the book is written may not be stung with some thought whose splendour may impel them to prove as great, if not more heroic, than those characters whom the authoress has depicted with a sure pen and clarity of insight.

Great thought and intense feeling come like instincts unawares to those who rise above mediocrity. Yes, certainly Miss Palk has given to the schools something more than a few pages from Canadian history, something more than a text book, a compilation of the most inspiring incidents in Canada's annals, vivd character sketches which impign themselves upon the youthful mind, and best of all a well spring from which her readers can draw inspiration.

The book is splendidly illustrated, and as pictures not only have a great appeal to the young, but are longest remembered, they will materially help forward the objective of the authoress.

KEEPING FIT FOR THE SAKE OF OTHERS

Golden Text: "Know ye not that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit which is in you, which ye have from God? and ye are not your own, for ye were bought with a price; glorify God therefore, in your body." —1 Corinthians 6.19, 20.

Lesson: Daniel 1.8-20; Corinthians 9.19-27; I Timothy 4.7-12; 2 Timothy 2.1-5.

Devotional Reading: Psalm 66.1-4, 16-20.

Explanations and Comments

The young men who gave up wine and dainties for water and plain fare were strong both physically and intellectually. Their fine appearance was noteworthy; and, best of all, not only were they fairer and healthier for their abstinence, but their brains were clearer and they had more knowledge and skill in all learning and wisdom.

The result of the experiment was no surprise to them. A newspaper contains an account of an experiment made in the village of Hickington, England, which was a surprise to the drinkers themselves. Some of the villagers were so goaded by the taunts of the keepers of the beer-houses because of their Liberal political opinions that they formed a league among themselves to boycott the beer-houses for twelve months. At the end of a week the keepers of seven out of the eight beer-houses found that they would have to give up their business, and the advantages to pocket and health of the abstainers were evidently so great that many others of their fellow-villagers joined them. Almost the whole village are now members of the Workmen's Temperance League," as it is now called, for its political character has been lost sight of in its temperance interest.

All the world knows that food and drink wonderfully affect body and mind, that intoxicating drinks and sumptuous diet are harmful to both. Insurance companies have proved this; their tables show that intemperate habits shorten life. Physicians not only see the direct ravages made on the body by excessive eating and drinking, but they know it is more difficult to cure a moderate drinker of disease not traceable to drink than it is a total abstainer. Dr. Woods Hutchinson, in "A Physician's Straight Talk on Alcohol" says: "An amount of alcohol which one man might seem to consume with impunity may be seriously injurious to another; and a daily consumption which will produce not the slightest symptom of intoxication, or even of discomfort, or headache, may be slowly and fatally damaging the cells of your liver or kidneys. The conviction is growing among pathologists that the tissues of many moderate drinkers are damaged in this slow, insidious way, without their being in the slightest degree conscious of any injury or even discomfort. You never can quite tell what alcohol has done to you until the post-mortem—and then the question won't interest you much."

1,900 Employees Of Federal Government, Attain New Status

With the passing of an order-in-council, which has an important bearing on the pensions branch of the Department of Pensions and National Health, 1,900 employees in this branch become permanent civil servants. It dates from June 1. The pensions branch of the department has now been made permanent, and the civil service commission has classified the employees engaged in this work.

About 450 government employees in Ottawa are directly affected by the change; about 450 in Toronto, 250 in London, Ont.; 155 in Vancouver, 84 in Winnipeg, 72 in Calgary, and smaller numbers in other Canadian cities where the department operates hospitals for disabled veterans.

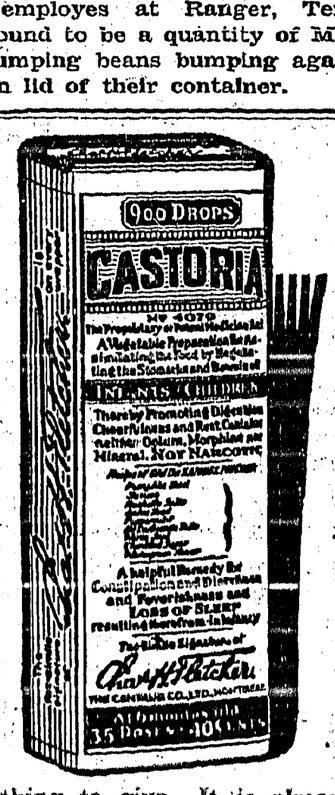
When Babies CRY



Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor. Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has Chas. H. Fletcher's signature on the package

