Masonic Banquet.

On Friday evening Cumberland hour the eveninggs programme was Lodge No. 26, A.F.&A.M. held their in installation when the followingg officers were installed.

W. M .- John Matthews, Treas .- John Baird, Scoy.—E. W. Clarke, S. D. —J. A. Gillespie, J. D. -W. F Ramsay, D. of C.-J. D. Winningham,

S.-Jas .Reid. S .- A. R. Horne, G.-A. B. Netherby, Tyler.-R. C. Wilson,

The following officers of Hiram Lodgge No. 14. A.F.&A.M. bling present were also installed,-

W. M .- Walter McPhee, S. W.T .Beckensell, J. W .- L. Cliffe, Treas. -JI. Morrisoni Secy .- F. Burnett', S. D.-A. Radford, J. D.-H. Brown,

Tyler-R. Plews, The occasion marked a joint instalation of the officers of both lodgand the ceremony was ably performed by Junior Grand Warden, E. B. Paul of Victoria, who came especially for that purpose, and the members are warm in their praise of the manner in which the Worthy Bro ther exemplified the installation. On St. John's night it is usual for Masons after the evening is over in the lolgs room to have a season of enjoyment. This year the officers and memersb o the two lodges along with their distinguished guest repaired to the Union Hotel to the binquet prepared by mine host Mr. Sanuel Davis where all showeds what treacherous appetites Masonse have when occasion demands.

It was only right and proper that ample justice should be done to the muny good things, after which there was much makingg of speeches and singing of songs, when all at an early

Christmas Tree.

A very successful Christmas Tree Entertainment was held the Method ist church on Chrismas night.

The attendance was good, extra seats having to be brought in for the the children. The chair was cocupied by the pastor. After the opening exercises the following programme was well rendered;-

Recitation, Helen Bates; Song, Jol ly Old St Kriis, by nine doys, Recitation, "Christmas" by nine girls; Doll Drill, by eight litttle girls; A Christmas Mystery, "Seieng Sauta" was the main feature of the programme, which was indeed a very grand part of the evening's amuse ment both old and young enjoying it with equal vigor. Well they might for it was toth humorous nad instruct The trees were well laden with gifts for the Sunday School scholars Each child als o received a package of candies. Santa Claus who arrived after the closing carol by the chil-dren did his part well to the ev-ident delight of all present.

Xmas Entertainment in the St. George's Church was a grand success The children of the school under he management of Mrs. Paruham assisted by Santa Claus presented the Cartanta 'Santa Surprised' to the great delight of the large audience The entertainment was undiubtedly the best ever given by th Sunday

"IUESDAY, DEC. 31, 1907

To-morrow is New Yoar and we tike this opportunity of wishing our readers a merry, happy and a prosperous y ar. .

The past year has seen many cahn tiges in Cumberlands business circles but those who are left are doing n good business and the prospects are that in the near future the present n raber of business houses will be in-* P. cased.

New Year is the day all start, out with new plans and good resolutions 1) ring the coming year it is the p esent intention that the NEWS Willi by a ketter paper than in the Near 1907. Since amalgamating the the two papers in April last our cir collation has increased considerably so that now the NEW has a circulation equal to that of what both papers. To take this opportunity of thank-May our many readers and adverusers for their liberal patronage dur me the past eight months, and if th some degree of support is given next year there will be every reason to fel that our making of a newspaper has been appreieted.

It might not be out of place to r mark that as the civio elections are :to take place early next month a pub He meeting be called to discuss the city and the school. The mayor and the aldermen, along with the school trustees might be able to give the ... taxpayers a little information about some city matters which wouldbe est interst and which the public are rentitled to know.

No public meeting of the kind has been held for years, and itis not at all right that matters of a public nature should not be publicly explained, and thoroughly discussed at a public meeting,

A public meeting would also give the incoming candidates a chance to explain their policy to theectors This should suit all parties.

"Two Mourrela dallies have inpressed the price of their Saturday , editions. A newspaper is the only commodity that people expect to buy at less than its actua loost" This comment is from the London · Advertiser, London, Ont. In the vicity of Cumberland who think they ought to have their local papers with out paying for them judging the attention to accounts rendered.

THE POWER OF SILENCE. When one person maya hard hitfor things to another the most powerful weapon the latter has in absolute silence, says the father Matthew Herald. The most contemptuous answer has not the strength of simply saing nothing. To become plotely ignored is the hardest to cendure. Vanity enters sp targety. into the composition of mostmortalathit it needs must be must be recognized. Besidesit is nafe. A story is brought to you and though you but ask aquestion or acguilance in the treat was and are sure to be reported as having ordineated the story. To all there come days filled with petty trials and crosses. The man in buiness, the woinnn in her household, experience their will ever even to an often Do not give away to ill-temper and many those bust you. Get into a room of going plane alone. Be r ye one another's burdens me as much but there is a nobility in silently bearing your own. Everything passes away into the gra ( silence, so in time there is an end to all things, Cultivate silence, not being unfriendly or unsociable but as an excellent virtue.

The three essentials to be sought in the government of a town are effectivenes, economical administration and continuity of policy. It is towards these aims that our own citizens in common with those of other oties in Canada, are blindlyo rintelli, ently working. The usual rule of thumb idea is that if only what are called "good men" can be induced to gointo the town council, all three of these essentials will nate urally follow. It is this indeet hat forms the average policy of most citizens. Combined with it withrergard to municipal matters the e is an astonishing amount of prejudice either for or against candid ites, and it is because there is a num, er of men who know how to do people up on these prejudices that that we sometimes get medicore aldermen. So long as a ma with a smooth manner, who is popular with "the boys" ain by walking arou b for 'menth remet his ci .io calling and election sure, so long will the good man policy be liable to miscortune when it gets down to Lusiness.

