Enderby, B. C., December 2, 1909 AND WALKER'S WEEKLY Vol. 2; No. 40; Whole No. 92

Social Events and Local News Notes

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Wright entertained fifty guests at a farewell dinner given in the spacious dining room of the Enderby hotel, last Friday evening, in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Gardom, who were leaving the following day for Vancouver. It was a very happy occasion, made so largely by the hearty good spirit of Mr. and Mrs. Gardom, and the bon homie of host and hostess. After the sumptuous dinner, the evening was spent in social good-fellowship, and as the wee sma' hours began to peak around the corner, Mayor Bell, on behalf of the friends gathered and absent, tendered to Mr. and Mrs. Gardom their deepest regrets coupled with their hearty good wishes for their success and happiness in their new home. Mr. Gardom replied in good spirit, thanking Mr. and Mrs. Wright for their great kindness in bringing so many of their friends together on such an occasion, many of whom he had been closely associated with in Enderby for the past 16 years. The following guests were present:

Mr. Wright, Mrs. Gardom; Mr. Gardom, Mrs. Wright; Mr. Heggie, Mrs. Mowat; Mr. Lemke, Miss Corbould; Mr. Taylor, Mrs. Harvey; Dr. Keith, Mrs. Walker; Mr. Crane, Mrs. Banton; Mr. Walker, Mrs. Keith; Mr. Banton, Mrs. Sharpe (A. E.) Mr. Fulton, Mrs. Sharpe (G. R.); Mr. Reeves, Mrs. Crane; Mr. Mowat, Mrs. Dobson; Mr. Wills, Mrs. Reeves; Mr. G. R. Sharpe, Mrs. Fulton; Mr. Worthington, Mrs. Brimacombe; Mr. Harvey, Miss Taylor; Mr. Bell, Mrs. Lemke; Mr. Brimacombe, Miss Mowat; Mr. A. E. Sharpe, Mrs. McCormick; Mr. Rosoman, Mrs. Bell; Dr. George, Mr. Murphy, Mr. Reed.

A meeting of the Curling Club was held in Dr. Keith's office last Monday evening. Mr. Bailey was engaged to get the rinks in shape for the roarin' game, and papers made ready for the members to "sign up." The question of the annual bonspeil being held at Enderby was discussed, but in view of our not being able to give any assurance that we can provide four rinks, the matter was laid over for future action.

All who were at K. of P. hall election night, appreciated the fine entertainment provided by Mr. Simpson's Edison. "Poor John" and "The Sweet By-and-By," seemed to touch the hearts of all, the sweet strains of the latter bringing to the heart of Mr. Bell, president of the Liberal Association, such hope and gladness he endeavored to inspire every liberal in the room to rise and join in singing the chorus.

Mr. Robt. English returned from a visit of several months to his Prince Albert home on Saturday last, accompanied by his daughter and two children, who will spend the winter in Enderby. It was 29 below zero at Prince Albert a few days before he left, and Mr. English concluded it was time to get back to the sunny Okanagan.

Peter Greyell has gone to considerable expense this season to make his skating rink complete in every detail. He has fenced a hockey center, with boards four feet high and above this wire netting, and this is circled by a twelve foot sheet of ice, so that on the evenings when hockey is played, the spectators can view the game and at the same time enjoy a skate free from danger of the puck.

Jas. Mowat made a transfer of the Smedly acreage property to the A. R. Rogers Lumber Co., this week. The property is situated on the river next to the farm of Wm. Hancock, about two miles from town. It has considerable valuable timber on it, and a great deal of pasturage land and hay land. It is intimated that the company will hold the land as pasturage for its horses.

It is quite a mark of our progress for a town the size of Enderby to have a Shakespearean play put on by a first-class company of artists. But there isn't anything too good for the Walker Lyceum Course, and it is that energetic manager's intention to give the West the very best, believing that in so doing he will find the people will give a ready response.

Contractors Russell & Earle have both the Methodist church building and the City Hall under roof, and the snows of winter will not materially retard the work of completion. Soon Enderby will have one of the handsomest churches in the Valley, and a City Hall worthy of the name.

"As You Like It," next Monday night in K. of P. hall. Don't miss it. Fourteen people in the company, and the performance put on as complete and elaborate as it is given in the Walker Theatre, Winnipeg.

Some of the Mabel Lake Valley boys walked nine miles thorugh the slush and snow Tuesday evening to hear the English Grand Opera Singres, and then had to be disappointed. We mention this fact as an evidence that it is the high-class entertainments that Enderby people are perpared to endorse.

Morley A. Jull, Provincial Poultry Expert, was visiting Enderby poultrymen last week. Mr. Jull will endeavor to return to Enderby next week so as to visit the Poultry Show and get in touch with more of our poultrymen. It is the purpose of the Provincial Department of Agriculture to establish a Provincial Poultry Association, with a view of bringing all poultrymen in closer touch with the business and further improve the conditions under which the poultry industry is laboring.

E. T. Smith left for High River, Alta., Wednesday evening, to purchase a carload of draft horses. Mr. Smith has already disposed of two carload, or 25 head, of these horses, and has orders for the carload he is going for now.

Bengough's performance last Saturday evening was given a crowded house, and this versatile entertainer made good in everything said of him. He is a marvel with the crayon and his mimicry and elocutionary powers greatly pleased his audience.

Winter Poultry Show in Enderby Dec. 8-9-10

Final preparations for the Winter Poultry Show opening in Enderby on Dec. 8th, are now almost completed, and when next Wednesday comes it is believed by those having charge of the preparations that Enderby will see the biggest and best showing of poultry ever gathered together in the Okanagan. Unusual interest is being shown by local poultrymen, especially with the younger men and in locally hatched birds from locally-layed eggs, and there will be many exhibits made by boys interested in the industry.

K. of P. Hall has been engaged for the occasion. On Wednesday and and Thursday morning the judging will be done, and Thursday at 10 o'clock the hall or exhibition room will be thrown open to the public. The exhibition will be open Thursday and Friday evening until 10 o'clock, and on Friday afternoon, from 4 to 6 o'clock all school children will be admitted to the exhibition free of charge. At all other times, the general admission fee will be 25c for adults, and 15c for children.

The following gentlemen have contributed the amounts stated, since the regular prize list was printed: W. E. Banton, $2.50; Wm. Gracie, $2.50 for best utility male bird; G. C. Salt, $5; Evans & Mack, $2.50; G. H. Smedley, $2.50 for best Cockerel and pullet hatched from eggs purchased from him in 1909.

ENDERBY PUBLIC SCHOOL

Last Monday the pupils in the principal's room had a written examination in spelling, the ground covered embracing all the spellings they have had during the last two months. It should be remembered by parents that a low standing in these weekly examinations is much more frequently due to indolence than to lack of ability. Except, perhaps, in the case of arithmetic, those who stand low generally do so because they are too lazy to do the home work which is assigned and which must be done in order to stand high in the list. The following is the result:

Senior Division—Tom McKay, 99; Vivian Nichol, 98; John McMahon, 95; Dorcas Brash, 95; Sylvia Black, 95; Philena Boyer, 92; Harold Bass, 92; Arthur Teece, 90; Gertrude Teece, 89; Fred Johnson, 88; James Johnson, 87; Ida Robinson, 85; Patrick Mowat, 85; Amy Bogart, 83; Allen Dunwoodie, 79 Horace Marwood, 75; Frank Pearson, 67; Oliver Ruttan, 60.

Junior Division—Mildred Hutchison, 93; Austin Collin, 93; Arthur Buchholz, 92; Rena Dunwoodie, 90; Olga Carlson, 88; Florence Ronald, 86 Clifford Greyell, 85; Willie Faulkner, 82; Winnie Bell, 80; Bessie Jones, 78; Hulda Carlson, 77; Elmer Grant, 75; Tom Elliott, 74; Agnes Carlson, 72; Bert Hassard, 70; Walter Dale, 60; Alice Marwood, 57; Herbert Blanchard, 50; Victor Bogart, 40.

Parents are urgently requested to examine the reports of their children closely before signing them as, when parents sign these reports without examining them, their children do not care whether they have good reports or bad ones. It is for the good of the children that their reports should be closely examined, and that they should be censured for their shortcomings. The intention of the school law is that the father and not the mother, shall sign the report, except when the father is absent.

We had hoped to be able to give complete and corrected election returns this week, but no mails have been received from the West since Monday, and, while the general result was known at that time, the returns were incomplete. Jardine in Esquimalt, and Brewster in Alberni, are the two Liberals elected, and Hawthornthwait in Nanaimo, and Williams in Newcastle, the Socialists elected.

HORSEMEN'S SUPPLIES

You furnish the horse flesh and I will do the rest. In addition to my buggies, cutters and sleighs, my blacksmith shop and wagon works, I have placed in stock a complete outfit of single and double harness, lap robes, blankets, brushes, curry combs and horsemen's supplies. Everything new, and the best. Call and inspect. I believe I can save money for you.

WM. H. HUTCHISON.

FOR SALE—A 5-room brick cottage on Regent street near the river shore; good location; in first-class condition. Mrs. R. H. Binch, Enderby, B. C.

Wanted—Position. A good Japanese boy wants position as general house work, or school boy at a noble family. Apply, Eshihara, P.O. Box 93, Enderby, B. C.

When in Armstrong call and see my stock of hand-painted China, Quaker cut glass, 40-day clocks and cuckoo clocks, and other specials for Christmas.—Dorer the Jeweler.

H. M. WALKER

ONE MAN'S POINT OF VIEW

BRUCE lacks one of the cardinal virtues of a good fighter—he is a poor loser. His attitude in the Saturday Sunset, in its issue of November 27th is that of a peevish, petted, spoiled child. It is beneath what we would expect of a man. He is mean, small, narrow, bigoted and contemptible in his argument. He is lacking in every salient attribute of the newspaperman; insane in his conclusions and cruel in his deductions.

As a newspaperman, Bruce McConnell has won the admiration of his fellows in the craft; he is well-liked and his candor appreciated by a very large following of readers, but we are much in doubt if any will agree with him in his present attitude. He says of the elections:

"If it were not that the situation in which this Province will now find itself is so serious, the result of Thursday's poll might almost be treated with levity. * * * With a Government led by McBride and Bowser, and with no opposition, the people of this Province have cause to pause and consider what they have done. With this Government a clear four years ahead of it and no restrictions placed upon its course of action, we are indeed in a serious position. * * * We have given a unanimous mandate to the McBride-Bowser-Green-Mann combination to come and take whatever they good and well please. Worse still, if the situat.on could be worse, the press of the Province is largely in the hands of Government supporters. The small fry in the Interior, almost depending for their existence upon the pap that comes from the Government, are almost unanimous tooters for the Government. There are, of course, a few exceptions, but the majority of the country press is gagged with pap."

We are not disposed to quarrel with Bruce. We have said many nice things about him in the past, and we meant all of them, because we have seen much to admire in his work. In his unfair attitude in politics, however, he is not to be admired. Less than a month ago Bruce, himself, said of Premier McBride and his policy (Oct. 30): "As for the conditions in respect to the capitalization and control of rates, Premier McBride assured me these would all be incorporated in the bill to be brought into the Legislature giving effect to the agreement. The memorandum of the agreement is merely a skeleton or basis of the agreement to be prepared by act of the Legislature. D. Mann came armed with a resolution of his board of directors authorizing him to close and sign an agreement on the spot, but the Government, wisely, I think, decided to take time to thoroughly thresh out the details with the electorate and the Legislature before binding itself, except on the general lines to which both the C. N. R. and the Government are now committed."