The Singing Fool

By HUBERT DAIL

Copyright, 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Al Stone, singing waiter at Blackie Joe's New York night club, wins fame as a composer of popular songs. He marries Molly Winton, a ballad singer, and makes her famous too. Molly and Al have a baby, Junior, whom Al adores. Molly becomes interested in John Perry, Al's close friend, and Perry begs her to leave Al. One night, after Al has taken Molly home from the Club Bombo, where he is part owner, she turns on him in rage, saying she doesn't love him. Al believes it is a mood, but when Molly fails to appear at the Club Bombo New Year's Eve celebration he calls her. A feminine voice answers, but he cannot hear the words, as the 'phone door flies open.

CHAPTER XVI.

Once more Al seized the door of the 'phone booth and slammed it hard—to stay shut this time. Then he turned back to the 'phone. He suddenly decided that he must make things up with Molly now—he would cast all pride aside and frankly beg her to do it.

"Sweetheart," he pleaded, "let's start the new year right. If there's anything I've done, I'm sorry . . . Let's make up. . . . . .

There was a long silence, then the faint murmur of a feminine voice, whose words he didn't understand. A start of fear shot through him, but he persisted.

"I love you, Molly; you know how I love you. I can't bear to have you cold toward me!"

Now the voice at the other end was stronger; he suddenly realized it was not Molly's voice at all, but the maid's. He heard her quick, distraught words come travelling over the wire like bullets.

"Mrs. Stone is not here. She has gone away."

"Gone away!" Al exclaimed. What do you mean?"

"Yes, sir; Mrs. Stone has packed up her things and gone. She left a letter for you."

Packed her things! Left a letter! Al felt the receiver slipping from his numbed fingers. Why, it couldn't be true; it mustn't be true! Through the glass window of the 'phone booth door he saw the gay dancers; the muffled sounds of their rejoicing reached him in a tantalizing murmur. He felt as if he were far away from them, completely isolated by his dreadful predicament. Molly had elected to leave him on this night of nights!

He fumbled for the dangling receiver and called again.

"Hello! Hello!" he shouted frantically.

"Yes, sir." The maid was still there.

"Please, Celeste, take good care of my boy until I come home. I'll be there in five minutes."

Again that uncanny pause, and then:

"I'm sorry,—Mrs. Stone took Junior with her, sir."

Al nerved himself for a last effort. "I'll be right home. Then he dropped the receiver limply and tried to open the 'phone booth door. But tthe dancing crowd had overflowed the floor and was jammed in the narrow floor space against the door. Their bodies held it tightly closed, as they swayed back and forth, singing, crooning, dancing, but hardly moving in their tracks. Al gazed at them helplessly; it was as if these carefree revellers were deliberately trying to frustrate him tonight.

Then he sent the door open with a mighty shove, just as the lights, which had been dimmed, went on, and the music stopped. The sirens outside were still proclaiming the arrival of the new year—the couples stumbled over one another and over Al in their hilarity. But he saw and heard nothing. He moved relentlessly but quietly through them, his eyes straight ahead, a look of stricken tragedy on his face.

They were too addle-headed to see that look. As soon as he was recognized they pushed about him, clamoring for a song. A hand was held up, tendering a glass of champagne, but Al gently pushed it aside. A girl suddenly threw her arms around his neck and kissed him. As soon as he escaped a man caught him by the arm, calling his attention to his dancing partner and begged Al to meet the "sweetest lil' girl in th' whole worl'." Al did not smile or pause; he simply moved through them with one consuming thought—to reach home and find out about his boy. Then, finally, some of the more sober revellers realized that this popular master of ceremonies, this man they thought they knew, was like a grim-faced stranger in their midst. And they drew back quietly and let him pass.