The "good man" policy is all right so long as the proper qualifications of a "good amn" are insis ted upon, viz., that heshould be perted apon, via good mental ability be as well informed as possible, and have a good practical working knowledge of business and affairs. If in aduition to there qualifications he can rincerely subscribe to his alder man's oath, which ends up with ; "I will faithfully perform the duties of my office and wilk not allow any private interest to influence my conduct in public affairs, so help me God" he is one of those that form the silt of the allermanic earth, and it such as he could always be elected the town would probably not be in such danger of beingmisgoverned Good character in aldermen 'wi,... hide a multitude of faults in a mun icipal system.

ALBERNI STAGE RETURNS. The stage which left Nanaimo on Tuesday last for Alberni returned being unable to get through to the west coast metropoliis on account of the road bineg blockaded yb fallen trees. The stage reached the top end of Cameron Lake without much trouble but was unable to proceed beyond that point as no less than 80 trees were down acros the road betweed Cameron Lake and Albermi. A forc et men have been at work and it was epaceted that the road would be open by Saturday.

The gale of course struck the wires betwene here Nantimo nad it will between here and Nanaimo and it was only Saturday that they were in good working shape again and then not as good as th y might be. ...

him. The good Lord provided every animal with some kind of weapon of offense or defense. A man's is his fist; a woman's is her tongue. Civilization has so far progressed that a man -that is, a gentleman-cannot use his natural weapon in dealing with a woman. That's all right. Civilization has made some mistakes, but that isn't one of them. But it has placed no such limitations on woman's weapon, and ages of constant use have given her a skill that puts a man at a pretty considerable disadvantage. Whether, she uses it as a poniard or a meat ax depends upon her temperament, butthe result is usually the same—the man picks up his hat and jumps for the front door. Now, it's a peculiarity of a woman under such circumstances that, while she remembers with highly magnified clearness all that he says and much that he dim't. she entirely forgets the occasional remarks she made herself. I want you to reverse that process. Think over what you said and long before time for Bill to come back from work you will-be-in-the-proper frame of mind to meet him with a kiss, to be your own sweet self, serene and smiling, just as if a quarrel had never happened since the world began. But let me tell you one, thing, my little girl, and if I was a printer I'd put it in the biggest type to be had-there never was an opinion that was worth the price of your happluess. Have your opinions, but don't try to impress them on Bill with a potato masher. That way isn't effective, and, besides, it lacks refinement. When you want;

It's an old saying that it takes two to make a quarrel, and there's another almost as old-that it takes but one to end it. Both are equally true, but when it comes to closing up a domestic controversy a woman will succeed where a man will only get his foot in deeper, and she can do it without concessions, without humiliation, by the simple trick of forgetting. That's the stuff that will mend family jars quicker and more effectively thun anything else. Paste the recipe in your cookbook; my dear, and take a look at it every time you get on the warpath. So long, little sweetheart." Your affectionate dad,

Children In Bed.

A little child should never be allowed to go to sleep with its face partly under the bedclothing. Mothers are supposed to know this, but they are often careless. A child's face must be entirely uncovered when asleep, so that it inhales only perfectly pure air and not that which has already been breathed. It is trifling things like this which make or mar d child's future besith, MAN'S MINIATURE FAILINGS.—Le Bill Smoke Around the Bears H'H Keeps Him at Home Don't Emports Mere Male Biped to Be a Paragon of Propriety - this Physical Comfort.

[Copyright, 1907, by Casper G. Yost.] Y DEAR LITTLE GIRL-IS takes some women louger tisan others to wake up to the fact that their husbands are not truly and absolutely and altogether perfect, and some are likewise slower than others in becoming reconcited to the semenoplace. I den't know what pan adjected of EM, but it seems to me that I have already put It profty main to you that windever it was he would fall considerably short of the mark, being haman and a map. And it's a mighty good thing that he does, too, for woman's ideal man wou't fit into the everyday life of this pracbefore he got a block away from home just on suspleion. He'd be as lonesome as the little boy that got lost in the cornfield. Did I ever tell you that story? Remind me of it the next time I'm at home. It's worretty good story. but just now I've got some things to say that will be hard to keep within the limit of a two cent stamp.

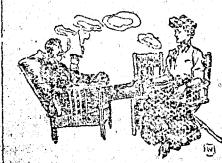

You present a protty big indictment against him. At any rate, I've no Coubt it looks that way to you. You bay that he wants to smoke at home; that he drops various and sandry things, like magazines and cuffs and such, around the house, and that sometimes in the evening be even goes so far us to put his feet on the library chairs. That's awful, simply awful! But, my dear little girl, it might be worse. These are grievous shortcom-Jegs: I'll have to admit it, even though I plend suilty to them invself. But these very fallings prove to me that my estimate of William is correct. He's just a man, a plain, ordinary man, but still he is a man. Somehow er other we just can't make our conenct like with the rules hald down for the pure, the good and the beautiful. and when a woman gets a man whose faults are home grown she'd better accept them with resignation and thankfulness and then proceed to make virtues of them.

No Nonsense About Billy. For virtues they can be, little girl, charges you make against William indicate to me that he leves his home, and when a man manifests an affection for his own fireside you can bet your sweet little life that he as he him the materials that good husbands are made of. Your charges cheve me that he spends his evenings at home and that he is up in the morning clear headed and ready for business. They show me that there is no nousense about Billy. He lan't one of those fellows who want to embroider violets on the summer clouds. He's on to his job. Ho recognizes the fact that the chief object of his existence is to provide bread and oleo and a few other things, like stuffed olives and embroidered shirt waists, for you. Therefore and consequently he must hustle. You probably don't know it-few women do -hul li's a prot-