Again, (Oct. 30): "My own impression is that they (the C. N. R.) will not build without the guarantee, and that the risk of indefinitely hanging up the building of the line is too great to take any chances by defeating the government's policy."

If Bruce was reasonable in his deductions a month ago, he is most unreasonable in his deductions now. And, too, the people of the Province are convinced that Premier McBride and his ministers and party, have the interests of the Province quite as much at heart as Bruce or any other calamity howler; and the people are quite as capable of knowing what they want as Bruce can be.

Bruce's reference to the country press is that of a sap-head. The country press of B. C. is freer from pap-moulded opinion than the press of the cities, and we believe the people have more faith in the country press than in the city press. However this may be, Bruce makes a contemptible charge against his compeers and one as uncalled for as it is unfounded.

THE splendid victory won by Hon. Price Ellison at the polls last Thursday was not unlooked for, though few would have dared to place the majority so high. It was cruel that so good a man as Mayor DeHart should be sacrificed, and in the sacrifice should lose his deposit. But the verdict of the people was clear long before Mr. DeHart was nominated, and one must have been politically blind not to have seen it. Hon. Price Ellison will serve the Okanagan as faithfully as he ever has. We do not anticipate that more will be asked of him. And we believe we shall be as proud of him as Minister of Lands and Works as we have been of him as member.

PREMIER M'BRIDE has the opportunity of a life-time to let the people of Canada see what sort of metal he has in him. A majority such as he has received would be a calamity with a weak leader at the head of affairs. But with a man as strong as Premier McBride has shown himself to be in the past, it affords him every opportunity and no excuse for not giving the country a clean, wise, untrammeled administration. This we believe Premier McBride will do. The next four years of his life will prove the man. He must make good. The responsibility is great. If he fails, the country will come down upon him like a thunderbolt. We believe he will make good. The country believes he will make good. The province is back of him. It asks no more. But it demands this. Anything but a square deal in all matters affecting the interests of the province, would not be listened to for a moment. Premier McBride and his ministers know this. They are prepared to carry out their part of the contract. We see no reason for anyone to believe otherwise. The calamity tooters should crawl down; move back; get off the earth.

IN his address in the Presbyterian church a few Sundays ago, Rev. Campbell delivered a powerful message to the people of Enderby in particular and British Columbia in general. It was a sermon dealing with the prevailing laxity in Christian labor and church workers, who he said seemed to place a wrong construction upon the teaching of Christ, and were more earnest in seeking to find personal comfort in their religion than to give comfort to others. British Columbia had the name, he said, of being extremely liberal when it came to helping British Columbia. And he was sorry to confess that in Christian work in Enderby the same spirit was altogether too prominent. We had been extremely fortunate in receiving valuable assistance from the outside, all of which we very liberally received, but in the matter of giving, he feared the people were decidedly slow. We have been too anxious that the church shall dominate our council and parliament, and too little interested in winning the honor and esteem of our fellows by meeting them as men to men, and working with them for the good of all. When we do this, he said, there will be no question of the church dominating our community, our council nor our parliament. Church domination is worse than nothing if the spirit of fellowship and the good of all be not back of it.

It is not a small thing to be on the losing side, and when our fellow citizen, J. F. Johnson, appeared as a candidate on the Socialist ticket, he knew what his fate would be. But he made the race, and made it well. Enderby gave him the largest vote that has ever been cast here for his party, which is something from which Mr. Johnson should take no little pride.

BAD-TEMPERED HUSBAND

CRUELTIES WHICH SOME WIVES PUT UP WITH.

Cowardly Ruffians Who Shamefully Ill-treat Their Meek Wives.

The writer recently had the good fortune to meet a lady—unmarried—who had made a study of the marriage question, and had, incidentally, collected together quite an interesting amount of matter relative to "bad-tempered husbands" and the mean acts they are capable of committing when things don't go quite as they want them to.

"There is nothing worse in this world," said the good lady, "than a bad-tempered man married to a meek and long-suffering wife, for in such a case he will allow his spleen full vent, and then the mean things he does are astounding. I have made a collection of the acts of some of these men—if you can call them men—and I should like you to publish a selection as some slight warning to those foolish women who imagine marriage is the main reason for their presence here on earth. I have never married, on principle, and I shall probably die an old maid, so it cannot be said that I have any grievance against any one particular person. I merely give you the experiences of others.

DINNER WAS NOT READY.

"What would you think of a man who, because his dinner wasn't ready within a fraction of the appointed time, rushed upstairs with the carving-knife, ripped the lining out of his wife's new gown, and then left the dining table implement sticking in the crown of her new Merry Widow? You would scarcely credit it? Yet I have evidence here which proves that the act has been committed by several husbands, and with even less provocation than a late meal.

"Here is another example. The case came into the courts some time ago. This 'man' was married to a charming, but seemingly weak, little woman, who never made any complaint however badly she was treated. The husband made life a burden for her, but as she never protested he thought, I suppose, that she didn't suffer sufficiently. So one day, when he found a hair in the soup or a fly on the butter—I forget which—he sought to express his displeasure by taking a kitten on which the little woman had lavished what remained of her affection, tying a string to its neck, and suspending it from the chandelier.

"The patient wife did not at first realize what was happening, but when the ball of fluff began to writhe in the throes of strangulation all her latent spirit was aroused, and in a frenzy of long-suppressed revolt she first cut down the animal and then threw everything at her husband that she could lay her hands on. It didn't matter what was the size of the thing she seized—it went with unerring aim and force at the head of the man who had at last brought to life her torpid wrath. Soon he lay bleeding and unconscious in the midst of a mass of debris. She never even waited to see whether he were alive or dead, but left the house there and then. Three months later she obtained her divorce.

A FATAL PRACTICAL JOKE.

"Another example of what a bad-tempered husband is capable of was brought to my notice a few weeks ago by a friend, who knows that I take an interest in such things. The man in this instance was a physician, and small-minded and jealous to a degree. He objected to his wife associating with anyone even of her own sex, and consequently she led an objectless and most monotonous life. The poor woman had one brother to whom she was passionately attached and who sympathized with her, but he, man-like, thought he might only make matters worse if he interfered, and so said nothing.

"One day the doctor arrived home in a particularly ill frame of mind, and, as usual, vented his temper upon his wife. After dinner—during which he smashed three plates because they were chipped—he took his hat and departed. His wife, of course, remained at home, and about an hour later a telegram was brought to her, which, on opening, she found contained the horrifying news that her brother had been run over by an automobile and was dead. The poor woman dropped like a stone, and when her husband returned to see the effect of his little pleasantry he found her lying dead on the floor of the surgery. The case never came into court, but the facts are well known and could easily be authenticated.

AN OLD HABIT.

"Bad-tempered husbands frequently acquire the habit of throwing articles at their wives—articles of a light nature, perhaps, but which, nevertheless, it is wisest to dodge. I have a case here of such a nature. The husband—a big, unwieldy brute—would frequently take up the nearest object that came to his hand and throw it at his wife, who, through long practice, usually 'ducked' just in time. She never retaliated until one day a friend, who had possessed a husband with a similar peculiarity—and whom she had cured—advised her to smash two things to every one that her husband destroyed.

"On the very next occasion she carried out this advice to the letter, and sent nearly everything the room contained to smithereens. Later on the bill for the damage was sent in to the husband, who did a little thinking and then decided to quit. He called a truce, and has never since thrown as much as a feather duster at his better half. The plan adopted by this wise woman should be copied by every wife who is subjected to similar persecution."

A REAL COFFIN-SHIP.

Steamship Shimosa Carried Nearly 8,000 Dead Passengers.

The largest shipload of passengers that ever sailed from New York on one steamer left recently on board the Shimosa, bound for China. Although the Shimosa is by no means a large ship, she carried on this trip nearly 8,000 passengers.

The 8,000 passengers, however, did not complain about the overcrowding. And this for a very simple reason—they were dead. Each in his coffin they were packed between decks.

The Chinese have a firm belief that if they are not buried in their native soil their chances of reaching their heaven are very small. Of course, if he can, a Chinaman always prefers to die in his own country. But if this is impossible, he must at least be buried there. So the bodies of Chinamen in all parts of the world are finally laid to rest in China.

During his lifetime, "John Chinaman" abroad pays a small sum regularly to a society which guarantees him burial at home. Then he knows that, when the end comes to him, although he may be temporarily laid in alien soil, his remains will ultimately be disinterred and borne back to his fatherland.

In fulfilment of another Chinese belief, beside each body there reposes in the coffin a substantial meal of roast pork, chicken, and rice. This is so that John may not set out on his last journey without due provision.

WHERE?

He was a burly navvy and she his no less burly wife, and they were airing their views in no uncertain manner on the pavement.

Presently a good Samaritan intervened.

"See here, my man," he protested, "this sort of thing won't do."

"What business is it of yours, I'd like to know," snarled the man, turning from his wife.

"It's only my business in so far as I can be of help in settling this dispute," answered the Samaritan mildly.

"This ain't do dispute," growled the man.

"No dispute! But my dear friend—"

"I tell you it ain't no dispute," insisted the man. "She"—jerking his thumb toward the woman—"thinks she ain't goin' to get my week's wages, and I know she ain't. Where's the dispute in that?"

A BLUSHING MATTER.

He had finished his dinner in a grouch and then buried himself in the evening paper.

"Hum, I wish they'd invent a new expression occasionally," he commented as he read the account of a wedding. "It's always the 'blushing bride' now-a-days."

"Well," came the quick retort from the other side of the table, "when you consider what sort of husbands most girls have to marry, why, you can't much wonder at their blushing."

WONDERFUL.

"This is a remarkable world!" exclaimed O'Brien. "I was walking down the street this morning and I met a man I hadn't seen for about twelve years."

EXPENSIVE MEMORIALS

LATE QUEEN VICTORIA'S MONUMENT ONE OF THE FINEST.

Albert Memorial Very Costly — Statue in Memory of the Duke of Wellington.

After eight years' work, the Queen Victoria Memorial in front of Buckingham Palace is nearing completion, and it will not be long ere Londoners and visitors to the Metropolis are able to view one of the finest monuments in the world. Altogether it will cost $1,250,000, and 350 tons of marble will have been used in the construction of figures and statuettes which go to make up this memorial to "The Great White Queen."

The figure of her late Majesty will be no less than 18½ feet in height, and will depict her dressed in robes of state, sitting enthroned with orb and sceptre. All the world was ransacked for a 70-ton block of flawless marble from which the statute might be carved. But such a block could not be obtained, and consequently Mr. Thomas Brock, the famous sculptor, has been compelled to use several smaller blocks, the largest of which weighs twenty-five tons.

THE ALBERT MEMORIAL.

The Queen Victoria Memorial is probably the most costly in the kingdom, although the famous Albert Memorial must have cost between $2,000,000 and $2,500,000. The cost—provided by public subscription—was given at $600,000, but it is asserted that Queen Victoria's private contribution exceeded that amount. The Albert Hall is really part of the Albert Memorial, for it was after the Exhibition of 1851 that Prince Albert proposed the erection of a great hall of music, and when he had passed away a national subscription was raised to carry out his wish, $1,000,000 being obtained.

