AND WALKER'S WEEKLY

Vol. 2, No. 47, Whole No. 99

WITH THE CURLERS

The past two weeks of curling has brought the contests to a point where the interest in the games is intense, not only to the rinks engaged, but to the players in the rinks preceding and following the nightly games. When the contest started on schedule time, the rinks were as evenly balanced as it was possible to pick them, but as some take to the stanes nat'l lak, an' some d' na' the winning rinks are gradually pulling to the front. There is ample time for all the rinks to win or lose yet, and there will not be any slackening of interest in the contest until the last stone of the season is thrown.

Following is the standing of the rinks:

Perhaps the most pleasing feature of the season's play thus far, is the splendid spirit shown by Skip Matthews and his rink. They have worked harder and played as well as any rink on the ice to make the season's sport a success, and yet have lost every game. Undaunted, however, they are on the spot for every scheduled game, and make the rinks that beat them "go some."

Interest in the game has this week been transferred to Vernon, where two Enderby rinks are competing in the bonspiel.

Mr. Guy L. Williams went to Kelowna last week to attend a meeting of the Okanagan Valley surveyors. Several questions of interest were discussed, and among other things it was decided to adopt the same schedule of rates as prevail on the coast.

Gus Schultz returned from his Alberta visit on Tuesday morning. Mrs. Schultzy will follow about the 1st of March.

VISITING CURLERS FETED

Thos. McCosh, R. J. McKay, A. M. Leith and B. Cumming, the Ashcroft curling enthusiasts who made a trip through the Okanagan Valley last week, were royally entertained while in Enderby by the local players. In the afternoon of last Wednesday, Skip Leith showed our Enderby shooters how the game is played at Ashcroft, winning by a score of 9 to 12. Up to the eighth end our players could not break through their guard, and never made a count. The visitors played as pretty a game as one could wish to see. In the evening the visitors were shown how Enderby plays the game and lost by a score of 9 to 2—or thereabouts. The straight and heavy shooting—when it was needed—by the home rink was an eye opener to the Ashcrofters, and while they did not particularly enjoy the sensation, they looked pleasant, and confined their expressions to Scotch smiles and rosy warblings of the heather tongue. One would not think Mr. McCosh is as Scotchie as he looks, if he were to be taken by the name, but when he gets his hand on the "stanes"—oh, my, oh, my! After the game, the visitors were taken to the King Edward where Mr. Murphy had prepared a spread, and here around the festive board, in turns, out-turns, wicks and runners were all forgotten as the cold turkey and wee schnaps were placed close to the button, mid merry laughter and to the tune of "Auld lang syne."

OLD COUNTRY ELECTIONS

Latest reports from the Mother Land indicate a Liberal majority in the next parliament of from 100 to 150. Hon. Joseph Martin was elected in the contest in St. Pancras East.

CARD OF THANKS

I take this means of expressing my appreciation for the support given me at the recent civic election, and thank all those who cast their vote for me. H. E. BLANCHARD.
Enderby, B.C., Jan. 19, 1910.

Mr. A. A. Faulkner has sold out his entire logging outfit to the Adams River Lumber Co., including horses, camps, supplies, and the contract under which he was working for the company. Mr. Faulkner has been made general superintendent of all logging camps and contracts operated by or for the Company, taking supervision of all the company's operations from the mill to the tree. In his visit home last week, Mr. Faulkner paid $3,000 for additional horses for the company's camps. The Adams River Company has upwards of 300 men in the bush.

A Sunday School teachers' meeting of an undenominational character is to be held tomorrow (Friday) evening in the Baptist church, to which every one interested in Sunday School work is invited. Rev. Mr. Williamson, general superintendent of Sunday school missions in B. C. will address the meeting.

In our report of the winners in the fancy dress carnival given last week at the P. Greyell rink, we were misinformed as to the winners in the ladies' fancy dress. They were: Miss Ethel Ruttan, first; Miss Laura Hill, Armstrong, second.

Mr. and Miss Taylor entertained a number of friends at a whist party in their home last Thursday evening.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE MEETING

The Annual Meeting of the Spallumcheen Farmers' Institute, held last Wednesday at Armstrong, was a pronounced success. Mr. W. P. Horsley was re-elected president, and Mr. J. B. Bird, secretary-treasurer, while the Vice-presidency went to Mr. B. F. Young.

Fifty dollars was donated to the Northern Okanagan Poultry Association, and $50 was given in the way of a tangible recognition of the valuable services rendered by Mr. Bird, as secretary-treasurer.

The following were named as directors: For Armstrong—D. Graham, Capt. Wallace, W. T. Marshall, H. Hawkins. Enderby—R. Waddell, J. Emeny, G. Heggie, E. B. Saltwell. Mara—W. R. Kellet, Wm. Owens, C. W. Little. Salmon Arm—H. L. Pearce, H. Morgan, A. Ferguson. Hulanar—D. Matheson, W. T. Hayhurst, A. Hayhurst.

Donald Matheson, Hulanar, was re-elected delegate to the Central Institute, with instructions to lay before that body: (1) That the government be requested to take steps for the amalgamation of Farmers' Institutes and Agricultural Societies, where fully established. (2) That the bounty on coyotes be increased to $5 per hd. (3) That a bounty of 3 cents per hd. on gophers be instituted to eradicate this pest. (4) To lay before the Central Institute the desirability of dividing the district.

The report of the secretary showed the Institute to be in a most flourishing condition, with a membership of 331 paid up.

ANOTHER ENDERBY-MARA BOOK

Mr. Chas. W. Little is preparing to issue his third booklet on the Mara-Enderby district. It will be, in some respects, a much better booklet for distribution than either of those previously issued. It is his purpose to get the copy in the printer's hands as early as possible, and he is anxious for all Enderby property owners who contemplate listing their property with him, to supply him with the necessary details at once. Mr. Little has recently made Mr. A. L. Matthews his local agent, to look after Enderby property and show to intending buyers any property listed with him. Mr. Matthews will drive anyone interested in seeing a property to it free of charge, and will in other ways enter actively into the work.

ENDERBY BIRTHS

SPEERS—On Thursday, Jan. 13, 1910, to Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Howard Speers, a son.

STEVENS—On Friday, Jan. 14, 1910, to Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stevens, a son.

Married, at the home of the bride's sister, Buffalo, N.Y., on Dec. 29, 1909, by Rev. Dr. Casse, H. Byrnes, of Enderby, B.C., and Mrs. E. A. McLean, of Buffalo, N.Y. Mr. and Mrs. Byrnes arrived in Enderby on Monday, and proceeded at once to their home on the Strickland-Byrnes addition north of the town limits. On Wednesday they left for a brief visit to their son and daughter at New Denver.

Died.—After a lingering illness of some years, Mrs. A. Green, at the family home in Enderby, Saturday, Jan. 15, 1910. Interment took place Tuesday morning at the Lansdowne cemetery, Rev. Mr. Campbell officiating.

WINDING UP A BAD MUSS

A meeting of those interested in the affairs and dealings of the late lamented Armstrong Exchange, was called by Mr. Geo. R. Lawes for last Thursday, at Armstrong, to hear the report of the committee appointed some months ago to investigate the affairs of the Exchange as left by C. D. Ranks, when the Exchange quit business. There was a very fair attendance at the meeting.

Mr. Lawes gave a report of the work of the investigation, with voluminous stenographer's notes of the proceedings of the examination and showing the various names in which the business was conducted. He referred to the recent examination conducted by the Provincial government into the affairs of the recent failure of the Revelstoke exchange, which had cost several times the amount spent in connection with the investigation of the Armstrong affair and with no better results, and he advised that in view of the fact of the destruction of the Calgary & Edmonton Brokerage Co.'s books, and large expense which further investigation would entail, he believed it to be advisable to drop the investigation, unless the creditors and shareholders desired him to push it further. In doing so he thanked Messrs. Marshall and Heard for the able assistance they had rendered him.

Mr. Isaac Heard presented the financial report, showing the total cost of the enquiry to date, including witness fees and travelling expenses, stenographer's work and fees of counsel engaged, would amount to approximately $600.

W. T. Marshall, W. E. Banton, J. M. Wright, and others addressed the meeting.

On suggestion of Frank Young, it was decided to adopt the reports and close the enquiry. A vote of thanks was tendered by the meeting to Messrs. Lawes, Marshall and Heard for the services they had rendered in the matter.

Messrs. H. E. Blanchard and J. C. English have formed a co-partnership, under the firm name of Blanchard & English, and will conduct a general business, as contractors and builders. Both of these gentlemen are well known builders, and we bespeak for them a liberal share of the work to be done in Enderby and the district.

The young ladies of Enderby are giving a fancy dress carnival on the P. Greyell rink next Monday evening. Prizes will be given and refreshments served in aid of the organ fund, in the Greyell cottage next to the rink.

Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Fortune drove to the O'Keefe estate, near Vernon, last week to attend the wedding of Miss Lillian O'Keefe to Dr. Fisch, of Portland, Ore., which took place at the pioneer home of the bride's parents on Monday, Jan. 10th.

The following officers were elected by the Pythian Sisters at the meeting Monday night: P. C., Mrs. J. Jones; M. E. C., Mrs. A. Campbell; E. C., Mrs. J. Evans; E. J., Mrs. J. Folkard; M., Mrs. Wm. Anderson; M. F., Mrs. B. Wilson; M. R. C., Mrs. A. L. Matthews; P. T., Mrs. R. J. Coltart; G.O.T., Mrs. M. Thomas. Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Grand Officers, were present from Revelstoke. The officers will be installed at the next meeting of the Order.

THOS. DIXON KILLED

Thos. Dixon, a resident of Enderby for the past four or five years, and engaged most of the time in logging and timbering, was driving a logging team in Camp No. 2, on the A. R. Rogers Lumber Co.'s timber limits, last Friday morning, and was descending a grade when the sleigh runners struck a "sand patch" and stopped suddenly. The log Dixon was sitting upon slid forward and he was thrown under the horses. When stopped, one of the sleigh-runners was across his abdomen. When released, it was found that he has been paralysed in the nerve centre, and while there was no suffering, he had no control of his lower limbs. He was hurried to Enderby, and on Saturday was taken to the Vernon hospital, where, early Monday morning he died. Interment will take place this (Thursday) morning at 10 o'clock from the Baptist church.

Mr. Dixon was a man of many friends. He was steady, industrious and saving, and had something over $2,000 worth of property in Enderby and vicinity. His tragic death is deplored by all who knew him.

HOME.

SOME DAINTY DISHES.

Date Sandwiches.—Stone some dates, chop them finely, and add a little grated lemon peel. Cut thin slices of bread and butter, spread with date paste and form into sandwiches.