He reached the lobby and went out into the night bareheaded. The sidewalks were impassably jammed—horns were blown raucously in his ears, a girl threw confetti in his face, blinding him temporarily. Somehow he reached the curb and looked wildly about for a taxi. There was none in sight, so he started to run, dodging through the overflow crowd and among the motor cars. Some persons, seeing this bareheaded man, with the hurt intent eyes, running as if for his life, stopped and stared wondering what had happened. He reached the apartment house, breathless and exhausted, dashed into the elevator, ran through the hallways, flung open the door of his home. Celeste, the maid, confronted him, an expression of intense pity in her eyes.

Al dashed by her, standing in the middle of the drawing room, looking about wildly. The room appeared just the same, but there was a strange silence in the apartment. He was about to rush toward Molly's room or the nursery when he saw Celeste before him again, holding out a letter. He seized it and the maid discreetly retired.

Al had a terrible dread of opening it, but he nerved himself to the task and ripped back the envelope flap. Then he read the fateful message in Molly's distinctively vertical handwriting:

"Al

"I'm leaving—don't try to persuade me to come back. I don't love you—I never did love you. It was hard enough to bear before John Perry came into my life. Since then it has been impossible."

Al looked up from the letter with a cry of rage and pain. For the first time he saw tthe whole situation in one blinding flash. Molly not only failed to love him, but she loved someone else. And that someone was John Perry—suave, immaculately dressed John—who, Al had believed, was his best friend. He realized now that Perry, whom he had trusted implicitly, had betrayed that trust from the first. Then another phase in the letter seemed to throb inside his brain—Molly said she had never loved him. She had lived a lie from the moment she said she would marry him!

For a moment this sense of bitter rage and contempt dominated all other thoughts and emotions in him. The sense of being cheated, not only once, but consistently for days, weeks, months, years, made him long to turn on both Molly and John Perry and blast them with scorn.

He recalled the countless times he he had overlooked Molly's petulant moods, selfish caprices and savage outbursts of anger, always believing that she was loyal and fine underneath.

Now, suddenly, his thoughts turned to Junior, and he read on:

"I was going to leave the baby, but he woke up as I was leaving. He held out his arms to me and, after all, he is more mine than yours.

"MOLLY."

Al ran to the nursery. The dresser drawers had been pulled out and there were evidences of hasty packing all about. Some of Junior's toys lay scattered about the floor, among them his favorite, a woolly dog. His pillow had been thrown in the corner.

Al stood, dazed, gripping the footpiece of Junior's bed. Where had Molly taken his boy?

For a moment Al was possessed by the determination to find Molly and Junior tonight—then he realized that the plan was futile. In this city of seven million persons and countless skyscraper hotels Molly and John Perry could have taken Junior, hiding away without difficulty.

After that note Al did not doubt that Perry was with Molly. Perhaps even now they were speeding toward Boston in Molly's Rolls-Royce, or they might have caught the night limited for Florida several hours ago. He went quickly to the 'phone and called up the garage.

Majority Of Drivers Have To Suffer For Carelessness Of Selfish Ones

The majority of drivers are without doubt, safe and considerate; but unfortunately all road users are at the mercy of an ignorant and selfish minority, who seem to imagine that a display of recklessness will be mistaken for an exhibition of proficiency. The cult of the cheap car has not been attended by a corresponding cultivation of good manners. Until the quick-tempered, self-centred motorist learns that there is a code of courtesy which must be adhered to on the King's highway, the innocent will continue to suffer for the sins of the guilty.

The up-and-coming young man is pretty likely to succeed, unless he is up at four and just coming home.

Ideal--Wherever alterations are required

IN many a fine, old-fashioned farm house there are rooms much larger than people today consider necessary. This available space can be partitioned off into extra rooms with very little work and at surprisingly small cost by the use of Gyproc Fireproof Wallboard. And the Gyproc walls and ceilings of the new rooms will match the older walls—no matter how solid they are—for seasoned rigidity, good looks and permanence.

Gyproc is the perfect building material for all modern farm construction—for homes, barns, poultry houses, granaries and garages. It is pure rock—cannot warp, shrink or burn. With the use of joint filler and tape its sections meet in a tight, flush joint that insures a flat, smooth surface and takes any decoration.

Broad, ceiling-high sections of Gyproc can be nailed directly to joists and studding—easy construction with a minimum of labor.

Beautiful decorative effects can be obtained by applying Alabastine, paint, paper or panels right over Gyproc walls and ceilings.