A grateful nation, too, subscribed $225,000 for the erection of the Nelson Column in Trafalgar Square, while the fact should not be overlooked that every penny of the $50,000 spent on the statue of Achilles in Hyde Park was raised by the women of England.

TO A SOLDIER'S MEMORY.

And this was not the only honor done to the memory of Wellington. The statue in front of the Royal Exchange cost $57,500, whilst amongst other memorials to the great soldier might be mentioned the arch on the north side of the nave in St. Paul's Cathedral, which cost $100,000, and the college near Sandhurst for the education of sons of officers, on which $500,000 was spent.

Sixty-eight thousand five hundred dollars was expended by our forefathers on the monument in Fish Street Hill, which was erected to commemorate the Great Fire of London. Strangely enough, one of the most interesting monuments in London cost the nation not a penny piece. In 1819 Mehemet Ali told the British Government they might have Cleopatra's Needle, which had been erected about 1,500 years before the time of Christ by Thothmes the Third. But the offer was unheeded, and it lay on the sands of Egypt until, by the generosity of Dr. Erasmus Wilson, it was transported to England and erected on the Thames Embankment in 1878. It cost him $50,000, and even then the monolith was nearly lost in the Bay of Biscay.

The Marble Arch, by the way, which originally stood on the site chosen for the Victoria Memorial outside Buckingham Palace, cost in the first place $400,000 to build and a further sum of $55,000 to take down, remove, and re-erect at its present position nearly opposite Edgware Road. The other great entrance to the park, Hyde Park Corner, though not so impressive, cost nearly twice as much as Marble Arch, namely $855,000.

AMERICAN MONUMENTS.

In Washington Park, Washington, there is a huge obelisk, 555 feet high, in memory of the first President of the Republic. It is built of great blocks of crystal marble, and was not completed until 1885. Within the monument is an elevator and also an iron stairway of 900 steps. This, the highest stone structure in the world, cost $1,200,000.

The American statue, however, which never fails to impress the visitor to the States is that in New York Harbor representing Liberty Enlightening the World. The figure stands upon a pedestal that is 154 feet 10 inches high, and is itself 151 feet 1 inch in height. In the upraised right hand is a torch lighted by electricity. The pedestal and statue cost over $1,000,000.

MODERN DENTISTRY.

How Gold Inlays are Made and Put Into the Teeth.

The modern dentist now makes gold inlays as well as inlays of porcelain.

In making an ordinary gold filling the cavity in the tooth is made larger within than at its opening, the walls thus contracting helping to hold the filling in. The cavity for a gold inlay must, of course, be at least as large at the opening as at any interior point, for the inlay is in a solid block.

There may be various reasons for putting into a tooth a gold inlay instead of a filling malleted in. For one reason it may be that the walls of the tooth are too frail to stand the malleting without danger of breaking, or it may be that the gold inlay is to go into a back, grinding tooth, where a malleted filling would not serve the purpose. An ordinary gold filling such as is malleted in is made of pure gold; if it were otherwise it could not be worked; a gold inlay can be alloyed to make it of a degree of hardness sufficient to withstand use.

Porcelain inlays are commonly set in front teeth, where they do not show as a gold filling would. The porcelain powders of which such inlays are made are produced in a practically endless variety of shades, which can be further varied by combination.

It is possible to make a porcelain inlay that will match the surrounding tooth so perfectly that except upon the closest inspection it is impossible to tell where the tooth leaves off and the inlay begins. Porcelain inlays, which are moulded into shape from the plastic material and then baked, may be set in grinding teeth, but this is not commonly done. A porcelain inlay that might not break if stepped on might break in a grinding tooth in use.

A perfect amalgam filling will wear as well and as long as the tooth in which it is set, but amalgam discolors in time, and there are persons who will not have an amalgam filling even in a back tooth, out of sight. For these people for a grinding tooth gold inlays are made.

In whatever sort of tooth the gold inlay is to be placed, the cavity when drilled out is furrowed down its sides within with little grooves, into which corresponding mouldings on the inlay will fit, this to hold the inlay more securely in place and the better to enable it to withstand pressure applied to it from various directions, and with the cavity finished a form or pattern is taken of it in wax. Into one end of this little form or pattern in wax is thrust a delicate wire, by which it can be handled without handling the form itself, and then this pattern is set in a tiny flask, and around it, as in a foundry the moulders pack sand around patterns in making moulds in bigger flasks, plaster is packed.

When this tiny mould containing the wax pattern for the inlay has hardened the wire is drawn out of the pattern and the wax is melted out of the mold, and then there is the mould ready for the casting, which is done by the aid of various special appliances made for the purpose. Then you break the little plaster mould and there, released, you have the gold inlay.

It is set into place with cement which after an hour or two in which to harden holds the inlay firmly and securely anchored. In due time later the dentist will grind it down around to make it perfectly flush with the surrounding tooth surface and polish it.

HE CERTAINLY SCORED.

An ironworker, having had the worst of an argument with a friend, decided to get even with him.

Waiting, therefore, until his enemy had retired to rest one night, he approached his street door, and knocked loudly in order to wake him. Opening the bedroom window, the other hurriedly inquired what the noise was all about.

"Why," replied the outside one, "one of your windows is wide open."

"Which one?"

"Why, the one you have your head through," chuckled the other, as he went away, satisfied with the success of his plot.

WHEN YOU ARE BROKE.

When you are broke,
To left or right
Appears no stroke
Of luck in sight,
You've got to live;
You break the ice

FARM SCHOOLS IN BAVARIA.

Travelling Teachers Who Form Clubs and Deliver Lectures

"In order to promte argricultural interest the kingdom of Bavaria has established agricultural schools in almost every town," says Franz J. Hofauer of Munich, Germany.

"These schools are in charge of teachers who in addition to an academic education must be versed in botany, geology, chemistry, physics, zoology and natural history. At a time when nothing is doing in the fields, from November to March, these schools are open, and the peasants for a nominal fee can attend courses on cultivation and fertilization of the soil, the proper rotation of crops on the same land, the best sources for good seeds, irrigation and the raising of stock. They are made acquainted with improvements and new inventions in agricultural implements, the adoption of which can be recommended. They are taught the rudiments of bookkeeping and other commercial knowledge essential for the up to date farmer.

"In the spring after these farmers have returned to their work in the fields it becomes the duty of the teachers who instructed them during the winter to travel from county to county and to act as advisers to the farmers. Much good results from the travels of these teachers. By practical suggestion to the farmers they induce them to make valuable improvements in the cultivation of their farms.

"The wandering teacher helps to form co-operative clubs for the joint interests of a number of farmers in one district. From time to time the teacher has to lecture in these clubs on any subject which might prove of interest to the members. These visits and lectures to the different districts are entirely free to the people, since the State assumes all expenses. There is probably no other country in the world in which so much is done by the State for its rural inhabitants as is the case in Bavaria. Other German States have these agricultural schools, but their teachers are not sent in such a practical way direct to the places where they can do the most good, as is done in Bavaria. The results of this commendable care have ben very gratifying."

FISHES WITH ITS WINGS.

Naturalist's Observation on the Sly Way of the Cassowary.

Habits of the cormorant and of our native fish hawk are generally known. Their methods of taking fish are very much like those of birds of prey. But the cassowary fishes according to a method of its own. A well known naturalist witnessed its operations on a river in the island of New Britain.

He saw a cassowary come down to the water's edge and stand for some minutes apparently watching the water carefully. It then stepped into the river where it was about three feet deep, and partially squatting down, spread its wings out, submerging them, the feathers being spread and ruffled.

The bird remained motionless, and kept its eyes closed as if in sleep. It remained in this position for a quarter of an hour, when suddenly closing its wings and straightening its feathers it stepped out on the bank. Here it shook itself several times, whereupon a quantity of small fishes fell out of its wings and from amid its feathers. These the bird immediately picked up and swallowed.

The fishes had evidently mistaken the feathers for a kind of weed that grows in the water along the banks of the rivers in this island and which much resembles the feathers of the cassowary. The smaller fishes hide in these weeds to avoid the larger ones that prey on them.

POLITENESS NOT CRUELTY.

"Now, sir!" bellowed the ruby-visaged K. C., taking off his pince-nez and pointing them at the unhappy husband. "You deny any cruelty towards your wife, I understand? Kindly tell us whether it is a fact"—here he turned triumphantly toward the jury and put on his pince-nez again—"that for three months you did not speak to her?"

"It is," answered the husband.

"Well, sir," thundered the K. C., "why didn't you speak to her, may I ask?"

"Simply," replied the husband, "because I didn't want to interrupt her."

QUITE SO.

"Everybody ought to marry for love."

"At least once."

ABOUT THE HOUSE

SEASONABLE RECIPES.

Fresh Cucumbers in Winter. — Fill glass jars with cucumbers slightly seasoned with salt. Cover with water. Remove bubbles by passing a fork through them. Put tops on jars and stand upside down to test for leakage. When put up this way cucumbers taste as fresh as when gathered from the vines.

Baked Potatoes.—Do not have the oven too hot for baked potatoes. If done in a moderate oven for a longer time they will cook more evenly. Pricking the small ends of a potato with a fork before putting in the oven will keep the skin from bursting. A German cook noted for her baked potatoes washes them carefully, dries them, and then rubs the skin with a greased paper and bakes in the usual way. A pleasant variety of baked potatoes is to peel them, rub them over with a greased paper dipped in butter, and bake in the ordinary way.

To Can Tomatoes Whole.—Select tomatoes of equal size which will easily slip into a half gallon fruit jar. If a tomato is too large the seeds will squeeze out and spoil the appearance of the canned fruit. Have the jar setting in a pail which has a little hot water in it. Scald and peel the tomatoes and drop into the jar until full. Pour boiling water into the jar until it runs over enough to take every bubble out. Seal and let stand in the hot water until cold. These can be sliced as nicely as fresh tomatoes and seasoned when served. Will keep for years.

To Preserve Cucumbers. — Take small cucumbers and slice; put salt on this and let stand over night; then put layer of cucumber and sprinkle with black and white mustard and celery seed, and a tablespoonful of olive oil and half a cupful of vinegar. Follow this process until the jar is full. Then put away and use when cold.

Uncooked Chilli Sauce.—One-half peck of tomatoes chopped, three stalks celery cut fine, one cupful of grated horseradish, two red peppers and one cupful of onions chopped fine, one small cupful of salt, one cupful each of black and white mustard seed, two teaspoonfuls of cinnamon, one teaspoonful cloves, one teaspoonful of mace, one cupful of white sugar and one quart of cider vinegar. Stir all well together, do not cook and keep sealed tight. The feature of this sauce is that it retains the flavor of the fresh tomatoes, and if ripe and sound tomatoes are used it will keep as well as the cooked chilli sauce.

Butterscotch.—Three cupfuls of white sugar, one-half cupful of water, one-half cupful of vinegar, one tablespoonful of butter, eight drops of extract of lemon. Boil without stirring till it will snap and break. Just before taking from the fire add one-fourth teaspoonful of soda. Pour into buttered biscuit tins and mark into inch squares when cold.