Snow Cream.—Into a quart of warm milk put two ounces of butter, two ounces of sugar, two bay leaves, and four ounces of ground rice. Stir till it boils and forms a smooth, thick substance, then pour into oiled moulds or teacups. When cold, turn it out and serve with any nice red jam.

Fried Beef and Rashers.—Cut some slices of cold beef, roast or boiled, brush each over with ketchup, and season with pepper and salt. Fry some rashers of bacon, take them up, and in the fat fry the slices of beef. Make a mound of mashed potato, and arrange the slices of beef and rashers on it. Serve very hot.

Scalloped Onions.—Peel and slice four large Spanish onions. Line a pie-dish with breadcrumbs, then put a layer of chopped onions. Season with pepper and salt, and add a few bits of dripping, then a layer of crumbs, and so on till the dish is full, having a layer of crumbs last. Pour over a teacup of milk and bake for an hour and a half.

Cheese and Rice.—Put a layer of boiled rice in a pie-dish. Into a saucepan put a gill of milk and half an ounce of butter, into which has been worked a teaspoonful of flour; season with salt and cayenne and stir till it boils. Pour this over the rice, scatter some grated cheese on the top, and put in the oven for about twenty minutes to brown. Serve very hot.

Chocolate Bread-Pudding.—Soak six or eight pieces of stale bread in boiling milk, and after an hour heat it till fine with a fork. Now stir in sufficient chocolate powder to make it taste rich, adding more sugar if necessary, and stir all together over the fire. Remove the pan, and then add one or two beaten eggs according to the quantity of bread. Pour into buttered cups or a pie-dish and bake.

Cranberry Pie.—Take half a pint of stewed cranberries, add a teacupful of stoned and chopped raisins, half a pound of sugar, a quarter of a pint of water, and two tablespoonfuls of breadcrumbs. Line a shallow pie-dish with pastry, fill with the mixture, cover with pastry, and bake. Before removing the pie from the oven, cover the top with the stiffly-beaten white of egg, and dust sugar over. Leave it in the oven for a few minutes to set.

Stewed Turkey Giblets.—These can often be bought for a few pence from a poulterer. Lay the giblets in warm water till well cleansed. Dry and cut them in pieces. Put these in a stewpan with a little bacon and about four ounces of beef-steak, cut in square pieces. Add two ounces of butter and let all brown. Then dredge in some flour, add a small onion, a carrot, a turnip, all cut in slices, a pinch of salt and pepper to taste. Stew gently till tender, removing the pieces when ready, the liver and pinions will be ready first and the gizzard last.

Savory Mutton.—Here is a good and economical dish which, if cooked with care, is really delicious. Take a nice breast of mutton, not too fat, and put it on to cook in warm water, letting it boil gently till the bones can be slipped out. Meanwhile make a stuffing with a little suet (or dripping), a small onion finely chopped, two tablespoonfuls of stale bread, soaked and then squeezed dry, a large slice of bacon chopped, some dried herbs, black pepper, and salt. Spread the inside of the mutton with this, and then roll, securing all in place with tape or string. Roast the meat for half an hour, dredging with flour, and basting well. Serve with thick brown gravy, and browned onions put round.

SMALL CAKES.

One Egg Cake.—One egg, two-thirds cupful of sugar, four tablespoonfuls melted butter, two-thirds cupful of milk, one teaspoonful of baking powder, one teaspoonful of vanilla, flour to make thin batter.

Ginger Cookies.—Two sifters of flour, one pint of lard, a little salt; rub together; one pint of Orleans molasses, two eggs, one cupful of sugar, one-half pint of sour milk, one quart of hot water, tablespoonful of ginger, two tablespoonfuls of soda; dissolve soda in milk or hot water, which ever you use.

Ginger Creams.—One cupful of C sugar, one cupful of New Orleans molasses, one cupful of butter and lard mixed, one cupful of boiling water, one dessertspoonful soda, one-half teaspoonful of ginger, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-half teaspoonful of cloves, pinch of salt, flour enough to hold up spoon. Mix at night, set in a cool place and bake in the morning. Be careful not to use too much flour, as this will make them tough.

Golden Ginger Drops.—One-fourth cupful of "C" sugar, one-fourth cupful of butter, one egg, pinch of salt, one-half cupful of New Orleans molasses, one-half teaspoonful of cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoonful of cloves, one-half teaspoonful of ginger, one and one-half scant cupfuls of flour, one-half cupful of boiling water last.

Individual Shortcakes.—One and a half cupfuls sugar, one tablespoonful butter, two eggs, one cupful of milk, two teaspoonfuls baking powder, one teaspoonful of flavoring, flour to stiffen. Bake in gem pans. Cut across and place fruit between and on top. Take one cupful sugar, one cupful crushed fruit, white of one egg, and beat together until stiff and pour over each cake. Fresh fruit is preferable, but canned strawberries or raspberries or other fruit is nice.

MEATS.

Ham Croquettes.—Three cupfuls cold ham, ground (either boiled or fried), one large mashed potato, one onion (ground), two beaten eggs; form into oval balls and fry. Serve with tomato sauce.

Veal Loaf.—One pound chopped veal, one-fourth chopped pork, two eggs, six square crackers rolled fine, three tablespoonfuls of cream, one finely chopped onion. Pepper and salt to taste. Mix well with hands, form in loaf, put in skillet on top of stove with butter, brown and simmer one and one-half hours. Just half hour pour over meat loaf one cupful catsup. Beef can be used instead of veal.

Veal Loaf.—Three pounds of veal, two pounds of fresh pork, put through the grinder; then add two cups of bread crumbs, three eggs, season to taste with salt, pepper, nutmeg, and sage, add cup of water, mix well, make into a loaf, and bake one hour.

THE SEWING ROOM.

Border Help.—After cutting linen away from the border in fancy work if one would go over it with the regular buttonhole stitch, taking up just enough to catch edge, the border would be more firm. This is especially good for towel ends, sheets and pillow cases. In sewing use finishing braid instead of bias folds whenever possible. Less work and prettier finish.

Fringing.—In fringing a table cover or anything with deep fringe, tear it up, as deep as you want the fringe at intervals of a finger or so all the way across the end, then fringe out these short pieces one by one, which is a much easier way than pulling out a long thread every time, and having it break, and being obliged to hunt for the end with pin or needle.

Darning.—In darning on the machine it does not make any difference what the piece may be, table cloths, napkins, socks, stockings, or anything that has a hole in, take the foot of the machine off and run the stitches all the way across the hole just as you do by hand, then across the other way, just as you would if done by hand, only it is done so much neater. Use an embroidery hoop to hold the goods firm and even, put it over the hole, and slide under the foot of machine whatever color the material is, use the same color thread.

LITTLE HELPS.

In making hot starch add one tablespoonful of lard and one of salt to each gallon of starch. Be sure and use while hot.

For cold starch use about half the usual quantity of starch and add a tablespoonful of powdered borax. This stiffens without danger of the starch sticking.

For ironing holders get asbestos if possible. Cover the holders when finished with little sacks or cases buttoned on. These are easy to launder and easily replaced. For quickly made holders to use around clothes save your salt sacks and other small sacks. Slip the holder inside, turn the end back inside and fasten with a small safety pin. When scorched or soiled these are easily removed and a new cover quickly put on.

If a slight scorch is made on a white garment sponge freely with a cloth wet with hydrogen peroxide and iron dry. The scorch will disappear like magic.

To Save Elastic.—To save elastic in children's blouses, which cost sometimes as much as the material of the blouse, take a piece of tape or salvage the size of the child's waist, less four inches. Cut the tape in half, insert four inches of elastic, put the tape, with the elastic in the center of it, in the hem of the blouse. It will act the same as if it were all elastic and wear better. Therefore you can make six blouses with the same elastic which you would otherwise put in one blouse.

To Smooth Irons.—Tack a piece of sandpaper on the end of the ironing board to smooth the irons.

Unused Linens.—Valuable linens that are unused should at least be washed once a year, thoroughly dried, and refolded. This will prevent yellowing and also the injury which results if creases are allowed to remain too long.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS

A LITTLE LIFE SAVER

There is no other medicine for little ones as safe as Baby's Own Tablets, or so sure, in its beneficial effects. These Tablets speedily destroy worms, break up colds, thus preventing deadly croup, allay simple fevers, and bring the little teeth through painlessly. Mrs. C. A. Weaver, Saskatchewan Landing, Sask., says: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my little one in cases of colds, stomach and bowel troubles, and other minor ailments, and have never known them to fail in speedily restoring the child's health. I think there is no medicine for babies like the Tablets." Sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Prussic acid poisons every living thing—plants as well as animals.

WAIT.

Since we moved in here, two days ago, it's been a puzzle to me how that water got into the barrel!

A TURKISH TEA PARTY

HOW IT IS CONDUCTED IN THAT COUNTRY.

No Tea Served, but Cigarettes, Coffee, Cake and Dancing

Girls.

When a Turkish lady gives a "chahva," or tea party, her husband is perforce excluded from the harem while the strange women are in the house. These guests begin to arrive towards six, accompanied by their maidservants and negroes, carrying lanterns and bringing their children with them.

Closely muffled, they divest themselves of their burnouses and labouches in an anteroom and put on delicate satin slippers, which they have brought with them in bags. The reception-rooms are brilliantly lighted up with pink wax candles and scented with fragrant pastiles.

"I AM DEVOTED TO YOU."

There is no kissing or hand-shaking between the hostess and her guests, but each lady as she comes in raises her hand gracefully to her heart, her lips, and her brow, which means, "I am devoted to you; with heart, mouth, and mind." This mode of salutation, when smilingly performed, is very pretty.

The greetings being ended, the company seat themselves on chairs, if there be any foreign ladies present; if not they betake themselves to the divans and carpets, while the children go off all together to be regaled and to romp in some other room.

Cigarettes, coffee, and sweetmeats are handed around, and while these things are being discussed the ladies are bound to pay one another compliments about their respective dresses, which are sure to be most sumptuous, and indeed are sometimes worth a fortune.

"BRING IN THE CAKE."

The evening costume of a Turkish lady consists of a long tunic with open sleeves and a wide pair of trousers, and when these articles are of costly stuffs, embroidered, laced, and covered with jewels, they produce a rare effect.

After the coffee dancing girls are introduced, and at this stage of the proceedings the elderly ladies generally settle down to cards and back-gammon. In some houses, where Christian manners have penetrated, a woman pianist rattles off waltzes and operatic music to amuse the company; but this does not exclude the performances of the native dancing girls, whose gyrations and fantastic music with tambourines and castanets are much appreciated. These "almecs" are seldom older than fourteen, and in any case no married woman ever joins in a dance.

When the evening has been more or less agreeably spent amid these pastimes and conversation, it is the lady of the house who gives the signal for the guests to retire. This she does by and exclaiming, "Chahva yel!" ("Bring in the cake!") At once the maidservants hurry off to fetch the delicacy, and soon a very aromatic, creamy, and spongy pudding is produced, and this having been honored as it deserves silver basins full of rose-water are carried in for the guests to wash their hands with, and then the party is at an end.