Tapioca Pudding.—Put to soak over night two-thirds of a cupful of pearl tapioca. When ready next day to make the pudding beat the yolks of two eggs until light, add one pint of sweet milk, one-fourth cupful of sugar, mix well, add to the tapioca. Put on to cook and add a small lump of butter. Flavor with vanilla. Stir while cooking to prevent scorching, or cook in a double boiler. When cooked fold in the whites of two eggs which have previously been beaten to a stiff front, and beat briskly for a few minutes. This makes it extremely light. Serve with cream or rich milk. This is far superior to the old way of baking the pudding and more palatable.

THREE SALADS.

Stuffed Totato Salad.—To serve two dozen tomatoes, cut small piece from top of each, after scalding and peeling. Chop one cucumber and two green peppers after removing seeds of peppers. Scoop out a third of each tomato and add to chopped mixture. Salt and add lemon juice to taste; drain off surplus juice. Stuff tomatoes with mixture, set on ice, and when ready to serve, add mayonnaise, stiff enough not to run, to top of each.

Beet Salad.—Two quarts of chopped beets, two quarts of chopped cabbage, two cupfuls of sugar, one cupful grated horseradish, dessert spoonful of salt, pepper to taste, and cold vinegar to cover. This makes a gallon jar full and will keep all winter.

Delicious Fruit Salad.—Take the contents of a box of pink gelatin, pour over it one-fourth of a pint of cold water, and let stand five minutes. Pour into this mixture one and a half pints of boiling water, stirring thoroughly until dissolved. Add the juice of three large lemons and sugar to suit the taste. Strain through a cloth and let stand until cool. Then pour the gelatin over some raisins, sliced oranges, and bananas and set away in the refrigerator until it becomes hardened, which will take from four to five hours. To serve: Take several large naval oranges, using one for each person to be served and cut off about one-third of each orange, remove the inside carefully so as not to break the rind, then place the rinds in a pan of ice-water until they become firm. When firm enough remove from the water and fill each one with the prepared gelatin, over which put whipped cream, being careful to allow a little of the pink gelatin to peep through. Place a few maraschino cherries on top of the whipped cream. Place some nice, crisp lettuce leaves on the fruit plates, set the prepared oranges on the leaves, and lay a few cherries around on the green leaves, also a small slice or two of orange. This makes an attractive as well as an excellent dessert.

CANNING, PRESERVING.

Green Tomato Sauce.—One peck of green tomatoes, one head of cabbage, ten large onions, one large head of celery, two green peppers, two pounds of brown sugar, one tablespoonful of mustard-seed, three quarts of vinegar and salt to suit taste. Cut up tomatoes and sprinkle salt through them; stand over night, drain off in morning and put all through a food chopper and boil one hour.

Tomato Kromeskies.—Beat lightly the yolk of one egg, add three tablespoonfuls of cold water, one-half a cup of sifted flour, and one-quarter teaspoonful of salt. Stir in one teaspoonful of melted butter, then beat until the butter is smooth and bubbly. Stir in lightly the stiffly beaten white of the egg, then set away in a cool place for several hours. Choose ten tomotaes which are firm and as small as possible. Scald and peel them. Have ready some grated cheese, seasoned, using for each cupful of the cheese a quarter of a teaspoonful of salt, one-third of a teaspoonful of salt, one-third of a teaspoonful of paprika, one-quarter of a teaspoonful of ground mustard, a small pinch each of thyme and ground cloves. Roll each tomato in the prepared cheese until thickly coated, let stand for about fifteen minutes, then dip carefully in the butter already prepared and plunge into smoking hot fat. Fry a golden brown, drain and serve garnished with parsley.

To Can Corn.—For eight quarts of corn, which require three dozen ears, allow one ounce of tartaric acid. Cut corn from cob, cook twenty minutes in water, enough to cover, then stir in the acid, cook a little longer and seal in glass jars. When wanted for use empty contents of can in saucepan, add pinch of soda, let boil a few minutes, pour off liquid and season as you would fresh corn. Corn and tomatoes are also nice canned together. Cook together and seal. This makes a tempting dish in winter.

To Keep Jellies from Molding. —Keep a box or bunches of thyme where the jellies are kept, which should be in a dark place, and you will have no mold.

THE LAUNDRY.

Sprinkling Clothes.—If for any reason you have not sprinkled your clothes the night before you wish to iron them, try sprinkling them with boiling hot water. Use a clean whisk broom, as it sprinkles them much finer and evener than by dipping the water in your hand. As soon as your clothes are sprinkled, and tightly rolled up, put on your irons to heat. By the time they are hot your clothes will be ready to iron as nicely as if they had lain over night. Always iron the linens last, as they require more dampness.

Perspiration Stains.—After taking off a garment wet with perspiration, drop it in cold water. Let it soak a while, then rinse it well and dry. Perspiration turns white goods yellow, discolors colored clothes, makes them tender, and causes the goods to split. Putting away damp clothes makes them mildew.

Washing Made Easy.—Soap white cloth well and put in cold water over night to soak. This will loosen all dirt and requires no rubbing. Heat boiler of soap suds early next morning. Rinse clothes, put in water, and boil about twenty minutes. Remove from boiler, rinse well, blue, starch, and hang out. Your clothes will be nice and white with only one-third the usual labor.

Little Helps.—Before washing look over all linen for spots. Tea and coffee stains usually yield to hot water when poured steadily through them. Fruit stains, or in fact any stain can always be removed by rubbing pure glycerine into them before putting into water. After washing dry in hot sunshine.

Never let starch touch the linen. In doing up handsome pieces after drying, dip into hot water, wring out well, roll up for a few minutes, then iron. Linen will stand much hotter irons than other cloth.

Iron napkins on wrong side, then right, until perfectly dry. Carefully fold. After the cloth has been folded once roll on a pole, so when used it will have only one fold down the middle. In short, to have beautifully laundered linen, dry in the hot sun, sprinkle with hot water, use hot irons, and plenty of pressure, and fold exactly even.

Glossy Effect.—It is advisable when washing, to put a little gum arabic in the starch. Dissolve half a teaspoonful of the gum arabic in boiling water, and when cool add to the starch. Linen, when starched with this mixture, will have a beautiful gloss. It is the only method by which the same exquisite finish can be obtained on linen goods as when first displayed for sale in the store window.

Removing Clothes from Boiler—When washing, to avoid scalding fingers in catching the clothes up over the clothes stick in removing the clothes from the boiler use a pinching clothespin. Catch clothes with this and throw up over the stick.

Easy Methods.—Shave one bar of soap, pour two quarts water over it, put on stove to boil; when it comes to a boil add one large tablespoonful of coal oil, allow to boil until all soap is dissolved, which generally takes ten minutes. Soak clothes in cold water (hard or soft) overnight; in morning wring out the clothes, have boilerful of good warm water (not hot), add over half solution to boiler and sort clothes and put into boiler. After they come to a boil, boil for twenty minutes; remove to tub of water, rinse thoroughly and put through bluing water, starch, and hang out. For second boiler be sure and add cold water to cool water and add remainder of solution. Unless clothes are extremely soiled they will not need one particle of rubbing; if badly soiled, rub the soiled places with soap before putting in to boil.

Ice Water Help. "Don't be afraid of plenty ice water." To remove all food, butter, olive oil, fruit or coffee marks from any garment of any fabric apply immediately plenty of ice water, rub quickly with clean napkin until dry.

FALL SKIN DISEASES.

An Article for Mothers.

When the children "break out" with eruptions and skin diseases, so common in the fall, don't run to useless and nauseating medicines. Zam-Buk is what is needed. It is a skin food as well as a healing balm.

Mrs. Chas. Levere, of Prescott, North Channel, Ont., tells how Zam-Buk cured her baby. She says:—"My baby's head and face was one complete mass of sores. The itching and irritation were fearful, and the little one's plight was so fearful that at one time we feared her ears would be eaten off.

"We had to keep her hands tied for days to prevent her rubbing and scratching the sores. Doctor after doctor treated her in vain, until we had had five doctors. They all agreed it was a frightful case of eczema, but none of them did any permanent good.

"As a last resource we were advised to try Zam-Buk. The first box did so much good that we felt sure we were at last working in the right direction. We persevered with the treatment until we had used thirteen boxes, and at the end of that time I am glad to say Zam-Buk effected a cure."

Mrs. Holmes, of 30, Guise Street, Hamilton, is quite as eloquent in her praises. She says:—"Zam-Buk cured my boy of boils and eruptions when he was so bad that he had been unable to mix with other children. Prior to the boils breaking out he had had a bad eruption, but Zam-Buk cleared this away too, and made his skin clear and smooth. It is a wonderful preparation, and mothers throughout the land should always keep it handy."

For eczema, eruptions, rashes, tetter, itch, ringworm, and similar skin diseases, Zam-Buk is without equal. It also cures cuts, burns, scalds, piles, abscesses, chronic sores, blood-poisoning, etc. All druggists and stores at 50 cents a box, or post free for price from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto.

A POINTER ON MAKING SHOES WEAR LONGER.

In this age there are many different forms of insurance against loss from almost every conceivable cause and it is remarkable to note that we have now arrived at a point where it is possible to insure your new clothes against becoming prematurely worn out, and no doubt when people are aware of this fact thousands will take advantage of it. Shoe insurance in the form of "Nugget" Waterproof Shoe Polish is the best kind of an investment, for it will double the life of your shoes, because it keeps leather soft and pliable and prevents cracking.

Your dealer keeps "Nugget"—why not insure your shoes? It costs but 10c. Black or Tan.

The "Nugget" is a Waterproof preparation which in wet weather retains its shine, and the polish itself will not rub off and soil the clothes under any conditions.

RHEUMATISM DRIVEN FROM THE BLOOD

A Remedy Which Assists Nature Makes a Cure Which is Permanent as This Case Proves.

Every sufferer from rheumatism wants to be cured and to stay cured. The prospect of the frequent return of the trouble is not attractive to anybody who has gone through one siege. Most treatments aim simply to "keep down" the rheumatic poisons in the blood. The tonic treatment by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills has proved by hundreds of cures that it builds up the blood to a point that enables it to cast out these poisons through the regular channels of excretion—the bowels, the kidneys and the skin. When this is done the rheumatism is permanently cured, and as long as the blood is kept pure and rich the patient will be free from rheumatism. Mr. Thomas McNeil, Richibucto, N. B., says:—"Permit me to bear testimony to the worth of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills as a cure for acute rheumatism. My son, Frederick, was subject to this painful trouble for a period of eight or ten years, and during this time periodical attacks would regularly occur. His last attack was a most severe one, and the pains were excruciating in the extreme, shooting through the various parts of the body to such an extent that even the approach of any person would cause him to cry out with fear, and he had rest neither day or night. Our family doctor, a man of skill and experience, applied many remedies without avail, and could give no encouragement other than that the warmer weather then approaching might prove beneficial. Just at this time we noticed where some person similarly afflicted had been cured by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and decided to try them. He kept on using the Pills, each succeeding box showing improvement, until he had taken ten boxes, when all pains and aches had completely disappeared, and although his mode of life is that of a fisherman, and consequently exposed to both wet and cold, he has had no return of any of the symptoms whatever. The cure is complete, and is entirely due to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these Pills from any medicine dealer or they will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The D. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Vein of a Live Sheep Transplanted to Man's Leg.

An extraordinary surgical operation is reported from Paris, France. Dr. Doyen, who is known in connection with cancer research, successfully transplanted a vein of a live sheep to the leg of a man suffering from arterial aneurism, with the result that the circulation was restored. The patient has now completely recovered. The vein transferred was a fraction over 10 inches in length. Numerous grafting operations have been performed in modern surgery, but this is the first time that an organism from a lower animal has been transferred to man. Dr. Doyen is now in Budapest attending the medical congress, to which he will communicate the details of the operation.

BABY'S TEETHING TIME IS A TROUBLOUS TIME

When baby is teething the whole household is upset. The tender little gums are swollen and inflamed, and the poor child often cries day and night, wearing the mother out and keeping the rest of the family on edge. In the homes where Baby's Own Tablets are used there is no such worry. The Tablets allay the inflammation, soothe the irritation and bring the teeth through painlessly. Mrs. Jean Boutin, St. Marguerite, Que., says: "When I sent for Baby's Own Tablets my nine months' old baby was suffering greatly from teething troubles and I hardly got any rest. A few doses of the Tablets relieved her, and the teeth seemed to come through painlessly." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

THE PEOPLE HAVE SPOKEN

The elections are over. It was a tremendous victory for Premier McBride—something never before heard of in British Columbia history, if, indeed, in the history of Canada. The Opposition was all but annihilated—only two Liberals and two Socialists elected. Of the 42 members in the Legislature, 38 are Conservative. If ever a leader had the endorsement of the people, that leader is Premier McBride. It is needless to ask why and how it happened. It happened; that is enough. The people of British Columbia have spoken. They are a people pronounced in their wishes, and, right or wrong, when they speak the world knows what they want. In the present case, they have signified that they want railroads, and a progressive public policy,—they want this great country opened up, and our resources developed. They want more people, more wealth, more industries, and they believe Premier McBride is the man who will see that we get them.

Premier McBride is the one man in British Columbia politics that the people have learned to trust. He is known. He has made good, and the people are prepared to trust him, even to the extreme of wisdom. In a broader, fuller sense, Premier McBride is the people of British Columbia. Liberals, Conservatives and Socialists, one and all look to him as their medium; the man through whom they speak and act. He voices the best in our public life, and rings true of the West. He is British Columbia, and we are proud of him.

Now that the elections are over, and the Premier given the greatest majority that any premier ever got, we look to him to proceed at once in his determination to get for the province the best railway deal possible. That he intends doing so is evident from the following message he has sent over the province:

Victoria, B. C., Nov. 27.—"I am deeply—very deeply—grateful to the people of British Columbia for the recognition which the Government and my policy have received at the polls. The result did not come wholly as a surprise, for I was convinced from the indications that the attorney-general and I met with all over the country during the tour, that it would be virtually a clean sweep for the Conservative policy in British Columbia. The people of the Province have shown unreservedly their confidence in the proposals to bring in the Canadian Northern railway line, and to extend the Kettle River Valley railway's operations.

"Between now and the session of the Legislature, which, it is expected, will open on January 20th, no time will be lost in concluding the final agreements to be submitted to parliament, containing specifically all of the terms that I have promised to the people. The railway legislation will have first place in the sessional programme and the bills will be passed as expeditiously as possible.

"This may be taken as the commencement by this government of a very substantial and progressive policy of development by railway building. And I want especially to thank the Conservative press throughout the Province; all the speakers who have assisted upon the platform during the just-ended campaign; the workers, whose unremittent industry has so largely contributed to success; and, lastly, I want to acknowledge to the country the efficient and valuable services rendered during the campaign by my colleague, the Hon. W. J. Bowser. No leader could have a more faithful and energetic lieutenant than I possess in the attorney-general.

"Encouraged and supported by the strongly expressed confidence of the people, I hope to so carry on the affairs of British Columbia as to secure for the Province the fullest and largest measure of substantial progress and prosperity.

RICHARD M'BRIDE."

LOCAL OPTION DEFEATED

British Columbia is British Columbia. There is something in the atmosphere that resents anything that savors of curtailing one's liberty. The defeat of the proposed local option legislation is indicative of this one thing, that while the people as a whole endorse all good things tending to improve the mental and moral conditions of the province, they look with disfavor upon any legislation tending to curtail man's liberty. No other construction can be placed upon the result of the local option plebescite. It even went out of the fair Okanagan lost, and, of course, when it came to the mining country, and the cities, it was sure to be snowed under. The total vote is not in at the present writing, but its defeat is certain. In the Okanagan it had but 1036 votes cast in its favor, and 791 against it. The total vote of the Valley was 2091, hence, to carry local option required 1046. Complete returns may change these figure some, but not materially. In Vancouver, the Province says, local option was defeated by at least 1200 votes. The total vote was in round numbers, 5,400 for and 4,700 against. The vote of the province was about on the same proportion, indicating that the people who voted on the proposition are little more than equally divided on the subject, and others, who did not vote, do not care enough about it to say where they stand.

The local option plebescite just voted on is not, in itself, a local option law, but a law, or making way for a law, giving municipalities the privilege to vote for such a local measure. To have carried the plebescite would not necessarily have been a show of strength, for many might have favored the giving of such a privilege to municipalities who would not vote for the law to be applied locally. However, the small majority in favor of the passage of such a law would not indicate that the desire for local option is as strong as its advocates have been led to believe. However strong one's feelings may be in the matter, it is not just to accuse the Government of showing unfairness in the manner of submitting the question. Surely, if the law is much desired, it should not be difficult for its advocates to marshal at least 50 per cent of the voting strength of the province. There is a feeling, and it is not small, that the present law regulating the sale of liquor is not properly enforced, and if it were much of the abuse complained of would be overcome, and while this feeling prevails, it is not much use asking for more laws—laws that if as poorly enforced as the law we now have, would have a tendency to increase the evil rather than diminish it.

BRUCE BUNCOED

"Bruce," in Saturday Sunset, has set upon a hatching of railroad ties for three months or more, and when his brood came he had a railway policy all his own—on paper. Then when Premier McBride brought down his railway policy with railroad builders to build it, "Bruce" said to the Premier, "My policy is better than yours, and I want you to adopt it." And because Premier McBride refused to consider his toboggan slide, the man from Bruce has been clucking like an old hen that has brought forth a brood of goslings. He has now taken to ridiculing the Premier for the way he combs his hair! What a hen!

Bruce will now have a lot of time to repent of his waywardness. He should go back a few weeks on the file of his paper and find these words, (Oct. 30th): "As for the conditions in respect to the capitalization and control of rates, Premier McBride assured me these would all be incorporated in the bill to be brought into the Legislature giving effect to the agreement. The memorandum of the agreement is merely a skeleton or basis of the agreement to be prepared by act of the Legislature. D. Mann came armed with a resolution of his board of directors authorizing him to close and sign an agreement on the spot, but the Government, wisely, I think, decided to take time to thoroughly thresh out the details with the electorate and the Legislature before binding itself, except on the general lines to which both the C. N. R. and the Government are now committed."

Again, (Oct. 30): "My own impression is that they (the C. N. R.) will not build without the guarantee, and that the risk of indefinitely hanging up the building of the line is too great to take any chances by defeating the government's policy."

It will be noticed from the election returns that the people took Bruce's sane advice rather than his subsequent clucking. Fool politicians make fool newspapers, allright; but fool newspapers do not make fool voters.

SATISFIED TO QUIT

Mr. John Oliver, leader of the Opposition in last Thursday's election, has, according to the coast papers, retired from political life. Speaking over the long distance 'phone from his Ladner home, the Liberal leader said: "The leadership of the party was forced on me when Mr. MacDonald resigned. I did not seek that honor. From this time I am out of politics. After yesterday, I will be merely a spectator in the political game."

PRIZES WON AT SPOKANE FAIR

The great Apple Show at Spokane this year is way and far ahead of the first Apple Show, held last year, and the competition is very much keener, in ever line. However, British Columbia is doing very well, and the Okanagan, while not winning anything like the number of prizes that were awarded Mr. DeHart last year, is not doing so badly. The prizes coming this way were awarded as follows:

Kelowna, 7 firsts and 7 seconds.
Vernon, 7 firsts and 5 seconds.
Nelson, 5 firsts and 7 seconds.
Kaslo, 1 first and 2 seconds.
Salmon Arm, 2 firsts and 1 second
Spence's Bridge, 2 firsts, 1 second.
Carson, 1 first and 1 second.
Arrow Lakes, 2 seconds.

Making a total of 25 firsts and 29 seconds which were captured by this Province. This will in all probability be augmented by many more prizes, as the awards were not all made at the time the above list was given to the public.

At the request of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce, President Taft was presented with a box of Northern Spies from the Cold Stream Ranch, while five boxes of the same variety were sent to King Edward from the Vernon Board of Trade exhibit. In the ten boxes which were selected to be sent to the Mikado of Japan, says the News, two boxes—1 Gravenstein and 1 Northern Spies—were chosen from the Vernon exhibit.

IN BUSINESS IN VANCOUVER

In another column will be found an announcement of the new business undertaking entered into by Mr. Basil Gardom, in conjunction with his brother at Vancouver. The firm of Ceperley, Rounsefell & Co., with whom they are associated, is one of the first real estate companies in the city of Vancouver, and for years has been recognized as the most reliable, and the many friends of Mr. Gardom in this vicinity will be pleased to learn of the favorable auspices under which he enters business in the Canadian Liverpool of the West. Mr. Gardom's experience in the Okanagan should make him a valuable man for us in Vancouver, and we believe he will do much business for us, in the way of promoting the right kind of deals for this end of the Valley for nobody knows better than he the almost unlimited opportunities offering here to the right kind of people. We join with the hosts of friends of Mr. and Mrs. Gardom, in wishing them unlimited success and happiness in their new home.

TRINITY VALLEY BRIDGE

F. H. Barnes made an examination of the proposed bridge sites for the Trinity Valley road, the past week, and has submitted his report to the Board of Trade. A special meeting will be called to consider the report, subject to which the report is being withheld. It is understood, however, that Mr. Barnes found an exceptionally fit site, with easy approaches on either side of the river, and he estimates the cost of the bridge will be less than $5,000. This virtually is an assurance that the Government will build the bridge the coming season, if not this, for Premier McBride has given his word that if a site could be found where the cost of a bridge would be materially less than the estimate previously made by the government engineer, $18,000, the matter would receive his personal attention.

BEFORE AND AFTER

Just stop and consider what the statesmanlike policy of John Oliver means to the people of Okanagan Lake and Okanagan Xalley. By following this Hope tunnel route it would shorten the present C. P. R. route by 233 miles, and that proposed by McBride by 172 miles. The McBride proposed route only shortens the present route by 61 miles. It would mean, too, that the Province would control absolutely the rates over the various railways using Hope tunnel, because running rights will be given to all comers.—Vernon Okanagan.

And yet some will ask, Who killed Cock Robin !

WINTER FLOWERS

Everyone appreciates the beauty of flowering bulbs in the fall and winter but so many fail to prepare for the future in time. It is a very easy matter to have the house full of bloom throughout the dull season, and every lover of flowers should appreciate this fact. Particular attention is drawn to this matter in the advertising of M. J. Henry, the pioneer nurseryman of Vancouver, and all should avail themselves of the opportunity to get bulbs underway before the winter sets in in earnest.

BAPTIST MISSIONS

Rev. H. G. Estabrook, says the Summerland Review, has received the appointment of Superintendent of Baptist Missions for B. C., in the place of Rev. D. E. Hatt, who recently resigned. He will divide his attention between the interests of the churches and Okanagan College. Last Sunday Mr. Estabrook wound up his connection with the Baptist church of Summerland, greatly to the regret of the members ol the Baptist congregation.