A very quaint form of salutation speeds the parting guest. As each lady comes up to express her thanks for the hospitality she has enjoyed the hostess answers sweetly, "How happy I am that it is all over!" which ambiguous utterance only means, "How happy I am that no accident has befallen any of us during this delightful evening!"

Some device for indicating who a man's real friends are would fill a long felt want.

DISFIGURING, TORTURING SKIN TROUBLE

Cannot be Cured by Salves and Ointments—The Blood Must be Purified.

A blemished skin, irritating sores, pimples, eczema, salt rheum and other skin disorders are all signals of distress, telling that your blood is impure or weak. You cannot cure eczema and other skin troubles with ointments and outward applications. These things may give temporary relief, but cannot cure, because the trouble is rooted in the blood and can only be removed by purifying and enriching the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills speedily cure skin troubles because they enrich, purify and build up the impoverished blood that caused the trouble. As they feed and cleanse the blood the skin grows fair, the bloom of health returns and new strength is found. No other medicine has ever had such wonderful results in curing all diseases due to bad blood. Miss Elizabeth Gillis, Kensington, P.E.I., says: "Words can hardly express how grateful I feel for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for me. For seven years before I began their use I was troubled with salt rheum. My hands and arms were nearly always a mass of torturing cracks and sores. I tried several doctors and spent a great deal of money without getting any benefit. Indeed my hands seemed to be getting worse all the time. Finally my brother persuaded me to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a trial and I am happy to say they have completely cured me. I used in all seven boxes, and I would not be without them in a case of this kind if they cost five dollars a box instead of fifty cents. I hope my experience will be of benefit to some other sufferer from skin trouble."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

ALTAR-ISMS.

Marriage, like a rain-shower, may come upon one any time. Brides should remember.

To shed a few tears on the wedding-day, it is an omen of good luck in the future.

After the wedding breakfast and reception, a bride should be careful to throw away all the pins that are about her.

The bridesmaids should not keep the pins themselves, or they will retard their chances of marriage.

The bride should always cut the first piece of her wedding-cake, and pour out the first glass of wine for her guests.

It is unlucky for the bride to enter the church before the ceremony at one door and leave after the ceremony by another door.

If the bride drops her handkerchief on the wedding-day, and the bridegroom picks it up, it is a sure sign that in the future he will play second-fiddle.

It is unlucky to tie shoes to any part of the carriage in which the bride and bridegroom go away, but it is lucky to throw an old shoe after the bride as she enters the carriage.

In leaving the church, the bride will do well to place her right foot foremost, if she wishes to be happy and healthy, and she should always be the first to call her husband by name.

CURED HIS BLADDER TROUBLE.

Mr. Herbert Bauer of Davisville, says he owes Gin Pills a debt of gratitude which he can never repay. He suffered for years with Bladder Trouble, and could not pass urine except by much straining, which caused great pain.

Mr. Bauer sent for a free sample of Gin Pills. The first dose did him so much good that he ordered six boxes and began to take them regularly. A month's treatment completely cured him.

You can try Gin Pills before you buy them. Write National Drug & Chemical Co., (Dept. W. L.) Toronto, for free sample. At all dealers, 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50.

BREAKING THE NEWS.

Marion, who had been taught to report her misdeeds promptly, came to her mother one day, sobbing penitently.

"Mother, I—I broke a brick in the fireplace."

"Well, that is not very hard to remedy. But how on earth did you do it, child?"

"I pounded it with father's watch."

"Six feet in his boots!" exclaimed old Mr. Flatiron. "Nonsense! Why, they might as well tell me that the man has six heads in his hat!"

TWO VERY CLOSE CALLS

THOUGHTS OF A MAN WHO WAS TWICE IN GREAT PERIL

Came Once Near Drowning and Once in Danger of Falling From a Roof.

Two men were recently discussing various psychological phenomena. Both were "professional men" and familiar with the technical as well as the popular side of the subject they were reviewing, which was the concentration of the attention when face to face with death.

"You often hear wonderful stories of the instant review of the events of a lifetime experienced by drowning persons or those who are in danger of imminent death," remarked the older of the two; "but I have always been a little sceptical about the possibility of that complete revival of the memory and the condensation of the events of a lifetime into the minute and a half it takes to drown."

"But," objected the other, "it has fallen to my lot on two separate occasions to be thoroughly convinced of the rapidity of thought which is possible when you are face to face with death. Instead of a rapid and extensive review of past events I have found my thoughts concentrated on one fixed idea always immediately connected with the danger in which I was placed."

MY FIRST EXPERIENCE

of the kind was in the River Shannon, when I was learning to swim. I had taken only a few lessons in shallow water when, being in a row-boat on the river with two others, one of them, a Mr. Brown, who was a very fine swimmer, proposed that we should take a dip. A Mr. George Smith stayed in the boat to guide it.

"After I had tried a few strokes, staying close to the boat, I would grasp the stern and rest myself. Mr. Brown, who did not know I could not swim, got behind the boat and gave it a good push ahead as I reached for the stern after one of my efforts, and I went down."

"Not knowing anything about swimming except the stroke, I had no idea of the movements necessary to bring me to the surface, so I persisted calmly in using the regular breast stroke. This, of course, carried my head down every time I extended my arms, and the natural consequence was that nothing came to the surface but my fingers."

"The water being very muddy in this part of the river and the current very swift, it was extremely difficult for Mr. Smith to locate me, although Mr. Brown stood up in the boat and pointed out the place where my hands came up last. By the time Mr. Brown got to the spot and dived my erroneous notions about swimming had carried me a yard or two away, just enough for him to miss me."

"As I went down for the traditional third time Mr. Smith noticed that my fingers were quite limp and that

THE STROKE HAD CEASED.

Fortunately for me it had, because after a final dive and failure to reach me Mr. Brown happened to touch with his foot what he took to be a half sunken sod of turf, many of which float down the Shannon under the surface. Instinctively he made another dive and got his hand upon it only to find that he had hold of the hair of my head.

"This is what went on above the surface, as I learned later. Under the water there was only one idea in my mind, and that was whether or not Mr. Smith, who was sitting in the boat rowing, had noticed that I had gone down. Mr. Brown I knew had his back to me."

"As long as I retained consciousness I kept up the breast stroke with the precision of a drill movement. During the whole time, even when the water began to trickle into my ears with a soft, musical sound, and I felt myself swallowing it in large quantities, there was no review of any past life. No fear of death, no thought of the future ever entered my mind for a moment; nothing but a constant effort of the memory to recall whether or not Smith was looking my way when I went under and a desperate effort to determine what he would probably do if he saw me sink."

"In this case there was no idea of death, no realization of imminent danger even, and therefore the thoughts may have been quite normal, as I must have been conscious for nearly two minutes. But now let me turn to

ANOTHER CASE,

in which I had to face instant and apparently certain death in a rather peculiar way.

"Being an architect's assistant, it was my duty to measure buildings which were to be altered or enlarged, and one windy day I went to see one of these, which was a three story and basement brick house, with the usual area and railings in front of it. Adjoining this was a little higher building, and it was necessary for me to get the exact dimensions of the brick wall and chimney that projected above the roof of the house I was measuring."

"I found a very large and heavy skylight in the attic, which required all my strength to push up and out to open. It was held open by a pivoted stick of wood, and by climbing through the opening I saw that I could stretch myself out on the roof, and by holding fast to the edge of the skylight, opening with my right hand I could reach out with my left and measure the gable wall with my six foot folding rule."

"I was sprawled out in this manner, face down on the slate roof, with my left arm and the rule extended at full length, when I suddenly became conscious that the wind had shaken the skylight loose from the stick that held it open and that it was falling shut. If I did not withdraw my hand instantly it would catch and crush it. If I pulled my hand out I would slide down the slate roof to the street below."

"When I first noticed that the support had given way the skylight had already begun its descent and it had not more than four feet to fall. During the time that it fell those four feet I had ample time to review the consequences of losing my right hand if I held on and the result of

if I let go. There was nothing at the edge of the roof but a little half round gutter held up by a few hold-fasts."

"It occurred to me that it might be possible to pull out my right hand and insert my left, as it would be better to lose my left hand than my right. I also discussed with myself the possibility of being able to hold my place if I withdrew two or three fingers and sacrificed the others, but I concluded that they would probably be cut clean off by the edge of such a heavy skylight and that I should slide down to the street anyway."

"This idea of the insufficiency of mangled fingers to support my weight on such a sloping roof suggested that it might be better to stick my arm into the opening and that perhaps the injury to it might not be so severe as to require amputation. I distinctly remember trying to recall whether the muscles should be firm or relaxed and thought it best to hold them firm."

"As well as I can remember, the outcome of my deliberations was a determination to change hands and to sacrifice the left instead of the right. I had no sooner come to this conclusion than it struck me that there would not be time to make the change and that I might lose my hold altogether. It seemed to me that I had already changed my opinion as to the respective merits of the two hands at least a dozen times."

"All this time, remember, the skylight was falling shut. As I look back at it it seems incredible that I did not spend at least half an hour thinking over the pros and cons of the situation, but it must have been less than

A FIFTH OF A SECOND.

My final resolve was a determination to hold on, as there was no time to change hands, and to trust to the shreds of my mangled fingers to hold me on the roof."

"When the crash came and the skylight actually fell shut my hand was not in the opening. I was sliding down the roof on my way to the street below."

"The edge was at least ten feet below me and I was gaining speed at every foot. The only effect of my frantic efforts to clutch at the edge of the skylight, the slates, or anything, was to bring distinctly home to my consciousness the fact that I was in motion, sliding down. I heard my rule go over the edge."

"In that fraction of a second the entire current of my thoughts changed. It was no longer a question of which hand should be mangled, but what would I strike when I reached the street."

"I distinctly remembered the railing around the area and also the absence of any cornice on the eave of the roof—nothing but a rusty old drip gutter. The thing I could not remember, although I made desperate efforts to do so, was whether or not that area railing had spikes in it."

"This question persisted with the same singular tenacity that I had experienced in trying to recall whether or not Mr. Smith was looking my way when I was in the River

Shannon. I knew I should fall directly upon those railings, and the spikes bothered me. The minuteness with which I recalled everything about the house—its number, the alterations that were to be made in it, the sketches we had prepared, the new ideas we had talked over—all these things were reviewed in the effort to recall in connection with one or other of them something that would answer the question were there spikes on that railing?"

"I suddenly became conscious that I was no longer sliding down the roof. It was exactly like waking out of a dream. I then realized that my toes in dropping over the edge of the slates had caught on the little half round iron gutter."