VANCOUVER'S PROSPERITY

Magnificent Offices for Vancouver Corporation

Vancouver's commercial progress is aptly illustrated by the growth and prosperity of her financial institutions. Changes are being made on every hand, and office accommodation that was more than adequate a year ago, is now discarded as being insufficient to handle the volume of business transacted. Among those recently installed in new quarters is the Dominion Stock and Bond Corporation of Vancouver, Ltd., whose premises rank with the finest in Western Canaha.

These new offices are exceptionally spacious, and impress the visitor at once with a sense of architectural substantiality and munificence: the high ceilings make for an abundance of light and air; the floors of polished hardwood; the counters and interior fittings of massive quartered-oak, and the electric fixtures of polished brass richly designed and carefully executed

The location is most sentral, being in the recently completed Winch Building, directly next door to Vancouver' snew postpffice, on Hastings street.

The corporation carries on a large general real estate, financial and insurance business. They buy and sell realty of all kinds, purchase agreements of sale, make loans, collect rents, and engage in company promotion. They have extensive connections in the Old Country. The office staff is composed of capable and reliable men whose thorough knowledge of the intricate details of real estate, financial and insurance business quo.lfies them to serve clients advantageously and thoroughly.

It is the purpose of the Dominion Stock and Bond Corporation of Vancouver, Ltd., to erect a modern ten-story brick and stone office building in a central location on Hastings Street, and arrangements are being made to rush the work to completion A number of representative business men are interested in this enterprise, which will add abother imposing structure to Vancouver's rapidly-growing list of sky-scrapers.

GRADE "A" CERTIFICATE

This is to certify that I have inspected the premises and herd of Mr. A- McQuarrie, the herd consisting of 30 head of cattle, and find the same to be in a healshy condition. Each animal in the herd has been tested for tuberculosis withing six months of this date and declared free of that disease. The premises are in a sanitary condition within the meaning of the Regulations of the Provincial Board of Health governing the sale of milk and the management of dairies, cow sheds and milk shops.

CUT OUT

"You're late to-night," remarked the younger Miss Patch, as her sister dropped into a chair and began to draw out her hatpins.

"Been extra busy," replied the elder girl. "I—— Why, what's the matter with mother?"

Mrs. Patch, seated by the window, delivered herself of an indignant sniff, and intimated her conviction that, of all the impident young 'ussies that ever lived, that there Hannie was the very worst!

"What have you been doing to her?" queried the elder Miss Patch, taking off her hat.

Miss Annie rose from her chair, and, gracefully crooking her right arm, walked mincingly across the room in a fashion intended to represent the action of a bridegroom leading his bride away from the altar.

"We're going to have a new pa!" said the sprightly girl, when her progress was interfered with the wall.

"What!" exclaimed her sister, staring at her in blank amazement.

"I say we're going to have a new pa," repeated Annie, resuming her seat, and folding her arms with a truculent flourish. "She"—indicating her mother by a little jerk of her head—"has made all the necessary arrangements."

"Why, mother," said her elder daughter, in a tone of horror, "you don't really mean to say that it's true?"

"True?" cried Mrs. Patch hotly. "Of course it's true! Why shouldn't it be?"

Miss Mary Patch, without replying, gazed at her parent fixedly for a while.

"Who is it, mother?" she said at last.

"Find out!" snapped Mrs. Patch.

"That's just what I'm trying to do," answered Mary, with a sarcastic smile. "Surely it isn't that wretched little Hinks?"

Mrs. Patch, without deigning to reply, marched out of the room.

The two girls stared at one another in disgust for a while, and then the younger one expressed the opinion that her sister's shot at the gentleman's identity had hit the mark.

"I've often wondered why he came hanging about here such a lot," she added.

"Well, so have I," said Mary; "although, to tell you the truth, I—I——"

"You what?" queried Annie, as she hesitated.

"I thought he was coming after me," she confessed, with a slight accession of color. "The nasty, blushing, stammering, fat little wretch!"

She broke off suddenly, walked to the window, and gazed out at the darkening street with an air of deep abstraction.

Then suddenly she uttered an exclamation of annoyance, and began to let down the window-blind.

"Daddy's coming up the street, with his best clothes on, and a rose the size of a cauliflower in his buttonhole!" she announced, with a vicious little laugh.

"What, Hinks?" said Annie, snatching a box of matches off the mantelpiece and lighting the gas. "Then that settles it," she continued, as her sister nodded in reply. "He's the man, sure enough!"

She picked up a book from the table, pushed a wicker-chair as far into the corner of the room as it would go, seated herself, and began to read with great energy.

Mary, fidgeting about the room, with a mysterious little smile on her face, seemed to be listening for something.

There came a nervous, uncertain knock at the front door, and Mary tripped away to answer it.

"Mother'll be here in a minute, Mr. Hinks," she said, leading the visitor in, and smiling upon him sweetly. "Annie, tell mother that Mr. Hinks has come."

"Moth-e!" Annie yelled. "Here's Mr. Hinks!"

"Fine evenin'?" said the gentleman, plumping into a chair, and wiping his moist bald head with a huge pocket-handerchief.

"Beautiful," replied Miss Patch.

A fleeting look of mischief flickered in her eyes for an instant as she glanced at the student in the corner, but when she turned to Mr. Hinks again her expression was entirely soulful.

"I was watching the sunset lig' die out of the sky, when I saw you turn into the street," she murmured, looking shyly at the toe of her right boot.

"Was you really?" said Mr. Hinks, running the hankerchief round the lining of his hat.

"And—and I thinking," she continued, "how sweet it would be if only one could spread one's wings and fly after it!"

"It would indeed," agreed Mr. Hinks.

"I often feel like that," proceeded Miss Patch, after giving vent to a tiny, fluttering sigh. "Mother says I'm too romantic, but I dare say she was the same when she was my age. Are you romantic, Mr. Hinks?"

"I—I 'ardly know,' 'stammered Mr. Hinks nervously.

"Oh, it's you, is it?" said Mrs. Patch, entering the room, with a tablecloth tucked under one arm, and a tray loaded with supper materials in her hands. "I thought I knoo the knock!"

She was apparently on the point of saying something else; but, catching sight of her elder daughter's attitude, she checked herself and compressed her lips.

Miss Patch, with a knee clasped between her interlaced fingers, was eyeing Mr. Hinks with a look of rapt admiration.

"P'r'aps you'll 'elp me with these 'ere supper things!" snapped her mother, after a momentary pause. "Now, now, be careful!" she continued sharply, as the girl essayed to take the tray from her with one hand. "Do you want to let the 'ole blessed lot down?"

"I wasn't thinking what I was doing," apologized Mary, with an air of detachment.

"You very rarely are!" declared her mother, with great tartness. "Now, then, where are you a-going to with that tray?"

The absent-minded Mary, well on her way towards the kitchen, turned back with a little laugh.

"I don't know what's wrong with me to-night," she remarked. "I was thinking we'd finished supper."

"Annie," commanded Mrs. Patch, "you come 'ere and 'elp me. This sister of yourn has gone loony!"

"No, I haven't," said Miss Patch as she relinquished the tray to the younger girl. "I'm only—"

"Only what?" inquired her mother disagreeably, as she came to a halt.

"Oh, nothing!" she answered, sitting down and heaving another sigt.

She looked coyly at Mr. Hinks, smiled confidentially, and said to him:

"I saw you as I was coming home to-night."

"Did you?" replied Mr. Hinks, with a note of awakening tenderness in his voice.

"You didn't see me, though," continued Miss Patch reproachfully

Mr. Hinks, unable to deny the soft impeachment, intimated his intention of keeping a better look-out in future.

"Ah, I dare say," answered Miss Patch, "you'd have seen me fast enough if I'd been mother!"

Mr. Hinks, with a side-glance at the ample proportions of Mrs. Patch, checked himself on the verge of the remark that it would be difficult to do otherwise, and substituted a statement to the effect that he must have been unusually busy at the time.

With an amount of enterprise foreign to his everyday character, he tilted his chair back on to its hind legs, and shyly wriggled it in the direction of his companion.

Miss Patch, with faint traces of a smile about the corners of her mouth, executed a similar manoeuvre, and so maintained the distance between them.

"I'm afraid you're not to be trusted," she remarked, with a fascinating air of defiance.

"Yes, I am," protested Mr. Hinks, blushing again so uproariously that some polished tin canisters on the mantelpiece caught the glow and shone redly.

"Ah, I don't know!" said Miss Patch, wagging her head at him sceptically. "I should like to have been able to hear all that you were saying to that Mrs.—er—Mrs. Blowman!"

"All that I said to 'er," declared Mr. Hinks, with intense earnestness, "was——"

"Supper's ready!" announced Mrs. Patch, from the other side of the room, in a voice that suggested that vinegar would enter largely into the composition of the meal.

"Oh, 'bother supper!" said Miss Patch, crossing her feet, clasping her hands behind her head, and gazing wistfully at the ceiling. "I don't want any."

"Well, don't 'ave any, then!" said her mother.

"I'm not going to," she answered quietly. "I shall go out for a stroll in the moonilght while you're eating yours!"

"No, you won't," asserted her mother, with great firmness. "You stay where you are, miss!"

Mr. Hinks, after a nervous glance at his hostess, intimated that if lack of an escort was all that stood in the way, he was prepared to take the role upon himself.

"But what about your supper?" said Miss Patch, rising to her feet with almost unmaidenly alacrity.

"I—I don't care much about it," replied the gentleman hastily. "I 'ad tea rather late!"

"Then if mother doesn't mind—" began Miss Patch demurely.

The younger Miss Patch looked at her mother in mock sympathy as the front door closed with a gentle slam, and remarked that it was too bad of Mary.

"What's too bad?" replied Mrs. Patch, blowing thoughtfully at a steaming cup of cocoa.

"Why, going on with him like that!" said Annie, wrestling with a grin.

"Is it?" said Mrs. Patch abstractedly, as she took a series of noisy sips.

"I suppose you won't have any more to do with him after this?" continued Annie.

"'Im? What, Hinks?" said Mrs. Patch, with the air of one coming suddenly out of a brown study. "And why not?"

The astounded Annie uttered a gasp of surprise, and sat staring in open-mouthed silence at her mother.

"What's it got to do with me?" continued Mrs. Patch. "It's no business of mine, is it, if she likes to make a fool of him?"

"And you're still going to marry him?" faltered her daughter.

"Marry 'im!" cried Mrs. Patch. "Marry Hinks! Why, the girl's mad!"

"B-but you said you were!" stammered Annie.

"That I never did!" returned Mrs. Patch fiercely. "How dare you sit there and tell me such an untruth?"

"I mean, we thought you were," said Annie helplessly.

"Ho!" laughed her mother scornfully. "You did, did you? I see the little game now. Perhaps it'll interest you, my lady, to 'ear that it's Mr. Franks as I'm going to marry. He'll be round 'ere tomorrow night. If your sister's busy with Mr. Hinks, maybe you'd like to try your 'and on 'im. Don't go too far, though, for I might box your ears!"—London Answers.

MEAT AND STATURE.

An Authority Gives Reasons for Beef-Eating in Japan.