"In another minute the skylight was pushed up by people who had heard the crash and came up to see what was the matter. They soon hauled me to a place of safety."

UNCLE HIRAM TO HIS NEPHEW

How He Can Be Certain of Getting a Square Deal.

"If we fail, Henry," said Uncle Hiram to his hopeful young nephew, "you may be sure that we owe it as a rule not to our limitations or to lack of opportunities but to our lack of thoroughness, to our not using the talents we have to the best advantage. It is an old story, Henry, but however old a story may be it still remains new to those who hear it for the first time; and are not new hearers coming into hearing all the time, to whom everything, the whole world, is new? Now let me say this again for your benefit."

"When I see the window cleaner failing to get down into the corners to dig out there, failing to make a perfect job of his work, I know not only that he lacks inspiration, I know that he lacks the two simple essentials of application and thoroughness; he lacks the two elementary requirements for getting on in the world at all. As he grows older he will wonder why he doesn't get ahead faster, and when dull times come he will wonder why he is laid off while other men are kept at work; and then, unless happily light should come to him, he'll get sour and discontented and in his own way cynical; he'll think that everything in the order of things is wrong; that he isn't getting a fair deal, when the fact is that every man is his own dealer."

"As it is about the window cleaner, so it is with every one of us in whatever we may have to do. We all of us think we can do big things when, as we say, 'we get a chance'; but the truth is that unless we can do a little thing well we can't do a big thing well and we never get a chance. Big things are made up of little things. If a man or a boy couldn't sweep a sidewalk clean nobody would think of hiring him to clean a city."

"Don't think you've got a mean job and slight it till you can get something better; no matter what your work may be, magnify it and dignify it by application and thoroughness. It is the only way to get on, and in that way you'll be sure to get on. There's nothing the matter with the deal, Henry. Every man can have a square deal if he wants it hard enough, for every man can deal for himself if he will."

A WONDERFUL EXPLOSIVE.

Touch of a Fly's Foot Would Be Enough to Set It Off.

"What would be the consequences of firing a barrelful of nitrogen iodide it would be impossible to say," declares a writer in the Strand, "simply because the stuff is too awful to be made in such quantities. 'It may sound like a joke, but it is nevertheless the truth that the tread of a house fly is sufficient to explode this dangerous material. It is not necessary that a fly should walk over the compound. It has only to let one foot come into contact with the explosive, when the jolt causes it to explode and to blow the insect into the air."

"Another manner in which the peculiar property of this explosive can be demonstrated is by scattering a small quantity of the dry powder over a sheet of clean paper. It then resembles pepper, and only needs a few sharp breaths of the manipulator—just sufficient to make them roll—to cause each speck to ignite and explode, meantime giving off a long, thin column of dense purple smoke. If a barrelful of nitrogen iodide could be made it would have to be kept moist to prevent danger. By comparison, gun-powder is a mild, innocent, inoffensive material."

TREATED BIRDS CRUELLY

A MAN GETS THREE MONTHS IN JAIL FOR IT.

Cowardly Brute Sentenced in London for Blinding Birds—Proud of It.

A terrible story of systematic cruelty to birds was told at the Lambeth Police Court recently, when Mr. Hopkins sentenced an aged laborer named Frederick Collins to three months' imprisonment with hard labor for blinding chaffinches.

Mr. S. G. Polhill, who prosecuted on behalf of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, said there was a practice in some parts of London of catching wild birds and blinding them by inserting a needle in the corner of the eye and destroying the optic nerve. "The motive," he said, "is to make them sing better, and the birds are entered for singing competitions. This has been going on for a great number of years, and the society has made attempts to secure a conviction at various times but in consequence of the

GREAT SECRECY OBSERVED by these men it has hitherto been difficult to enter the rooms where the birds are kept.

"Great skill is shown in blinding the birds, which recover after a time, and adapt themselves to their blind state in a wonderful way. It is, nevertheless, an extremely cruel action."

Inspector Arthur Wilmot, of the society, told how he secured the necessary evidence by posing as a man who wanted to buy birds. He was introduced to Collins by a man named John Boswell, and all three went to Collins' house in Sultan street, Lambeth.

"A room on the first floor was practically full of birds," said the inspector. "Collins showed me several chaffinches all of which were blind."

"He drew my attention to two birds, saying, 'This one I caught at Croydon, and the other just outside Orpington.' I put them through it—right out."

"I said to him, 'What do you mean by right out?' Collins replied, 'Blinding, but it is'

A DANGEROUS WORD to use. If I was given away it would mean three months. I played the game on them about last Friday week, and this one is just getting over it."

"I asked if the birds were really blind, and Collins replied, 'Yes, I did it myself. I have been at the game twenty years.' There were at least eight other blind chaffinches in cages."

The inspector bought two chaffinches, and all three men afterwards entered a public house.

"I noticed that Collins drank cider," the inspector continued, "so I remarked that he was a teetotaler. Collins replied, 'Yes, at my game you have to be, as you want a very steady hand.'"

A veterinary surgeon said the operation would cause acute suffering, and the pain would last for some days.

HIS UNLUCKY DAY.

Wunst I got mad at maw, I don't remember why, But I list walked right off to school 'Thout tellin' her good-bye.

A big ol' lump came in my throat An' purt' near made me cry, For me an' maw is awful pals An' allus kiss good-bye.

An' might' near ever-thing I did Went wrong, looked like to me; I stubbed my toe, an' tore my waist An' fell an' skinned my knee.

I missed in 'rithmetic, an' lost A chaunst to git up head, An' in the spellin' class I left A letter out of 'dead.'

An' that ol' lump growed, an' I says:

"S'pose if-maw should die Right now, an' me a-leavin' her 'Thout kissin' her good-bye."

Gee! That's the longes' mornin' At I ever spent, I know, It seemed like more'n fifty years 'Fore it was time to go.

An' never mind what happened When I seen my maw, but I 'Ist bet I won't go away no more 'Thout kissin' her good-bye.

He who says he is ready to die for truth often means he is ready to kill.

CONVICT LABOR IS USED

PRISONERS MAKE ROADS IN WESTERN STATES.

In Colorado No Armed Guards Watch Men—Washington More Strict.

The list of States now using convict labor on the highways is too long to mention in detail, says Popular Mechanics, but Colorado, New Mexico and Wyoming are using such labor to construct a great highway which will run through the three States, and Washington, Oregon, North Carolina and Georgia, as well as several other States, have gangs at work.

The convict road gang at work in the southern part of Colorado numbers eighty-eight men. They wear no distinguishing badge in the way of clothing, and no armed guards are to be seen anywhere. If a man wishes to escape from such a camp it is conceded that he can easily do so, but that he may be overtaken elsewhere follows as a matter of course, and the penalty—dreaded by any convict who has had a taste of open work—means that his activities will from then on to the end of his term be confined

WITHIN THE PRISON WALLS.

Only five officers are in charge of the camp, which is composed of tents. The convicts sleep in one big tent, and during the day they are divided into five gangs, each officer having charge of a gang. Eight hours of road work constitute a day's labor, and the men must go to bed promptly at 9 o'clock every night except Saturday, on which they are allowed an additional hour.

Amusement is allowed to all in the camp. Some of the convicts own and play musical instruments. Cards are also allowed. Some spend their time pitching quoits, and a ball game is usually played every evening before darkness sets in.

The method of guarding the convicts working on the roads in the State of Washington is a little more strict, but amusements are just as numerous. The provision allowing the convicts to do such work in that State was passed in 1907, and the point selected for making the first experiment was one of the most remote from the penitentiary, the idea being to give the new system the most severe test possible.

The work selected was the building of a wagon road along the face of a nearly perpendicular rock bluff, the work involving the handling of a large amount of dynamite by the convicts. The character of the rock encountered was making drilling very slow. Nevertheless, the average daily work accomplished by each man amounts to 2.42 cubic yards of solid rock moved, and one cubic yard of earth and loose rock removed.

As the lowest bid received for moving the rock was $1.50 per cubic yard, and for loose rock and earth 40 cents, the average daily work of a convict was valued at $4.03. The camp established for the care of the prisoners consisted of a stockade 80 by 125 feet, inside of which was erected a barracks 18 by 48 feet. On the outside of the stockade and adjoining it was built the guardhouse. The number of convicts employed at the camp has never been more than thirty, guarded by five officers.

VILLAGERS FIGHT.

Old Feud Leads to Three Men Killed and Thirty Injured.

Reports have been received at Lisbon, Portugal, of a great fight between the inhabitants of the Villages of Atalaya and Povoa.

For years a feud has existed between them, and by mutual agreement the inhabitants met in a large field to settle their grievances. Each side mustered a hundred fighters, most of them being armed with fowling pieces, revolvers, knives and sticks. After discharging the guns and revolvers into each other a hand-to-hand conflict took place, the knives being handled with deadly effect.

The authorities at Fao, the chief town of the district, were informed and sent a strong force of cavalry, on the appearance of which the fighters fled. Though only three men were killed, 30 were wounded, several dangerously.

The authorities are investigating the affair to discover the principal parties. Numerous arrests have already been made.

THE OLD AND THE NEW

Enderby's City Council for the ensuing year will have two new men upon it. Wm. Hancock and Herbert
B. Blanchard have taken the seats vacated by Robt. Peel and Geo. R.
Lawes. In retiring from the Council Mr. Peel and Mr. Lawes do so with the respect, esteem and confidence of the people, and conscious of the fact that they did what they could to bring about better conditions in Enderby, and to enhance the prosperity of the community. In the one year he has served the city as Alderman, Mr. Peel has fathered the most progressive step the city has taken, and to his persistency is due
the past year's improvement of our streets and sidewalks, and the planting of trees about the recreation grounds.

Mr. Bell's election as mayor was not unexpected. He has served in that capacity for a period of five years,
and so far as he has seen the possibilities of the office, he has served the city well. There are those, however, who feel that Mr. Bell has not grasped the position in its true significance and has narrowed it down to a personal matter, and they believed a change would be advantageous to the city. But 70 voters out of 111 thought otherwise, and so long as Mr. Bell wanted the position and was prepared to promise to be decent they voted to let him have it. He has a good board of Aldermen to assist in the work, and will have the solid support of every citizen insofar as he conducts the business in the wellfare of all classes and the general good of all. Mr. Evans has served faithfully in the past; Mr. Rutten as proved of great worth to the city as an Alderman, and Mr. Hutchison has had some experience as a member of the City Council. Mr. Hancock and Mr. Blanchard are new men in the capacity of aldermen, but they are so well and favorably known by all,
that they were sure to lead the polls
for in them the people have absolute confidence.

Mr. Barnes and Mr. Robinson, who were prepared to sacrifice themselves in order to bring on an election, are to be congratulated on the splendid vote polled by each. Mr. Barnes' vote of 41 against Mayor Bell's 70 in view of the fact that he made no canvass and never asked a man for a vote, clearly indicates the high esteem in which he is held, and should prove a valuable straw for future calculations.

Here's to the new City Council.
May their term of office be one of which Enderby may be proud.

PUBLIC BUILDING QUESTION

E. T. Petar and Geo. Robinson, president and secretary-treasurer of the Northern Okanagan Poultry Association, are leaving nothing undone to make this the banner year of the Association, and to assure us of the largest poultry show next winter that has ever been held in the interior of British Columbia. Mr.
Collier, the poultry judge, says the show at Vancouver is the largest and best in America, so these gentlemen
will not attempt to make the Ender-by show compare with it, but they are determined to make it excel anything that has been held in the interior. And the poultrymen are preparing to back them up to a man.

The action of the Department of Agriculture in pledging its unqualified support, has given our poultrymen the encouragement and incentive
needed, and they are now interesting themselves in dead earnest.

The position Enderby is to take in connection with these annual shows is an important one. If we are to get the good of them, we must prepare to handle them. And we cannot think of handling them if we do not provide a suitable building for them.
This all should be ready to concede.
The new City Council is now elected and they will be seated next week

prepared to deal with questions of importance to the city. This seems to be one of them.

We understand a petition is to be presented to the Council asking for the submitting of a money by-law to the electors to provide for the erection of a public building—an Agricultural Hall—on the recreation grounds, which could be placed at the disposal of the Poultry Association or any other Association at a nominal rental or free of rent as the Council may decide. It would not be difficult to make the building pay interest on the investment, if this were deemed necessary, and the urgent need of the building is recognized, or should be recognized, by all.

We trust that the petition will be liberally signed by the ratepayers
when it is presented by the committee for that purpose. The Council will require to know that it is the unanimous, or nearly unanimous wish of the ratepayers that such a by-law be put through. Then there will be no hesitancy in the matter, and we shall have the building erected early in the season, and avoid all the costly delays of late fall or winter building. Help the committee when the petition is presented for your signature, and at the same time help the town and yourself.

WEEK OF AGRICULTURISTS

During the week commencing 31st
January, Victoria will be en evidence in all matters pertaining to Agriculture. On Monday, the 31st, a meeting of the Secretaries of the Agricultural Fairs and Associations of the Province will take place. The main aims and objects of the Convention are to arrange about securing the judges for future exhibitions so as to compile a circuit that will enable fairs to be held on dates not conflicting with others situated in the same district. Other matters pertaining to the more effective carrying out of the annual exhibitions throughout the Province, will be considered, and no doubt as a result of such conference,
much good will accrue to the advancement of agricultural fairs and exhibitions in British Columbia.

On Tuesday, the 1st of February, and the day following, a meeting of the Central Farmers' Institute will be held, when all proposals, resolutions and matters for important consideration will be placed on the agenda
and finally dealt with during the Convention. This Institute is representative of all the Farmers' Institutes throughout the Province, and all matters pertaining to Agriculture and the betterment of the present condition of the farmer are laid before the conference for consideration and decision. It is anticipated that many of the Institutes are furnishing their representatives with proposals to submit to the convention, and which, if carried out, cannot but have the best practical results.

On Thursday, the 3rd of February,
the Annual Convention of the B. C.
Dairymen's Association will be held,
and on the following day, the B. C.
Stock Breeders' Association will be in session. A good program has been prepared for both of these meetings,
and many interesting and valuable lectures will be delivered by well-known authorities on all matters pertaining to agriculture. Nothing succeeds like success, and it is evident that the knowledge disseminated throughout the proceedings of these gatherings cannot but have the best possible results in the further advancement of the Agricultural industry throughout British Columbia.

The C. P. R. is issuing special excursion tickets at single rate, and the opportunity afforded the people
from near and far to combine business with pleasure in visiting Victoria during the Convention is one not often offered the public.

A PRIVATE OPINION

Mr. J. M. Sutherland furnishes the Summerland Review the following extract from a letter received by him
from a friend in England:

"I saw the exhibit of British Columbia apples at the Edinburgh Flower Show. I really never saw anything so good in my life. The stand was packed with people all day
and some of the wholesale dealers
from Covent Garden told me the fruit was far and away the finest on the London market."

We are Stock-taking this week

A quantity of Ribbon Remnants
and Remnants
in Muslins Flannelettes
and Woolens

Have accumulated, and these we are selling at less than wholesale. We want to get rid of them. Do you want them? Ask to see them. Just as good as the best, but odd pieces. They may not last more than a day or two, but while they last you will find in them extraordinary bargains.

Canadian Progress and General Comment

CANADA'S MIGHTY PROGRESS

The year 1910 opens with an outlook which is the brightest in the history of the Dominion. Trade was never better than it is today; the revenue is coming in freely and abundantly, and there is general prosperity all round. Development is going ahead rapidly in all directions, and indications from all the provinces point to the conclusion that this will be the best year Canada has ever seen. A dispatch from Ottawa says the late Christmas trade was the heaviest on record, and the Post office Department reports that the Christmas mail rush, especially from Great Britain, exceeded by 25 per cent. all previous records.

The Government report estimates
the value of the current year's harvest at $532,992,100, an increase of $100,458,100 over the figures of 1908, or about 23 per cent. The Western Provinces show phenomenal increases,
the harvest in Saskatchewan, to take a typical example, being valued at $97,500,000 as compared with $37-
500,000 the year before.

Building operations in practically every city in Canada show great increases over last year's figures, owing to money being plentiful, as a result of the bounteous harvest,
while imports from Great Britain, as well as the output of local manufacturers to meet the present year's business, run into figures never before reached in Canada's commercial history.

Preparations are being made at all the immigration depots to receive a larger number of settlers than has ever before arrived in a single year.
Advices from upwards of one hundred points in the United States show
that many thousands of homesteaders
are taking up land in Saskatchewan and Alberta, while the C. P. R.'s scheme outlined in last week's issue
of this paper is expected to result in an enormous number of new settlers
coming in from the Mother Country.

A DISILLUSIONED ONE TALKS

A correspondent in the Standard of Empire says some very good things
in the following letter:

"I heartily agree with the sense of the article that Canada as a field for the investor offers opportunities far and away safer—and always at a higher rate of interest—than those of Great Britain. I was in no way surprised to read in your cable report of the speech of the president of the Bank of Montreal lately that British capital is fast being taken out of local securities and enterprises and put into those of Canada.

"Is this at all remarkable? I think it only natural. Quite recently I took a fairly comprehensive tour through Canada and also the United States. Speaking of Canada, my deep-rooted impression is that it is the "sanest" country in the world.
In my travels through Canada I was struck with the sturdy spirit of independence and individualism that influences the people to a man. Talk to a prosperous, hard-working farmer
in the Prairie Provinces about the "iniquity" of private ownership of land and he will laugh at you. And if the man next to him owns 10,000 acres, does he want to steal it away from him? Not a bit of it. He puts his back into his own work and hopes to possess as much himself some day.

"Canada is a great and rich country; and even the Canadians do not yet know by half how great and rich
it really is. And, so far as I am personally concerned, any money I have to invest in the future goes into Canadians—railway, industrial, or Government—it does not matter which. The spirit of Canada is my guarantee that I am doing the right thing, coupled, of course, with the undeniable fact of her unlimited resources.

CANADA'S NAVAL BILL

Sir Wilfrid Laurier introduced the long-promised naval bill last Wednesday, and it now stands on the order
paper as "an act respecting the naval service of Canada." In introducing the bill, Sir Wilfrid ran over its salient points. He explained that it followed closely the lines of the Militia bill, but differed in one important respect. The Militia bill provided that the whole male population between certain ages was liable to service. There is no such provision in this act. There was no suggestion of compulsion or conscription of any kind.

When Sir Wilfrid explained that the navy would be placed at the disposal of the British Government in time of emergency, Mr. Foster asked for an explanation of the term emergency.
Sir Wilfrid replied that it would have the same meaning as in the Militia Act, viz., that an emergency would mean war, invasion or insurrection, real or apprehended.

Leaving the details of the bill Sir Wilfrid Laurier came to discuss what it was proposed to do. He made the important announcement that the Government had decided to adopt a program of eleven ships instead of seven. The present plan contemplated
the building of four armored cruisers
of the Bristol type, one cruiser of the Boadicea type, and six destroyers of what is known as the improved River class. The estimated cost of these eleven ships is $11,000,000, but if the ships were built in Canada the cost would be 33 per cent. more.

Sir Wilfrid did not say where the ships would be built, or where they would be placed. Construction would start, however, as soon as possible,
and it is possible the ships would be built in Canada.

Mr. Borden, speaking on the bill,
declared the proposal of the Government was inadequate. They were either too much or too little. They were much for experiment in the organization of a Canadian naval service. They were too little for immediate and effective aid. They simply meant a waste of money without effective result. The speediest organization would not take less than 20 years, and the crisis, if it came,
would come to the empire during the next three years.

"When the battle of Armageddon
comes," he said, "when the Empire is fighting for its existence, when kinsmen of the other great dominions are in the forefront of the battle, shall we sit silent and inactive
while we contemplate with smug satisfaction our increasing crops and products, or shall we pauper-like,
seek fancied but delusive security in appeal to the charity of some indifferent high-sounding political doctrine of a great neighboring nation? No,
a thousand times no! There will be no such outcome.

"If Canada be true to herself she will not fail in the day of trial to the Empire, but stand proud, powerful and resolute in the very forefront of the sister nations. But she must not stand unprepared. Go on with your naval service. Proceed cautiously and surely. Lay your proposals before the people and give them, if necessary, opportunity to be heard,
but do not forget that we are confronted with an emergency which may rend this Empire asunder before the proposed service is worthy of the name. In the face of such a situation immediate, vigorous, earnest action is necessary."

BRYN-IACH WAGON ROAD

Jas. Ellison and fellow locators of homesteads on the hills northwest of Enderby, have done much work on their holdings, in the way of clearing and erection of dwellings, and the planting of orchards and cultivation of the land. They are doing this under the most adverse conditions, having no road to enable them to get supplies to and from their homesteads, except a sleigh road which they built themselves. They have petitioned the Government for a road
from time to time, and have at last succeeded in getting the matter considered. Mr. Hamilton Lang gives them this assurance:

Jas. Ellison, Bryn-iach, Enderby.
Sir: I am in receipt of your letter of the 12th inst and will, as suggested, investigate the situation so that if found practicable the work may be included in the spring program.

Your remarks as to the handicap of poor road facilities are carefully noted and the case will have my most serious consideration.

Yours obediently,
HAMILTON LANG, Supt.