Japan's belief in the virtues of a meat diet, which has taken the head of the Japanese Government Cattle-breeding Department to England to purchase stock cattle, has aroused the indignation of British vebetarians, is part of the movement for the Europeanization of the land of the Rising Sun.

"In a few years the better classes in Japan will be living and eating in European fashion," said a well-known authority on Japan. "Already many wealthy Japanese have two houses, often side by side, a Japanese house in which they live as their fathers lived, and a European house in which their children are fed, educated, and clothed in European fashion. In the latter house the children are encouraged to sit on chairs, eat meat with knives and forks, and talk English. The result will soon be seen in the improvement of the physique of the next generation. The movement receives the support of the Emperor.

"There can be no doubt that a meat diet adds to the stature of the Japanese, though it may not increase their wonderful powers of endurance. The wrestlers of Japan, who are huge mountains of bone and muscle, are all fed on beef and other meats."

THE KING'S GRAPES.

The Yield of the Famous Vine at Windsor.

The famous old vine near Cumberland Lodge, Windsor Great Park, in which the King and Queen and members of the Royal Family take much interest, is bearing over 500 splendid bunches of Black Hamburg grapes this year, many of the bunches being well over four pounds in weight.

Formerly the great vine, which is nearly 140 years old, yielded over 1,400 bunches, but the King's gardener has reduced the number in late years. Last year about 800 bunches were cut for the royal tables. The quality of the grapes this season is finer than ever.

The Princess of Wales and some of her children recently visited the vinery, and her Royal Highness expressed her admiration of the old vine, which is 120 feet in length, 20 feet wide, and covers a roof area of 2,400 feet.

The grapes are preferred by the King and Queen to any in the royal gardens, and they are always forwarded to their Majesties wherever the latter are staying.

Give a woman plenty of rope and she will hang—her washing on it.

FROM PAIN TO PLEASURE

SHOWING THE EXEREMES OF LIFE IN ONE DAY.

A Visitor to Jamaica Tells of Sad Scenes and Pleasant Days.

Once I saw the extremes of human pain and pleasure in a single day.

In the morning I breakfasted with the medical officer in charge of the leper asylum at Spanish Town, in Jamaica, and afterwards accompanied him on his rounds through that institution. All lepers in the colony are segregated there, unless their friends can guarantee effective private isolation to the authorities, says a writer in London Answers.

When we entered the gates, two little mulatto girls—dusky, lively children of five or six—ran up to us, laughing merrily. One caught hold of the doctor's arm, and gave him a bunch of white jessamine she had picked in the garden. Evidently he was a great favorite.

"Good-morning, Mabel!" he said. "See what I've got in my pocket!"

She dived her little hand in, and found some sweets. Then they both scampered away, triumphant.

CHILD-LEPERS!

"Are they——" I began; but I could not speak the word of them.

"Yes, they are lepers, and by law they must be confined here." His face grew very stern and thoughtful. "It is hard to see men and women day by day dragging out this most miserable of lives. But to see these young children stamped with the same curse, and to know that in time they, too, will become ghastly parodies of humanity——! Unless we can discover the cure. I have been experimenting on them with a serum I prepared, but the results, so far, are not conclusive."

We went into the pretty, flower-bedecked chapel—the gift of an English lady who happened to visit the settlement when touring in Jamaica. A negress was kneeling before the altar in silent prayer. The hands she clasped were almost destitute of fingers; her upturned face, though terribly mutilated by the progress of the leprosy, had the spiritual beauty of one who walks among things unseen.

"She was a deeply religious girl when she came here," the doctor whispered, as we went out into the burning sunshine "and she has never changed."

DRAGGLING OUT LIFE.

We walked about the grounds, and chatted with many of the inmates, who seemed pleased to see a visitor—a rare sight in a place which the natives cannot even speak without shuddering.

Some showed hardly any signs of the disease; others had lost almost every outward trace of manhood. But there was no distinction between them; they all talked, worked, or played together freely, for all were lepers. What the worst were the others would become, unless from some other cause death intervened. Leprosy, unfortunately, does not kill.

The doctor told me that he had known lepers die of old age, and I saw more than one man there over seventy, and an old woman nearly eighty. Some had been in the place the greater part of their lives.

"Is there much pain this morning?" the doctor asked of one very bad case.

"The pain never seems quite to leave me now," was the patient answer, as the man went on deftly weaving a basket; "but it is a bit easier."

In most cases there is, fortunately, no very acute pain—at all events during the greater part of the course of the disease.

But, enough. Everything that could be done to brighten the lives of the wretched dwellers in this house of pity and of pain was done by the Government and by private charity, yet some of the things I saw there cannot be written down.

On the afternoon of that same day I went to a garden-party, given by Lady H——, the Governor's wife, in the beautiful grounds of King's House—an earthly paradise which would be hard to beat even in the tropics.

Wandering along narrow, moss-covered pathways, between huge masses of blosom-laden bushes, and trees covered with wondrous orchids, talking the while of "home" with a sweet-faced girl, who still had the English bloom on her cheeks, and the English energy in her manner, it was hard to realize that, only a few hours before, and a few miles away, I had witnessed sights that would have saddened her young life for many a day, perhaps for ever.

WHERE IGNORANCE IS BLISS.

"What a delightful land this is!" she exclaimed, as she buried her face in a great cluster of the roses that rioted in color all around us. "How happy all the people seem to be—even the poorest of the negroes!"

I responded to her mood, and did my best to make her afternoon enjoyable. She laughed like a happy child at the absurd antics of a few of us in an impromptu burlesque of a gymkhana on the tennis-lawn. She delighted in talking to mild-mannered, sun-tanned men, who had been in wild places and done bloody deeds, which they carefully sub-edited for her benefit.

She inspected with reverent awe the treasures of King's House, with its relics of by-gone naval heroes who made the Empire. She felt, like Charles Kingsley when he visited the West Indies, that all the beauty and glamor and romance she had read about and dreamed about had come into her life at last. I do not think I ever saw man or woman more frankly, gloriously happy than she was that afternoon. The English reserve, the society manner, were completely forgotten for once.

"Well, dear child," said her hostess, when at length she regretfully said good-bye, "I hope you have had a nice time!"

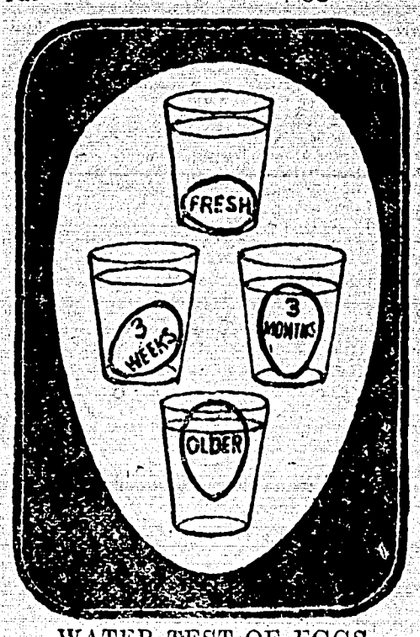
"Oh, it is all perfectly heavenly!" she sighed. "I wish I could stay in Jamaica for ever! Everything is so beautiful here, and everyone is so happy!"

Lady H——, who was herself a ministering angel among the poor and the sick and the outcast, smiled sadly at me.

TEST FOR EGGS.

Place One in a Glass of Water and Observe Its Position.

Placed in the water an egg if fresh will remain resting at the bottom of the vessel; if not quite fresh it will rest with the big end raised higher than the small end, and the higher the big end is raised the older is the egg.



WATER TEST OF EGGS.

As an egg gets older, says the Spatula, the water contained in the white of an egg evaporates, and this causes the empty space at the thick end of every egg to become enlarged. The larger that empty space becomes the more the egg rises in the water, till in course of time it floats.

THEIR BROTHERS' KEEPERS.

Chinese procedure in criminal matters is distinctly interesting. Every man is held responsible for any crime he has personally committed; but, if he prefers it, the criminal can take his punishment by proxy. If a man commits a murder, and flies the country, no serious attempt is made to pursue him. Instead, the law comes down on any convenient member of his family who has remained in the neighborhood, and punishes that member in lieu of the real culprit. To Western ways of thinking, this may appear rather an old proceeding; but, as the Chinese religion inflicts everlasting torments on the soul of the man who deserts his family in the hour of need, the system is not without its merits. Anyway, the scheme works well in practice, and the fugitive is generally sufficiently honorable to return in time.

THE MINER'S V. C.

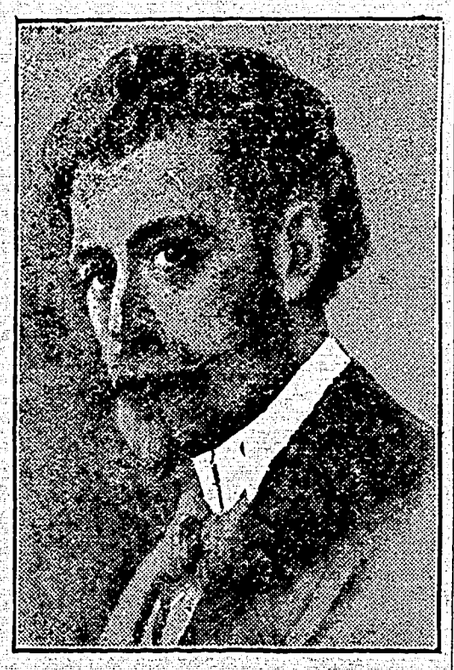
Just as there is a Victoria Cross for brave soldiers, so there is an Edward Cross for heroes of the mine. This was instituted two years ago, and shows on one side a King Edward head, and on the other a miner succoring his fainting mate. Struck in silver, the miner's medal is attached to a dark-blue ribbon with a yellow edge, and is a prize coveted by every hardy pitman in Great Britain

Can This Man Read Your Life?

The rich, poor, exalted and humble seek his advice on Business, Marriage, Friends, Enemies, Changes, Speculation, Love Affairs, Journeys, and all events of Life.

MANY SAY HE REVEALS THEIR LIVES WITH AMAZING ACCURACY.

Free test Readings will be sent for a short time to all our Readers.



Has the veil of mystery that has so long shrouded the ancient sciences been raised at last? Can it be that a system has been perfected that reveals with reasonable accuracy the character and disposition of an individual, and so outlines the life as to assist in avoiding errors and taking advantage of opportunities?

Roxroy, a man who has for twenty years been delving into the mysteries of the occult, making a scientific study of the various methods of reading the lives of people, seems to have reached a higher round in the ladder of fame than his predecessors. Letters are pouring into his office from all parts of the world telling of the benefits derived from his advice. Many of his patrons look upon him as a man gifted with some strange, mysterious power, but he modestly asserts that what he accomplishes is due alone to an understanding of natural laws.

He is a man of kindly feeling toward humanity, and his manner and tone immediately impress one with his sincere belief in his work. A huge stack of grateful letters from people who have received readings from him adds to other convincing proof as to his ability. Even Astrologers and Palmists admit that his system surpasses anything yet introduced.

The Rev. G. C. H. Hasskarl, Ph.D of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, in a letter to Prof. Roxroy, says:—"You are certainly the greatest specialist and master of your profession. Everyone consulting you will marvel at the correctness of your detailed personal readings and advice. The most sceptical will consult you again and again after corresponding with you once."