RATES FOR SETTLERS

The following letter is self-explanatory:

Jas. Mowat, Esq., Enderby, B. C.
My dear Mr. Mowat: Your letter of Jan. 6th, enclosing clipping in regard to rates for settlers from trans-Atlantic points to B. C. points

Proportionate rates are in effect
from ports of landing, such as Montreal, Halifax, Quebec, St. John,
Portland, to all points in British Columbia reached by the C. P. R.
Passengers purchasing tickets in Europe via C. P. R. steamers to St.
John, will be sold an order on St.
John for colonist class ticket St.
John to Enderby at $33.05. This ticket is not good on tourist sleeper.
The rate is constructed on the same basis as the rates quoted in the clipping you sent me, namely $39.25 to Vancouver.

I have not yet had an opportunity of visiting Enderby or any of the Okanagan Valley points, but hope to do so within the next few months.

Yours truly, C. B. FOSTER
Asst. General Passenger Agt.

Boost every day in the year for the town you live in and the institutions which go to make it, and you will soon have every man boosting for you. It's reciprocal. Knock and the reverse is true.

WORLD'S STRONGEST MAN

AMAZING FEATS OF MR. ARTHUR SAXON.

Striking Feat of Lifting 371 Lbs. Above His Head With One Hand.

Can the human frame support a weight of nearly one and three-quarter tons? An emphatic "No" would probably be the reply to this question in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred. Nevertheless, the feat of sustaining 3,868 lbs. by muscular strength alone has been performed many times by Mr. Arthur Saxon, known in the athletic world as the strongest man on earth, says London Tit-Bits.

While lying on his back Mr. Saxon balances a huge plank, 40 feet long with his feet, and a 200 lb. bar-bell. Thirteen men sit on the plank and three on the bar-bell, the combined weight being 3,868 lbs. An even greater test of strength is made when, with his brother Hermann, he supports a bridge weighing over two tons while an automobile, carrying six people, runs over it. This is a combined weight of over three tons, and if his strength should give way—even for one second—it would mean instant death, or, at least,

TERRIBLE INJURIES.

Equally striking is Mr. Saxon's feat of lifting 371 lbs. above his head with one hand, and 448 lbs. with two. Just consider what this means for a moment. With one hand this professional strong man raises above his head a weight equivalent to over 3 1/4 cwt. of coal. There is no trick about it, Mr. Saxon will tell you. It is simply a question of strength—strength inherited from a race of strong men and women, and developed by years of exercise and temperate living.

And yet Mr. Saxon never lifted a weight until he was sixteen years of age; and he is now thirty-one. "I was studying to become a sculptor," he remarked a short time ago, "when my father caused me to join a weight-lifting club. I was fairly muscular, and my strong frame enabled me to lift greater weights than any of the other members. I also learned wrestling, and developed into a good amateur, and later into a fairly good professional. I was able to lift such heavy weights, however, that a circus manager wanted me; and as he offered me more than I could make as a sculptor, I became a professional strong man. I was then only seventeen years old.

WHY HE GAVE UP WRESTLING

"For the next few years I traveled all over the Continent and England, lifting heavy weights and wrestling. For years I gave exhibitions of weight-lifting and wrestling every day. Naturally, I did not need any other exercise. I found, however, I could lift heavier weights if I did not wrestle, so I gave it up and devoted all my efforts to the weights. The reason for this is that quickness and suppleness are needed for wrestling, while for lifting great weights one should be stiffer than a good wrestler can afford to be."

Mr. Saxon, by the way, tells an amusing story of the manner in which he induced the local strong men of a certain town to try for the £50 offered to anyone who would lift his heavy bar-bell. "No one seemed eager to attempt the feat, so the bell was unloaded, and thus made quite light and empty, and left on show at the entrance to the palace of entertainment at which Mr. Saxon was appearing."

A PUZZLING BAR-BELL.

"Naturally," says Mr. Saxon, "the strong men of the town came round and tested the bell privately, and, on finding how easily they could lift same, they all were certain the £50 was as good as in their pockets. That night, instead of a dead silence as before, when my challenges were issued, quite a number of eager weight-lifters, anxious to improve their financial position, jumped into the ring and rushed for the bell, which I had raised easily with one hand; but much to their surprise the 150-lb. bar-bell had changed into a 300-lb. one, and the disappointed weight-lifters retired scratching their heads in an endeavor to understand the trick which had been played on them."

Perhaps one of the most daring feats ever performed by Mr. Saxon was that of throwing from one hand to the other overhead a bar-bell weighing 315 lbs. On another occasion he laid on his back and brought over his forehead on to his chest a bar-bell weighing 386 lbs. with both hands, after pressing it upwards to arms' length.

NOTHING LIKE BEEFSTEAK

Strangely enough, this man of muscle never diets himself. "While I do not drink or smoke habitually," he says, "I drink beer if I feel I want it, and often smoke a cigar or two a day. Smoking and drinking in moderation are not injurious, and I know positively that they do not in the slightest affect my ability to lift heavy weights. The same thing is true in eating. Ever since I became a professional strong man I have eaten what I wanted. I eat three big meals a day and everything I want. I have never dieted. If my stomach craves any particular dish I eat it—always in moderation, of course. I am fond of meat, particularly beefsteak, and I eat meat three times a day. There is nothing like beefsteak to make one strong. "Everything in moderation" is a good old motto to be observed on all occasions."

HEIRESS TO MILLIONS

THE SIMPLE BRINGING UP OF MISS CARNEGIE.

Taught to Value Little Pleasures, Simple Toys, and Unostentatious Clothes.

Being trained to inherit one hundred millions.

Such is the lot of a bonnie, unaffected little girl of twelve years, whom you might have passed almost any day if you had been walking in Central Park, New York, where you would have seen the little girl feeding squirrels or tossing bits of bread to the swans. You would never dream that she would inherit one million, let alone one hundred millions. But that is because she is Margaret, daughter of Andrew Carnegie, who adds to the high ideals of his wife his own practical ideas of education for a great trust.

The keystone on which Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie are building the education and training of their daughter, according to a kinswoman and intimate family friend, is the necessity of preserving at any cost and sacrifice the child's natural capacity for finding happiness in simple things. It is their belief that the joy of childhood should not depend upon formal pleasures and concrete amusements; that it should not be affected by either the abundance or the absence of toys and games; that dress and personal luxuries should be matters of indifference. And, finally, the child should find its supreme happiness in the mere joy of living, in the innocent realization that it is alive.

No one should think from this outline of Margaret Carnegie's training that she lives an austere life or has not every modern convenience and comfort at her command. It is simply that love of luxury is no part of her curriculum.

MONEY NOT EVERYTHING.

The average child born to the golden spoon is taught that her father's money will smooth all the rough places out of her pathway and buy her whatsoever her heart desires. Money, to her, represents merely a means of satisfying her personal desires. Her attendants and tutors generally teach her that this money sets her apart from the rest of the world as a person to whom all good things will come.

With Margaret Carnegie the system of training is entirely different. She must be taught that the wealth she inherits will bring with it rough places which her own intelligence and good judgment will make smooth. In the performance of her duties in this connection, in the handling of her inheritance, she will find herself unable to gratify many of her desires. And while this money may set her apart from the rest of the world, it will be because she has a trust to fill.

SIMPLE TOYS.

"Noblesse oblige." This is the motto on every Royal nursery wall in Europe. And the little heirs to ancient thrones are taught that nobility involves simplicity, and that nobility of birth makes nobility or magnanimity of conduct obligatory.

"Noblesse oblige." It is not written on the nursery walls in the Carnegie home on Fifth Avenue, but it is lived and preached by all to whom the education and training of the little Margaret is entrusted. This one lofty precept must be hers, that whatever she has which other less fortunate little girls have not is hers only as she may make of it an instrument for the happiness of others.

The average nursery in a millionaire's home is cluttered with expensive toys. Little heirs and heiresses are taken to great toy-shops by relatives or governesses and permitted to pick and choose without question of price. Not so in the Carnegie nursery. Here toys are of the simplest and least expensive sort, coming at such infrequent intervals that there has never been a surfeit, just fresh joy in each new gift.

The kinswoman who has so often heard Mr. Carnegie expound his theories of child-culture, tells this interesting story of Margaret Carnegie's everyday life. When she was six years old she received her first pair of "shiny" shoes, made from patent leather. Living, as she had, in a modern palace, attended by vigilant nurses and tutors, this little girl had never possessed anything quite so gorgeous as those shiny shoes. No wee daughter of a day laborer could have taken keener delight in the new treasures, which had cost less than two dollars.

HER "SHINY SHOES."

At first her father was greatly amused at her keen delight, but gradually his amusement turned to displeasure as he saw the possibilities of one pair of shoes overturning all his educational theories. For Margaret, walking in the park with her distinguished parent, stopped every few paces to admire the wonderful shoes, and, as often as she thought it necessary, to lean over and dust invisible specks from the tips with her pocket-handkerchief. All of which goes to prove that the arrival of a pair of "grown-up" shoes was an event in her well-ordered and frugal life.

This simplicity prevails in her entire wardrobe. The arrival of a new frock in the Carnegie nursery has always been an event. Not being surfeited with handsome and expensive clothing, like any wholesome and happy girl the heiress of millions finds her cup of happiness overflowing at sight of a new frock, without reference to its intrinsic value.

RECONCILED.

Colossians 1: 19-23.

As those who will not be enticed By earthly joys which soon must fade,

We glory in the cross of Christ By which alone our peace is made.

Upon that cross all thought is bent; A mine of matchless wealth it proves:

It is the one supreme event Round which the whole creation moves.

Therein the angel hosts aspire To view the depths of love divine; They see the all-consuming fire In which the Saviour's glories shine.

As creatures guilty and defiled, We could not understand our loss; But now we have been reconciled In His own body on the cross.

This truth which has for ages stood

We in all confidence believe: We have redemption through His blood:

We through His death new life receive.

CHILDREN OF JAPAN.

The children in Japan are taught at an early age to draw and write with both hands, and their education is not considered complete until they have thoroughly mastered the art of using the left as well as the right. This method of teaching has also been started in a few English schools, the pupils being taught to draw circles or other figures on the blackboard, first with the right hand and then with the left. It is an excellent plan to practice writing with both hands, as should the right hand be injured, the work can be carried on by the left hand. For domestic work the ability to use the left hand is invaluable, and it is wonderful how quickly, with a little practice, one can teach oneself to do it.

Bored talk about themselves; gossips talk about others.

Let well enough alone, don't try to find out what people really think of you.

"Barney's wooden leg has been paining him of late," said Scholastic to his wife. "How can that be?" said Mrs. Scholes irritably. "Mrs. Barney has been thrashing him with it," was the explanation.

MUCH HIDDEN TREASURE WHEN PLANTS WAGE WAR

FACTS ABOUT UNCLAIMED MONEY IN BANKS.

Thousands of Pounds Lying in English Banks For Which There Are No Owners.

Fifty millions of unclaimed deposits in the coffers of banks! Such was the amazing total arrived at, a few years ago, by the Edinburgh Merchants' Company, which petitioned Parliament with the same object as a Bill recently introduced into the House of Commons—that all such balances shall be confiscated by the State, says London Answers.

Whether the estimate is fairly accurate it is impossible to say, because bankers make no returns of unclaimed funds in their possession, and refuse to give any information on the subject. But banks unquestionably hold enormous sums for which no owners are forthcoming.

An indirect proof of this is that savings banks, which are obliged to publish accounts, invariably acknowledge having some dormant and unclaimed balances. Only a few months since, one made a special effort to discover the owners of a number of such accounts; but, though it found the people entitled to £5,172, it was unable to trace the owners of deposits aggregating £5,124.

ORPHANED THOUSANDS.

Further evidence to the same purport is supplied on the occasion of a bank failure. When the Western Bank of Scotland went into liquidation, many balances were unclaimed, and, twenty years afterwards, there remained ownerless £10,368. In connection with the liquidation of the City of Glasgow Bank, again, no claims were lodged in respect of £54,143; and, though subsequently some of the money was claimed, the Assets' Company not long since had thousands of pounds for which owners could not be found.

Look, too, at the special manner in which the Bank of England deals with dormant balances of long standing. The bank invests them, and the interest which accrues is sufficient to pension the widows of her deceased clerks.

Besides such testimony as this, there are many isolated incidents which go to show that, if banks were made to disgorge the money to which they have no right, the ever-tightening grip of taxation might be promptly relaxed.

A mysterious account stands in an alias of a maiden lady. After she had been a customer at a certain joint-stock bank for some years, she opened a second account in an assumed name—a practice which is constantly adding to unclaimed hoards in banks—and paid into it a lump sum of £7,500. Subsequently, her original account was frequently dealt with, but the other she never touched. After her death her executors withdrew the balance of the first account. About the £7,500, however, they said nothing—and nor did the bank.

For business reasons, a French gentleman once wished to communicate with a certain English lady, and wrote to her London agents, who, on making inquiries, discovered that she had died in a lunatic asylum. Her affairs were then investigated, with the result that a solicitor recovered from the bank an account in her name which had been dormant for some time.

DIS-BANKING.

A Dublin bank once issued a list of unclaimed property in its possession. Here are two suggestive items from it:

"Box containing a number of silver articles, coins, medals, and seals, and having on it a crest, and the name, 'E. S. Cooper.'"

"Box containing diamonds and articles of jewellery lodged by Dr. Andrew Blake and George Jennings on December 22nd, 1795."

There are many similar hoards in Irish banks, numbers of which have remained in them since the Rebellion. Some years ago an Irish peer, when in Melbourne, heard in romantic circumstances that a quantity of plate had been deposited in a Dublin bank by one of his ancestors at the beginning of the nineteenth century, and that there it still remained. The bank, on his communicating with it, at once admitted its claim, and delivered up the treasure.

LITTLE BATTLES AGAINST THEIR SPECIES.

Subtle Methods of Defence Prove a Greater Interest Than Apparent Ones.

The keen competition in commercial circles, even in these strenuous days, is as nothing beside that of many plants and trees for bare existence. Their entire lives, from the time they form in the parent seed-pod, are beset with peril, for Nature is as much mistress of destruction as of creation.

Every plant growing in a wild state has something to combat against. It may be the war waged against it by plants of other species or it may be the likelihood of being devoured by animal or insect.

At the same time, all plants in their wild state are provided with weapons of defence, and often the weakest plant has proportionately the strongest weapon; directly cultivation is brought about, however, so do the defensive faculties disappear.

This is particularly evident in the case of the garden plum, which, in its natural state, carries long, sharp thorns, as a protection against the browsing animals.

Thorns, spikes, spines, and stiff, bristly growths are the most common forms of plant defence. There are many plants that have spines only when young, shedding these weapons of defence when old enough and sufficiently strong to exist without them. Other plants, again,

CARRY THEIR SPIKES,

or spines, on the under part of the leaves, to ward off creeping foes, such as slugs.

In a childish way, we have all looked at the araucaria, or monkey-puzzle tree, and firmly decided that the spikes were indeed to ward off simian acrobats. As a matter of fact, however, the spikes were there for a very different purpose. The trunk of the araucaria is composed of soft, pithy wood, and the sap travels upwards so near the bark that, were this covering broken by a blow, the tree would "bleed." The spikes, therefore, are to prevent a possible blow from reaching the bark; and as the tree grows, and the trunk towards the base toughens, so do these basal spikes drop off.

The most terrible plant defence of all is that of the wreath of thorns, a creeper that flourishes in the dense jungles of South America. A horse or man struggling through such a jungle, if so unfortunate as to come in contact with this creeper, will rapidly be enfolded with the sinuous lengths, that, snake-like, form a chevaux de frise around the intruder, from the clutches of which it is impossible to get free without assistance. The more the victim struggles, the tighter he is held; and this plant can best be described as a series of spines, the tightening of one coil

AFFECTING THE OTHERS.

It is a well-known fact that animals dislike drinking water that has lain in the large, bowl-like leaves of certain plants, such as rhubarb and the vegetable marrow, and this is merely an unlooked-for scheme of defence.

Other plants, again, ensure their immunity from attack by the indigestibility of their leaves. The rhododendron, for example, has stringy, tough leaves, that must be the reverse of palatable, even to the most goat-like animal. The more familiar laurel is also distinctly uninviting as a dish; and if a moth were placed in an air-tight box with some crushed laurel-leaves, the poisonous fumes would kill the insect.

The problem of poison is not a hard one to solve, and enters very largely into the plan of plant defence. It is obviously harmful for the bark to be bitten from trees, hence on many varieties grows a moss fatal to browsing animals.

Yet another form of plant defence is that of odor. In the majority of cases, warning of poison is given to animals by odor.

"Yes, ma'am," said the tattered tramp, "I have helped carry out a great many benevolent enterprises." "You!" cried the lady. "Oh, impossible. In what way?" "By cheerfully acceptin' wotever was given me, ma'am."

He is a wise weather prophet who knows when to borrow an umbrella.

HOW MRS. CLARK FOUND RELIEF

AFTER YEARS OF SUFFERING DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS CURED HER.

Pleasant Point Matron Tells Her Suffering Sisters How to be Free From the Terrible Pains that Make Life a Burden.

Pleasant Point, Ont., Nov. 15—(Special).—That most of the ills that the suffering women of Canada have to bear are due to disordered Kidneys, and that the natural cure for them is Dodd's Kidney Pills, is once more shown in the case of Mrs. Merrill C. Clarke, a well-known resident of this place and a prominent member of the Salvation Army. Mrs. Clarke is always ready to give her experience for the benefit of her suffering sisters.

"My sickness commenced twenty years ago with the change of life," says Mrs. Clarke. "My health was in a bad state. Water would run from my head which would make me faint. When I came out of the fainting spells I took fits. I was bloated till I was clumsy. The pain I suffered was awful. It would go to my feet and then to my head. Many doctors attended me, and I tried many medicines, but nothing gave me relief till I used Dodd's Kidney Pills. The first box stopped the fits and seven boxes cured me completely."

Every suffering woman should use Dodd's Kidney Pills. They make strong, healthy Kidneys, and the woman who has good Kidneys is safe-guarded against those terrible pains that make miserable the lives of so many women.

AUTUMNAL WARNING.

Daddy, start the furnace up;
Johnny, cut some wood;

Susy, here's your hood;
Willie, get your overcoat;
Tommy, hunt your sled—
Winter's coming down the pike;
Not very far ahead.

POULTRY.

We call the attention of our readers to the advertisement of The Gunn, Langlois Company, of Montreal, which appears elsewhere in this paper. If you have any poultry to place on the market during the holiday season take their advice and communicate with them before rushing your goods to market. It is a good plan to write to these people if you have eggs, butter, poultry or honey to dispose of at any time.

Father—"You laddies are well off now-a-days. I've seen the day when I had to be content with a dry crust for my dinner." Eldest Son (an incorrigible)—"Ye see ye're better off since ye cam' wi' us, father."

Holloway's Corn Cure destroys all kinds of corns and warts, root and branch. Who, then would endure them with such a cheap and effectual remedy within reach?

Heaven judges the sincerity of our affection for God by the cost of our service for man.

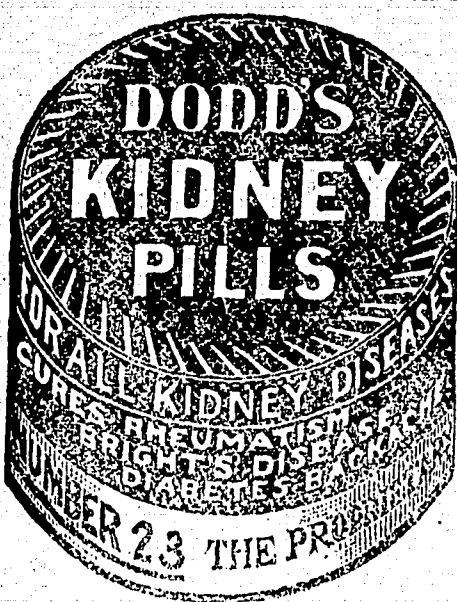

Much distress and sickness in children is caused by worms. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator gives relief by removing the cause. Give it a trial and be convinced.

Kindly mention the name of this paper in writing to advertisers.

AN END IN VIEW.

Kind Neighbor (accompanied by a large mastiff, to a little girl very much afraid of him)—"He's a good dog; he never hurts anyone. Don't you see how he's wagging his tail?"

Little Girl (still shrinking back)—"Yes, I see; but that isn't the end I'm afraid of."

ISSUE NO. 47-09

EUROPE'S DIRTIEST TOWN.

All holiday travellers should shun Boryslaw, in Galicia—"the back of Europe"—truthfully called the dirtiest place in Europe. It is the oil-trade centre, and is decidedly not beautiful. In the main street all the houses have been built on mine refuse, and most of them have sunk below the level of the street. In fact, there is not a solid brick or stone building in the whole of the town, and many of the houses are in a state of partial or entire collapse. Unrefined petroleum is everywhere. It gets into everything—food and clothing—and the atmosphere reeks of it. Along one side of the main street is a raised wooden pavement, and beneath it is an oily ditch. Boryslaw's main waterway is a narrow, sluggish, oily stream. On its banks the town's refuse is cast, and the market booths are erected alongside; while the local washerwomen—though, from external appearances, one would judge that laundresses did not exist there at all—do their washing in its oily depths.

KEEP YOUR TEMPER.