If you wish to take advantage of Roxroy's generous offer and obtain a free reading, send your date, month and year of birth, state whether Mr., Mrs. or Miss, and also copy the following verse in your own handwriting:—

I have heard of your power
To read people's lives,
And would ask what for me
You have to advise?

Be sure to give your correct name and address and write plainly. Send your letter to ROXROY, Dept. 37, No. 177a Kensington High-street, London, W., England. If you wish, you may enclose 10 cents (Canadian stamps) to pay postage, clerical work, etc. Do not enclose coins or silver in letters.

HELPLESS.

"How's your husband now?"

"Poor man, he's laid up at home with acute rheumatism. All he is able to do now is mind the baby, chop the wood, answer the door bell, an' run errands."

A Thorough Pill.—To clear the stomach and bowels of impurities and irritants is necessary when their action is irregular. The pills that will do this work thoroughly are Parmelee's Vegetable Pills, which are mild in action but mighty in results. They purge painlessly and effectively, and work a permanent cure. They can be used without fear by the most delicately constituted, as there are no painful effects preceding their gentle operation.

CHARACTER BY THE FACE.

Classify Them According to Their Outlines.

In judging the character from the face it is well, first of all, to understand that physiognomists can only reveal tendency; they cannot foretell positive actions.

To read faces the best method is to begin by classifying them according to their outlines, as certain characteristics are ninety-nine times out of a hundred the accompaniment of each class.

According to the text-books, women with the perfectly oval face are tall and of elegant figure, generally, but not always, dark-eyed, energetic, and possess strong individual characteristics. They are firm and self-reliant, and usually constant in friendship and love. They are often leaders, and are enthusiasts apt to be carried away by the power of their own imagination. Frequently the oval-faced woman becomes an actress of great renown. For example, Bernhardt, Duse, and Mary Anderson.

When the face describes a circle there is corresponding breadth and thickness of limbs and body. The complexion is usually florid and the hair and coloring light brown, not often dark, especially the skin.

Round-faced women may be usually read as versatile, impulsive, ardent, and with great elasticity of spirits. The round-faced woman is more inclined to be fickle than her sister of the oval contour.

Where you see a woman with a face which forms a perfect round make a mental note to this effect: A cheerful, loving, and amiable nature, not much persistence, apt to be brilliant rather than thorough, companionable, and unselfish.

The pyriform face is commonly called pear-shaped because its outlines do resemble the shape of a pear. Nine out of ten women with pear-shaped faces have high foreheads, pale complexions, and delicately chiselled features. They are rarely strong women physically, often have delicate chests and slender, stem-like necks. They generally have shining eyes and an abundance of soft, fine, silky hair. They are mentally very alert, quick and ne vous, acutely sensitive. This is the literary, artistic, and poetic type.

Women with the temperament belonging to the pyriform face are rarely willing to settle down to the joys of domesticity. They belong to the public and to the world of art and poetry.

ROBBERY THE MOTIVE.

Austrian Boarding House Was a Death Trap for Lodgers.

One of the most sensational cases which Vienna has ever known has been brought to light by the arrest of Frau Kobovsky on suspicion of having committed five murders.

Frau Kobovsky, who is a widow forty-three years of age, kept a boarding house. Two of her lodgers died in the house four years ago, and she was sentenced to two years' imprisonment for stealing their property. When she came out of prison she resumed the boarding house, and three more lodgers died in it last year.

Recently another lodger told the police that Frau Kobovsky tried to push him into the Danube, and then gave him poisoned wine during an excursion.

The police have discovered that all the five lodgers, who died were rich and elderly, and their bodies will be exhumed and examined.

Small Lilian's father was very homely, and one day she said: "Mamma, why did you marry papa?" "Because I loved him, dear," was the reply. "Mamma," continued Lilian, "love will make us women do anything, won't it?"

"My dear," said the banker to his only daughter, "I have noticed a young man attired in a dress suit in the drawing-room two or three evenings each week of late. What is his occupation?" "He is at present unemployed, father," replied the fair girl, a dreamy, far-away look in her big blue eyes; "but he is thinking seriously of accepting a position as life-companion to a young lady of means."

NOT ROMANCE.

"Yes, her husband left her suddenly seven years ago, and every night she puts a lighted candle in the window to guide him to the door."

"How sentimental!"

"Well, not exactly. She puts the candle there so she can see to hit him with the club she keeps on the window ledge."

HUNTING FOR BIG GAME.

The Highlands of Ontario is an ideal spot for the sportsman during the open hunting season for big game. In the Temagami region moose are plentiful and may be killed during the period from October 16th to November 15th. This territory is a forest preserve of vast expanse, and in addition to being the hunter's paradise, its waters abound with game fish of many species. The home of the red deer is located somewhat to the south of Temagami, particularly in the districts known as "Muskoka Lakes," "Lake of Bays," "Maganetawan River," "Lake Nipissing," and "Kawartha Lakes" territories.

Write to J. D. McDonald, District Passenger Agent, Toronto, for a copy of "Haunts of Fish and Game," issued by the Grand Trunk Railway System which fully describes the hunting territories reached by this line, giving game laws, maps and all information.

"Grandfather, I know what I shall give you for your birthday—a nice meerschum pipe." "That's good of you, my dear, but I already have one." "That is to say, grandpa, you did have one. I've just broken it."

Attacks of cholera and dysentery come quickly, there seldom being any warning of the visit. Remedial action must be taken just as quickly if the patient is to be spared great suffering and permanent injury to the lining membranes of the bowels. The readiest preparation for the purpose is Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial. It can be got at small cost at any drug store or g neral dealers, and it will afford relief before a doctor can be called.

The man who is satisfied to merely "get along" in this world mustn't grumble if his neighbor insists on earning enough to travel in style.

INFORMATION WANTED about the man who has never heard of Painkiller. Sold for over 60 years. Is the best remedy for cramps, colic and dysentery, and unequalled as a liniment for cuts and wounds. Avoid substitutes, there is but one "Painkiller"—Perry Davis'—25c. and 50c.

Some men are too lazy to complain if they can't find work.

After making a most careful study of the matter, U. S. Government scientists state definitely that the common house fly is the principal means of distributing typhoid fever, diphtheria and smallpox. Wilson's Fly Pads kill the flies and the disease germs, too.

OUT OF THE ORDINARY.

Harker—"Brady's wife is the most intellectual woman I ever met."

Parker—"Indeed"

Harker—"Yes. Why, she can actually tell what time a railway train arrives or departs by consulting the time table."

THE REASON.

Little Blanche—"At the party a little girl fell off a chair. All the other girls laughed; but I didn't."

Mamma—"Well, why didn't you laugh?"

"Cause I was the one that fell off."

RATHER EMBARRASSING.

"That Englishman is a funny chap," remarked the hat salesman in the big hotel; "he hasn't been out of his room to-day."

"No, he is victim of circumstances," confided the coffee salesman.

"Victim of circumstances?"

"Yes, he put his shoes outside his door last night, according to the English custom, and somebody threw them at a cat down the areaway."

A Pleasant Purgative.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are so compounded as to operate on both the stomach and the bowels, so that they act along the whole alimentary and excretory passage. They are not drastic in their work, but mildly purgative, and the pleasure of taking them is only equalled by the gratifying effect they produce. Compounded only of vegetable substances the curative qualities of which were fully tested, they afford relief without chance of injury.

HOPEFUL.

Mrs. Newed—"Mamma says she does not think we will ever quarrel as she and papa do."

Mr. Newed—"Never, dearest."

"No; she says you will be much easier to manage than papa was."

If allowed to roam over your house those few innocent-looking house flies may cause a real tragedy any day, as they are known to be the principal agents for the spread of those deadly diseases, typhoid fever, diphtheria and smallpox. No other fly killer compares with Wilson's Fly Pads.

THE DIFFERENCE.

"Some men are so unreasonable," sighed Mrs. Scolder.

"Yes, and all women are," replied Scolder quickly.

Something that Should be Rubbed In.—Whenever pain is felt in the limbs or back, take Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil; pour a little in the hand, and applying it to the surface beneath which the pain is, rub briskly. If the first application does not afford relief, which is not usually the case, keep rubbing. The Oil will gradually penetrate to the affected part and relief will come.

Snowslides and High Water

This unhappy combination prevented the arrival of the English Grand Opera Singers, Tuesday morning, and the music lovers of Enderby and vicinity were cheated out of the Big musical event of the season. C. P. Walker, of Winnipeg, is sending some very fine entertainments through the west, and the English opera singers are one of the best. A splendid advance sale had been made, and everything pointed to a big house. But a snowslide and high water has demoralized traffic on the C. P. R. and no trains are expected from Vancouver for three days. The opera singers were tied up at Vancouver. A despatch was sent from Vancouver on Monday, stating that the company would not be able to get through, but the wires were down and the despatch did not reach Enderby until 7 o'clock Tuesday evening. By this time the performance had already been cancelled by Mr. Reeves.

To offset the disappointment, we are to be given "As You Like It," next Monday evening, Dec. 6th.

Shakespeare's greatest comedy, "As You Like It," is to be given in Enderby by a splendid company. To all lovers of the best in drama it will indeed be a welcome announcement which has just been made by Mr. A. Reeves, to the effect that Mr. C. P. Walker, of Winnipeg, will send his elaborate production of "As You Like It," the most delightful of all of Shakespeare's comedies, to Enderby. The company presenting the play is composed almost entirely of English players, and a really intellectual and finished performance is assured. Mr. Walker has had two sets of scenery constructed for the play, one to be used in such theatres as his own beautiful Walker in Winnipeg, and the other, an exact reproduction of the larger set, to be used on the smaller town stages, so that we can be assured of a perfect scenic equipment. The costumes are new and rich and add greatly to the beauty of the performance. William Yule a comedian well known to the theatre-goers of the west, has been especially engaged for the role of "Touchstone," a part in which he has no superior among the comedians of today. As the world views the struggles of the modern poet and playwright, it is forced to stand in breathless awe before the memory of William Shakespeare, the inspired genius whose equal will never be known. In one play, "As You Like It," the student may find a quotation suitable to almost any occasion, and couched in such beautiful terms that it rolls from the tongue like the ripple of a moonbeam. Not only does this comedy appeal to the literary minded, but as a comedy it interests the lover of the humorous, and its story holds the attention of those desiring dramatic situations and suspense. "As You Like It," is a play for the teacher, for the student; a play for the philosopher and the amusement seeker. It pleases the ear of the poet and delights the eye of the artist. It is the nearest play to the ideal in drama that was ever constructed. Seat sale at Reeves' drug store.

BORDEN IS PLEASED

Speaking of Premier McBride's victory, 'the morning after' R. L. Borden said to The Province's Ottawa correspondent:

"Mr. McBride's magnificent victory seems to have been more sweeping and complete than either party anticipated. It must have been a very great satisfaction to him that his administration and policy have received so thorough an indorsement from the people of British Columbia. I had much pleasure in sending him a telegram of congratulations this morning."

MILK VS. BEEFSTEAK

Chief Commissioner of Dairying for the Dominion, says in his report to the Dominion government, that milk at 12c a quart is equal in food value to one pound of beef steak at the prevailing price. In other words, if we had to pay 12c a quart for milk such as the Glengarrack Dairy delivers in Enderby, it would be as cheap in food value as beefsteak at 15c a pound.

The purest milk, seaved in airtight, sterilized bottles, place an order with the Glen Gerrack dairy