Which of all domestic virtues is most essential to a happy married life? The ability to keep one's temper, beyond all question. There is nothing which lends more to misery, not only for its possessor, but also for those about him, than an ungovernable and unreasonable temper. No one is worse to live with than an ill-tempered man, except, perhaps, an ill-tempered woman. Bad-tempered people completely spoil the lives of those who associate with them. The feeling of strain is ever present; one never knows just when the storm will break, although apparently the weather, metaphorically, is "set fair." Life in these circumstances becomes a burden almost beyond bearing.

PILES CURED at HOME by New Absorption Method

If you suffer from bleeding, itching, blind or protruding Piles, send me your address, and I will tell you how to cure yourself at home by the new absorption treatment; and will also send some of this home treatment free for trial, with references from your own locality if requested. Immediate relief and permanent cure assured. Send no money, but tell others of this offer. Write to-day to Mrs. M. Summers, Box P-720, Windsor, Ont.

THERE ARE REASONS.

The average woman can put up with convincing arguments why a man's overcoat should last four winters and why her bonnet is only good for four weeks.

The efficacy of Bickle's Anti-Consumptive Syrup in curing coughs and colds and arresting inflammation of the lungs, can be established by hundreds of testimonials from all sorts and conditions of men. It is a standard remedy in these ailments and all affections of the throat and lungs. It is highly recommended by medicine vendors, because they know and appreciate its value as a curative. Try it.

He—"So you think married life ought to be one grand, sweet song?" She—"Yes." He—"What air would you prefer for this matrimonial song?" She—"I think a millionaire."

They Cleanse While They Cure.

The vegetable compounds of which Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are composed, mainly dandelion and mandrake, clear the stomach and intestines of deleterious matter and restore the deranged organs to healthful action. Hence they are the best remedy for indigestion available to-day. A trial of them will establish the truth of this assertion and do more to convince the ailing than anything that can be written of these pills.

READ WHAT HE OWES TO

Mr. R. C. Blorton, a prominent Salvation Army worker, who occupies the proud position of Deputy Band Master at the Temple, Toronto, bears testimony to the great healing power of Zam-Buk ointment. He says:—

"Pimples and sores broke out all over my face and neck and notwithstanding all I did to try and cure them they spread. In places the skin was inflamed over big patches and caused me great pain and inconvenience. I was advised to try Zam-Buk and for several days I applied it to the sores anointing it often with the healing balm. It soon began to soothe the pain, and in a short time the sores ceased to be so angry and painful. With perseverance Zam-Buk healed the sores completely and made my skin as smooth and clear as possible. I strongly recommend Zam-Buk to all who suffer from unsightly skin troubles, sores, ulcers, etc. It is a wonderful healer!"

*Zam-Buk cures eczema, itch, blood poisoning, festering, chronic and suppurating sores, burns, cuts, barber's rash, fistula and all skin injuries and diseases. It is a specific for piles. All druggists and stores. 50c. a box or 3 for $1.25. Send 1c. stamp to Zam-Buk Co., Toronto for sample box.

UNCLE EZRA SAYS:

"Sometimes the best way of saying 'the right thing at the right time' is by keepin' perfectly still."

Pills of Attested Value.—Parmelee's Vegetable Pills are the result of careful study of the properties of certain roots and herbs, and the action of such as sedatives and laxatives on the digestive apparatus. The success the compounders have met with attests the value of their work. These pills have been recognized for many years as the best cleansers of the system that can be got. Their excellency was recognized from the first and they grow more popular daily.

WOMANISH.

The average woman is not satisfied to do as she pleases unless she can make other people do as she pleases.

A Wide Sphere of Usefulness.—The consumption of Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil has grown to great proportions. Notwithstanding the fact that it has now been on the market for over thirty-one years, its popularity is as great as ever, and the demand for it in that period has very greatly increased. It is beneficial in all countries, and wherever introduced fresh supplies are constantly asked for.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

Love never stops to be afraid. The worst sins are the ones for which we have no appetite. He can help no one who does not desire to help the helpless. Take care of your leisure and your life will take care of itself. Some revivals plan to cure all ills by throwing folks into fits. He who has no time to be grateful has no power to enjoy a blessing. How hard would be all our hearts but for our hardships and sorrows. Opinions about the past can never take the place of work for the future. When a faith is dead it is customary to embalm it in obsolete phrases. Success depends not on what a man makes, but on what success makes of him. Many a man who is berating the devil has no objection to boarding free with him. No man has any better world before him than he is seeking to make about him. When a man's religion is all hot air the only thing he thinks about is going up. When men make a mockery of sin their sins are sure to make a mockery of them. Most of those who are worried lest we lose the liberty to go wrong would be out of business if we all went right.

BRONCHITIS

If Neglected, it soon reaches the Lungs and may Prove Fatal.

Mr. C. L. Carrow of 116 Milliecent St., Toronto, writes under date of September 13, 1908, "One year ago this spring I contracted a severe cold in the chest, which developed into Bronchitis. I took three kinds of medicine and found no improvement. A friend of mine advised me to try PSYCHINE and in three days I felt like a new man again. I desire to let others know what a valuable cure you have in PSYCHINE for it cured me where all other medicines had failed. I am more than thankful to be well again, and for the sake of others who may be ill, you may publish this testimonial." Stop that cold or the result will be serious. You can do this by toning up the system with PSYCHINE.

MR. POULTRY RAISER

DON'T play into the hands of the POULTRY SPECULATORS who are scouring the country and picking up all the live birds they can lay their hands on. Naturally their object is to get the bulge on you and reap the benefit of a stronger and more profitable market later on in the season.

DON'T rush your Poultry on to the market too soon. Fatten and dress it properly yourself; then sell it when condition of both stock and market will warrant your securing the highest price of the season. The past three years have clearly proven that those who held their Poultry until the latter part of December, have reaped the largest returns for their outlay.

DON'T overlook the fact that the above remarks are simply in the nature of advice, and that if you have any Poultry on hand that you wish to dispose of NOW, we are in the best position of any house in the country, BARRING NONE, to handle same for you. We are in the business every day in the year; and our 35 years of ever increasing business and a host of satisfied shippers are proof sufficient of our ability to please you.

ELECTION DAY DOINGS

Election Day in Enderby was very quiet. It was not unlike other days though some were prepared to swear that the sun got up earlier that day and staid up later than on ordinary days. At all events, we had an election, and there were 111 votes polled out of a possible 115. The campaign literature consisted of two letters. One was circulated by Mr. Bell and read as follows:

"Mr. Barnes and myself have been nominated for the office of Mayor for the ensuing year, and the voters of Enderby, on Thursday, the 13th inst., between the hours of 9 a. m. and 7 p. m., will have to choose between us. And you will not only have to choose the man, but by your vote say whether you approve or disapprove of the careful policy that I have advocated in every Council since Enderby became incorporated five years ago.

"Enderby today is fortunate in being the lowest taxed city in British Columbia, being only 17 mills, including school tax, while at the same time we have made substantial progress.

"I would gladly explain on the platform any and every point in connection with our city life, but there is no opportunity of doing so before election. But I will (if elected) go fully into municipal affairs at the opening of our new municipal building. I have been and am still very desirous of seeing Enderby a clean, progressive city. I know you have the same desire, and if you consider that I have been capable and consistent in helping to bring about better conditions in this community then I ask for your vote, which I will understand to mean your endorsement of our past policy.

"While I have been your Mayor I have tried to represent you worthily at home and in other places, and, if elected, I will be decent during this year and will then retire, and at that time I hope to see one of the men that have so capably and faithfully, and without pay, served the city as Alderman, be my successor.

"Yours truly, GEO. BELL.

The other letter was as follows:

"Fellow Elector: Mr. F. H. Barnes and Mr. Geo. Bell have been nominated for the office of Mayor for the ensuing year, and the voters of Enderby, on Thursday, the 13th inst., between the hours of 9 a. m. and 7 p. m., will have to choose between them. And you will not only have to choose the man, but by your vote say whether you approve or disapprove of the policy which has hitherto been followed since Enderby became incorporated five years ago.

"Enderby is said to be the lowest-taxed city in B. C. This may be true but it would take a microscope to show you what you have had for your money up to the present.

"Mr. Barnes would gladly explain on the platform at greater length and without concealment a number of points respecting the conduct of municipal affairs in the past, but there is no opportunity of doing so before election, but he will, if elected, go thoroughly into the matter after election, at the first opportunity.

"He has always been, and is still, very desirous of seeing Enderby a clean, prosperous and progressive city, and we know you have the same desire, and if you consider that he is able to bring about better conditions, for the same or less money, and instituting a more progressive, and therefore more profitable policy, we ask for your vote.

"He has never been mayor of your city; nobody except Mr. Bell ever has—but he has been an Alderman, and has tried to represent you worthily—at his own expense—both at home and in other places, placing the interest of Enderby before his own.

"If elected he will be as decent as he has ever been, and if not elected he will be still be decent, not only this year but always. It is his nature and no trouble to him.

"Your interests and his are the same; he wants to see a clean, honest, progressive city, and will do his best to see that we all get it.

"Vote for him and you vote for yourself.

"Yours fraternally,

SEVERAL ELECTORS.

A full vote was polled. Following is the result:

For Mayor—
F. H. Barnes .....	41
Geo. Bell .....	70
For Aldermen—
H. E. Blanchard .....	92
Jos. W. Evans .....	74
Wm. Hancock .....	82
Wm. H. Hutchison .....	67
Walter Robinson .....	60
John L. Ruttan .....	85

AGAINST VACCINATION

London, Ont., Jan. 8.—Compulsory vaccination, in force here for years, received a death blow in the municipal election, for tonight at the first meeting of the new Board of Education the rule was suspended, and when it comes up again will be killed. A hot campaign was waged at the end of the year, as a result of deaths following vaccination here and elsewhere.

If this paragraph is marked it indicates that a friend of yours has paid for a year's subscription for you and that you will receive The Enderby Press and Walker's Weekly until Jan. 1st, 1911.

Wonder if our esteemed Lieutenant-Governor, the Hon. Mr. Patterson, will give somebody an order to get rid of the unsightly Patterson junk heap which has so long been an ulcer on the neck of Enderby's beauty spot.

Every time you say a good word for your town, you say one for yourself. Nothing pays so well as loyalty to the institutions that go to make the town.

Start 1910 with a good word each day for Enderby. In a month's time you will have acquired the habit, and after that it will be easy.

If you have not tried the Glen Gerrick milk and cream, you do not yet know the satisfaction of being milk-satisfied.

When you get your milk from the Glen Gerrick, you are sure it is pure and free from all contagion.

SCHOOL SHOES for boys and girls must be made of solid leather—sham won't do where strength is essential. Then, too, they must be comfortable, foot-conforming, wear-resisting, weather-defying shoes, for the healthy, hearty school boy or girl steps on something besides carpet floors, and therefore needs not the finest, but the best fitting and the best, and year in and year out you will find this in the Ames-Holden School Shoes—Shoes built for hard service.
